Hear Mrs. Rohde

$ 100

Good Luck On Exams

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, January 12, 1940

VOLUME XXVII

NUMBER THIRTEEN

Flight Training Begins for Ten FSCW Students

Girls Are Eligible For Participation In Prize Contest

Ten Florida State college girls who began the Civil Aeronautic training course here last Wednesday, will be eligible to participate in a prize contest sponsored by the Institute of Aeronautical science this year. Prizes will be given by the Shell Oil Company under the Shell Intercollegiate Aviation Scholarships and awards.

Seven regional flight contests will take place with 49 students taking part. Contestants will be selected from all colleges and universities carrying the training program. Three outstanding students developed during the year in the course will receive scholarship prizes for taking on the further work in this field, first prize being $1,000; second, $750, and third, $500. The Shell Intercollegiate trophy will go to the school establishing the most proficient record for the year in the training of pilots participating in the contest. Winners in the regional tests will be given smaller engraved wrist watches, and all of the students flying in the final eliminations here will receive merchant certificates.

Girls Chosen

Girls from Florida state who will be eligible for entry are Irene Bell, Sara Woodruff, Margaret Shoe, Jean MacRae, Louise Hall, Dee Brackett, Dorothy Myers, Jonnie Thomasson, Esther Bell and Thursday nights at 7:30 and on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 the ground school instructor is Boyd Mattice, economics instructor. Ivan Monroe, Tallahassee airport manager, will give the flight instruction. First lessons in the latter will be given Monday.

One of the students, Sarah Brackett, has been promoted an airplane as a commencement present by her father. She plans to fly to the Canal Zone this summer with a friend. Margaret Shoe also remarked in the contest. The qualification by which the girls were chosen were that the student must be at least five feet two inches tall, weigh not less than 100 pounds, be above freshman in rank, have her parents consent, be a citizen of the United States, have reached her 18th but not her 25th birthday by September 1, 1939, have a flight experience, and be in good health. A third physical examination was passed on and each student is charged a secretary fee of $40.

Rehearsals Begin For 'Penny Wise'

Rehearsals for the latest production of the speech department, "Penny Wise," a three-act comedy have begun under the direction of Miss Kemper Moore, assistant professor of speech. "Penny Wise," which will be given February 15-16, was written by Raymond Perrucon Black.

Cast of characters is as follows: Jeff, a young man in his early twenties, Edgar Van Brunt; Jess, a girl in her late twenties with a vivid personality, Beth Martin; Mr. Whodunit, a middle-aged, short-tempered girl, a bit older than Miss Martin, Dorothy Hall; Mr. Whodunit's wife, a domineering gossip, Mary Lou Brunt; Mr. Gregory, attorney in Tallahassee, Penny's wife, a stylish, petite young-looking woman of thirty-three, Irene Bannerman; Catherine, an intelligent, well-bred woman between the ages of 35 and 40, Martha, Anita Nickel; and Commissioner Smith, small town politician, Herman Mendenhall, for the remainder of the cast performances in humorous parts.

This modern comedy is set in Sherriton and covers two days in the lives of the characters. Although the cast is complete, the time and light crews have not been selected.

Miss Moore also announced that other activities will include the junior play, "Les Femmes Savantes," to be given the last week in April; a group of one-act plays, tentatively the second week of May; and a program of children's

Students Start Aviation Training

Ground school work has started for 10 Florida State college students, who will learn to fly under provisions of the civil aeronautics training program. Shown in one of the college classrooms with faculty member, Mr. Boyd Mattice, who is ground school instructor are the first row, Margaret Grier; second row, Louise Prine, Jean McRae, Sara Woodruff and Irene Bell; third row, Dee Brackett, Esther Yent, Marion Webster and Jonnie Thomasson. Not in the picture is Frances Rogers.

Mints, Cones Pay Lost Bets

Queer things happen here that one would never expect in an institute of higher learning. For instance, at least two of our classes have had refreshments served to them unexpectedly.

Dr. Cotterell served his American History class ice cream cones in payment of a wager concerning a literary book. Imagine over 50 luscious ice cream cones carried in at once—and in class at that!

Four girls of Miss Carmen Rogers' freshmen English class made a dramatic entrance with a plate of mints at a recent class meeting. The mints were colorful in compliance with the request of Miss Rogers that something give the flight instruction. First lesson in the latter will be given Monday.

One of the students, Sarah Brackett, has been promoted an airplane as a commencement present by her father. She plans to fly to the Canal Zone this summer with a friend. Margaret Shoe also remarked in the contest. The qualification by which the girls were chosen were that the student must be at least five feet two inches tall, weigh not less than 100 pounds, be above freshman in rank, have her parents consent, be a citizen of the United States, have reached her 18th but not her 25th birthday by September 1, 1939, have a flight experience, and be in good health. A third physical examination was passed on and each student is charged a secretary fee of $40.

4-H Club Takes In 23 Members

Initiation Service Held Last Saturday

Twenty - three new members were initiated into the college 4-H club Saturday night at the club's odist student house.

These new members were divided into four groups, a group for each leaf of the clover, 4-H emblem. Frances Palmer, the club took them by groups to the table of service where they were encouraged by the president, Ruth Sanderson, who invited them to light the candles from the two ones on the table of service. After her lighting their candles, each group took its stand on a leaf of the four leaf clover, the club emblem, that was outlined on a green rug.

The rest of the program consisted of a solo by Resh Shepherd, a talk by Miss Ethyl Hallway, district home demonstration agent and club sponsor, and club songs by the group. Mary Bubo, Frances Rogers, and Ruth Shepherd furnished the music throughout the evening.

Those initiated were Ruth Hendricks, Dorcas Binns, Annie Shellhorse, Mary Lou Meyer, Lucille Whitehurst, Frances Rogers, Elaine Solomon, Ines Olive, Harriet Wilson, Ruth Baker, Lillian McKeown, Louise Palmer, Geraldine Crawford, Vera Ray, Frances Smith, Johnny Mae Wright, Frances Rogers, Eunice Williams, Dorothy Adams, Ruth Sanderson, Wilma Smith, Betty Rawls, and Jane Dille.

Three Will Go to Meeting

There will be a state home economics meeting of student clubs at Southern college in Lakeland, February 17. At the next meeting of the Home Economics club on February 8, three members of the club will be chosen, a sophomore, a junior, and a senior, to represent Florida State college club.

Continued on page three

Defeated Candidates' Club Adds Unique Organization to Campus

Subject for Speech Making Will Be "How Much Better an Officer I Would Have Been"

Latest award of something-new-under-the-sun goes to Miss Kitty Jo Hickman, Belle Lang, and Tilly Van Brunt of this local group.

On the thirteenth of December these girls met together to organize on this campus at the Sigic and Sigan as the name of the fraternity. The building solemnly pealed nine peals. That afternoon, it seems, before a meeting was held to run for office in the recent freshmen elections and had found themselves almost alone not winning. were issued mystifying invitations. Miss Lang and Belle had cut the bids in the form of doghouses lettered on them the time and the place of meeting, and dropped them in the campus mail ... "D. C. meet at the Sigic at 9 o'clock." With Tilly Van Brunt they formed a receiving line at the door of the Sigic to pin pledge ribbons on their sisters-in-disappointment, the deeply symbolic colors of black and blue.

Nature Disclosed

The "serious" nature of the meeting was further impressed upon the freshmen when the receiving line resorted to the simple expedient of standing on chairs to lend impressiveness to their words. Miss Hickman then explained the plan and purpose of the new club. Only defeated candidates were eligible for membership; dues were to be fifteen cents; to be held on the thirteenth of each month at 9 o'clock, of which day the members were to wear proudly their black and blue ends.

Best of all was the parliamentary order to be observed at each meeting. All candidates for presidency went to act as president, she next all candidates for secretary were to take over the duties of that office and so on down the line of the club members.

She finished 13 rousing cheers rent the air, and the meeting broke up amid sound that Kitty Jo be unanimously elected honorary chairman.

Three followed a program in which each "candidate" was introduced and given the unexpected pleasure of making a short speech on which, we understand, was more often than not drowned out by waves of enthusiasm.

Continued on Page Three

Winter Distaff Features Prize Winning Story

Next Issue Contains Symposium on Love In Two Articles

The winner of the recent short story contest sponsored by the Delphian and Chi Delta Phi, the literary honorary, is Vivian Ahlswede, junior, whose story entitled "Homo Called Sapiens" will be printed in the magazine section of the Sunday the second appearance this school year on January 21.

Judges for the contest were Miss Margaret Wyly, instructor in the speech department, Dr. Marion Jewell Hay, professor in the education department, and Mrs. Mary B. Alfriend, instructor in English. This contest, which opened in October, was sponsored by the literary honorary to stimulate creative writing on campus, and closed December 15. A prize will be presented to the winner in convocation.

Love Is Theme

The cover of the Distaff this issue will feature a silver and blue winter motif, with pine cones in the background. Publication of this issue will be placed on what the college girl thinks about—love.

Contributors for the Distaff were Bertha Blondheim, who wrote "Pick-up," a story for the symposium on the theme; girl and love, the other part of the symposium will consist of "First Love," a story by Mary Sanderson, contributor.

Articles in this issue were written by Martha Ann Mattox, who wrote "Does Youth Have a Chance?" "Is a Co-operative," "Cheating in High School," the last part of which was written by Hound Robin, and an article by Marian Gadsdum, as yet untitled, which deals with conscientious objectors in the war news.

The "All Wool" the section on satire, Bertha Blodworth contributes an article on the peculiarities of

Continued on Page Three

Heinlein Honored By Field Society

During the Christmas holidays, the board of governors of the National Association of Audition Educators conferred upon Dr. Christian Ray Heinlein, professor of experimental physiology at Florida State College for Women, honorary membership in recognition of the Eugene Field society.

Dr. John O. Harvey, national president of the association, informed Dr Heinlein that his name was entered on the roll of honorary members and a certificate of merit attesting to appointment sent to him in recognition of his "outstanding contribution to contemporary literature and the "the literary skill and craftmanship" of Eugene Field, poet and psychology. Among the forty-one persons who have been established roll of honorary members are many of the country's foremost authors and journalists including Nicholas Murray Butler, S. Pitillo Oppenheim, Mark Van Doren, Sigmund Spaeth, Lovell Thomas, Walter de la Mare, Mile. Eve Curie, Olga Petrova and Irvin Cobb.

Dr. Heinlein has published more than twenty-five studies dealing with various topics in the field of human psychology. His biography appears in several Who's Who publications, among them America's Young Men, Leaders in Education, and Men and Men of Science. Who's Who in American Education and Who's Who in Florida. Dr. Heinlein is a member of a number of scientific societies.

Bloodworth to Give Prize

The winner of the Chi Delta Phi short story contest has already been chosen, announced Bertha Bloodworth, president of the literary honorary, and will be announced in convocation next Tuesday. The prize will be presented at that time.

Chemistry Group Meets

Gamma Sigma Epsilon, the chemistry honorary, held its regular monthly meeting Thursday night in the chemistry lecture room. The program was on the history of the organization. Eunice Lasche, Marian Gaddum and Margaret Vogt were in charge.

YWCA Again Opens Local Book Exchange

Y. W. C. A. will carry on a book exchange this semester as in the past to provide an opportunity for students to sell their old books and buy others at reasonable prices. The exchange will be held in the Y. W. C. A. room on the top floor of the Woman's building.

Any student who has a textbook she wishes to sell may take it in the past to provide an opportunity for students to sell their old books and buy others at reasonable prices. The exchange will be held in the Y. W. C. A. room on the top floor of the Woman's building.

College Applies For Buildings

Theater, Auditorium, Dormitory Planned

According to H. D. Mendenhall, resident engineer at Florida State college, two applications have been made at Washington, D. C., for a theater and a new auditorium, but the recent information from Washington is that only one will be granted. Committee sitting the Public Works Administration for this event the appointment of the projects will be announced. The size of the buildings will depend upon the action taken in the present session of the national legislature.

"The new dormitory would house 300 students and would either be located across the street where Landis or north of the infirmary and Tupper hall," he said. "The new convocation hall would have a seating capacity of 2,000 and would music department in connection. It would probably be located on the present site of the auditorium annex and face both Copeland street and Pine Tree campus.

With the completion of the Rowena Longmire student-business office building, which houses a number of present activity offices, there will be much more space in the other buildings for classrooms. Offices which will be moved are the publications office, Flastocwee, Distaff, Y. W. C. A., C. O. A., Phelbelta, and others.

The building will also include a fountain where many ceremonials will be served after the college book store hours. This is expected to be a popular meeting for the girls, particularly those living in the dormitories.

Another plan is to build a Greek theater in the recreational park to be constructed between the gym and the new dining hall. The theater would be about 75 feet north and facing Landis hall this fall project, which would require the approval of legislative appropriation, will probably be the next building erected recently on the campus, predicted Mr. Mendenhall.

The state road department has

Continued on Page Three

Two Changes Pass Faculty Senate

Members of faculty senate voted unanimously at a meeting the motion which allows a student to take a course in the major field as her integrated subject. This rule, passed December 11, by the faculty, makes inactive calls for the approval by the department of the course and by the dean of the school under which it comes. For example, a chemistry major may take the physical science integrated course in the chemistry division. The same semester provided she has the approval of both these authorities. This will enable her to start preparation for her major chemistry instead of waiting to begin it the following year.

The second change was to reduce the admission requirements for the future freshmen. Instead of needing four credits in science from a given list, the freshmen must have four credits in either academic or vocational subjects to supplement the 12 compulsory credits.

Baker Leaves for State Conference in Lakeland

Miss Frances Baker, Methodist student secretary, will attend the mid-year council meeting of all young people's workers in the state held in Lakeland this week-end.

Outlined work to be taken up at the meeting includes plans for the next six months' program—promotion of the Youth Crusade, and other topics related to young people's work throughout the state.

FSC to Observe First Mid-Year Commencement

Supreme Court Judge Brown Will Be Guest Speaker on Jan. 27

Speaker at the first mid-year commencement exercises to be held at this college will be Judge Armistead Brown of the Florida supreme court. These exercises at which 31 students will receive degrees are to be held at 10:30 a. m. Saturday, January 27.

Until this year only mid-year candidates have had the privilege of returning for the May commencement, since there was no program for them in January.

Following are the candidates, compiled according to divisions:

Graduate division: master of arts, Lou Epperson, Whitfield Miller and Helene Amelia Webb; master of science, Hazel Mae Gilmore.

College of arts and sciences: bachelor of arts, Mary Brandt Campbell, Marcia Bello Ranney, Mary June Williams, and Jean Sparkman; bachelor of science, Marjorie Bradford Hornbeck, Harriette Tolen; bachelor of science in commerce, Grace Dorothy Bennett.

School of education: bachelor of arts in education: Doris S. Goodwin, Virginia Hicks, and Lillian Lavanna Tayler.

School of home economics: Iva Pauline Posteviti, Dorothy Mae Wilson; bachelor of science in nursing, Dorothy Kelley Selby, Mary Elizabeth Simpson.

School of music: bachelor of music in public school music: Betty Barthlof.

Two Social Work Courses Are Added

The division of social work of the college announces the addition of large its graduate professional curriculum by the addition of two courses to be offered for the first time next semester. The two new courses, Public Welfare Administration and Medical Information for Social Workers will be given as instructors Frederick J. Hanover, instructor in social work, and Mrs. Mary Bryan Bristol, head of the division of social work, respectively.

The two courses together with classes in social case work, field work, professional relationships, etc. constitute the group of graduate professional courses now scheduled in the division of social work. This graduate professional training is being established by Florida State college to meet two definite needs. Public welfare agencies are demanding graduate training for their workers.

According to Dr. Coyle Moore, associate professor of sociology, the state board of public welfare is cooperating quite closely with the division of social work in the training program and is giving assistance to graduate students as rapidly as the students are made available.

College Is The Place Where Men And Money Are "Big Things"

Students Seldom Go to Church, Girl Finds, But They Do Plenty of Praying at Quarters

By JONNIE THOMASSON

College is the place where five minutes is a long time.

When a teacher says, "We'll right on the half-hour and a student answers, "Five minutes later, she is very late. If someone must wait for conference only five minutes, it is a long wait. If a student is listening to a boring lecture, five minutes can be compared, in her thinking, to forty minutes. Teachers give assignments, they expect students to do them thoroughly, which fact only goes to show that, on the other hand, if five minutes is a long time, it ought to be.

College is the place where five dollars becomes a meagre amount of money. It will go quicker than any other five dollars ever did before. Sweet Shop, Spirit books paper, pencils, Kleenex, tooth paste, soap, and all kind of necessities are always coming up. One week one must get one thing, but another week one must get something else, so what good will one five dollars do? The books for just one class sometimes top that amount without seeming effort.

Girls Pray

College is the place where girls don't go to church much, but they do a lot of praying—usually at the end of quarters when cramming doesn't seem to do much good. It would be nice if some enterprising soul would take a poll to find out the number of girls who pray every quarter. "Please, God Please Let Me Pass. If I Don't I Can't Go Home—Ever."

College is the place where teachers are boring students with some of their classes some of the time. It is a dangerous fact that sometimes these sometimes become too frequent.

College is the place where a man assumes a value far exceeding his worth. A spectator could make a fortune if he would buy a man at his true worth and sell him for what he is worth to a student in a woman's college. It stands to reason that as long as there are women someone will have them entertained and will find a woman's college that as long as

Continued on Page Two

To Speak Here

Former Minister to Denmark Sarah Bryan Rohde, who is an alumna of Florida State College for Women by virtue of the honorary degree bestowed upon her in 1935, will lecture Tuesday at the college auditorium. Her subject will be "This Democracy of Ours."

Freshmen Plan First Meeting

Class Will Sponsor Annual Band Concert

Plans for the remainder of the years' activities of the freshman class have not been completed as yet, but will get under way at the first official meeting of the class early in the second semester, according to Mary Hilsman, president. Chief points for consideration at that time will be plans for the election of class sponsors, and accommodation for the Freshman Band Concert, the concert to be given here in the near future. Of immediate concern is the freshman carnival which will be held at the gym on February 16.

At the elections of the freshman class before Christmas, 40 nominees ran for the seven offices to be filled. At the first unofficial meeting of the class, enthusiastic members turned out nearly 400 strong and during the elections over half of the class of nearly 800 voted, thus making this year's election campaign one of the most enthusiastic ever engendered by the freshman classes.

Officers elected at that meeting were: President, Jean Hitchcock; vice-president, Virginia Jones; Secretary, Sue Chars; treasurer, Mary Lou King; senate representatives, Laura Poole and Elizabeth Rogers; parliamentarian, Mary Brandt Bristol, and historian, Betsy Ross Howe.

YWA Will Meet Tonight

The Baptist students will hold a YWA meeting tonight at 8 p. m. in the Baptist student house. Laura McCaughan will have charge of the program.

Each afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock during exam week, assistess will be given at the Baptist student house.

Rohde to Speak Under Alumnae Sponsorship

Noted Woman Diplomat Schedules Democracy As Subject of Talk

Mrs Ruth Bryan Rohde, speaking on "This Democracy of Ours" at the college auditorium Tuesday, January 16, will make her first formal appearance here since she was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of literature in 1935. Mrs. Rohde, former United States minister to Denmark and congresswoman from Florida, is also the author of many books including "Elements of Public Speaking," "Leaves from a Greenland Diary," "Picture Tales from Scandinavia," "A Castle In This Air," "The Silver Wood," "Denmark Carvan," and numerous magazine articles.

Aide To King

Mrs. Rohde now aide to King Christian X of Denmark, is the daughter of William Jennings Bryan, three time presidential candidate. She was educated at the University of Nebraska, where she received the titles of L.L.D. and L.H.D., and has had numerous honorary degrees bestowed upon her including Doctor of Literature from Rollins. Previously, Mrs. Rohde was head of the lecturing and vice-presidency of the board of regents of the University of Miami, a member of the League of American Pen Women, and Business and Professional Women's club.

Sometimes Mrs. Ronda is known as a First Woman. She was the first woman minister to Denmark, first woman diplomat, the first woman to serve on the College national Foreign Affairs committee. She was the first woman to represent the United States at the Interparliamentary Union in London.

Widely travelled, Mrs. Rohde was born in Illinois, lived and travelled in South America, Europe, and Egypt. With her regal good looks, she was of this prominent woman of politics and public speaking will hold out much to the world with sympathy.

The climax in Mrs Rohde's foreign career was undoubtedly reached when she was formally presented to King Christian. Some mark in 1933 As with all the other honors bestowed upon her, Mrs. Rohde accepted this honor naturally.

Although she has three children and three grandchildren, Mrs. Rohde has started on a political career and is now the most prominent American woman in world affairs.

At present Mrs. Rohde is touring the United States as a lecturer. She is being brought here under the sponsorship of the college Alumnae association. Tickets for students are 25 cents and are available at the Student Bookstore.

Winslow Will Give Recital Wednesday

The piano recital by Mary Esther Winslow of the School of Music, which was scheduled for last night, has been changed to Wednesday, January 17. This will take place in the college auditorium at 8:15 o'clock.

During her stay at Florida State College Miss Winslow has been very generous in her musical contributions. She has given many piano recitals and has accentuted them with solos as one of the Faculty Instrumental Trio. Miss Winslow will play the same entire program, which is as follows: Three Sonatas—A major, D Major D major (Scarlatti); Chaconne, "Bach-Busoni"; Seven Bagatelles, Op. 33 (Beethoven); Impromptu, No. 1, Schubert); Capriccio (Debussy); Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 1 (Chopin); Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 2 (Chopin); Mephisto Waltz (Liszt).

YW Drive Nets Clothes To Be Altered for Sale,

Virginia Balcom, president of the YWCA, announced that the Old Clothes Drive carried on before Christmas was successful.

The clothes, which were deposited in boxes for the purpose in the various dormitories, are to be repaired and altered during the first part of February and are to be placed on exhibit for sale in the YWCA room on the fourth floor of the Wescott building. Those remaining unsold will be donated to needy institutions.

Some of the clothes have already been given to Miss Bessie Welfare Commission to be distributed before Christmas.

THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU

student newspaper

1940

Florida State University

Tallahassee, Florida

1971

This filming - THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU - is directed by Mrs. Gertrude Mozley Roche, Head, Micro-Materials, Florida State University Library from the originals in the Library Archives. Through the efforts of Student Senator Jeffrey Jones and SOLTAS, student organization, funds were provided in Bill 76, 23rd Senate, Student Government, FSU, 1971.

Annual Senior Yule Party Will Be Given in Landis

The annual senior Christmas party, a tradition on our campus since before 1932, will be given this year in Landis hall at 6 o'clock Wednesday night.

The members of the social class in caps and gowns will meet in front of Bryan hall. Singing Christmas carols as they go they will march to Landis hall.

The program will include violin selections by Julia and Merrylea Boozer, accompanied by Margaret Hunter. Dr. Edward Conradi will give a Christmas message. After refreshments, the seniors will sing Christmas carols to the sick in Tallahassee.

The custom of an annual senior Christmas party was begun by Mrs. B. L. Cawthon, college house mother, before 1932. She gave a regular Christmas dinner for the seniors at midnight in Bryan attended after they had been out caroling. Due to the increase in enrollment, a different type of party was adopted.

Present with the seniors at their Christmas party will be their faculty advisers and the members of executive council.

Senate Adopts New Election Requirements

Continued from Page One

will be February 4-18 for any students who may be interested in becoming candidates for an office.

Duties of the several officers will be discussed February 19-23 by major officers of C. G. A. and the two chairmen of Lower Campus for students interested in becoming candidates for the general offices.

Nominations will be conducted by petition. The petitions for major offices must be signed by at least 35 students. No girl may sign two petitions for the same office and these petitions must be submitted to the Chairman of the Elections committee during the week of February 18-24. Petitions must be in not later than 10:30 P. M. Saturday, February 24, and must be filed in the office of the Dean of Students not more than two days later.

Any girl may submit petitions for both a major and minor office, and she will automatically become a candidate for the minor office, if she is not elected to the major office of her preference.

The elections committee or student affairs may recommend to the committee the prescribing of further nominations whenever such action seems advisable. At least two nominees shall be presented for each office. In this case those besides best acquainted with persons eligible may be asked to make nominations which may be added to the primary ballot or the nominating committee may call for further petitions from the student body.

All girls submitting petitions for a major or minor office and those girls nominated following the request of the faculty committee shall be asked to hand in a statement of qualifications.

Information concerning the candidates to be competed in the office of the dean of students during the calendar week of February 25 (last Monday in February). The action of the faculty committee on student affairs upon the candidates for campus offices shall be taken during the calendar week of March 3. No petitions for candidacy for any office shall be announced until action has been taken by the faculty committee on student affairs. The judiciary recom mends against a student will be considered qualitatively in determining her eligibility for holding any major or sub-major. 6, 5, 4 point load office.

Covididates Presented

Tuesday, March 12, all candidates on the ballot will be presented at the student body meeting. The candidates for the three major offices of C. G. A. and for the editors of the publications will state their reasons for seeking office and may be subject to questioning. At this time a vote shall be taken following the plan of preferential voting. In this plan each voter indicates her first, second and third choices. The candidate receiving 51% of first choice votes is elected. If no candidate receives the majority of first choice votes, then second choice votes will be tabulated and the candidate receiving the highest number of first and second choice votes shall be declared elected.

All students who are expected to speak to the student body in seeking office will be advised to prepare a statement of their reasons for seeking office when they submit their petitions. All candidates for the final election shall be notified of their candidacy by 10:30 P. M. Monday night, March 11.

Thursday, March 14, all candidates on the ballot shall be presented at a student body meeting. Voting will follow a plan of preferential voting wherever it is possible.

Those students who have classes from 4:30 to 5:30 P. M. Thursday, March 14, will be excused from classes for the purpose of voting.

Thursday, March 14, all candidates on the ballot shall be presented at a student body meeting. Voting will follow a plan of preferential voting wherever it is possible.

Those students who have classes from 12:30 to 1:30 and from 4:30 to 5:30 P. M. Thursday, March 14, will be excused from classes for the purpose of voting.

Special Entertainment Will Mark Christmas Teas In Dormitories

All the dormitories on this year will entertain with Christmas teas, given at the regular tea hour on Wednesday afternoons from 4:30 to 6.

Gilchrist Hall plans to have a musical program, including selections by Paulette Nolan on her piano, and Mary Barbara Mahon and a duet by Martha Stroberg and Jeanette Thrasher.

Bryan Hall has invited special outside talent to take part on its program. Talented girls in the hall will also assist in the entertainment.

Broward and Landis halls will also have Christmas programs and decorations for their teas.

The two other freshmen dormitories, Reynolds and Jennie Reynolds, will have more elaborate entertainment. Both halls plan to have a Santa Claus appear. Letters written to Santa by freshmen in both buildings will be read at their tea. During the hour musical selections will be given by girls living in the hall. The program for Jennie Murphree hall will include duets by girls living in the hall, a solo by Linnie Lou Gautier, and group singing of carols.

All the halls will be decorated for the occasion, and special Christmas refreshments will be served.

Goats of Spirogira Fete Members at Camp Supper

The goats of Spirogira honored per at Camp Flastacowo last Friday night at a Christmas supper entertainment included a skit by the hostesses. Besides members of Spirogira, under students of science, alumnae, and several faculty members were present. Mascots of rosters goats are Dorothy Parker as Brandt, Beryl Mitchell, Sonya Mitchell as Nanny Goat, Dorothy Winston, Nancy White, Louise Patterson, Marjorie Ratliff, and Bernelle Mobley.

20 Art Students Exhibit Work

Continued from Page One

Curran; "Still Life"; Neo-Impressionistic Landscape.

Pencil: "Lucy," by Charlotte Bryan.

Design: Textile Designs, in tempera, by Beryl Mitchell, Paula Parker, Dorothy Parker; Poster: Book Cover Tempera: "Inside Europe" by Margaret Baker; "Grapes of Wrath" by Katherine Smith.

Design—Lettering Pen: Dorothy Parker and Frances Cushing; Design—Tempera: Mary Ann Ria Dersun by Beryl Mitchell; Modern Rug Design by Betty Setter; Commercial Design—Tempera: Window Display Advertisement by Phoebe James; Window Display Advertisement by Frances Cushing.

Poster Design — Tempera; "Jacksonville Beach," by Phoebe James; "Pottery", by Beryl Mitchell; "Savage Tribe Pottery," by Katherine Smith.

Composition — Realistic - Charcoal: "The Dreamer," by Sue Venning; Abstract - Tempera: "New Theories in Labor" by Margaret Baker; "Hope" by Audrey Bolton. "Prison," by Jane Godbold; Attack Attack" by Sue Venning; Scratch Board: "Hands in Prayer, by Ruth Morrow.

Your Government

Continued from Page Four

for consideration concerning student. The faculty committee on student affairs, a committee of the faculty senate, is composed of members appointed by the president of the college to perform legislative and judicial functions delegated to it. Faculty members of the college council are Dean Olivia N. Dorman, chairman, Dr. E. M. Deviney, Dr. G. A. Mangelsdorf, Dr. R. K. Eyman, Miss Lucy Lester, Miss Louise Richardson, Miss Mary B. Settle, Dr. Vocilla L. Shores, Professor E. R. Sutherland, Dr. L. Wasson. Miss Maude Flowers, student members are Katherine Graham, president of the College Government Association, Marjorie Jessup, charitable judiciary Martha Moffett, first vice-president, Caroline Mims, second vice-president, Mart Person, secretary, and Lonnie Thompson, treasurer.

day students, may participate in the respective elections between 2:30 and 6:30 on Tuesday, March 12, and Thursday, March 14, at the box office in front of the auditorium.

In the event that voting machines are used voting shall take place from 8:30 to 12:30 and from 1:30 to 6:30 on Wednesday, March 13, and Friday, March 15.

Graduate students are not qualified to participate in student elections.

Gay Trees Will Decorate Beta Phi Alpha House For Dance Tomorrow

Natural green and silver will provide a Christmas atmosphere for the formal dance tomorrow evening at the Beta Phi Alpha chapter house. Gaily lighted trees will help to carry out the decorations and the punch bowl in the dining room is to be banked with smilax and holly. Bessie Perrin is chairman of the decorations committee and Iris Bell is in charge of refreshments.

Chaperones for the evening will be: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Taylor; Miss Eleanor Green, faculty adviser; Mrs. Pasco Palmer, housemother; and Miss Marjorie Kaye; Miss Ruby Reynolds. will have more elaborate entertainment. Both halls plan to have a Santa Claus appear. Letters written to Santa by freshmen in both buildings will be read at their tea. During the hour musical selections will be given by girls living in the hall. The program for Jennie Murphree hall will include duets by girls living in the hall, a solo by Linnie Lou Gautier, and group singing of carols.

All the halls will be decorated for the occasion, and special Christmas refreshments will be served.

Goats of Spirogira Fete Members at Camp Supper

The goats of Spirogira honored per at Camp Flastacowo last Friday night at a Christmas supper entertainment included a skit by the hostesses. Besides members of Spirogira, under students of science, alumnae, and several faculty members were present. Mascots of rosters goats are Dorothy Parker as Brandt, Beryl Mitchell, Sonya Mitchell as Nanny Goat, Dorothy Winston, Nancy White, Louise Patterson, Marjorie Ratliff, and Bernelle Mobley.

Marcel Dupre Is Honored At Organists' Reception

Wednesday night following Marcel Dupre's organ concert the Tallahassee branch of the American Guild of Organists honored him with a reception at Rue Hall. A number of organists at Tallahassee and nearby cities attended.

The Tallahassee branch will give a program of Christmas organ music in the Westcott auditorium Tuesday December 1, at 7:30 p. m. The concert is open to the public.

Annual Glee Club Vespers Service Set For Sunday

Continued from Page One

Thrasher, Mary Mobierly, Margaret Thornton, Harriet Collins.

Others are: Mary Ann Ria Dorris Anderson, Martha Rose-Dersun by Beryl Mitchell; Modern Bryan, Mary Lou McGowan Anbeth McPrice, Marcie Clayton, Lulu Cooper, Margaret Carter, Christine Harbin, Elizabeth Whitaker, Mary Emmett Allen Hutchinson, Mary Ellen Strong, Margaret Thomas Margaret Curry, Mary Belle Ford, Janey Lewis, Mavria Reithan, Irene Bannerman, Clara Trubin, Lorraine Cohan, Sara Lee Johns Peaty Hunter, Barbara Mabry, Dora Monteiro, Dorothy Sanford. Florend Brown, Elizabeth Miller, Jennie Thompson, Lorraine Leedy, Mary Stapleton.

Accompanists for the program will be Margaret Hunter, pianist, and Dorothy Sanford, organist.

YW Plans Informal Party For Faculty and Students

Tomorrow night Y. W. C. A. will give the first of a series of informal parties in homes of faculty members to promote friendship between faculty and students.

The party will be at the home of Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Anderson. The guests will be twenty by new members of Y. W. C. A. The party is under the direction of Elizabeth McBride Miller and Mary Frances Petteer, co-chairmen of the committee on Faculty-Student Relations. Assisting with the entertainment are Miss Mary Settle, faculty advisor, and Ruth Garrison.

The guest list includes: Sue Erwin, Mabel Jackson, Penny Counselman, Ona Betty Robinson, Elizabeth Hardwick, Patricia Butler, Elisabeth Anderson, Ruth Trexler, Helen Ingram, Norma Baxter, Louise Daffin, Mary Vaughan, Roberta Van Brunt, Martha Bostwick, Chariot Balcom, Elizabeth Linn, Vivian Hampton, Jane Bailey, Anne Howard, Wanda Merrill, Jeannette Flowers, Virginia Brevard, Sara Scarboro, Bethea Willis and Mary Ann Hampton.

Mrs. Cary D. Landis Will Be Honor Guest At Formal Reception

Students of Landis hall and the social directors of this hall will entertain at an 11pr first annual reception tonight from 6:30 until 10:00 honoring Mrs. Cary D. Landis. The majority of the guests will be comprised of the members of the college faculty and staff.

In the receiving line will be President Edward Conradi, Dr. Landis, Dorman, Miss Rose Denham, Miss Katherine Byrd, Anne McMorris, Harriett Gill and Miss Maud Flowers. Miss Lelia Vensabic and Mrs. Nina Williams will pour coffee.

Eleanor Sweet was in charge of the invitations, Connie Ash and Elizabeth Holt are co-chairmen of the serving committee; Betty Jane Lewis and Mary Kathryn Cross are co-chairmen of the floor committee, and Mary Margaret Cain and Anne Bell Morris are co-chairmen of the tour committee.

Old Dining Hall To Open Formally Monday Night

There will be a formal opening of the old dining hall Monday night, December 11, with a dinner for those girls who live in Broward and Bryan. Mrs. Bell's off-campus house, and at the Sigma Kappa, Beta Phi Alpha, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Chi Omega and Delta Delta Delta house. Christmas decorations will be used.

Invited guests, including faculty advisors and chaperones, and members of the executive committee, are: Dr. Elisabeth G. Andrews, Miss Mildred J. Booth, Dr. Edward Conradi, Dean Olivia N. Dorman, Miss Madeline Duncan, Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Eckerstrom, Dr. and Mrs. Paul F. Finner, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Mary Lou Gill, Miss Eleanor V. Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kellum, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Miller, Miss Lola Schmidt, Miss Katherine Warren, Miss Edith West, Mrs. Pauline Cosart, Mrs. Pasco Palmer, Miss Rosabelle Gilliand, Miss Marion McKay, Mrs. B. K. Scott, Mrs. C. W. Bell, Miss Lelia Venable, Dr. Anna Forbes Liddell, Miss H. Bernice Deetz, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey and Jean Margaret R. Sandels.

Spanish Honorary Plans Christmas Party Monday

Sigma Delta Pi, Spanish honorary, will give its annual Christmas party Monday at 7:30 in the home of the sponsor, Mrs. Dorothy Bond. Virginia Brevard and Carmen Alvares will have charge of the program. During the party gifts will be exchanged and Spanish Christmas carols sung.

GROUPS PLAN ANNUAL HOLIDAY PARTIES AS CHRISTMAS SPIRIT PERVADES CAMPUS

The spirit of Christmas is in the air. Many of the sororities on campus are making exciting plans for parties and other holiday festivities to celebrate the occasion. Most of the sororities are going to have Christmas trees and have Santa Clauses to distribute presents at their Christmas parties.

The Alpha Chi Omegas will have their annual party next Thursday night at 6 o'clock. Preceding the party will be an informal buffet supper after which the active members will present a skit in honor of the pledges. After the skit distribution of presents by Santa Clause will be made.

The Alpha Delta Pi fraternity will celebrate the approaching holidays with a party on Wednesday night at 7 o'clock.

Members and pledges of the Delta Delta Delta fraternity will have their annual party Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. Refreshments will be served before the party. Julian Wolfe will act as Santa Claus. After the distribution of gifts, games will be given to a crippled children's home in Richmond, Virginia.

The Phi Mu sorority will have their Christmas party tomorrow night. Miss Mildred Booth, dietitian the gifts. Dora Colson is in charge of the party and Mary Stapleton of the program. Their patrons and patronesses, Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Hixson, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scarborough, Dr. and Mrs. Coyle Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Simmons, and Mrs. Gerald Crichfield, will attend.

Members and pledges of the Sigma Kappa sorority will have their Christmas party next Thursday night at their chapter house. Dr. and Mrs. Paul F. Finner will attend.

Pledges of Alpha Delta Pi are entertaining tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 5 at a formal tea in honor of all of the other pledges on campus. In the receiving line will be Mrs. Edward Conradi, Mrs. Marjorie Burns, faculty advisers; Mrs. A. E. Beard, house mother; Hannah Grinnell, president; Betty Nicholson, pledge adviser.

The refreshment tables will be decorated with Christmas colors and tions, on which sandwiches and Christmas cookies will be served. fraternity initials on the icing will be served.

The pledges of Kappa Delta will have a supper Saturday night. Peggy Shannon and Betsy Mc-Michael are in charge.

Kappa Alpha Theta will give an informal tea for their members, pledges, and friends Tuesday from 4:30 to 6 o'clock.

Saturday night the pledges of Sigma Kappa gave their with candles and pine, and small candles were given as favors.

Tomorrow the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority will have a Santa Claus voyage party. The guests will be given passports to sail to England, France, and Spain on the good ships Noel and Merry Christmas. Appropriate games will be played at each "country." The "trip" will end in Switzerland where real Swiss pastry will be served and alpine sleds will be distributed as favors. The evening will end with the singing of carols.

They will celebrate their annual Christmas party on Monday when activities and pledges will exchange gifts.

The Kappa Alpha Thetas celebrated their annual party last night. Santa Claus presented gifts to the members, pledges, guests, and alumnae given as favors. The gifts were then turned over for the use of charity. The actives presented a skit for the pledges.

Next Thursday the annual Kappa Delta Christmas party will be given. Following a supper those present will receive gifts from Santa Claus. The gifts will be given to a crippled children's home in Richmond, Virginia.

The Phi Mu sorority will have their Christmas party tomorrow night. Miss Mildred Booth, dietitian the gifts. Dora Colson is in charge of the party and Mary Stapleton of the program. Their patrons and patronesses, Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Hixson, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scarborough, Dr. and Mrs. Coyle Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Simmons, and Mrs. Gerald Crichfield, will attend.

Members and pledges of the Sigma Kappa sorority will have their Christmas party next Thursday night at their chapter house. Dr. and Mrs. Paul F. Finner, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Mary Lou Gill, Miss Eleanor V. Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kellum, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Miller, Miss Lola Schmidt, Miss Katherine Warren, Miss Edith West, Mrs. Pauline Cosart, Mrs. Pasco Palmer, Miss Rosabelle Gilliand, Miss Marion McKay, Mrs. B. K. Scott, Mrs. C. W. Bell, Miss Lelia Venable, Dr. Anna Forbes Liddell, Miss H. Bernice Deetz, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey and Jean Margaret R. Sandels.

Spanish Honorary Plans Christmas Party Monday

Sigma Delta Pi, Spanish honorary, will give its annual Christmas party Monday at 7:30 in the home of the sponsor, Mrs. Dorothy Bond. Virginia Brevard and Carmen Alvares will have charge of the program. During the party gifts will be exchanged and Spanish Christmas carols sung.

Mortar Board Entertains With Breakfast Honoring Alumnae and Faculty

A breakfast, served buffet style was given Sunday morning at the home of Miss Hazel Richardson in honor of the active and alumnae of Florida State who were here for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Those present were Mrs. Sam Colvin Schader, Mrs. Pasco Lance, Frances Douglas, Mary Ann by Parker, Daisy Parker, Sara Sealy, and Margaret Orman, active members of Mortar Board present were Miss Ruth Mims, Miss Ruth Schmidt, Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Dr. Bertyn Adey, and Mrs. Olive Cox.

Faculty advisors of Mortar Board present were Dr. Wilma G. Dodd, Dr. Dorothy Brewer, Dr. Hazel Stevenson, Past faculty advisors present were Miss Louise Richardson, Dr. Rose Mary Vincy, and Miss Sadie Yates.

Acting as hostesses were Jean Gilchrist, Mary Ann Hall, Florence Gregory, Dean Koerper, Bettie Young, Mary Anne Webb, Ruth Rogers, Margaret Robinson, and Lois Virnpen, members of Mortar Board.

Phi Delt-Sigma Nu Game

The annual charity football game between Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Nu will be played Gainesville tomorrow afternoon. Every year this affair creates much excitement and thrill not only for the players but also for the spectators. Florida State College will be well represented by the students who are planning to attend the game.

Mary Frances Oven and Mary Collins will sponsor for Sigma Nu. Ruth Bunicker, Patsy Jones, Peggy de Lee and Betty Anderson for Phi Delta Theta.

Other girls planning to attend the game are Mary Ann Morgan, Margaret Harmeyer, Marion Grinnell, Nancy Hall, Betty Jean Rhodes, Madge Overcash, Myra Swindell, Ruth Pearce, Hilda Lee Ann McCarty, Betty Mitchell, Bonnet Curtis, Margaret Patrannon, Frances Bolton, Elizabeth Setzler, Mae Hampton, Rosemary Turnbull, Barbara Anderson, Ida Ballenger, Caroline Brooks, Jeann Gilbert, and Viola Elliott.

The theme was that of a Spanish fiesta, and the house was suitably decorated. Cookie was the shape of Mexican hats and coffee were served.

Hear Mrs. Rohde

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, January 12, 1940

Good Luck On Exams

VOLUME XXVII

NUMBER THIRTEEN

Flight Training Begins for Ten FSCW Students

Girls Are Eligible For Participation In Prize Contest

Ten Florida State college girls who began the Civil Aeronautics ground course here on Wednesday, will be eligible to participate in a prize contest sponsored by the Institute of Aeronautical science this year. Prizes will be given by the Shell Oil Company under the Shell Intercollegiate Aviation Scholarships and awards.

Seven regional flight contests will take place with 49 students taking part. Contestants will be selected from all colleges and universities carrying the training program. The three outstanding girls developed during the year in the course will receive scholarship prizes for going on to further work in this field, first prize being $1,000; second, $750, and third, $500. The Shell Intercollegiate trophy will go to the local establishing the most promising record for the year in the training of flying participating in the contest. Winners in the regional tests will be given suitable awards and medals, and all of the students flying in the Shell scholastic tests will receive excitement certificates.

Girls from Florida state who will be eligible for entry are Irene Neal, Sara Woodruff, Margaret Lee, Jean MacRae, Louise Dyer, Betty Bell, Frances Jones, Jonnie Thomasson, Esther Bell and Marion Webster. Selected recently from 48 applicants who are attending classes on Sunday and Saturday nights at 7:30 for ground school instruction by Royal Bullock, economics instructor. Ivan Monroe, Tallahassee airport manager, will give the flight instruction. First lessons in the latter will be given today.

One of the students, Sarah Woodruff, has promised an airplane as a commencement present by her father. She plans to fly to the Canal Zone this summer with a friend, Margaret Lee, also going in the course. The qualification by which the girls were chosen were that the student must be at least five feet two inches tall, weigh not more than 135 pounds, have minimum in rank, have her parents consent to be citizen of the United States, have reached her 18th but not her 25th birthday by September 1, 1940, have the flight experience, and be in full time attendance. A rigid physical examination was passed on and each student is charged laboratory fee of $40.

Rehearsals Begin For 'Penny Wise'

Rehersals for the latest production of the speech department, "Penny Wise," a three-act comedy have begun under the direction of Miss Kemper Moore, assistant professor of speech, "Penny Wise," which will be presented January 24 and 25, is by Ferenc Ferguson Black.

Cast of characters is as follows: Jeff, a young man in his early thirties, Jean Van Brunt; Jo, a girl in her late twenties with a vivid personality, Beth Martin; Mark, a wholesome, red-haired girl, a bit older than Tina, Margaret Hamilton; Mr. Gordon, a good-looking man in his late thirties, Jack Lee; Mrs. Gregory, attorney in Tallahassee, Penny, his wife, a stylish belle, young-looking woman of forty-three, Irene Bannerman; Mr. Sherine, an intelligent, self-assured woman between the ages of 35 and 40, Tina Martin; Mr. Fowler, and Commissioner, Dunn, small town politician, Herman Greenhall, to be remembered for past performances in humorous parts.

This modern comedy is set in Directorial approximately two days in the lives of the characters. Although the cast is complete, the time and light crews have not been selected.

Miss Moore also announced that other activities will include the theatre play, "Les Femmes Savantes," to be given the last week April; a group of one-act plays, scheduled for the second week of May, and a program of children's plays.

Students Start Aviation Training

Ground school work has started for 10 Florida State college students who will learn to fly under provisions of the civil aeronautics training program. Shown in one of the college classrooms with a faculty member, Mr. Royal Mattice, who is ground school instructor are the state college aviation enthusiasts. They are from left to right: Front row, Margaret Grier; center row, Sara Woodruff and Irene Fremd; back row, Dice Puckett, Esther Vail, Marion Webster and Jennie Thomasson. Not in the picture is Frances Rogers.

Mints, Cones Pay Lost Bets

Queer things happen here that one would never expect in an institute of higher learning. For instance, at least two of our classes have had refreshments served to them unexpectedly.

Dr. Cotterill served his American History class ice cream cones in payment of a waser concerning a library book. Imagine seeing 50 luscious ice cream cones carried in at once—and into a classroom at that!

Four girls of Miss Carmen Rogers' freshman English class made a dramatic entrance with a plate of mints at a recent class meeting. They had been assigned in compliance with the request of Miss Rogers that, "Those people who haven't done their homework should produce a forfeit which will show more consideration for the class than appreciation."

Let's have more of this! We like it—even if it does overwork the dietitians.

Hanover, Bristol Will Go to Meet

The coordinating council of Quincy has invited Mrs. Margaret Bristol and Frederick J. Hanover, both of the sociology department, together with eight citizens of Tallahassee interested in the organization of a local coordinating council, to one of their regular sessions at a dinner. The coordinating council has as its objective the prevention of overlapping duplication and gaps in community welfare services.

On November 20 Mr. Hanover spoke to the Woman's club on the topic, "Ambassadors of Community Service." The Woman's Club and the Coordinating Council." The Woman's club went on record as the first organization to

Continued on page three

Defeated Candidates' Club Adds Unique Organization to Campus

Subject for Speech Making Will Be "How Much Better an Officer I Would Have Been"

Latest award of something-or-another-the-club honors goes to Kitty Jo Hickman, Bette Langford, Tilly Van Brunt of this institution.

On the thirteenth of December, 1939, a new organization was born on this campus at the Sigic and Span at which chimes in the Westcott Building solemnly pealed nine peals. That afternoon, it seems, the parliament had run for office in the recent freshmen elections and had found themselves among those not winning. were issued mystifying invitations.

Kitty Jo and Bette had cut the bids in the form of dogbones, lettered on them like: "Come to place of meeting, and dropped them in the campus mail.

D. C. C. meet at the Spic at 5 o'clock." With Tilly Van Brunt they formed a receiving line at the door of the Spic to pin pledge ribbons on their sisters-in-disappointment, the deeply symbolic colors of black and blue.

Nature Disclosed

The "serious" nature of the meeting was further impressed upon the freshmen when the receiving line resorted to the simple expedient of standing on chairs and screaming for quiet. Miss Hickman then explained the plan and purpose of the new club. Only defeated candidates were eligible for membership and were 13 cents; meetings were to be held on the thirteenth of each month at 13 minutes after 1 and the day the members were to wear proudly their black and blue colors.

Best of all was the parliamentary order to be observed at each meeting. All candidates for president were to act as president, she explained, if candidates for secretary were to take over the minutes, and so forth on down the entire list of the 32 members.

After she finished 13 rousing cheers rent the air, and the motion was carried unanimously that Kitty Jo be unanimously elected honorary chairman.

There followed a program in which each "candidate" was introduced and given the unexpected pleasure of making a short short speech which, we understand, was more often than not drowned out by waves of enthusiasm.

Continued on Page Three

Winter Distaff Features Prize Winning Story

Next Issue Contains Symposium on Love In Two Articles

The winner of the recent short story contest announced by the Distaff and Chi Delta Phi, the literary honorary, is Vivian Ahlbeck, junior, whose story entitled, "Homo Called Sapiens" will be featured in the magazine when it makes its second appearance this school year on January 22.

Judges for the contest were Miss Marjorie Rawlings, author in the speech department, Dr. Marion Jewell Hay, professor in the education department, and Mrs. Mary B. Affriend, instructor in English. This contest, which opened in October, was sponsored by the literary honorary to stimulate creative writing on campus and closed December 15. A prize will be presented to the winner in convocation soon.

Love Is Theme

The cover of the Distaff this issue will feature a silver and blue winter moon with a cloud in the background. Emphasis in this issue will be placed on what the college girls think about love.

Contributors for the Distaff were Bertha Bloodworth, who wrote "Pick-up," a story for the symposium on the college girl and love, the other part of the symposium being entitled "First Love," a story by an anonymous contributor.

Poetry in this issue were written by Martha Ann Mattox, who wrote "Does Love Have a Chance?" Norma Pennoyer, "Cheating in High School," the last part of the Mattox poem, Round Robin, and an article by Marian Godwin on "Propaganda" which deals with propaganda in the war news.

An "All West" the section on satire, Bertha Bloodworth contributes an article on the psycho-

Continued on Page Three

4-H Clubs Have In 23 Members

Initiation Service Held Last Saturday

Twenty-three new members were initiated into the college 4-H club Saturday night at the Methodist student house.

These new members were divided into four groups, a group for each leaf of the clover. 4-H emblem. Miss Ruth Bryan Rohde took them by groups to the table in the center where they were welcomed by the president. Ruth Sanderson, who invited them to light the candles from the larger ones on the table of service. After lighting their candles, each group took its stand on a leaf of the clover and gave the club cheer then, that was outlined on a green rug.

The rest of the program consisted of a solo by Ruth Shepherd, a duet by Miss Ethel Mallowes, district home demonstration agent and club sponsor, and club songs by the group. Marty Buhr, Frances Rogers, and Ruth Shepherd furnished the musical background out the evening.

Those initiated were: Ruth Hendricks, Dorcus Stone, Annie Shellhorse, Mary Lou Meyer, Lillian Whitley, Annie Rogers, Elaine Solomon, Ines Olive, Harriet Davis, Edna Baker, Lillian McKeown, Louise Pulmer, Geraldine Crawford, Vera Hay, Frances Smart, Johnnymae Wright, Frances Rogers, Eunice Williams, Ruth Sanderson, Ruth Randell, Wilma Smith, Betty Rawle, and Jane Dilts.

Three Will Go to Meeting

There will be a state home economics meeting of student clubs at Southern college in Lakeland, February 17, at the next meeting of the Home Economics club, February 8, three members of the club will be chosen, a sophomore, a junior, and a senior, to represent Florida State college club.

Heinlein Honored By Field Society

During the Christmas holidays, the board of governors of the National Association of Science and Journalists conferred upon Dr. Robert Hugh Pfeil, president of experimental psychology at Florida State college for women, national honorary membership in the Eugene Field society.

Dr. John D. Heinlein, national president of the association, informed Dr. Pfeil that he had been elected on the roll of honorary members and a certificate of merit attesting his appointment sent to him in recognition of his "outstanding contributions to contemporary literature" and for his "unique and fruitful leadership" of his published works on psychology. Among the forty-one persons that have been published roll of honorary members are many of country's foremost authors and journalists including Nicholas Murray Butler, S. Pitlips Oppenheim, Irvin S. Cobb, Dorem, Sigmund Spaeth, Lowell Thomas, Will Durant, Edna Ferber, Eve Curie, Olga Samaroff Stokowski and others.

Dr. Heinlein has published more than twenty-five studies dealing with various topics in the field of human phychology. His biography appears in Who's Who and Who Publications, including America's Young Men, Leaders in Education and Women Who's Who. Who's Who in American Education and Who's Who in Florida. He is an active member of a number of scientific societies.

Bloodworth to Give Prize

The winner of the Chi Delta Phi short story contest has already been chosen, according to Bertha Bloodworth, president of the literary honorary, who has announced in convocation next Tuesday. The prize will be presented at that time.

Chemistry Group Meets

Gamma Sigma Epsilon, the chemistry honorary, held its regular monthly meeting Thursday night in the chemistry lecture room. The program was on the history of the organization. Bernice Lasche, Marian Geddins and Margaret Vogt were in charge.

YWCA Again Opens Local Book Exchange

Y. W. C. A. will carry on a book exchange this semester as in the past to provide an opportunity for students to sell their old books and buy others at reasonable prices. The exchange will be held in the Y. W. C. A. room on the top floor of the Westcott building.

Any student who has a textbook she wishes to exchange may take it to the Y. W. C. A. room at hours which will be posted on the organization's bulletin board next week.

College Applies For Buildings

Theater, Auditorium, Dormitory Planned

According to H. D. Mendenhall, district engineer at Florida State college, two applications have been made at Washington, D. C., for a new dormitory and a new auditorium, but the recent information from Washington is that there are prospects of discontinuance by the Public Works Administration. In this event the postponement of the projects will be indefinite as the funds for new buildings will depend upon the action taken by the present session of the national legislature.

The new dormitory would house 250 students and would be built located across the street west of Language Hall and the Infirmary and facing the new street. The new convocation hall would have a seating capacity of 2,000, a complete music department in connection, and would be built on the site of the approximate site of the music building on the corner of Jefferson street and Park avenue extended.

With the completion of the Robert Manning Strozier Memorial building around March first, a number of present activity offices will be moved in, giving more space in the other buildings for classrooms. Offices vacated will move in are: alumnae publicity, registrar, Dean Mary E. Sharp, C. C. O. A., Flambeau, and others.

The building will also include a fountain basin where refreshments will be served after the collegiate basketball games. It is expected to be a great convenience for the girls, particularly those living in the dormitories.

Another plan is to build a pool for the girls. The recreational pool to be constructed between the gym and the new music hall. The new theater would be sited on the north end facing Landis hall and the music building would definitely require a legislative appropriation, and the hope is the next building to become a reality on the campus, predicted Mr. Mendenhall.

The state road department has

Continued on Page Three

Two Changes Pass Faculty Senate

Members of faculty senate voted unanimously to abide by the motion which will have a student vote to take a course in the same field as her integrated subject. The motion, passed March 14, 1939, but heretofore inactive, was for the protection of the department head of the course and by the dean of the school under which it existed. For example a chemistry major may take the course in general biology required and a chemistry course in the same semester provided she has the permission of the proper authorities. This will enable her to start preparation for her major immediately instead of waiting for it in the following year.

The senate also agreed to reduce the admission requirements for the Florida State college of needing four credits in elementary algebra so that a student man may have four credits in either academic or vocational subjects to supplement the 12 compulsory credits.

Baker Leaves for State Conference in Lakeland

Miss Frances Baker, Methodist student secretary, will attend the mid-year council meeting of all young people's workers in the state held in Lakeland this weekend.

Outlined work to be taken up at the meeting includes plans for the next six months' program—promotion of the Youth Crusade, and other topics related to young people's work throughout the state.

FSC to Observe First Mid-Year Commencement

Supreme Court Judge Brown Will Be Guest Speaker on Jan. 27

Speaker at the first mid-year commencement exercises to be held at this college will be Judge Armistead Brown of the Florida supreme court. These exercises at which 15 students will receive degrees will be held at 10:30 a. m. Saturday, January 27.

Until this year the mid-year candidates have had the privilege of returning for the May commencement, since there was no program for them in January.

Following are the candidates, compiled according to divisions:

Graduate division: master of arts, Lou Epsten, Whitfield Mitchell, Mary Ellen Weeks; master of science, Hazel Mae Gilmore.

College of arts and sciences: bachelor of arts, Doris Sharit Campbell, Nelle Bell Gurney, Mary June Williams, and Jean Sparkman; bachelor of science, Marjorie Bradford Hornsbeck, Marriette Tobin; bachelor of science in commerce, Dorothy Ann Brewer.

School of education: bachelor of arts in education: Doris E. Goodert, Eleanor Hocker, and Lillian Lewis Jones.

School of home economics: Iva Pauline Potevelin, Dorothy Mae Watson; bachelor of science in nursing: Donna Ivy Kelly and Mary Elizabeth Sanders.

School of music: bachelor of music in public school music; Betty Barnhill.

Two Social Work Courses Are Added

The division of social work of the sociology department will enlarge its graduate professional curriculum by the addition of two courses to be offered for the first time next semester, it was announced by Dr. Thomas Vance, Public Welfare Administration and Political Influence, director of Social Workers, will have as instructors Frederick J. Hanover, assistant professor of sociology, and Mrs. Margaret Bristol, also of the division of social work, respectively.

The two courses together with courses in social case work, field work and community organization constitute the group of graduate professional courses now scheduled in the division of social work. Two years of professional training has been instituted by Florida State college to meet two field demands. The welfare of the state demanding graduate training for their workers.

According to Dr. Coyle Moore, associate professor of sociology, the state board of public welfare is unequivocal quite closely with the division of social work in the department of sociology in giving positions to graduate students as rapidly as the students are made available.

College Is The Place Where Men And Money Are "Big Things"

Students Seldom Go to Church, Girl Finds, But They Do Plenty of Praying at Quarters

By JONNIE THOMASSON

College is the place where there is plenty of time. Why, when a teacher calls the roll on the ball-room floor, the student comes in five minutes later, she is very late. If someone is late to class, sometimes five minutes. It is a long wait. If a student is listening to a boring lecture, five minutes can be measured in her thinking, to eternity. When teachers give assignments, they expect students to do them thoroughly, which fact only goes to show that, on the other hand, five minutes isn't a long time it seems.

College is the place where five dollars becomes a meagre amount of money. It will go quicker than any other five dollars ever did before. Sweet Shop, Spick, books, paper, pencils, Kleenex, tooth paste, soap, and all kind of necessities are always coming up. One week one must get one thing, but another week one must get another thing that is necessary. Where do they all go? The books for just one class sometimes top that amount without seeing effort.

Class Party

College is the place where girls don't go dancing, but where they do a lot of praying, especially at the end of quarters when cramming doesn't seem to do much good. It would be nice if some supernatural soul would take a poll to find out the number of girls who pray every quarter. Thank God. Please Let Me Pass. If I Don't I Can't Go to Christmas!!!

College is the place where teachers give boring lectures in some of their classes some of the time. It is a deplorable fact that sometimes these lectures become too frequent.

College is the place where a man assumes a value far exceeding his worth. A speculator could make a fortune if he would buy a man at his true worth and sell him for what he is worth to a student in a woman's college. It stands to reason that as long as there are women someone will have them segregated into what is called a woman's college, and as long as

Continued on Page Two

To Speak Here

Former Minister to Denmark Ruth Bryan Rohde, who is an alumnae of Florida State College for Women by virtue of the honorary degree bestowed upon her in 1935, will lecture Tuesday at the college auditorium. Her subject will be "This Democracy of Ours."

Freshmen Plan First Meeting

Class Will Sponsor Annual Band Concert

Plans for the remainder of the years' activities of the freshman class have not been completed as yet, but will get under way at the first official meeting of the class early in the second semester, according to Jean Hitchcock, president. Chief points for consideration at that time will be plans for the election of class sponsors, and accommodations at the University of Florida band concert to be given there the last week in February.

At the elections of the freshman class before Christmas, 60 votes were cast for the seven offices to be filled. At the first unofficial meeting of the class, enthusiastic members turned out nearly 400 strong and during the elections over half of the class of nearly 600 voted, thus making this year's election campaign one of the most enthusiastic ever entered into by the freshman class.

Officers elected at that meeting were: President, Jean Hitchcock; vice-president, Virginia Jones; Secretary, Eve Chaire; treasurer, Mary Lou King, senate representatives, Laura Poole and Elizabeth Rogers,; parliamentarian, Evelyn Butts and athletic manager, Betty Rose Hove.

YWA Will Meet Tonight

The Baptist students will hold a YWA meeting tonight at 6:30 in the Baptist student house. Laura McCaughan will have charge of the program.

Bach afternoon from 4 to 8 o'clock during exam week, exam teas will be given at the Baptist student house.

Rohde to Speak Under Alumnae Sponsorship

Noted Woman Diplomat Scheduled to Lecture on Democracy As Subject of Talk

Mrs Ruth Bryan Rohde, speaking on "This Democracy of Ours" at the college auditorium Tuesday, January 16, will make her first formal appearance here since she was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of literature in 1935. Mrs. Rohde, former United States minister to Denmark and congresswoman from Florida, is also the author of many books including "Elements of Public Speaking," "Leaves from a Greenland Diary," "Future Tales from Scandinavia," "A Castle In The Silver Wood," "Woman's Career," and numerous magazine articles.

Early days

Mrs. Rohde, now side to King Christian X of Denmark, is the daughter of William Jennings Bryan, three times presidential candidate. She was educated at the University of Nebraska, where she received the titles of L.L.D. and L.H.D., and has had numerous honorary degrees bestowed upon her including Doctor of Literature from Rollins. Previous Mrs. Rohde was head of public speaking and vice-president of the board of regents of the University of Miami, a member of the League of American Pen Women, and Delta Kappa Epsilon professional Women's club.

Her diplomatic service is known as a First Woman. She was the first congresswoman elected, the first woman diplomat, the first woman to serve on the Congressional Foreign Affairs committee. She was the first woman to represent the United States at the interparliamentary Union in London.

Widely travelled, Mrs. Rohde was born in Illinois and has traveled in Asia Minor, Palestine, and Egypt. With her regal good looks, she is one of the prominent women of politics and public speaking look out upon all the world with interest.

The climax in Mrs Rohde's foreign career was undoubtedly reached when she was formally presented to the King of Denmark in 1933, the first of all the other honors bestowed upon her. Mrs. Rohde speaks Danish now naturally.

Although she has three children and nine grandchildren, Mrs. Rode has carried on her political career with the same vigor and prominent American woman in world affairs.

At present Mrs. Rohde is touring the country in a lecture series, she is being brought here under the sponsorship of the college alumnae association. Tickets for students are 35 cents and are available at the college bookstore.

Winslow Will Give Recital Wednesday

The piano recital by Mary Esther Winslow of the School of Music, which was announced for last night, has been postponed to Wednesday night, January 17. This will take place in the college auditorium at 8:15 o'clock.

During the past at Florida State Colleee Miss Winslow has been very generous in her artistic contributions. She has also given many piano recitals and has concertized throughout the state as one of the Faculty Instrumental Trio.

Miss Winslow will give the entire program, which is as follows: Three Sonatas. A major, G Major and C Minor, Mozart; Sonatine, Bach-Busoni; Seven Bagatelles, Tcherepnine; Prelude, Op. 32, No. 1, Scriabin; Capricio (Rhapsanyn); Forest Murmurs (Liszt); Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 2 (Chopin); Mephisto Waltz (Liszt).

YW Drive Nets Clothes To Be Altered for Sale,

Virginia Balkcom, president of the Y.W.C.A., stated that the Old Clothes Drive carried on before Christmas was very successful.

The clothes which were deposited in boxes for the purpose in the different residences will be repaired and altered during the first part of February and are to be placed on exhibit for sale in the Y.W.C.A. room on the fourth floor of the Wescott building. Those remaining unsold will be donated to needy institutions.

Some of the clothes that already been given to the Tallahassee Welfare Commissioner to be distributed before Christmas.

From Other Colleges

The 19 Florida Southern college students who enrolled in the Civil Aeronautics pilot training program have begun actual flight training since early having made their first flight. Two of the students enrolled are girls.

The walls of Southern's new chapel, first in the series of 14 buildings to be erected there forming the F. Lanier Jones educational foundation, are now over head-high. The seating arrangement is to be in the form of a "T" with the speaker's platform in the center and balconies and transepts floor adding to the seating capacity.

Recommendations for a later hour for dateless night dates, perhaps 11 o'clock instead of 10:30 as now, were discussed at the last meeting of Southern's senate.

Alabama State colleges for women has inaugurated a vocational advisory service for the women of Alabama, the function of which will be to carry on research of employment needs in the state and of opportunities for training to fill the needs available, and to make the results of its studies and its advisory facilities easily able to Alabama women for application to their personal problems.

Letters from Kentucky senators and representatives have been received by members of the University of Kentucky student legislature expressing approval of that body's plea for national neutrality and requesting their support to the legislature's resolution.

Kentucky's undistributing procedure and student elections were mentioned in the annual N.S.F.A. convention as being among the best methods for schools of 3,000 or over. The university employs a system which includes a direct primary plan, a competitive examination for the elimination of candidates in the selection of the legislature.

The convention also adopted a resolution expressing disapproval of the methods used by the Dies committee in its investigation of un-American activities.

Michigan State's first co-operative house for men is now open under the joint sponsorship of the I.M.L. Y.M.C.A. and the Ag Council. House finances will be handled by students living in the house, the only connection with the college being an advisory board of 12 faculty members. A $10 deposit is required of each member as well as a $10 loan to the house which will be repaid as soon as the house becomes self-supporting. Board and room will cost members $2.50 a week. The only requirements for membership being good character, willingness to cooperate with other members, and a scholastic average of 1.0 or better.

Plans for a $400 000 combined hotel, laboratory and dormitory, the first of its type in America, are under consideration by the officials of the Michigan hotel association and a committee from the State Board of Agriculture. The building would be on the Michigan State campus and would be used to furnish housing for guests and faculty members and to provide a laboratory for a proposed hotel extension service. The project would be financed by a self-liquidating bond issue floated by the hotel association and would include an inn containing rooms for 25 permanent and 25 transient guests, and dining facilities, testing laboratory and dormitory for 100 students. Junior and senior hotel students would be required to live in the dormitory and work in the inn, dining room and laboratory. Michigan State officials have said they will cooperate in the establishment of the project providing means of financing it are provided and that the building provides a suitable laboratory for hotel administration students.

Knowles memorial chapel at Rollins will be the scene Sunday, January 29 of the annual Winter Park Bach Festival, which will feature in its fifth year Bach's "Mass in B Minor." The festival chorus of 150 selected voices from Orlando, Winter Park and neighboring cities, including the Rollins Chapel choir, has been rehearsing for the event since last spring. In addition to the vocal accompaniment of the chapel organist, the festival will feature a small orchestra composed of eight solo instrumentalists from the Curtis Institute of Musical Art in Philadelphia and members of the Rollins Conservatory faculty.

Work is soon to be started on a new $100,000 education building at 7:5 C.W., which is to contain the practice school as well as some class rooms. Space will be reserved between the new building and the administration

Vance Attends AAUP Meeting

Stetson, Tennessee U. Put on Censored List

At the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the American Association of University Professors held in New Orleans during the Christmas holidays, the Florida State college chapter was represented by Earl L. Vance of the history department, who is a member from the Southern region on the national council of the organization, which also held meetings in New Orleans. The chapter was recently appointed a member also of the national committee on organization and extension of chapters.

The New Orleans meeting was devoted to addresses by many nationally known persons, reports of the year's work from the various committees and national officers, discussions of college and university problems, and election of new officers. Elected to the council were Professor P. S. Dehler, economics, Northwestern university, president; Professor Ruth Stewart, astronomy and physics, Pomona college, vice-president; and Professor Laura A. White, history, University of Wyoming, secretary-treasurer.

Among the more important committee reports were those on academic freedom and tenure by Professor W. W. Cook of Northwestern university as chairman, on the place and function of faculties in college and university administration, of which Professor Paul W. Ward of Syracuse university is chairman, and on academic freedom and tenure, of which Professor Edwin T. Layrade of Duke university is chairman.

Upon recommendation of the committee on censure, the executive council the North Dakota College of Agriculture was removed from the association's censured list. This action was taken following the reinstatement of the president whose dismissal occasioned the censure, investigation by the American Association of University Professors and the subsequent disapproval of the governing board. After that action a popular protest in the state led to the complete change in the personnel of the governing body followed by the reinstatement of the dismissed professors.

The administrations of five institutions, including two in the South, Stetson and the University of Tennessee, remain on the censured list because of dismissals of professors not generally accepted tenure practices.

The report of the general secretary showed a membership showed a continued increase both in the number of chapters and in the total membership which now is more than 15,000 in 535 institutions. Many activities in preparation for the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization on January 1.

College Is The Place Where Men And Money Are Big Things

Continued from Page One

they are surprised they will value the man somewhat highly, that as long as they value them highly they will be willing to do anything which is exactly the line of reasoning which one must submit-vate.

College is the place where one never writes any more letters than is absolutely necessary, then just often enough to bring in some mail or money, two things that have already been stated as being important to the college girl.

College is on the average, the place where a student spends nine months out of each of four years. This time is supposed to be spent in study and preparation for the future, but is usually spent in going to classes, sleeping, eating, going to shows, going to ball games, and spending long vacils in the offices of the Deans and the Registrar, with their respective.

College is the place where routine reigns supreme. Yep, college is the place.

building for a home economics building to be erected later.

The Davidson radio theater will present soon a series of dramatizations of Poe's short stories which will be alternated with plays written by members of the theatre.

Construction will begin soon on a new $125,000 dormitory at Emory, the gift of anonymous donors. The completed building will be three stories high, stucco trimmed with limestone.

∴ Inquiring Reporter ∴

The Place of Religion in a Collegiate World

In religion imperative to the average Florida State college girl's philosophy of life?

Do you think the often heard slibt: "I don't have time for participation in religious activities" is fundamentally true, or do you think the girls who really need for such participation will take or make time regardless of the circumstances.

What could individuals and organizations on this campus do to help girls satisfactorily solve their own personal religious doubts, problems, questions?

The above questions asked by the Inquiring reporter this week were submitted by the religious council on campus in hopes that the council could get new suggestions and carry on its work more beneficially.

Harriet Benson: Whether or not any religious group or, for that matter, any person could really help a student in her problems of religion, I cannot say. In my opinion the best religious training that a student develops in college is from her own initiative.

Mary Sue Hall: Yes, I think religion is imperative to the average F. S. C. W. girl's personal philosophy of life. In fact, whether we realize it or not, religion is the basis of life. In order to develop spiritually we must have "food for thought." Participation in religious activities stimulates spiritual growth and gives us a better understanding of the importance of such activities in our lives. We are all busy girls no matter how busy we think we are. Certainly we can do what anybody else can, and it is surprising how much the girls really do in religious activities. Probably the best help to the individual or organization, could be on this campus would be to help solve their personal religious doubts, fears and questions would be to provide individual work for once hours with the various religious leaders. It is always beneficial to talk with someone who is an authority on the subject.

Dorothy Schepps: I sincerely believe that every girl should have a religion. Even if a girl does not attend her church regularly but she should also carry her belief with her in her daily life.

Jayne Mendenall: That depends on what you mean by religion. Life without some form of religion is a blank existence to Hindulam, is impossible. As for religion bounded on all sides by an organized church, I think that it's extremely important and most girls naturally have no time to participate.

Florence Gregory: My interpretation of this question is faced with two thoughts in mind: It will be a very inadequate and unsatisfying statement of opinion; and with the reluctant decision the right and reservation to change my answer with changing degrees of insight and study of the problem as they come to me.

Is religion imperative to the average F. S. C. W. girl's personal philosophy of life? Yes, if by "religion" you mean an attendance, no, if you mean an orthodox belief in a "God." If by "religion" is in all life, absorbed in every experience and aspect of an individual's life, I certainly do think the "imperativeness" or "essentiality" of religious spirit and attitude is revealed through the self-expressive activities of life through the manner and cause of its production 1 do not believe that participation in religious activities is a necessary part of the individual's life. The individual in preaching any worthy or satisfactory philosophy of life or attitude is not included in its fundamental. I also think that any specific definition and explanation, and is speaking in relative degrees of terms, is to be expected under the circumstances. But I do believe that lack of time and stimulation for introspection and meditation is a paramount destructive factor as far as the student's religious growth is concerned. I also think that an equally harmful, professors and students who take a sadistic delight in ridiculing and try to make so effort to substitute for the religious. They suffer from the same handicap.

Mary Ellen Leister: Yes, religion is imperative to the average F. S. C. W. girl's personal philosophy of life. In fact, whether we realize it or not, religion is the basis of life. In order to develop spiritually we must have "food for thought." Participation in religious activities stimulates spiritual growth and gives us a better understanding of the importance of such activities in our lives. We are all busy girls no matter how busy we think we are. Certainly we can do what anybody else can, and it is surprising how much the girls really do in religious activities. Probably the best help to the individual or organization, could be on this campus would be to help solve their personal religious doubts, fears and questions would be to provide individual work for once hours with the various religious leaders. It is always beneficial to talk with someone who is an authority on the subject.

Dorothy Schepps: I sincerely believe that every girl should have a religion. Even if a girl does not attend her church regularly but she should also carry her belief with her in her daily life.

Jayne Mendenall: That depends on what you mean by religion. Life without some form of religion is a blank existence to Hindulam, is impossible. As for religion bounded on all sides by an organized church, I think that it's extremely important and most girls naturally have no time to participate.

Florence Gregory: My interpretation of this question is faced with two thoughts in mind: It will be a very inadequate and unsatisfying statement of opinion; and with the reluctant decision the right and reservation to change my answer with changing degrees of insight and study of the problem as they come to me.

Is religion imperative to the average F. S. C. W. girl's personal philosophy of life? Yes, if by "religion" you mean an attendance, no, if you mean an orthodox belief in a "God." If by "religion" is in all life, absorbed in every experience and aspect of an individual's life, I certainly do think the "imperativeness" or "essentiality" of religious spirit and attitude is revealed through the self-expressive activities of life through the manner and cause of its production 1 do not believe that participation in religious activities is a necessary part of the individual's life. The individual in preaching any worthy or satisfactory philosophy of life or attitude is not included in its fundamental. I also think that any specific definition and explanation, and is speaking in relative degrees of terms, is to be expected under the circumstances. But I do believe that lack of time and stimulation for introspection and meditation is a paramount destructive factor as far as the student's religious growth is concerned. I also think that an equally harmful, professors and students who take a sadistic delight in ridiculing and try to make so effort to substitute for the religious. They suffer from the same handicap.

Elizabeth DeMilly: Yes, I think religion is imperative to the college girls life. And I don't think that anyone is ever too busy to take part in religious activities. If a girl will just go to the church

DUKE UNIVERSITY
DURHAM, N. C.

The Diploma of Graduate Nurse is awarded after three years, and the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing for two additional years of intensive study and work before or after the course in Nursing. The entrance requirements are intelligence, character and graduation from an accredited high school. After 1940 two years of college work will be required. The annual tuition of $100 covers the cost of uniforms, books student government fees, etc. Catalogue, application forms and information about college requirements may be obtained from the Admission Committee.

Exam Teas Top MSO Activities

McNeil Will Preside At League Services

In deference to "dead week," the Methodist student organization has postponed all important business meetings, council meetings, and conferences until after exams. However, each afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, exam teas will be given at the Methodist student house during exam week. The junior council members will act as hostesses.

At the regular young people's meeting on Sunday night, from 6:30 to 8:00, Mary Alice McNeil will lead the worship program and Margaret Clements will have charge of the recreation. All girls who plan to go to League eat at tables 40 through 50 in the lower south dining room and are invited to meet together afterward.

This morning, three Methodist students visited missionary society in Monticello where they spoke on the subject of Youth Crusades. Frances Frazier gave her subject "Looking Backward and Forward in the Crusade"; Martha Whitehurst spoke on "What the Crusade Has Meant and Can Mean to Me," and Jean and Donna Will Brown gave the "Origins and Purposes of the Crusade."

A brief glimpse into the future activity program of the Methodist organization reveals a Religious Emphasis week from February 12 to 17 conducted by Mrs Jack Anderson's father, who will lead several worship services. The Valentine's dance, a spring banquet on April 16 at which Dr. James Workman will be the principal speaker, and the state student conference at Camp Deer Lake near Ocala, April 19-20.

Choir practice will be resumed in February.

Proceedings Given For Registration

Registration for second semester, which began Monday, will continue through next Thursday. In order to avoid long lines and tired students the student body has been divided into three groups: P to Z, January 8 to 10; A to O, January 11 to 12; A to Z, January 15 to 16.

The sections are being kept as even as possible so those coming last will have as much of a choice of sections as those coming first, providing students come at the specified time.

Students who have no changes for the second semester may fill out their schedule and leave the registrar's copy in the box provided on the counter in the registrar's office. The perforated copy is then certified by the student to the business office.

Students who have no changes except from one instructed course to another may fill out their schedule just as it was the first semester with the exception of the integrated course which will be announced and scheduled by the registrar's office.

Students who have other changes may enter on their schedule in the usual way. If you are not changing just as they were the first semester, with the exception of conflicting courses. The added courses that have due section and other changes must be handled by the office.

Semester examinations begin Friday, January 19. All examinations should be completed at that time.

S. R. JOHNSON,
Registrar.

3 Attend College Union Meeting

Miss Charlotte Stevens, secretary to the alumnae association, was sent as the Florida State college official representative to the National American Association of College Unions Friday, January 5 which was held at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Miss Mary Hutchison Stevens, assistant dean of students, and Miss Mary Virginia Proctor of residence, accompanied Miss Stevens and Miss Conferences with the assistant director of students and director of residence at Florida, Miss Rowena and Miss Warren were also taken through the newly completed dormitories and the Student Union building on the university's campus.

Astronomy Club to Have Next Meeting January 31

The next meeting of the Astronomy club will be at 9 o'clock on January 31, the first Wednesday night in the month. There will be a business meeting and a program, concerning constellations in the sky. The lecture, which will be given in 104 Dirac hall, will be followed by individual eye observations. Anna Wilson is in charge of this program.

Episcopals Make Varied Plans

Teas Will Highlight Examination Week

The Episcopal study class will continue its program on the "Life of Christ" on Sunday morning at 9:30.

Sunday night at the regular student auxiliary service at 7, Janet Wells will present a program on the recent Pan-American Student Conference which was held at Rose Hall during the Christmas holidays. Dorothy West and her choir will furnish the music for the service.

On Friday morning at 8 during the weekly celebration of the Holy Communion, the confirmation preparatory class will be received into the Episcopal Church. Vestry will be installed. The members are Beth Colvin, Lena Ellisa, and Mary Gray Hudgins.

Beginning with Monday, at 4 o'clock p.m. and continuing through exam week, the social committee will serve tea at Sopkins from 4:30 to 6:00 every afternoon during exam week. All students are cordially invited to attend them.

Special guests at the Tuesday afternoon tea on January 23 will be the Rev. and Mrs. Wallace Byrd of Chattahoochee, who will talk about their work and life there.

Special Close-Out On
1-3 OFF
Narragansett Racquets

Seek it First at
IVAN BRUNT & SON INC.
VON'S
HARDWARE

Air-Conditioned
MARTIN & DALTON
Department Drug Store
PHONE 129
Free Motorcycle Delivery—Fast as the Law Allows 50c Prophylactic — 50c Tooth Brush . 23c
Tooth Brush . 29c
75c Fliches — 60c Drene
Hair Tonic . . . 59c Shampoo 49c
Eastman Kodak Films for All Cameras
One Day Developing Service
Famous
Airmaid Hosiery . . $1.00, $1.15, $1.35
—FOUNTAIN SPECIALS—
"Tallahassee's Most Popular Fountain Cafe"
30c - College Club Steak - 30c
French Fried Potatoes, Lettuce and Tomatoes, Hot Rolls, Drink
Milk Oyster Stew — Grilled Hamburger, Hot Chocolate
25c — 15c
Large Bowl Chili, saltines 15c
Crushed Pineapple Sundae 10c
Hot Fudge Sundae with Nuts . . . 15c
Double Rich Malted Milks 15c

SPARKS
STATE
PHONE 180
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
January 12-13
SWANEE RIVER
AMOS 'n' ANDY
in
"ARE WE MARRIED"
—ALSO—
"AQUA RHYTHM"
Taken at Wakulla Springs
Tarpon Club
SUNDAY & MONDAY
January 14-15
Lucille Ball
Richard Carlson
in
"Too Many Girls"
TUESDAY, JANUARY 16
CITY of CHANCE
WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
January 17-18
TRAGEDY OF THE DESERT
THE CRIME OF DR. HALLET
RITZ
FRIDAY, JANUARY 19
MICKEY ROONEY - GARLAND
"BABES IN ARMS"
SATURDAY, JANUARY 20
GENE AUTRY
"Rovin' Tumbleweeds"
SUNDAY & MONDAY
January 21-22
"DON AMECHE
in
"SWANEE RIVER"
—ALSO—
"AQUA RHYTHM"
Taken at Wakulla Springs
Tarpon Club
TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
January 16-17
Marlene Dietrich
in
"Destry Rides Again"
THURSDAY & FRIDAY
January 18-19
Claudette Colbert
in
"DRUMS ALONG THE MOHAWK"

Jennie Murphree Ties with Chi O

Intramural Top Score At Present Is 850

The running scores of the three intramural sports, tennis, tables tennis and basketball, played so far this semester show Jennie Murphree and Chi Omegas tying for first place with 850 points each.

Chi Omega made 200 points in the tennis finals while Jennie Murphree made 190. These two are the highest scores, however, in the table tennis games so far. Chi Omega has 475 points and Jennie Murphree came in with 460 points. In basketball Jennie Murphree led with 200 points. The sorority group tied with only 172 points to their credit giving it fourth place in the sport. Delta Phi Epsilon has second place with 675 points and Alpha Delta Pi third with 575 for the intramurals thus far.

The final table tennis scores for the 35 organizations competing are: Alpha Delta Pi, 425; Delta Phi Epsilon, Chi Omega, 390; Alpha Delta Delta, 200; Alpha Chi Omega, 150; Kappa Delta, 150; Pi Beta Phi, 140; Independent Sorority, 50; Zeta Tau Alpha, 50; Newman club, 50; Kappa Phi Alpha, 50; Episcopal, 50; Methodist, 50; Reynolds, 50; Methodist, 50; Sanctuar, 30; Baptist, 30; Day Students, 30.

Tennis scores are: Chi Omega, 475; Jennie Murphree, 430; Beryle, 375; Delta Phi Epsilon, 350; Alpha Delta Pi, 160; Kappa Delta, 150; Pi Beta Phi, 140; Alpha, 100; Spirogira, 100; Newman club, 100; Episcopal, 100; Alpha Gamma Delta, 100; Kappa Alpha Theta, 100; Independents 100; Broward, 100; Baptists, 80; Day Students, 30.

Scores for the basketball games are: Jennie Murphree, 220; Delta Phi Epsilon, 160; Kappa Delta, 150; Chi Omega, 175; Gilchrist, 130; Delta Phi Epsilon, 130; Alpha Delta Pi, 100; Pi Beta Phi, 100; Methodists, 100; day students, 80; Alpha Chi Omega, 80; Reynolds, 50; Kappa Delta, 50; Newman club, 50; Landis, 50; Zeta Tau Alpha, 50.

Total scores are: Jennie Murphree 850, Chi Omega, 850; Delta Phi Epsilon, 675; Alpha Delta Pi, 575; Reynolds, 475; Delta Delta Delta, 375; Pi Beta Phi, 400; Kappa Delta, 350; Alpha Gamma Delta, 300; Baptist, 300; Methodist, 250; Alpha Chi Omega, 230; Gilchrist, 230; Newman club, 200; Zeta Tau Alpha, 150; Broward, 150; Day students, 150; Spirogira, 150; Kappa Alpha Theta, 100; Baptists 100; Episcopals, 50; and Landis 30.

Defeated Candidates' Club Adds Unique Organization to Campus

Continued from page one

Mor sophomore. Appropriately Sophomore songs were sung, and "The Band (?)" that followed the chairman impressively announced the motto of the club: "All for the office and an office for all."

Next Meeting Planned

Once-Coiss were then summoned by all members not too awed by the honor bestowed upon them. Plans for the January thirteenth meeting it was announced, are to be approval of songs to be submitted by members whose names were not at that time available for the speeches of all who desire to make them on the subject. How much better an officer I would have made, or what plans are now underway for a D.C.C. banquet in the near future. However, there is no intention on the part of the club to interfere with present upper-classmen chapters.

Officers of the club are as follows: President, Virginia Cohen; Secretary, Margaret Mercer; Betsy McMichael; Mary Lucille Palmer and Alice Price.

Vice-president; Frances Brooks, Doris Ann Doyle, Annabelle Sexton, Virginia Munroe, Madge Cornish, Avis Thomas and Pat Walker.

Secretary; Ann Arnold, Marian Boardman, Jean Blampied, Frances Hatfield, Betty Lanyon, Rita McFadden, Mattie Lou Pressley, Winifred Price and Dot Rollings.

Treasurer; Mary Arms, Virginia Cobb, Margery Inaram, Patsy McGraw, Katherine Saunders and Jeanne Du Puy.

Officers Continued

Parliamentarian; Martha Griffin, Laura Foote, Louise De Jarnette, Winifred Loucks, Alice Lodum, Martha Ann Madden, Betty McDermon and Aimers Bailey.

Athletic manager; Margaret Carter, Jumnie Pain and Sue Erwin.

Senate Representatives; Peggy Barker, Ethel Cronneman, Helen Hawkins, Martha Heckl, Kitty Jo Heckman, Nan Inaram, Paula Jones, Bette Lang, Carol Marshall, Alecia Pridgen, Marjorie Stillwagon, Barbara Sexton, Thirman Brunt, Jane Watts and Frances Wald.

Go to Sleep My Baby

This is a conversation between two friends, both of whom were tired. One was more tired than the other, however, and was bleary-eyed. S/he was the first to speak.

Beth: Hello. Beth, old pal. Studying hard these days?

Beth: Yo bet I am. But it seems as if I can never get everything done; I fall asleep in every and I have to quit before I finish my work. Do you get that way?

Gwen: I would if I didn't take those little pills I've been taking. Beth: What pills?

Gwen: Little tablets that are supposed to keep you awake.

Beth: Oh those!

Gwen: You know what they are?

Beth: Of course.

Gwen: You don't take them do you?

Beth: I certainly do not! I know how dear I am to me and how I wouldn't endanger my health at this time.

Gwen: They won't hurt you.

Beth: They won't? Why do you know that those pills contain concentrated caffeine? Citrated caffeine—the same as in a package. It's ten times worse than coffee—which is bad enough for anybody.

Gwen: I haven't felt the worse for it.

Beth: You will. It has a slow but efficient time your nerves will be shot.

Gwen. Shot?

Beth. Yes. Don't you know that caffeine is one of the strongest nerve stimulants and up the heart to the exhaustion point? Of course the pills keep you awake—which is good enough for anybody.

Gwen: I haven't felt the worse for it yet.

Beth: You will. It has a slow but efficient time your nerves will be shot.

Gwen. Shot?

Beth. Yes. Don't you know that caffeine is one of the strongest nerve stimulants and up the heart to the exhaustion point? Of course the pills keep you awake—which is good enough for anybody.

Gwen: I haven't felt the worse for it yet.

Beth: You will. It has a slow but efficient time your nerves will be shot.

Gwen. Shot?

Beth. Yes. Don't you know that caffeine is one of the strongest nerve stimulants and up the heart to the exhaustion point? Of course the pills keep you awake—which is good enough for anybody.

Gwen: I haven't felt the worse for it yet.

Beth: You will. It has a slow but efficient time your nerves will be shot.

Gwen. Shot?

Beth. Yes. Don't you know that caffeine is one of the strongest nerve stimulants and up the heart to the exhaustion point? Of course the pills keep you awake—which is good enough for anybody.

Gwen: I haven't felt the worse for it yet.

Beth: You will. It has a slow but efficient time your nerves will be shot.

Gwen. Shot?

Beth. Yes. Don't you know that caffeine is one of the strongest nerve stimulants and up the heart to the exhaustion point? Of course the pills keep you awake—which is good enough for anybody.

Gwen: I haven't felt the worse for it yet.

Beth: You will. It has a slow but efficient time your nerves will be shot.

Gwen. Shot?

Beth. Yes. Don't you know that caffeine is one of the strongest nerve stimulants and up the heart to the exhaustion point? Of course the pills keep you awake—which is good enough for anybody.

Gwen: I haven't felt the worse for it yet.

Beth: You will. It has a slow but efficient time your nerves will be shot.

Gwen. Shot?

Beth. Yes. Don't you know that caffeine is one of the strongest nerve stimulants and up the heart to the exhaustion point? Of course the pills keep you awake—which is good enough for anybody.

Gwen: How did you learn all this, Beth?

Beth: Well I'm studying to be a nurse. But you can't learn common sense knows that the application of artificial stimulation will weaken the nervous system and finally destroy it eventually. You can't defy the laws of nature and get by with it. Of course, the nervous system can stand up under a lot of stress without sequalite, but once it loses its former efficiency it takes a long time to redeem it.

Gwen. But this is for such a short time—just for exams.

Beth: Just the same, you run the risk of endangering your health. And besides, do you get anything accomplished when you stay up all night like that?

Gwen. You're supposed to.

Beth: But do you?

Gwen. Well—

Beth: My best bet is that you do not. You know, there is only a certain amount a normal person can do. When she passes the stage of her normal efficiency limit, she is inclined to get less and less done the more she works. Undoubtedly you get through the mechanics of studying, but you certainly accomplish little. Meanwhile, your health suffers. You become morbid and nervous—and excited, thus causing you to worry so much that you give a relatively poor showing on your exams. By the way, what do you know about these tablets?

Gwen: Nothing—except that it is supposed to keep you awake.

Beth: Bee? You don't know anything about the product. And yet you entrust your health precious to it simply because you think it does something for you that you merely heard about. I thought you had better judgement than that, Gwen.

Gwen: Well in to see your point now Beth. What would you advise me to do during these exams?

Beth: My motto is: Sleep early to bed and early to rise makes a girl healthy, wealthy and wise.

Hanover, Bristol Will Go to Meeting

Continued from Page One

endorse the creation of a coordinating council in Tallahassee and indicated its desire to have its representative attend the council meetings.

Roman senators were appointed for life unless expelled from office for some disturbance cause.

Three Tarponites Attend Water Meet

Representing F.S.C.W. at the Fort Lauderdale International Aquatic Forum from December 18 to January 2, were Demora Reker, freshman, Ernestine Anderson, Virginia Makemson, seniors. Although the girls did not take part in any of the swimming events, they were the Tarpon Club swimming suits.

This forum was sponsored by the College Coaches' Association of America and features practice periods for members of the swimming, diving and water polo teams, non colleges, and speeches by coaches from these schools.

The meetings were held in an effort to coordinate the work of all swimming organizations and their leaders and resulted in the formation of the Pan American Sports and Physical Education Association. The purpose of this association is to increase the sports competition and the exchange of information among the countries of Pan America.

This fifth annual forum broke all previous attendance records with a total representation of 175 institutions. These included 150 swimmers who called out for package. It's ten times worse than coffee—which is bad enough for anybody.

Gwen: I haven't felt the worse for it yet.

Beth: You will. It has a slow but efficient time your nerves will be shot.

Gwen. Shot?

Beth. Yes. Don't you know that caffeine is one of the strongest nerve stimulants and up the heart to the exhaustion point? Of course the pills keep you awake—which is good enough for anybody.

Gwen: I haven't felt the worse for it yet.

Beth: You will. It has a slow but efficient time your nerves will be shot.

Gwen. Shot?

Beth. Yes. Don't you know that caffeine is one of the strongest nerve stimulants and up the heart to the exhaustion point? Of course the pills keep you awake—which is good enough for anybody.

Gwen: I haven't felt the worse for it yet.

Beth: You will. It has a slow but efficient time your nerves will be shot.

Gwen. Shot?

Beth. Yes. Don't you know that caffeine is one of the strongest nerve stimulants and up the heart to the exhaustion point? Of course the pills keep you awake—which is good enough for anybody.

Gwen: How did you learn all this, Beth?

Beth: Well I'm studying to be a nurse. But you can't learn common sense knows that the application of artificial stimulation will weaken the nervous system and finally destroy it eventually. You can't defy the laws of nature and get by with it. Of course, the nervous system can stand up under a lot of stress without sequalite, but once it loses its former efficiency it takes a long time to redeem it.

Gwen. But this is for such a short time—just for exams.

Beth: Just the same, you run the risk of endangering your health. And besides, do you get anything accomplished when you stay up all night like that?

Gwen. You're supposed to.

Beth: But do you?

Gwen. Well—

Beth: My best bet is that you do not. You know, there is only a certain amount a normal person can do. When she passes the stage of her normal efficiency limit, she is inclined to get less and less done the more she works. Undoubtedly you get through the mechanics of studying, but you certainly accomplish little. Meanwhile, your health suffers. You become morbid and nervous—and excited, thus causing you to worry so much that you give a relatively poor showing on your exams. By the way, what do you know about these tablets?

Gwen: Nothing—except that it is supposed to keep you awake.

Beth: Bee? You don't know anything about the product. And yet you entrust your health precious to it simply because you think it does something for you that you merely heard about. I thought you had better judgement than that, Gwen.

Gwen: Well in to see your point now Beth. What would you advise me to do during these exams?

Beth: My motto is: Sleep early to bed and early to rise makes a girl healthy, wealthy and wise.

Examination Schedule First Semester 1939-1940

No changes are authorized in this schedule unless arranged to advantage in the Registrar's office.

Students MAY NOT change sections or hours. Do not embarrass the teacher by asking to do so.

S. R. DOYLE, Registrar.

Series	Examination
M. W. F. 2:30	8:30-10:30 Fri., Jan. 18.
Hygiene 101—All sections, in Auditorium	10:30-11:30 Fri., Jan. 18.
Pol. Science 201—All sections	10:30-12:30 Fri., Jan. 18.
Five-hour Integrated Courses	2:00- 2:00 Fri., Jan. 18.
M. W. F. 3:30	8:30-10:30 Sat., Jan. 20.
Social Studies 103—All sections	10:30-12:00 Sat., Jan. 20.
Ph. Educ. 129a—All sections (in auditorium)	2:30- 2:00 Sat., Jan. 20.
Ph. Educ. 304—All sections (in Gymnasium)	2:00- 2:00 Sat., Jan. 20.
Ph. Educ. 30a—All sections (in Little Theater)	2:00- 2:00 Sat., Jan. 20.
M. W. F. 1:30	8:30-10:30 Mon., Jan. 22.
T. Th. 2:30	10:30-12:30 Mon., Jan. 23.
M. W. F. 11:30	2:00- 4:00 Mon., Jan. 22.
T. Th. S. 11:30	8:30-10:30 Tues., Jan. 23.
T. Th. 2:30	10:30-12:30 Thurs., Jan. 23.
English 101—All sections	2:00- 4:00 Tues., Jan. 23.
Economics 201—All sections	2:00- 4:00 Tues., Jan. 23.
M. W. F. 10:30	8:30-10:30 Wed., Jan. 24.
Ind. Arts 101—All sections	10:30-12:30 Wed., Jan. 24.
T. Th. S. 10:30	2:00- 4:00 Wed., Jan. 24.
M. W. F. 9:30	2:30-10:30 Thurs., Jan. 25.
Confilcts	10:30-12:30 Thurs., Jan. 25.
T. Th. S. 9:30	2:00- 4:00 Thurs., Jan. 26.
M. W. F. 8:30	2:30-10:30 Fri., Jan. 22.
One-hour courses and conflicts	10:30-12:30 Fri., Jan. 26.
T. Th. S. 8:30	2:00- 4:00 Fri., Jan. 22.
Conflicts	2:30-12:30 Sat., Jan. 27.

Life Saving Corps Will Initiate 25

About 25 new members of the Life Saving corps will be initiated during the swimming meet the week end of February 3. This is the first time in the organization's history on campus that an initiation ceremony has been held. Old members will be in charge and will direct and execute the initiation week-end at Camp Flastacowo.

If there are any inactive members who would like to pass their life saving test during this initiation group, they are asked to see Hazel Warren.

Among its plans for the future, the Life Saving corps is going to add a life saving instructors' class at camp on Saturday afternoons, beginning early in the new semester.

Another project is the sponsorship of first aid classes to be held each week in Estuary. Mary Collins Owen is chairman of Safety Week activities.

College Applies For Buildings

Continued from Page One

been establishing a system of roads and streets to serve the new buildings completed in the past year as the result of an authorization of the legislature in 1937. A main road is now being built from between Gilchrist and Gilchrist to Call street. Three other roads will branch off to the other buildings. One branch will get between the new dining hall and Gilchrist to serve the dining hall and kitchen. Another branch will run east to serve the library and Jennie Murphree elevator entrance. The third branch will serve the work shops, the elevator entrance for Reynolds, and the heating and incinerator entrance.

On the completion of the roads the entire campus that has been effected by the new constructions will be graded, landscaped, and a system of permanent sidewalks will be set up.

Included in some of the future plans for increasing Florida State college is that of moving the front of the present auditorium up to occupy the present tradcopeia. This would still leave space for an auditorium of 1,000 student capacity. The old main to that case would be remodeled and an extension added. This remodelization would be turned into a music department and classrooms.

The construction of a home economics building and a natural science building are also on the list of future buildings considered needed here within the next few years. They will probably be located in the general area north of Jennie Murphree and the student-Alumna building.

Robbins Awards Trophies For Intramural Games

Trophies for tennis, ping pong, and basketball intra-murals were awarded in convocation Tuesday by the Martha Robbins intramurals manager.

The Chi Omega sorority team won the tennis trophy; the ping pong trophy went to the Alpha Delta Pi team, and the Chi Omegas were awarded the one for basketball.

These Intramural trophies may be kept by the organizations until next year.

WANTED: A beautiful young FSCW lady to attend Military Ball with a handsome U. of F. man. Please send photographs with all applications. Address: Mr. Y. U. of F. Box 2734, University Station, Gainesville, Fla.

Thompson Speaks On Sanitation

Ford Thompson of the Tallahassee city service department spoke in the college auditorium last Tuesday night on the various service necessary to make a city sanitary and healthful. Mr. Thompson's talk was addressed especially to health and hygiene students.

Speaking of the various ways in which a city safeguards the health of its citizens he told how the milk and ice is inspected and the water filtered. Tallahassee's water supply is so pure that it is not necessary to add chlorine.

Mr. Thompson told how the garbage collection system and the sewage disposal plant work. For the service of Sewage disposal, Tallahasseans are charged by the number of rooms in the house.

Tallahassee, formerly very badly infested with the malaria-carrying anopheles mosquitoes, is today relatively free due to the intensive campaign carried on in destroying breeding places Back yards have been inspected for upturned tin cans; citizens have been persuaded to get rid of goldfish pools and bird baths which might furnish other convenient breeding places.

Mr. Thompson spoke of the typhoid prevention work in this vicinity. Recently, there have been typhoid scares due to cases of typhus fever mistakenly diagnosis at the convention.

Helms, Mobley, and Wood Chosen as Sports Leaders

At a recent meeting of the Woman's Athletic association, sports leaders for next year were chosen. Volleyball, Mela Helms will represent the Evens and Brunelle Mobley, the Odds. Jean Wood was chosen for the Even basketball, while the position of the leader for the Odds is yet open.

Plans were also made to send delegates some time in the late spring to both the Sports day at Stetson and the National Physical Education convention in Birmingham, Ala.

Tarpon Club Film Now Playing Here

The announcement that the Grantland Rice sportlight, in which the Tarpon Club appears will be shown here, has been made by A. P. Talley, theater manager.

The film, which is a 10-minute short subject titled "Swimming Stuntman" and voiced by Ted Husing, is booked Friday and Saturday at the State theater and Sunday and Monday at the Ritz, where the feature picture on those dates is "Suwannee River," a technicolor version of the life of Stephen Foster.

Members of the club will be guests of the theater for the occasion.

The short subject, which was filmed during the Easter holidays last year and during freshman week this year at Wakulla Springs, is hailed as one of the most beautiful swimming pictures ever made.

Recreation Leader Will Visit Campus

Miss Ethel Rowers Soloman and Ben Soloman, author of "Hikers' Guide," of the National Recreation Association will visit the campus January 30 and 31.

Saturday afternoon and evening they will be guests of the physical education majors and members of the Camp Flastacowo staff at Camp Flastacowo, where they will give demonstrations of boat cutting and fire building. Miss Rowers will participate in the program in camp. In the evening she permits members of the faculty of the physical education department will spend the night at camp.

Opperman Attends Music Conventions in Missouri

Ella S Opperman, dean of the school of music, attended the two music conventions in Kansas City, Missouri, during the Christmas holidays. The first convention which she attended was that of the accreditation group of the National Association of Schools of Music, of which Florida State College for Women is a professional member. The other convention was that of the National Music Teachers' Association, held almost concurrently with the former.

During her stay in Kansas City, Dean Opperman entertained the see the Grantland Rice feature of the Tarpon club of Florida, State College for Women, as did other delegates at the convention.

College Humor Features Fall Frolics, FSC

February Issue Shows U of F Traditions In Pictured Pages

Tallahassee students were surprised to find several of their number pictured in College Humor for February when that magazine covered the University of Florida's annual Fall Frolics.

Four pages of pictures accompanied by amusing or serious captions and a short description of the program carried out during the week-end comprised the candid feature of the Florida school.

The first page is devoted to two pictures which show the traditional pre-football bonfire and a model T Ford in which two formally dressed couples are seated. The caption reads:

Other pictures include a scene of the football game, the Pirate club initiation kissing their dates at the dance—another tradition—a tossing initiation and Dana Hudson's orchestra, which was "the accepted order of the evening" according to College Humor, a Tallahassee girl and escort. The caption reads: "Ice cap." Margaret Harmony drinking Coca-Cola on the commencement steps, and Emma Jean Hizler saying goodbye to her date as she boards the bus headed for Tallahassee.

Winter Distaff Features Prize Winning Story

Continued from Page One

larities of men and Mabel Benefield, a short story on the art of cooking. Two poems by Carolyn Sherrod will also appear.

Mary Celeste Hardee is in charge of the book review section. Marion Armistead will write an editorial, and People on These Pages is written by Marguerite Bishop. The final contribution to the magazine is a picture drawn by Louise Pierce, showing the construction of Landis Hall.

On the staff of the Distaff are Florence Graves, editor; Mary Celeste Hardee, managing editor; Phoebe James, art editor, and Sara Swanson, copy editor. Assistants are Vivian Ahlswelt, Marjorie Armistead, Martha Hepworth, Mary Lou McGowan, Ina Mae Smith and Elizabeth Ann Wallner. The business staff is composed of Frances Milton, business manager, and her assistants, Ann Gamble and Marion Winn.

Volleyball Games Begin This Week

Presbyterians Play Newman Club Today

Intramural volleyball got underway this week with games scheduled every day. The Newman club and the Presbyterian students are scheduled to play this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock closing the games until after examinations.

The first game scheduled for next semester will be played January 30 between Chi Omega and the day students. Chi Omega won by default over Gilchrist this week, while the day students defeated Pi Beta Phi with a score of 41-13.

The second game will be played on the Methodists and Alpha Chi Omega, January 30. The Methodist students downed the Methodists 46-7 in a recent game. On January 21 Delta Delta Delta will play Alpha Delta Pi.

The semi finals are scheduled for February 7 and 8 and finals for February 9.

Following these games basketball will begin. Girls have already begun practice for this sport. The Odd practice days are Monday, Wednesday and Friday and the Even ones are Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday.

Nominations Start For Honor Award

Nominations for the 1940 "award of honor" to be conferred on one or more graduates of this college who have brought notable distinction to their alma mater will now be received by Miss Mary J. W. McCollum, of Gainesville, chairman of the award of honor committee.

The award, which is a bronze medallion bearing a sketch of the Westcott building towers on one side and the coat-of-arms of the other side, will be made at the May commencement.

Other members of the committee besides Mrs. McCollum are Mrs. W. E. Carter, Tallahassee; Mrs. Virginia Holland Gallemore, Barlow; Mrs. I. W. Simpson, Orlando; Mrs. Frank Upchurch, Arcadia; Mrs. Harold McNabb, Alachua, and Mrs. Frank D. Moor, Tallahassee.

Those eligible for the award are graduates of Florida State who have distinguished themselves in any of the fields of science, liberal arts, professional accomplishment, civic or social service, or service to the college.

Some species of cactus bear green flowers.

2 GREAT SIZES PRESENTED BY CAMEL CIGARETTES

"BLONDIE"
Straight from the "funnies" and fast screen "Blondie" and Dagwood with laughs, tears, and thrills. A grand half-hour program featuring the Columbia Pictures' stars, Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake. Don't miss it. Every Monday night on CBS network — 7:30 pm E.S.T.; 9:30 pm C.S.T.; 8:30 pm M.S.T.; 7:30 pm P.S.T.
MONDAY NIGHT

BOB CROSBY AND MILDRED BAILEY
A half-hour with "the best Dixieland Band in the land" — featuring Bob Crosby, songstress Mildred Bailey, and the "sending" Crosby "Bobcats." Every Saturday night—NBC, Red — 10:00 pm E.S.T.; 9:00 pm C.S.T.; 8:00 pm M.S.T.; 7:00 pm P.S.T.
SATURDAY NIGHT

CAMELS SLOWER BURNING GIVES YOU
EXTRA MILDNESS
EXTRA COOLNESS
EXTRA FLAVOR
CAMELS — the cigarette of Costlier Tobaccos

Copyright, 1940, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

There's a Long, Long Trail

Two Birds With One Stone

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Rohde will come to this campus Tuesday for the first time since an honorary degree was conferred on her here in 1935. She will lecture on "This Democracy of Ours."

The Alumnae Association is sponsoring Mrs. Rohde's appearance here, with the proceeds to go to furnishing the student-alumnae building which is expected to be completed in March. So far no furnishings have been secured for the building.

The Alumnae Association is to be commended for giving us the opportunity to hear Mrs. Rohde, and we should show our appreciation of their efforts by turning out en masse. They need our cooperation in the way of attendance, and are doubtless expecting it. The price is not so high as to be beyond most people's means, and even though "Dead Week" will be in effect, we should be able to spare the time for so worthwhile a speaker.

Besides the interest that Mrs. Rohde's lecture should hold, there is the mercenary side too. Our cooperation will make early use of the student-alumnae building possible, and that is what we want and what the alumnae want.

Through the efforts of the Alumnae association Cornelia Otis Skinner was brought to the campus earlier in the year. If this lyceum series should prove successful, perhaps we will evolve a series of artists and lecturers to supplement our present program along these lines.

Plan now to hear America's first woman diplomat

Trip The Light Fantastic

Senate at their last meeting passed a piece of legislation for which there has been agitation for several years. Beginning next fall dancing will be allowed in sorority houses on Friday evening and Saturday morning as well as Saturday afternoon and evening. Undoubtedly this change will be received with great rejoicing since it has been a topic for conversation in Panhellenic meetings and sorority houses for so long.

The problem of what to do with out-of-town dates besides go to the movies or play-night on Friday nights, and wander around campus or just sit in dorms or sorority houses on Saturday mornings will be solved to a great extent—especially on big weekends. Perhaps this will be a step in the direction of an approved place where girls and their dates can dance and get sodas and soft drinks any day of the week. That plan was suggested a year or two ago, but until now no legislation was passed changing the dancing rules. Of course, radical changes cannot be made overnight, and any laws toward liberalizing the present set-up should be welcomed. When we prove that we will not abuse our added privilege, senate will probably advance a little nearer our goal. Since more and more men are being attracted to our campus this year to attend the monthly dances, they are apt to wonder if it is worth while to come up here before some time Saturday afternoon because the entertainment facilities are so very limited. Therefore, dancing on Friday evening and Saturday morning will go a long way toward enlivening periods which might otherwise prove somewhat dull.

"The college of tomorrow must insist on the spiritual connotations of education. Educators dare not think of education as making an appeal to the intellect only, nor dare they think of the intellect as something separate and distinct from the functional needs of mankind. The emotional, the volitional, the aesthetic and religious aspects of human nature must be cultivated quite as much as the intellect." Dr. H. J. Burgstahler, Ohio Wesleyan University president, puts up a guidepost on education's road of progress.

"It is not at all essential that a college teacher should have reached the degree of doctor of philosophy in his university course of study. What is essential is that he should have a sound and scholarly comprehension of the subject matter of that which he is to teach, as well as skill and tact in its interpretation to younger and less developed minds. The high degree of specialization in study to which the doctor of philosophy has become accustomed is precisely that which is to be avoided in college teaching." Nicholas Murray Butler, famed president of Columbia University, asks that professors be teachers as well as scholars.

"The institution where women study must make careful provision for the stimulation of interest of permanent rather than passing value. It must excite in young women an interest in books, so that their lives will be refreshed by good reading; it must encourage them to cultivate a hobby to which they can turn when perhaps their children are grown. It must also give them an intelligent appreciation of art and music, not as 'female accomplishments,' but as vigorous interests for a lifetime." Wilson College's President Paul S. Havens lucidly outlines the aims of the women's college.—A. C. P.

Your Government..... Collegiate Comebacks

By MAXINE ARMISTEAD

With everyone dashing around studying for the exams coming up next week and trying feverishly to complete all her back work it seems to be an appropriate time to discuss the cut system and "dead week."

* * * * *

Cuts Determined by Grades . . . .

First, the cut system seems an especially timely discussion because the result of our semester grades will determine our cuts for the next two quarters. All of us who have a "C" average may have cuts equal to two-thirds the number of the class hours we have for each quarter; those who make a "B" average may have one cut for each hour a class meets a week; while Juniors and seniors who have a 2.0 average for their preceding years and freshmen who have a 3.0 average may take unlimited cuts.

* * * * *

Effect of Quarter Grades . . . .

Those cuts will be effective throughout the semester unless some unsatisfactories are made at quarters. Then "B" students who make one or two hours of unsatisfactory will be considered "C" students, while those making from three to five hours of unsatisfactories will be considered "C minus" students, and may take one cut in each course they carry. The girls who have unlimited cuts and make unsatisfactories will lose the privilege.

* * * * *

Academic Probation . . . .

When a student makes six or more hours of unsatisfactory she is put on academic probation and can take no cuts at all. No matter what our grades are, cutting before or after the Armistice, Thanksgiving, Christmas, or Easter holidays puts a girl on administrative probation for the remainder of the quarter in which the holiday falls and the entire quarter following. Being on "prob" means a loss of all our cuts during the period, no week-ends, except between quarters, less of two week-ends from the total number allowed for the year, a penalty by a faculty committee of which the Dean of Students is the chairman. All regulations regarding cuts are made by this committee, and appeals for over-cuttings must be made to them. The office of the Dean of Students works with the registrar's office in regard to the system.

It is up to each of us to be responsible for the cuts we take, as no notice is sent when all our cuts have been taken. For each overcut in a class we lose one-sixth of the credit value for that course. It is really very simple to execute. All enforcement of the rules for cutting is done by the registrar's office.

* * * * *

Discussion of Cutting . . . .

At times when classes become tedious and irksome, or we want to hop off for a big week-end, it seems unreasonable that we can't just cut, but when we go deeper in the matter and do a little serious thinking we can see the reasons for the cut system.

First of all, the paramount reason for the majority of us in coming to college is to get an education, which we forget sometimes. And, trite as it may be, and as often as it has been said, the phrase "the more you put into something, the more you get out" is still as true as the first time it was said. Our families are paying to send us to school, and cutting not only wastes their money, but it wastes our time. Cuts have to be made up; if we don't have to do extra work, we miss something which we can make up on an exam.

Knowledge and good grades aren't earned by the students who frequently cut classes. In a survey made by the registrar's office it was shown that the "B" students and the girls who have unlimited cuts take far less than the girls with lower grades. Many of the girls with unlimited cuts take less than unlimited, and with lower grades, for they know that they will lose their good grades by too much cutting.

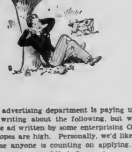
The cut committee works for our good, trying to make a system which will be good to our advantage. In the past few years they have given us more and more opportunities for intelligent cutting. For example, it wasn't until three years ago that juniors and seniors were given the privilege of unlimited cuts if they hade a "B" average. The committee has not become static; problems of the students are considered in the light of the present day standards—everything should make them to the committee, instead of privately groaning. Several members of the committee assured me that suggestions are more than welcome.

"Dead Week" . . . .

Until this year the week before exams has gone on as usual, with meetings of committees and organizations, convocation, and the publication of the Flambeau. Girls tried to get their studying done along with attending meetings. Now, all meetings and extra-curricular activities are to stop for next week. There is to be no enforcement of the suggestion, as it merely comes as a recommendation, but if all organizations on the campus will cooperate, next week may have better results than it might otherwise have.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace . . .

Our freshman conduct certainly does not measure up to the standards of P. S. C. W.! Evidently, we have not learned the rudiments of courtesy due a speaker. I am referring to the inexcusable behavior of the freshmen at the hygiene lecture last Tuesday night.



It is true that much of the speech was inaudible to a great majority of the girls, but does that allow for the disgraceful and disgusting coughing, snickering, whispering, and laughter which drifted continually throughout the auditorium.

That lecture was given by the head of the city department of sanitation for our benefit and the downright rudeness with which we treated him was a disgrace that has escaped his attention. The constant slamming of doors was ever reminding of the girls that unsurreptiously left the hall. This brutal rudeness must have been like a slap in the face to the lecturer.

There were a few girls in the assembly who, struggling valiantly against the cold, poor acoustics, and dullness of subject managed to behave like ladies.

I know and you know that we can do better than we did. I wonder if the speaker knows that. We don't want to be responsible for P. S. C. W.'s acquiring a bad name. So come on girls, let's have no more of this!

—Kitty Jo Hickman.

Not that the advertising department is paying us so much as a dope for writing about the following, but we do hope you'll notice the ad written by some enterprising G'ville man No doubt his hopes are high. Personally, we'd like to see his picture. In case anyone is counting on applying, we saw a simply scrumptious picture of Hedy Lamar in a recent edition of Life.

* * * * *

In spite of all the lovely resolutions we made about our temper this year we still waste hours thinking of slow and ghastly tortures for people who insist on inhaling a deep breath and emmitting a joyous and prolonged "A-a-a-a-a-ah whenever they come in contact with the balmy breezes these days. They usually go on to say, "It-h-h-li-mmmmmm. This weather makes me want to do things!" Of course the obvious answer is, "Me too—like pouring paris green in your soup." So far we've refrained.

* * * * *

Headline in the Texas Tech Toreador: "Grad proves that 'Music Soothes a Savage Breast..." May we suggest sending a recording of Ave Maria to the family just before grades come out?

* * * * *

We can't help wondering if Roosevelt realized what he was starting when he made himself so free with the date for Thanksgiving. Oh well, if the country doesn't mind his playing with its national holidays, I guess we can't gripe too much about someone's juggling the exam schedule so that our hardest test comes the first Friday.

* * * * *

Rehatched from last year, but timely is
The grass grows greener in the other fellow's yard.
Others' tests are easy; mine are always hard.
Others' profs are lenient, but mine are on their guard.
And the grass is still much greener in the other fellow's yard.

* * * *

Note to professors: In case you happened to be around a radio or book organ that was playing the modern masterpiece, "The Little Boy That Santa Claus Forgot" you may be interested to know that it was written by a New York university professor. May a word to the wise . . . .

* * * *

As a classical example of rationalisation we cite the student who wakens, turns over, sighs back, and says, "Oh heck, beds were made before eight-thirties."

* * * * *

Not that we mean to criticize the faculty too much, but we can't resist the temptation to quote again from the Industrial Collegian

"One student being driven five ways at once the other day wished out loud that some of the profs would come out of their holes sometimes, take a look at all the other class schedules on the campus, and make it a point to find out what the heck they're used for."

* * * * *

From the Stetson Reporter:

I would not sit on the groaners' seat
Nor hurl the cynics' jeers,
Let me sit instead in the back of the room
And get what sleep I can.

* * * * *

Of no particular significance, but interesting is the poll recently taken at Northeast Junior college of Louisiana state university revealing that the girls at the school outweigh the boys by an average of ten pounds.

Ah, yes! Christmas holidays.

On? I know you had a wonderful time—the very best ever in fact!

But here you are in the middle of being scholarly again when you haven't even bulled with Everybody yet on what did-you-do and about oh-wasn't-it-wunnerful. That's the way it is. You didn't do a bit of work over the holidays, and the book you knew you haven't started reading is due. After all, exams are Not So Far Off as to make it Comfortable and one still enjoys a certain amount of awkward state. Pathetic—that's what it is. Pathetic. Of course you haven't time but there are those Post-Christmas letters that you've just got to write. Which may possibly sort of seep yourself into this little epistle and Take Care of a Minor problem—

January 11, 193—er 1940

Pally my dear—

As you can tell by that blundering date up above, here I am entering the new year with the very worst Christmas I've ever had abruptly over. 'Cause at this 11th day and hour I've physically been back on the Tally campus for over a week, bulking and really trying to study and whatnot.

(Did you hear what the drowning jitterbug said as he went under for the third time? . . . Hep! Hep!

I heard that one on the Country Club dance floor Christmas night. Poor little thing—it's been my inevitable contribution to the bull session for a week now. Honestly everybody brought back as many new jokes as they did Yuletide mittens. And those are just like having rabbits on the premises.

Everyone who didn't bring back white angoras has something else nice and Christmassy, like glittering gold necklaces or classy new saddle shoes or gold pins or handsome hooded coats or diamond rings of one meaning or another. It's amazing what people have accumulated in two weeks.

But what I want to do is to rave to you about Xmas at home. At last I'm a cute girl again. Of course it took me simply hours to get down there and a rather sleepy and depleted family took me to the station at 2 o'clock. So the next morning I had a "late" breakfast, and then got up and unscrambled my clothes and went to town.

Well you know I hadn't been home since September and I just knew she'd not a soul would ask me for dates. (John didn't come home 'till the Friday before Christmas-day-after). Anyway that first day I bumped into Janet and she asked me to have a bifid date with her cousin. I'm sure you know that after three months' isolation at Tally, I didn't refuse. So four of us looked around that night and wound up at the Sunrise where everybody was; and both

Continued on Page Six

Magazine Jottings....

"Europe from the Side Lines"

By Marion H. Hay

Journal of Florida Education Association

Appearing in The Journal of the Florida Education Association for December is an article pertinent to present world conditions by a member of Florida State College faculty who has unusual contacts—Germany, Italy, England, Spain, and France. Dr. Marion Hay, associate professor of education, recounts her personal observations and experiences in these countries during the tense and pregnant months preceding the out-break of the war in "Europe from the Side Lines."

"Politically we must be friends with Germany even though we hate her—while she is strong. What we really want is the friendship of America, England, and France," declared young Italians in Venice, Rome, and Florence; while in Munich, gaily decorated for the impending visit of the Fuerher, a German youth dismissed Italy with the statement, "Italians are useful but they are not brave and we do not trust them." The same member of the Hitler youth confessed to say that, while Germany would take Danzig, they would be no war because England was afraid to fight, that America and Germany should be friends because of their mutual youthful vigor and because Germany could, by holding the Panama Canal to bits, bottle up our Pacific fleet. Other Germans, though, were filled with disapproval of the government distrust of its policies and fears for the future of Germany.

"We must concentrate less on making cheese, more on our frontiers" seemed to be the concensus of opinion of the Dutch.

The typical British attitude was one of hate and fear of war. Hitler, not the German people was resented as responsible for the situation. Dr. Hay was a spectator at the Irish bombing of Kinn's Cross Station on July 28, two baggage being among the 25 per cent escaping damage. The same evening while she was attending the theater the seemingly charmed baggage came unharmed through the bombing of the Victoria Station where she had re-checked it.

After much difficulty, Dr. Hay managed to get into wartorn Spain where she found the trains filthy, and the meals on them thoroughly unappetizing. Her description of the University city with its trenches, wrecked bridges, and ruinlike skeletons, its mass of undernourished people, bring home to us still again the horrors of war. Stories of private life, of financial devastation, of despair are the result of the "glorious movement." It was noticeable that Germans were generally in the near neighborhood of each restaurant in the places of business which fact was arousing the resentment of the Spaniards.

In France there was a grim certainty of war. Trial blackouts were already taking place. During her stay in France Dr. Hay took an examination for ambulance drivins and did volunteer work for the American embassy. The universal cafes were the main centers of life at night, forming islands of light and antimation in the gloomy streets."

The ship in which she returned to America was filled to capacity. With its shrouded windows and guns it was steered to a northern course. Although no messages could be sent news of the declaration of war was picked up by wireless. Passengers were continually "seeing" submarines, and 50 people were signalled out by nervous travelers as musicians or characters.

"Finally came the coast of Long Island, the New York skyline. Liberty with torch upraised, and the gangplank leading us from a floating France to a very welcome substantial America." Dr. Hay's article is full of people talking about Billy Rose's Aquacade and the next world series that about the fate of Poland. America, remote, secure, but by how long?"

—Anne Gaylord.

Future of Eleanor Roosevelt

By Dorothy Bromley

Harper's, January, 1940

Although many have opposed having a First Lady who would be other than a gracious hostess at the White House, Eleanor Roosevelt has made herself the best ambassador-at-large to the country that any president has ever had. So states Dorothy Bromley in an article, "The Future of Eleanor Roosevelt" which appears in the January issue of Harper's. The general public is at last beginning to accept her lectures, her talks, and correspondent column which is syndicated in 65 papers; with decreased resentment. She stands as an example of one who has the ability to overcome handicaps.

When but a child, she lacked physical courage, but today she is the first woman air passenger in the country. "Her moral courage is one of the great sides of the mystic" says the author, for within a few months, she challenged bigotry opinion by resigning from to DAR, when it refused to hall to the Negro singer Marian Anderson; by defending the American Youth Congress; and by speaking before the Workers' Alliance. Yet, despite all this, the word "ultra-liberalist" has never been applied to her since her article is entirely independent of outsiders' opinion and her undiscriminating way of expressing herself aids this.

Miss Bromley ends her article that the President and his wife always agree, and she quite often acts as advisory council. He has also been heard to say that he be

Continued on Page Six

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

JEANNETTE MOLLIS ..... Editor
MABEL BENNETT ..... Associate Editor
MURYE ROLAND LOUISE RICE ..... Managing Editors
ANNE GAYLORD ..... Feature Editor

Exchanges, Patsy Douglas; Outside News, Margaret Parker; Columns, Mabel Bennett, Maxine Armistead, Margaret Bond, Carree Averill; Society, Copy Editor Sarah Worth; Picture Editor, Ira Bell; Reporters, Mary Caldwell, Anelia Bone, Features, Jean Cooper.

Reporters, Mary Caldwell, Mary Lou Garrett, Jane Mandahl, Isabel Watson, Jean Cooper, Margaret Bond, Carree Averill, Mary Ann Frances Cryer, Clare Catherine Bogert, Harriet Bennett, Louise Bell, Ira Bell, Anelia Bone, Mary Ann Hall, Mary Ann Hall, Mary Ann Hall, Frances Hall, Betty Bennett, Grace Sparkman, Cora Martina Dale, Emmie Jean Bigsby, Paulina Dale, Bertha Bond, Jane Mandahl, Ernest Bond, Nell Dale, Dorothy Rodnell, Rose Taylor, Kitty Jo Hickman, Patsy McCrew

BUSINESS STAFF

GRACE SPARKMAN ..... Business Manager
MARY ANN HALL ..... Assistant Business Manager
VELMA BENNETT ..... Circulation
MARY GLENN GRIMES ..... Advertising

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the postoffice at Tallahassee, Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Members National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association

Represented for National Advertising by
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.
Chicago · Boston · Los Angeles · San Francisco

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

Of The World

Sic Finland . . .

Pravda have thus far done splendid job of defending their democracy. It is nothing of miraculous that they have been able to hold out this long against the Russians and if a similar miracle they manage to stick it out until spring—as six more weeks—the spring thaw will come to their aid. The new marshes and lakes will also be lengthening their Maginline.

By fact that the Russians ipped the particular time of year have elected to attack was in Finland's favor. When the ground was frozen they have to depend on such narrow strips of marshy ground between lakes, and these narrow strips can easily be defended by the Finns. The fact that the winter freeze came late this year thus keeping the lakes and streams from freezing solid together with the fact that Russians are poorly organized, with inefficient fighting equipment and are not well trained, is the possible little Finland's successful defense.

Bold sympathy is definitely with the Finns and manifests itself in the form of subscription drives and funds for the relief of the people of the Soviet Union. Even in the world of politics the matter of time until Russia will be upper hand, there is the feeling that something will arise to save little Fineland.

* * *

The Budget . . .

The state of the Union's finances were ably brought out in message in the Senate and the chamber last Thursday and day after the President had presented the combined bodies in person. Although consisting mostly of numbers, it was fraught with material out of which political talks are joined.

Not many realize the months of preparation which go into the making of the annual budget. Facts and figures are sent to the permanent printing office, which is the largest, most completely equipped in the world, and there strict precautions are taken to see that no one person will see the entire section of the budget. After it is printed, the type edition is locked in a type and until the date of official release. The President estimated the total outlay for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941 at $8,600,000,000.

For the eleventh time in succession, another year "in the red" is prospect, but the deficit will be smaller than 1939 and 1940. The principal reductions in income lie in the work and farm relief, but the program Congress authorized for the expanding of the air force, building more warships and mechanizing the army calls for a big increase in both 1940 and 1941 budgets. By far the largest outlay is designated for national defense.

According to the President, if present new taxes are raised national debt in June 1941 will be within a billion dollars of the statutory limit of nine billion. Should Congress set up the deficit either by appropriating more or failing to impose the required new taxation, it would be an effort to lift the debt limit.

* * *

Anti-Lynching Bill Passes House

The House approved the anti-lynching bill and sent it to the Senate today where a filibuster of Southern senators is expected to kill the measure. The vote of 277 to 111 followed a discussion in which Rep. Rankin, (D-Miss.) asserted that the measure was nothing but the renewal of a vicious attack on the white people of the Southern states," coming from the Republicans, he said, and from the Democrats.

The bill, denounced by Southerners as impractical, unenforceable and unconstitutional and upheld by its supporters in the name of those words—seeks to prohibit lynchings by imposing penalties on peace officers negligent in protecting their prisoners from mob-mobs and by making whole municipalities and counties liable for damages.

* * *

Britain Protests Neutrality Act

Great Britain has protested to the United States that the Neutrality Act is discriminating without her ships the present, addressed to have been presented by the British embassy, was made on behalf of an overwhelming list of shippers.

It complains that the Neutrality Act discriminates against Britain because it requires transfer of title to goods carried on British (or other belligerent) ships to certain ports of the globe, but does not require it with regard to ships of other countries. It makes it unlawful to export goods from the United States to any country designated by the President as not at peace with the United States.

American Composer Saw No Trouble In Russia When He Left Finland Last Summer

No evidence of any trouble with Russia was apparent in Finland when he left that country last August, Gardner Read, 27-year-old American composer here on a visit with relatives, Tuesday. He is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Alvarez whom he knew at the Eastman School of Music. Mr. Alvarez is head of the violin department of that school.

This is Mr. Read's first visit to the South and he plans to be in this vicinity several weeks. The cold weather now being experienced here came as quite a surprise to the Chicagoan.

The composer whose birthplace is Evanston, Ill., and whose specialty is orchestral music holds a Cromwell fellowship for travel to various musical centers of the world. This was awarded him in 1936 and was subsequently extended. He left Finland for this country abroad for an additional six months traveling all through Europe and the near East.

While in Rome Mr. Read studied for a time with Ildebrando Pizzetti.

Last summer his traveling fellowship was extended once again, this time giving him an opportunity to travel in the Scandinavian countries and to study with Carl Nielsen, Danish and Jean Sibelius. He was unable to carry out his plan of studying with Sibelius owing to the master's poor health and to the war situation, however, he did visit Sibelius in his home outside of Helsingfors one afternoon.

During his stay of more than three weeks in Finland, Mr. Read heard the Finns' very greatest—sive over what the Germans would do to Finland, but said that the Germans had always appeared friendly to Finland.

He notices on his visits to Germany and Italy that nine out of ten persons seem to be in uniform but added that the visitor got excited to it and didn't think much about it.

Of all the countries he has visited Mr. Read likes Egypt and Norway best—Egypt because of the atmosphere of antiquity where east and west intermingle, and Norway because of its scenery with which that of Switzerland cannot compare, he said.

America offers the best opportunity for the training of musicians, he observed, remarking that America also has the best orchestras.

Among Mr. Read's orchestral works are "Sketches of the City," a symphonic suite for orchestra, for which Carl Engel awarded which won the Juilliard School of Music publication prize in 1938 and which has been played by the Rochester Civic Orchestra, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, and Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra; "Symphony No. One in A Minor" which received the gift of $1,000 in the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York's "American Composers' Contest in 1937, which had a world premiere by the New York Philharmonic-Symphony and which was also performed by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and Boston Symphony orchestra. He has four large works performed in New York, Chicago and other cities in this country, as well as in South America. Many of his works have also been broadcast over NBC.

The composer holds the Bachelor of Music degree in composition and theory from Eastman School and the Master of Music degree in composition. In the summer of 1936 he was awarded a fellowship to the MacDowell colony in Peterboro, N. H., where he spent two months working on compositions and in which he completed his first symphony, the work which brought him the first prize of $1,000 in the contest sponsored by the Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York for a major orchestral work by an American composer.

The musician first gave evidence of his talent when as a boy he sang with the choir of St Luke's church in Evanston. His serious study of music, however was not begun until his 15th year when he entered Evanston Township high school At this time his musical training included piano, organ, music appreciation, musical theory and composition. The latter subject was taken privately at the Northwestern School of Music while the young composer was still a high school student.

In the summer of 1932 Mr. Read was awarded a scholarship for his outstanding work in composition to the National Music camp, Interlochen, Mich. Here he studied conducting with Vladimir Bakalenikoff, associate conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, and harp with Henry J. Williams, returning for two more summers' work with Dr. Bakalenikoff and to conduct performances of his own music with the National High School orchestra. While in camp Mr Read met Dr Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y., and was advised by him to submit his compositions and apply for a scholarship in that institution. The young composer was awarded the scholarship that same year, retaining it during the four years spent in study at the school. His training in Rochester consisted of piano, counterpoint, composition and orchestration.

Mr. Read will be the guest conductor of the listening group tonight in the music annex at 6 o'clock. The recorded program will consist of some of the works of Sibelius. Mr Read will supply the interpretative comments during the famed Finnish composer and will tell of conditions in Finland.

Press Club Sees Swimming Short

Sportlight Features Campus Aquatic Stars

Press club members attended a special showing of "Aqua Rhythm," a Paramount Sportlight featuring the Florida State College for Women in the classroom demonstration school auditorium on Tuesday afternoon as their regular meeting. Fifteen club members were also present making a total attendance of 30 at this first campus organization other than the Tarpon club to see the picture.

Before the showing of the film, Miss Elizabeth Pitchford, head of publicity director and faculty sponsor of the Press club, introduced several persons who had helped to make the film possible. Martha Dent Perry, who made many of the contacts with the Grantland Rice organization which produced the film, and Betty Bartholf, president of the Tarpons, were introduced. Miss Pitchford presented Frank Hodgkins, manager of the hotel at which the girls stayed at Wakulla Springs. Members of the staff of the Tallahassee Daily Democrat were also introduced.

Tarpon club members worked on the film last Easter vacation, and finished it during freshman week. Their new accordion formation is one of the many unique features featured. Scenes showing the girls swimming under water are intermingled with scenes of them swimming down picturesque water lanes.

As those who were present left the auditorium they were given as a souvenir of the occasion, sections of the film in little envelopes bearing the Tarpon Club motto.

Mrs Teresa Myers, advertising manager of the Tallahassee Democrat, is scheduled to speak at the first meeting of the Press club next semester. This will be announced later.

Resolutions? Lots Of Them!

"What's the use of making resolutions? We would only break them." was the answer of the two students when your reporter asked them what promises they had made to themselves for the coming year.

Occasionally some brave girl would make a little or the lofty side would say, "I'm going to diet and lose twenty-five pounds by the end of March."

A well-known campus belle was also interviewed. "You can quote me as saying that I will hold all men in utter contempt in the future."

Also concerning men was the resolution "not to get tangled up with any man this year."

"To make my grades and be initiated," was a favorite answer of freshmen.

"I'm not going to forget to send in anything I got for Christmas. I let my last one die," said a sweet-faced little girl.

"I made a resolution not to get my voice back. It's so convenient when I'm unprepared in class." crooked another.

"Well, it's leap year, isn't it?" laughed a group of girls at dinner. "It seems to us that our answer should be 'no' to that question," the sun girl asked, replied. "Situ's the best of all. I made it back in October. My resolution for 1940 is not to come back to school second semester."

College and State Board Plan Dietetic Conference

The state board of vocational education and Florida State College will sponsor a conference for dietitians and food administrators to be held under the auspices of the Florida State Dietetic Association March 27 28.

The conference, which is expected to attract dietitians, school lunchroom managers, and food people from hotels and restaurants, is the first of its kind ever to be held in Florida.

Tuesday, February 6, 4:30 o'clock, in 207 History building, February 20, Miss Helen Gratney, a member of the club, will tell of her experiences as a reporter on the Miami Herald.

Junior Home Ec. Girls Give Radio Skit Program

At the regular meeting of the Home Economics club last night a radio skit was given by the junior class members. Miriam Stuckey was in charge of the program.

An announcement was made at the meeting concerning which Dr. Lowed of the annual joint meeting of the state home economics and agriculture at the University of Florida in Gainesville and 15 students of home economics in the school of home economics at Florida State college. The conference will be held the second weekend in March.

Guidance Series Opened by Giese

First Talk Considers Business Positions

Skill, accuracy and intelligent thinking lead to advancement in the business world declared Miss Clara Giese in the first of a series of vocational talks to be given in the Augusta Conradi Little Theater Monday night. Miss Giese, Gilchrist social director and qualified as an expert employer's demands from three years behind a Y.W.C.A. employment bureau of reported opportunities for women in the business world as gradually becoming more favorable.

According to the speaker, one eye on the present job, and one eye ahead and beyond, made advancement sure. Additional qualities necessary for success in the business world include a thorough state training, a large vocabulary, a skillful use of English, an engaging personality and plenty of hard work.

Following an explanation of charts issued by the department of labor showing median salaries, distribution of workers, type of work and sizes of the workers, Miss Giese advised graduates in regard to searching for their first job. Employment agencies, letters of application, and personal interviews are all of extreme importance. "Use pull if you have any," Miss Giese added, "But if you don't, don't be discouraged."

The speaker concluded with a few warnings. Employers do not like examples, grammar, spelling, careless grooming, applicants who smoke before an interview, and the glamour girl will likely be resented by the boss's wife.

"On the whole," Miss Giese stated, "college graduates have more chances of success in the business world due to their essential training. But it is not your college degree that will guarantee success. It is what you have that made you get it, which counts."

Vocational guidance talks are held each year under the direction of Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel.

Report Read At Senate Meeting

Group Agrees to New Sorority Dance Hours

At the senate meeting Wednesday afternoon, Jane Murphy, senate chairman, read a report from the committee on legislation of the various resolutions and proposals to the section in the handbook governing Rules Governing College Government Activities.

(a) Proposals originating in the College Council should be referred to the Student Executive Council for consideration after which it returned to the Student Senate before presentation to the Executive Council.

(b) Proposals shall be presented to College Council in triplicate on adopted forms. One of these copies shall be filed in the minutes of the College Council, one in the file of the President of Colleges Government Association, and the other in the file of the originating body.

(c) Copies of any proposed changes shall be sent to the members of the College Councils two days before they are considered.

(d) Proposed changes may be presented at the regular meetings of the College Council in November and February.

(e) Reports of progress on November material shall be made at the December College Council meeting; report on the February material shall be made in March.

(f) At the January meeting of the College Council a report shall be made relative to action on matters referred at November College Council meeting. At the April meeting a report shall be made on action on matters referred at the February College Council meeting.

(g) Report regarding action shall be made through the College Council by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs and the Student Executive Council.

(h) Reports shall be made on adopted forms in the College Council, one copy shall be filed in the minutes of the College Council, one in the file of the President of College Government Association, and one in the file of the originating body.

(i) A written announcement of the action taken, signed by the Chairman of Executive Council, and the Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, Friday from five until light flash be taken.

Group's Subject Is Paris

"Paris considered from geographical, historical, and economic angles" was the subject of the French honorary's program at its meeting Thursday night. Miss Dorothy Purse, critic teacher at Florida High school, talked of her experience while studying in Paris this last summer.

* * *

Student Executive Council.

(h) Reports shall be made on adopted forms in the College Council, one copy shall be filed in the minutes of the College Council, one in the file of the President of College Government Association, and one in the file of the originating body.

(i) A written announcement of the action taken, signed by the Chairman of Executive Council, and the Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, shall be sent by the President of the College Government Association and shall then be posted for one week in the two theaters president of the freshman class. Laura Poole and Elizabeth Rogers, senate representatives, were introduced to the senate.

Pahhlicatie representatives presented a petition that dancing be allowed in the sorority houses on

Martha Reddick Studies Music in New York City

Miss Martha Reddick, who has been a member of the music faculty during the summer sessions for the past several years, is now studying violin and theory in New York City. Miss Reddick took her bachelor's degree from this college in violin and public school music and has been teaching in Landon high school in Jacksonville.

Miss Reddick will be the guest conductor of the listening group tonight in the music annex at 6 o'clock. The recorded program will consist of some of the works of Sibelius. Mr Read will supply the interpretative comments during the famed Finnish composer and will tell of conditions in Finland.

Vogue Announces Photo Contest

College Seniors Are Eligible for Prizes

A photographic contest for seniors in American colleges and universities has been announced by the editors of Vogue magazine, it Conde Nast publications.

A six-months' apprenticeship, with salary, in the Conde Nast studios and the possibility of a permanent position on completion of the period of apprenticeship will be the two career prizes open for men, and one for women. Eight cash prizes and honorable mentions will also be awarded.

Editor-in-chief of Vogue edward the belief that there are promising photographers among the students of the American colleges, and the purpose of this contest is to discover these people.

For many years the furtherance of high class photography has been a tradition of the Conde Nast publications. Among the artists who have worked in their studio are Baron de Meyer, Edward Steichen, Charles Sheeler, Anton Bruel, Ralph Steiner, George Hoyningen-Hurne, Lusha Nelson, Cecil Beaton, John Rawlings, Andre Durst, Boris Schall, Horst, and Toni Frissell.

A series of eight photographic envelopes, presented in the magazine will compose the contest. These subjects will cover a wide range of topics, including outdoor and indoor shots, action, still life, and so forth. Winners of the contest will join Vogue's staff on or about June 15th.

and all day Saturday, which issue was accepted and passed by the senate and then referred to the legislative committee.

The next senate meeting will be held on February 1, at which time will be the last for the Flastocovo will be taken.

PHONE 800 Fast, Free Motorcycle Delivery PHONE 800

BENNETT'S COLLEGE INN PHARMACY

EAT AT BENNETT'S FOUNTAIN CAFE

Good Food—Low Prices—Fast Service

Fresh Fruit BANANA SPLIT | (1) GIANT DOUBLE DIP ICE CREAM SODA. Two Dips Ice Cream and Your Choice of Fruit, Whipped Cream, Cherry. 8c

Two Dips Ice Cream, Cherry. 10c

Hot Hamburger SANDWICH Cup of Hot Chocolate— 15c

HOT CHOC FUDGE SUNDAE With Salted Nuts, Whip Cream 12c

Grilled Western Club Steak Sandwich, French Fry Potatoes, Lettuce, Tomatoes. 25c

HOT BAR-B-Q PIG SAND-SANDWICH on Bun, Potato Chips, Old Fashioned Milkshake. 15c

SPECIAL ROAST TURKEY DINNER. Cranberry Sauce, Vegetable, Hot Muffins, Drink 25c

Bennett's Serves at All Hours, Hot Waffles or Hot Griddle Cakes 15c

SPECIAL... Combination Offer!

Vita-Ray VITAMIN CREAM

Vita-Ray FACE POWDER

This week only—a $2.20 value! Both for $1.10

This ALL-PURPOSE vitamin cream will astound you with its results. It contains Vitamins A and D, which help nourish and stimulate the skin cells to renewed activity. Vita-Ray Cream corrects dryness, helps erase enlarged pores and adds a fresh glowing tone to your face.

The exquisitely fine textured Vita-Ray powder adds a soft, transparent radiance to your revitalized skin. Choice of 6 flattering shades.

Toiletries

Ide
Jergen's Lotion . . . 37c
$2.25 Dorothy Gray
Dry Skin Mixture $1.00
$1.10
Angelus Lipsticks . 79c
DuBarry Face Powder, New Size With Complimentary 30 - Day Make-Up Foundation— All for $1.00
10c Lux
Soap, 3 for 15c

Drug Specials

Bennett's Milk
Magnesia qts 44c pts 27c
Bennett's Mineral
Oil . . . . qts 69c pts 39c
50c Prophylactic
Tooth Brush 29c
$1.00 McKesson
Vitamin ABDG . . $1.89
75c Listerine
Antiseptic 59c

Resort first to color with

Nelly Don

For you who go resorting and you who find the sun at home . . . Nelly Don's suncast colors will make your life shades brighter in any event! Designed in styles so casual and smart, you'll know when you see them why we say resort to our Nelly Don shop first!

(above left) Nelly Don's Polo Saddles (rayon and cotton). Blue, gold, beige, pink. 16-44. 3.95

(above right) Surfcoat (rayon spun). Blue, coral, grape brown, rose beige. 12-44. 6.50

(left) Cannot Print Shantung Shirt (rayon spun). Blue, dusty, aborigine, navy. 16-44. 7.95

the VOGUE tollahassee,

feminine wearables

Nelly Don SUNCAST COLORS

Receptions Will Compliment Ruth Bryan Rohde Tuesday

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde will be honored at several social functions Tuesday when she comes to Tallahassee to speak under the auspices of alumnae association. President Edward Conradi and his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Ecklemeyer, will entertain for the former minister to Denmark following her lecture in the auditorium. The affair will be a coffee at the president's home and members of the cabinet, supreme court the enlisted executive council alumnae board, and others have been invited to meet the honoree.

Members and pledges of Alpha Delta Pi sorority will honor Mrs Rohde with a reception Tuesday afternoon from 4:30 to 6, preceding her lecture in the college auditorium that evening.

In the receiving line will be Marion Grinnell, president of the sorority, Mrs. Borge Rohde, Ruth Bryan Owen's son; Mrs. Ellidi Beard, Mrs. Louise Conradi Ekermeyer, Mrs. Leonard Wesson.

Presiding at the tea table during the afternoon will be Mrs. Fred de Cone, Miss Gloria Nelson, Mrs. Lucia Simmons, Mrs. C. L. Waller, Miss Anna M Tracy and Mrs. T. E. Lively.

In charge of refreshment are Edna Sue Hendry, Mrs. Winifred Wesson, Mrs. M. Lively and Mrs. Frank Moor.

Serving on the decoration committee will be Winifred Wesson, Mrs. C. Fred Pierson, Mrs. C. L. Waller, Mrs. Ben Bridges, Mrs. Dexter Lowry.

The hostesses, dressed in gowns characteristic of the old South in honor of Mrs. Rohde's German visit of the house will be Mrs. Frank Shaw, Mrs. Charles Audey, Mrs. Julian Smith, Mrs. M. L. Gregory, Mrs. Jennings Knox, Mrs. Julian Pittman, Mrs. Lucia Blanding, Miss Margie Burks, Miss Lucy Lester, Miss Margaret Lester, Mrs. C. C. Audey, Mrs. W. R. Smith.

Mrs. Dexter Breen, Mrs. Fred C. Moor, Mrs. J. W. Simmons, Mrs. C. L. Waller, Mrs. F. O. Connell, Mrs. D. B. Scott, Mrs. Dexter Lowry, Mrs. K. R. Harbeson, Mrs. Ernest Dyer, Mrs. Leroy Collins, Mrs. Ben Bridges, Miss Emily Lively.

Chapter members and pledges of the sorority are Vivian Adams, Jane Armistead, Helen Ausley, Frances Bowden, Ann Crawford, Louise Clements, Betty Graves, Jerry Harbeson, Mary Celeste Hendry, Edna Sue Hendry, Margaret Sue Hendry, Jean Holloway, Leonora Hopkins, Mary Lou Knox, Lester, Betty Lindsey and Betty Nicholson.

More Hostesses

Marjorie Mae, Helen Milam Smith, Mary Elizabeth Murphy, Gene Parthill, Louise Patterson, Mary Patrick, Mary Frances Peters, Carolyn Scott, Pauline Simon, Ann Simpson, Virginia Vandiver, Mary Lou Vernor, Mary Angas, Anne Arnold, Barbara Barrow, Anne Gamble, Jean Lance, Mary Elizabeth Leech, Lucile Moore, Annette McPariand and Olive Oliphant.

Mary Lucile Palmer, Jane Powell, Laura Thompson, Mary Williams, Mary Elizabeth Murphy Jr., Mary Jane Palmer, Sally Jackson, Frances Walker, Kitty Jo Hickman, Evelyn Butts, Julia Pettus, Ann Lamb, Walton and Bess Hartshorne.

Guests will include town alumnae of the sorority, faculty, members, college staff, and presidents of campus organizations.

Dr. Shankweiler Reviews Book

Dr. Paul Shankweiler, associate professor of sociology appeared in the November issue of the Federal Probation Quarterly.

The book "Child Welfare Information Service" by the Advisory Committee on Social Questions, is a comprehensive outline of recent child welfare legislation and administrative practice throughout a large part of the civilized world and is the outgrowth of a committee plan adopted by the League of Nations in 1925 whereby information each year on progress made in child welfare in the various countries of the world is compiled and published. Dr. Shankweiler writes that the book should prove of value not only to social workers but to all students of society who wish to broaden their knowledge of welfare standards and achievements in other lands. From the material compiled it seems reasonable to conclude that everywhere governments are awakening to a sense of social responsibility for the well-being of their future citizens and to a realization that economic security and social stability are indispensable to continued progress in child welfare.

Art Students Win Prizes in Exhibit

Twenty-four girls from Florida State college had paintings exhibited in the Society of Four Arts Exhibition held last December 9 to 24 at Palm Beach, Florida. The exhibit demonstrated works of art students from all college and art schools in Florida, including Florida State college, University of Florida, Miami university, Rollins college Southern college, Stetson college and Ringling School of Arts.

The four types of art work consisted of oils, pastels, were oils, watercolors, pencil, and design. The students from this college who were rewarded for their talents are Barbara Mack honorable mention in oils and $5 first prize in watercolor; Jean Mankes $10 first prize in design, and Marjorie Rader $10 first prize in black and white.

Andrews Receives Notice Of Personnel Meeting In St. Louis, Jan. 22-25

Dr Elizabeth Andrews has received notice of the National Personnel Association meeting to be held in St. Louis, Missouri January 22-25. This is the regular annual session of the personnel division in the United States.

The Vocational Guidance Association and the Dean of Women's Association will also meet in St. Louis in connection with the personnel meeting. Dr. Andrews plans to attend this meeting.

Delta Zeta Pledges Plan Book Shower Tonight

Pledges of the Delta Zeta fraternity will give a book shower tonight from 7:30 to 9:30 at their home. The book shower will be combined with a Delta Zeta standards program. The Alumnae formal dance Friday night. Welcoming the dance on the lawn was the life-size snow man and snow bunny in front of the visitors. In charge of all the arrangements was Edna Sue Hendry, social chairman. Chaperones for the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Royal Maitlce and Mr. and Mrs. Julian Pittman.

Among the invited guests were: Don May Wilmer Thurlby, Y. L. Watson, Bill Malone, George Gregory Charles Green, Frank Morgan, Frank McCall, Fred Pierson, Tony Sheifer, Louise Hill, Priest Mitchell, Russell Hendry, Fred Burghard, Tommy Woodberry, Billy Bass, Billy Bowling, Dick Everingham, Oliver Simard, Romer Lichtenwalter, Tke Blitch, George Hannah.

Ed Price, Fred Cantrell, Ford Hutchinson, Ed Richardson, Johnnie Tair, Byrne Litschgi, Red Kennedy, Wm. Bell Reed Walton, Mettauer Griffin, Atkins Embry, Lewis Greggory, Bob Boyd, John McDonald, Jack Mercer, Ralph Dale, Jack Reinemdt. Bill Hall, Karl Holland, Talbert Bevis, Gordon Byrnes, Dick Gardner, Stu Stewart, Frank Cordes, Charles Campbell, Jack Bracy, Wallace Boseman, Pal Saunders, Burt Sapp.

Bill Bell, John Morgan, Frenchies Huddleston, Hollan Logan, Henry Hopkins, Jimmie Hendricks, Gene Nixon, Smokey Lindsey, Bill Mitchell, Jack Merchant, Ed Ellis, Bob Young, Dean Mullen, Burr Bundick, Thomas Carroll Cutler, George Hay, Haywood Mosser, Bob Milton, Ted Leonard, Curtis Hunt, Charles Lovejoy, Willie Freeman, Harmon Stevens, Charles Carter, Jack Kiebach, Bigelow Leonard, Mack Lewis, Ralph Blank, Red McKay, Jule Smith, Allen Archibald, Brewer, F. G. Byrd, J. B. Williams, Bob Bundicker, Thomas Harris, Roy McIntyre.

Dancers

Joe Davis Lewis, Bill Terbune, Paul Ramey, Melvin Smith, George Pasquerilla, Jack Chilcoat, Gordon Jack Bracy, Ben Brideas, Bill Davis, John Dill Hightower, Steve O'Connell, Rene Hardy, Buddy Lewis, Dexter McCaskill, John Leverett, Jim Clark, P. L. Yon, Steve Richardson, Tolbert Rio, Paul Sherrill, Jimmie Jones, Chet Gilmore, Billy Wylie, Kenneth White, John Morgan, Ben Lee, Nathan Bedell.

Jack Henderson, Nathan Alderman, Dave Tucker, Robert Henderson. George Garrett, George Massey, Vernon White, Clarence Knox, Jim Bullock, Michael, Dick Mills, Bill Corry, Frank May, Gullie Malone, Richard Corry, Gillis McKinnon, Clay Carderelson, Frank Lee, Turkey Hen came roaring down the street; people, lots of them, began to gather, the firemen hopped on, ran around to the back of the truck for their ladder, and dragged it to the ground . . . but there wasn't any fire, not a sign of a smoke-eye. Somebody must have made a mistake.

Now at false alarms, even if you don't get to see some nice flames and smoke and scorching bosses, at least there is the excitement of hearing the firemen swear and curse and the neighborhood policeman promising that "that good-for-nothing will be found if it's the last thing I do. And WHEN I GET HIM . . ."

But this time, in spite of the fact that there just simply wasn't even a chance of a blaze and that the young lady who had put in the alarm was calm though evidently relieved to see the firemen, they hopped out and went quietly to work. One of them efficiently propped the long ladder against a tree, while another, with an admirable display of cooperation, mounted promptly as far as the third limb from the bottom and sternly closed his hands over Carolyn Byrd's kitten, as gently disengaged its small claws from the bark, ano returned it safe, if wrinkly, fluffened to the arms of the "alarm-turner-inner."

Carolyn says that a dog chased the kitten up a tree, and that that being its first experience with trees it displayed more than a little hesitation about climbing down again.

Carolyn, in the Scarlett O'Hara tradition thought immediately of a Big Stream Fire with a ladder" and called him.

Presbyterian Activities Forstalled by Exams

Miss Miriam Wilson, Presbyterian student secretary, will take over the upper-classmen Sunday school classes for several weeks replacing Miss Elizabeth Lynn. Dr Elizabeth Gordon Andrews will teach the freshman classes.

Until after the exams, all Presbyterian activities will be postponed—all except the Sunday evening discussion groups, which will continue to be held after the 6 o'clock suppers in the student annex.

NOW SCENES CARRY OUT WINTER THEME OR ALPHA DELTA PI FORMAL DANCE

Carrying out the theme of a winter carnival, the Alpha Delta Pi's decorated their house with silhouettes of snow scenes, and red and blue lights hung in cellophane bells for their annual formal dance Friday night. Welcoming the dancers on the lawn was the life-size snow man and snow bunny in front of the visitors. In charge of all the arrangements was Edna Sue Hendry, social chairman. Chaperones for the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Royal Maitlce and Mr. and Mrs. Julian Pittman.

Among the invited guests were: Don May Wilmer Thurlby, Y. L. Watson, Bill Malone, George Gregory Charles Green, Frank Morgan, Frank McCall, Fred Pierson, Tony Sheifer, Louise Hill, Priest Mitchell, Russell Hendry, Fred Burghard, Tommy Woodberry, Billy Bass, Billy Bowling, Dick Everingham, Oliver Simard, Romer Lichtenwalter, Tke Blitch, George Hannah.

Ed Price, Fred Cantrell, Ford Hutchinson, Ed Richardson, Johnnie Tair, Byrne Litschgi, Red Kennedy, Wm. Bell Reed Walton, Mettauer Griffin, Atkins Embry, Lewis Greggory, Bob Boyd, John McDonald, Jack Mercer, Ralph Dale, Jack Reinemdt. Bill Hall, Karl Holland, Talbert Bevis, Gordon Byrnes, Dick Gardner, Stu Stewart, Frank Cordes, Charles Campbell, Jack Bracy, Wallace Boseman, Pal Saunders, Burt Sapp.

Bill Bell, John Morgan, Frenchies Huddleston, Hollan Logan, Henry Hopkins, Jimmie Hendricks, Gene Nixon, Smokey Lindsey, Bill Mitchell, Jack Merchant, Ed Ellis, Bob Young, Dean Mullen, Burr Bundick, Thomas Carroll Cutler, George Hay, Haywood Mosser, Bob Milton, Ted Leonard, Curtis Hunt, Charles Lovejoy, Willie Freeman, Harmon Stevens, Charles Carter, Jack Kiebach, Bigelow Leonard, Mack Lewis, Ralph Blank, Red McKay, Jule Smith, Allen Archibald, Brewer, F. G. Byrd, J. B. Williams, Bob Bundicker, Thomas Harris, Roy McIntyre.

Dancers

Joe Davis Lewis, Bill Terbune, Paul Ramey, Melvin Smith, George Pasquerilla, Jack Chilcoat, Gordon Jack Bracy, Ben Brideas, Bill Davis, John Dill Hightower, Steve O'Connell, Rene Hardy, Buddy Lewis, Dexter McCaskill, John Leverett, Jim Clark, P. L. Yon, Steve Richardson, Tolbert Rio, Paul Sherrill, Jimmie Jones, Chet Gilmore, Billy Wylie, Kenneth White, John Morgan, Ben Lee, Nathan Bedell.

Jack Henderson, Nathan Alderman, Dave Tucker, Robert Henderson. George Garrett, George Massey, Vernon White, Clarence Knox, Jim Bullock, Michael, Dick Mills, Bill Corry, Frank May, Gullie Malone, Richard Corry, Gillis McKinnon, Clay Carderelson, Frank Lee, Turkey Hen, Bob Bowling, Bob Bowling Milam, Devere Burr, Bill Calhoun, Wilbur Hall, Bob Horton, D. J. Sullivan, Roy Shufford, Bob Shufford, Jimmy Lee.

Jimmy Lee, Tiffany Turnbull, Carl Mitchell, Pain Embry, Hank Rainwell, Bill Hall, Jimmie Miller, Sonny Whitaker, George Mitchell, Joe Brown, Merrill Wilhoit, Ben McGahee, Billy Ball, Joe Rood, Jimmy Cason, Benny Safley, Fred Gray, Mose Gillis, Francis Arthur, Ben Kanowsky, Jack Fry, Darwin McNeil, Neal Dixon, Arthur Owens.

New Dancers

Louis Marshall, Robert Eichelberger, Richard Gillis, Mack Morgan, George Hayman, Bobby Wheeler, Fay Hyman, Tom Hyman, Denby Gatlin, John Mead, Mal Haughton, Dave Hedrick, Ben Mason, Bob Gadman, John Lanier, Fred Hallis, Jim McDonald, Bob Hurt, Connie Cravens, Ben Crusoe, Milton Lyle, Lloyd Washington, Bill Crandall, Pounder Mitchell, Moss Maxey.

Ralph Spurlock, J. B. McNeal, Archie Harder, Bill Harder, Adam Chruch, Harold Wilson, John Oilland Tom Walker, George Cole, Bill Bass, Ben Ash, Bob Dow, George Watt, William Langston, Carl Seabrooks, Lorenzo Wrenberg, Johnnie Sullivan, Booker Cooper, Steve Lovejoy.

Sidney affin, Jack Swegger, Rasb Skipper, Bob Stratton, Bob Gibson, Thomas Emmett Brown, Calvin McNab, Frank Lewis, Jack Nantes Johnnie Walsworth, Albert Yates, George Hopkins Jimmy Tharpe, Edgar Bass, Frederick Gilchrist, Bill Clark, Walter Sheppard, Alec Holt, George Harmony, Frazier Jenton, Edwin Kirk, Clark Weeks, Jack Hedrick, Pendleton Armstrong, Putnam Calhoun, Emmett Smith, Buster Kurtz, Jack Jones, Victor Cole, Woodrow Lynn, Tib Over, Doug Hopkins, Walter Tharpe, Milton Merry, Jim Seibrecht.

FSC Continues To Rank Third

Enrollment of 1973 Breaks Old Records

Florida State college with approximately 1,973 students continues to rank as third largest women's college in the United States, according to a survey made by Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati.

The most breaking increase in enrollment which took place here this year is in line with a country-wide increase of 2.7 per cent.

Texas State college for women with 2,871 students and the Women's college of the University of North Carolina with 2,186 students remain first and second largest of the state women's colleges. Continuing to rank in fifth place are Williams Women-throp with 1,704 students and Georgia State college for women with 1,460 students.

Hunter college of New York City remains the largest of any woman's college having an enrollment of 7,000. However, it is not a state institution

Among the 10 largest women's college including state universities and others are Texas State college for women, 2,871; Women's college of the University of North Carolina, 2,186; Smith college, 2,000; Florida State college for women, 1,931; Winthrop, 1,760; Wellesley, 1,512; Simmons, 1,425; Mississippi State college for women, 1,163; and Mount Holy-

Class in Home Economics Plans Dinner at Wakulla

Miss Eleanor Green, associate professor of foods and nutrition, and the institutional organization and administration class will have dinner at Wakulla tonight.

The fourteen members of this class will see the Wakulla hotel set-up; a modern hotel building grounds, kitchen, and power plant.

The class members are: Ella Maki, Dot Mangano, Natalie Blanchard, Jean McCann, Lucille Plow, Mary Vergowe, Ruth Terrell, Marie Pallardi, Minna Dennis, Anne Kennedy, Dayde Barnard, Eleanor Scott, Ada Ly Barker, and Jean MacRae.

Beta Phi Alpha Secretary Will Visit Here This Week

Mrs. Della Winters Thede, grand secretary of Beta Phi Alpha, will visit the local chapter of the sorority this weekend. Mrs. Thede is from Augusta, Ill.

Home Economic Openings Will Be Topic of Speech By Miss Bolethia Projen

Miss Bolethia Projen, state supervisor of vocational home economics, will speak in the Augusta Conradi theater, Monday, January 15, at 4 p. m. on the subject of "Opportunities in Home Economics"

This lecture is one of the annual vocational guidance series and is open to all students who are considering home economics as a vocational course.

Miss Projen returned this year after a leave of absence of a year in Porto Rico, where she was supervisor of home economics.

COLLEGE CALENDAR

January 14—January 20
Sunday

5:00 p. m.—Vespers, lower room, Westcott building.
Monday
8:00 p. m.—Lecture, "Opportunities in the Field of Home Economics." Miss Bolethia Projen, Augusta Conradi Theater.
Tuesday
8:00 p. m.—Lecture—"This Democracy of Ours." by Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, sponsored by the Alumnae Association. Auditorium.
Wednesday
4:30 p. m.—Recreation Hall Tea, dormitories.
8:15 p. m.—Piano Recital. Miss Mary Esther Winslow, Auditorium.
Friday

SEMESTER EXAMINATIONS BEGIN

Alpha Chi Alpha Issues Bids to Three Juniors

Alpha Chi Alpha, national journalism fraternity, at a meeting Tuesday afternoon issued bids to three juniors Sara Mooney, Betty Rose Phillips and Mary Painter The pledging ceremony for the new members will be held soon. Bertha Bloodworth, Vivian Aldwerh, and Sara Worth, who above are for initiated students were initiated at this time.

Plans are now underway for the publication of the June issue of the Alpha Chi Alpha national magazine which will be held for the first time in Florida the latter part of June.

French Club Celebrates Epiphany with Dinner In Continental Style

Epiphany, an event of January 6, celebrating the visit of the Magi to the Christ child, was observed here on campus by the French club in a typically Continental manner with a dinner.

The dinner was planned by Marie Jeneau and Beth Carter and was the first of a series of interesting programs about the French provinces The next meeting of the club will be the first Friday of the new semester.

Three full tables in the new dining hall were beautifully decorated with candles, greenery and small mint and nut cup favors. Further carrying out the French idea, each table had a cake with a bean baked in it. Both Jeneau and porcelain figurines are used for favors.

The hostess cut the cake, and the person receiving the bean was crowned king of his table for the remainder of the dinner. She was likewise crowned with a "Petit Roi." from her subjects. The king then chose the queen to rule with him. She, too, was crowned with a golden crown and shouts "Vive la Reine!"

Miss Marie Davis, the club sponsor, was presented with an elaborate crown and shared the glory of being queen.

Alpha Chi Alpha national convention which will be held for the

Collegiate Comebacks

Continued from Page Four

Bob -SAE- Gville and Tom -the one with shoulders- asked me for dates. After that I felt that Herb Lazarus had nothing on me. specially when I even got the chance to close a few dates.

When there weren't dances, we sat went around in a bunch or ate and met somewhere, and everybody was uproariously happy. Of course I still limited myself to smoos on Christmas day but "C'est la vie"—It loses so much in translation.

John came home and we nearly broke up but didn't and he gave me a pret-ous make-up kit, and Santa gave me an angel of a 3-layered net evening dress. Then sweet Susan-roommate of mine surprised me with the red satin gloves I've been hopefully admiring; and there was a luncheon and a wedding and a buffet supper. Most of the time tho I ate at home so that I could get to be with the family.

I don't think I've mentioned Ralph yet, but he was my one definite conquest and is coming to see me next month! Our latest pose is "I Didn't Know What Time It Was"—don't you love it?! and I've already nearly worn it out at Spick. Shucks, at this gloomy point it rather seems that a heavenly dream like you have after seeing a Deanna Durbin picture, but I still think I can live on it long enough—I hope I'll live on something, cause it won't be on knowledge.

Anyway, O B now, and do be sweet and write me an Encouraging Letter Such as Would Help a Girl In a Cramming Mood.

Lamour, l'amour

Love,
Dorrey

P. S Do you know why the little duck walks softly? . . . because he can't walk—hardly!

Magazine Jottings

Continued from Page Four

has changed parts of his important speeches at her suggestion Eleanor Roosevelt thanks for herself more constantly than has any other wife of a man who has made history. Although it is entirely unlikely that she will ever run as her husband's successor, people can convince her to take either important offices by merely telling her how much good she would be and how she would be able to help others. "One can always appeal to her sense of duty"

When Mrs Roosevelt started her career as a journalist and lecturer it was arrived between her and the President that she would miss a wide berth to all political subjects of a controversial nature, and as far as possible she has refrained but every once in a while the occasion arises in which she cannot refrain from expressing her opinion. The general public is gradually coming to consider them a "political team" which is a real thing in history.

The author closes her discussion of the Lodz by saying that "the keynote of her thinking on Russian problems is our responsibility." The issue of this world Post, "if we succeed in war and fail in the peace of our duty we will be responsible for a Fascist solution." Eleanor Roosevelt's future will be of the most interest than if she were of the independent variety. Whether or not she will be allowed under a prime that empowered long ago."

Foreign Dolls Will Be Shown

Polish and Mexican Exhibits Planned

The Industrial Arts department will exhibit a collection of foreign dolls in the display cabinets on display in the Education building during the next two weeks, it is all 29 dolls of the dolls are a collection Miss Emily C. Wilburn, associate professor of Industrial Arts, has accumulated from various countries. She has spent seven years in the department. There will also be some dolls on display the collection which have been made by former students of Florida State college.

In the second semester of 1938 the 101 Industrial Arts students were busy preparing to teach in elementary schools. will design and make original dolls and study their use in teaching.

In February, following the doll exhibit, an exhibit will be given in room 112 Education building on the work of the Polish school of Industrial Arts, pastels and their drawings. This last exhibit has been shown at many museums and colleges throughout the United States, and it is now being held at Syracuse, New York.

Still another interesting exhibit to be given here within the near future will be the exhibit of Mexican contemporary arts, exclusively Mexican in feeling and technique. Each piece is personally selected by Count Rene d'Harnoncourt, an expert in folk art. Eighty-seven items of stone, ceramics, lacquer, metalwork, jewelry, costumes, textiles, and toys will be displayed.

Firemen Stage Exciting Rescue Of A Kitten!

"False Alarm" Turns Into "Mercy" Call For Carolyn Bird's Pet

Somebody telephoned for the fire trucks. They came roaring down the street; people, lots of them, began to gather, the firemen hopped on, ran around to the back of the truck for their ladder, and dragged it to the ground . . . but there wasn't any fire, not a sign of a smoke-eye. Somebody must have made a mistake.

Now at false alarms, even if you don't get to see some nice flames and smoke and scorching bosses, at least there is the excitement of hearing the firemen swear and curse and the neighborhood policeman promising that "that good-for-nothing will be found if it's the last thing I do. And WHEN I GET HIM . . ."

But this time, in spite of the fact that there just simply wasn't even a chance of a blaze and that the young lady who had put in the alarm was calm though evidently relieved to see the firemen, they hopped out and went quietly to work. One of them efficiently propped the long ladder against a tree, while another, with an admirable display of cooperation, mounted promptly as far as the third limb from the bottom and sternly closed his hands over Carolyn Byrd's kitten, as gently disengaged its small claws from the bark, ano returned it safe, if wrinkly, fluffened to the arms of the "alarm-turner-inner."

Carolyn says that a dog chased the kitten up a tree, and that that being its first experience with trees it displayed more than a little hesitation about climbing down again.

Carolyn, in the Scarlett O'Hara tradition thought immediately of a Big Stream Fire with a ladder" and called him.

Also Maize, Pink and Sky Blue

MILLER'S Toggery
111 E. COLLEGE AVE.

Save $ $ at Book Exchange

The Florida Flambeau

Patronize Our Advertisers

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, February 2, 1940

VOLUME XXVII NUMBER FOURTEEN

Webb Is First Student to Get 'Internship'

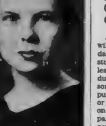
Practical Experience Will Be Secured in Office of Auditor

An internship in local government will be possible this semester for a student of Florida State College for Women through an arrangement of the city of Tallahassee and the state college.

Chosen as the first student in public administration to be granted this opportunity is Elizabeth Anne Webb, who will work this semester in the office of Ben Bridges, city auditor of Tallahassee, under the academic supervision and direction of Dr. Victoria Schuck of the college division of political science.

Irish Announces Plan

This announcement was made today by Dr. Marian Irish, director of the division of the political science.



The introduction of undergraduate internships in connection with Dr. Schuck's course in public administration is in line with a general movement throughout the country to establish in the articulation of the American educational system with career service in the national, state, and local governments. This movement has been increasingly manifest since the suggestion was offered by the Research Committee on Social Security. Trends, January 1, 1932, that the Social Science Research councils pursue further the problem of public personnel.

Council Appointed

The council appointed in December, 1933 by the session of Inquiry on Public Service Personnel which reported in 1935 a list of recommendations for the establishment of a career service in the American government and the recruitment to each of the career services from college graduates professionally trained in public administration.

Leading universities over the country have already inaugurated courses for public service training, these include among others, Harvard university, University of Michigan, New York University, Syracuse college, University of Southern California, University of Wisconsin, and American university.

Florida State College for Women is setting the precedent in the Southeastern states and because of the proximity of the capitol offers unusual opportunities to students for practical training in political science.

Practical experience will be no longer a phrase but an actuality to Elizabeth Ann Webb, above, when she takes over a job in the office of city auditor Ben Bridges as a part of her work in public administration to be allowed in every an internship in the field of local government.

Applications Are Due February 5

Civil Service Tests Cover Varied Fields

Florida State college students who wish to send in applications to take the civil service junior professional assistants' examination must have their applications on file with the United States civil service commission at Washington, D. C., not later than Monday. This' announcement was made today by the campus committee concerning the examination.

Among the optional subjects on which tests will be given are: junior administrative technician, junior chemist, junior biologist, junior information assistants, junior investigator, junior public welfare assistants, junior rural sociologists and junior statisticians.

Two examinations will be given, a general test and a professional test. The general test will last two hours and will not be on the optional subjects. This test is designed to test the aptitude of the applicants for learning and adjusting to professional duties in the service. The professional test, which will be three and a half hours long, will cover the fundamentals of the particular profession, or subject the individual chooses. Students may be examined in only one of the optional subjects.

Applicants must be citizens of the United States on the closing date. For positions in the appointment service in Washington, D. C., they must show legal or bona fide residence in that state or territory in which they filed applications.

Further information may be obtained from the college personnel office or the personnel office mailin board just outside the office.

Mrs. Miller Gets Master's Degree

Mrs. Lou Herron Whitfield Miller, instructor in English, received her M. A. degree in Engfish from the college Saturday morning, January 72. Mrs. Miller has already had her A. B. and B. S. degrees, both taken from Florida State college, has been an instructor here since 1931.

Florida in Fiction is the subject of Mrs. Miller's thesis. Bound copies of this 214 page book will soon be available in the college library. The author received a large number of letters from various states asking to have written concerning Florida. The thesis includes a bibliography of Florida fiction; and a section containing historical sketches of novels.

In the appendix are letters from the various authors of fiction about Florida. Among these are: Joseph Hergesheimer, Bess Beach, Theodore Pratt, Rose Wilder Lane, Marjorie K. Rawlings, Stephen Vincent Benetz, and Samuel Hopkins Adams.

Andrews to Speak at Leon

Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel and placement bureau, will speak to the home economics students of Leon high school next Wednesday morning at 9:30 on the subject "Shall I Enter College?"

This lecture will be similar to the vocational guidance series given at Florida State college each year under the direction of Dr. Andrews and the personnel committee.

First Interne

Training Course For Leadership Opens Monday

Mortar Board Sponsors Conference with CGA Conducting Classes

A Leadership Training course will be given next week, Monday through Thursday, for all students who are interested in learning how to fulfill official duties. This course is sponsored by Mortar Board for the purpose of acquainting present or prospective officers or any one interested in any way with parliamentary procedure and general conduct of offices. Training classes for the specific offices will be held the following week, beginning Monday, February 12.

Training Course Given

The training course will consist of five meetings, each of which will include a talk followed by questions and discussions. The meetings will be held in 302 Westcott, and the topics, hours, and speakers are as follows: Monday, 4:30, Philosophies of Student Leadership, Miss Mary M. Settle; Tuesday, 4:30, Parliamentary Procedure, Dr. Vernia L. Shores; Wednesday, 4:30, Instructions for Secretaries, Miss Elizabeth Cater; Thursday, 4:30, Instructions for Chairman, speaker to be announced later; Thursday, 5:15, Duties of the president, speaker to be announced later.

The meetings are being held at 4:30 o'clock so that all day students may take advantage of all lectures in which they are interested. Dr. Ralph Eaton's course in Philosophies of Student Leadership and Miss Mary Louise Knowles, will be considered as almost prerequisites to the holding of any office.

C. G. A. Officers Conducted

The leadership classes will be conducted by the present officers in the C. G. A. government association and will include brief resumes of general and specific duties. Everyone desiring to be elected to attend, regardless of whether they wish to have a ballot in the campaign.

The chairman of classes is as Continued on page six

Honorary Holds Double Ceremony

Alpha Chi Alpha, journalism honorary, held a combination initiation and pledging ceremony recently in the home of Miss Rachel Pitchford, the new sponsor of the organization. Three new members, Vivian Ahlswede, Bertha Bloodworth and Sarah Worth, were initiated with three other members. Margaret Scott, Margaret Palmer and Mary Foogler were pledged.

After the pledging and initiation ceremonies a dinner was given in town with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vance and Miss Pitchford as guests of honor. The decorations were in the spring colors, pinks, yellow and white with gladioli as the centerpiece. Place cards bore the initials of the sorority.

Members of the honorary who were present included Polly Douglas, Jeannette Mullis, Marjorie Bell and Muryl Roland.

Henry Returns to Faculty

Miss Mildred Henry has returned to the college faculty after a semester of illness. Miss Henry is an assistant professor in the department of English.

Notice for Seniors

Application pictures should be filed in the personnel office within the next week. Only one photograph is required for permanent records if no position is desired in any field.

Elizabeth G. Andrews,
Director of Personnel

FSCW Receives Wide Publicity

Faculty and Students Make Contributions

Material by and about Florida State college students and faculty has appeared in five national and state publications recently, including the Journal of the Florida Education Association; the Elusia, national Chi Omega sorority magazine; Variety, Life, a New York collegiate publication; the Florida Municipal Record, organ of the Florida League of Municipalities, and the Mortar Board Quarterly, national magazine of Mortar Board honor society.

Dr. Marion J. Hay, associate professor of education, describes, with appropriate comments, her travels through parts of America the past summer in her article 'Artists from the Sideline," published in the January issue of the Florida Education association for December, 1939, and 1940. The article rose just before the outbreak of official warfare. In the January issue of the Journal appears a news item announcing Dr. Hay's plans to conduct a party of American teachers and scholars to Spain and America upon invitation of the request of Dr. Frederico de Onis, head of the Spanish department of Columbia university and director of the Institute de las Espanas in the United States.

The Elusia, Chi Omega publication, printed in its November issue an article describing the late Miss Rowena Longmire, writer, teacher of English, librarian, sage and member of Chi Omega, in whose honor the new dormitory alumnae building has been named. The article points out the fact that Miss Longmire was the only Florida State college teacher and the fourth woman to have a building named after her at the college. Also, that in point of service, she was the oldest member of the faculty, having taught at the college for 32 years before her death in July, 1939.

In the October issue of Varsity Life, a New York publication devoted to college news and views, there appeared an article about former Florida State students. Leona Hawkins, recent graduations in operating a voting machine from Miss Hattie Cowles, County Democratic chairman of regis-

Continued on Page Six

Parker Will Play In 'Penny Wise'

A change in the cast of the speech department play, "Penny Wise," now being presented, places Gwynn Parker at the head of the male cast. He is filling a vacancy caused by the departure of Billy Van Brunt, who left the college to accept a position of insurance in Jacksonville. Previously seen in "Penny Wise Pendice" at this college, Mr. Parker now has a role different from anything he has done previously.

According to Miss Kemper Moore, head of the speech department, the play will be presented on February 15 and 16. Other members of the cast included: Peter Blair, Emilie Johnson, H. L. Gregory, Irene Bannerman, and Jaeckel, Herman Mendenhall.

Carnival Theme Will Feature 'Lil Abner'

Freshman Festival on Friday Will Precede Junior-Senior Prom

Friday night the freshman class will present its annual carnival featuring a super-colossal, gigantic floor-show composed of "Lil Abner" comic strip characters. Although the characters, "Lil Abner" and his friends, special emphasis will be placed upon Sadie Hawkins Day celebrations—a most timely theme for this college and for leap year!

Besides his friends Lil Abner, Margaret Mercer, expects to see some of the Sadie—as in Evens—hanging around enjoying the brilliant glamour and looking for the latest styles. Daisy Mae, especially, has chosen a new Hollywood one which Vogue has already copied for their March issue.

Characters Featured

Hairlip, Dr. Johnny Darrow, and the Little Injun, Eleanor Merrill, will likely be seen chatting eyes at the "Purty Gal" between slips of "kick-a-goo joy juice, which will be served by Eleanor Yothers and her committees.

Phippy Yokum, Jean Hitchcock, is expected looking forward with great zeal to this carnival for Friday night. Phippy has promised to sell preserved turnips and "Kickapoo Joy Juice" to introduce her latest discovery—preserved turnip seeds. However, Phippy, of Dave Darrow, the dog committee, is somewhat worried about the disposal of Mammy

Continued on Page Six

Imeson Describes History of Mayas

Stressing particularly the intellectual aspects of the Mayan civilization, Dr. Conrad W. Imeson, authority on Mayan culture, recently lectured in an audience in the chemistry lecture hall Wednesday night a picture of the Mayan civilization in South America. Speaking to the Tallahassee branch of the Florida Academy of Sciences, Dr. Imeson used additions, multiplications and fractions as least 1,000 years before they were known in other countries.

The Mayan calendar," he continued, along the line of his main topic "Mayan History and Chronology" is generally conceded to be one of the greatest intellectual achievements in ancient civilization."

Dr. Imeson illustrated the second part of his lecture with lantern slides picturing carving and sculpture in the form of temples and gods as well as incidents of Mayan life. The Mayan form of pottery and each carving must be painstakingly studied in order to piece together the story of the race," Dr. Imeson pointed out. He described the Mayan conception of the Mayas by the warlike Aztecs and other tribes, but added that the Mayas themselves had developed without outside help.

After the program there was a short business meeting of the Academy of Sciences branch.

Gehan Goes to Conference

Miss Julia Gehan, Episcopal student secretary, left Wednesday for Atlanta where she will attend a conference with Bishop Frank A. Juhan. She will return to Tallahassee this evening or Saturday

Future Flyer

Looking casual and poised about the whole thing is Frances Rogers, above, the first FSCW student to actually take to the air in the Civil Aeronautics Authority course being offered here.

Mrs. Cotterill Says It Works

There is nothing like being sure of one's future, especially in the matter of a matrimonial partner, Dr. Moore would agree to this.

Acting on this hypothesis, Sarah Nooner and Patty Hebert are each sleeping with wedding cake under their pillows to find out Who? Mrs. Robert Cotterill gave Patty a piece of a friend's wedding cake with the suggestion. Patty sleep on it to learn the identity of her future husband.

In a package with the cake each of the roommates put on a slip of paper answers to questions they meet, one blank slip in case they are to be old maids. Each one slips each bearing the name of a different "interesting man" every morning on arising the girls draw a slip from the package.

So far Helen has drawn the names of the two least interesting men, while Sarah says she is lucky to draw the unknown slip and the most interesting name Mrs. Cotterill recommends this method as it worked for her.

Popper Will Speak On Russia Monday

Dr. Annie M. Popper, assistant professor of history, will speak to the IRC club Monday on Russia, Dr. Popper will present to the group a few correlated facts about conditions in that country before the world war and during the war and will conclude with a brief survey of Russia as it is today. Special reference will be made to Russia's position in international affairs and relations. The meeting of the IRC WII be held on the fourth floor of the History building.

Following the meeting an open forum will be held for discussion of the subject. Edna Leibovit is in charge. This program is one of a series of programs presented by the organization to inform the members on world affairs.

Students Start Rehearsal

The speech department of Florida high school began rehearsals Wednesday on "Drums of Death," a mystery which will be given on March 7 and 8 in the Augusta Conrad theater. Members of the cast are: Doris Jacoby, Ralph Caisseaux, J. P. Poides, Ruth Pierce Clayton, Mary Kathryn Sikes, Doris Maize and Richard Rudd. Ralph Donaldson, critic teacher, will direct the play.

Debate Program Is Planned Here

Isolation Will Be Topic for Discussion

The biggest inter-collegiate debating program in the history of the college will be undertaken this spring by Florida State college students beginning February 9.

They will take both affirmative and negative sides in various instances on the question, "Resolved: That the United States Should Maintain a Strict Economic and Military Isolation." Debates with that endorsed by Kappa Delta, national debating honorary society.

The debaters representing Florida State college are as follows: Ralph Donaldson, Jr., Ralph Rudd, Helen Hawkins, Joan Hawkins, and Betty Jean Beaver.

The debate schedule, all of which will be carried on at the state college for the remainder of the year, is as follows: February 9, Lorna College of Dubuque, Iowa; February 16, Washington and Lee, of Lexington, Va.; February 22, Presbyterian College of Clinton, S. C.; March 1, Carson-Newman College of Jefferson City, Tenn., March 25, Washington and Jefferson of Washington, Pa.; April 1, Vermont College of Burlington, Vt., April 8, Southern College, Lakeland April 22, Miami University, Miami, Fla.; April 24, Emory College, Atlanta, Ga.

Florida State college students participated in the Dixie debating tournament at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., in December, bringing back a charter of Delta Epsilon Alpha, national debating honorary society.

Recital Set for Feb. 10

An ensemble recital program under the direction of Miss Mary Reeder, head of the piano normal department, will be given in the music room Saturday evening, February 10, at 8 o'clock. In addition to Miss Reeder's individual pupils, there will appear on the program two students from Mrs. Cecile Strong's voice class in the Florida high school and two piano pupils of Mrs. Lucy Parker, graduate assistant in the school of music. The college students who are assistant coaches for this program are: Alma Chalker, Marjorie Clayton, Mary Elizabeth Simmons, Myrtle Hoffman, Pauline Hall, and Ruth Brooks. The public is invited to attend

Frances Rogers Is First Student To Take to Air

Ten Students Receive Ground Instruction From Royal Mattice

Frances Rogers, sophomore, was the first to receive a flying lesson in the Civil Aeronautics Authority training program here last Monday. She was followed by Sara Woodruff and Marion Webster.

The flights were made in a dual-control monoplane owned by Ivan Monroe, pilot trainer. In the flights the students circled about 2,000 feet and returned to the air base. It was Frances Rogers' first flight, and she said the cars below looked like toys on the residence "like doll houses."

Ground Course Studied

For three weeks the ten girls taking part in the program have been undergoing an intensive ground instruction course under Royal Mattice. They have completed a study of the history of aviation and civil aeronautics regulations. Each of the first 15 hours flight they will receive 30 minute flight periods three times a week and one hour flight period for the remainder of the course. They must complete 35 hours of ground work and from 35 to 50 hours of flight instruction.

Students taking the training course will be eligible to participate in the examination sponsored by the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences. The examination will be given by the Shell Oil Company. Contestants from all colleges carrying the program will be given in seven regional flight contests, with three outstanding pilots developed during the year by the school entered in the competition prizes. the first being $1,000; second, $750; and third, $500. The school entering the most proficient record for the year in the training of pilots, according to the contest will receive the Shell Intercollegiate trophy.

Airplane Promised

Sara Woodruff, one of the students, has been promised an airplane for commencement by her father after she receives her private pilot's license.

Girls taking part in the program were chosen on the basis of academic standing, college records, class standing, personality, physical fitness, and aptitude. They are Lucy Bryant, Sara Woodruff, Margaret Orser, Jean MacRae, Elizabeth Ann Pickett, Frances Rogers, Jonnie Thomas, Esther Veal and Marion Webster.

Rawlings Will Be Guest of Alumnae

Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, author of the Pulitzer prize novel, "Pact Into Fiction" Friday night, April 12, as the opening event of the Alumnae College Homecoming.

Mrs. Rawlings, who writes about Florida Folk-ways, is author of the novels South Moon Under and Golden Apples. Her novel "As I've won her O. Henry short story prize and her latest and most recent book, The Yearling, the story of a boy and a fawn, may be filmed soon by a major motion picture.

The writer was born in Washington, D. C., was graduated from the University of Virginia, where she dabbled in stories and verse, and Rochester, N. Y. in 1928 she moved to Cross Creek, Hawthorne, Florida, where she now owns and operates a 4,000-tree grove.

Members of the college faculty and student body and a supreme court judge will be the other features of the Alumnae College. The supreme court judge will take up the Alumnae college theme, "Citizenship" from the political, social, and intellectual side.

Miss Daisy Parker of Tallahassee, who has been instrumental in making plans for class reunions, social functions, the annual homecoming banquet and election of officers as added features of the 1940 Homecoming.

Stevens Goes to Virginia

Charlotte Stevens, alumnae secretary, is attending a meeting of the Alumni Council of the southeastern district in Williamsburg, Virginia. Miss Stevens will return from the four day meeting Sunday.

Resume Of Artist Series Programs For Last Decade Presents Wide Variety Of Performances

By GRACE RUSHING

Miss Eva Le Gallienne and her New York supporting cast's presentation of Ibsen's three-act play, Ladies in Distress will inaugurate the 67th entertainment to be presented at the Florida State college under the auspices of the artist series committee in the last ten seasons in years.

The famous actress has been preceded by dancers, violinists, pianists, symphony orchestras, string quartets and choral ensembles, singers operas, a choir school, dancers, a glee club, recitals, and other players.

The Coffee-Miller players presented Carlo Goldoni's The Mistress of the Inn, a reincarnation of old Italy, and Alexander Dumas' A Marriage of Convenience, during their second appearance at the state college in March, 1930. They made their first appearance here in 1926.

The Abbey Theatre players, who are all Irish actors, entertained the audience in March, 1932, with the comedy The Whitehoded Lace, written by Lennox Robinson, the director of the Abbey Players in Dublin. Then in November, 1933, the Abbey Players presented Maria Marten or The Murder in the Red Barn, a melodrama in which Alice Chenery, head of the company, played the leading role of Maria Martin. These players reappeared here in November, 1934, to present The Streets of New York, in which Alice Keating Chenery again played the role of the leading lady.

Hamlet Given

An extra artist series was presented in February, 1933, when Shakespeare's tragedy Hamlet was given by the Shakespearian Players with James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce in the leading roles.

The Redgrove Theatre players, with Ruth Gilbert and Jasper Decter, brought The Emperor Jones to this campus in November, 1936. David Martin acted the leading role.

Donald Dickson, star of radio and the Metropolitan opera, who gave his concert here this October, was the twelfth singer to appear in the Florida State artist series in the last ten years.

Singers Listed

Among these singers who appeared were: Helen Jepson, leading prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera association, who gave her concert here in March, 1935; Makki Mulis, the only Japanese prima donna at the time of her appearance in February, 1930, who sang among other numbers "The Chidrens Song," a number she had composed for her children; John Charles Thomas, who appeared here in March, 1936; Jose Echaniz, Spanish pianist, and Norwegian parents, bass-baritone, in his concert here January, March, 1931; Florence Austral, the soprano who began her career as called 'the greatest Wagnerian soprano of her generation, and her husband John Amado, a flutist, gave a presentation at the college in March, 1931; Victor Chenkin, baritone-dieuer, had "International Character Songs" for the theme of his concert here in January, 1932.

John Valentine, "internationally known character baritone," in his concert, 1932, gave his recital in costume; Richard Crooks, noted opera and tenor, who was the leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company when he appeared at the college in January, 1933; Vladimir Horowitz, the Russian singer who American and foreign press notices had proclaimed "the greatest pianist of the younger generation," gave a recital here in March, 1934, the American concert-tratio. Kathryn Meisle, made a successful appearance in the college auditorium in December, 1934.

Fredrick Jagel, who was the leading tenor in the Metropolitan opera company when he sang in the year 1936 concert here December, formerly the prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, who was, at the time of her concert here in March, 1937, a concert, recital and radio star, and Nino Martini, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, who gave a recital at the college in November, 1937.

Westminster Choir Presented

In February, 1931, the Dayton Westminster choir school under the direction of the John Finley Williamson presented a concert in the state college auditorium. The Yale University glee club of 41, under the direction of Marshall M Bartholomew presented the college audience in March, 1938.

The Minneapolis symphony orchestra gave a concert here in January 1936, and appeared at the college in January 1936 During their 1939 concert the director, Henri Verbrughen, had to silence the continued applause with "Young ladies and gentlemen, the musical meal like any other must be well arranged, and too many sweets are not good for you." After this first concert the members of

Continued on Page Six

From Other Colleges

A recent student opinion poll published in the Miami Hurricane gives the percentage of college students who favor military, training in colleges as 86. The poll, taken of a transcontinental cross-section of students from every institution of higher learning in the nation, indicates that only four percent women and men that are opposed, that military training is more popular in the schools where it is voluntary and least popular where it is not given at all. Of the students who approve, well over half believe it should be taken only voluntarily.

Jane Bonnen Jimenez, Scalia's greatest living poet, will conduct a class in modern Spanish poetry at the University of Miami during the next semester. Senor Jimenez, who will conduct the class in Spanish, has been living in Miami since he left Spain at the beginning of the civil war.

Joseph Seigel, noted violinist, will appear as guest soloist with the University of Miami Symphony orchestra in its second subscription concert of the season, featuring as his main selection Beethoven's Concerto in D.

For the first time the program of the University Oratorio Society will be broadcast over the air and a nationwide hook-up as Brahms' "Requiem" is presented February 4 at 10 p. m. and February 11 at 3 o'clock. A chorus of 400 voices will form a musical background for the soloists.

Will Durant, lecturing philosopher and writer, who stated in a lecture at Columbia university that the United States would be at war in 14 months, spoke at Michigan State college on the "The Next Greatest Thinkers." Durant stated at Lansing that the United States would enter the war as a result of propaganda and moral responsibility. When English cities really are bombed, he said, anyone who is found will be hanged from the nearest lamp post.

Dr. W. A. Smart, who appeared here several years ago on a religious emphasis week program, was featured on the religious emphasis week program at Alabama where he is a professor of Biblical Theology. From January 22-26 Dr. Smart spoke at the compulsory chapel service on "Why I Believe in Religion." Forums are attended by prominent Atlanta ministers and business men.

Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, is auditioning students from all over the country to make up an all-American Youth orchestra to go on a good will tour to South and Central America this summer.

In this connection, T. S. C. W.'s symphony orchestra will broadcast over the Texas State network February 4, from 10:6 0 to 11 o'clock. Invited will be given jobs as members of the orchestra which will at regular musicians' rates during the tour. The idea of the All-American Youth Orchestra, Rudolph Swoki says, "is to create a musical organization which represents the whole of the United States and will be a messenger of Beauty and Good Will to the Latin-American countries." All applicants selected for auditions by the local selections committee will be asked to play one representative passage from a standard symphony repertoire and one solo work, both to be judged on musicianship, color and interpretation.

Hanya Holm and her group of ten young dance artists will appear on the artist's course at T. S. C. W. February 5. Miss Holm is a prominent European dancer who has been in America for the past three years directing the New York Wigwam school and the Bennington School of the Dance, where she combines personality and individual development of students. Her program will be divided into five parts including "Dance of Introduction, a nonrepresentative dance, "Trend," "Rondo," a reference to the present movement of the people under tyranny. "Two, Too Are Exiles," an attack on totalitarian regimes, "Two Primitive Sketches," a dance of sheer physical exuberance, "Metropolitan Daily," a portrayal of the different sections of the newspapers.

Serge Rachmaninoff, famous modern musician, will play at Wellesley February 14. Having won fame as composer, pianist and conductor, Rachmaninoff is best known for his Prelude in C Sharp Minor.

Dr. A. B. Chalmers, professor of Religion and Biblical Literature at Smith college will lead Wellesley's annual Religious Forum, February 10, 19, 20 and 21. The topic of the forum will be "A Faith to Live By."

NSFA to Scan Orientation

Kloeppel, Hickman, Bryan Will Speak

A critical analysis and general discussion of orientation on our campus will be the topic for the S. F. A. Forum Tuesday, February 6. Dot Nickerson, chairman, announced Wednesday. Professor Kloeppel, freshman advisor for the year 1938-1940, will give a talk in which she will compare the orientation system on our campus with that on other campuses as to form, policy and general character. She will, in addition, discuss the value of our orientation to the college as a whole, including the observations made during the year it which she has served as freshman advisor.

The side of the freshman counselor will be given by Gene Bryan, who is serving as a freshman counselor this year. She will express her observations in dealing with the freshman have in the form of personal experience in orientation. Kitty Jo Hickman, a freshman of this year, will speak on the views among freshman pertaining to orientation.

This program on orientation is the second in the series of meeting and all freshmen counselors, candidates for freshman counselorship and interested students are urged by Dorothea Kloeppel to attend. Open forum discussion after the talks have been made.

Graduate Tells Of Air Attack On Edinburgh

Letter Sent Dr. Hay From Scotland Says Germans Vow Return

In a recent letter to Dr. Marion Jewel Hay, associate professor of Education, from a member of the class of 1937, described an air raid which occurred a short time ago in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Speaking of the life in Edinburgh since the war broke out, she says. "The presence of the barrage balloons has given into the training, the enthusiasm of the students and the keen spirit of it. There's another dance tonight," God would be sure, for me!"

Moyde Lewis: I prefer our present system because I think courses on this campus need the full four and one-half months to present their subject matter. Reading you only have to meet exams twice a year this way.

Isabel Day: I think the three-quarter system would eliminate a lot of material in such a course, but the prospect of threequarter exams in a year, the thought of condensing some courses that are already stripped of a lot of essential material is not the alternative of taking that course three-fourths of the year instead of one-half would seem to necessitate. Too many complete terms to be worth the good they might do.

Thorton Sullivan: I think the three-quarter system might work but the shortening would make it much easier to cover exam material but the idea isn't possible in the present and one-year courses.

Kay Johnson: I have had much experience with the three quarter system and I personally like it. However, I feel that a short intensive course is more effective than a long drawn-out one. However taking quarters is just as hard as taking semester

Caledonian Hotel. The funny part is that throughout the entire proceedings the "Lord Mar-Haw" had been broadcasting from Germany and the citizens of Edinburgh to "Look your last on your lovely Prince Street, for next week it will not longer be there.' No one thought they could possible mean to come—however there was an attempt to bomb the city.—Still German broadcast assure us that they will be back."

Inquiring Reporter ..

Student Opinion On Three Quarter System

Would you be in favor of a three-quarter system as opposed to our present two-semester system? Why, or why not? Do you think it possible to get as much in a short intensive course as from one spread over a longer period of time?

Grace Rushing: I think that even a semester is sometimes too short a time to cover the material of many and most courses, so the semester system is all right with me.

Belle Yonge: If we had to cover the same amount of material in one of the three quarters as we do now in a semester, it seems to me that we would be at a definite disadvantage. As it is we have more work than we can possible do justice to.

Alma Gentry: I am definitely in favor of our two-semester system. We have an amount of material to cover that is covered better in two semesters than it would be in three terms.

Camille Sewell: The two-semester system that we have now is a much better system. It would be impossible to cover all the material for some courses if the three-quarter system was in effect.

Kitty Jo Hickman: A three-quarter system would be most confusing. As it is now we have too much to do in most courses for the time allowed. Of course, I'm well aware of the great American tendency to hurry into things but I think that education should be thoroughly instead of speedily acquired.

Pat Hopkins: I think I would prefer our present system. I believe that a course spread over a longer period of time is more advantageous as students usually don't get into the swing of it until after a few weeks and a short course would be over by that time.

Edith Ary: I much prefer the present system because after mid-semesters we are over half the work to feel that I'm half through and after the finals exams only once more. I think many of our courses are too concentrated now to accomplish much. I am in favor of the three-quarter system as proposed but only if courses of one-and-one-half semester system. With the three-quarter system we would be able to cover more material in a shorter time, and possibly get more out of an hour's concentrated course of study than one spread out over too long a period of time. Remembering, the enthusiasm of the students is the best part of it. There's another dance tonight,' God would be sure, for me!

Moyde Lewis: I prefer our present system because I think courses on this campus need the full four and one-half months to present their subject matter. Reading you only have to meet exams twice a year this way.

Isabel Day: I think the three-quarter system would eliminate a lot of material in such a course, but the prospect of three-quarter exams in a year, the thought of condensing some courses that are already stripped of a lot of essential material is not the alternative of taking that course three-fourths of the year instead of one-half would seem to necessitate. Too many complete terms to be worth the good they might do.

Thorton Sullivan: I think the three-quarter system might work but the shortening would make it much easier to cover exam material but the idea isn't possible in the present and one-year courses.

Kay Johnson: I have had much experience with the three quarter system and I personally like it. However, I feel that a short intensive course is more effective than a long drawn-out one. However taking quarters is just as hard as taking semester

And She Used To Live Here!

Mary Joyce Walsh, former student at Florida State college and University of Miami, has received an "Inland Waterway," a pictorial article in the January 15 issue of Life magazine. Mary Joyce was elected "Miss Miami" last year and later won the coveted title "Miss Florida."

The article, which combines a few words with a great many pictures of Mary Joyce and her companions, tells how she came from New York to Miami by inland waterway as the guest of Howard Johnson, owner of a chain of restaurants in Miami, on his yacht, the "Do-No."

exams and you have to take one more of them.

Miss Rivers: I'm in favor of having the three-quarter system as it would make more concentration per week with less courses.

Louise Bowden: The three-quarters seem proper for the courses we have. If a three-semester system were installed, a great many small traditions would necessarily be done away with. Also the more intensive courses, while creating part of their function, to familiarize the student with the field, cram us with such a lot in one semester that the concentration of the course after the harrowing exam.

Evelyn Buttner: I'm in favor of the three-quarter system as opposed to the present two-semester system for I believe more can be gotten out of short intensive periods of study. Our system is confusing in that too many courses are required to be taken at the same time. It would be much more beneficial to the latter four courses, finishing them sooner, and being allowed over the material covered.

Gerry Thomas: I am in favor of the three-quarter system as opposed to our present system because I think it would be possible to sum up the material that they are studying. Students remember better, instead of stretching the course out over a semester.

Hannah York: Since I am a day student I prefer the present system. I have had a trial at both systems. Frankly, I prefer the three-quarter system. Students would seem much better rounded and more compact than where they are spread over four and one-half months. And aside from the educational point of view, vacation periods are much better spaced in relation to examinations.

Mary Alice Lester: Yes, I think a three-quarter system is better. It improvement over our two-semester system in several ways. First, our exams would come more frequently and prepare the student for the exam earlier in the terms. I think more concentrated study would be done continuously if this were the case. Second, I think that more subjects could be covered if there were more time allotted and many courses could be made more intensive for this reason. So many courses are anxious to be attractives and do not have the chance. If a three-quarter system means a more intensive study and more room for electives then that's fine. I would like to express that our spread over a whole semester could be better fitted into one-quarter system. I would think that one could learn more from a short intensive course, judging especially from the reports of those people who say they can study until "just before exams." At any rate intensive study would keep our minds more steadily and shorter terms would give us decided points of view.

Helen Emmanuel: I'm in favor of the three-quarter system if it would do away with having exams right after Christmas vacation. I don't think that there would be so many failures, for the girls forget so much during vacation.

Betty Capplemen: I would like the three-quarter system if it could be arranged so that we could have exams before Christmas than after.

Dot Garrison: Yes, I would like a new system. I think the term would be easier as there would be less work to cover.

Dot Gibbs: I like it just as it is.

Blanche Saul: There's only one reason why I'd like it, and that's because we'd have exams before Christmas. As it is, though, we have a week's vacation. There would be less exams under the three-quarter system, though, and getting your grades we have now). It depends upon which you want most: less exams or more vacations.

Betty du Mont: I would like to try it. It would do away with having exams after Christmas, which I like. Only for you forget everything you know over the vacation.

Christine Bates: Yes, I would like the three-quarter system. There wouldn't be as much to study for over a shorter period of time, and there wouldn't be so much confusion.

Jeanne McDowall: It would be just fine if we had holidays between. I think it would be much better all around.

Barbara Lewis: I would like the three-quarter system if exams would be before Christmas.

Bill in Chapel Hill is quoted to work here.

Claire Means: It doesn't make much difference to me one way or the other.

Ronalie Rosner: I like the two-semester system better. Some of the girls who were on pro for a short time have to go for a longer time the other way and so they couldn't get as much done.

Madge McCreary: If we wouldn't get any more cuts, I like it like it is. I like the system best that gives the most cuts.

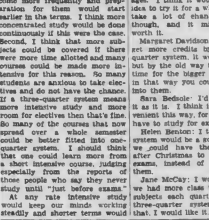
Ruby Williams: I don't see any advantage or disadvantage.

Virginia Miller: I think that I'd prefer the three-quarter system. I don't like the thought of exams coming before and Christmas.

Betty Allred: I think it would be wonderful. There would be less exams to study for and so there would be less people in the infirmary when semesters.

Catherine Brown: Maybe I'm prejudiced, but I like it the way we have it now.

Mary Gieger: I'd have to try the new system to find out what are advantages and disadvantages. I think it would be a good idea to give it a while. It would take a lot of changing around in our habits, but might not be worth it.



Margaret Davidson: If you could get more credits by the three-quarter system, it would be good, for I'm going to take two years more time for the bigger subjects and in that way you could really get into them.

Sara Bedsole: I'd rather have it as it is. I think it's more convenient this way, for you wouldn't have to study for exams so often.

Helen Benton: I think the new system would be a good one. Then you could have the two weeks after Christmas to rest up from exams. Instead of studying for them.

Jane McCay: I would like it if we had more class time and less subjects each quarter, so if the three-quarter system would do that, I would like it.

WELCOME
PARENTS
HERE TO SEE
"GONE WITH THE WIND"

VISIT OUR READY TO WEAR
SEE THE NEW SPRING STYLES AND SPORTSWEAR
THEY ARE ALL HERE
Get the Pick Of Our New Spring Formals for YOUR PROM DRESS
2nd Floor
P. W. WILSON CO.
SINCE 1837

Cross Attends Book Luncheon

Women Writers Honor James Branch Cabell

Mrs. Olive H. Cross, instructor in English, attended the Annual Book Luncheon of the National League of American Pen Women held in St. Augustine last Monday in celebration of the publication of James Branch Cabell's Jurgen Had an Uncle. Mrs. Verla Pope, a graduate of Florida State college, and the author of two novels, is the secretary of this organization.

Dr. Francis A. Waterhouse, president of the Jacksonville junior college, gave a review of the book.

Mr. Cabell, one of the foremost contemporary writers, is famous for his wit and satire; there is very sound scholarship, however. Much of all his writing is prophetical writings on Shakespeare's characters.

Mrs. Cross reports that this Virginian author of satire, who founded the Masquerade Association by his wife and son, looks more like a successful business man than he does like an author.

Among other important guests was Dr. A. J. Hanna, author of the book Flight Into Oblivion, was a recent chief guest at the Book of Month club. Since his job as assistant to the president of Rollins college makes him a very busy man, Dr. Hanna writes between the hours of 5 and 7 in the morning to avoid interruptions. A native of the southern historians, has written three histories. Dr. Hanna is a descendant of a family who has lived in Florida for 100 years

Speeches were made by: Dr Rosalie S. Morton, author of the "Cross Patch Fairy Tales;" Ava King, who started the Garden club movement in Florida, and who is the author of many standard works on gardening; Madame Claire Lee Chennault, Chilean opera fame, who talked on her experiences as a singer and as a singer; the singer's husband, Sidney Dixon, a graduate of Harvard composer and the author of My Wife And I; Dr. Bellamy Partridge, author of the "Country Jake" which has been the best seller list for three months, and Dr. Vivian Collins, president of the St. Augustine branch of the NLAPW. and Irving Bachelder.

A program of songs, sung by Dr. Dixon, Madame Chennault and Miss Ann Hamlet "Pirate Dreams," "Hark the Lark." "Lo, Here the Gentle Lark," and "I Know a Song Wherein the Wild Thyme Grows."

YWCA Book Exchange To Close Tomorrow

Y. W. C. A. book exchange will close tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, according to operation. The time and place at which students whose books were sold may get their money will be announced Tuesday in convocation.

Seventy-five classes took part in charge of the book exchange. She was assisted by representatives of the secretarial science class in the books.

This is the third time a book exchange has been held on campus by Y. W. C. A. Each year, when the Student Alumnae Building will be in use, the exchange will be conducted to students because it will be on a lower floor.

They're Gone, But Certainly Not Forgotten

With exams completely if not safely in the background, with Dean Doy orders released from stimulating coffee to lulling chocolate, with flunk slips and progress notices posted explosively on the backs of closet doors, life comes slithering back to its normal one more on campus. Bulletin boards are plastered with "For rent" and "For sale" notices; late homecomers stare ghastly through the professor and yawn; underwear, dug in another month is ceremoniously hacked off the calendar. The start of a new semester is something like the start of a new year except for the manner of celebrating. Diets are put off till after bills are paid, and the printed address. Virginia Perry will be upon the subject "For What Youth Advantages?"

This will be a staging ground as well when an important place on the program, with it Florida's annual Conference in state of it.

Tuesday night, at the weekly Vesper services, Mrs. Jack Adkinson gave an informal talk in the Methodist church at the Monday student house. Betty Jane Pratt, with her cello, provided the music.

Sunday, February 4, the pastor, Rev. Marion Wilson Stroup, recently presented at Monticello Methodist church, will be the guest at the church. Those who will take the speaking parts are: Margaret Emmett, Rabbi Ben Hart Martha Whitehurst, Mary Alice Lester, Mrs. Jack Adkinson and Newrie Powell. Music will be furnished by Mrs. Ralph Thornton, Ruth Shepard, Hazel Lee and Muriel Bowley.

During the month of February the student choir will have charge of the music at all of the regular services at the Methodist church.

Methodists Plan Crusade Rally

More Than 100 Young People Are Expected

Until February 18 the chairmen of interest of the calendar of the Methodist Student Federation will be a Youth Crusade Rally, in which a thousand young people between the ages of 16 and 24 are expected to participate and which will include young persons in the Tallahassee district attending Florida Chautauqua at Live Oak and from Tallahassee to Apalachicola. It will be held in the Trinity Methodist church from 3 o'clock to 5 o'clock on the afternoon of February 18.

Dr. Walter Towner of Nashville, Tennessee, director of young people's work in the southeastern jurisdiction of the Methodist church, will make the principal address. Virginia Perry will be upon the subject "For What Youth Advantages?"

This will be a staging ground as well when an important place on the program, with it Florida's annual Conference in state of it.

Tuesday night, at the weekly Vesper services, Mrs. Jack Adkinson gave an informal talk in the Methodist church at the Monday student house. Betty Jane Pratt, with her cello, provided the music.

Sunday, February 4, the pastor, Rev. Marion Wilson Stroup, recently presented at Monticello Methodist church, will be the guest at the church. Those who will take the speaking parts are: Margaret Emmett, Rabbi Ben Hart Martha Whitehurst, Mary Alice Lester, Mrs. Jack Adkinson and Newrie Powell. Music will be furnished by Mrs. Ralph Thornton, Ruth Shepard, Hazel Lee and Muriel Bowley.

During the month of February the student choir will have charge of the music at all of the regular services at the Methodist church.

GONE WITH THE WIND
ALL YOUR WORRIES WHEN YOU TRY OUR SUNDAE EATING TREATS
SPECIAL AT OUR FOUNTAIN

MELANIE
Club Steak Dinner
75c

LARGE BOWL OYSTER STEW WITH CRACKERS
15c

"GONE WITH THE WIND" CHILI
10c

CORREEN O'HARA
Ice Cream Sodas
10c

SCARLETTE O'HARA
Hot Fudge Sundae with Georgia Pecans
15c

SCARLETTE
Malted Milk Shakes SPECIAL
15c

MELANIE SPECIAL
20c

Hot Turkey Sandwich
Ice Tea or Coffee

Airmaid Hosiery
Sheer Chiffon Hose
"Airmaid Hose Wear Longer"
$1.00 up

JUST IN Hollywood Turbans
Adjustable—All Colors
50c

Squibb's Dental Cream
Reg. 40c Size 2 TUBES
59c

SPECIAL !
50c Calox Tooth Powder and 25c Dr. West Tooth Brush
Both for 39c

50c Tek Tooth Brushes "One for Morning" "One for Evening"
2 for 43c

VALENTINE CARDS 1c To 25c EACH

"IT'S WARM AND COMFORTABLE HERE"
MARTIN & DALTON
DEPARTMENT DRUG STORE
210 S. ADAMS ST. PHONE 122

STATE
FRIDAY—SATURDAY
February 2-3
SPENCER TRACY
in
"I Take This Woman"

SUNDAY—MONDAY
February 4-5
with Leigh WILLIAM POWELL

TUESDAY, FEB. 6TH
"GONE WITH THE WIND"
NIGHT SHOWS (8:30 P. M.
All Seats Reserved $1.10
(Including tax)
Sunday Matinee (2:30 P. M.
All Seats Reserved $1.10
(Including Tax)
WEEK DAY MATINEE
(2:30 P. M.)
Not Reserved, 75c Including tax
SEATS NOW ON SALE
Mail Orders Promptly Filled, Send Self-addressed Stamped Envelope for Reservations
Certified Check and Stamps Accepted
Self-addressed Envelope Required
NO TELEPHONE ORDERS

R K Z
FRIDAY, FEB. 9
MICKEY ROONEY
in
"Judge Hardy & Son"

SATURDAY, FEB. 3
COWBOYS from TEXAS with Dick Foran
Mary Carlisle

SUNDAY—MONDAY
Feb. 4-5
SPENCER TRACY
in
"I Take This Woman"

TUESDAY—WEDNESDAY
Feb. 6-7

THUR., FRI. & SAT.
Feb. 8-9-10
Allen Jenkins Frances Langford
Phil Regan

dio Programs ature Tarpons

ress Rhythm' Shown Other Countries

nderstagement of the "cur- quisitory which Florida's ograms are exerting our state." ade by the Chamber of erce last week on the "Professor Florida," mentions the Grandland of Florida featuring the State swimmers.

program, arranged by the Chamber of Commerce, broadcast over radio stations ntage during the week of 18-26.

of the broadcast were ast to radio stations out of ast Albert Mitchell, the Mr." used much of this g in his program over sta- k in New York City.

18-minute film, which is ions Without" is being by Paramount theaters ghout the country as well as ore than five thousand Indie- theaters. This Sport- ll be circulated in ls and in foreign countries ars not yet blockaded by publicity office of this col- which has a 16-millimeter of the movie in sound, has many requests to use it physical education officials ountries.

ssible copy, which attract- considerable attention when at the international aquati- Fort Lauderdale during the Christmas holidays, show- forwarded to Texas College for Women in Den- From there it will be sent Denver university and then to University of Colorado at the Spotlight, to be shown ious alumnae college week- in April, will later be avail- to be shown at alumnae clubs Washington, New York, Al- and in 31 Florida cities. ring the first part of March ich film will be taken to the Women Physical Education ation meeting in Birmingham.

Im Underdog ights Reporter

By PAULINE DALE

I am ashamed to admit it. I am to because the evidence is ring. My hair is thinning ay. I have circles under eyes. My face is becoming ed and wrinkled. And my is becoming a straight My hands shake and my rk, my head nods down, and head nods down on the ard assignment.

I get around in circles. I find ff at the history building the gym, then the Westcott then the history build- ast then the dormitories the library, then the history ain't in one hour. My ed—so who has tried to spot- human body's eye on sting? Or ample proposition of a soldfish in ter-don't bowl would be more

I am becoming a hypocrite. I ...gs I feel like imitating of John Barrymore's char- I grin until my ears creak! ...ke as of an last year's bad. ...re you when I mean no, and ...Well, all right," when I feel ...rraign my hair like an ex- ...other person's). I try to ...y to those who would scorn and give my time to those who ...of brain me. I defer all ...to the Flambeau and in- ...ly error all its resentments ...

I Am a Reporter

Because I am a report- One of those persons who ...m all day and all night and ...ers anything done. One ...ome unknown heroines who ...ll the dirty work and never ...a clean towel with which to ...her pens. One of those per- ...ho never has the slightest ...ating the thrilling praise ...ll done, our good and faithful

BENNETT'S
COLLEGE INN PHARMACY
PHONE 500
100 E. COLLEGE AVE.

GOING LIKE THE WIND!
Our Famous O'Hara Sodas and Sundaes
Chocolate Double Dip Ice Cream Soda
Hot Hamburg Sandwich . . . 15c
Grilled Cream Cheese Sandwich on Raisin Fruit Bread, Fresh Strawberry Short Cake . . . 15c
FRESH PEACH SUNDAE . . . 15c with Whipped Cream and Cherry

$2.0 Size Dorothy Gray Blustery Weather Lotion for $1.00
$2.50 Value Vita Ray Cleansing Cream and Face Powder for . $1.10
Both
Jergens Lotion . . . 37c
50c Value Squibb's Tooth Paste for . . . 34c
3-Sc Prophylactic Tooth Brush 29c
10c Woodbury Soap, 3 for 21c
$1.10 Angelus Lipstick . . 79c

Dr. W. B. Renfrow Declares FSC Students Seem Progressive

This Is New Chemistry Instructor's First Experience Teaching in Women's College

The dark-haired young man whom you have noticed walking cautiously through the lower floor of the science building and the science halls, not any too sure of getting where he is going, is Dr. W. B. Renfrow, at present taking Miss Gertrude Vermillion's place during her leave of absence.

Dr. Renfrow greeted the reporter from his office in the chemistry office with a wicked twinkle in his blue eyes. "I had a sister who was an assistant professor once," he said in his rather shy, deliberate way. "I'm afraid I know what to expect." Assuring him that she would make it as painless for him as possible, the reporter pulled up a chair and began her third degree.

Dr. Renfrow comes originally from the heart of the shivering south, Carlisle, N. C. and likes he maintains, "the south better than the north, too." After completing his high school education in Charlotte, he took his bachelor's degree at Furman in Greenville, his master's at the University of North Carolina, and his Ph. D at Duke.

"I taught for a while at Furman, and liked that as an instructor at Duke," continued Dr. Renfrow chronologically. "After that I spent about two years in Philadelphia doing research in the utilization of light oil refractories for the gas company there. He likes the work, but prefers teaching, but "Say, you don't want to hear about that!" he exclaimed. Nevertheless, he interested in organic chemistry and he has done work servant; now go home and go to bed." One of those persons who is trodden upon by the Queen Bessabelle.

Anyone can tell that I am a reporter, for they can instantly tell they become self-conscious, then they immediately begin to continue to stare. I say outrageous questions, even when I am not reporting, and I am so absorbed I unconsciously think I have a right to know the business of everybody.

But nobody knows what I do Nobody knows how many trips I make to the gym, how many steps I take, how many times I have to knock down before anybody will answer, how many telephone calls I have to make, how many notes I have to write, how many appointments, how many trips I have to make to the dormitory rather books, how many blind alleys and false leads I have to follow, or how mad I get.

Nobody cares. She does not have to be gently but firmly pushed out of doors, or cut off short in the middle of her speech or accosted with "Don't you have anything else to do? Come here, My life lets you do this for me." Nobody else has to get in her stories even if she does nothing else. Nobody else has to interview faculty members when her knees shake and her tongue sticks to the roof of her mouth. Nobody else waits hours to see a person, or has to return to a girl's room six times before she finds a little story that will probably take up just about three inches in the Flambeau.

I am one of the underdogs. I dog the news scents under three o'Black Lieutenant.

However, I am not complaining. Whether anybody else thinks so or not, I consider myself one of the luckiest persons on the campus. I love the opportunity to hear all, see all, and say all! I can intrude where others dare not enter. I can talk with people more interesting than any leader of boll weevils. I can play hide-and-seek with the postbies as well as ring-around-the-rosy with the commonwealth. I can have my cake and eat it too.

But the cake often gives me indigestion; therefore I must confess that I am worried.

Frosh Swimmers To Vie Thursday

Novelty Race to Add Humor to Contest

The annual freshman swimming meet will take place next Wednesday at 4:30 at the pool in the gymnasium.

Freshmen who wish to enter may do so by signing for the events they wish to enter on the aquatic bulletin board on the first floor of the physical education building.

The events in order of their occurrance are: 25-yard free-style side stroke for form, running front dive, 25-yard breast stroke, elementary backstroke for form, back crawl, breast stroke for form, swan dive, jack-knife dive, novelty race with contestants carrying and reading a newspaper while swimming.

The regulations are as follows: All good rules must be observed, each contestant may enter five events and the novelty race provided only two of those entered are speed events; each dive and each event counts as a separate event. A beabin is required for speed events and B or C beabin for form and diving events; four practice points are required and these may be acquired at any plunges period. Only freshman are eligible and there are no academic requirements.

The officials include Frances Battle, referee; Jeanne Marchesseau, Mary Collins Martha Dent Perry, judges; Virginia Hodgetopgraphy, which he classifies as "entirely original." He has done little along this line since he came here but when he can he puts on his camera shooting in the near future.

As the reporter finished her harrass and pushed the borrowed chair back into place, Dr. Renfrow smothered another grin. "Well, this wasn't nearly as bad as some of my sister's had been. Nothing about early marriages, private love affairs, or what not." The reporter hesitated half way on the door.

"We-ell—maybe one thing. Are you married?"

"No!" replied Dr. Renfrow emphatically.

"Then" observed the reporter, "you did a mighty imprudent thing coming to a women's college." In Leap Year? And she departed, leaving Dr. Renfrow wondering audibly if he would be safe until blessed 1941.

Science Group to Feature Educational Round Table

In a round table session, the date of which will be announced in the near future, five members of the college faculty will lead a discussion on "The Role of Cause and Effect in Higher Education," Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, history professor; Dr. Sarah Parker White, hygiene professor, Dr. Robert Miller, assistant professor of sociology and methods; and Dr. Henrietn. professor of experimental psychology and Dr. Harold F. Richards, professor of physics, will open the meeting with short formal presentations of their respective viewpoints, after which the audience will be invited to

Thrasher Heads Glee Club

Due to the graduation of Betty Barthoff, former president of the glee club, Lucile Thrasher, vice president, has become president. Peggy Hunter has been elected vice-president.

New Shipment
Costume Jewelry
200 Different Pieces
$1.00 and $2.00
Ask to See
Men and Money
Bracelet
Jack in the Pot Pin

MILLER'S Cootery
111 E. College Ave.

Butcher, Baker, Candle Maker's Daughter Here

The butcher, the baker, and even the candlestick maker make their appearance in the many varied occupations of the fathers of the students on this campus. Have you ever stopped to wonder about the occupations of the fathers of the girls who are attending the second you? Well, a recent investigation of a group of the fathers of 306 of our freshmen showed that only a very few of them had identical occupations.

By far the largest group was the farmers, which included 18 of the fathers. But running the farmers a close race were the merchants, which numbers 14. The traveling salesmen were right in the lead with 11, while the railroad conductors followed on their heels with 10. These were the largest groups.

Not quite so numerous were the citrus growers, which numbered 8, the lawyers, numbering 7, and the physicians and engineers, both having a total of 14. But here also were 4 grocery store owners, 4 ministers, 3 policemen, 3 naval officers and 2 manufacturers of bones.

The remainder of the occupations were surprisingly spread out and varied. From a captain of a boat to a brick layer, from a fishwoman to a woman, from a politician in a high school to a hotel clerk, from a bookkeeper to a cream manufacturer, from an architect to a blacksmith—they were represented in the group.

Several of the numerous occupations are considered well-to-do ones, such as a superintendent of the Florida East Coast railroad, a professor at the University of Kansas, a hardware dealer, a banker, and a wealthy insurance man.

It would be easy to go on enumerating the remainder of these occupations of the fathers of 306 freshmen, but that would take too much time, so not forgetting to include a pure food and drug inspector, a county judge, and a foreman of a golf course, this all only helps substantiate the well known fact that the occupations for men and women in the world today are indeed varied and far reaching.

Volleyball Ends Next Friday

Finals Are Scheduled For End of Next Week

Intramural volleyball games which were begun last summer are being played this week and will continue next week, leading up to the finals on Friday.

Three games were scheduled on Tuesday. The day students defeated Chi Omega 42 to 7 while Reynolds downed Kappa Delta 35 to 24, and Alpha Chi Omega defaulted to the Methodists. There were three games played on Wednesday. Jennie Murphree was beaten, 27 to 27 by Alpha Gamma Delta. Alpha Delta Pi won a 83 to 29 victory over Delta Delta Delta and Delta Phi Epsilon defeated Kappa Alpha Theta 35 to 16 points.

There will be a pre-training period for the elementary school. Mr. Kenning's arrival, which will cover both swimming and canoeing, is expected today. At the end of the week the girls who have completed the course will take the test under the supervision of Mr. Kenning.

Del Palma Peace Battle, Jean Hitchcock, Demora Ecker, Vonnie Marchesseau, and Sarah Dent Perry will be instructors for the pre-training period.

Athletic Leaders Attend Meeting

At the meeting of the Women's Athletic Association Wednesday night, Frances Battle was elected as Odd basketball leader. Louise Rice, president of W. A. A., and Minnie Rastiff, vice-president; were chosen by the organization to attend the National Physical Education convention which is to be held in Birmingham, Alabama, in April.

Life Saving Class Will Be Offered

An instructor's course in life saving will be offered by Harry Kenning of the Red Cross the first week in March. Mr. Kenning is the Florida and Georgia representative of the Red Cross in life saving.

There will be a pre-training period for the examination. Mr. Kenning's arrival, which will cover both swimming and canoeing, is expected today. At the end of the week the girls who have completed the course will take the test under the supervision of Mr. Kenning.

Del Palma Peace Battle, Jean Hitchcock, Demora Ecker, Vonnie Marchesseau, and Sarah Dent Perry will be instructors for the pre-training period.

Students Advised To Maintain Thinking Attitude On War

Survey Shows Collegians Have Heeded These Warnings And Do Not Want To Go To War

U. S. college students — some 1,400,000 strong — returned to classrooms and campuses last month amid a loud chorus of warnings and implorings. They were warned by the press and the presidents to maintain an open and thinking attitude on the present European war. They were implored to use their every influence to keep the U. S. clear of the war and to bend every energy to the peaceful study of the world's problems and how they can be met.

From the surveys that have appeared to date, it appears that the warnings and implorings stood these warnings and these commands. He maintains that he does not want to go to war, that he wants the U. S. to remain neutral. But he seems to have no objection to the U. S. selling goods of all kinds to the warring nations, so long as it is on a cash-and-carry basis. First real objection to the presidential proclamation of neutrality act changes was made at St. John's University, where 650 students signed a letter to the chief executive protesting "a new" partisan neutrality act without first consulting the people through the medium of a referendum." This movement has not yet gained much headway.

Editors of newspaper editorial opinion, though about evenly divided, seem inclined toward the president's proposal that the neutrality act be changed to provide for sale of materials to belligerents that can pay for it and transport it from our shores.

The arguments of those who oppose the change in policy are summarized by the St. John's University Record: "If the embargo were lifted business would undoubtedly flourish in America — for a while, that is — and Great Britain and France could pay cash. Britain and France would need Germany would never be allowed to purchase here. After England or France could get no more cash, no loans to the democracies that is ahead.

"I GET EXTRA MILDNESS EXTRA COOLNESS EXTRA FLAVOR in slower-burning Camels, says Bill Corum, famed sports writer and columnist

SURE I WORK FAST— BUT I LIKE MY SMOKING SLOW. MILDER, COOLER CAMELS ARE CHAMPS WITH ME

BILL CORUM'S sports news isn't just primed...it's sprinted...at lightning speed from press-box to press. But when the camera catches Bill in his office with a cigarette—"No speed for me in my smoking," he says.

His own common sense and smoking experience tell him what scientists have confirmed in their research laboratories—that "slow-burning cigarettes are extra mild, extra cool, fragrant, and flavorful." Cigarettes that burn fast just naturally burn hot. And nothing so surely wrecks the delicate elements of cigarette flavor and fragrance as excess heat. The delightful mildness, coolness, fragrance, and flavor of Camels are explained by this—Camels proved to be the slowest-burning cigarettes of the sixteen largest-selling brands tested! (The panel at right explains the test.)

MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF... MORE PUFFS PER PACK!

Camels—the cigarette of Costlier Tobaccos

LIGHTNING-FAST in the press-box! Why, Bill Corum's typewriter has to file 3,000 words of sizzling copy during a single big sports event. But no speed for him in his smoking—slower-burning Camels are Bill Corum's cigarette. He likes that extra mildness, coolness, and flavor.

Here's Bill at work in the quiet of his office. Bill...typewriter...books ...pictures...and Camels—slow-burning Camels. "I find them milder and cooler—and thriftier," he says. And, being a Camel fan of many years' standing, he ought to know.

FAST BURNING—cigarette hot from fast burning. Gets tongue, throat mildness, fragrance ...a cooler smoke ...

SLOW BURNING—proves how extra mild Camels are. They mean mildness, smoking taste, fragrance ...a cooler smoke ...

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

Copyright 1940 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Pardon Us

In our last issue we let our exuberance over the fact that student senate had passed a measure to allow dancing in sorority houses on Friday nights and Saturday mornings overwhelm us, and in our enthusiasm we did not add that this measure, like others, must pass through other channels of legislation before it becomes final. We sincerely regret this wrong interpretation, and if anyone is in doubt about the status of dancing at sorority houses on weekends, we hope this explanation will clear the matter up.

At the meeting of college council yesterday this same measure to allow dancing in sorority houses Friday nights and Saturday mornings, in addition to the present privilege of dancing Saturday afternoons and nights, came up for consideration, where it was referred to the legislative committee of college council. If it is approved by the committee, it will go back to college council. From there it will go to the faculty committee on student affairs where it will be approved or disapproved by vote. If it passes the faculty committee on student affairs it will go to the student senate again where it will be voted upon the second time. If, however, the legislative committee of college council does not approve the measure, it will be killed there.

There has been agitation for this piece of legislation before the recent measure was introduced. Whether or not dancing in sorority houses will go into effect at these stated times will depend upon the action of these various legislative bodies.

What to do with out-of-town dates on weekends remains a problem that this measure, should it be passed, would help to rectify. Besides that, it would be a step in the direction toward an approved place where girls and their dates could dance and get sodas and soft drinks any day in the week. Entertainment facilities being as limited as they are, the added privilege of dancing Friday as well as Saturday would be a boon for the monthly dances and at other times when men are on the campus.

Washington Lives On

We should be proud of the fact that when a scheduled speaker is unable to appear at the last minute, we are able to fill his place so capably from our own faculty. We are referring to the speech Dr. Robert S. Cutterill, of the history department, made as pinch-hitter for the commencement speaker last Saturday morning.

The speech, which was full of subtlety, had as its theme, Washington, one first citizen. Approaching his subject from a slightly different angle than usual, Dr. Cutterill discussed the part Washington had in war and peace in his time and his influence upon our foreign policy today. He said that plain good sense would be an invaluable asset for graduates to have not only in securing positions but also for life in general.

Our first mid-semester commencement exercises were made even more successful by Dr. Cutterill's polished speech on short notice. It is too bad that more of the student body were not present to hear the speech.

From Little Acorns Grow

With the beginning of a new semester comes the necessity of acquiring new books. The Y. W. C. A. book exchange, started here last year, has attempted to help students solve this problem economically and conveniently by establishing a place where students could sell or buy used books.

Judging from the appearance of some of the bulletin boards, however, some members of the student body are not availing themselves fully of this opportunity. Bulletin boards are intended to be functional rather than beautiful, and while students are to be commended for reading what is placed on the various bulletin boards around campus, it would seem much simpler merely to take a book to the exchange and go back later to collect the money or the book, if it were not sold.

We would like to see the book exchange patronized freely by the students, not only because it serves a worthy purpose, but because it has in it the beginnings of student cooperatives that could be extended into other branches. Our school is large enough, and takes in a wide enough economic stratum that cooperatives should find rich soil here. Let us lend our support to this first cooperative in the hope that more will follow.

"Colleges cannot talk about democracy and at the same time refuse to allow democratic principles and methods to be used on their own campuses. Boards of trustees, faculties as well as student bodies, must use democracy as a way of life effective here and everywhere." Dr. Gould Wickey, Council of Church Boards of Education secretary, demands that students and faculty members practice what they preach.

"The unit we must work with is the individual human being, and we are coming to understand that the student can't be subdivided either. It won't do to deal with his intellectual side alone and neglect his health and morale: we must reckon with his esthetic and emotional side, and by intelligent guidance help him adjust himself to the real world in which he must live. Liberal schools have been saying these things for years, now they are beginning to act as if they believed them." Dr. Frederick P. Keppel, Carnegie Corporation president, comments on teachers for their new educational policies. —A. C. P.

Ever Broadening Horizons

For the past two months the Religious Workers' council, composed of student secretaries and student and faculty representatives of the various religious denominations, has been working on a program for next year which will take the place of what has been formerly known as Religious Emphasis week on this campus. Plans were culminated Tuesday night when a proposed program of action was voted upon and agreed to by 16 representatives.

As it formerly existed, Religious Emphasis week has been criticized, both by the student body and the council, for its lack of sufficient publicity and preparation. Also, as evidenced through a recent report of the Inquiring Reporter, the morning forums proved to be unsuccessful. With these criticisms in mind the Religious Workers' council took steps to prepare a future program which would tie up the Youth Conference and other programs with Religious Emphasis week.

This program, which would follow the theme "Religion in Life" or some similar theme, would not be concentrated during one week, but would be continuous throughout the whole year. Four different speakers—one each quarter—would speak, instead of one. Following one general theme their subjects might be "Personal Religion," "Religion in Marriage" or "Religion in Science," "Social Message of Religion," and "Religion in the Future." They would speak in convocation and have at least two forums following.

In order to fully represent the campus in an undertaking which will have as its main purpose unity, a council committee proposed that there be a group of 100, which would represent the chief organizations of the campus and which would help organize as well as carry out the details of a program for next year. This committee would consist of a member of the executive council, lower court, judiciary, each class, each sorority, each off-campus house, a freshman advisor, four freshmen counselors, a senior council member, a day-student, a Y. W. C. A. representative, a Flambeau representative, a Democrat representative, a dietitian, the librarians, the social directors, the church secretaries. Dean Olivia Dorman, Dr. Edward Conradi, Dr. Robert Miller, Dr. Ernest F. Liddell, Dr. Elisabeth Andrews: representatives from the "F" club, W. A. A., Spirogira, Esterea, Le Cercle Francais, Deutsche Verein, Spanish club, Glee club, orchestra, sororities, Panhellenic, and the denominational groups, and 10 faculty members representing such groups as A. A. U. W. and A. A. U. P.

The plan is to have a dignified service, with the glee club, orchestra, and speech department helping in creating atmosphere, as well as providing the unifying factors of the program.

Funds for the speakers, as provided for in this plan, would be contributed by the Y. W. C. A. and the different religious organizations.

The Council committee will meet again in the spring to draw up the final plans for the next fall.

This movement apparently is a sincere attempt to analyze and vitalize the formal religious program of our campus. Patterned somewhat after the set-up which operated at the University of Florida during the University Christian Mission week the result of this plan should be to at least broaden the scope of contact and extend the range of emphasis of the program.

—Pauline Dale.

Collegiate Comebacks

The late lamented ice age may have had its disadvantages but we shall remember it always with a warm and pleasant glow—it will recall to our minds the fact that humaneness (like chivalry) is not dead. Some people may think that they have killed their humanitarian responsibilities when they send their dimes to the president. But WE know some girls who spent the better part of an afternoon breaking ice in fish ponds so that the fishes could breath.

* * * * *

And speaking, as we were, of minds, we think the following conversation is enlightening or something:

B. W. O. C: I wish I had two heads. One for extracurricular activities, and one for studying.

Friend: And have two heads? What to do up every night? Don't be silly!

* * * * *

And then there's the true tale about the girl who sailed through quarters with only 15 hours of unsatisfactories. When semester exams came up, one of her profs told her that it was useless to study. Of course the girl took the teacher's advice—she spent exam week between the movies and bridge. And on finals slept, and two grand slams. All of which proves teacher knows best—or sumpin.

* * * * *

We'd always wonder what happened to the Cross-Florida ship canal. Now we know that it got lost. Won't it be pleasant to look out of the windows of the new dining room and see ships sailing by? And comes exam week, wishing we were on them?

* * * * *

'Dog bites man' note from TSCW Lassos 'Stajkowski to Hear T. S. C. W. Musicians." No dombt he'll enjoy it.

* * * * *

And some people we know, who didn't have anything else to do during exam week composed the following parody on "I'm Pit to Be Tied."

I've got to get thin,
But where to begin?
My hips, they stick out.
I'm entirely too stout,
And I've got to get thin.
I've got to get thin,
My waist won't give in.
Oh. I eat a grape.
And look at my shape:
Forever and ever I've been on a diet, and look what the outcome has been Forever and ever I'll continue to try, and there's still that old double chin!
I've got to get thin,
But where to begin.
Oh. I ain't even cute
'Cause my figure don't suit.
And I've got to get thin.

* * * * *

And from the Saint Pete Junior College comes: "Some people are born to be great, others achieve greatness, and the majority just grate on your nerves."

* * * * *

We know you're all adither about the Scarlet O'Hara contest. So it seems coincidence that a Tallahassee lady's hair-dos have suddenly taken on an anti-bellum look? Personally, we plan to let ours go a few more days and then enter the competition as one of Mrs. Tarleton's horses.

* * * * *

Nysaah, we know we'd work that contest in somewhere!

* * * * *

Excerpts from one of those we-describe-em-you-names-em columns in The University of Georgia:

"If you are looking for what she's worth and sold her for what she thinks she's worth you should make a million."

"—If she ever met anyone of importance you will hear about it on your first date."

"—She prefers Tech to Georgia, and Georgia prefers Tech to her, which should make it even."

"Hasn't fair—she has a friend on the staff.

* * * * *

With apologies to Ted Key of the Democrat staff for openly plagiarizing his note to a certain young lady, also working on that paper, but it was simply too good to waste—it follows:

Note to Mercy: I'm to avoid a libel suit we have disrupted very carefully the name). Pardonee the paternal advice but re-read your wedding announcement.

A singular noun, or collective noun used singularly, always requires a singular verb.

Ex. The couple is at home to their enemies.
Wrong The couple are

Ex: The jury took its place near the rostrum . . . .
However: Members of the jury may take their places, etc.
Ex: Tom, with his mother, father, two cousins and two FSCW stooges, is in bed with influenza.
Note: . . . . FSCW stooges, are in bed . . . . .

Your Pedagogical Pal,
BSY.

Your Government . . . . . .

Of the three divisions of our student government it seems that the legislative, or student senate, is not only the most interesting, but also the branch in which the majority of the students can take active part. The meetings of senate are open not only to the student body but to the faculty, also and each of us has the right to speak for certain issues which we believe would be beneficial to the student body.

While we can only speak in senate, but have no personal vote, each organization and phase of campus life has its representative to vote for it's interests. Each person may make its opinions carry weight either by informing their representative of their attitude, or by going in person to express themselves upon the floor of senate.

* * * * *

Make-Up of Senate . . . .

To see how well the students as a whole are represented in senate consider the people making it up: the executive council, the chairman of the judiciary, the sophomore, the chairman of the off-campus committee, the presidents of the classes, the president of Y. W. C. A. the president of the athletic association, the president of the day students, the president of panhellenic, the chairman of sophomore council, two representatives from each class, one representative from the dormitories, the editor of the Flambeau, the business manager of the Flambeau, the chairmen of all standing committees, and the chairman of the college budget committee. With such a wide variety of representation represented, it can easily be seen that each of us has a channel through which to express an opinion.

* * * * *

Path of Legislation . . . .

At the last meeting of senate we had an excellent example of a group presenting legislation to remedy a situation which they felt needed improvement. Anita Lockey, as president of panhellenic, and representative of the sorority opinion on campus, presented a petition that dancing be allowed in sorority houses on Friday nights and Saturday mornings. To see the path that all legislation must follow before it becomes a law we can follow the route of this petition.

After it was brought up in senate the petition was sent to college council, which consists of a joint meeting of the faculty committee on student affairs and executive council. In order that all aspects of bills may be thoroughly considered and discussed, college council has a separate legislation committee. All legislation is referred to this committee, and because it is a smaller group than the entire executive council it is possible to consider legislation more minutely. Then the bill, either in its original form, or with such amendments as the committee sees fit to make, is sent back to student senate as a recommendation from college council. If senate approves the measure it is read by the president of the college government association to the student body in convocation, then posted a week, and becomes part of the laws of the college.

* * * * *

Origination of Measures . . . .

Student senate is not the only body in which legislation may arise. The student executive council or the faculty committee on student affairs may also send legislation to college council for consideration; however, in none of these bodies, except student executive council, or faculty committee on student affairs is legislation voted upon until after it has been sent to college council. The vote is taken after the senate members return to them a recommendation from college council. In case it is passed by one and refused by the other, it must be referred a second time to the joint session for reconsideration and recommendation. Written reasons for rejecting the legislation must be attached to each measure.

In the case of constitutional changes the procedure is slightly different. The bill follows the same route, but instead of merely being read in student body meeting before it becomes part of the laws it must be read once in convocation, posted for two weeks, and then be voted upon and passed by the student body.

* * * * *

Leadership Training Course for Officers . . .

As everyone knows, beginning Monday of next week Mortar board is holding training courses for those girls who are interested in holding offices in various campus organizations, in student government, or in sororities. While the courses are especially for the girls who want to hold offices, it will also be valuable to anyone who feels that she needs to know more about parliamentary procedure or the organization of groups.

Magazine Jottings . . . .

When John Steinbeck's powerful novel, "The Grapes of Wrath," was accepted and published, no end of discussion and dismay was felt by most of the citizenry who read or heard about the book. The dismay was due to what the delicate-minded people termed "the obscenity" of the book. The discomfort arose because Mr. Steinbeck dared to use crudities, broadly speaking, the Declaration of Independence.

The Declaration says, "All men are born free and equal." They are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights, among them life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." But, "Ha!" said Mr. Steinbeck, and proceeded to refute this sentiment in several hundred pages dealing with the migration of dust bowl tenant farmers into California.

Newspapers and magazines gathered up their respective pens, and wrote articles, a lot of them, pro and con on the relative obscenity or propriety of the book. But a few publications paid attention to the important fact: not the obscenity or purity of the novel, but the social and economic conditions of the characters in the book. Fortune was one of these rare magazines.

Fortunr Fares Facts.

In the February issue of Fortune, from material gathered from governmental pamphlets, an article was written by members of the staff called, "The Dispossessed." The theme of the article states, "For one fourth of the population there is no economic system. And from the rest there is no answer."

According to this article, we find that 30 million people are unemployed in the United States today, seven times the population of Finland. Five unemployed are destitute by the authors of the article as not being cogs in the machinery of our economic system, but wrenches.

There are three ways, they suggest, of getting rid of this incubus on the economic conscience. One is the easiest way to be just ignore it totally. And this is easy all that is necessary is to assume the attitude. "Well, the poor have always with us, you know." Then the second way is by the advent of war. Unemployed men, when approached said this said. "What's the use? We're not doing anything any way. We might as well get as much as we can." And there is communism and fascism. This is a delicate subject, and the article treats it as such, suggesting that most unemployed have taken up a new philosophy of economics as a way out.

At this point we learn a startling thing. While 18 per cent of the unemployed live in the urban areas, there is also a population of over 10,000, tha rest of the unemployed truly miserable and dispossessed. live in the rural areas.

Rural Areas Are Worst

The first rural area of importance is the southern Appalachian region, which includes portions of the states of Virginia West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, and North Carolina

The second area is the one-crop Cotton Belt, which extends from North Carolina through Georgia and over to Missouri and Texas.

The region around the great lakes, particularly Lake Superior and Lake Michigan is the third rerion. This includes the states of Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

The fourth region is the one discussed by Steinbeck in the so-called Dust Bowl region of the middle west. The region of the Great Plains.

The article at this point gives case histories of people in these four regions. It points out that one fourth of the unemployed are women, and that probably many of these women wouldn't have to work if their husbands were employed. Three million families exist in which not a single member has a job of any sort. That would make it need 4,500,000 employable workers.

Unemployment has detrimental effects. The long duration is not a blessing. Men less likely to be hired as bad for health to be unemployed, and one third of the people arrested this past year were young people between the ages of 15 and 25 who wanted jobs and couldn't get them.

The article concludes with a list of the various governments aids given to unemployed persons, the F.E.R.A., the C.W.A., the PSA, the CCC, the NYA, and the WDA.

—Vivian Ahlweil.

Speaking of obscenity in connection with "The Grapes of Wrath" brings to mind two excellent articles that are appearing this month in the general magazine of which that is not obscene The first article appears in the current issue of the U. S Camera Magazine, authored by a professional photographer. The second can be found in the magazine by Courtney Riley Cooper, well-known for his writings on crime.

"The Law, the Lens, and tha Law", is the title of the first article and tells its own story. It is frankly a magazine article defending the artistic photographing of nude figures. The exceptional article in all points, and is written in an eloquently written, but the author chrystalises his thoughts and subdues his readers by pointing to examples of classic sculpture and painting.

Are such pieces of art as "The Birth of Venus," "Rape of Proserpine," Michelangelo's "The Birth of Adam," "Cupid and Psyche" vulgar? asks the author. If you say that portraits of nudes arouse "impure thoughts," we are "impure minded," and how can they be distinguished from "pure thoughts "

The article itself is beautifully illustrated with reproductions of famous paintings and several excellent photographs of current subjects.

"The Trash Must Go," is a passionate protest launched by Mr. Cooper against the trashy pulp magazines that line the stands of any town today. According to the writer there are not more than a few magazines in the pulp group that are at all decent. Most of the rest are low down and the general public healthiness of mind. You can recognize these magazines, he says.

Mr. Cooper goes on to say that some sort of law should be passed prosecuting the publishers of these magazines.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

JEANNETTE MULLIS ..... Editor-in-Chief
MABEL BRUNETT ..... Associate Editor
MARY ELLEN LOUISE RICH ..... Associate Editor
VIRGIL ARLOWER ..... Associate Editor

Reporters: Dorothy Douglas, Ophelia Hays, Margaret Painter, Clarice Taylor, Dacy Doherty, Margaret Scott, Carrie Brown, Betty Jane Hall, Ruth Wood, Dorothy Nash, Pauline Bethea, Virginia Gilbert, Opheles Bilyeu, Estelle Stone, Pentiuse, Jane Cone.

Reporters: Marjorie Cordes, Mary Lou Clayton, Jane Mitchell, Mary Weierhaeuse, Sibyle Sanders, Belle Tonge, Jonnie Thomasson, Mary Ann Bowden, Margaret Rogers, Barrett Hall, Mary Ann Cooper, Jane Bryan, Jeanne Bryan, Jeanette Holland, Bettie Pharr, Grace Hudgins, Dot Mathis, Dale Kinsey, Jean Hilyer, Pauline Daly, Bettie Shaw Weaver, Eleanor Miller, Verona Fain, Dorothy Hubbard, Betty Talley, Betty Jo Kirkham, Patsy McCrary.

BUSINESS STAFF

GRACE SPARKMAN ..... Business Manager
LILLIAN BOWERS ..... Assistant Business Manager
VELMA PATE ..... Circulation Manager
MARY OLIVER OSTRANDER ..... Circulation Manager

Entered as second class mail matter, January 25, 1915, at the postoffice at Tallahassee Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Members National Collegiate Press Association and Florida Collegiate Press Association.

Of The World

With the decrease in military operations due to the snow and cold of a severe nature, diplomatic negotiations have become of increasing importance. Rumania's wealth of oil is giving "lichy finances" to both the Allies and the Germans, much as E did in 1914 when an Allied mission helped the Rumanian government put the wells out of action. Now, however, they are producing oil again, and at a very rapid rate, due to British, French, Belgian, Dutch, and American skills. The exports of oil sent from Rumania have been to the hundreds of thousands of tons for the past five years and at this point in the war, that much oil is of much interest to any of the participating parties.

The Balkans, so long incompatible among themselves, are more closely knit together than they have been since the World war. The "conversion of diplomats," which seems to be taking place in Bucharest is regarded by the Balkan people as an excellent cause for the laying aside of petty troubles and has become a cry to them for presenting to the world a solid front against the gentle inroads of the diplomatic or otherwise agents of the Reich are mainly interested, of course. It has well organized oil companies built with Allies' funds behind, though not active in negotiating, would benefit tremendously if she could obtain some control over Rumania's oil.

Though the German people are not disapproving of little Finland and her admirable defense in the face of Soviet invasion, Germany seems to be showing Russia much more than she is Finland. Airplanes bound from Italy to Finland have not been allowed to pass over German soil; the Scandinavian countries have been attacked by the German press for allowing munitions to pass; France and Britain, though they have made no secret of their sympathy for Finland, have been hesitant about extending aid to Finland probably because of fear of strengthening the Moscow-Berlin bond. Germany, however, may solve the Finnish-Russian struggle, on the side of the Soviet, thus making the two European wars one.

President Roosevelt's second term in office will end on January 20, 1941. The question of "third term" which has been doled out and re-debated all over the country was opened once more by John L. Lewis in his speech to the miners at the C. I. O. union meeting. His prediction that Franklin D. Roosevelt would encounter "ignominious defeat" if the Democratic National convention should be "coerced or influenced into renominating him," brought an accelerated renewal of "third term discussions". The president of the American Federation of Labor, William Green seems to be on excellent terms with the president. The president as yet has made no comment on reference to a third term for himself.

Hostetter to Conduct French Club Program

Martha Hostetter will conduct the program at the French club's first meeting of the semester being held in Broward lounge at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It will include a lecture on France given by Helen Emmanuel, and a skit in which a Frenchman has some laughable difficulties with the English language. In this, the part of the Frenchman will be taken by Dorothy Gibbs and Helen Dahlgren will be her English tutor.

The club will also start learning the Marseilles, the national French anthem, with Martha Ann Hoffman accompanying them at the piano. Other French songs already learned will be sung at the end of the program.

An additional feature will be the distribution of French material, received from the French House in New York.

Classes Work on Mural

The art classes of Florida high school, under the supervision of Mr. Donaldson and Dot Parker, practice teacher, are planning a mural painting of the history of Tallahassee for the school auditorium. The mural, which will be six by thirty-six feet in size, will be done in oils. At present many of the art students are doing research on their theme "The History of the Development of the City of Tallahassee," while others are preparing the wall for the painting. Mr. Donaldson plans to photograph various stages in the development of the mural.

During the first nine months of 1939, sexanotical products valued at $17,238,531 were exported from the United States.

Episcopals Plan Lenten Services

Schedule of Daily Activities Given

From now until Easter most of the Episcopal student activities will center about Lent, which will extend over a period of forty-six days beginning February 7, and ending on Easter, March 24. The Lenten services will follow the program below:

Ash Wednesday, 7:15 a. m. Holy Communion; weekdays and Saturdays, 8:10 a. m., morning watch; Tuesday, 4:30 p. m., choral confirmation class; Thursdays, 10:00 a. m., evening prayer; Friday, 12:15 a. m., Holy Communion; 8:00 p. m. Preview Free Book "Some Truths of the Church"; Sundays: 8:30 a. m. study class, "The Life of Christ"; 7:30 p. m., student auxiliary, "Madras Conference"; Holy Week, 8:10 a. m. morning watch; 6:00 p. m. choral vesper service.

The weekly forums will have as their subjects "Why the Four Months of Lent," February 9; "Lent" February 9: "The Bible—As Revelation of the Word of God," February 16; "The Nicene Creed—Sufficient Statement of Christian Faith," February 23; "The Two Sacraments," March 8, and "The Historic Episcopate," March 15.

The Sunday student auxiliary subjects will be: "What Was the Madras Conference?" by Reverend Ann Webb on February 11; "The Church and the Changing Social Order" by Reverend Mr. Louis Gordon, February 18; "The Church Year" March 3; "Prayer" by Lenora Dale, February 26; "The Church and the Religious Orders" by Janet Wella, March 3; "The Church and the State," by Reverend Mr. Gordon, March 10; "Cooperation and Unity," by Reverend Irvin, March 17.

Tonight at 7:30, the last of the after-dinner coffee's before Lent will be served at Rose hall.

Sunday morning at 8:30 the study class will continue its studies of the "Life of Christ," with Peggy Lewis leading.

At 7:30 in the evening a pre-Lenten program will be presented.

On Monday afternoon the Episcopal student vestry will hold a supper meeting at Rugg hall at 5 o'clock.

February 6, on Shrove Tuesday, the young people's service league of St. John's church will sponsor a pancake supper from 6 until 8 o'clock.

On February 7, Ash Wednesday the Holy Communion services will be held at 7:15 in the morning.

Thursday evening the first of the Compline services for Lent will begin at 10 o'clock.

Campus Epidemic Wanes After Week

The recent illness which spread over the campus, drawing approximately 200 students into the infirmary, waned after a week's duration with no infirmary admissions reported Wednesday according to Dr. Frank Moor, college physician.

"This intestinal upset is very similar to influenza," stated Dr. Moor, "however, instead of attacking the nose, throat and bronchial tubes, it effects the gastrointestinal tract." Judging by its rapid spread it is an infectious disease. Not only have students been affected by it, but townspeople and persons living in other parts of the state."

Last year at this same time a number of students suffered from a similar upset. Officers from the state board of health were summoned but were unsuccessful in determining the cause.

Newmanites Plan Buffet Supper

Next meeting of the Newman club will be at 8 p. m. February 14 in the Tower Room of the Westcott building. Plans for the club buffet supper at the Catholic rectory February 25, will be made at that time. Officers will have a half hour before the regular meeting.

"Bull Session" was the theme of the Newman club meeting Wednesday night in Broward lounge. Suzanne Wilson, Alice Mahaffey, Kathleen McKinley and Carmen Alvarez discussed questions generally asked Catholics in bull session style. Catherine Brown, parliamentarian, gave suggestions as to how meetings could be held more correctly.

Some Indians scalped their foes long before the coming of the white man.

DUKE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
DURHAM, N. C.

Four terms of eleven weeks are given each year. Three terms of 16 weeks each lead to the degree of doctor of medicine (graduate in three years) and two terms of 16 weeks each lead to the degree of bachelor of science (graduate in four years). The entrance requirements are the completion of two years of work in an approved college work, including the subjects specified for Class A medical schools. Catalogues and application forms may be obtained from the Admission Committee.

Bewildered Student Receives Anonymous Notes And Presents

Sonnets, Candy and Cake of Ice Make Up Offerings from Unknown Benefactor

Do you have a repressed desire to write an anonymous letter? If you do, here is your chance to express it. Marian Caddum is quite accustomed to receiving anonymous notes. Some have been getting unsigned letters and poems for weeks.

It all started about three weeks ago when Marian was awakened by the dinner bell to find an offering of candy on the bed. On Friday, Valentine's day, another unknown friend had written a note with this message: "If you like this candy, eat it. If you don't like it, throw it away." We helped Marian dispose of it—but was very good.

That same night here was an unsigned note left on the door while Marian was at dinner, directing her to look behind the door if she wanted some more candy. She found little packets of the same variety of fudge was there when Marian looked. We assisted in the disposal of this present as well.

Marian then poems and letters in her mail box from this unknown benefactor. The second is a favorite literary form. Marian is a little inhibited about showing her poems about now, as it has threatened her with dire punishment if she tell anyone see them.

One night it arranged a treasure hunt for both Marian and her roommate. A note on the door contained the first hint. After looking all over their room, they finally found the prize: more candy. This time it was store-bought; that made it hard to find a suspect. Not everyone in Florida is out and out homemade fudge, but anybody (except the broke people like us) can go out and buy some little mints or something.

By this time Marian was quite curious about it. She wanted to know who sent her all the presents. The letters didn't bother her very much. She had a few suspects, but they all found alibis. The surprise was bearable, however, while the presents were food and she could enjoy them. But when she came home from a long, hard exam and found a cake of ice on the floor of her room, she was a little more than just curious to know who had done it. Marian did get some consolation out of knowing that it had had to carry the ice all the way from the fountain. But it probably had been, as that wasn't much consolation. It was no longer a benefactor; it was then a culprit—a criminal. The water didn't dry up for just days and days, and Marian had to keep walking around it.

A story of boy-meets-girl written in valentine candy was one of the latest contributions. The conversation started like the trite "Hi, babe." "Oh your way, big boy". Marian was quite distressed about tearing the story up, but food is food and after all one does have to go to bed after exam week is over. Of course, it had put the story on the bed.

Marian suspects several people who live on her floor of being it, but they're either very good liars or they really know nothing about it—she still doesn't know.

Walstrome Speaks In Convocation

Miss Katherine Walstrome, associate field secretary of the Camp Fire Girls, and Cornelia Watson, Florida state college's representative to the N. S. F. A. conference in Minnesota, were guest speakers in convocation on Tuesday.

Miss Walstrome spoke on the work of the Camp Fire groups and encouraged the students to organize similar groups in their home towns. Cornelia told of the convention, her experiences and the meetings she attended.

Katherine Graham, president of the college government association, read to the student body a constitutional change which is to be voted on February 13. The change is as follows: The president senate committee, the N. S. F. A. forum committee, established in the year 1935-36, will cease to exist as a committee.

A student forum will be set up to take its place, performing the same functions as the N. S. F. A. forum. A chairman, who shall be the third vice-president of the college government association will conduct the activities of the forum. She will be assisted by an executive committee composed of one representative from each of the three incoming classes, sophomore, junior, and senior, of the college. She will be elected at the first meeting of the forum after the installation of the new chairman.

A third vice-president of the college government association will be added to the executive board. Her duties shall be to act as chairman of the student forum and to serve as the representative of the national student federation of America on the campus. She will receive all communications from the national group, will present these ideas in forum meetings and executive council meetings, and will notify the national group about the activities on this campus.

Snakes are able to digest the bones and teeth of the animals they swallow.

Library Displays Printing Motif

"Five Hundred Years in Printing" is the theme of the library exhibit this week, since 1940 marks the five-hundredth birthday of printing industry. The exhibit traces printing from its beginning up to the present time.

Of special note is a manuscript from a copy of the Latin Vulgate written in Germany in 1450, a fachsimile page of the Gutenberg Bible, which is called the "42 line Bible," and "Gutenberg and Plist with the First Printed Prayer" from the painting, 1861, by Eugene Ernest Hillemachr. These manuscripts show the beginning of printing from the movable type and adding colors to printing by hand.

There is the "Illuminated Book of Hours," written during the 15th century on white vellum, large Gothic script, gold leaves, and red, green and blue blossoms.

Of importance are the books on display showing the history of printing and the origin of paper. China contributed paper, block printing and ink. The Greeks and Romans used rolls, not bound volumes. In the early 16th century secular scribes, schoolmasters and town clerks started a huge production of manuscripts.

There is also an unique collection of the earliest things written which include "The Odyssey of Homer," the Works of Aristotle and Plato, "The Divine Comedy", Dante, and numerous others.

Unique Series of Nationality Classrooms Attract Attention

European Art, Culture And Tradition Preserved in Cathedral of Learning

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—(ACP) — Art, culture, and traditions of European lands now at work are preserved in a unique series of nationality classrooms in the University of Pittsburgh's world-famed 42-story Cathedral of Learning, but the political strides and racial hatreds are in no way suggested. The 18 nationality rooms, a "little league of nations," are projects of national groups in this country.

Here in the nine rooms already completed, students and faculty may enjoy the culture, art, and architecture of many countries now at war. Art, which remains one boundary lines, portrays in concrete form the fine instincts of the peoples represented.

The classrooms, with decorations and appointments authentic and in keeping with some period in the history of the nation represented, offer the inspiration which the best artists and philosophers of the various peoples have given to the world.

There is no necessary relation between the character of the rooms and the subjects taught in them. The idea is much simpler. It is that youth, preparing for useful lives, shall acquire a reverence of other useful lives in other times and other lands.

Purdom Lectures On Vocations

In a speech on vocational opportunities for college women, Dr. Luther T. Purdom, director of vocational guidance at the University of Michigan, said that these opportunities are numerous as there are few fields in which women do not today take part.

Dr. Purdom, who places Michigan students in positions, said that college students should do two things. They should make use of college days, friends, and teachers to find out what they have that is worth developing and selling, and they should find out what they have that keeps them from being wanted by friends and from being productive agents and get rid of it.

He pointed out that appearance, attitude, and people whom you know are of primary importance in fruitful job-hunting. "Look as nice as possible, take a pleasant attitude toward the community and people, and, above all things, be sure that two or three people know you well before you leave college," he advised the student.

Dr. Purdom stressed the importance of the student's developing something to offer. He declared that to get a job the student has to render service.

The lecture was under the auspices of the office of personnel which is sponsoring a series of vocational guidance lectures.

Mural Designs Will Be Judged

A mural contest will be held at the end of this quarter for the completed paintings entered by the students in the advanced mural art class. A variety of subjects are being worked out.

The theme of Lucille Walker's mural is the gathering of tropical foods, bananas and cocoanuts. A tropical landscape is being used as background. Frances Coalson is painting a negro picnic scene. Phoebe James a typical college tea-room. Beryl Mitchell is Thanksgiving with a turkey scene, and Rachel Erwin is depicting modern dance.

The committee judging for the contest will include several faculty members from the art department and the following members of resident halls committee: Mrs. Beatrice Bever Williams, professor of art; Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence hall; Dr. Olivia Dorman, dean of students, and Miss Lucile Comstock, assistant professor of home economics.

Presbyterians Map Spring Activities

Last night the Junior and Senior Presbyterian Student couples had a joint social for the purpose of mapping out the work for the spring term. The meeting was held at the home of Rev. E. N. Caldwell, and two officers were added to the senior council: Elizabeth Miller who will succeed Ruth Hampton as treasurer, and Mary Clark Caldwell who will succeed Alberta Lyles as student house chairman.

The Presbyterian student association will resume all of its activities now that examinations are over. Sunday evening Elizabeth Miller will have charge of the league program having as her subject, "Partner With God."

Beginning tomorrow night ladies of the church will begin opening their homes to the students on Saturday evenings. These at homes are in charge of Louise Patterson who issues invitations and has charge of the entertainment for the evening. Mrs. W. O Phillips will be the hostess tomorrow night.

Beginning February 18, Dr. William Robinson of Columbia Theological seminary of Decatur, Ga., will be the evangelistic speaker. He will be with us for one week, speaking each evening at the Presbyterian church.

If You're About To...

TAKE A TRIP—one dollar is amply allowed
GET INTO A SPRING MOOD—you'll feel more wonderful in An exciting Ensemble in "SWING PARADE" woven with Clinene® Rayon Yarn

Donald Brooks of Hollywood

As seen in MADEMOISELLE

Young, gay sheer crepe ensembles meant for you whatever your destiny! Left: Become a Bride boasts a slim waisted coat that fits like a dream. Right: "Spring Mood" buttons below its doll waist or to the hem if you prefer. Each has a thrilling matching dress beneath - in luscious glowing shades

the VOGUE tallahassee, feminine wearables

Sup. U. S. Pat. Off.

No. 1336

No. 1298

No. 1256

by Joan Kenley

AS SEEN IN MADEMOISELLE

GARDENIA-WHITE
DOLL BLOUSES*

SOFT FRENCH FINISH SHEER BATISTE with Imported Val Lace

Fresh as a dewy flower—lovely as you baby dress . . this is the very fine quality batiste and Val lace that is becoming so difficult to secure. Their beguile air will give a lift to your suit or skirt, now thru summer. The sketches can't do justice to the sensitive lace touches, the delicate lace insertions, the intricate sacrodous inserting. All washable. Pick your beauty!

No. 1254

No. 1258—Imported sheer rue tuck dotted swiss yoke, repeated in eyelet embroider. Sizes 32-44. $5.00

No. 1299 — Deep, dainty yoke of insertion and embroidered work. Collar and bishoned to match. 32-42. $3.00

No. 1295—Deep insertion yoke, bishoned, lace edging and embroidered flutid. 32-44. $5.00

No. 1285—Pin tucked cotton batiste (over 100 tucks), and special sleeve top. Val lace insets, lace edging. 32-42. $5.00*

No. 1254 — Crushed petal blouse. 36 pin tucks to a petal. Insets of lace and lace edging on petals and neck. Lace edged sleeves, all shoulder pin tucks. 32-38. $5.00

*Reg U S Pat Off.

the VOGUE tallahassee, florida
feminine wearables

Valentines Will Decorate Chi Omega Dance Tomorrow

Valentines and wittly leap year verses will decorate the Chi Omega formal dance at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night. Guests will enter the dance through a huge red heart which will open to reveal the decorations. The ceilings will be strung with balloons and little red hearts bearing the date 1940 and verses appropriate to the occasion written in white ink. Over the mantle will hang a double heart pierced with cupid's arrow and around the walls will be combinations pertaining to the leap year.

Hostesses for the dance include Amelia Gordy, Jane Wells, Martha Baxter, Bea Bryant, Mary Philips Chalker, Wilda Finlayson, Nancy Horney, Evelyn Hussey, Adrian Jewell, Jean McCord, Imogene Parramore, Isabel Ramsey Margaret Rodgers, Frances Slade, Jean Sparkman, Belva Sutton, Mary Swearingen, Ann Young, Daphne Wilson, Julia Winn, Dottie Mae Anderson, Annette Cone, Jane Price, Rebecca Pickens, Rhyne Martha Whitehurst, Kitty Adams, Virginia Allen, Mildred Bates, Ruth Binnicker, Ann Craig, Olive Dell, Margaret Hearin, Ella Maude Jones, Mary Lou MacGowan, Margaret Miller, Mary Frances Oven, and Betty Setser.

Beverly Sherard, Ann Southerland, Jane Tarr, Mary Lois Thomas, Mildred Anderson, Elaine Bessler, Annie Lee Cannon, Gloria Johnston, Kate Hedrick, Ducilla Montgomery, Mary Frances Nan Insram, Mary Anna McBride, Nona McEuen, Mary Reuar, Dorothy Stallings, Ann Wilson, and Edna Earle Wilson.

Guests Invited

Guests invited include: Bascom Anderson, Chatty Andrews, Tom Appleyard, Bill Ashe, Jack Ausley, John Allison, Byrne Linsdel, Lonnie Battle, Ben Hush Burnett, Sidney Benford, Walter Bess, Dick Binnicker, Charlie Boyd, Tom Bishop, Wilson Bell, Bobby Bert, Ben Bridges, Thomas Bunkley, Billy Bell, Bill Drew, Charlie Davis, John Dawson, Jim Paul Evans, Jack Ellis, Harold Davitt, Billy Graham, Lee Grahme, Charles Green, Dell Hinde, Bill Hall, Jack Hamilton, Ellis, Lewis Gregory, Bob Gardner, Bob Gardner, Gordon Gaskins, Billy Goss, and Warren Edwards.

Palis Embry, Victor Embry, Henry Wilson, Russell Perry, Watson Freeman, Paul Fleming, Jack Freeman, Al Gilchrist, Sammy Carter, Carl Cutliff, Bookie Cooper, Frank Cooper, Jim Clarke, Jimmy Casen, Bill Carey, Bob Cushman, Doyle Carlton, John Cavin, Charles Carrington, Jack Craft, Lunceford Crew, Howell Cobb, Bill Cannon, Mitchell Copling, Jack Jardon, Gordon Johnson, George Jackson, Fraiser Johnson, Jack Jones, Bill Hearin, Ben Hunt, Jack Hendricks, Rob Hutchinson, Jack Hall, Jimmy Huddleston, Boyd Harris, Walter Hendricks, Jack Hunter, Jimmy Harrison, Gene Holsinger, Dave Hedrick, Billy Holsted, Sylvan Isaacs, Jimmy Jones, Mitchell Joe Moore, Arthur Malone, Jack Mundy, Tom Murphy, Jimmy May, Benny McClain, Peter Manson, and George Melton.

More Guests

Bob Millon, Bob McCoy, Ashby Mercer, Bill Mercer, Jack Merrell, Frank McMichael, Jack Mc-Connaughhead, Jim McCarthy, Homer, John Mead, Ray MacIntyre, Ben McCabey, Waring Miller, Jack Miller, Jack McCarty, Hamilton Mathis, Lesley Mathis, Jim Murphy, Charles Mathews, Hamilton McCluffy, Hal Morelock, Ray Mathis, Lesley Mathis, Jim Murphy, Charles Mathews, Hamilton McCluffy, Hal Morelock, Ray Mathis, Lesley Mathis, Jim Murphy, Charles Mathews, Hamilton McCluffy, Hal Morelock, Ray Lewis, Jeff Lewis, Dwight Rogers, Charlie Littleton, Sonny Stearns, Lucille Stevens, Ann Kemp, Bonnie King, Dickie King, Ed Hood, Joe Hudson, Jimmie Hudson, Jack Carter, Harlan Logan, Sammy Looney, Bill Mead, George Carter, Jack Randall, Jimmy Mercer, Dick Sinden, Bobby Young, Jack Young, Bill Young, Ray Vap Dyke, George Young, J. H. Williams, and Frank Watson.

Committees Make Plans For Junior-Senior Prom Next Saturday Night

Juniors and seniors will dance next Saturday night at their annual prom in the old dining room. The orchestra has not been selected as yet, but will be announced soon.

Elizabeth Anne Webb, senior class president, and Anne Jones, junior class president, are in general chairmen in charge of arrangements. Other committee heads are: Pat Brandt, decorations; Jean Nicholson, refreshments; Mary Agnes Jones, programs; Minnie Ratliff, entertainment; Jane Hollis, tickets and invitations; and Carolyn Mims, Kathleen McCathy, and Ola Belle Tucker, music.

Library Has Valued Collections

Among 76,000 Volumes Are Some Rare Editions; Browsing and Newspaper Rooms Are Newest Features

By VELMA PATE

Since the dedication of the library by Gowrn r Doyle E. Carlton on June 2, 1930, the number of volumes in the library has more than doubled. In the nine years since that date the shelf space provided at that time has been completely filled by the addition of about 41,500 volumes, 113 magazines and 18,900 pamphlets. In this time the circulation has increased from about 227,371 books a year to 293,863.

At present the library has 76,000 volumes, 22,400 pamphlets, 1,700 pictures, and subscribes to 448 magazines and 61 newspapers. Last year 2,900 books were added by gift and purchase, and since 1929, about 48,300 volumes have been added. Last year 293,863 books were circulated which is an increase of 46,512 over the circulation for 1928-29. To take care of this great increase in the size of the library and circulation, 12 trained librarians and 20 student assistants are employed; whereas, 10 years ago only 5 staff members and 6 student assistants were necessary.

Library Was Small

In 1929 the library consisted of the upper floor of the west wing of the present building. At that time it had 18,000 bound volumes and subscribed to 156 periodicals and 5 newspapers. Miss Lucile Richardson, Mrs. Clara Rider Haden, and two student assistants made up the staff.

Among the 76,900 volumes in the library at present are some rare and valuable books which are not to be found in any other library in the state. In 1934 the Library of Congress requested the privilege of making photostat copies of two maps which were to be found only here. One of these was a sketch showing lands and waterways of the Florida Coast Line Canal and Transportation company, and the other was Bernard Romans map of 1775, illustrating the march of Hernando Desoto, which was published by the Bradford Club in 1881. Both maps were needed to complete the files of this governmental Library.

Collections Are Valuable

The Floridana and Americana collections are the most interesting and valuable sets in the library. Every year valuable books are added to these collections, and for the last four years the Mc-Gregor Foundation has given $500 a year to spend on rare early American books. Florida State college is one of the ten libraries in the country that are privileged to receive this grant. The Floridana collection contains all books and pamphlets written about Florida by Floridans, and many thousand photographs of the state's history. One of the most rare and valuable books in this collection is "Public Acts of Legislative Council of the Territory of Florida" prior to 1838, which was published in Tallahassee in 1839. In this collection is a French translation of Garcilso de la Vega's Historie de la Conquete de la Florida, 1811 edition.

Another prized collection is the set of McGuffey's Readers which were donated by Henry Ford in 1928. The readers are exact reprints of the first edition of McGuffey's.

In the periodical room are found bound magazines dating back to the opening of the nineteenth century. The oldest is an 1817 edition of Blackwood's magazine which has a story on the newly elected President monroe. On file also are the Atlantic Monthly, dating back to 1857, Plasteowo's Journal, 1792, the first edition in 1916, and college catalogues back to 1900.

Newspaper Room Opened

Two important new features added by the library since the dedication in 1930, are the browsing room and the newspaper room. The browsing room, which is on the third floor, has 2,800 books which are gifts from students, Alumni and the Carnegies corporation. This room are books of poetry, plays, travel, biography, and other recreational reading. It is comfortably furnished with easy chairs and couches. The Carnegie corporation gave the library $5,000 of the Carnegie Endowment fund in 1930 to be used for books of this nature. It is open for several hours each Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The newspaper room which was opened last spring is the latest service offered by the library. Files of the New York Times, Florida Times Union and the Daily Democrat are found in the newspaper room on the third floor. It is open for a part of each day.

The Florida State college library is continuing its rapid expansion and growth. Although no statistics are available, Miss Richardson observed that the circulation this year is far larger than it was at this time last year.

Survey Reveals Career Girl In Great Demand

Greatest Expansion Comes As Result Of New Office Machinery

Opportunities for career service for women are increasing constantly, a study of governmental compiled figures on employment of women in clerical positions reveals, according to Mrs. Adria G. Beaver, director of studies of the Washington School for Secretaries.

Based on government statistics, Mrs. Beaver, in a bulletin prepared for students of the school in Washington and the companion school in New York, predicts that these opportunities will continue to expand with the development and improvement of office machinery.

For, according to the figures the greatest expansion in office careers for women as well as men has occurred during the period when the modern office equipment was being invented and coming into general use.

Mrs. Beaver also finds as a result of her survey that the improved equipment of offices had resulted in more interesting work of this type of employee. This improved condition of the worker, she explained, is unquestionably due to the persons of higher education who are being attracted to office work.

United States census figures are cited by Mrs. Beaver to show that from 1920 to 1930, the period when the modern office machinery was coming into general use, the number of clerical workers increased by nearly 90 per cent while the total population of the country increased only about 16 per cent.

Even more startling figures cover the period from 1900 to 1930, when the population gained about 63 per cent with the number of clerical workers increasing by more than 300 per cent.

An interesting sidelight on the particular appeal of office work to women is a career is shown by the percentage of stenographers and typists who were women in 1870 as compared with the percentage in 1930. Slightly less than 5 per cent of the 1870 stenographers were women, while in 1930 the percentage was somewhere over 90.

Apparently, says Mrs. Beaver, these careers were opened up to women because of a shortage in spite of, the increased mechanization of office work. Since it is likely that continued improvement of office equipment will continue for many years, she reaches the conclusion that there will be a continuing and increasing demand or highly educated and specially trained office workers of both sexes.

Alpha Gamma Deltas Plan Two Teas for This Week

Chapter members and pledges of Alpha Gamma Delta will entertain friends at an informal tea tomorrow afternoon from 5 to 6 o'clock. They will entertain again on Wednesday afternoon at an informal faculty tea from 5 to 6.30 o'clock Lib Moore is in charge of arrangements.

Training Course For Leadership Open Monday

Continued from Page One

follows: Monday, February 12, chairman of off-campus committee, conference by Mary Louise Nelson, 4:30; Chairman of house committees, house chairmen, Mamie Ruth Bagnott, 5:30; Tuesday, February 13, freshman advisers, Jessie Kingsford, 4:30; President of college government association, Katherine Graham, 5:30; Chairman of judiciary council, Marjorie Jessup, 7:45.

Wednesday, February 14, social and vice-president, Carolyn Mims, 4:30; First vice-president, Mamie Murphy, 5:30; Chairman of house chairmen—for chairman, Sarah Frost Rawls, 7:45; Secretary, Mart Pierson, 1:30.

Thursday, February 15, Treasurer, Lynette Thompson, 4:30; Chairman of judiciary (special), Marjorie Jessup, 7:45.

Friday, February 16, freshman advisor, Dorothea Kreppel, 4:30; President of college government association, Katherine Graham, 5:30.

All the classes are to be held in the College Librarian conference room with the exception of those held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30. The meeting place of these two classes have not been definitely decided but will probably be in the Westcott building.

Members of the social chairman of Mortar Board are Ruth Rogers, president; Marjorie Jessup, Frances Slade, Katherine Graham, Ina Margaret Robinson, Dorothea Kreppel, Lynette Thompson, Bessie Young, Elizabeth Anne Webb, Florence Gregory, Jeanne Mullis, and Marjorie Morrison.

KAT's Founding Marked By Anniversary Banquet

A founder's day banquet at the Floridan hotel last Monday night at 6 o'clock, marked the sigentilth anniversary of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. The table was decorated with crystal candelabra and lavendar iris, while the menus were of black and gold, the colors of the chapter.

GILCHRIST, BROWARD HALLS WILL GIVE RECEPTION TOMORROW NIGHT IN PARLOR

Residents of Gilchrist and Broward halls will be hostesses at their annual reception from 8:30 to 10 o'clock tonight in Gilchrist parlor. Blue iris and yellow daffodils will decorate the rooms.

Ann Southerland and Frank Cofer are in charge of arrangements.

Over 130 guests will be received by Mrs. Margaret Saynor, Mrs. Clara Oliver, Mrs. Melanie Tom, Miss Olivia Dorman, Miss Ruth Flowers, Dr. Edward Cary, Leslie Waterous, and Grace Waterly. Presiding at the punch table will be Dr. Viola Goldthwaite, Mrs. Coyle Moore, Miss Kate West, and Dr. Mildred Horton. Miss Rose Denham is in charge of refreshments, which will be ice cream, cake, nuts, mints, and coffee.

Local Alumnae Writes Story

Local girl makes good.

An article written by Dora Bacon, an F. S. C. W. alumna appeared in the Sunday issue of the week's New York Times. The article, dealing with a short trip to Mexico, told of an exciting incident aboard an ocean freighter in which advisor Dora Bacon, described the sleepy little town of Guaymas, Mexico.

Miss Byron, a Journalism major, was graduated from Florida State college for women in 1926. Since then she has been continuing to various magazines and newspaper and doing publicity work.

FSCW Receives Wide Publicity

Continuing from page one

tration. Leota, a graduate last year, was president of the "21" club, an organization for training students for the machine was one of those which was used in student elections at one time or the other in the State.

An aeroplane view of the college campus was printed as a second issue of the Florida Illustrated News.

The Mortar Board Quarterly, publication of Mortar Board, which is edited by Miss Harold F. Richards, contains data January and a resume of the activities of the Florida State chapter of Mortar Board, written by Florence Gregory, a member of the chapter.

An inquiry as to possibilities of photographing the Tarpon swimming club for Life magazine has been received from Life's regional representative.

Panhellenic Will Meet

Panhellenic will meet Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Kappa Delta house. All members are urged to be present.

President of Panhellenic,
Anita Jacket.

Resume of Artist Series For Past Decade

Continued from page one

the symphony orchestra were entertained in the gymnasium by the members of the college orchestra. During their second appearance here the 88 musicians were under the direction of Eugene Ormandy, renowned conductor and violinist.

In February, 1930, a concert by the Cleveland Society of Musical Instruments was given here with the players using eighteenth century instruments. This society of five musicians was organized by Henry Gordon in 1901.

The New York string quartet followed its first appearance here in January, 1932, by a second concert at the college in February, 1934. The next string quartet to appear here was the Curtis String Quartet, sponsored by the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. The first concert of January, 1935, the viola used was made in 1570, the violincello in 1791, and of the two violins one was made in 1725 and the other in 1750. In February, 1937, the London string quartet gave their presentation to the college audiences.

Russian Performance Given

A chorus composed of 39 Russian cossacks of the Czar's imperial army sang for the state college students in November, 1933. This chorus, known as Don Cossack male chorus, was organized in 1873, and all its members were exiles from their native country. Organists who have already appeared here include: Maitland, the organist, and composer, who gave his concert in February, 1933; Charlotte Lockwood, American woman organist, who played here in November, 1935; Charles M. Courboin, Belgian-American organist, who played here in 1928, and Andre Marchal, the blind French organist from St Germain de Pres in February, who presented a varied program in November, 1938.

Two operas have been presented in the Florida State college auditorium in the last ten years. The first was "The Love Tales of Hoffman," presented by the Opera Comique company of New York, which was given here in October, 1930. The second, "Il Pagliacci," the first grand opera completely produced in sound film, was shown at the State theater in May, 1933.

Piano concerts have been given by Carlo Zecchi, the Italian pianist, in January, 1931; Jose Iturbi, Spanish pianist, in March, 1932, and January, 1939; Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson in February, 1935; Julomar Navas, a Brazilian pianist, in November, 1935; Dalies Frantz, concert pianist, in December, 1936, and Robert Casadesus, French pianist, in March, 1938.

The cellists that have given recitals here in the last ten years include: Gregor Piatigorsky, the Russian 'cellist, who appeared here in January, 1937, and Gaspar Cassado, who gave his concert in February, 1935.

In February, 1931, Salt Lobel, Rumanian actress and dancer, presented her production "Dancing Down the Ages." This concert, given at Florida State college, included 12 dances beginning in Bible times with a Hebrew dance and continuing with an Egyptian dance, a Greek dance, a Roman dance, dances of the Middle Ages and folk dances.

Graham Dances

In February, 1932, and again in April, 1937, Martha Graham, American dancer, and her group of modern dancers presented a program at the college. The Jose European ballet appeared here in February, 1938, while they were making their third tour of the United States. The ballet consisted of 32 members and were representative of six nationalities. In February, 1933, Anna Esther, "America's leading dance mime," presented a program of her "Episodes and Composition in Dance Form." Again in the month of February, 1934, to the year, 1934, another dance concert was given here. Then Ruth Page ballerina, who studied with Pavlova under the same dancing master, gave a recital at this college.

In February, 1935, Ted Shawn and his internationally famous men dancers, gave their interpretation of modern dance to the college audience. This group of five dances included: primitive rhythms and free creations of native themes; a labor symphony depicting various forms of manual labor, a solo dance by Shawn, folk dances of various nations, and dances inspired by compositions of great musicians. Doris Humphrey, Charles Weidman, and their dance group in March, 1939, gave the eighth dance concert that has been presented on this campus in the past decade.

Violinist Appears Twice

Albert Spalding, American violinist, made his second appearance at Florida State college in February, 1931. In addition to his being a violinist, he was an accomplished composer at the age of 43, having to his credit 40 violin compositions, 25 piano numbers, 31 three-chamber music quartettes; 4 orchestral compositions and endless transcriptions.

Other violinists appearing here included Michael Press, violinist and orchestra conductor, in March, 1932; Ruggiero Ricci, the 14-year-old boy violinist, whom critics have acclaimed "as one of the outstanding violinists of the time." In November, 1935, and Joseph Szigeti in November, 1936.

In November, 1937, an exhibition of textiles with examples of art as early as the Middle Ages was brought here under the auspices of the artist series committee. Coptic and Peruvian textiles with Egyptian pieces dating about the 4th and 7th centuries A. D. and the Peruvian between the 1st and the 12th centuries were exhibited here in January, 1938.

The art exhibits shown here have included: a modern Australian art exhibition in January, 1931, which represented 34 painters; "Comparisons and Contrasts" art exhibit, a collection of 40 modern and academic paintings in February, 1933; modern exhibition of European painters and the work

DUKE UNIVERSITY
DURHAM, N. C.

SCHOOL OF NURSING

The Diploma of Graduate Nurse is awarded after three years, and the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing for two additional years of approved college work before or after the course in Nursing. The entrance requirements are intelligence, character and graduation from an accredited high school. After 1940 two years of college work will be required. The annual tuition of $100 covers the cost of uniforms, books, student government fees, etc. Catalogues, application forms and information about college requirements may be obtained from the Admission Committee.

Kings around 'em all

FOR REAL MILDNESS AND BETTER TASTE...

Thousands thrill with pleasure to the flashing blades of ROY SHIPSTAD and BESS EHRHART star performers of the ice Follies.

What you want in a smoke you GET in CHESTERFIELD'S RIGHT COMBINATION of the world's best cigarette tobaccos

These tobaccos, and the Chesterfield way of blending them, is why Chesterfields SMOKE COOLER...TASTE BETTER ...and are DEFINITELY MILDER than other cigarettes. For more pleasure, make your next pack Chesterfield.

Copyright 1940, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Take It Away,
Juniors and Seniors

S. 100

The Florida Flambeau

Don't Miss
"Gone With the Wind"

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, February 9, 1940

VOLUME XXVII — NUMBER FIFTEEN

'Little Abner' Reigns at Gala Frolic Tonight

Comic Feud Scheduled As Principal Feature Of Freshmen Carnival

"Li' Abner" of "funny fame" will gallantly come to life tonight in the form of Margaret Mercer at the rip-roaring freshman carnival, which begins at 7:30 o'clock at the gym. The carnival, to be held in connection with the regular "Play Night," will include a floor show with its theme a terrific feud raging between the Yokum family with Li' Abner and Daisy Mae on one side, Lena, impudently, live in a shiny mountain hut; and Marryin' Sam, Hairless Joe and Little Indian, who live in a cave. Having "boy trouble," it would seem that Sadie Hawkins and Daisy Mae carry on their pre-little feud over one Li' Abner.

Taking part in the feud are Betsy Tolbert, Lena Hitchcock, Ramsay Yokum, Charlotte Cooper, Dave Martin, Virginia Mendenhall, Sadie Hawkins, Madalyn Halpern, Lil' Abner, Margaret Mercer, Hairless Joe, Marge Ingram, Little Indian, Eleanor Merrill and Mary Elizabeth Mercer McMichael.

To enlighten the audience, who will undoubtedly be breathless after practically "living with" the bloody feud, the hillbilly trio composed of Nancy Kulp, Orleen Ellis and Mary Elizabeth will also sing a song, the Thorn twins, Beverly and Betty, will entertain with a dance, and afterwards there will be a square dance exhibition.

Added Attractions

Entertaining booths will be provided by the Y.W.C.A. the "Y" club, the Cotillion club, the Georgia club, and sophomore class. These organizations will feature a penny carnival, fishing pond, bingo, refreshments, and other similar attractions.

The $5 gift to be given in charge of the carnival will wear cosmetics, but the majority of the freshman class is not compelled to do so. However, the freshmen express a desire to "let all Hell break loose" and put on their best "rags," and really "get" in the jollity spirit!

Chairmen Listed

The committee chairmen for the carnival are as follows: decorations committee, Jean Miller and Frances Rodes; co-chairmen; advertising, Pat Walker, Martha Ann Hines and Betsy Mr. Morisel; ice-cream, Dot Stallings; hot dogs, Alice Price; prizes, Georgia Gilbert; entertainment, preserved turnips, Mary Sallie Palmer, Virginia Mae Mercer and Ginger Monroe; hot booth chairman, Denora Erber.

Ten Students Pass Exemption Tests

Ten people were exempted during the past two weeks from intermediate and English courses, the registrar's office announced yesterday. Exemption examinations for these courses took place both during last week and were completed this week with the exception of the second-year English test for which two more students are required.

Students passing the examination in intermediate science were Jayden Klarer, Helen Benton, Mary Lou MacGowan, in addition to Nora Herman Bryant and Ruth J. Hendricks; and in intermediate English, Lillian Carver Vann. No tests were given in literature due to lack of registrations.

Jane Gaitenbey and Audrey Graves were exempted in freshman English, and Iris Sperber in sophomore English. All tests were given and graded by members of the various departments concerned.

Butler and La Celle Fill Positions in YW Cabinet

Two vacancies on the Y.W.C.A. cabinet were filled recently with the election of Margaret La Celle to secretary and Pat Butler to chairman of vespers.

Early morning worship will be held next Wednesday by Virginia Smith, Jeannette Thrower, and Mary Lou Kling. This service will be at 7:15 in the tower room of the Westcott building.

Monday vespers at 5 o'clock in the Westcott hall will be led by Pat Butler, the newly-elected chairman.

'Kinda Like It' Says Prodigy

"I've always sort of liked the subject," I guess that's what best answered Helen Iserman, freshman from Winter Garden, when questioned as to how she had passed the physical science exemption examination with an "A."

"I had physics in high school, was taught by a recent graduate of Florida State, Opal Lampp. There were 11 in our class and I was the only girl. Maybe that was one reason I enjoyed my physics classes so much."

In addition to her high school training Helen did some studying on her own before she took the exam. She borrowed a test book and studied for an hour or two every day during the Christmas holidays.

Helen, whose average was 2.8 for the semester, is taking a premature course and expects to go to Duke after completing her course here.

That she is not a bookworm but an all-round girl is attested by the fact that she was tapped for the life-saving corps course and tried out for the Tarpon Club final test Tuesday.

Among her other interests is aviation. "I would like to take the course offered here next year," she said.

Orientation Is Forum Topic

Viewpoint Presented From Three Positions

Orientation as seen by the freshman adviser, the freshman counsellor, and the freshman will be the topic for discussion in N.S.F.A. at the regular meeting Tuesday night. Dorothea Kloeppel, freshman adviser from the faculty, is presented to the group a comparison of the orientation course in our college with the orientation courses in other colleges in this country. Her report was based on a study made in 1936 by the office of the dean of students, comparing orientation courses.

The orientation course is not an old institution on this campus, since it was started in 1936. Prior to this time an informal system existed, and students desiring to do so counsellor work signed on a sheet of paper in the Westcott building. They were assigned a certain group of freshmen, and with the exception of the two campus tours answering questions, discussing and finishing the orientation course.

Since its installation in 1936 the most progressive change in our orientation course, according to the report, has been the installation of training courses for counselors. The avowed purpose of the training course is to assist new students in making the most of their school experience. The personnel of the course includes Miss Olivia N. Dorman, dean of students, Miss Katherine Cleveland, assistant dean of students, and the counsellors. A group of 50 to 60 girls is present at all phases of the visor in her supervising work. The course in orientation is in addition composed of 10 members. The sophomore council girls assist freshmen during the first week of the year as freshman aids and sponsors assistants.

The training courses are held in February and March and readied for assistant for the girls to do during the summer in preparation for their work. Miss Mary Yon, the counsellors live in the freshman dormitories assisting the girls in their problems as much as possible.

For comparison, the orientation course at Brenau college consists of a freshman class, freshmen majors, and kinesiology students.

Continued on Page Two

Former Student Speaks on Town Meeting Program

Emphasis is Placed On American Youth's Heritage of Courage

Our American youth has a great heritage of grasping for their rights and happiness. Though they face a great economic crisis today, they will not yield submissively to the obstacles that block their way. Youth today is as energetic, level-headed and straight-thinking as ever; they should not be considered radical simply because they are trying to meet the problems facing them. If they did not attempt to remedy the situation they would be unworthy of their heritage. This was the essence of the talk given by Miss Mary Jeanne McAlister, alumnae of Florida State college, on the Town Meeting of the Air program broadcast last night.

Topics Discussed

Devoted to the discussion of controversial topics of a civic character, this program had as its subject on last night's broadcast: "Is Youth Doing Its Share?" The other speakers were Frank W. Kerr, Beatrice Singer, Walter Thompson, and a student from Oxford University, Frederick Mandeville. This program is from the NBC network and was heard the country over.

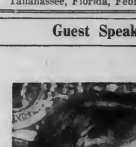
The former president of our student body, Miss McKay, has been outstanding in many of the youth movements for some time. While she was the C.O.A. head in 1938-1939, she led many student movements on campus, among them a "Peace Week" established for the purpose of honoring and preserving the peace of the world. Her last movement which she began started in colleges the country over was known as "Peace Day" in the program of "Peace Day" was ably given by Miss Mary Jeanne McAlister.

During a national convention of the N.S.F.A. in 1937, the last of her senior year here, Mary Jeanne McKay was elected national president of this organization. She continued in this office for two years, becoming secretary having expired in December of 1939.

On her last visit to our campus, Miss McKay spoke to the student body at a convocation meeting reminding students of their duties as citizens and as a part of democratic nation. She concluded that she had for us to be ourselves worthwhile as college students.

Home Ec Seniors Present Program

Senior home economic students were in charge of the Home Economics club program Wednesday night in the home economics room of the science building.



The program consisted of book reviews given by members of the senior home economics which would be helpful to housewives. Miss Ruth Maki was chairman of the program committee.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, March 5. The program will consist of talks by student delegates who attended the state home economics meeting in Gainesville college this month.

Posture Clinic Scheduled

On Wednesday, February 21, there is to be a posture clinic sponsored by the Physical Education department. Arrangements for the clinic will be Miss Katherine Cleveland, professional education majors, and kinesiology students.

Guest Speaker

Coming to this campus next weekend will be Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt under the sponsorship of the Alumnae Association. Famous for her wit and versatility, she will be one of outstanding speakers being brought to Florida State college this year.

Russia Is Topic At IRC Meeting

Discussion Centers On Paper by Harper

Russia as seen in July, 1939, was described to the members of the International Relations club at their meeting Monday night in a paper from the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. This manuscript was written by Samuel N Harper, who has studied Russia for many years and has made frequent trips to that country to learn to know the people and understand their feelings and reactions. The subject of his paper was "A Sixth Visit to Russia." Mr. Harper is the professor of Russian language and Institutions at the University of Chicago and he has written, in addition to the paper mentioned before, two books on Russia.

His last visit to Russia was made as a student and he went with two major questions in his mind. He wanted to discover if possible what the present political and economic conditions in Soviet Russia are, and what are the relations of the Soviet Union to International affairs. The report he made on returning is largely composed of opinions the author formed during his travels in Russia. The report was compiled before the present war broke out and therefore the pacific statements made by the author have not been fulfilled. Mr. Harper states that Russia today is better off economically and internal conditions have improved.

England and France, according to the author, invited aggression by not including Russia in the Munich Pact. Perhaps another international "rub" occurred with Russia's disapproval of the Munich Appeasement Policy. On leaving Russia in July, 1939, Mr. Harper was not so sure as he had been before his visit that war could be avoided.

The next meeting of the IRC will be a business meeting to be held Monday, February 12.

Grade Getters Adopt Rioting

"Get off my feet!" "Quit pushing!" "What do you think this is—the Gator line?" "Help, I'm smashed!" "Listen, darling, I'm all I can do to keep from being sifted through these mail boxes."

No, not a riot, not a near strike—merely grades coming out last Saturday night between 7:30 and 8 o'clock. To preclude the scene for the benefit of those sage souls who restrained their curiosity until such a time as they could satisfy it without too much wear and tear on the constitution, the rush was jammed. The fall of the Bastile was a society page item compared to the storming of the post office by a mob of screaming females.

Techniques demonstrated in the struggle for the coveted were miraculous to behold. The charming Scarlets and Melanies must have learned their methods from Notre Dame's fighting Irishmen. Scientifically did they hold their own against place-grabbers. For instance there was the group who after a whispered conference, went into the famous phalanx formation and fixed to weld themselves in beside the Broward boxes. The line-up fizzled however, and the attack was slowed after a pair of toes yards.

A number of Femina Perfectae preferred the more subtle play of using around left or right end but with little success. The mass packed in front of the boxes was as solid as the Maginot line in the case, an excited sophomore seeing an opening, flew through it with a yell, leaving her fur coat in the hands of her roommate who had been hanging on to her coat tails. As the mysterious hand in back of the boxes put the thin slips of paper—often referred to as "funeral certificates"—under each number, the mob swelled and swayed, developing ups of joy and disaster fused with the prolonged groan. Every body screamed; people with A's received people with F's screamed, people with E's screamed, people with exactly what

Continued on Page Two

Mrs. Roosevelt To Speak Here February 17

Alumnae Association Will Hear Author on "Fact Into Fiction"

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will speak here on February, 17 it was announced today by Mrs. Frank D. Moor, president of the college alumnae association.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who was invited to the college by Mrs. Moor, will be the first president's wife ever to visit Tallahassee.

"I am so glad that we have been able to get Mrs. Roosevelt to come to the college and give the college girls the rare privilege of hearing the first lady speak," said Mrs. Moor yesterday.

"I am glad the girls can get this fine inspiration from one of her greatest personalities I deeply appreciate the co-operation of the students in all undertakings sponsored by the alumnae association and I fee! that such occasions as this draw the students and alumnae closer together," Mrs. Moor added.

Life Summarized

Mrs. Roosevelt was born in New York City on October 11, 1884. She graduated from Miss Anna Hall Roosevelt, of Old New York, society in 1902. Her school life was small enough to be spelled with a capital "S", she says in her autobiography, and for that she traveled a great deal in Europe and in the Orient. She was entered in Mlle. Souvestre's school in England, where she received her formal education. Mrs. Roosevelt holds several honorary degrees from American colleges. One of her vivid memories of her England school days is the death of Queen Victoria, whose funeral procession she was allowed to see.

Eleanor's "fifth cousin once removed," Franklin Delano Roosevelt, then a student in Harvard, met Miss Roosevelt in 1903, when she was 19 years old. Their engagement was announced the following year after his graduation; and they were married on March 17, 1905, during the presidential inauguration of Theodore Roosevelt — "Uncle Ted"—who gave away the bride-to-be. Their four sons and one daughter were born during the years from 1906 to 1918.

Interests Given

Mrs. Roosevelt is a member of the Cosmopolitan club, New York City; the Colonial club, New York City, the National Democratic club, Washington; the Women's University club, New York; the Women's City club, New York City; and Val-Kill industries, a concrete recreations are swimming, horseback riding, walking, motoring.

She is the author of the following books: "It's Up to the Women," 1933; "This Is My Story," 1937; "This Troubled World," 1938; "This Is My Day," 1938; and a weekly column called My Day. She is the editor of "Babies Only" and also the Eighties, an account of her father's hunting exploits in Africa in the 80's.

Appreciation to Senator Claude Pepper and Mayor Frank Myers, President Edward Conradi and Dean Mildred Atwater of the Alumnae Association in extending invitations to Mrs. Roosevelt was expressed by Mrs. Moor.

The president's wife is the guest of honor at a dinner of the Alumnae Association this year to appear in an address at the collegiate auditorium. No admission

Continued on Page Three

Dining Hall Notice

Because of the "Prom," dinner Saturday night will be "self-service." All in new building.

Counter opens at 6:00 o'clock, closes at 6:30. Please come early!

DINING HALL.
By:
Anna M Tracy,
Dietitian.

Speech Honorary Makes Broadcast

Weekly Poetry Hour Is Leading Project

Zeta Phi Eta, speech honorary made its initial broadcast of this year over station WTAL last Tuesday night with Martha Whitehurst and Betty Jane Jaco conducting a children's program. Forthcoming broadcasts are scheduled for the first Tuesday of every month, although this project may become a semi-monthly event. Among successful programs for the year is a play including all of the members of the honorary.

Main projects of Zeta Phi Eta for this semester are the workshop of a poetry hour each Tuesday in Broward lounge from 6 to 6:30 and a story-telling hour at the Demonstration school kindergarten. The first poetry program last Tuesday was conducted by Joan Weaver. These programs, which are informal gatherings to which all interested students are invited, may later be conducted by teachers of speech and English. The next hour is to be lead by Martha Whitehurst and will feature poetry related to Valentine's Day.

Plans for the story telling hour at the kindergarten are as yet not definite, but will begin next week.

Members of Zeta Phi Eta are Louise Usher, Betty Jane Jaco, Sally Woodruff, Betty Ann Hamby Jaccel, Martha Whitehurst, Orleen Ellison, Irene Schulman, Joan Weaver and Marie Crouch.

Polish Exhibit Closes Tomorrow

Unique Articles Used By Poles in Art Work

The Polish exhibit, which is full of the most outstanding exhibits of the Industrial Arts department for the year, closes tomorrow. It is now being displayed on the lower floor of the education building.

The exhibit was shown in London, England, about two years ago during the Queen's visit to educational conference, whose members were guests of the Polish delegation. Broadcasting company Monday night at 10 p. m. during the Carnation "Contented Hour."

Both America and Canada will listen in on a 30-station network, according to H L. Swanson, company representative of Jackson-Orth who visited Tallahassee last week.

Florida stations over which the broadcast may be heard include WJAX, WLAK, WIOD and WFLA.

Radio listeners will also be given by a guest artist to Talladega Junior College's program last week, according to radio listeners here. The visitor was Gaston Usher, tenor, who was on the Florida State college artist series last year. Usher, who has sold people in the California broadcasting studio that he had been to Florida, could not be remembered Tallahassee for the pretty girls.

Senate Has Short Meeting

A short meeting of senate was held Wednesday afternoon at which time plans were made to change the qualifications for candidates running for C.O.A. offices by adding the clause that they should be bona-fide members of their class. After this action the meeting senate adjourned and pictures for the Flaclecovo were made.

Barrow Talks on Planets

At the astronomy club's Wednesday night meeting Dr William Barrows, assistant professor of physics, gave a most interesting lecture on planets particularity emphasizing those planets which are outstandingly visible in the present February sky, Venus, Jupiter, Mars, and Saturn.

The next meeting will be announced at a later date.

70 New Students Enroll in Second Semester Classes

S. R. Doyle Reports 37 First Entrants Registered Here

According to S. R. Doyle, registrar, 70 entrants have been made for second semester, the Florida State colleges. Thirty-seven of the 70 students are new here. Twenty-seven of them are freshmen, five are transfers (two of whom are graduate students), and five are special students.

New students are: Virginia Alcenhoff, Dorothy Jane Alderman, Carolyn E. Barrs, Catherine Meiklejohn Bell, Ruth Adell Bell, Edna Elwood Blanton, Mary Clayton Boatwright, Letitia Johnson Bond, Beverly Bird Burbank, Mrs. Irene H. Chaires, Mrs. Alice Dorothy Clark, Pay Lucile Corey, Evelyn Grace Crabtree, Mrs. Mary Grace Lillian Leeta Duke, Mrs. Carolyn V. Fontaine, Lucy Lee Hamilton, Frances Baker Ervin, Rose Hellowes, Mary Fields, Jane Harling Galemby, Arte Cora Gillsea, Virginia Green, Florence Cross, Beverly Rogers Halls, Mary Lou Harden.

Entrants Listed

Ruby Dorothy Hall, Eddie Hill, Mrs. Charles L. Hoffman, Frances M. Holmes, Lillian Hunt, Mrs. Edna Earle Kennedy, Holly Kinney, Elise N. Laffitte, Sara Elizabeth Lee, Mrs. Elizabeth Mack, Kate Martin, Mrs. Mildred McCullough, Helen Jane McCallum, Mrs. Florence Taff Moody, Jeanette Murphy, Elizabeth Trust Nelson, Mrs. Mary Ellen Osborne, Mrs. Juanita Owen, Carolyn Crawford Parker, Mrs. Mary Sellemer, Mrs. Pannie Kate Scogin, Mrs. Mildred Price, Mrs. R. Spenser, Elizabeth F Thompson, Bette La Rue Thorn, Dorothy Ann Thorn, Odell Thwedt, Judy Ann Tripletl, and Clare Underwood.

Marian Usher, Barbara Calhyne Wight, Annie Ben Wilder, Helen Louise Wearman, Willie Erma Woodcock, Christine Jane Yarborough, Irma Juanita Yarborough, Mildred Pinkney Bracs Green, Ann Boggs, and Virginia Wineman.

'Contented Hour' To Include Tally

An all-Florida program on which interesting information about Tallahassee will be included will be broadcast over the coast to coast network by the National Broadcasting company Monday night at 10 p. m. during the Carnation "Contented Hour."

Both America and Canada will listen in on a 30-station network, according to H L. Swanson, company representative of Jackson-Orth who visited Tallahassee last week.

Florida stations over which the broadcast may be heard include WJAX, WLAK, WIOD and WFLA.

Radio listeners will also be given by a guest artist to Talladega Junior College's program last week, according to radio listeners here. The visitor was Gaston Usher, tenor, who was on the Florida State college artist series last year. Usher, who has sold people in the California broadcasting studio that he had been to Florida, could not be remembered Tallahassee for the pretty girls.

Sue (Scarlett O'Hara) Venning Leads Fairy-Tale Existence As Replica of Famous Character

"Of course I was scared and excited," stated Sue Venning matter-of-factly in answer to questions directed at us from beneath a thick, blue satin curtain of the dormitories stage door debut into Cecil War Atlanta society upon being selected to be reflected in Tallahassee. "But was I thrilled!" she added.

No one could imagine The night before we had peeked in at her a few minutes before her escort-ress! Miss Mildred Williams called for her, and we rubbed our eyes at the dainty old-fashioned-picture-girl as she lightly tripped about her room. Ten circular tiers of marquisette! The tiniest of waists, topped by a Scarlett O'Hara Vogue's with its deep, off-the-shoulder neckline, accented her tiny waist and billowed about her feet. Peeping from beneath the skirt was a dainty pair of velvet bow knot on the front of the skirt. A low pair of silk stockings streamers matched it at the back of the waist. The color of the dress was the reflected blue of Tallahassee. "But was I thrilled!" she added.

No one could imagine The night before we had peeked in at her a few minutes before her escort-ress! Miss Mildred Williams called for her, and we rubbed our eyes at the dainty old-fashioned-picture-girl as she lightly tripped about her room. Ten circular tiers of marquisette! The tiniest of waists, topped by a Scarlett O'Hara Vogue's with its deep, off-the-shoulder neckline, accented her tiny waist and billowed about her feet. Peeping from beneath the skirt was a dainty pair of velvet bow knot on the front of the skirt. A low pair of silk stockings streamers matched it at the back of the waist. The color of the dress was the reflected blue of Tallahassee. "But was I thrilled!" she added.

proofs she had had made and did not expect to hear about them again. But from the time that she was selected as most resembling the original French Irish belle of the South, as portrayed in Miss Mitchell's novel of life was for her nothing but one hectic rush. "I couldn't even eat," she explained. "I simply didn't want to eat, anyway."

"The dress had to be brought to me while I was still at Richard's having my hair fixed," waiting," she said. "Sue," said Richard Sue, "because I didn't have time to come back to the dormitories to change before I had to go to Pike's studio to have my picture taken."

About three hours had been spent in preparation for the picture. "They did everything to me," said Sue. "They even plucked my eyebrows!" Here she hesitatively smoothed her thick, dark eyebrows which were delicately arched still, despite the application of artificial corrections. "I was afraid that they pluck might pull out my eyelids for the picture," she added, grimacing.

All of her presents were brought to her while she was still in the dressing room at Richard's.

Hose from Turner's, a Lady Arden make-up kit from Bennett's, a La Crosse nail-polish set with special Scarlett O'Hara colors, a "book" of candies bearing the names of the stars of "Gone With the Wind," and an old-fashioned pink grandg, blouse with frills at the neck and a black encrusted band encircling the high

Continued on Page Three

From Other Colleges

By POLLY DOUGLAS

A committee has been appointed to draft an amendment to the Mercer constitution which will require candidates for major offices to meet certain qualifications. Members of the committee have requested copies of the political set-up at several southern colleges, including Emory, the University of North Carolina, and Davidson. The best points from all of these will be combined and incorporated in the amendment.

Surveys are being made of the relative strength of the L.S.U and Tulane libraries in the various fields of study, particularly at the graduate and professional level, for the purpose of making available a union catalogue. The survey will include L.S.U.'s Memorial Hill Library, the combined Tulane and Newcomb library, and the John Howard Memorial library.

Several new types of exams were introduced to Stratford this semester. Classes in creative writing and library science did projects instead of taking a conventional essay type exam. Journalism students edited the student paper under supervision.

Harmon recently celebrated its Founder's day with a "Under Carnival" at which sliding, skiing, races, and other activities were featured. Harmon, founded in 1881, at first admitted only students under 16, but later the age limit was raised, with 16 the minimum age. In the cornerstone of each of the school buildings has been placed a copy of the scriptures because the founders was ancient a strong Christian faith underlie the school.

Starting a new personnel program, Bowdoin dean of students will direct a program of service for freshmen, for the individual student, beginning with freshman orientation and culminating with graduate placement after graduation.

The student senate at Southern has issued serious concerning violation of the rule against drinking and the tradition against smoking except in certain areas. If the tradition continues to be violated it will be made into a rule.

Chi Rho fraternity is the first campus organization to undertake the building of one of the columns to be erected as a part of the E. Stanley Jones foundation, although other classes have done so. Built at a cost of $100 each, the columns will stand seven feet high. Erection part of the walks connecting the different units of the foundation. They will be architectaly carved and have a bronze tablet. though molded out of the same cochina rock used for the buildings. The lower part of the column will be the flowerbox. Each column will be given by one college class or organization, or individual, and will bear a plate with the donor's name on it. Foundations for three columns have already been poured and set.

Mrs. Henry Pfeiffer of New York, the (Southern's chapel) is named, will visit the college during the latter part of February. She is an outstanding Methodist church worker, and is interested in education, having been responsible for the establishment of schools in India, China and the United States.

In spite of snow, Michigan State held its annual Farmer's week last week. Speakers included Governor Fiellip Rose, editor of the Country Gentleman, and Arthur Brockway, head of the speaker's bureau of the National Association of Manufacturers activities included exhibition of a new livestock judging pavilion, livestock judging contests by the Michigan State band, drum majorette demonstrations a women's cow-riding contest, and community singing.

The Hastings symphony orchestra will present its second concert of the year, built around Beethoven's "Symphony No. 1." on April 30.

H. R. Knickerbocker, noted journalist, lectured at Rollins on "The Rise and Fall of Europe." Knickerbocker. 1930 Pulitzer Journalistic Award winner, has been twice Hearst Mott's "100 best News Stories." and "holder of The Atlantic City feadliner's Award.

Rollins held its fifth annual economic conference last week. Among noted economists were John R. Commons, generally regarded as the nation's leading expert on relations between capital and labor, and Mark Graves, superintendent of New York State Finance for New York state and authority on interstate problems.

DUKE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
DURHAM, N. C.

Four terms of eleven weeks are given each year. These may be taken consecutively, thus completing the course in one calendar year, or three terms may be taken each year (graduation in four years). The entrance requirements are: intelligence, character and three years of college work, which must include work in the natural sciences in accredited schools. Catalogues and application forms may be obtained from the Admissions Committee.

London Reporter Speaks On War

Americans Not Aware Of War's Seriousness

"People in America do not seem to realize how serious this war is," declared Robert Fortune Post, correspondent of the Press club Tuesday afternoon. "The English are looking down to a real war; they would resent it as a gift of Heaven should the war last any less than three years."

Mr. Post, who has been a member of the London bureau of the New York Times for the past two years, is with the Post regarding several days on a plantation near Tallahassee before returning to England. He came from from Washington where he covered the White House and traveled with President Roosevelt.

Mr. Post said that nobody in America seems to be facing the problem of possible defeat of England and France. "It is fantastic to think of armed forces invading the United States," he said, adding that if England and France and I'm not saying it in a mincing mood that they will if totalitarianism dominates that they will be forced to whether to us will be from that principle."

"In the last analysis," he added, "democracy is democracy like is the rangster idea."

Mr. Post stated that the British mass attack against residents us lucky to be 3,000 miles away from the war. He pointed out that of the way if we can and keep the United States out of the democracy burning. He observed that some people do not want the United States to enter the war because they think this country would be dragged to the same level.

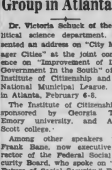
"England and Germany are fighting for different things," said Mr. Post. "Germany does not want any part of Germany." He pointed out that the German army many could have resained some of her colonies without a struggle but that she chose about in a different manner.

Speaking of the British attitude toward the next peace treaty, Mr. Post said that England has some of the mistakes of the Versailles treaty would be avoided but that it is hard to say what public feeling will be. "This is the third generation of the country of living persons that German has attacked and people are beginning to tire of it." he said, adding that Germany is considered the cause of the wars of 1870, 1914, and the present war.

"The British are not very worried about Italy's attitude at the present time," he remarked in answer to a question. However, he pointed out that there are 2,000,000 troops stationed in Syria.

"The British Ministry of Information," Mr. Post said, "practices interference by not giving the correct military information which would naturally be subject to censorship, by misinformation. They refuse to give out material favorable to the Germans on the ground that it is propaganda."

Censorship is voluntary Mr. Post said. Newspaper publishers may submit doubtful stories to the ministry, but if they print the story which proves to be a bombshell, they are not punished. Moreover, shell shortage which was printed in the London Times served as an example of such a story.



One of the things which Mr. Post said he was asked most often was whether the students believed Hitler was responsible for the war. German or German more than British. Several students answered, "Hitler."

When asked if he thought the war would be forced to a decision on the people of France and England in the event Germany won the war Mr. Post said that they probably could not force a decision because of the political coercion, but that everything depended on the war that if the people would probably be willing to accept these concepts to stop the war. He pointed out that much reason that the totalitarian state had won its victories was that force might be better, and be willing to try it.

"The British attitude seems to be 'one aggressor at a time'," he said, adding that the plays with as to the possibility of trouble between Russia and Finland. He also remarked that as things stand at present the British officials didn't reward communism as an immediate threat. When asked if England considered Russia an ally, he reminded the group that she never had considered Russia an ally, but that she felt they had a common enemy in Germany.

Mr. Post said that there was a feeling that England and France would lose her possessions during the war but that she will be pretty bad. He pointed out that the possessions declared war separately and independently of England's declaration.

Foreign Correspondent Speaks Here

Robert Fortune Post, American correspondent for the New York Times and number two man in the London office, is shown with two members of the Tallahassee State College for Women faculty, following a talk he made there this week. Sara Mooney, club president, and Margaret Scott vice president (reading from left to right) are shown with the newspaperman.

Kay Kyser Will Jam And Jive For Cator Military Jamboree

Tally Girls Are Advised by Rega to Do Some Heavy Letter Writing Before March 1 and 2

By BILL REGA

Hello, he said timidly, as he stepped into the office.

Fred Buckles has left school, graduated, if you must know, and is also this college. Your correspondent received his first letter from Fred. It seems he doesn't know what to do with it. Now we know how the old lady felt when she got her first letter.

Seriously though, we hope you'll abide with us—no relation to Fred—while we endeavor to get onto things. We're not sure what you want to know about, but we'll do our best, honest.

Big news this week is the announcement by the Interfraternity council that Kay Kyser will play here for Military Ball March 1 and 2. Tally girls will be the dates can relax and purr, and the belles think that some heavy letter writing no doubt.

Guess you've all heard rumors before that the Kyser would be here, but two to one you heard that was just talk. Maybe you wouldn't. Anyway he will, and we're going to bring in Kenny Simms, which, on second thought is not necessary to us O'ville students than to you.

Now that the new term is started, let's get down to cases and done with. we can all at least look forward to doing better next term. Wonder if there were as many long faces on your campus as there were on ours when those yellow slips get passed out? Unfortunately there was one waiting in your mailboxes, but down here we don't even have the pleasure of thinking we're getting a letter. Not only do we get those good-for-nothing grades, but we have to walk over and stand in line to get them. On carefree college days

The Joco Bailes performed us a real service on school Monday and ye olde university auditorium was packed to the rafters. Most of us looked shamefacedly at one another during intermission and hoped we didn't look as dumb as we felt because we didn't get to see the show and the point most of the time at least we enjoyed the free eats. And of course G'ville jads always enjoy seeing feminine pulchritude.

Lots of us were that disappointed, we understand that the Artists Shaw band wasn't going to play here. Maybe we're prejudiced but all. We extend condolences because we know how it feels when you're disappointed. I like more around here that you're going to see a name band than in Shaw's place, so let us in on it.

The Avon Players, a Shakespeare group, you know—are in here next Monday and Tuesday. They will present to play "Hamlet," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "Twelfth Night." Whether it be true "dramah" lovers or smartie hoping to win an easy grade in Shakespeare, the plays will be well attended we betcha.

The Florida Players, in conjunction with Station WRUF, is presenting a feature for a radio play program every Tuesday night in Florida Union auditorium from 8 to 9 p. m. "Campus Kwiz" combines the better parts of both "Information Please" and "Musical Knowledge and Information Please," and features both musical and factual questions.

Allistair editor, Johnny Hamilton is on the judges, and will submit many of the questions concerning the campus. The audience is given numbers and a certain few are chosen to compete, so one can down some night and get on the radio. Prizes and everything.

Tau Kappa LaMarr woman played here this week, and most of us ran, did not walk, and ogled. The picture itself wasn't much, but the performance was acted sort of ashamed of himself for being mixed up in anything so fruity. Ann Sothern herself turned out to be not so beautiful after all. We were disappointed.

That's about all for this week on our campus, but we want you to know we're full of firm resolutions and intentions. Do you know what one tee said to another—Answer: Don't look now, but I think I'm going to flunk Spanish—you'd better do some reformation yourself.

Goodbye now.

Montgomery Will Speak On Star Lore Tuesday

Miss Katherine Montgomery of the geometry education department will speak on "Star Lore" at the regular meeting of the American Association of University Women at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in the lower room of the Woman's club building. Preceding the meeting observations of the stars will be made from 7 to 8 o'clock in front of the Westcott building.

Schuck Addresses Group in Atlanta

Dr. Victoria Schuck of the political science department, presented an address on "Labor and Manager Cities" at the joint conference on "Improvement of Local Government in the South" of the Institute of Citizenship and the National Municipal League, held in Atlanta, February 6-8.

The Institute of Citizenship is sponsored by Agnes Scott, Emory university, and Agnes Scott colleges.

Among other speakers were Frank Bane, now executive director of the Council of State Governments, who spoke on "The Future of Municipal Home Rule"; Prescott, of the University of Chattanooga, on the subject, "Municipal Government in Tennessee"; Walter Millard field representative of the National Municipal League, on "A Pe-Discovery of Democracy"; also Lee B. Greene, Tennessee Municipal Chartity, Knoxville; R. P. Brooks, head of the Bureau of Public Administration, University of Georgia; and Charles H. Hyneman, head of the Department of Government at Louisiana State university.

The Institute of Citizenship and the National Municipal League is headed by Jacob Baker, dean of the University of Wisconsin.

Class in Remedial Composition Given

Throughout the second semester the English department is offering a remedial class in composition for students who have passed the course in freshman composition but who need further assistance in the use of English as a tool of expression, Miss Sarah Herndon, chairman of the committee on composition, has announced.

This class will meet one hour each day, 11 to 12 o'clock Thursday.

No student may be recommended by any instructor who is not satisfied with her composition. Instructors will recommend students who are unable to master the subject matter of the course because of poor composition. To enter the remedial class a student must be in good standing both the instructor who is recommending her and the registration office.

All students enrolling in the course will be required to attend the class for a minimum of four weeks and their progress will be considered necessary by the instructor who sent her. The composition department will also instructor a report of the girl's attendance and performance at the end of four weeks. This report will be considered in recommendation as to the student's continuance in the class.

The remedial class will be limited to 20 students at a time so that personal attention may be given.

Blanzs may be secured in the English conference room.

Ornothological Classes Invade Wakulla County Bird Preserve

Field Glasses Are Utilized to Aid Study Of Detailed Structural Characteristics

"When Dr Kurtz goes out to bird watch he has to do a lot more than hear their songs, and he can tell what a way among the feathered friends are near him," admitted Miss Enda Devitry, professor of zoology, in charge of conducting a large map of Florida and pointing out the location of the Wakulla County Bird Preserve, where she and Miss Ruth Schornherst and the Leon county science classes have taken several ornothological studies in the past few years. "But in the end. "Now when we study them, we have only to play 'Hamlet.'"

Miss Devitry explained that supplementary field work is the most interesting of the "dry" ornothological 'bird quiny course. In that it makes a girl more aware of the relationship existing between mere biological description and the study of birds.

When the group went out to the biological reservation, which is a little off the road to St. Mark's lighthouse at Wakulla, it looked for physical characteristics of birds "to teach the girls how to identify different species," said Miss Devitry.

In structure reading, or observation, special emphasis is placed upon feet and bills of the birds. For that reason, it is important to distinguish between a sparrow and a warbler, both of which are about the same size and resemble each other closely, she might look at their bills. A sparrow's bill is thick and rather wide, while the warbler's is thin and pointed.

For field trips of this kind, regular field glasses are used. These are similar to opera glasses except that the former are about four or five times as large and weigh four or five times as heavy as those used by theatre-goers. Even they are corrected for color so that they do not distort the bills, feet, and especially in details of plumages can be distinguished clearly at a distance.

"It is extremely necessary that we take students with us," stated Miss Devitry. "Especially when the birds take a notion to fly away, and they usually do when you are trying to observe them. Then, too, they are very choice in feeding time, and the birds tended to feed in little off the beaten path in the sun and gather in clusters which made it rather hard to watch them.

Some of the birds which the group has studied are Kentucky warblers, coots, grebes 'commonly called hell-divers', mallards and wood ducks, herons, and egrets. One of the most unusual birds and one which is mentioned in this section of Florida, according to Miss Devitrey, was the boomed horsepasser, which has a huge funny head that looks like a hammer. Its bill is also a hatchet sap and a knight's helmet.

Many lamps have been and have been added to the ornothological collection of the department, which now consists of a 42-inch female American eagle, the other is that of a 4½-inch myrtle warbler, bringing the number of the collection up to 165 different species. Each new skin is placed in a cellophane tube and labeled as to date, place found, and sex. The names are always omitted so that students in learning to identify, can learn by detail of structure rather than by idiom.

Turtles Assume First Place As Dormitory Pets, Rumor Has It

Two Tortoises Replace Beloved Goldfish Who Could Not Stand Pre-Exam Strenuth

That turtles are replacing goldfish as favorite pets in the general rumor that was traveling through the dorms right after the Christmas holidays was proved and recorded on through exams.

Following the general crop a Flambeau reporter proceeded to interview and buzzed through room to room 230 Broward, where Dot Reynolds and Ella Wakefield from the Everglades live. The reporter having expressed her desire to see the rare pets, the owners graciously displayed to her view a gold fish bowl containing two of the smallest, and most alert turtles that had ever seen, one red, the other green. It seemed that they were namesakes o' the funnies' "Regular Fellers," for on the red one's back was a picture of Pinhead and on the blue one's that of Sullivan.

The girls donated the names to Roger and Sugar, carrying out the tradition that it is a woman's right to change things

Goldfish Passed On

"Yes," said Ella as she smiled from her roommate to the ardent reporter, "the turtles took the place of the goldfish that we had during the first semester. You see—" she added, "the goldfish

"we were pretty devoted to F. B. Dick's goldfish, and we fed them but near the end of the semester the strain proved too much for them and C. E. Rawlings' generosity ill. It was not long after that that they showed perfect hin pain, being aided by a higher power than that of Rawlings' remedy, joined him. It left us free ing pretty sad when we went home for the holidays, and when we got back we decided to get some more."

"There they were now, Roger and Sugar, sitting up at the curious observers, stretching their necks to look from one bowl to another, eyeing each one. Noticing that they had our attention, Sugar climbed over the reforming tricks for us, one of which was to climb up and fall off of their little rock. Those were just some of the tricks that they performed, the girls had told me, but they were in hopes of teaching them a lot more. They work for their meals just like seals in a zoo.

Turtles Are Shy

"It seems that turtles are pretty shy under a strange roof for at first, but when they get acquainted they actually eat out of our hands. As is the case of Roger and Sugar," Dot told me. And before the interview was over I was learning something about the characteristics of turtles.

Odd enough turtles resemble people by their special tendency to revolt against the cold, so nature has endowed them with a good solid house, they have a nice cozy place to crawl in and hibernate during the cold season. On the other hand, they become easily invigorated when they are in a comfortably heated room, or on a warm day, and swim and splash continuously in their fish bowl. Then when they are taken out of the water for a short while they often feel invigorated enough to run.

Inquiring about the turtles' food, the reporter was told that not only with an exclusive diet, for Roger and Miss Sugar will also with a formula on the proper feeding of the turtles.

"As my roommate is a home economics major," Dot said, grinning, "she takes care of the babies' diet. Their food is prepared especially for them. Now it makes very sure that it contains vitamins B. D. E. and G. which is the very worst for baby turtles." And before the reporter had time to ask her about the vitamins A and C. Ella continued.

"Vitamins A and C are not as important to turtles as some of these others are," said the home economist authority. "But I'll try especially hard to see that they both get plenty of the most vitamin A food, carrots, the which is found in sunlight; by putting them on the sill every morning their bowl onto the window sill they will get their share. Through her studies Ella has found that animals acquire much better appetite—only—if she spoken to with gentle and temperate phrases. Roger and Sugar, there grains of their special vitamin food a day. And this was the method she employed as she cooed. "Baby Dumplings, come. Dot Reynolds Wilson's wants to eat goody goody?" Roger and Sugar answered by climbing B. D. E. and G out of her hand.

Former College Leader Praises Coeducation

Prominent in the field of personnel as several outstanding colleges and universities, Mrs. Clinton Dickinson, former national president of Kappa Delta, visited this campus yesterday for the first time since her graduation in 1932.

In comparing coeducational and college she has been associated with, Mrs. Millicent feels that despite the "social advantages" that she likes coeducational schools because they seem more normal, more collegiate.

"I've found," said this former student, "that in the coeducational there is a closer feeling of loyalty to the college and more interest taking down the decorations after the dance.

In support for sophomore council members is planned for Thursday night, February 15. The plan has not yet been decided

At their meeting on February 7, council members discussed plans for who they thought were qualified for the position of freshman councilors.

The qualifications for student officers which were given in coeducation last Tuesday had been revised from the previous list of qualifications by a committee headed by Mary Carlton.

Sophomore council is sponsoring a game at the freshman carnival.

Grade Getters Adopt Rioting

Continued from Page One

they expected arrested, and were put into cells. Here they were handed and studied to find more and more difficult. It was impossible to fail; it was actually impossible to study there, discussing certain of the many in detail during the day, and the crowd had dwindled to a few scattered groups here and there, discussing certain of the many in detail during the day, ones came to do what needed everyone swears, to do nothing. Finally the last one left the box, work the combination, and get a first trial. And the first slip of paper all in the piece to the nearest chair. So until next year when the mob again rules the post office over a thousand strong, we suggest an extra-curricular course in the gentle art of Alibis and Defense, with Bluff and slugging included.

One school in British Guiana gives daily lessons in the art of laughing correctly.

Church Calendar

BAPTIST

Sunday

6 P. M.—Training Union Program.

Subject: "The Holy Spirit Indwelling the Christian."

Speakers: Marion Wilson, Elizabeth Bragg, Mary Agnes, Evelyn Ann Davis, Patricia Butler.

Monday

Meeting—Wednesday, Thursday

7 P. M.—Vespers in Byron Tower Room.

Speaker: Patricia Butler.

PRESBYTERIAN

Sunday

9:45 A. M.—Worship Service and Bible Study.

11 A. M.—Church Service. Dr. U. S. Gordon.

6 P. M.—Fellowship Supper Hour.

Speaker: Dr. U. S. Gordon, from Gainesville.

METHODIST

Friday

6 P. M.—Epworth League Meeting Leader: Elizabeth Whitington.

Speaker: Mr. Gwyn Parker, Tallahassee Attorney.

Subject: "Youth Living Victoriously."

Sunday

6:30 P. M.—Youth Prayer Fellowship Hour.

7:30 P. M.—Vespers.

Speaker: Dr. John C. Orr, Pastor.

Monday

9:15 P. M.—Worship Meeting of Senior Class.

Leader: Katherine Powell

8 to 9 P. M.—Social Hour Kind of Prayers Meri. Offer."

Tuesday

5:30 P. M.—Choir Practice.

7:30 P. M.—Official Council Meeting.

Leader: Kathryn Bryan.

Subject: "Youth Looks at Religion."

EPISCOPAL

Sunday

8 P. M.—Forum. "The Church's Message to The Church"

Monday

9 A. M.—Study Class, Rugs. Leader: "Life of Christ."

7:30 P. M.—Confirmation Class Meeting.

Subject: "What Was the Madras Conference?"

Leader: Mrs. Jane Gordon.

Tuesday

5:30 P. M.—Intermediate Class and Discussion Group.

Subject: "What Is the Church?"

Thursday

10 P. M.—Compline Service.

Sophomore Council To Usher at Prom

Sophomore council activities for this week-end will include ushering and checking at the Junior - senior prom, a supper for council members, and a skating party at the Harman carnival.

Council girls who have been appointed to usher at the junior-senior prom are Anne Alderman, Dickinson, Jane Bowden, Grace Beall, and Mary Carlton, Allison, Elizabeth Cone, Louise Crosby, Lenor Delle, Marguerite Diaz, Mary Celeste Ellis, Jane Gilbert, Jane Webster, Claude Annie Rhodes, Blanche Hardy, Jeanne Walker will check at the door. Jane Bowden, Mary Whittlesey, Janet Wells, Adelee Wood, Paulette Nolan, Helen Mc-Cormick, Elizabeth Ellis, and Ella Maude Jones will check wraps.

All of the council girls will decorate the dining hall for the prom. Those who will assist in decorating down the decorations after the prom are

Jane Webster, Mary Celeste Ellis, Marguerite Diaz, Mary Celeste Ellis, Jane Gilbert, Jane Webster, Claude Annie Rhodes, Blanche Hardy, Jeanne Walker will check at the door. Jane Bowden, Mary Whittlesey, Janet Wells, Adelee Wood, Paulette Nolan, Helen McCormick, Elizabeth Ellis, and Ella Maude Jones will check wraps.

All of the council girls will decorate the dining hall for the prom. Those who will assist in decorating down the decorations after the prom are

Jane Webster, Mary Celeste Ellis, Marguerite Diaz, Mary Celeste Ellis, Jane Gilbert, Jane Webster, Claude Annie Rhodes, Blanche Hardy, Jeanne Walker will check at the door. Jane Bowden, Mary Whittlesey, Janet Wells, Adelee Wood, Paulette Nolan, Helen McCormick, Elizabeth Ellis, and Ella Maude Jones will check wraps.

All of the council girls will decorate the dining hall for the prom. Those who will assist in decorating down the decorations after the prom are

Jane Webster, Mary Celeste Ellis, Marguerite Diaz, Mary Celeste Ellis, Jane Gilbert, Jane Webster, Claude Annie Rhodes, Blanche Hardy, Jeanne Walker will check at the door. Jane Bowden, Mary Whittlesey, Janet Wells, Adelee Wood, Paulette Nolan, Helen McCormick, Elizabeth Ellis, and Ella Maude Jones will check wraps.

All of the council girls will decorate the dining hall for the prom. Those who will assist in decorating down the decorations after the prom are

Jane Webster, Mary Celeste Ellis, Marguerite Diaz, Mary Celeste Ellis, Jane Gilbert, Jane Webster, Claude Annie Rhodes, Blanche Hardy, Jeanne Walker will check at the door. Jane Bowden, Mary Whittlesey, Janet Wells, Adelee Wood, Paulette Nolan, Helen McCormick, Elizabeth Ellis, and Ella Maude Jones will check wraps.

Barker Captures Swimming Title

Nine Events Included In Contest Wednesday

With a total score of 25 points Peggy Barker won first place in the annual freshmen swimming meet Wednesday, while Marion Swanson, scoring 16 points placed second. Tying for third place were Nancy Lee Doggett and Denora Ecker, each having a final score of 14 points.

This aquatic contest included such features as both novelty and speed races and diving events. The 25 yard free style was won by Peggy Barker, with Marion Swanson in second place and Lenora Ecker in third.

Nancy Lee Doggett was given first place in both the side stroke form and breast stroke form contests. The elementary back form was won by Peggy Barker, who also received first place in the 25 yard back crawl. Second in this crawl was Paula Jones, and third, Nancy Lee Doggett.

In the diving events Denora Ecker won both the running front and jack knife, and tied with Marion Swanson for the swan dive.

In the novelty race contestants had to float on their backs and swim the length of the pool while reading aloud a newspaper held in one hand. Winners of this race were Peggy Barker, first; Marion Swanson, second, and Paula Jones, third.

Mrs. Roosevelt To Speak Here February 17

Continued from Page One

will be charged. Her subject has not been announced as yet.

Another Speaker Scheduled

Also to appear at an early date is Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, Florida writer, whose book "The Yearling" long has been a best seller and which may go before the movie cameras soon. She will give a lecture on "Fact Into Fiction" April 12 as the opening number on the Alumnae College homecoming weekend.

Most recent to appear on the alumnae-sponsored series was America's first woman diplomat, Mrs Ruth Bryan Rohde, former congresswoman from Florida who later was sent as envoy to Denmark. Mrs. Rhode holds an honorary degree of doctor of literature from the college.

Opening attraction on the alumnae series was Cornelia Otis Skinner, monologuist, who came last fall. Packed houses attended the Skinner program as well as Mrs. Rhode's lecture on "This Democracy of Ours."

An admission charge is planned for all the alumnae events except for Mrs. Roosevelt. Proceeds are being used to help defray expenses of furniture for the Rowena Longmire Student-Alumnae Union building which is almost completed.

GO GAY in a

"Gay Gibson"

"Encore"

Remember when we wore these swathed and draped effects before? You'll see this clever style in "Mademoiselle"—of Navy or black Wonder Girl, wonder cloth. Dainty embroidery edging. Sizes 9-17.

Steyerman's

Accompanists Needed For Dancing Classes

Any student interested in becoming accompanist for the dance classes of Miss Nellie - Bond Dickinson is asked to send her name and schedule to Miss Dickinson through campus mail to the physical education department or to go to see her at the gymnasium as soon as possible. An accompanist receives a salary identical with that of a student assistant.

Badminton Begins Next Wednesday

Odd-Even badminton games will begin next Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock when the class games will be played, Mary Collins, Odd-Even manager, has announced. On Friday evening during play night, the Odd-Even games will be played.

Even players are Helen Milam, Marion Freeling, Meta Helms, Elizabeth Ezzard, Norma Lee McCree, Peaches McKay, Paulette Nolan, Mary Jane Medlin, and Ossie Ginther.

Odd racquet wielders include Gene Bryan, Ruth Thomas, Catherine Campbell, Alice Ludlum, Margaret Carter, Mary Lou King, Betsy Ross Howe, Minnie Ratliff, and Cornelia Watson.

Want To Know About Mosses? Just Ask Them

Classification Of Florida Specimens Is Aim of Course

Mention the word "moss" to any one of us and a combination of curly gray festoons hanging from a pine tree and what a rolling stone doesn't gather about limits our knowledge. But not so to Marlene Schwab and Betty Baggs, junior botany majors who comprise Miss Ruth Schornherst's new class in moss classification.

Mnium, atricum, protonema, gametophyte, and an onrush of technical terms leave the innocent bystander unsuccessfully groping back upon vague remnants of botany and high school Latin. On finding that atricum is "one of the most common forms of moss found in this region" it is best to adopt a different listening technique. Nod knowingly at every botanical term offered no matter how many syllables. This serves to imply that Miss Schornherst, Marlene, and Betty aren't the only ones who know thet the sporophyte generation is a seta with a capsule or that moss protonema gives rise to the gametophyte generation. From then on the going is easy and you can talk mosses until you really learn something.

During this semester course, offered here for the first time, about 100 kinds of moss found in the neighboring vicinity will be identified and all the various structures named. Each Saturday the "class" and teacher, a moss expert in her own right, make field trips into different parts of the country, inspecting every cornfield and road bank for miles around.

According to Betty and Marlene, moss forms very from tiny plants almost invisible to the eye, known as "pygmies" to large ones like the common "wheat moss," better known as polytrichum.

The accepted method of action is to arrive at a certain spot and armed with knife (to cut under the moss) and magnifying glass to strike out a la Sherlock Holmes, peering carefully in all suspicious corners. On discovering a moss the object is carefully cut away, labeled, by name if known, by time and place if not, for future study, and stored in a paper bag. Afterwards in the laboratory the respective mosses are sorted, studied, dissected and filed between folded sheets of paper, together with the finder's name and the name of the specimen.

By May, at the conclusion of the course, two aims will have been accomplished: a classification of many types of Florida mosses plus two girls who really know their mosses.

Polish Exhibit Closes Tomorrow

Continued from Page One

glasses, etc. Other such useful articles as tongs and shovels, have been made with unusual perfection. Wooden lamps and candlesticks combined with wire and wood contraptions and puppets made of papier mache also give evidence to the creativeness of these children.

.·. Inquiring Reporter .·.

N. S. F. A. Change Considered

Registrar's Notice

Any student who through unexcused cuts has lost all credit in a specific course, or who has half as many total unexcused cuts as she carries semester hours, will be asked to withdraw from the college for the remainder of the semester. The Secretary of the Executive Council shall notify the student in all such cases.

S. R. Doyle, Secretary
College Executive Council.

The questions asked by the Inquiring Reporter this week were about the constitutional change concerning N.S.F.A., which will be voted upon in convocation next Tuesday.

Should the change go through, the present N.S.F.A. forum committee would cease to exist, and a student forum would be set up in its place. The chairman of the forum committee would be a third vice-president of C.G.A., thereby making her a member of the executive committee and the college council, and she would be elected by the student body in the general elections.

The following questions were asked: Do you favor the change? Why or why not? Do you think having the N.S.F.A. chairman as third vice-president of C.G.A. would be a more effective means of getting something done about issues coming up in N.S.F.A.? Do you think the N.S.F.A. chairman's opinion would be unduly influenced by being a member of executive council and a close part of C.G.A.? Do you think the student forum, a place for open discussion, should be closely related to C.G.A.? What do you think is the position, importance, and significance of N.S.F.A. on the campus at present? How do you think this change would affect its position?

Mart Pierson: I am very much in favor of the proposed N.S.F.A. change because I think that with our growing student body we need more members on executive council. This third vice-president could bring to executive council and also to senate the ideas and proposals of the students attending the forum. Quicker action would be taken on the proposals.

I do not think the N.S.F.A. chairman's opinion would be influenced by being a close part of C.G.A. and the executive council. The point of this change is for this girl to bring more ideas to executive council and to influence its other members—not to be influenced by them. In the forum the chairman has no right to express her opinion, and she will therefore bring to executive council the opinion of the entire student forum group. The branches of C.G.A. are the governing bodies which see that plans and proposals are voted upon. If the student forum is a close part of C.G.A. its proposals will get more and quicker attention than if it were another body.

At present I do not think N.S.F.A. occupies a very significant position on this campus—too few people attend its meetings. Under the new system, I believe N.S.F.A. would reach more people.

Betty Ann Taylor: I think the chairman of NSFA should be elected as the president of W.A.A. is now. I think the student forum should be related to C.G.A. only as a source of suggestions. At present N.S.F.A. seems to be playing a very small part in campus life and thought, but I do believe that it has possibilities.

Elizabeth Anne Webb: Instead of answering the specific questions above, I prefer to simply give my reactions to the proposed constitutional change because I cannot say absolutely that I favor or do not favor the change. Theoretically, I would oppose such a change. In the first place it links the thoroughly indispensible "opposition," (somewhat weak and struggling in its present status, to say the least) to the "government." Such a step, of course, defeats the purpose of the opposition. Some new source of critical analysis of the work of our government will have to be found. In the second place with the N.S.F.A. chairman a member of executive council, over a period of years I think there will be a growing tendency to have forum discussions on only those topics which the executive council wishes discussed. This tendency is a direct tie-in with the previous criticism.

From a practical view-point, any action which seems to offer renewed impetus to N.S.F.A. is welcome. Admittedly the proposed change seeks to do that. The practical difficulties in the future will still be in the intelligent choice of a chairman, in the selection of a girl who can seek the help of executive council but not be dominated by it, and one who can translate worthwhile student opinion into action.

Mary Alice Lester: No I do not think that N.S.F.A. should be headed by the third vice president of C.G.A. I think that as an open forum, N.S.F.A. should be distinct from C.G.A. Its chairman should be elected by the student body for the purpose of leading the forum group. However, I do think that representatives from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes should attend the forum regularly. At present N.S.F.A. plays a small part in the student affairs. It would be a good plan for "the voice of the student body" to speak out on the activities of C.G.A. It would be a good way to check upon the activities of the governing forces, to see if other ideas were acceptable and, to get the students' opinions.

Anne Jones: I do favor the proposed constitutional change concerning N.S.F.A. I do not know whether this change will be a means of making more effective our chances of having something done about N.S.F.A. That remains to be seen. As to whether the third vice president would be unduly influenced by being a member of executive council and a close part of C.G.A., goes back to the fact that we, the student body, must be careful in our choice for this office. It is absurd to say that person would not be influenced to some extent by association, but at the same time if we choose wisely and select someone who is interested and will accept the responsibility of the office there will be less possibility of undue influence being exerted. I firmly believe that a student forum should be closely related to C.G.A. Every single student is a member of college government association and the sooner each individual student gets that clearly understood the greater will be the chances of getting a well-organized forum functioning. Anything that the student forum would discuss affecting the student body would in turn affect C.G.A. for, to me, they are synonomous. At present N.S.F.A. in my opinion is not filling the place on campus that it should. This change may or may not make N.S.F.A. more important. At least it will be a try for improvement. If progress does not come with change we, the students, can change again our program. We do not have to stay in a rut.

Mabel Nihoul: The student forum should be closely related to C.G.A. I favor the proposed change, if the atmosphere is such that students are not afraid to express their true opinion, good or bad, and their ideas are presented honestly and without bias to the C.G.A.

Whether the chairman can work more effectively as the third vice president would depend entirely on the person and her attitude. If we want a real open forum in N.S.F.A. we must very carefully select and elect our chairman. Now, N.S.F.A. is just a place to go to "let off a lot of hot air" and very few people do. This change should cause N.S.F.A. to be recognized as a more important organization on campus, can cause an increased attendance, and should cause the students to stop and think before they speak; for what happens there is supposed to be told directly to C.G.A. by our chairman and as third vice president of C.G.A. her report cannot very well be ignored. She must be a representative of N.S.F.A. to C.G.A.

Margaret Painter: I do not favor the change concerning N.S.F.A. My reason for not favoring it is that I think N.S.F.A. should not be such a definite part of C.G.A. I think it would be most unwise to give to C.G.A. any more power than it already has. I believe that C.G.A. and N.S.F.A. should work together to a certain extent but by making a member of C.G.A. chairman of N.S.F.A., it would, in effect, make N.S.F.A. nothing more than a branch of college government. I do believe thet the chairman of N.S.F.A. would be unduly influenced by being so close a part of C.G.A. A student forum should not be so close a part of C.G.A. Perhaps the college government association already has a finger in too many pies. If the third vice president of C.G.A. is made the head of N.S.F.A. we might as well call N.S.F.A. a C.G.A. forum.

Betty Markham: Yes I favor the change chiefly because it gives the chairman of N.S.F.A. a more prominent official position, which she deserves. It should also give her a better chance to present the recommendations of the forum directly to one of the important determining bodies of the college, the excutive council.

The change does not seem radical to me, because, after all, the present N.S.F.A. is a part of college government, being a senate committee. No matter what may be its connection with the "big bad wolf," C.G.A., the forum usually reflects the weakness or strength of its chairman. Since the student body is going to select the girl for the job, let it put a strong person in office. If she be strong, it would be to the advantage of N.S.F.A. to have her in executive council. First hand views, explained forcefully and tactfully, are always more effective than second or third hand views, falsely "colored" in the "passing on" process.

In my mind, the function of N.S.F.A. is to give the "common" students a chance to meet and express their opinions on everything from local to international affairs. It should be not only an educational body, through the introduction of new material, but should also serve as an outlet for the rehashing and exchanging of old ideas. When these are valuable it is the duty of the chairman to bring them to the attention of a body which will act upon suggestions rather than let them die away in committees as often happens in senate. Wouldn't the proposed change facilitate this last function? Need it hinder the carrying out of the first?

Jean Steffee: No, I don't favor the change. N.S.F.A. is a student organization. With appalling regularity we are reminded that ours is a college government association: it represents the whole campus. If N.S.F.A. went under C.G.A. the students would have no (barring the Flambeau, maybe) purely pro-student representative.

Sticking the N.S.F.A. chairman into the C.G.A. group would not be a more effective means for getting things done. All these arguments we've been hearing about C.G.A. being our government seems pretty thin now that we're told that we need N.S.F.A. chairman inside the organization to give us a little representation.

If N.S.F.A. chairman got into council she would have to fight hard not to fall in line and start carrying the whole campus around on her own little shoulders. She'd be a college representative not student.

No, a student forum should not be closely related to C.G.A. It is only natural that we proletariat be leery of an organization which, like the French Revolution system, is legislature, police department, judicial department, and executioner.

N.S.F.A. is not significant now, but I still think it should have the freedom to grow into something and not be buried in C.G.A.

Maxine Armistead: Yes, I do believe this change should go through. It is hard to discuss this question without a great deal of repetition, but there are certain facts regarding the legislation which are self evident. First of all, the proposal of a change grew out of a need felt by the students; second, this need is to have some one gather their ideas into a public opinion and third, the person gathering that opinion should have some place to present it, once it is amassed.

I don't believe that the girl chosen for this office would be influenced by C.G.A. as it has been said so many, many times, we are all members of C.G.A.; however, her work would be with the student body itself, rather than with the minute and intricate details which must be done separate and apart from other students in filling executive positions. I feel she would receive very little influence from anyone except in her meetings.

No doubt the relation of the forum to C.G.A. would be close, but I believe the relationship would be beneficial to both groups. Our government would have a chance to know how the electors really feel on certain matters. If such a forum were in existence, it would be the duty of the students, in their own self interest, to attend the forums and express themselves.

The present status of N.S.F.A. on the campus can hardly be said to be active. Meetings have very poor attendance, and the same group of people is always there. It is hoped thet if the change goes through, people would realise that it is their forum and that they should go to express themselves, and that only through expression of their desires will the student body have progressive changes.

Beryl Mitchell: Yes, I most certainly favor this change. It is impossible at this point to say how successful it will be, but it is a promising attempt to bring the general student body into a position of greater influence in its own government. Surely, no student who has put out the effort to understand the change opposes it; our progressive age does not embrace the philosophy of self-denial.

Having a "contact officer" would certainly be advantageous to us. When we express ourselves in N.S.F.A., we need not leave with a feeling of futility in having merely "blown off steam." We'll know that there is someone who is making it her business to absorb our opinions in order to take them fresh to our governing bodies. Obviously, the success of the new office will depend largely upon the individual chosen to fulfill it; so it must be done carefully and conscientiously.

If we use our common sense, we are not going to elect a girl who hasn't a mind of her own. Even if we should err in this, the officer cannot prevent free exchange of opinion in N.S.F.A.—not unless she stands with a loaded revolver pointed at us, which is improbable. In other words, we can not be any less well off no matter what she's like; whereas, there's great potentiality for us if we use discretion in choosing this officer. What more could we ask?

Patty Holbert: I do favor the proposed constitutional change concerning N.S.F.A. C.G.A. is the college, not a separate organization out of or above it. Neither should N.S.F.A., as a student forum, be considered as separate and above the general student body. Both are composed of our students. N.S.F.A.'s chairman should be influenced by C.G.A. and should influence C.G.A. in its turn. I think the N.S.F.A. forum can be an excellent means of making general student opinion known to C.G.A. officers. Perhaps, knowing that their ideas will be in close contact with those who can and will put them into action, more of the general student body will say what they think at the place where it will do the most good. Then our government will become more truly democratic.

Harriet Benson: If the chairman of N.S.F.A. must be a third vice-president to be able to be elected by the student body as a whole, then I would be in favor of making her third vice-president. However, it seems to me that N.S.F.A. should be, as far as possible, divorced completely from any influencing organization or group to function as it should. As a branch of C.G.A. it could not help reflecting C.G.A. in topics and in the way topics are presented. A forum of student opinion should be free, entirely from binding or directing influences. My suggestion would be to adopt the suggested set-up but to elect the N.S.F.A. chairman completely separate from C.G.A. officers just as the president of W.A.A. is elected. As for the vote in senate, may we all realize in full that such factor goes two ways. Not only would N.S.F.A. have a single vote in senate, but senate would have a major vote in N.S.F.A., the vote that decided what would be discussed and who would do the discussing.

Recreation Leader Speaks on Leisure

Arthur Jones of Charlotte, North Carolina, Southern field representative of the National Recreational Association, spoke to Miss Mary Settle's Recreational Leadership class last Monday.

He said, "Preparing for life is a lot of 'bunk'." You should be living your life even in college." The speaker edded that the most important result of the development of science is the creation of leisure, the use of which is one of our greatest problems today. Recreation can solve this problem if properly supervised so that everyone participates in it.

In conclusion Mr. Jones said that participation in recreational activities will enable Americans to gain emotional stability, to become social beings, and to develop a sense of their citizenship. He emphasized the fact that the world needs recreation more today than ever before in history.

Vocational Guidance Meeting Scheduled

There will be a vocational guidance meeting for seniors and two-year certificate students, Tuesday, February 13, at 8 o'clock, in the Augusta Conradi theatre.

All prospective graduates are urged to attend, regardless of choice of profession. The director of personnel will speak for 20 or 25 minutes on general placement and guidance, after which a short open forum will give opportunity for questions.

This meeting is also open to juniors and any other students interested.

Elizabeth G. Andrews,
Director of Personnel.

Sports Will Be Scheduled For Saturday Afternoons

Various activities, including badminton, golf, archery, dancing and fencing will be open to students this semester on Saturday afternoons as well as during the week, according to Miss Katherine Montgomery, director of physical education.

There is a fencing class conducted by Miss Mary Settle every Saturday afternoon from 2 until 3 o'clock. Also instruction will be available for those interested in badminton, golf, or archery as well as social dancing.

The gymnasium is open to the students from 2 until 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoons. The field house in back of the gymnasium is also open at this hour and students may check out skates, golf clubs, and other equipment for the weekend but they must be returned at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning.

Classical Club Will Meet

The Classical Club will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday at 8 o'clock in Broward club room. All members are expected to attend.

France is the principal source of skeletons used by medical students.

Life Saving Corps Adds 13 Members

Thirteen new members were initiated into the Life Saving corps last weekend at Camp Flastacowo.

Preceding the initiation a pledge dinner was held in the dining hall, when the Life Saving corps had as their guests Miss Katherine Montgomery, director of physical education, and Mrs. Marion MacIntosh, Red Cross secretary here.

The new members are: Peggy Barker, Martha Belle Duncan, Mary Lou King, Marcy MacIntosh, Dorothy Moe, Marion Swanson, Irene Fremd, Jean Lorrimer, Virginia Millsap, Ruth Smith, Lucille Williams, Ethel Crown and Helen Iserman.

The present officers of the Life Saving corps are: Hazel Wilkerson, president; Welda Christie, secretary; Dorothy Parks, instructor; Frances Battle, captain.

Stage Crew Selected For Speech Department Play

Selected by Miss Mary Mooty, instructor in art, the stage crew for the forthcoming speech department play, "Penny Wise" will be working mostly in connection with lights.

The scenery of the play is one set, that being a Connecticut farmhouse and the backstage management will be handled by the crew consisting of Elizabeth McDowell Miller, Sarah Lee Johns, Elizabeth Ford, Helen Anderson, and Kitty Patterson. Others may be added later for the presentation of the play on February 15 and 16.

Debate With Iowa College Will Be Held Here Today

The first intercollegiate debate scheduled for this year by the Debaters League, will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock in 408 education building.

At this time Patty Holbert and Mabel Nihoul will take the negative side of the question, resolved: That the United States should maintain a strict military and economic isolation. Two debaters from Loras college in Iowa will take the affirmative.

Joan Weaver, chairman of the league urges all who are interested to attend.

Get Your Johnson's Floor Wax for the Prom and Soph. Hop Tea Dances

Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & YON INC.
YON'S HARDWARE

AIR-CONDITIONED
MARTIN & DALTON
DEPARTMENT DRUG STORE
210-212 SO. ADAMS ST. PHONE 123

Camels, Chesterfields, Luckies, Old Golds—
CIGARETTES 2 Pkgs. 25c

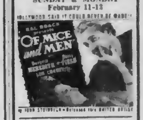
NEW SPRING COLORS:
- Flight
- Hostess
- Airway
- Tailspin
- Pilot

3-Thread Service 89c
3-Thread Sheer $1.00
2-Thread Sheer $1.15
4-Thread Service $1.15
2-Thread Evening $1.35

Vantine's Bubble Bath 50c
Vantine's Bath Salts 50c
500 Kleenex Tissues 28c
Valentine Cards ..... from 5c

-- Fountain Specials --
Foremost Whitehouse ICE CREAM ... 10c
Scarlett's Fudge With Whip Cream, Lge. Dish Sundae with Nuts 20c
Melanie Club Steak 35c
Bacon, Lettuce, Tomato Sandwich .. 25c
Potato Salad, Hot Chocolate

STATE
FEB. 9TH, THRU FEB. 12TH
"GONE WITH THE WIND"
NIGHT SHOWS (8:30 P. M.)
All Seats Reserved, 1.10 inc. tax
SUNDAY MAT. (3:00 P. M.)
All Seats Reserved, 1.10 inc. tax
WEEKDAY MAT. (10 A. M. and 2:30 P. M.)
Not Reserved, 75c inc. tax



WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
February 13-14

RITZ
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
February 8-10

SUNDAY & MONDAY
February 11-12

FEB. 13TH THRU FEB. 19TH
"GONE WITH THE WIND"
HELD OVER!!
ONE WEEK
Reserved Seats Now on Sale at State Box Office
State Prices and Policy Will Be Duplicated at the Ritz Theatre.
No Exchanges — No Refunds.

It Won't Be Long Now

With elections only a little more than a month away, and with that subject already uppermost in the minds of students, it is timely at this moment to give some consideration to the new elections system that is going into effect this year.

Page 37 of the 1939-40 handbook states that the section on procedure for elections was in the process of revision, and that before elections in the spring, copies of the new procedure would be prepared and distributed to every student.

This new procedure, which was read to the student body, was adopted at a meeting of student senate some time ago.

Besides clarifying and simplifying this section on election procedure, quite a few changes are brought in. One of the most important is the system of preferential voting whereby each student indicates her first, second and third choices. By this means primary elections are eliminated.

Nomination by petition is another change from the old system. Candidates for major offices must have at least 25 signers on their petitions, while candidates for minor offices need have only ten signers.

In considering the candidates after they have been nominated, judiciary records against a student will be considered qualitatively, not quantatively, in determining her eligibility for holding a major or sub-major office. In the event that the incumbent of one of these offices acquires a questionable judiciary record, the student executive council shall make recommendations to the faculty committee on student affairs concerning her continuance in office.

A further difference between the new procedure and the one formerly used is that the faculty committee on student affairs may recommend to the nominating committee the presenting of further nominations whenever such action seems advisable. This phase of the new procedure seems somewhat needless, because the faculty is hardly interested in taking any part in student elections. Student elections should continue to be for, by and of the students.

Voting machines, as used last year, make our elections more interesting and realistic, and it is hoped that they may be secured again this year. The use of machines does much to lighten the work of the elections committee as well as reducing chances for error.

It will be interesting to observe how the new procedure works out, and if additional changes and revisions are deemed necessary, they can be made in the due course of time. Legislation should evolve over a period of time, always being subject to much thinking, criticism, and suggestion.

Enter The First Lady

Once again the Alumnae Association of the college has arranged for an outstanding speaker who is probably the best known woman in the country today to make an address in the near future. She is none other than the first lady of the land—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. This will be the first time that the wife of a president in office has visited Tallahassee. Since no admission will be charged, it will be possible for the whole student body to attend this very worthwhile lecture.

In the last few months the Alumnae Association has sponsored a splendid series of programs. Beginning with Cornelia Otis Skinner, they continued with Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, and Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, well-known Florida author, is scheduled to speak at the Alumnae College in April. The variety of the programs has given them wide appeal not only among college students but also among townspeople, and they have proved a popular supplement to the regularly scheduled Artist Series and lecturers. It is to be hoped that the Alumnae Association will make these programs a regular yearly project since they are educational, enjoyable and profitable.

Boo-Hoo Item: An entire chemistry class at University of Toledo was hurriedly dismissed recently when a student put some chemicals together to inadvertently make tear gas.

Now, if there's an epidemic of this sort of thing, we'll know all mistakes of this nature are not just plain errors!

College librarians have their troubles, too.—and if you don't believe it, listen to this: A Glenville (W. Va.) State Teachers college librarian recently received a request for a book called "Forty Ways to Amuse a Dog." The person wanted "Forty Days of Musa Dagh."

Like their modern descendants, students didn't pass in the Biblical days, either. And if you don't believe it, give a once-over to the following quotations gathered for you by an industrious reporter on the staff of the Pioneer, student newspaper at Whitman college:

"Thou shalt not pass."—Numbers 20:18.
"Suffer not a man to pass."—Judges 3:28.
"The wicked shall no more pass."—Nahum 1:15.
"None shall pass."—Isaiah 34:10.
"This generation shall not pass."—Mark 13:30.
"There shall no strangers pass."—Amos 3:17.
"Beware that thou pass not."—2nd Kings 6:9.
"Neither any son of man pass."—Jeremiah 51:43.
"No man may pass through because of the beasts."—Ezekiel 14:15.
"Though they roar, yet they can not pass."—Jeremiah 5:22.

Round and Round She Goes

A proposed constitutional change will come before members of the student body to be voted upon at convocation Tuesday which should be of importance to every girl in this school. We refer to the proposed change in the N. S. F. A. set-up. Elsewhere in this issue will be found an Inquiring Reporter on this topic.

In considering this question, which has long caused confusion and debate, it is not our endeavor to influence anyone one way or the other. It is our hope, however, that in presenting all sides of the question, we may be able to help clarify thought on the subject and to help students make up their own minds as to how they want to vote Tuesday.

The first difficulty to be overcome in settling the N. S. F. A. question intelligently is to inform the students what the change is and to try to anticipate the way it would work, for there are many who do not understand the change.

The proposed change would abolish the N. S. F. A. forum committee, which is now a standing committee of senate. A student forum would be set up to take its place, performing the same functions as the N. S. F. A. forum.

A chairman, who would be the third vice-president of C. G. A. and therefore elected by the student body, would conduct the activities of the forum. She will be assisted by an executive committee composed of one representative from each of the three incoming classes, sophomore, junior and senior. These representatives will be elected at the first meeting of the forum after the installation of the new chairman.

The chairman of the student forum, as a third vice-president of the college government association, would be added to the executive council. Her duties would be to act as chairman of the student forum and to serve as the representative of N. S. F. A. on the campus. She would receive all communications from the national group, would present these ideas in forum meetings and executive council meetings, and would notify the national group about the activities on campus.

The signal difference between the old set-up and the proposed change is that as third vice-president of C. G. A. the N. S. F. A. head will be a member of the student executive committee and the college council, which is composed of the members of the student executive committee and the faculty committee on student affairs as well as a member of senate. She will also be elected by the student body, rather than by senate, as she is under the present set-up.

In favor of the proposed change it may be said that tha students will gain greater representation since another of their number will be added to these two important bodies. In holding her position as an elective officer of the student body, the chairman of N. S. F. A. would feel more directly responsible to the larger group that elected her. She would be more truly representative of the student body, since she would be elected by them instead of the smaller student senate group. In favor of the measure it has been said that N. S. F. A. would be able to accomplish more since any proposals that it might make would have a direct channel of communication through which to pass to the bodies that would be most able to take action upon them.

On the other hand, there are those who believe that a student forum, call it N. S. F. A. if you like, in order to be a place where students feel free to go and express their opinions openly, should not be closely associated with the college government association. It is also felt by some that the N. S. F. A. opinion might be colored somewhat by the fact that the chairman would be an integral part of the C. G. A. set-up. Such influence should it exist, would probably be shown on the selection of certain topics for discussion and in the avoidance of certain other topics.

In the last analysis, the importance of N. S. F. A. will not depend upon whether or not its chairman is a member of college council and tha third vice-president of C. G. A. elected by the student body. Rather, the significance of the student forum will depend upon the topics chosen for consideration, free and open discussion of these topics at the meetings, and action taken upon such discussions. Under the present conditions, adequate means are available for legislation upon recommendations made in N. S. F. A. providing there is enough student interest and opinion back of the recommendations.

Whichever way the students vote in convocation Tuesday will not make a great deal of difference, but whether students are interested in N. S. F. A. and realize its potential importance as a place where the voice of the people can be heard will make a difference.

The students have a voice. Let it be heard.

Your Government.....

By MAXINE ARMISTEAD

On page 37 of the handbook under the "Procedure for Nomination and Election of Officers of Campus Organizations" there is a notice to the effect that the section is being revised, and that before the spring election copies of the new procedure will be presented to every student. The following is the election system as it now stands. Keep it to use for reference as you would your handbook.

Election System . . . .

As a preliminary to elections, on February 6, in convocation, each student was given a list of all the major and minor offices with class qualifications and duties of each office.

There are two groups of training classes, the first on parliamentary procedure and the general conduct of offices held from February 4-10 under the sponsorship of Mortar Board for any students who may be interested in becoming candidates for any office. The second is held from February 10-17 by the major officers of C. G. A. and the two chairmen of lower court for students interested in becoming candidates for the several offices.

Nominations . . . .

Nominating is to be done by petitions. For major offices the petitions must be signed by at least 25 students, with no girl signing more than one petition for the same office. These petitions must be submitted to the chairman of the elections committee during the week of February 18. All petitions must be signed and in not later than 10:30, Saturday night, February 24. For minor offices the regulations are exactly the same, with the exception that she needs only ten students to sign her petition. All petitions must be filed in the office of the dean of students not more than two days later.

Any girl may submit petitions for both a major and a minor office as specified in the paragraph above. In this way she will automatically become a candidate for the minor office, if she is not elected to the major office of her preference.

Recommendations . . . .

The faculty committee on student affairs may recommend to the nominating committee the presenting of further nominations whenever such action seems advisable. At least two nominees must be presented for each office. In case they are not those bodies best acquainted with persons eligible may be asked to make nominations which will be added to the primary ballot at the discretion of the nomination committee, or the nomination committee may call for further nominations from the student body.

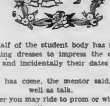
All girls submitting petitions for a major or minor office, and those girls nominated following the request of the faculty committee shall be asked to hand in a statement of qualifications to the elections committee.

Nominations Considered . . . .

Information concerning the candidates is to be compiled in the office of the dean of students during the calendar week of February 25 (the last Monday in February). The action of the faculty committee on student affairs upon all candidates for campus offices shall be taken during the calendar week of March 3. No petitioners for candidacy for any office shall be announced until action has been taken by the faculty committee.

A judiciary record against a student will be considered qualitatively (and not quantatively) in determining her eligibility for holding any major or sub-major (six, five or four point load) office. In the event that the incumbent of one of these offices acquires a questionable judiciary record, the student executive council shall make recommendations to the faculty committee on student affairs concerning her continuance in office.

Elections . . . .



On Tuesday, March 12, all candidates for major offices on the ballot shall be presented at the student body meeting. The candidates for the three major offices of C. G. A. and for the editors of the publications shall state their reasons for seeking office and may be subject to questioning. At this time a vote shall be held following the plan of preferential voting. (In this plan each voter indicates her first, second and third choices). The candidate receiving 51 per cent of first choice votes is elected. If no candidate receives the majority of first choice votes, then second choice votes will be tabulated and the candidate receiving the highest number of first and second choice votes shall be declared elected.

All students who are expected to speak to the student body in seeking office shall be advised to prepare a statement of their reasons for seeking office when they submit their petitions. All candidates for the final election shall be notified of their candidacy by 10:30 Monday night, March 11.

The candidates for minor offices will be presented at a student body meeting on Thursday, March 14. Voting will follow the preferential voting plan whenever it is possible. Students who may have classes at 1:30 Tuesday or Thursday, may be absent from convocation, or are day students may participate in the respective elections between 2:30 and 6:30 on Tuesday, March 12, and Thursday, March 14, at the box office in front of the auditorium. Graduate students are not qualified to participate in student elections.

In the event that voting machines are used, voting shall take place from 8:30 to 12:30 and from 1:30 to 6:30 on Wednesday, March 13, and Friday, March 15.

Collegiate Comebacks

Now that half of the student body has mortgaged its future for evening dresses to impress the other half of the student body and incidentally their dates this weekend we feel.

The time has come, the mentor said, to think as well as talk.
Of whether you may ride to prom or whether you must walk.
And if the answer pleases not, you really mustn't balk, because the whole thing is Planned to do the most for the majority of the students and who are you to go
Against what is best for the masses.

• • • • •

Some friends of ours who had very nobly decided to forego the pleasures of desserts in the dining room for Lent were being very strong and fine about the whole thing and leaving their desserts for the rest of us the other night. On the way out a student dietitian remarked to them with a pitiful and forlorn look. "You don't like the dessert, I suppose." All they need now is a sign over the door; "WE AIM TO PLEASE."

• • • • •

And whereas the diningroom may do everything in its power to make our stay here one of joy and sunshine, some other departments we know here aren't quite as cooperative. For instance the nasty old office of the registrar refused to change one freshman's schedule for a week so she could go off that weekend. Such a little thing to ask—Wasn't that mean of them?

And we think the following is about as eloquent a justification of the grading system as we've come across in lo, these many moons. Note, if you will, the moral side, the promise of reform . . . . et cetera

Teachers of the faculty,
The dying student said,
Do ye not know the reason
Why we wish that we were dead?

• • • • •

It's little things like Spanish
That lead us to the brink
Of the precipice of flunking
And this is what we think.

• • • • •

We think that education shouldn't all come from a book
We think that convocation should be turned into a jook.
We think that all the classes shouldn't be Spanish section ten.
But education for tha masses on the useful subject, "Men."

• • • • •

And now we think we've said enough
Know what we're going to do?
We're gonna study the mean old stuff
And try our best to get through.

• • • • •

Because in spite of all we say
We love the dear old joint.
We'd hate to have the note go home Saying. Sorry, she hasn't joint."

• • • • •

P. S. Please chalk up all offensive statements in the above to the fact the stuff has to rhyme.

Magazine Jottings . . .

Articles about cities have always been popular, particularly if they point out the detrimental parts of the city life. Lincoln Steffins made a hit with his articles "The Shame of the Cities" back in the latter part of the nineteenth century. Right now Forum magazine is evoking showers of letters from irate and approving readers because of their series of articles on cities.

This series was started back in December with an article on Washington. Last month the article dealt with Charleston, S. C. This month the article deals with Baltimore, Maryland, and is entitled "Elegant Indigence in Baltimore." The author is Audrey Granneberg.

These articles, according to Forum, have "been the subject of considerable comment from the press and from reader civic pride." A page of letters from Charlestonians and others who favor Charleston call the Forum a muckraker." Forum protests. They feel that "municipal government and the organization of most city life is no credit to American civilization."

Miss Granneberg, in her article, calls Baltimore "the smuggest city in America, except Boston. She has all the set conservatism of a pre-Civil War southern town, and flaunts one of the most blue-blooded aristocracies in the New World. She also tolerates 100,000 unblessed slum dwellers."

According to Miss Granneberg, a caste system exists in Baltimore. First there are what is called the Brahmins. They are the ultra, ultra, horsey, Bachelor Cotillion set. Then there is the merchant class. This class never makes the Brahmin class, now matter how many yachts they possess.

The Jewish merchants' constitute the intermediate class between the merchant class and the middle class which comes next. And then finally there are the white slum dwellers, and the Negroes—the Untouchables.

Cultural life, Miss Granneberg finds, is mediocre. The theaters, tha opera, the publishing houses are full of [illegible] age. All culture is at a stand still, and the immensely complacent and sluggish city can't generate enough energy to keep once glorious institutions alive.

Baltimore newspapers, once leaders, are now stupid and inane. And cultural organizations are typified by the Women's Civic League which is a garden club, campaigning for more trees and flowers.

The condition of the negro in Baltimore is pitiful. Nominally they may be free, but the Baltimorans do not consider them so, by their actions. Seventy-five of the hundred people that died in Baltimore from venereal diseases are negroes. T. B. runs rampant. There are no negro hospitals worthy of the name. And there are scores of illegitimate negro children.

Baltimore supports not one, but two political machines—city and state. There are ward politicians. The waterfront is the gaudiest on the east coast, with an immensely lively red-light district.

Once Baltimore was called "the gracious lady." Now the lady is old and coarse and harsh. Smoke, dirt, poverty and lethargy dominate the life. "Like Buddha," Miss Granneberg concludes, "Baltimore sits in smug contemplation of her navel, ignoring a thousand evils, lethargy the most vicious of them all."

• • • • •

With a flying carpet swoop, we go from Forum and Baltimore to Asia magazine and an intensely provocative article entitled, "India Challenges Democracy," by Gertrude Emerson Sen, representative of Asia in India.

The February issue of Asia is filled with pertinent articles on Near East questions, and this article is not the least important of them.

What will India do now that England is at war? Will she help England if England were in danger of defeat? What does India think of Nazism? And where does Ghandi come in? And what about Nehru, Ghandi's proposed successor? How about parties in India? Are they taking advantage of the war to secure more liberty for their country? All of these questions and others are answered in this authoritative article.

According to Miss Sen, not only are Ghandi and [illegible] willing to help England should events become too serious, but various events have passed in this Asistic country [illegible] leads England to be assured that the National Congress and the Muslim League, the two chief political parties in India, are against Nazism.

But these two parties have views of their own about what is good and what is not good for India in connection with England. Right now India wants the British government "to review and revise the entire problem of India's future constitution de novo." The Muslim League wants to protect the rights of Muslims because they say that the Hindus virtually dominate them.

The congress wants a united India. The Muslim League is opposed to this. The congress wants freedom for India. The Muslim League has different ideas.

England's answer to this problem of freedom for India is, according to Miss Sen, "unimaginative and minatory." Lord Snell, she says, declares that England feels that the time is ill-chosen for a reiteration of these claims.

All in all, the article is an answer to the main question: what is India doing in the way of procuring her freedom with England busily engaged in martial pursuits?

Some concessions have been granted by the English government, but all is still not as the Indians want it. "The door for argument is still open, then—" the article concludes, "About an inch."

—Vivian Ahlswede

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

JEANNETTE MULLIS .... Editor
MABEL BENNETT .... Associate Editor
MURYL ROLAND, LOUISE RICE .... Managing Editors
VIVIAN AHLSWEDE .... News Editor

Exchanges Polly Douglas, Outside News Margaret Painter, Columnist Isabel Day, Society Margaret Scott, Carese Brown; Sports Sara Nooney; Copy Editor Sarah Worth, Picture Editor Iris Bell, Student Opinion Editor, Amelia Stone, Features, Jean Cooper

Reporters: Mary Caldwell, Mary Lou Garrett, Jane Mendenhall, Isabel Waterhouse, Sibyle Sanders, Belle Yonge, Jonnie Thomasson, Mary Frances Oven, Cary Catherine Bogart, Harriet Benson, Louise [illegible]ger, Celeste Hardee, Anne Gaylord, Nyna Dye, Marguerite D[illegible], Jeannette Holliday, Bettye Hyatt, Grace Rushing, Doris C[illegible], Marline Dale, Emma Jean Bigley, Pauline Dale, Bertha Bond, Gr[illegible] Brewer, Eleanor Miller, Velma Pate, Dorothy Rudasill, Betty A[illegible], Taylor, Kitty Jo Hickman, Patsy McGraw

BUSINESS STAFF

GRACE SPARKMAN .... Business Manager
LILLIAN BOWNESS .... Assistant Business Manager
VELMA PATE .... Circulation
MARY GLENN GRIMES .... Advertising

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Members National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.
Chicago · Boston · Los Angeles · San Francisco

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

FLORIDA STATE ALUMNAE NEWS

By CHARLOTTE STEVENS
Alumnae Secretary

Alumnae College Offers Weekend Of Programs and Social Affairs; Rawlings Will be Guest Speaker

Theme to Center on "Active Citizenship"; Many Faculty Members and State Officials Are Expected to Participate in Programs

Chairman

Miss Daisy Parker (above) of the class of '37, who now teaches history and government at Leon high school in Tallahassee is general chairman of the 1940 Alumnae college scheduled April 12-14. She achieved high honors in scholarship and campus activities having been a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Pi Kappa Phi, and Mortar Board and having served as editor of the Distaff.

The 1940 Alumnae College scheduled April 12-14 is so packed with good things that no self-respecting graduate can afford to miss it, so make your plans and be ready to travel when the time comes.

Chief among them are: Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, Florida writer of "The Yearling" and other best sellers, booked as opening speaker in a talk on "Fun Into Fiction" Friday night, April 12.

The student-alumnae banquet, which is still under consideration and which may be used for the first time during the homecoming period when Rolly will entertain returning graduates there instead of in their homes.

Reunions Held

Seven class reunions which include the following classes and permanent presidents: 1910 Elise Reineke Smith; 1915 Pearl Caldwell Warren; 1920, Frances Sheldon Benner; 1925, Lucille Bunner; 1930 Edna Mahon; 1935, Jennie Mae Hall Cone; 1938, Louise Geiger.

The Grantland Rice movie short subject "Aqua Rhythm," with scenes exclusively the Florida club formation swimmers of Florida state college, will be shown at this time through courtesy of the producer.

Dean Hendrix G. Dodd, who served them at the banquet two years ago, has promised to do the honors for this occasion again.

These luncheons are in addition to worthwhile talks on such current and pressing subjects as the "Status of the United States and the part of the individual in bringing to the Five Republics countries of the Americas" by Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins college, and a class of more economic students who will appear in a round table about summer education.

Faculty Will Take Part

Faculty members who will appear at the Alumnae College this year include those prominent in various discussions and those who will speak. They are listed as follows: Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, head of the department of history; Dr. Victoria Bayless, assistant professor of history and political science; Miss Ella Vocelle, associate professor of home economics; Earl L. Bond, head of the department of education; Dr. Arthur Kallet, associate professor of education; Miss Alida Malkus, Miss Mary Yon, Mrs. Beatrice Boyer Williams, head of the art department; Ari Ahrendt, head of the violin department; Dr. Beulah Briley, director of dramatics and orchestra and Dean William O Dodd of the College of Arts and Sciences, all of whom will speak.

Social functions that week-end in honor of the visiting alumnae by Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, Mrs. Ray Sanford, president. Friday night at President Conradi's home, and at the home of President Edward Conradi for all returning graduates.

Saturday, April 13

8:30 a. m.—"Political Citizenship." Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey presiding on National Citizenship; Judge Ben Willcox speaking on "The Relationship of the Individual to the Florida Courts" and Miss Sadie Yonn on "The Relationship of the Individual to Organized Labor and Economic Legislation"; Dr. Victoria Schuck presiding over "International Citizenship," with Dr. Vera Micheles Dean and Dr. Arthur Upham Pope speaking on "Historical Backround of Our Isolation Policy" and Dr. Marian Irish "Trends Toward a Policy of International Cooperation."

9:30-10 a. m.—Sketches of Graduates Who Have Won Distinction" by Miss Mary Louise Nickel, secretary; Miss Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings in lecture, "Fact Into Fiction" and luncheon at the home of President Edward Conradi for all returning graduates.

Saturday, April 13

8:30 a. m.—"Political Citizenship." Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey presiding on National Citizenship; Judge Ben Willcox speaking on "The Relationship of the Individual to the Florida Courts" and Miss Sadie Yonn on "The Relationship of the Individual to Organized Labor and Economic Legislation"; Dr. Victoria Schuck presiding over "International Citizenship," with Dr. Vera Micheles Dean and Dr. Arthur Upham Pope speaking on "Historical Backround of Our Isolation Policy" and Dr. Marian Irish "Trends Toward a Policy of International Cooperation."

9:30-10 a. m.—Sketches of Graduates Who Have Won Distinction" by Miss Mary Louise Nickel, secretary; Miss Marjorie Kinnan

Continued on Page Eight

7 Classes Plan Alumnae College Week Reunions

Presidents from 1910 To '38 Send Notes To Classmates

Seven class reunions from the dozen members of the class of 1910 to the 324 members of the class of 1938, are booked as special features of the Alumnae College, to be held on April 12-13-14. No effort has been spared to make these reunions of vital interest to everyone in these classes, and naturally the events of the Alumnae College as a whole will be of interest to all who return.

Classes reaching this year are 1910, 1915, 1920, 1925 1930, 1935 and 1938, which is having its two-year reunion. However you don't have to be a member of a reunion class to attend Alumnae College. It is for every alumna of F.S.C.W., and we are counting on a large group of F.S.C.W. graduates coming back to see us at this time.

Following are the messages from the presidents of the reuniting classes:

Class of 1910

Dear Classmates:

It is true that several years have passed since 1910, but I can't believe any of us is too decrepit to fully and attend this 1940 reunion.

Let's get together and talk about our children and their accomplishments—our ups and downs, our various experiences, our philosophies—oh, there will be much to say—

Let the chosen be complete.

Elise Reineke Smith.

Class of 1915

DAY LETTER

1915, Roll Call—and wherever you are: Ruby Adams, Emma Barrs, Irma Blake Effinger, Constance Bowden Bryan, Lucile Pitts Trenham, Lucile Collins Wilson, Josephine Yon, Maude Godley Smith, Naomi Grothaus Sunderman, Elon Guice, Belle O'Neal, Adelaide Key Stephenson, Myrtice McCaskill Bryan, Adelaide Marshall, Zoe Manning, Helen Martin Caldwell, Ethel Mae Hall, Erma Trammell Moseley, Rosa Walker, Winnie Warren McEwen, Laura Wilson and Sadie Wilson Anderson—you too. Pope Barrow.

Be sure to answer 100% April 12-14 at F.S.C.W. Alumnae College homecoming. Please arrive Tallahassee in time to get settled and get together. If you cannot attend, at least let us hear from you. Homecoming theme is "Active Citizenship"—the field for our activities in 1940. Bring pictures, plans and act for broader better service. Bring your husbands and children, keeping aloft and alight the "torch." Love and best wishes from me.

Pearl Caldwell Warren,
Class President.

Class of 1920

Twenty years have gone by since our class was graduated from F.S.C.W. We passed since we had our first reunion at the Silver Anniversary celebration. Now it is time for us to get together again. Let's make this a date that happy days spent together for four wonderful years and last all through our busy, useful lives since that time.

The fifth which we gave to our college has been turned over to the new generation of college boys and girls, and we can be among the first to enjoy it, for our dream of a new dormitory for women has at last materialized.

I sincerely hope that many of us can return for the reunion, that we may take advantage of the Alumnae College and renew real friendships which were formed years ago.

Cordially yours,
Frances Hendry Bennet.
President.

Class of 1925

Do you remember the spring of 1925? Senior night "out" and the last meeting of the class of '25 just before daylight: weekends at the lake in the campus dormitories and wisteria vines in blooms. Sunday afternoon hikes; burning the books without the slightest knowing about it, term papers due and the Faculty not sure of their name or notebooks to finish overnight; Dr. Pinner's psychology class; Dr. Mitchell's uncertainty concerning the future; sophomore dances; Dr. Dodd's "Dearest Girls" to Gainesville maybe a disappointment, but more than all a sense of closeness and feeling of gratitude for all the experiences and opportunities which F.S.C.W. had offered to us?

It is now the spring of 1940, and we still remember so much of those four years together . . .

We will expect and plan on your being with us the weekend of April the 12th. We are hoping that many of the girls of the classes of '23 and '27 will be there, for they, as our sister classes, were very important to us. There are also many of the classes of '22, '24, '26 and '28 whom we would like so much to see. Remember that they will return at this time.

Our address list is rather incomplete; so please help us to get in touch with the various members and help urge them to be there. We will be greatly disappointed if you are not there. Plan to be at the reunion. Do send suggestions and plans for the reunion.

As ever yours.

Lucile Sumner,
Class President.

Note: These people are planning to come. Wonder if you plan to come back and see them again? Annie Flagg Wilder Ward, Gladys Jordan McKay, Lucile Reece Roberts, Ruth Hall Burns, Thelma Smith Saunders, Louise Verri Newton. And don't forget that Miss Tracy and Dr. Pinner, our class sponsors, will be there too)

Class of 1930

Wherever you are, I urge you to come to Tallahassee to participate in our class reunion to be held in conjunction with the Alumnae College April 13-14, 1940. There were about 360 of us—remember? And I would like to shake the hand of each one of you.

Negotiations are underway for a splendid course the Alumnae College to be offered by their Alumnae Association, with eminent authorities sharing with us their knowledge and experience to help and wide interest. I do urge you to come and avail yourself of this splendid opportunity.

We're still all a part of each of the scheme of things at F.S.C.W., you know, though some of us lose sight of this. I feel sure that for us has an opportunity to work toward some worthy goal.

As a class, we have our own meal and very pleasant problem to solve. We have about $200 in our treasury, and as your president I suggest that we put this little nest egg to some worthy use. In our years with Florida State college room and campus of "Tally", most of us have learned something of the meaning of having had the advantages of a liberal arts college education."

If we have, then no doubt we have some special objective we would like to set up for achievement—either by our class individually or as that integral part of the whole alumnae association.

At any rate, the money lies idle, and in the humble opinion of your president and secretary,

Continued on page seven

Honorary Alumna Ruth Bryan Rohde

America's first woman diplomat paid her first formal visit within several years to Florida State College for Women January 16 with the appearance of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Rohde in a lecture engagement under the sponsorship of the Alumnae Association. Mrs. Frank D. (Beth Wallace) Moor, president of the Alumnae association, is shown above (left) with Mrs. Rohde at a lovely reception tendered the visitor by Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Mrs. Rohde was honored also with an informal coffee by President Edward Conradi and his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Kiermeier, at their home following the evening's lecture an "This Democracy at Ours." Mrs. Rohde received the honorary degree of doctor of literature from Florida state college in 1935 thereby making her a member of The Alumnae association.

Births

To Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson, (Frances Porth, 1937) a daughter, Patricia Ann, in December 1939.

To Mr. and Mrs. Fayette L. Hall, (Edna Moon, class of 1937) a son, in June 1939.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. Grady Phelps, (Dorothy Prink, class of 1926) a daughter, Judith Ann.

To Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Bess (Kathleen Crocker, 1931) a daughter.

To Cornelia Davis Hamlin, 1937, a son.

To Martha Edwards Turnbull, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. William B Tippetts, Belle O'Neal, 1928) a daughter, born June 1, 1939.

To Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ward (Mary Olivia Taylor, 1937) have a six-month-old daughter Dr. Ward is a surgeon in the Colored Grady Hospital in Atlanta.

Student-Alumnae Union Will Open

Center Will House Varied Activities

Completion of the long-awaited Florida Legislature Student-Alumnae Union building at Florida State College for Women is expected about the time of Alumnae College.

The structure which is being built with PWA and state administration project at a cost of approximately $150,000, is the last unit in the building program at the college in a government-sponsored project totaling almost a million dollars.

It consists of four stories and a basement of reinforced concrete, brick and steel, with a tile roof. The building is in the shape of an L, with the front facing Jefferson street and the wing facing the driveway past the education building. It is approximately 180x120 feet in its maximum measurements.

The student-alumnae center will contain an all student and alumnae activities as well as the main publicity center is expected to be used for the first time during the Alumnae college April 12-14, according to present plans.

Furniture for the structure must come from funds to be raised by the alumnae and friends of the college since no appropriation has been made to date for this purpose. Full plans for a campaign to furnish the building are listed elsewhere in this issue of the Flambeau.

Besides furnishing office space for such campus organizations as the college government association, Flambeau, Flastacowa, and other groups, the building will serve as a center for many of the formal entertainments given on the college; will have a game room for all students and faculty members; and a whole floor given over to bedrooms where a limited number of alumnae may be encouraged to visit campus visitors may stay.

The new floor will have a large lounge 36x84 feet, which has oak paneling, and a huge fire place. The entrance hall, with its glass ing doors which can be opened when desired, will have a room opposite it to give more space on occasion demands. On this floor likewise will be located the supervisor's office, also headquarters for the chairs of publication and publicity office, each consisting of a workroom and office room, private office, and in the case of the publicity office, a small bedroom as well.

On the second floor a large assembly room is located over the same size as the formal lounge. This will have a movable platform and movable chairs to allow dancing or movies and other entertainment may be featured. It will seat up to 250 persons. Space for the Y.W.C.A. college government association, Florean, Seminole, Distaff and a committee room also is provided here.

With the exception of a projection room, the third floor is devoted entirely to bedrooms which will accommodate a total of 19 persons. Two smaller rooms have private baths and closets. The fourth floor has a big costume room, and a number of committee rooms.

On the ground floor will be the Flambeau quarters, game room,

Continued on Page Eight

Do You Know That

If the Alumnae will co-operate 100% with our Drive for Funds with which to furnish the new Student-Alumnae building, the success of our undertaking will be assured.

If our girls, alumnae and former students will only stop to think for a few minutes of what a college education has meant to their lives, I am sure that they would realize the value of such education, and I know that we could raise, not only our $10,000 goal, but much more than this amount.

If our Alumnae would compare the cost of an education at the Florida State College for Women with that of any other college of equal rank in the United States, they would be astounded to learn how much was saved in dollars and cents, by coming to our college.

If our Alumnae would realize that this is their golden opportunity to be of real service to their association and college, that this opportunity may never come again because our other buildings are furnished by the state through taxes, and that this is the only time in the history of our organization that they will have a chance to perpetuate their memory on the campus, I know that they would "do something about it."

If you know these things, your response will be FAITH in you, and we know that you will let you know that the most important thing the association has ever undertaken, and will give us your wholehearted support. Very soon now you will receive a letter, card, to be filled in with dimes, dollars or more gifts. Why not begin to save your dimes for this purpose now, as this when the next Alumnae you can fill it up immediately and send it back to me, without any delay. Why not make a real "gift of appreciation" to your college education during this Alumnae Drive?

There are many "lost" alumnae that I'm sure they are lost is because they have moved since graduating or they have married and have changed their names and failed to notify the alumnae office of these changes If you know of former students or alumnae who do not receive a card to fill when the time comes, please let me know? Then girls, talk this proposition up. Let's work for it, and "great will be your reward."

MRS. FRANK D MOOR
(Beth Walton)
President.

News Concerning Alumnae Clubs

The Washington, D. C. alumnae club met January 20, 1940 at the Washington branch of the American Association of University Women. A business meeting was followed by a tea. Plans for coming of business were discussed; first, the affiliation of new F.S.C.W. alumnae in May. It has been suggested to Washington to live second, Mrs. Ray Sanford (1915) is the president of the club.

In Tampa Mrs. Ray West, (Evelyn Bernard, class of 1931) is working to revive the Tampa Alumnae club which has been quite active in the past, but which has not been functioning for many years. Alumnae in Tampa are urged to contact Mrs. West and help with this organization. Her address is 5407 McKay avenue.

At a meeting of the Atlanta Alumnae club, which has 100 members in Atlanta, the president of the Alumnae Association and the secretary of the Alumnae Association were invited to attend. The meeting was held at a small room out from Atlanta and was an old-fashioned barbecue. After dinner a business meeting was held at which time Mrs. Moor, president of the Alumnae association, spoke for the Y.W.C.A. college government association, Florean, Seminole, Distaff and a committee room also is provided here.

With the exception of a projection room, the third floor is devoted entirely to bedrooms which will accommodate a total of 19 persons. Two smaller rooms have private baths and closets. The fourth floor has a big costume room, and a number of committee rooms.

On the ground floor will be the Flambeau quarters, game room,

Continued on Page Eight

Every Loyal Alumnae of FSCW Is Asked to Help Furnish New Student-Alumnae Building

Mrs. Frank D. Moor Has Announced Drive To Raise $10,000; Chairmen in Florida And Other States Have Been Enrolled

Award Chairman

Mrs. J. W. McCallum (the former Caroline LaFontisee) who was elected president of the National Council of Catholic Women and was former president of the College Women's Association, is the chairman for the 1940 Alumnae Award of Honor to be conferred at the May commencement exercises, Deadline for nominations, which are to be mailed her in Gainesville, is March 30.

Enlistment of every wide-awake loyal alumna of Florida State College for Women in being sought with the launching of a drive to raise $10,000 to help furnish the forthcoming Longmire Student-Alumnae Union room to be completed.

The drive is off to an excellent start with at least $1,000 already in the coffers as the result of money raised from alumnae-sponsored benefits the last six months past at the college and the generosity of good alumnae of Tallahassee. Tallahassee as the home of the college expects to raise one-fifth of the total Volunteering their services as workers already are Agnes Edwards, dean of Southwestern Louisiana institute, who is a former president of the student body. Mary Emily Parker, prominent Tallahassee graduate who is permanent president of the class of 1939 and who now teaches in Madison; and Mrs. Kenneth Cockrum, of Quincy, vice-president of the Alumnae association.

"To help in this drive is a privilege for daughters of Florida State College for Women who may not have had opportunities open due to the fact that all the other facilities on the campus are built and supported by taxes," stated Mrs. Frank D. Moor, (Beth Walton) Moor, president of the Alumnae Association. "This new Student-Alumnae building is being constructed by monies from the Alumnae the student fund and matched by funds from the Works Progress Administration," she said. She is enrolling chairmen in all communities of Florida as well as in other states where alumnae clubs to carry on this money-raising program are organized.

Continued on Page Six

Nominations Are Due by March 20

Award of Honor to Be Presented to Alumna

Any Alumna of Florida State College for Women or any member of the Alumnae Executive council may send in nominations from now until the deadline of March 20 for the 1940 Award of Honor to be conferred upon one or more Florida State college graduates who have brought distinction to their alma mater. Mrs. J. W. McCollum, of Gainesville, is chairman of the award of honor committee, is receiving the nominations.

All nominations for the honor must be accompanied by a complete record of character and record of achievement of the person nominated, together with letters from individuals and responsible persons acquainted with the nominee. Those eligible under the alumnae of Florida State colleges who have distinguished themselves in any of the fields of science, liberal arts, professional activities, business or social service, or service to the college.

The award, in the form of a parchment bearing a facsimile of the Westcott building towers over one side and the college seal on the other side, will be made at the college commencement exercises in May. It has been awarded to 12 persons before now, including Mrs. Ray Sanford, who humously made Since the honor has been five years ago, the following persons have received it: 1936, Kathryn Reece Haun, Shirley Virginia Lee Allen, Mildred Ford Van Doren, all of New York City; Mrs. J. D. McCollum and Mrs. Clara McDonald Gleon, of Gainesville; Miss Rowena Longmire, of Tallahassee; and Mrs. Bailey Sloan (posthumously made) 1937, Mrs. Eugenia Tull Davis, of Tallahassee; Carol Perrenot Lonnone, of New York City; and Dr. Tina Olia Brevard, of Wilmington, Va. 1938, Dr. Helen Hall, of Salina, Kansas; and 1939, Mrs. Henry Lester Smith, of Bloomington, Ind.

Members of the present award of honor committee, besides Mrs. McCollum, are: Mrs. W. E. Cochran, Hilah Rimes, of Wauchula; Mrs. Virginia Holland Simmons, of Bartow; Mrs. J. W. Simmons (Noble McClendon) of Orlando; Mrs. Frank Morgan, (Edward Brewer) of Arcadia, Mrs. Harold McNabb, Betty Wood of Miami Co.; and Mrs. Frank D. Moor, (Beth Walton) president Alumnae Association of F.S.C.W.

Alumnae Personals

Vesta Evans, graduate of the class of 1939, is teaching school in Ocala. She and Adelaide Duval, class of 1935, recently entered a dinner party in honor of Mrs. Ray Sanford, Alumnae president, who was in Ocala.

Katherine Autrey, class of 1939, is a teacher in Kissimmee. Katherine was on the campus at Thanksgiving. Frances Gray returned to the campus for the Thanksgiving holidays from Bainbridge. Margaret Graham '37, Sarah Kreitzman '37, Dyxn Latham '38, Beth Deaver '38, Mary Gray '34, Virginia Gautier '39, Marie Castleberry, Adelaide Langley, Lucette Patten '39, Myrvin Everett '37, Lula Walker, Martha Moore '36, Isabel Dale, Class of '38, Sadie Mathews Parris, Margaret Sheffield Stevenson, Mary Jane McMullen '38, Priscilla West '39, Thomas Galloway, Alberta Wright, Adelaide Slaughter, Margaret Nesbitt, Betty Ambler, Frances Douglas '39, Helen Hall '38, Margaret Wolcott '38 Sarah Lytle '39, Neil Strain Shrader '37, Elizabeth Pratt '39, Edith Daniel, Sarah Beth Davis, Polly Everett, Honor Maynard, Martha Dyke, Martha Moore Norfleet '38, Esther Mitchell, Ruth Hinckley, Erma Streng, Eunice Parris, Dorothy Dell Davis, Dora Brown, Beth Ranome '30 Katherine Pratt '38 Marjorie Rauleerson '39, Virginia Ann Dunn, Anna Mizell '38, Janet Cook '38 Martha Griffin Brandon, Elizabeth Dorothy Nye Monnat, Estelle Rubin, Ruth Marvin, Doris Walker, Constance Joyce '39.

Stevens Attends Meeting Of Alumnae Council

The college and the Alumnae Association were represented at Williamsburg Va., February 2nd and 3rd, by Miss Charlotte Stevens. the alumnae secretary, who attended the meeting of the Southeastern District of the American Alumnae Council. The College of Arts and Sciences was host for the occasion and the meetings were held in the Williamsburg Lodge. Which was the Official headquarters for the convention.

Problems confronting alumnae associations and suggestions for these problems were discussed in the two-day session and a tour of colonial Williamsburg and a trip to Jamestown were included on the program.

We are very happy to have a club in Sanford and we are looking forward to its becoming one of our outstanding clubs.

Of The World

About Finland . . . .

Although Soviet losses during last week have been placed at 20,000 men by Finnish military observers, the outlook for the Finns looks black.

Finnish sympathizers are disheartened to learn that nothing thus far reported has greatly altered the convictions of professional military men that the little country's hopes of ultimate victory will soon be shattered. Their convictions are based on the assumption that Moscow will continue the Red drive against Finland.

Judging from developments, effective reinforcements are on the way to the Finns and will arrive in time, although as yet Finland has received very little in the way of actual fighting equipment.

The House of Commons has reported that Britain is sending war planes and France reports that 50 carloads of Italian planes, shipped by way of that country, are on their way, while in America a proposal to lend Finland $20,000,000 more for supplies is favored by a Senate committee.

In spite of all the aid in sight, military experts believe it insufficient to keep the Finns from being overwhelmed. If they are right, and very likely they are, Finnish execution day looms as near as next month. However, if the lucky little country can hold out beyond March, after the spring thaws, they can probably last until July, but they cannot possibly last longer than midsummer.

* * *

Governor's Race . . . .

State politics are rapidly warming up, with six candidates having paid their qualifying fees to enter the race for Democratic nomination for Governor of the State of Florida.

Those having paid their fees are: Francis P Whitehair of DeLand, Burton Schoepf of Tampa Walter Fraser of St. Augustine B P. Paty of West Palm Beach, Spessard L. Holland of Bartow and Fuller Warren of Jacksonville.

There will undoubtedly be a number of other candidates before the race begins. Judging from political gossip picked up at random, the most popular candidates thus far are Holland and Whitehair.

* * *

U. S. Exporting . . . .

Word has been unofficially received from sources of authority namely the British embassy in Washington, that the British are getting ready to clamp down further on American exports to European neutrals.

Already they are stopping our mails on the high seas to search for contraband and they plan to limit all our exports bound for neutrals near Germany to the average of what those neutral nations consumed before the beginning of the war.

It is true that our exports to neutrals have increased greatly since the beginning of the war particularly to Russia, and it is a fair assumption that the increased Russian demand for copper, tin, rubber and steel-making alloys represents German need of these products

It is supposed that the British intend to stop American ships at Gibraltar the only spot where they penetrate the British blockade. The British will also stop any other ships, including Russian, carrying products in excess to ordinary requirements.

Our State department has just about decided that the best way of dealing with British delays of American shipping is to adopt the same tactics they are using, and British ships entering New York harbor may now be held up for a week or more of United States inspection.

* * *

Senatorial Race . . . .

Not only does this year bring with it a race for Governor of Florida, but a seat in the United States Senate is at stake The year 1940 thus promises to be the most exciting, politically in some time.

The leading candidates announced to run against Senator Charles O. Andrews to date are Governor Fred P. Cone, Jerry W. Carter, State Committeewoman Hortense Wells and Charles Francis Coe.

Coe, a lawyer and writer from Palm Beach, is the only Democrat among the major candidates who has sought to make an issue of the New Deal. He has made opposition to many New Deal policies a major plank in his platform in an effort to succeed Senator Andrews. It is expected that Andrews will have a tough fight for his position.

At times, sound is so attracted by a rising column of air that two persons speaking on opposite sides of it will be unable to hear one another talk.

Il Marzocco Hears Talk on Musicians

Members of Il Marzocco, the Italian club, devoted their monthly meeting on Wednesday to the study of nineteenth and twentieth century Italian music. After a short discussion of new business the program chairman of the club, Dorothy Miller, spoke briefly on four representative Italian composers, illustrating her remarks with recordings from the better-known of their works.

Of the composers chosen by the speaker, the first three, Verdi, Leoncavallo, and Puccini are known primarily for their operatic works. In giving examples from their more popular operas, she used arias from La Traviato, Noglocci and Madame Butterfly.

The composers were discussed in their chronological order, concluding with the fourth of the group, Ottorino Respighi, who, according to many authorities, is the most representative, if not the most significant, of the modern Italian school of composition. The playing of Respighi's most familiar work, I Pini di Roma, an orchestral suite, was prefaced by short summary of the composer's life and musical education and also by the reading of Italian program notes.

Miss Marie Davis, faculty advisor of Il Marzocco, aided in the preparation of the program, and Dorothy Guthrie, president of the club, presided at the meeting.

Every Loyal Alumnae Of F. S. C. Is Asked to Help Furnish Building

Continued from Page Five

since the legislature's bill to furnish the building was vetoed, along with many others, by the governor last spring.

Deadline for the drive is March 31 and checks or money of any amount may be sent directly to Mrs. Moor.

Any friend of the college or persons interested in the education and training of young people will be welcomed as a contributor and may place contributions of coins or bills in folders which will be distributed shortly over the entire state. The smallest contribution will be accepted greatfully as the Alumnae association would rather see many people contribute moderately and thus make it representative rather than have a few people carry the whole project alone.

Organizations in Building

Various organizations which will occupy the Student-Alumnae building can help furnish their own quarters but they are asked to contact Mrs. Moor so their plans can be coordinated with the general scheme of the building. Because it is desired to have the entire furnishings follow a definite plan contributions in the drive must be entirely of cash.

It is hoped the Student-Alumnae building will be completed in time for the Alumnae College, April 12-14. Money raised from the drive will go toward furnishing the main floor and as many other parts of the building as possible.

Chairmen of committees named thus far to assist in the different communities with the campaign are announced by counties as follows: Alachue: Mrs J. F Lenkerd Mrs J. W McCollum, Mrs. Verell Hough Mrs Effie Doran Ames, Mrs Paul Hanna, Mrs Angus Laird of Gainesville: Baker, Marjorie S Maines of High Springs and Nine Hughes of Macclenny: Bay Mrs R. D VeVervka (Antoinette Mullikin), Mrs R J. Bennett and Elmo Bullock of Panama City: Bradford Margaret Townsend of Lake Butler: Brevard, Marian Clark of Titusville: Broward, Antoinette Sullivan of Ft Lauderdale and Elizabeth Anderson of Pompano: Calhoun, Mrs. George Duncan Finlay, and Beth Finlay of Blountstown: Charlotte, Mrs. Grayal Farr (Marian Frye), Emma Lee McCullough of Punta Gorda: Citrus, Mrs. Guyton Hall (Mildred Scott) of Ioverness: Clay, Beulah Felts of Green Cove Springs Collier, Doris E Browne of Everglades: Columbia, Mrs. Selwyn Chalker (Agnes Granberry), Mary Newton Green and Mrs. Talmadge (Marian White) of Lake City; Dade, Delopsey Creary, Nina McAdam, Mrs. Camille A Baker, Mrs William Bordeau (Celia St. John), Mrs Herschel Auxier (Lucy Pope) Edna Mattox of Miami and vicinity: DeSoto, Mrs Frank Morgan of Arcadia: Dixie Ruth Persons of Cross City; Duval, Eileen Robinson, Mrs. W. S. Manning (Evelyn Lewis), Mrs. Frank Bisbee (Ella Slemmons) Mrs Ross Parkhill (Martha Page) of Jacksonville Escambia, Jane Rice of Pensacola: Flegler Dorothy Atkinson of Bunnell Franklin, Lorraine Turner, Joyce Hinckley and Sara Hethcox of Carrabelle Gadsden, Mrs. Hal Crownover (Wilma Shepard) and Mrs. Kenneth McGowan, (Mery Lou Leman) of Quincy; Glades Virginia Saxon of Moore Haven Gilchrist, Lucy Lang of Trenton Hardee, Mrs Hilah Hines Cockran of Wauchula: Hernando Frances Lingle of Brooksville: Highlands, Louise Houck of Sebring; Hillsborough, Mrs. T. M. Shackleford, Mary Shackleford, Lucille Sumner, Mrs. Ray West (Evelyn Kennard) of Tampa and Mrs. Stephen D. Shore (Blanche Glenn) of Plant City; Holmes, Jewet Godwin of Bonifay; Indian River, Rosetta Whilden of Vero Beach; Jackson, Mrs. Hugh Middlebrooks (Rachel McKinnon), Roberta Carter of Mariana: Mrs. J. P. Ashmore (Gracie Flournoy) of Graceville; Jefferson, Scott Turnbull of Monticello; Lake, Mrs. Howard Gamble of Eustis, and Roberta Baker of Leesburg.

Chairmen Named

Lee Barbara Holmes of Fort Myers: Levy, Mrs. Emma Peacock Rutland of Williston; Liberty, Mrs J. H. Hodges (Alice Parlin) of Apalachicola; Madison, Mary Emily Parker of Madison, Manatee, Mary Ward Peterson of Bradenton; Marion, Veola Evans, Adelaide Duval, Mrs. T. H. Wallis (Clara Johnson), Mrs. Henry Sprinkle (Iva Townsend) of Ocala: Martin, Virginia Craig and Mrs. Mada McColskey Braun of Indiantown and Stuart; Monroe, Mrs. Isabel A. Ball, Eliza Gardner of Key West: Nassau, Mary Isabel Hardin of Fernandina; Okaloosa, Mrs. William P. Mapoles of Crestview and Eunice Hart of Baker; Okeechobee, Mrs. T W. Conely Martha Goddard), Pauline Kelly of Okeechobee; Orange, Mrs. J W. Simpson (Nobis McLendon), Mrs Lanier Hendry (Lorena Walker) of Orlando: Osceola, Katherine Autrey of Kissimmee; and Mrs. Cecil J. Beeson of St. Cloud; Palm Beach, Celia Grant of West Palm Beach and Gladys Folsom of Canal Point; Pasco, Sara Catherine Lewis of New Port Richey, Pinellas, Maude McCall and Doris Lee of Clearwater: Alice Whitman and Felicia West of St Petersburg; Polk, Helen Balleneer, Mrs. J. W. Passmore (Josephine Drane) f Lakeland, Dorothy Elizabeth Wilson and Mrs. Virginia Holland Gallemore of Bartow Putnam, Marie Ginn of Palatka.

List Continued

St Johns, Mrs. Joe A Cawthon (Eugenia Thrower), Mrs. Herbert Felkel (Myrtie Warren) of St. Augustine: St. Lucie, Mrs. Alto Adams (Carra Williams) of Ft. Pierce: Santa Rosa, Verlie Robinson of Milton: Sarasota Mrs Clarence Stokes (Elise Turnbull) and Victoria Crisp of Sarasota: Seminole, Mrs. Ralph Chapman (Ethel Moughton) and Mrs Maxwell Stewart (Betty Blue) and Ruth Hand of Sanford: Sumter, Martha Briese, Bushnell; Suwannee, Emily Blackwell, Mrs. Pearl Wilder Rhodes of Live Oak: Taylor Roberta Diamond, Nettie Taylor of Perry: Union, Vivian Fowler, of Lake Butler; Volusia Natalie Lamb of Daytona Beach, Anne Same of New Smyrna Beach; Walton, Mrs. Marie M Stinson of DeFuniak Springs; Washington, Mrs. M. S. Huggins (Fleta Farrior) of Chipley.

Atlanta Mrs. James E Hood, Mrs. Edgar C. Nilson (Dorothy Johnson) and Mrs. Will Yon (Lucille Cooper) of Atlanta; Washington, D. C., Mrs. F W Poos (Edna Ireland): New York City, Mrs. G C. Williamson (Florence Conibear) Mrs. W. C. Roberts (Lucile Reese), Memphis, Tennessee, Robert Gillis; Louisiana, Agnes Edwards, Lafayette, La., Massachusetts, Mrs. E C. Gilbert, (Elizabeth Corbett) Springfield, Massachusetts.

Physics Majors Are Authors Of New Booklet About X-Rays

Girls Used Borrowed Pickled Frog and Fish And Various Kinds of Paint for Specimens

"Dark Days and X-Rays" is the title of a booklet written by Allison Harrison and Martha Broyles, two physics majors who began a series of experiments last quarter and completed them near the end of the semester. Working in the physics laboratory under supervision of Dr. Richards, physics professor, the two girls X-rayed fish, frogs, and inorganic matter in order to study the operation of the powerful machine.

"Dr Richards wouldn't let us X-ray ourselves," laughed soft-spoken Allison Wednesday. "He was afraid we'd kill ourselves. So we borrowed the fish and the frog from the zoology department—not a fresh fish and frog—but pickled ones. We had to take them back when we finished with them, and I think they were a little dry."

Allison and small, serious-eyed Martha spent more than three weeks learning to manage the equipment before they could begin on the actual work.

"Sometimes we worked with as much as 100,000 volts," they boasted, "but usually with about 66,000. Before we used the machine, though, we had to draw diagrams, write out precautions, and listen to safety lectures from Dr. Richards. Confidentially," Allison added, "we're still scared to death of it." The voltage named is enough to hook up several electric chairs in series, and caution was the keynote in their experimenting. The instrument is grounded, however, and snap-back switches and other devices reduce the danger of accident to the minimum.

The black booklet in which Martha has bound their findings consists of 19 pages of figures, diagrams and pictures. Full directions for using the instrument, short sxeerpts from Kaye's X-Rays on safety and protection in operating it, a list of the known properties of X-rays, and a table of spark-gap voltages make up the preliminary reports on the experiment. Following these are four diagrams of the machine's workings and control board.

The actual experimenting begins with the study of the penetrability of the rays through certain materials. The results were obtained experimentally in the laboratory over a period of time, and some of the variations, according to the girls' report, are "due to the improvement of techniqus during this time." Tests were made on aluminum, lead, lead glass, plain glass, hard rubber, copper, and wood and the resulting figures compiled in tables. A finished photograph shows the penetrability of several layers of aluminum, copper, and lead for the benefit of the layman to whom the figures look attractive but mean little.

One of the most interesting phases of their experiment concerned the penetrability of paints. "We had heard that art experts sometimes used X-rays in checking on paintings which were claimed to be 'old masters'," Allison explained. "Certain pigments are known to have been used during certain periods and can be detected by their resistance to the X-rays. For instance, white lead paint shows up very dark in a photograph, but oil pigment doesn't show up at all."

In line with this idea, the girls made samples of paints—oil pigment, white lead, Acro Chromate Primer, Gulf Traffic paint, pure orange shellac aluminum paint, enameloid, enamel, and varnish—and put them under the rays for 4.5 seconds. All but the white lead, Acro Chromate, and Gulf traffic were invisible in the finished photo showing that they allowed the rays to pass through and expose the paper.

The photographs of the zoology fish and frog show clearly the skeletons and outlines of the skin. That of the fish is so delicate as to show the separations between the vertebrae.

"We want to do some work in just plain photography soon," the girls stated when asked their plans for future experiments, "but we don't know exactly when we'll get started. Anyway we won't have to borrow the zoology specimens because we can make Dr Richards pose for us this time."

Both girls are interested in medicine, and Martha has been offered a combination training course and job in a Buffalo hospital next term as X-ray technician.

Social Security Is Topic at Meeting

The Social Security act figured as topic of interest at the regular meeting of the sociology club Tuesday afternoon in the history building. The chief speaker of the afternoon, Frank K. Dunn, assistant informational assistant from Washington, D. C., explained the role that Social Security plays in the life of people today and stressed the importance of obtaining birth certificates in order to prove ages.

The speaker was introduced by Robert Watson, manager of the local Social Security field office for old age and survivors insurance.

Alumnae Personals

Continued from Page Five

Helen Evans, Janet Griffiths '36, Edith Manford '37.

Edith Hobson, 1935, and Marjorie Beach, 1937, have joined the dietary staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, Mass., on December 1, 1939.

Augusta Poer was given the degree of M. A. in History from Columbia University in December, 1939. She has already started work toward her M. A. in fine arts and will continue her study in the summer.

In a recent article in the Atlanta Journal, two sisters, Edna and Pearl Pearce were interviewed as ranch owners of South-Central Florida. They own and operate a ranch close to Sebring, Florida. Pearl is a graduate of the college.

Elizabeth Lightsey writes that she is still teaching the second grade at Foley, Florida and enjoying her work immensely.

In an article written in the Department of Journalism of the college, news of many journalism graduates was obtained Evelyn Fisher, '38, has been writing on the staff of the Civic Education Association in Washington, D. C Dora Byrons, class of 1932, has been writing for the New York Times and was recently sent to Mexico City to write a travel article for the Times Jane Quinn, 1939, now serves as copy and proof reader for the St Augustine Record. Alice Whitman, 1938, is now on the staff of the St Petersburg Times. Carolyn West Pogue, 1934, has served on the St. Petersburg Times as a special feature writer. Edna Hoffman 1932, after several years as a reporter and feature writer for the St. Petersburg Times, is now teaching history and journalism at the senior high school in St. Petersburg

Vivian Dallet, 1933 is a reporter on the Miami Daily News as well as being the Woman's page editor on the same paper. Marion Hobson, '34, was a reporter on the Sarasota Herald before becoming office manager of the Sarasota Chamber of Commerce. Frances Foreman Beck 1936, has done free lance writing for the Atlanta Journal. Margaret Lafferty, 1937, is on the society staff of the Florida Times Union in Jacksonville. Louise Robinson, after serving as a reporter on the Daily Democrat of Tallahassee, has entered Missouri University to get her Master's Degree Lucy Pulghum, 1935, is a feature writer, reporter and fashion writer for the Tampa Tribune Elaine Klepper, 1936, is a reporter and feature writer on the Orlando Sentinel Eleanor Herbertson Cumming, 1934, is a society reporter on the Ocala Star, Frances Napp Eastwood, 1933, is connected with the American Fruit Growers' Association in Sanford. Sara Marshall, 1934, is doing writing and editing work for the Floridan Press Dorothy Barclay is a member of the class of 1936, and is writing radio script and doing secretarial work in New York City. Elaine Wright Handy, 1933, is in Washington, D. C. as a reporter on the International Labor Service. Jane Rockwell, 1930, is connected with the Capper Publications in Topeka, Kan. Melvyn Wahnish, '35, was publicity director for the Florida Exhibit at the World's Fair in 1938 Edith Petterson '35, is connected with the educational department of J. B. Lippencott Publishers in Chicago.

Leila Badger, 1939 and Julia Beckman, 1939, are both in social work in Jacksonville, Florida.

Mary Gober, 1939, and Flavil Townsend 1938, are teaching at Macclenney, Florida

Katherine Lowe and Elva Melvin, both members of class of 1939, are teaching in Callahan, Florida

News of Miami alumnae: Celia St John Bordeaux 1924, is historian of the Everglades chapter of D.A.R.

Margaret Pace, 1931, is on the executive committee of the classroom Teachers' Association and is advisor for the Girl Reserves of R. E. Lee Junior High School.

Mary Dodd Trammell is the second vice-president of the Miami Junior League.

Lucy Pope Auxier, class of 1933, is the recording secretary for the A A U W and chairman of its ways and means committee

Helen Bisz, 1931, is secretary of the Business and Professional Girls of the Y W C A. in Nashville, Tennessee. Last summer she attended the World Conference of Christian Youth at Amsterdam, and was also responsible for bringing a Youth's Conference on World Affairs to Miami.

Phoebe Sudlow is now teaching at Kinlock Park and is the recent past-president of the Florida Y. W. Business and Professional Girls.

Camille Attanasio Baker 1927, is president of the Alumnae Association, secretary of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish, delegate to Modern Language Teachers' convention held in Birmingham, delegate to the Triennial conference of Adult Pan-American Leagues in New York City, and state director for Student Pan-American Leagues

Helen Daniel, class of 1938, is sponsor for the Redland Student Pan-American League

Mary DeGuenther is teaching physical education in Andrew Jackson high school. Mary is member of class of 1936

Dorothy Godman, 1935, Elizabeth Kelly, 1930, and Vera Lewis Murray, 1927, are teaching at Andrew Jackson high school

Nina McAdam, class of 1924 is doing a grand job as the dean of girls at Miami senior high school

Eunice Grady, class of 1930 is running away with first honors in home demonstration work

Marion Grady is doing well in her art work. Marion is a member of the class of 1937

Sadie Spencer Salley 1929 is a member of the Junior League

Mary Ruth Murray class of 1928, is the Southeastern Regional president of Sigma Kappa

Nancy Hoyt Caldwell class of 1926, is president of the Children's Welfare Group.

Home Ec Majors Are Mistresses Of Model Home For Five Weeks

Careful Planning Enables Girls to Do Extra Work of Buying, Cooking, and Housekeeping

Every senior in the school of home economics changes her residence for a period of six weeks during the year from the dormitories and sorority houses to the home management house. Here the girls learn to run a home successfully, under the direction of Miss Leila Venable, associate professor of home economics.

The five girls who live there together for the same period decide upon the division of their duties. There is usually a manager, who supervises the work, makes out menus, and does the buying: a cook: a maid who sets and serves the tables, washes the linens and the dishes: an assistant housekeeper, who has charge of the bathrooms and downstairs bedroom: and a housekeeper who cares for the remainder of the house The plan of the l t group was worked out in two set-ups, one in which there were servants in the home and another in which the different members of the household shared in the work

While each group is in the home management house, the girls entertain with an after dinner coffee for faculty members and friends During the period when a girl is hostess she may invite a guest to dinner

By proper management the girls are able to do the additional work that living in the home management house entails. When asked how she enjoyed living in the house one senior home economics major laughed and said, "It's lots of fun, and certainly one of the most practical courses one could ever hope to have!"

According to ex-residents of the home management house, something funny happens every day One would-be cook, upon making her first biscuits, inquired how one weighed five pounds of lard which she was about to mix in with the flour. She had made a mistake in reading the recipe, which called for five tablespoons of lard.

One night at dinner when a guest was present, the maid was determined to serve the bouillon hot, not merely warm as it had been previously. In her zeal she took the boiling bouillon from the pot and served it without allowing it to cool at all. As a result everyone had her mouth badly burned.

Shankweiler Plans To Attend Meeting

Plans are under consideration for Dr. Paul W. Shankweiler and several sociology students to attend the Florida Probation Association Institute and annual conference to be held at the University of Florida, February 19 and 20.

Nationally known speakers to address the conference include Richard A Chappell, supervisor of probation system, United States courts, Department of Justice, Washington, D. C.: Sanford Bates, executive secretary of the Boys' clubs of America; Charles L. Chute, of the National Probation Association, and Mrs Irene Atkinson of the Children's Bureau, Washington, D. C

In addition to these speakers some of the Florida people who have contributed a great deal to the care and treatment of juvenile delinquency and probation will be on the program.

The institute is not only open to those directly interested in crime prevention and probation but to social workers, family welfare agencies and anyone caring to attend.

Students Express Democracy Ideas

BERKELEY, Calif —(ACP)— Strikingly different points of view regarding the fitness of the great American public to participate in the operation of a workable democracy were brought out in a unique test here in which a large group of the nation's leading psychologists compared views on certain current problems with 350 sophomore students of the University of California

Sixty-two per cent of the students believed that 30 per cent or more of the population is incapable of participate in a thoroughly workable democratic form of government. Sixteen per cent of the students made the figure 50 instead of 30 per cent. Eleven per cent held that three out of every four persons are incapable insofar as helpful and intelligent participation in a democracy are concerned.

The professional psychologists, drawn from most of the universities of the country, were considerably easier on the public. Eighty per cent of them held that only 10 per cent of the population was incapable of democratic action.

Sixty per cent of the students believed that full realization of social security, in other words more jobs, less unemployment, health insurance, pensions and adequate wages, would decrease the ambition and energy of the employed and their kin. Only 15 per cent of the trained psychologists so held. Eighty-seven per cent of the students held that individual competition was socially necessary or biologically inherited in successful industrial life; while only 44 per cent of the trained psychologists held that this was true. However, the students appear to have somewhat reversed themselves on competition generally. Ninety-one per cent of them considered it necessary to a successful society as against 64 per cent of the trained psychologists.

Twenty-four per cent of the students held that the superior people in our culture are justified in dominating national affairs by force. Seventy per cent of the psychologists voted otherwise.

Differences Between Sophomores And Seniors Analyzed

Upperclassmen Are Poised, Dignified, While Second Year Students Are Less Sensitive And Are More Able Apple Polishers

By PAULINE DALE

In this day of beauty culture and age-defying glamour girls, it is indeed hard and often embarrassing to try to distinguish a sophomore from a senior.

Faces, themselves, do not reveal the secret, nor does the ordinary speech habits of either class of student usually bespeak greater or lesser experience in college. For in many, many cases seniors hold as trivial conversations as the average sophomore, and sophomores take as serious a view toward life as does the average senior.

Actions bells words, however, and it is through close observations of these that traits peculiar to one group may be differentiated from those of the other. But to do this, the characteristic mannerisms of a group of sophomores or seniors as a whole, has to be studied.

Individuals may vary, but groups (that is, those groups whose attitudes have been conditioned by the routine of college life) are usually constant in their reactions to various problems, and in their participation in various activities. And although individuals will often represent convenient cross-section proofs of certain characteristics, groups more often reflect true reactions.

But what are some distinguishing qualities of both groups—which are easily recognized as characteristics?

In the first place, seniors are much more poised than sophomores; they are more confident because they have learned from experience what is expected of them in college. This, to a great extent, accounts for their automatic or methodical movements and actions on many occasions—for the calmness and ease with which they carry out their duties and responsibilities.

Sophomores Try Hard

Sophomores, on the other hand, are visibly conscious of their actions. They try so hard to be exact in following rules and customs. However, in reality, they are much more theoretical than practical in their reasoning They like to experiment with new ideas but they attempt to carry them out in the most difficult way possible—thus making them blundering, inaccurate and very often undependable. These latter weaknesses are usually characteristics which have been carried over from the freshman year when orientation to college life came slowly and painfully. Throughout her sophomore year a student will revert again and again to these blundering tactics simply because she has not yet learned how to take life easily and comfortably

A sophomore thinks she knows everything; a senior knows that she knows practically everything and yet realizes that there are better habits and more information that she can still acquire. These attitudes are also reflected in the actions of both students. In the classroom a sophomore will draw information from her own acquired prejudices, while a senior, already having experienced many setbacks and reversals of opinion on various subjects, is more loathe to rely upon something so unstable More often she will base her arguments upon facts, and will take the opinions of others more seriously.

Sophs Best "Apple-Polishers"

The best "apple-polishers" are sophomores. They seem to think "Gosh, I've got to work this year I have a reputation to make here. I've got to make lots of friends and impress my teachers." Therefore they run around with their apparent knowledge sticking out all over them and usually force attention Seniors do not bother They demand attention, yes, but they also expect it Their thoughts might be more likely to follow this line: "Well, I've been through a lot up here. By this time I should certainly know my way around and be right about many points which trouble the underclassmen. Naturally I deserve a lot of respect."

Seniors are nonchalant; they are cool and collected; but they are also preoccupied. Sophomores will scurry around and take part in the most outlandish activities, while a senior will completely ignore them and will stolidly plod through her routine responsibilities. Evidences of their preoccupation are especially apparent in their private lives. For instance, a senior takes little time out for writing letters; she forgets her former family world because she has been independent for so long and has found it necessary to work out her own problems. Sophomores still compare their sheltered, sympathetic homes with the indifference of their college world and hate to lose contact with the former.

Then again, on the campus, seniors are more reserved with their greetings. They seem to be less sensitive to their surroundings than do sophomores. By this, I do not mean that seniors are less conscious of their friends or of what happens around them, because the very opposite is true. Rather, I mean that they notice without having to stop and analyze everything as sophomores do. They have become used to ordinary campus life and therefore, to a certain extent, ignore altogether or notice in an absent-minded manner its unvarying aspects.

Seniors Study Harder

Seniors study harder than sophomores do. As pointed out before sophomores are rather flighty in their actions and thus fail to be very persistent in any one activity Most of them have not yet learned to apply perseverence and concentration in their study habits

Sophomores have less pride. They are not as sensitive about the opinions of others regarding their character as seniors are. Strange to say, being called freshmen does not offend them, while seniors will consider it a most abusive insult to their dignity and will not even feel that they have been complimented upon their youthful appearance Seniors take deep pride in being able to maintain high standards of conduct, honor, and responsibility, and they like to have these qualities recognized.

However, sophomores do worry more about their personal affairs—especially those which concern, money, clothes, food and dates. Very often, extreme pessimism is evidenced in those apparently "poor neglected souls." Seniors, naturally, have more weighty problems at hand, such trifling (to them) details are not deemed worthy of their anxiety. When it comes to money problems, though, seniors have an unusual advantage over the sophomores They have learned through repeated experiences that wealth comes only to the wealthy in college—and then it is not always forthcoming Most of them have acquired the saving (sometimes called hoarding) habit—thus adding another characteristic to those already attributed to the seniors: thrift.

Seniors Are Thrifty

This thrift is readily apparent in the wardrobe of a senior. While sophomores recklessly discard their freshman wardrobes with the new year, seniors hoard even their most bedraggled summer clothes Simplicity and inexpensiveness in their wardrobes contribute much towards distinguishing a senior just as fads and extravagance characterize freshmen and sophomores. While seniors plan for comfort (not only in clothes, but in their everyday living as well), sophomores are more inclined to be influenced by the unusual.

Perhaps the most outstanding quality which distinguishes a senior from a sophomore is her attitude toward her fellow classmates—especially to the underclassmen. Seniors seem to be more kindly than sophomores; they seem to be more considerate One reason for this may lie in the fact that sophomores do not take the time to be as tactful as they might be simply because they have set their goals for the senior rung and are not inclined to help others up the ladders with them. Seniors, on the other hand, have reached their goals and can afford to lend assistance to others.

Serenity, poise and graciousness are the outstanding qualities which mark a senior; energy, brusqueness and adroitness mark the sophomore Both have their virtues: so what does the difference matter?

Personnel Office Has Obtained Jobs For 464 Graduates Of '39

Majority of Requests Come for Teachers; Business Administration Next in Line

By JAYNE MENDENHALL

Four hundred sixty-four graduates of Florida State college have been placed in teaching and other positions since November 1 of last year figures from the personnel office reveal in the latest report for 1939 Not counting 27 registrants placed since last year's report, the total number of students who found positions through the placement bureau represents a two per cent increase over last year's total, although percentages have fallen substantially in the last few years of depression. Steepest drop was experienced in the years from 1937 to 1938 when the total percentage fell sharply from 90 per cent placed in all fields as a whole to 75 per cent as a whole. Figures for 1934 show 91 per cent; 1935 figures, 90 per cent; 1936 figures 93 per cent; and 1937 figures, 90 per cent. This year's slight rise mey indicate the beginning of a return to normal providing the financial situations of Florida schools come in for their share of national recovery.

Statistics quoted in the 1939 report and those previous include those who were enrolled in the active files of the bureau; a record of every graduate is required but only those who wish to take advantage of the placement service are listed under the active heading Nemes are filed along with pertinent data in an alphabetical index according to majors and certification. As requests come in from superintendents, principals, and employers in other fields, the office recommends two or three girls, choosing them with an eye to the location of the vacance in reaard to their homes as well as their eligibility to fill the position. If the college's recommendation is accepted after the selected candidate s record and personal information have been checked, she takes over from there and goes into her duties in earnest

Three hundred nineteen requests for teachers went on file for this year along with 44 requests from various other fields. Figures for 1938 showed a demand for 314 teachers and 64 prospects otherwise but 33 requests were received during the monthe from November to March since the report was released last year

The oumber of registered graduates is divided for convenience's sake on the record this year into four groups — masters, four-year graduates two-year graduates, former graduates and registrants placed since last year. Of the 10 masters resistered, all were placed in teaching poistions except one who was listed as "not interested." This 100 per cent forming a 14 per cent increase over last year. In 1938 six out of the seven masters qualified for teaching jobs found places while one of the three registered for other fields was called for, making a total of 90 per cent in all.

In the four-year graduate group, 218 of the 244 interested in becoming teachers or 89 per cent were placed to brina about a rise of five per cent above last year's figure. A lapse of two per cent marked the percentage in fields other than teaching: however the number registered in the bureau's files in 1938 was 85 while the number in 1939 dipped to 85 registered Twenty-five of the 1939 graduates have gone on to further study in their respective fields while 28 are put down as "not interested" or "no profession."

Of the two-year candidates, only 21 out of 53 yere placed in teaching positions, a definite fall in percentage from 74 per cent in 1938 to 39.6 per cent in 1939. This particular decline in percentage has been noticeable since 1937 when the total reached 84 per cent. Registration for two-year candidates is optional, however, and all of the 32 listed as unplaced returned to school this year.

Ratio Remains Equal

Former graduates, taking both teaching and other fields simultaneously, remain at about the same ratio as last year with a per cent standing of 65 for the latter and 63 for -939 Twenty-seven registrants of the 1938 class have been placed since the last report of November 1, 1938, as noted above.

In the teaching field, more graduates were taken up by the elementary educatioo branch than by any other of the 18 branches noted. Eighty-one of the 90 applicants secured positions. Home economics followed with 28 out of 29, Enalish with 26 out of 30, and commerce with all of its 22 candidates placed. Comparisons with figures for last year show much the same standing except that more were placed in the social studies branch than in English or commerce In order of their numbers in the 18 branehes of teaching as set down by the report, the list of candidates placed reads as follows: elementary education, 81 out of 90; home economics, 28 out of 29; English, 26 out of 30; commerce, all 22 placed; public school music, all 12 placed; social studies, all 12 placed; sciences, 10 out of 12; mathematics, all nine placed; physical education, all nine placed; library science all six placed; speech, all five placed; history, all five placed; French, three out of seven; art, two out of three. Spanish, one in all placed; psychology, one in all; Latin one in all; and journalism, all five unplaced. The six listed under library science were counted under their majors. The candidates numbered in the foregoing statistics have not necessarily been placed in their major fields: that is, an English major may be teaching elementary grades or some other branch. Also, the figures include only four-year graduates and masters registered to teach.

Other Fields Named

In fields other than teaching, aeneral business administration claimed 20 out of the 30 candidates registered, the majority of them commerce majors Ten were unplaced only because they had limited their applications to a certain locality. Thirteen out of 14 found employment in the bome economics division and the remainder were distributed in the following ratios: five out of eight in social service; three out of five in journalism; two out of three in miscellaneous jobs: one out of two in technicians' places; end none of the three registered for art. Last year, too, business took in 25 out of the 36 but social service outstripped the home economics group by placing 14 out of 18 to the latter's ten out of 15. Investigative positions in the various government relief projects, many of which have been discontinued this year, may account for this change in rank Three masters were included among the number placed in outside fields.

The placement bureau originated in the personnel office as the bureau of recommendation under the auspices of a committee at whose head was Arthur Williams who had been professor emeritus of Bible and religious education on the campus since 1905 Its early purpose was to secure only teaching positions for graduates of the college but during recent years it has been extended to cover the registration of graduates seeking positions in commerce, journalism social service, art, music, and various miscellaneous fields. It is at present under the direction of Dr Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, head of the personnel department.

Indians And College Women Head Topics Of Masters' Theses

Preference of Dress Colors in Ninth Grade And Student Metabolism Among Subjects

Among the old files of master's theses in the Florida State College for Women library can be found subjects and dissertations on almost every imaginable topic These theses were written by graduates of this college when they made application for their master's degrees. The theses they wrote have been filed and preserved in our library and some of them are daled as early as 1915.

One of the earliest of these articles is one written in 1915 and it concerns aall and gall insects in Tallahassee. More recently, studies have been made on types of dress colors liked and disliked by ninth grade girls. The variety of subjects is almost unlimited and our greduetes seem to have touched upon almost all fields

The Seminole Indian problem was the subject for several theses A case study was medc of a Mongolian child in 193: Many have been written on the negro—his social status, his race problem, and others. In 1929 the eminent problem of railroad projects in Florida was discussed Every country it seems, is represented amona these files.

Many of the theses bave used the college and college girls as a basis for their dissertation. Especially noted, was e day to day study made of money spent for goods and services purchased by or for college girls. Group studies of college women are prevalent. A study of the aspects of college performance of a group of students and e study of the basal metabolism and diet of normal young college wamen are recent studies Other experimentation and research papers indicate thet college students may have helped in obtaining proof of factual evidence for e thesis.

Colthing, dietetics, psychological prohlems, teaching problems chemical physical and contemporary problems—examples of all these may be found among the master's theses.

Labor Relations Course Offered

PASADENA, Calif., (ACP)—As a result of the growing appreciation of the vital importance of employer-employee relationships, California Institute of Technology this fall inaugurated a new industrial relations section in its department of economics.

Instruction both on the undergraduate and graduate levels will be offered, affording an opportunity for the study of such subjects as labor relations, the backgrounds of employer and employee associations and unions, the practice of collective bargaining, and the functioning of the various state and federal bureaus within the labor field.

The teaching will be kept closely attuned to reality by using representatives from industrial concerns, labor unions and government agencies as special lecturers.

7 Classes Plan Alumnae College Week Reunion

Continued from Page Five

we should make some helpful use of it. Please bring your ideas on the matter when you come in April, or write us at once—(Loyois McLaughlin, 801 S Willow, Tampa, Fla., or Edna Mattox, 718 N. E. 82nd Terrace, Miami, Fla).

In conclusion—for your own well-being and for the good of our alma mater, let's all get together at the reunion in Tallahassee, April 12-14, 1940. Mark those detes on your calendar

I am anticipating with keer delight the pleasure of renewing the ecquaintance of each one of you.

Let's be loyal to ourselves and to F.S.C.W. Let's keep in Touch with Tally. I will be seeking you and you and you, fellow classmates of 1930, so please do not disappoint me.

Sincerely yours,
Edna Mattox,
President.

P. S. These people will surely be there, so let's all try to go too. Helen Goodyear Melin; Virginia Anderson, Sara Halt White Pope; Virgie Hyman; Betty Wood McNabb, Cora Embry Coulter, Grace Gardner Cox, Gertrude Price, Myra Doyle Laird, Helen McMurray, Vera Dull Johnston, Martha Monroe, Thelma Jones, Mary Hume.

Class of 1935

This is the fifth reunion of the class of 1935. I am urging all members of the class of 1935 to join me at Florida State College for Women, April 12 and 13 and help me make this the best reunion ever. So few of you were ehle to come back to our two-year reunion, and we hope that now things have settled down a bit for yon and you can spare some time for your Alma Mater and for your old classmates. Everything will be free—room and board in the college dining hall, the new Student-Alumnae buildina will be opened we have plenty of good speakers on our program and we know that your time here will be well spent. Please try to come and help us to interest all our classmates in coming by talking about it and plenning for it. We will miss you if you aren't here! Write me, Mrs. Howard Cone, Jr., 2513 Red Road, Coral Gables, Florida and say you will join us for our fifth reunion. We mustn't lose touch with each other nor with our Alma Mater!

Cordially,
Jennie Rae Nall Cone,
President.

Class of 1938

Do you sometimes wonder how Betty wears her hair now? Or whether that S.A.E. pin of Jane's meant anything serious? Or whether Marjorie still remembers everybody's name? Or think how nice it would be to hear Kathleen's "Tapestry of Love" again?

If you do (and I'll bet you do), then the only thing for you to do is to begin plannina now to come back to F.S.C.W. for the weekend of April 12, 13, 14 That's the date for the first reunion of the Class of '38, which is to be held as a part of the Alumnae College activities.

Besides the pleasure of seeing classmates and faculty members again, we are going to help ineugurate the new Student-Alumnae building as it is used for the first time Another item of interest will be a decision as to whether Alumnae Reunions should be held on Thanksgiving instead of in the sprina.

Begin now to plan! And be sure to answer the card which you will receive in a week or two asking whether or not you can come.

Sincerely yours
Sarah Sealey,
Acting President.

'No, We're Not Superstitious; We Just Don't Like Black Cats'

FSC Girls Revealed as Witch-Believers; Butter, Pie, Blue, Salt Are Fateful Omens

"Me superstitious? Why don't be silly! I just cross my fingers when I see a black cat for the exercise."

And so it seems to be with most Florida State college students, for although they don't come right out and say that they are witch-believers from 'way back—still, it's very amusing the number of unusual beliefs and practices to be found on this campus.

For instance, there comes a time in each happy school year when the matter of semester examinations is uppermost in many minds; and should a census be taken on clothes worn to class at this time, the odds would be very much in favor of blue holding the majority. Not baby blue, or navy blue, or royal blue—but just any color of downright blue. For, indeed, many are they who believe the saying that if they wear blue to an exam they will pass. And there are even those who go so far as to write with a lucky blue pencil.

At the dining table there are always certain people who never fail to observe their own little pet charms and fortune-telling devices. They never separate the salt and pepper when passing it. They always "ground" the salt and pepper before the next person can have it, that is, they always put it on the table in front of her instead of in her hand. Supposedly such practices bring good luck; or rather, breaking them brings bad luck. When the butter is passed, persons who desire to know what "mail" they are to receive pick up their butter on the end of the knife and flip it onto their plate. If it lands and remains on one of the thin sides, a letter is forthcoming; while if it perches on one corner a special delivery epistle may be expected; and if it lands flat, they needn't even bother to look in the post office box.

Before pie is served, many girls "quarter" and "name" the space before them: Date, Letter, Proposal, Marriage. When the piece of pie is set down, the "point" of the pie indicates what they may expect from the Certain One. And if they desire to know whom they are going to marry, they have a friend mentally "name" each of the three corners of the pie. The names are not told until after all but one corner of the pie has been eaten. That is the lucky man; and if the hoped-for man has been eaten—well, that's fate.

Many foot-weary town-goers are quite annoyed when their superstitious companions flatly refuse to walk through the main college gates. It is an age-old belief here that anyone who does so will flunk, and aspiring scholars religiously avoid trespassing on such unlucky ground. Then, in the same category, are those who never walk "catty-cornered" across a street intersection. All three curbs, say they, must be stepped upon or you will have the worst kind of luck. And no matter what the hurry, many Susies and Marys zealously touch all three curbs.

Quote some students: if, when you first wake up on the first day of a month, you say "Bunny Rabbit" before you say anything else —then you will have good luck all that month.

Some sorority girls hold that if a pledge ever "tries on" the real sorority pin before the minute of her initiation, she will probably never be initiated. And immediately after initiation many girls consider it good luck to wear the pin to bed.

To put on a shirt wrong side out quite by accident is considered a good sign by many students—and once the shirt is so put on, they say it must be worn that way. To take it off is to invite bed luck for themselves. Such superstitious ones also insist that if they are given a sharp instrument as a present from a friend, they must pay a penny for it—else their friendship shall be severed.

An old Odd-Even superstition centers around the "drawing" for nights for the two plays. According to the belief, the team which draws Wednesday night to present its play will win the athletic games which are played the next day — Thursday. And of course it is a superstition, or almost a custom, that it rains here some time during every Thanksgiving day to make everything successful.

But so be it for these local superstitions. Of course there are also many students who are still disturbed by black cats, Friday the thirteenth, and dogs howling at midnight. Somehow they shudder at breaking mirrors, walking under ladders, or sleeping in Room 13 on the thirteenth floor. They pick up all pins they see on the ground which are pointing towards them. They throw salt over their left shoulder if they spill it. They say "God bless you" or "gesund heit" when you sneeze. They hang horseshoes over the door, pull chicken's wishbones, and make wishes on stacks of hay

Not that they take these omens seriously

"Superstitious — oh no! But would you mind lighting another match for me? That makes three on this one."

Research Shows Flambeau Was Once Small, Prim Newspaper

Although Weekly Reflected Jazz Age Spirit Emphasis Lay on Religion and Editorials

By BELLE YONGE

The Flambeau, student newspaper at Florida State College for women, has progressed greatly in every way since 1924.

At that time it was a small, very conservative paper, reminding one of the average high school newspaper of today. Of interest regarding its size was an editorial stating that the new staff had wished to have a larger paper but bad found that it was impossible to effect this at the time. The author added that they were not too disappointed because it was better to have quality than quantity. This paper recorded the campus events of interest without giving any mention to the important national and world affairs taking place. The stories were as a rule short and very seldom concerned student opinion on important issues in regard to rules and regulations.

Great emphasis was laid on religion, a whole page being devoted to Y. W. C. A. news in addition to the regular church news. Editorials usually concerned student behavior in the classroom, in chapel, and at social functions. Also popular editorial subjects were dining room manners and grammar or slang used by the students.

Jazz Age Reflected

However, one must not suppose this newspaper was strictly serious. It reflected the spirit of the "jazz age" in nearly a whole page of jokes and a column called "Buzz", which corresponded somewhat to our "Collegiate Comebacks." The October 3, 1926, issue was called an "Applesauce number." In it everything sounds wonderful but is just backwards Teachers are worrying because their pupils study too hard, the artist series are to include jugglers and acrobats and during the performances students are asked to enter in groups of a few at a time and talk in loud voices, and the doctor at the infirmary is begging students who are indisposed to come there and rest rather than to cut classes.

There existed at this time and continued through the following few years, an overemphasis on society events. Stories of sorority rushing and parties occupied places of prominence on the first paae. A tendency to present a bumorous cross-section of college life by means of a series of fictitious letters under the caption, "Snatched From the Mail Pouch" was also present.

Scope Broadened

As the paper grew in size its scope broadened. Feature stories appeared and began to occupy an important place in the Flambeau News stories lengthened and came to include student opinion and desires to a far greater extent than the stereotyped, obviously censored stories that preceded them "Pro and Con," a column in which students were invited to express their opinions on any issue, was started. In 1929 small cartoons began to appear for the first time and by 1934 a clever cartoon concerning college life was a regular feature of the newspaper. "Through the Keyhole," a column on outside afairs, appeared about the same time as did the first cartoons. This was followed by summaries of a few important magazine articles from good periodicals.

For a short period during the worst of the depression there were no jokes nor quips included in the newspaper. Soon after this time "This and That" and finally "Collegiate Comebacks" was added

At the same time all these changes were taking place, society was relegated to the back page The main column usually included a list of people who had visited the college the past week-end.

Although they are treated differently, several types of articles run consistently through the pages of both the past and present Flambeaus. These are articles on the increase of enrollment over the past years, articles concernina sororities and pledging, and stories of the artist series.

College Education Increases Chances

AUSTIN, Texas, (ACP)—Forty-four to one odds were posted here today on the engineering college-trained man against the non-college man in the Better Job Sweepstakes.

W. R. Woolrich, University of Texas engineering dean, said the college-trained man is 18 times as likely to be president of an industrial company as the non-college man, and has 12 to 18 times better chance at other offices.

The engineering college product possesses almost as great an advantage over non-technical graduates, Dean Woolrich declared, citing statistics from industrial employment surveys.

Industrial presidencies go 12 times to one to the technically trained graduate, 174 times to 1 for engineering positions. For all industrial offices lumped together, Dean Woolrich gave the engineering college graduate a 30-1 chance over the academic graduate.

College Rolls Show Annual Enlargement

CINCINNATI, Ohio—(ACP) — Despite depressed business conditions in the current decade, American college and university attendance in this period has shown a gain of 22 per cent, Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati, reports in a paper on "Recent Trends in Student Enrollment."

Factors contributing to the maintenance of college and university attendance from 1930 through 1938, according to Dr Walters, included "the sheer circumstance of a lack of jobs;" financial help in the form of more than $38,000,000 in a typical year given by the institutions themselves to 330,000 students as scholarships, grants-in-aid, loans, and similar assistance; and in the form of $18,000,000 the same year from the National Youth Administration to 180,000 students; and the students' own desires to attain objectives "which transcend statistical appraisal. The intellectual and cultural enrichment of their lives and finer service to America."

President Walters warned, however, that student bodies in institutions of higher learning may not continue to increase or even maintain their present numerical level.

Other points stressed by President Walters as being of special significance included the following:

College and university attendance showed a general decrease first in 1932, reached its all-time low in 1933, and began to climb again in 1934, when the United States government made available student aid funds through the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, which later were supplied by the National Youth Administration. The gain has been constant since 1934.

Publicly controlled universities since 1930 have become the overwhelming leaders as to numbers, with a group increase of 30 per cent. More than one-third of the full-time students in 569 approved colleges and universities in 1938 were in 55 public universities.

The independent colleges have not fared badly since 1930. Their freshman increases—gauging more accurately the immediate responses to economic conditions than upperclass enrollments — since 1934 have been larger than those of other groups of institutions. Such colleges account for 26 per cent of the total college-university enrollment.

Privately controlled universities rank next numerically, with 23 per cent of the 1938 attendance The independent schools of engineering and technology have grown 40 per cent since 1930 in the size of their student bodies.

The greatest recent advance in collegiate enrollment is reported in the section comprising Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas, with other newer and less heavily populated sections also showing larger percentage increases than the older, more populous East

Although their proportion is decreasing, the numerical leadership is still held by liberal arts courses.

Under the Illinois traffic code state police are authorized to warn slow drives against delaying traffic.

One Who's Been There Describe Thrills Of G-ville Weekend

Endurance Appears as Trip's Prime Requisite; Reporter Cites Sunday as "Most Depressing"

A week-end in Gainesville is an event that is looked forward to by many of Florida's college airls. Every year the faculty and the student body of the university set aside a number of week-ends for special occasions like Fall Frolics, Homecoming, Military ball and General college week-end. To these functions are invited girls from all over the state, however, the majority of girls that are asked are students at Florida State College for Women.

To be asked to Gainesville for the first time is truly a cause of excitement for any girl. The first question that rises in your mind is "Will your parents let you go?" After you push this question aside numerous other doubts enter into your mind. Will the teachers be angry if you cut their classes? Have you enough money? Where will you stay? What will you wear? All these questions and man others whirl around in your bewildered head until the day you leave.

When the bus finally does pull out of Tallahassee you try to collect your scattered wits and you start to plan on how many boys you are going to slay with your glamour and charm. You remember the bits of advice your sorority sisters and the upperclassmen have given you about smoking, drinking, and late-dating By the time you have predestined in your mind all the happenings of the week-end and you have talked for awhile to the girl sitting next to you about your boy friend—you arrive in Gainesville.

All of the girls begin putting on the finishing touches, to their already too-painted faces. You start worrying about whether your date will meet you or not, and you know that the bus is rocking for you get that queer feeling in your stomach. When the bus pulls up to the station it is immediately surrounded by many youna, enthusiastic men, all of whom seem to be talking and yelling for the noise is so great

You climb down out of the bus not at all as poised and sophisticated as you had planned, but shaky and frightened by too much excitement and the unusual sight of so many men. When you find your date or when he finds you, your old feeling of naturalness returns and you start enjoying yourself.

You are taken to the fraternity house for supper where you are introduced to many other boys. Then after you have eaten (if you are able to eat under these circumstances), your date borrows someone's car and he takes you to your rooming house. There he leaves you for about an bour to get ready for the dance.

While you are dressing your corsage will probably be delivered and the landlady will bring it up to you and help you to pin it on. When your date returns for you, you go to the concert in the auditorium which is given by the popular orchestra that has been hired for the week-end. This is very enjoyable and it's fun to look around and watch the expressions on the faces of the boys and girls sitting near you and notice the ways they have of keeping time to the music and "beating it out."

Following the concert is the formal dance which is limited to only a certain number of boys. You see the girls in evening dress and the boys in tuxedos all streaming out of the auditorium and making their way over to the gymnasium. When you reach the gymnasium you find thet the orchestra has arrived before you and students have already started "swinging out." You see a mass of people dancing in every style from the waltz to the shag; whatever they're doing they do it with enthusiasm. The dance lasts for about four hours and after it's over you think that you're going back to your room but you don't; instead you are taken to the fraternity house for a breakfast which lasts an hour or so. Following this, you have to dance for a while to prove that "you can take it," and then, finally, you are allowed to go to your room and go to bed.

At 11 o'clock on Saturday morning you are awakened by the persistent ringing of the telephone. It's at this time that you begin to wonder why you ever came and why they won't let you sleep and you mutter a few unprintable words Your date informs you, (in his blithe, sunshiny manner), that he will be around to aet you in 15 minutes, and to be ready on time you have to rush like a mad woman. Your date arrives and takes you first to a lunch et the fraternity house and after this everyone goes to the tea dance in the gymnasium. You spend the entire afternoon in dancing, (of course your feet are swollen and you have circles under your eyes, nevertheless, you keep on smiling bravely).

The tea dance ends about 8:30 and you go back to the fraternity house to dance until time for supper. At supper on Saturday night you are usually able to eat enouah to make up for the other meals you weren't able to eat, for by this time the sight of men is very common

At 8 o'clock everyone goes to the football game at the stadium. The noise from the cheering section and the band playing makes you get the old football spirit and so throughout the game you yell and sing as loudly as you can Whether the Florida team wins or loses there is always much celebrating after the game

About 11 o'clock you are taken back to the gymnasium for the last dance of the week-end It is very informal and is therefore more fund than any of the dances After this Saturday night dance some girls never go to bed, but stay et the fraternity house and dance to the music of the radio all night and into the morning.

Sunday in Gainesville is very depressing You know that the week-end is over and you must ao back to school and study twica as hard to make up for the work you missed. Weary and tired you climb into the bus at 11 o'clock with the hope of returning soon and with tender farewells you leave for Tallahassee.

During 1938, American tourists in Canada spent approximately $255,000,000; Canadian tourists in the United States left $103,000,000.

Spic And Sweet Shop Furnish Girls Rest And Refreshments

Owners Report First of School, Exam Time, And Homecoming Weed-end as Busiest Periods

To every Florida State college student the Spick and Span and the Sweet Shop are familiar names. They serve as places for girls to retreat to in high dudgeon if alarm clocks failed to go off. They serve as places of refuge if cramming for a test has to be engaged in during the lunch or dinner hour. Then, of course, the two campus institutions are always visited just before light-flash. Another "coke" must be consumed, and important letters that must go off on the 10:30 mail have to be dropped in the post box

According to both Mr. Holder, owner of the Spick and Span, and Mr. and Mrs. Frain, owners of the Sweet Shop, the period before light-flash is the greatest of all regular day rush hours. The busiest weeks throughout the year are the first week of school (rush week). Thanksgiving or homecoming weekend, and the semester examination weeks at the end of first semester and the closing week of school.

Mr and Mrs. Frain bought out the Sweet Shop on West Jefferson street seven years ago. Although it had formerly been called the Wisteria tea room, it was later remodeled into a store and called the Sweet Shop Even after the remodeling the store was still very small with five tables and four little stools in a 16 by 40 foot space. When in 1932 Mr. and Mrs. Frain bought out the business, the building was enlarged to 42 by 40 feet.

In 1933 Mr. Holder, owner of Spick and Span on Copeland street bought out the business which had already been established here on the campus for about a year under the same name.

The only other tea room catering specifically to college girls thet has ever been established on the campus was Hitchcock's (later changed to the Rainbow), a tea room located in the present site of the College park grocery on West Jefferson street. In 1934, however, this tea room went out of business.

The restriction as to tha number or limit of businesses on the campus is due to the city zone ordinance which prohibits their establishment. Tha Spick and Span and the Sweet Shop were erected before the ordinance was put into effect

Both the Spick and Span and the Sweet Shop pattern their working hours in accord with tha hours of the winter and summer school. Botb open at 7 o'clock in the morning and close at light-flash at night They close during Christmas holidays and during the weeks that the school is not in session.

Upperclassmen Will Dance At Annual Prom Tomorrow

With the old dining hall converted into the scene of a Spanish festival, the annual junior-senior prom will be given here tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock with music furnished by Bobby Peters and his orchestra.

In keeping with the tradition for such festivals, sponsors will be presented to their "matadors" and "picadors," who will be underclassmen. The sponsors will be three members of the senior class and three of the junior class, recently elected by the vote of the classes on the basis of popularity. The identity of the members of this honor court will be kept a secret until the dance.

To create a true Spanish atmosphere, an arena will be built at one end of the dining hall, while colorful flags resembling those used at Madrid festivals will be hung along the walls.

General chairmen of the prom are Elizabeth Anne Webb, president of the senior class, and Anne Jones, junior class president. Other committee chairmen are Pat Brandt, decorations; Jean Nicholson, refreshments; Phoebe James, program; Minnie Ratliff, entertainment; Jane Price, tickets and invitations; Carolyn Mims, Kathleen McCarthy, and Ola Belle Tillman, floor committee.

Invited to chaperone at this occasion are: Royal Mattice, Dr. and Mrs. Harold F. Richards, Dean Olivia Dorman, Dr. Edward Conradi, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Eyman, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Heinlein, Miss Katherine Warren, Miss Madeline Duncan, Miss Ruth Schornherst, Dr. Margie Burkes, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Rogers, Dr. and Mrs Ernest Ekermeyer, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Mary Settle, Miss Georgia McCorkle, Miss Ann Pope, and Miss Clara Geise.

Bobby Peters' orchestra, which played last week at the George Washington hotel in Jacksonville, is brought here through the management of the Music Corporation of America.

Student Alumnae Union Will Open

Continued from Page Five

Panhellenic room, and two rooms for day students.

Final decision and assignment of rooms to various campus organizations has not been announced as yet.

Sigma Delta Pi Honors High Grade Students With Informal Tea

The Spanish honorary, Sigma Delta Pi, entertained the first and second year Spanish students, who received grades of A or B at a tea on Thursday afternoon at the Baptist student house.

Many objects from Spain and the Spanish-speaking countries were on display during the tea. Among the curios was a pair of brass stirrups brought to Honduras during the Spanish conquest in the sixteenth century and recently dug up during the construction of a railroad. Several serapes, the blankets which the Mexican peons wear over their shoulders, a Spanish shawl, pottery, and basketry made by the Mexicans were also among the exhibits.

Persons contributing articles for the display include Dr. Marion Hay, Dr. and Mrs. Leland Lewis, Mr. H. F. Becker, Miss Margaret Campbell, Dr. Margie Burks, Miss Isabel McKinnel, Mr. Earl Vance, Dr. and Mrs Arthur Seymore, Dr. Dorothy Breen, Nelly Dolby, Margaret Greer, and Dallis Curran.

The committee in charge of the affair included Ernestine Makemson, Margaret Llinjo, Virginia Hamilton, and Muriel Boyles.

Tallahassee's Scarlett

Selected as the Tallahassee girl who most resembles the famous character of Scarlett O'Hara, Sue Venning, poses in the gown which she wore at her presentation Tuesday night when "Gone With the Wind" opened here. The dress is from Vogue.

WEEKEND SOCIAL ACTIVITIES CENTER ON JUNIORS, SENIORS, AND DATES

Most sororities on campus are planning open house and tea dances from 4:30 to 6:30, tomorrow afternoon at their houses in honor of the juniors and seniors before the prom.

Chi Omega sorority will feature an "intermission" party for junior and senior members of the chapter and their dates tomorrow night during the intermission of the junior-senior prom. Coffee, sandwiches, and cake will be served.

Members of Kappa Alpha Theta will have a breakfast Sunday at 9:30 for juniors and seniors and their dates. Tri Deltas will entertain their prom dates at a buffet supper at their house before the dance tomorrow night.

More Parties

Members of Sigma Kappa sorority will serve an after-dinner coffee for their dates and rushees Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Friends and rushees of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority will receive oriental invitations to a "Chinese" tea from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night at their chapter house. Crepe paper chrysanthemums will be given as favors. A real Chinese table cloth will cover the table from which sandwiches decorated with Chinese characters will be served. The server will be dressed in Chinese costume.

Miss Elizabeth Thomson of the speech department is going to speak on Thursday evening at the Delta Zeta house as a part of their monthly standards program. After the speech pledges will serve after-dinner coffee. They will be assisted by Mrs. T. R. Cowatt, house mother.

Members of Beta Phi Alpha sorority gave an after dinner coffee Sunday in honor of their national grand secretary, Mrs. Delia Winters Thede. Wednesday afternoon a tea for friends and rushees was given, and the members and pledges acted as hostesses.

Valentine Motif Will Be Theme of Sophomore Hop Next Saturday Night

A Valentine motif will be used as the theme of Sophomore hop next Saturday night February 17. Dancing will begin at 9:30 o'clock in the gymnasium. Ted Sherwood and his orchestra have been engaged to furnish the music.

Fairfax Bates is chairman of the hop. Chairmen of the other committees are as follows: Monterey Whittlesey, business manager; Mary Lou Mcgowan, decorations; Jane Mcguire, refreshments; Helen Benton, student hostess chairman; Helen Emanuel, printing; Bee Williamson and Sue Venning, advertising. Ella Maude Jones is in charge of the sophomore council girls who will act as student assistants at the dance. Lou Atkinson is the head of the dance committee and in charge of securing the orchestra.

COLLEGE CALENDAR

February 11—February 17

Sunday

Musical Worship Program

5:00 p. m.—Vespers — Tower room, Westcott building.

Tuesday

1:30 p. m.—Convocation — Auditorium.

8:00 p. m.—Vocational Guidance meeting for all seniors—Dr. Elizabeth G. Andrews—Auditorium

Wednesday

4:30 p. m.—Student music recital—Auditorium.

4:30 p. m.—Residence Hall teas.

6:30 p. m.—Jennie Murphree Formal Dinner—Dining hall.

Thursday

8:00 p. m.—Speech Department play—"Penny Wise"; Auguta Conradi Theatre.

Friday

8:00 p. m.—Speech Department play—"Penny Wise"; Auguta Conradi Theatre.

8:00 p. m.—Play Night—Gymnasium.

Saturday

8:30 p. m.—Sophomore Hop—Gym.

In one year, the steel industry can produce enough wire to encircle the globe 6544 times, or reach almost to the sun and back again. It produces 163,600,000 miles of wire.

Mortar Board Will Use Landis Recreation Hall For Tea Dance Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, Mortar Board will sponsor a tea dance in Landis recreation hall. All juniors and seniors are invited to attend with or without dates. The music will be furnished by the newly-purchased radio-victrola.

Committees and chairmen are as follows: decorations, Bettie Young; music, Kathryn Graham; refreshments, Frances Slade and floor chairman, Florence Gressory.

Every Saturday evening, beginning February 17, Mortar Board members plan to act as hostesses in Landis recreation hall, offering girls and their dates a place in which to dance. Planned entertainment will usually be furnished.

Alumnae College Offers Programs, Social Affairs; Rawlings Will Be Speaker

Continued from Page Five

ing. Miss Leilla Venable talking on "Legislation to Protect the Consumer" and Dr. Beulah Briley on "Wars and Your Budget."

10:45 a. m.—Student round table discussion on "Quality and Prices of Popular Products."

11:30 a. m.—"Intellectual Citizenship" with Dean R. L. Ersman and Dr. W. Hudson Rogers presiding; "Propaganda" discussion with Earl L. Vance telling of the domestic type and Dr. Marion Hay the foreign type; "Modern Trends in Literature Music and Art" with Miss Louise Richardson, Kari Ahrendt and Mrs. Beatrice Beyer Williams as the respective speakers.

2 p. m.—Annual business meeting and election of officers.

4 p. m.—Faculty at home in Student-Alumnae building.

7 p. m.—Banquet with Dean William G. Dodd as speaker Sunday, April 14

8 a. m.—Class reunion breakfasts.

The only Combination of its kind

You can look the whole world over and you won't find another cigarette with Chesterfield's RIGHT COMBINATION of the best American and Turkish tobaccos.

In Chesterfield you find just what every smoker looks for... COOL SMOKING, definite MILDNESS, and the one thing that really satisfies...downright GOOD TASTE.

ASK FOR Chesterfield

Copyright 1940, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

the cooler, better-tasting, DEFINITELY MILDER cigarette

Tulip Colors In Accessories for Spring

—Yellow
—Pink
—White
—Powder Blue
—Turquoise
—Bags
—Belts
—Costume Jewelery
—Gloves
—Hats
—English Socks

All Matching In Perfection The Newer Items You'll Want

the VOGUE tallahassee, florida
feminine wearables

Swing Out, Sophomores

The Florida Flambeau

Happy Birthday, Dr. Conradi

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, February 16, 1940

VOLUME XXVII — NUMBER SIXTEEN

FSC to Welcome Youth Delegates Here on Feb. 23

General Theme to Be Christian Youth In A World of Tension

"A Christian in a World of Tension" will be the theme of the Florida College Christian Youth conference to be held on the campus next week-end, February 23-25. This will be the fourth conference for which Florida State college has been hostess and approximately 240 young people are expected to attend the seminars and lectures of speakers from the Florida Chain of Missionary Associations, which is sponsoring similar conferences throughout the state.

Other colleges which will be represented include the University of Florida, Miami university, Stetson university and Rollins college.

The opening session of the conference will be Friday night, February 23, at 8 o'clock, when Jack Eyrich, a University of Florida student, acting as president of the 1940 Youth conference will extend a welcome to the speakers. Following this, Charles D. Kelley, general secretary of the Commission on Friendly Relations among Persian Students in America, and director of the conference, will present a group of the speakers who will have as their theme "The Living Under World Tension."

Faculty Listed

The faculty of the panel will be of youth in their own countries. Miss Ramola Mukerji, from India, will speak upon the Christian Youth Movement in India, with which she is actively identified, and Rev. Hugh C. Gusta, from Latin America, who for five years edited a youth's magazine in Spanish, will describe activities of youth in Latin America.

Turning to Europe today, as it puts in tumultuous upheaval, Dr. W. O. Lewis, who has lived abroad for 20 years experience abroad, will tell of youth in that continent. The Rev. C. Henry Pulton will point out the place of youth in other countries in China and Japan. Rev. Fulton was born in Rice, Japan, and educated there until he was of age, and he is the son of missionary parents who served in Japan for about 50 years under the executive committee of Christian missions of the Presbyterian church in the United States.

As general secretary of the Student New York Federation of Churches Dr. Robert W. Searle will present a picture of American youth in the United States

Continued from Page Five

Art Teacher Wins Prize for Portrait

Miss Wilma D. Wolfe, assistant professor of art, has recently received an award for her portrait of a negro girl in an exhibit in Arkansas. The painting has been in exhibition at the Museum of Fine Arts in Little Rock, Arkansas. In an annual showing of painting and sculpture by Arkansas artists, "New England Architecture," one of Miss Wolfe's water colors, has been acquired by the Art Gallery of the University of Arkansas for its permanent collection.

Miss Wolfe is a new addition to the faculty of Florida State college. She is taking the place of Miss Lucile Caldwell, who is on a leave of absence. Miss Wolfe studied at the Cleveland School of Art in Cleveland, Ohio, and at Western Reserve University.

Student Forum to Discuss Value of NYA to Students

The value of N.Y.A. on the campus will be brought up before the N.Y.A. Forum in an informal discussion forum next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in 303 Westcott Building. The discussion will be upon the possibility that Congress is attempting to cut down appropriations to reduce the budget deficit, will fail to make appropriations for N.Y.A. purpose.

Speakers for the meeting will provide full information concerning the effect that the elimination of this appropriation will make upon college students. Following the talks, the students will offer their opinions and some possible solutions for the problem.

Director

As general director of the Christian Youth conference, which opens here next weekend, Charles D. Harry, above, will introduce the opening session of speakers to a student group of approximately 240 young people representing five colleges.

Hookworm Talks Made by Carter

Parasitologist Gives Tests to Students

Parasitologist Robert G. Carter, member of the Florida State Board of Health in Jacksonville, says that of approximately 20 hookworm tests given recently in connection with lectures made by hygienic and health classes 21 per cent of the results have been positive. Mr. Carter will have talked to about 1,000 students in Florida State colleges when he concludes the series of lectures begun Monday

Those interested in obtaining specimens may be secured at the meetings of these classes. Any person turned over to the infirmary they will be collected and examined by the State Board of Health at Augusta wishing to obtain a specimen may get one by attending the hygiene classes Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock and Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock in room 403, Education building, and the Health Education class on Friday at 1:30 o'clock in room 212, Education building.

Students are asked what the attitude of the students on the subject of hookworms has been. In the "Seminole" It was on the suggestion of Dr. White and Dr. F. C. Bond, college physician, that he made the talks.

The young parasitologist went on to say that every year the incidence of hookworms, with several cases of hookworms, which it is feared, have a decided ill effect on the work of the student. The purpose of making some tests on the matter is to get an estimate on the approximate percentage of hookworm victims in the school. Students are cooperating with the Board of Health if any headway is to be made toward stopping this disease.

Mr. Carter said that the Rockefeller Foundation made a hookworm survey in 1927 and 1938 of many communities all over the state of

Continued on Page Two

Registrar Lists 367 Students On Approbation

Sophomores Take Lead Over Other Classes; Seniors Are Second

Approbation lists, completed yesterday in the registrar's office, show 367 students with averages of B or above at the close of the first semester this year. The number is approximately the same as last year's list of 370 students, but taking into account increased enrollment during the past year, the percentage of those on approbation shows a definite drop.

Sophomores topped the list with 105 on approbation out of the 446 students enrolled at the beginning of the year. The closest seconds were the seniors with 93 out of 257. From the 886 freshmen 87 made the required grade-point average, while Juniors ranked fourth in number with 82 out of 311.

In the various divisions, the college of arts and sciences led with 213 out of 500, followed by the school of education with 89 out of 628. In the home economics school 44 out of 1,043 were listed, and in the school of music 18 from 92.

Names of the girls put on approbation are as follows:

Seniors: Vivian Adamo, Harriett Adams, Mary Katherine Adams, Barbara Albright, Lillian Allderdice, Carmen Alvarez, Edith Ary, Ann Bailey, Helen Bellamann, Mary Angsa, Ann Angel, Alice Armstrong, Lucile Armstrong, Mary Louise Ash, Ruth Atkinson, Mary Louise Atkinson, Mary Dana Bowers, Gray Babers, Tessie Backman, Grace Ball, Margaret Baker, Mary Elizabeth Barnhart, Mary Barker, Ethel Marion Barnard, Clara Elizabeth Bassett, Dorothy Bates, Helen Beals, Mary Catherine Bellas, Helen Benton, Lena Margaret Bevis, Mary Ann Bishop, Thao Blalock, Bertha Blackwelder, Elizabeth Bertha Bond, Frances Booker, Margaret Eleanor Booth, Lillian Bowsser, Mildred May Boyle.

Names Continued

Pat Brannon, Naomi Bruner, Frances Berenice Brodes, Barbara Louise Brown, Mary Dana Brown, Martha Broyles, Mary Pinckard Bryan, Margaret Marie Bryant, Mary Ruth Bryant, Elizabeth Bullock, Annie Evelyn Butts, Doris Annette Cannon, Mary Louise Carlton, Louise Caldwell, Genevieve Calhoun Rose Marie Carlton, Mary Carroll, Mary Elizabeth Case, Alma Chalker, Mary Margaret Chapman, Mary Margaret Clayton, Frances Elizabeth Cofer, Dorothy Cooper, Marion Corbett, Frances Laurette Colley, Harriet Collins, Mary Collins, Carmen Constantino, Mary Corbett, Margaret Curry, Emmett Curtis, Frances Adams Dancy, Alice Channrow, Gene Dannells, Helen Anita Davis, Mary Davis, Mary Alice Dawsey, Minna Dennis, Saide Louise DeVore, Marguerite Diaz, Jane Dimmick, Ruth Saunders, Rita Di Virgilio, Nancy Lee Dorsett, Dorothy Dunlap, Ann Doyle, Lora Elisabeth Draughn.

Continued from Page Five

Romance Sentiments Hold Sway As Valentines Deluge Campus

Candy Most Popular Gift with Sentimental Telegrams and Flowers Vying for Favor

He loves me. He loves me not! So ran the feeling of the day, Wednesday, Valentine's Day, February 14, when romantical greetings, flowers, candy and more candy deluged the campus. And, materially speaking, there were no half-way measures. Either he did. Or he didn't. Although Valentine greetings from current heart interest centered in the spotlight and overshadowed those of family and friends, there was the vivid declarations of love decorated with paper lace and red ribbon received stiff competition from Valentine checks sent by ultra-thoughtful parents and uncles.

The center of Florida State's annual Valentine boom, the college post office, was jammed with hordes of impatient students forming solid groups around each dormitory box section and virtually unending lines before the package window throughout the day. Gay expectant looks as well as anxious glances towards the rapidly moving hands of the clock and the unpropromptive face characterized the faces of girls who clutched stiff fat packets of slips. Triumphant cries of "And it isn't from mother either!" and "We got flowers!" rang from the din and excitement.

Valentine sentiment took varied and novel form, in outward as well as inward appearance. The collection which virtually overflowed the inner sanctum of the post office ranged from the tiniest boxes, capable of fitting into the letter boxes, to huge monstrosities requiring two struggling girls to drag them out.

A coconut and a bag of fruit added variety to the display. The morning mail totaled approximately 1,800 letters and 600 packages followed by much more in the afternoon. Those who ranged up the left-overs and the last-minute gifts.

"Hello, Sweetheart!" and "Will you be my Valentine?" were heard in telephone booths as "talking" Valentines. Charlie McCarthy and Mae West were some of them. A metal wire attached to the center of the card gave

Continued on page Five

Clothes Shop Is Sponsored By YWCA

Second Hand Articles Collected by Group Will Be Sold Cheaply

A department store on campus! Incredible! But it's true, girls, and it's going to be a very first steps from almost everyone's closet.

This veritable "anything you want shop" has replaced the Y's Thrift Shop in the Westcott building. The used book shelves and clothing racks are prominent part in the "between semesters" rush as the latter are the weirdest of numerous pairs of shoes. The formerly well-arranged furniture has been shoved around to make room for dress racks and all manner of miscellaneous items.

A sale is the reason for all this sudden upheaval, and what a sale it should be! For two weeks the social service committee of the Y. W. C. A. has been collecting, cleaning, ironing, mending, and repairing the huge assortment of clothing, including dresses, underwear, gloves, and shoes, which will be offered to the students and sorority houses before Christmas.

All of the articles are neatly arranged according to size and price, and they will be available to everyone at very little cost.

The shop will be open from 4:30 to 5:30 on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, and from 1:30 to 2:30 on Thursday. The sale will continue for a week, the remainder of the clothes will be sent to Albany, Georgia for the benefit of the tornado victims.

Glass Blowers Will Give Exhibit

The actual blowing, spinning, and decorating of glass and various ornaments will be shown when Venetian vases, birds, and animals will be demonstrated by the Venetian glass blowers of Nazzareno Barbis, S. C., at an exhibit in the Education building next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

Along with the demonstration a lecturer will tell of the manufacture of glass, both in ancient and modern times, of the ways in which different colors are obtained, and of the part glass has been to the arts, science, and industry of the world.

Programs similar to this have been presented at many other colleges and have been highly commented on the east.

Dr. R. A. Baker professor of chemistry at the University of Maryland, says of the group, "It was not only delightful but very instructive, and we are already looking forward to the time when you can again be our guests."

The exhibition has been arranged by the personnel office.

Thomson Heads Vespers Program

Miss Elisabeth Thomson, of the speech department will be the faculty instructor on the Sunday vespers program of Y.W.C.A. to be held at 5 o'clock in the Methodist church. The worship service will be in poetry.

Dancers will participate in the community, national, and international program with the topic of discussion at the February general membership meeting of the Y. W. C. A. The vespers afternoon at the Baptist student house. The program will be in form of a miniature youth conference, with representatives of into seminars headed by cabinet members. At the close of the meeting there will be a social seminar gave a report of her group's discussion.

Moore Discusses Racial Problem at Society For Prevention of Lynching

Dr. Coyle Moore, instructor in sociology and vice to the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching is Jackson ville on Thursday.

Taking as his subject "Building a Democracy on a Bi-racial Standard" Dr. Moore pointed out that democracy is a way of life and society through which the greatest development, expression and realization is worked out for all, irrespective of race, color or previous condition of servitude. He added that racial adjustment in a democracy is based on knowledge and education, and that there must be a basic and fundamental understanding of the problems of each race by the other.

Senate to Meet Wednesday

Senate will meet next Wednesday, February 21, at 4:30. As yet the subject is indefinite.

Library Will Close Thursday Afternoon

The library will close at 12:30 Thursday, February 22. Reserved books from 12:30 to 12:30 and will be due Friday morning at 9 o'clock. Students who get out of class at 12:30 will have ample time to get any books which they may want.

Louise Richardson,
Librarian

Class In Spring Flora Suffers Dire Shortage

Students Find Plant Kingdom Includes More Than Flowers

The first Monday afternoon of the new semester brought ten eager students to the botany laboratory. They came bundled in coats, mittens, and scarfs and shivering from the icy winds. They carried "Gray's Manual of Cultivated Plants," to help them in their search for the flowers for the ten girls were the spring flora class.

The puzzled teacher greeted them in the classroom. Dr. Kurs found himself in a dilemma. How could the spring flora class, which according to the college catalogue is supposed to study the identification of spring flowering and native plants of Florida", study flowers when there weren't any to be had? Every blossom, from the most delicate violet to the hardiest narcissus, had been nipped by the previous cold spell before at Florida State college the spring flora class was confronted with such a complete absence of flowers.

But, glad for any floating dreams of a vacation, the ten botanists found that the great outdoors is not limited by any means to flowers. They soon found themselves busy identifying about liverworts and mosses. Dr. Kurs then assigned them a survey of the pteridophyte family —ferns to you and me. Perhaps by the time at least the flowering plants will again be blossoming.

Florida High to Present Play, 'Drums of Death'

The dramatics class of Florida high school will present "Drums of Death" by Lee Wilson Dodd, on March 7 and 8, at the Augusta Conrad theater.

The play centers around a magic stone of great powers which is carried by a remorseful Indian, a body of its dead owner by a blood relative. Members of the cast include Ralph Hendricks, Ruth Hawes, Doris Jacoby, J. P. Poides, Ernest Kathryn Bates, Emily Jenks, Richard Arnold, Francis Lowery, Doris Maige.

Janitor Predicts United States Will Enter War Before Long

Negro Veteran Opposes Lynching and Capital Punishment, But Believes in Predestination

"It won't be long before the United States gets in the war," says Dan Shane, janitor in the history building. "I can feel it right into the last war. The war, as he explained it, is a dispute over some land, and Dan doesn't know who is right or who is wrong. He just thinks that it is a shame if they would quit fighting and get back to farming.

Dan was in the first World war and was gassed in the battle at Camp Gordon above Atlanta, and was later transferred to Camp Brunswick. His work, in his own words, consisted of "loading wagons at the railroad yard." As to how he liked his military experience, he grinned broadly and said he liked it fine. He had only one objection—he didn't get to see as much as he wanted to. If it hadn't been for that he thinks he would have stayed.

Before Dan became janitor in the history building where he has been for the past 12 years, he was a brick mason's helper and came to Tallahassee and the campus with the construction company that built the history building. One day as he was working Mr. Ketum, business manager was walking around the building "As he always do, you know," and seeing Dan at work, asked him if he wanted a job. "Oh, yes indeed," said Dan. "so I decided to take it."

Dan has charge of the first and second floor and the little theater. He comes to work at 6:30 in the morning, and has an hour off between 8:30 and 9:30 in the morning. He works until 5:30 o'clock for breakfast. Almost any morning he can be seen sweeping in front of the history building at 8:30, waiting for his work to begin. Dan seems to pick him up in their Ford of some uncertain years. He says his wife alternates taking the car to work.

Dan Is Deacon

Dan admits that his job gets more monotonous at regular intervals as rooms and halls, hit on the whole he likes it. The Flambeau office and the typewriter room are the hardest in the building to keep clean. "I just can't keep those two rooms clean," he said. His associations with college girls have always been pleasant. I judged, because he says they have always been nice to him and he tries to treat them the same way.

But his greatest joy in life is

Continued on Page Six

Graham, Jessup Chosen To Escort Mrs. Roosevelt

Governor Fred Cone and Other Dignitaries To Be Honor Guests When First Lady Speaks

Katherine Graham and Marjorie Jessup will act as special marshals to escort Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to the stage tomorrow afternoon at 5:30, when she will speak at the initiation of the Alumnae association.

Governor and Mrs. Fred P. Cone, members of the cabinet, the supreme court, and the board of control, former governors, and Mrs. C. O. Andrews have been invited to be platform guests for the occasion.

Program Given

The program for Mrs. Roosevelt's lecture at which President Edward Conradi will preside is as follows:

5:30—Organ music, Pilgrim Suite, Colonial Days, Peaceful Days, and America Triumphant, Margaret Whitney Dow, organist.

5:30—March from Naaman, (Costa). Entrance of Mrs. Roosevelt and hostesses.

Star Spangled Banner Assembly, one verse.

Invocation, Rev. Jack Anderson, pastor Trinity Methodist church.

Presentation of Governor Cone and other platform guests, Dr. Edward Conradi.

Presentation of Mrs. Frank D. Moore, president of the Alumnae association, by Dr. Conradi.

Presentation of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, by Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

America, first and last verses, by the audience.

Recessional, March from Naaman, (Costa).

The audience is requested to be seated by 5:15 and to remain in place until Mrs. Roosevelt leaves the auditorium.

The usher committee, last year's usher committee and Mortar Board members will serve as ushers.

National guardsmen on duty at police will assist in handling the crowds that wish to hear her.

Senate Cancels Limited

Owing to the limited seating capacity of the auditorium, only honored guests, faculty, alumnae, the college staff, juniors and seniors can be accommodated there. Freshmen have consented to sit in the balcony of the gymnasium. Sophomores and their escorts will remain in the gymnasium where the lecture is to be heard. Mrs. Roosevelt, who will make a short appearance there before going to the auditorium, by Senate will be required for entrance to the Augusta Conrad theater where approximately 400

Continued on Page Two

Play Has Final Showing Tonight

Characters Receive Interest in Farce

The last performance of "Penny Wise," modern three-act comedy, will be presented tonight in the speech department in the Augusta Conrad little theater.

With clever dialogue and amusing characterizations, the farce deals with a new triangle, rather than the "eternal." Presented last night, "Penny Wise" is lively, sparkling and gay. Gordon Chase, successful young playwright, was responsible for the Greenry, Tallahassee, while Penny, who is married to the young author, is the main so, is played by Irene Bannister, who is a newcomer to the people, and dumb, wise Penny is understood by Jeff, likeable, lazy young man, a specialist in inactivity, played by Gwynn Parker. Bristol, Chase's first act as director of Penny's and former interests of Gordon's, are Penny's ability and brittle, attractive and charming actress, portrayed by Beth Blair, and Martha, successful, humorous agity costume designer, played by Emilie Gordon. Martha is a dotty graduate work in speech.

Katharine, an impetuous, self-centered, beautiful woman with deep interest in Gordon is played by Anita Jacky. In the role of a rough, bluffing, small town politician, who has been revived the public for 30 years," is Herbert Mendenhall, portraying Commissioner Elson.

"Penny Wise," written by Jean Webster Black and directed by Mrs Kemper Moore, instructor in speech, is a fast-moving, modern comedy, the first of its type to be presented by the speech department in five years. Laid in a room of a Connecticut country home, the setting remains the same for the three acts. Costumes for the play, which were selected for either contrast or harmony with the scenery were designed by the "Vogue" shop.

This play, the third production of the speech department this year, is under lighting direction and all interest is centered on the characters. Crew and staff for the play, who aided in construction, set and rehearsals, during the furnishings include Jeanne Manker, stage manager, Elisabeth Thomson, Kathryn Bates, Nelle Norfleet and Martha White.

Continued on page three

Isolation Will Be Subject of Debate

Two students from Washington and Lee university are expected to debate with members of the debate team of the Florida State Student House.

Last Friday Betty Robert and Mabel Mihoul debated with Lorna Colleno on the same question. A similar debate will be given as chosen each year by Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic honorary, which can be used as a basis for all intercollegiate debate. The debates were entertained in the dining hall and at play at the Florida house.

On February 24 a new form of debate will be given for the third time on this campus and, it is believed, for the first time in Florida. The topic, on which there are four persons on each team, is known as the clash. Mabel Mihoul, Patty Hobert, Joan Weaver, and Mary Brice Deaver will take part in this.

White to Speak at Clinic

Dr. Sarah Parker White professor of hygiene, will speak on posture at the posture clinic being held at the gymnasium for physical education, starting on Wednesday. The Physical Education association is sponsoring the clinic.

Individual postures will be checked from sitting, standing, riding positions. Those wishing to be tested should wear gym suits.

From Other Colleges

The Michigan State student council, as a result of general requests and suggestions from the student body, passed at its last meeting resolutions calling for a student vote on the following propositions:

Students will pay in addition to regular term fees, $1 per term, which will provide a health insurance program covering health, minor surgical, minor dental and ocular care.

Future students will pay class fees only during their freshman year.

It is estimated that, if the resolutions are passed, student expenditures for medical services not provided for at present will be cut at least two-thirds

"The United States will be the last bulwark of democracy," declared Morris Gordin, former Soviet government official now with the Labor Bible Institute, who spoke at Michigan State February 5 at an open meeting of the Spartan Christian fellowship. Gordin is the author of several books, of which the best known is "Utopia In Chains."

Cornelia Otis Skinner will present her Modern Monologues at Rollins tonight as a feature of the Annie Russell series. The last program on the series featured H. R. Knickerbocker, who spoke February 13 on "The Ringside of Europe." The foreign correspondent and lecturer spent nine years in Germany, during which time he interviewed Hitler several times before he started his trip to power. The impression Hitler made on a German who meets him or hears him speak, Knickerbocker said, is a dread of fear, but to the foreigner he appears "just plain silly." About 98 percent of all Germans who have heard him, according to the lecturer, have become violent Nazis as a result of the mystical power he seems to have over them. Disgusted by what he saw in Germany, Knickerbocker enumerated four driving forces behind the motivating the present European war: Hitler and Germany, who are aiming at world domination, believing themselves a race chosen by God to bring German culture to the world; Stalin and Russia, who are aiming to communize the world; Imperial Japan, who is aiming not only at a new order in Asia, but at domination of as much of the world as possible; Britain and France, who are defending their very national existence, and who happen at the same time to be defending most of the rest of the countries of the world. As to what will happen when the war is over, the correspondent said, "If the Allies win there will be one group who will say 'Do not make the mistake of the Versailles treaty again: be nice to Germany and Germany will be nice to us.' There will be a second group that will say, 'Don't repeat the mistake of Versailles: the Germans are the best war-makers in the modern world: don't let them have any weapons.' Somewhere in between there will be a compromise."

"If Hitler wins, there won't be any treaty of peace; in fact, there won't be any Britain or France. They will be exterminated as Poland has been and is being exterminated. In Poland the Poles are being moved out of their homes overnight and not being allowed to take anything but the clothes on their backs and food for three days with them. They are then put on box-cars and transported to the middle of Poland where they are left to shift for themselves in the middle of the Polish winter. This is essentially what Hitler will do with Britain and France if Hitler won."

Distinguished economists and business leaders addressed the fifth annual Economic Conference at Rollins January 31 to February 1. "Marketing and Price Problems" was the topic of the first session, at which J. C. Robinson, Towell and Drew, manager, spoke on the subject "Is the Customer Always Right?" At the second session, devoted to the topic "Collective Cycle Economics and Depression," D. R. Cummings of the University of Wisconsin told of the slight cycles of prosperity and depression this country has had since 1829, when it first began to become industrialized. These, he said, have been setting worse and, if the capitalistic system is to survive, new methods of dealing with these cycles must be adopted. The whole problem, he said further, evolves around over-production of nearly all goods, and the only means of saving the capitalistic system lies in administrative supervision tow-ard monopolies.

Scientists have been able to read the rainfall records of millions of years ago by studying the annual growth rings in petrified trees.

Andrews Speaks On Vocations

Importance of Filing Photographs Stressed

Dr. Elisabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, gave directions, recommendations and general information on placement to prospective graduates in a vocational guidance lecture Tuesday night in the auditorium.

The importance of filing photographs was stressed first by Dr. Andrews, especially to the approximately 150 prospective graduates who have not filed pictures. An explanation was given as to the nature of the papers applicants file, and as to the manner in which applicants are selected.

Later in the spring was stated by the inquiring reporter this week.

Brenelle Mobley: This campus operates as a true democracy to the extent that college government officers are elected by the student body and that class representatives are elected by student vote.

Also that student government could be much more expressive of the will of the students than it is. This is particularly evident because many students are indifferent to the functioning of our college government. The majority of students do not express their opinions on issues because of lack of interest or ignorance of ways to do so. Student college government operates.

We have complete freedom of expression. Any group meetings but few students take advantage of it. The campus is very small to allow large to see and hear their political views. Democracy manifests itself in the organization and functioning of the various interest groups. Democracy is usually made rather hastily and without much thought on the part of the students.

To a certain extent we have freedom of expression in our student publications, but I wouldn't say we have complete freedom of expression.

We could make our campus more truly democratic if students were better informed as to what is taking place in different meetings of our institutions. For instance, several representatives might be able to formulate more interest during moments of their class if they knew what issues as to what is going on in senate. This could be accomplished at class meetings.

Barbara Thomas: I think this campus operates as a true democracy to the extent that we, the students, elect our officers, and that we make out laws and they are put into effect.

I think that our student government is expressive of the will of the students or by the fact that those students who have one to two days of the week in which to justify do not have a will. If we could get all our students interested in the organization, publication, and our college government, so that each one would take a certain sense of belonging to F.S.C.W., we could have a student body interested in working for the Cosmopolitan club, New York City; the National Democratic club, Washington; the Women's University club, New York City and Washington. Her campaign for the benefit of stranded West Virginia miners, during severe government agency is the National Youth Administration, and she has been one of the directors of NYA projects on her trips.

Editor's Note Verified

My Day, the column Mrs. Roosevelt has written for seven years, is a day-by-day report of her many activities which reaches a total audience of 40,000,000. Mrs. Roosevelt is the author of the following books: When You Grow Up to Vote, It's Up to the Women, a Trip to Washington for Bobby and Betty, This Troubled World. This Is My Story. She is also the author of 1936's Game Hunting in the Eighties, an account of her father's hunting exploits in Africa in the 80's, and once edited a periodical called Babies, Just Babies.

She makes three lecture tours a year, offering five talks, "The Individual and the Community," "Problems of Youth," "A Typical Day at the White House," "The Mail of the President's Wife," and "Peace."

Mrs. Roosevelt usually allots a few minutes of her time to answering questions. The subject of her lecture here will not be made known until that time.

Mrs. Roosevelt is a member of

∴ Inquiring Reporter ∴

Democracy On Campus?

To what extent do you think this campus operates as a true democracy? Do you think our student government is expressive of the will of the students? Do the majority of students have a will? Do you think we have complete freedom of expression in our group meetings—freedom, for instance, to criticise the status quo? Do you think we have complete freedom of expression in our student publications? Do you have any suggestions how we can make our campus institutions (government, publications, forums, organizations) more truly democratic?

The above questions were asked by the inquiring reporter this week.

Brenelle Mobley: This campus operates as a true democracy to the extent that college government officers are elected by the student body and that class representatives are elected by student vote.

Also that student government could be much more expressive of the will of the students than it is. This is particularly evident because many students are indifferent to the functioning of our college government. The majority of students do not express their opinions on issues because of lack of interest or ignorance of ways to do so. Student college government operates.

We have complete freedom of expression. Any group meetings but few students take advantage of it. The campus is very small to allow large to see and hear their political views. Democracy manifests itself in the organization and functioning of the various interest groups. Democracy is usually made rather hastily and without much thought on the part of the students.

To a certain extent we have freedom of expression in our student publications, but I wouldn't say we have complete freedom of expression.

We could make our campus more truly democratic if students were better informed as to what is taking place in different meetings of our institutions. For instance, several representatives might be able to formulate more interest during moments of their class if they knew what issues as to what is going on in senate. This could be accomplished at class meetings.

Barbara Thomas: I think this campus operates as a true democracy to the extent that we, the students, elect our officers, and that we make out laws and they are put into effect.

I think that our student government is expressive of the will of the students or by the fact that those students who have one to two days of the week in which to justify do not have a will. If we could get all our students interested in the organization, publication, and our college government, so that each one would take a certain sense of belonging to F.S.C.W., we could have a student body interested in working together for various things and in the end we would become interested in having a will.

I believe we have complete freedom of expression in our group meetings, and I also think we have complete freedom of expression in our student publications.

Judah Walker: This school is divided into parts, those who are for the C.O.A. and those who are not. Until all are on, or all are off, the student government will not express the will of the students nor will the students have an active constructive will.

Muriel Poole: No, our student government is not expressive of the will of the students. It is the fault of the government in not explaining clearly and fully the benefits that the student body will receive in changing certain laws. The majority of the students are not interested enough in student government to express it in student forums, therefore, the majority does not rule. In our publications we have freedom of expression. What is printed is usually representative of student opinion.

Jean Ayala: The set-up that we have on campus democracy is democratic operations but student body is the disadvantage of it. They allow a small minority to rule.

Kitty Ford: We have free expression if we would only use it. We can stand on our own feet if we only will. We talk among ourselves but not in the proper people. In most cases the minority rule because the majority are not actively interested enough to take a stand on the issues.

Barbara Dial: I know we have freedom of speech in our meetings, but not enough girls take advantage of it. I think that if N.S.F.A. and I.R.C. were given more publicity, more students would become int-rested.

Pearle Tyler: I think the theory of our government can be called a true democracy. But the majority of students do not take advantage of their opportunity N.S.F.A. is a big tool in aiding

Lemon Presents Talk on Wisdom

Dr. William P. Lemon, pastor of the University Presbyterian church at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, chose wisdom as the subject of his address to the Florida State college student body in convocation Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Lemon used scriptures to illustrate his speech, and he reminded the student body that making large generalizations without things to support them know little or nothing is an easy but disastrous practice too often employed.

The speaker has held positions at the Ohio State and the State University of Minnesota. At present he is the wife and one son's route to Palm Beach. During their stay in Tallahassee the visitors are the guests of Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel.

Woodruff to Give Speech Recital

Sara Woodruff, senior, will give the first recital in speech presented this year on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Augusta Conover auditorium. She will give three selections as her junior recital. The recital will include a satire by Charles Battle Loomis, "The Cusher," a take-off on affected speech, and a humorous reading of Edgar Lee Masters and his work. "Spoon River Anthology," and a short one-act play by Mary Carolyn Davis, "The Slave with Two Faces."

Ushers for the recital are to be Lucile Smoak, chairman; Mary Alice Kirchner, Jocelyn Pugh, Margaret Greer and Betty Jane Jarn.

Other dates scheduled for dramatic and speech recitals are February 27, February 29, March 12, March 26, April 2, April 9, April 16, April 17, and April 30.

Hookworm Talks Made By Robert Carter

Continued from Page One

Florida, when he was employed to determine the range of the disease and just how great the problem was. The tests were performed by Vanderbilt University. The rockefeller State Board of Health, the Rockefeller Institute and Vanderbilt University have worked hand in hand in the effort to stamp out the disease.

The results of the tests showed that over 50 per cent of the cases center in west Florida, which has 35 per cent of the cases in the whole state. The average number of cases in some counties ranged to 72 per cent. Leon county was high in the list with 40 per cent.

Thirty per cent of the population of Florida are native whites while persons as colored have hookworm. This is due to the additional tenderness of the skin of white persons. Eighteen per cent of the people of all southern teachers in Florida have this disease.

Mr. Carter thinks that every good citizen of Florida should understand the hookworm problem in this state, which has the highest percentage of infection in the nation. This is due to the fact that Florida was left out of the first Rockefeller survey held in 1913 within the southern states. As a result Florida has been the most negligent state in attempting to stamp out the parasites.

"The parasite," says Mr. Carter, "does not have any preference as to what income bracket it gives those it infects. Students are not exempt from their attack. Florida State college students should realize the importance of this problem and should give wholehearted cooperation."

During his lectures, Mr. Carter passed around specimens of the worm around the classroom. The worm is about three inches long, inch long, totally blind, and is unable to choose the spot where it will attach itself to its victim. This only adds to the dangers of becoming diseased. The parasite can only be caught when a person comes in contact with soil which has been contaminated with hookworm eggs.

While stating that west Florida had half the cases of hookworm in the state, Mr. Carter also added that south Florida was not exempt from another kind of parasite called the "jungle sickness" 'round worm." This parasite is found chiefly among people living in rural sections.

Strange as it may seem, more people die from hookworm in the 25 carry three parasites than do children in the age group of 5 to 15. Formerly hookworms were thought to be mostly a disease for children.

Although the disease is rarely a direct cause of death, it is one of the greatest single causes of death in Florida. The parasites feed on the blood of their victims, lowering their resistance to other more destructive diseases. Malaria, particularly contracted when in a blood exhausted state. The combination of the two is a matter of serious economic and health importance to the state of Florida.

The new treatment for hookworm victims kills as high as 80 per cent of the parasites. This is an improvement over the old treatment, which killed only per cent.

Robert O. Carter has been a member of the State Board of Health of Florida and parasitologist for that group for more than 10 years. He has received special training in parasitical diseases at Vanderbilt University. Last year the board sent him to Nashville, Tenn., to get further study at Vanderbilt. A native Tallahassean, Mr. Carter lectured to the convocation this year at his alma mater which acquainted them with all points of the problem.

Tests have been made in most of the public schools of Florida with splendid cooperation which has encouraged the health officials to take steps that will lead to exiling the hookworm in the tested vicinity.

Twelve Students Present Recital

Piano, Voice, Violin Solos Are Featured

Twelve members of the school of music of Florida State College for Women presented a student recital in the college auditorium Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The students participating were Mary Ruth Beverly, Edith Pfarr, Alma Chalker, Sarah Lee Johns, Margaret Rinks, Virginia Roos, Prudie La Rue Shuford, and Dorothy Sanford, including the accompanists, Myrtle Hoffman, Ruby Dunstan, and Mary Suhr.

The program included "Sous Bois" (Staub) by Mary Ruth Beverly on the piano; "Improvisation, F major" (La Forge), Edith Pfarr, piano. "The Girl with the Flaxen Hair" (Debussy), Alma Chalker, piano; "Take Joy Home" (Russell), Sarah Lee Johns, voice, accompanied by Myrtle Hoffman; "First Movement, Violin Concerto" (Chilman), Margaret Rinks, organ.

"Meiel's Rit'n'n" (Bantock), Virginia Roos, voice, Ruby Dunstan, accompanist; "Impromptu" (D'Ambrosia), Freddie La Suhr, violin, Mary Suhr, accompanist; "Spinner at the Spring" (Lemont), Ruth Shepard, voice, Mary Carolyn Davis, accompanist; "Le Suite Gothique" (Boellman), Dorothy Sanford, organ.

The next student recital to take place will be held on Wednesday afternoon, February 21, at four-thirty o'clock.

Landis Recreational Hall Hours Extended

Beginning Monday, Landis recreation hall will be open for dancing on M-O-D-Y through Friday from 5:30 to 6:30 in the afternoons; from 7:15 until study flash on Monday through Thursday; and from 1 to 6 o'clock on Friday afternoons. Young men will be welcome.

Mortar Board members will be hostesses in the recreation room from 6 o'clock until 11 on Saturday nights. At this time only students with escorts will be admitted. All students with escorts are asked to use the entrance at the end of the west terrace. No smoking will be allowed in the recreation hall, kitchenette, or party room. The recreation hall will not be open on Sundays.

Landis students may use this party room and kitchenette by making arrangements in Landis office between 4:30 and 5:30 daily. If by this time no resident of Landis dormitory has made a reservation, the rooms will be available for other student use.

Organizations may use the party room and kitchenette once a year, but such arrangements should be made two weeks early.

Later on, dishes and silverware will be available in the kitchenette. A small fee will then be charged to cover breakage.

Schornherst Is Loan Alternate

AAUW Works to Get Million Dollar Fund

Miss Ruth Schornherst, senior, drum major, has been selected as alternate to one of the National Fellowships offered by the American Association of University Women. The fellowship committee is very happy to make the announcement as it is at this time one from the state who has been so honored. Miss Schornherst will receive the fellowship if someone already awarded drops out and it is valued at $1,500.

In the South the A.A.U.W. is working toward raising $4,000 toward the national million dollar fellowship campaign, but shortly the committee will have a program in connection with each institution scholarship which will open to local college students offered by the local chapter.

The A.A.U.W. loans have enabled many students to go forward higher degrees and to solve invaluable problems. Miss Elisabeth Autrey, former student here, through an A.A.U.W. loan was able to get her A. B. Degree in Education at the University of Pennsylvania and her master's in social education department at the University of Colorado. Miss Autrey is Mayor Woodward's secretary loan which enabled her to go forward her Ph. D. in the University of Chicago. She is now employed at the University of California at Davis, California, in the experiment station. These are only two of the many students and many others who have received A.A.U.W. loans, have taken advanced graduate courses or have received scholarships.

IRC Will Have Open Meeting

An open discussion of world events will be the main attraction at the International Relations Club meeting Monday at 5 o'clock in 406 history building. After a short discussion period the secretary will take place the recent report of Madame Frances Perlee. Three members of the club attended the meeting are Mabel Nihus and Selma Hyman.

Nominations for the club to elect a discussion of the Russian-Finnish controversies within next few weeks.

About five members of the club are going to Jacksonville. They are expecting to attend the spring conference which will be held March 22 and 23 at the University of North Carolina Chapel Hill.

Graham, Jessup Chosen To Escort Mrs. Roosevelt

Continued from Page One

visitors can be accommodated, should contact Mary Graham, station WFAL, Tallahassee.

Those students who desire to obtain one ticket each from their director's office today, and off-campus students may obtain them from Dean Olivia Dorman's office. Those students receiving tickets are asked to call for the tickets of girls absent, that the officers, and the Faculty and staff members may obtain tickets today from the committee. Only tickets for one, four and five will be reserved for seating in sections and sight for juniors, the faculty will occupy the main floor and the remainder of the auditorium will be seat alumnae and staff of the college.

During the last seven years, Mrs. Roosevelt has traveled about 280,000 miles, written 1,200,000 words, received 300,000 letters, spent half a million dollars, and delivered hundreds of lectures, radio speeches and interviews to the press. In addition, her sense of social responsibility, and is an active sponsor of Arthurdale, a government experiment for the benefit of stranded West Virginia mining families. She is also government agency is the National Youth Administration, and she has been one of the directors of NYA projects on her trips.

Editor's Note Verified

My Day, the column Mrs. Roosevelt has written for seven years, is a day-by-day report of her many activities which reaches a total audience of 40,000,000. Mrs. Roosevelt is the author of the following books: When You Grow Up to Vote, It's Up to the Women, a Trip to Washington for Bobby and Betty, This Troubled World. This Is My Story. She is also the author of 1936's Game Hunting in the Eighties, an account of her father's hunting exploits in Africa in the 80's, and once edited a periodical called Babies, Just Babies.

She makes three lecture tours a year, offering five talks, "The Individual and the Community," "Problems of Youth," "A Typical Day at the White House," "The Mail of the President's Wife," and "Peace."

Mrs. Roosevelt usually allots a few minutes of her time to answering questions. The subject of her lecture here will not be made known until that time.

Mrs. Roosevelt is a member of

THE SWEET SHOP
AT THE SOUTH COLLEGE GATE
PHONE 1091 WE DELIVER

COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE
Sandwiches, Chili, Waffles, Home Soups.
Home Made Pie and Cake

Luncheons ..... 20c and 25c
Little Dinners 35c
Candy, Cigarettes, School Supplies, Toiletries

SPICK AND SPAN
"A COMPLETE SODA FOUNTAIN"
"Sandwiches, Cold Plates, Candy, and Cigarettes
At the College Front Gate
PHONE 635

AIR-CONDITIONED
MARTIN & DALTON
DEPARTMENT DRUG STORE
218-218 SO. ADAMS ST. PHONE 123

—EXTRA SPECIALS—
31 Bottle Jergen's Lotion and 50c Jar Jergen's 4-Flush Face Cream
All for 98c

Two 60c Squibb's Tooth Paste .. 49c

Tek Tooth Brushes
One for Morning and One for Nighty
2 for 43c

SHUTTER BUGS
Get your Eastman Kodak Films here. All sizes—all types. Leave your exposed films with us for developing, printing, enlarging.

Camels, Chesterfields, Luckies, Old Golds—Cash & Carry
CIGARETTES 2 Pkgs. 25c

NEW FRAMING COLORS:
• Flight
• Stratosphere
• Airway
• Skyway
• Pilot

3-Thread Service 89c
3-Thread Sheer $1.00
2-Thread Sheer $1.15
4-Thread Service $1.15
2-Thread Evening $1.35

Pkgs. 25c

STATE
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
February 16-17
Buddy Maddox
SUNDAY & MONDAY
February 18-19
REMEMBER THE NIGHT
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20
WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
February 21-22
RITZ
FEBRUAR 16TH THRU FEBRUARY 19TH
"GONE WITH THE WIND"
TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
February 20-21
Fred MacMurray
in
"Remember the Night"
THURSDAY & FRIDAY
February 22-23
NELSON EDDY
in
"BALALAIKA"

Swimming Meet Won By Seniors

Dot Parks Makes High Score With 12 Points

Breaking the past record of 3 seconds for 25-yard free style swimming, Dot Parks covered the distance in 12 seconds to help the seniors win the inter-class swimming meet by one point Tuesday afternoon.

Dot Parks was also high-scorer for the seniors, garnering a total of 12 of their 42 points. Peggy Barr took top honors for the freshmen with 8¼ of their 32 points.

Other events and winners were: breast stroke, Phil Kirkland, freshman; Jennora Ecker, freshman. Mr. Wilkerson, senior, time — 1:25-yard back stroke, Peggy Barr, freshman, Ernestine Mahon, senior, Nancy Lee Dorsey, freshman, time—17.4; 50-free style, Dot Parks, senior, Peggy Barr, freshman, Ernestine Mahon, senior, time — 36; form swimming, Virginia Hall, senior, Nancy Lee Barr, freshman, Hazel Wilkerson, senior; 25-yard free style, Dot Parks, senior, Ernestine Mahon, senior, Peggy Barr, freshman, time—12; four-man relay, senors, 1.2 minutes; swan dive, front, Isabelle Beck directed by Denora Ecker, freshman.

Officials at the meet were Bernice Ratliff, announcer; Corrine Watson, starter; Dorothy Lee Pat Patterson, Jean Bostwick timers; Nelle Lolyea, Mrs. Barbara Thomas, Isobel Smith, assisted by Martha Jones and Mertice Langley; Anita Dent Perry, scorer; Kitty Hall, inspector; Frances Battle, Mary Collins, Carolyn Collins, Vonnie Marchesseau, Judges of the meet.

Varied Attractions of Key West Combine Uniqueness, Charm

Continued from Page One

walking up and down the main street on Saturday nights, according to both Cleo and Edna, the principal diversion of the natives. "Everybody considers it proper to be to meet everybody, and they look and look to see who is on the night when everybody goes to town. Laurdna Edna "The town lingers late at night, and don't have a nickel—really because they are broke—but where they want to and have time for fun they want to without spending a penny."

Both agreed that Key West is a place of excellent life spans and that one would ever find. Everybody knows everybody else and knows how to deal with each other. However, although the tourist with the Cuban people quite a great extent, the white races do not. The town itself is divided into two distinct sections—to overcreate the races. In the tracks between the Latin Quarter and the whites seems to be more than that between the whites and the negroes. In respect the suburban districts.

Spaniards Add Color

The white natives are extremely broadminded towards the newer generation and allow it to be quite independent. The Spanish, on the other hand according to Cleo and Edna, are more minded and keep close on their young people. Girls are forbidden to do anything except a chaperon. When a very Spanish gentleman calls his prospective girl friend he first walk up and down in front of her house for about a week. Only he is even invited inside then, he is allowed to sit on the porch with the family for a week. Only he is invited inside the house, he is allowed to sit on the couch with the family for a week. Only he is even invited inside the parlor—the sanctuary of some member of the family usually the grandmother. If any courting does take at all it is done after 9 if the chaperon falls asleep.

About half of the population of Key West is made up of the Latin people therefore Spanish cooking prevails throughout the town. "People learn to like Spanish food," asserts Edna; "and after they become used to it they don't have any other kind especially appealing to the tourist. The coffee shows for itself. Wish Key West is noted, where than coffee—much stronger than American coffee—is always served, as is also Cuban bread. It has a delicious, delicate crisp flavor. For the same reason, Spanish beer is a well-known beverage noted for its Spanish atmosphere and food, is frequented by all."

"If the Cubans can just live in the main street," beamed Cleo, "they are in their heaven. "I think that is one of the most outstanding peculiarities of the Cubans, for there seems to be no apparent reason for their desiring to build their houses right on the main thoroughfare—so close to town.

Sights Attract Tourists

Besides the strange ways of the Cubans," she continued, "there are numerous sites and

'Hamlet' and 'Taming of Shrew' Hold Sway as G-Men Go Cultural

General College Weekend and Military Ball Loom Large on the Distant Social Horizon

This might have been a gloomy column, but we got a Valentine and it practically lifted our face, to say nothing of our spirits. By the time you read this Valentine Day will be gone, but for all our local Romeos who miscalculated the date and—dare we say "Cupid?" to send you a heart or so, we love you best, February 14 or February 15.

The Avon Players held sway Monday and Tuesday, with "Hamlet" drawing the largest crowds. Maybe the fact that C5—humanities to you—requires reading of the play had something to do with it. For your raised eyebrow department let it be said that the Monday night two-act was played in the gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

Both Odds and Evens won two sets each in the badminton games Wednesday afternoon in the gymnasium.

In the first set Paulette Nolan Even, played Margaret Carter two games. Since Paulette came out ahead in both games, a third was not played. The final scores were 11-1 and 11-2. Though Paulette won by a great margin, Margaret gave her stiff competition. After she became warmed up by the first game Ruth Thomas, Odd, defeated Mary Jane Medlin with 11-0 and 11-1 scores in the second set of singles.

The first set of doubles was played with Minnie Ratliff and Cornelia Watson, Odds, against Meta Helms and Marion Prveling. These teams were well matched though the games were slightly lower than the usual. Mary Odds slated up 15-8 and 15-3 victories. Elizabeth Eanard and Norma McCree, Evens, scored 15-2 and 15-5 leads over Gene Bryan and Mary La King in the final set of doubles.

Helen Milam, Even, and Ruth Thomas, Odd, played one game of singles which Helen won 11-8 However, time would not allow another game of singles for Helen Milne the winner of a set. This was the closest game of the afternoon.

Officials for the games were Miss Rebecca Averil, scorer and umpire; Carese Brown and Tara Thomas, linesmen.

We were just getting our folks used to those midterm grades.

Practice tests for the midterms are being held daily now in an attempt to pick the squad for next year. If you're more interested in having B P lead the yells than holding your hand during those thrilling plays, suggest you grab him a line and tell him to get out there and turn a few flips.

Some of the General College committees will be in Tally this week-end making arrangements for picking General College queens. Let those heretic snoods off your head and look your prettiest. And speaking of beauties, it won't be long now before the Seminole Homecoming Issue appears. We'll let you know as soon as possible. Had a scoop for you last week but failed Brown very approachingly sat on our head. He's the Seminole editor, you know.

Goodbye now.

Courses in Life Saving Offered

Advanced courses in life saving are being offered to students who are interested in swimming.

The pre-training course for the Red Cross life saving instructors will be held every Monday night in the pool. All instructors and senior life savers are eligible to take this course. Everyone must have the pre-training course before he can take the actual instructor's course.

Harry Kenning field representative for the Florida division of Red Cross, will be here some time in April for one week, but at what time the course will be given.

All interested are asked to report to Miss Hazel Richardson next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

Martha Jones announced that life saving classes will be offered at the following times: Monday, Wednesday, Friday at 3:30 o'clock; Wednesday and Friday at 4:30 o'clock, and Saturday at 11:30 o'clock. She will be assisted by Frances Battle, Dorothy Lee Parker, Jean Bostwick, Dot Parks in the instruction.

There is one more week to enroll in the class. Students who are interested may enroll by going to the pool at one of the times given above.

sights which continually arouse interest and admiration of tourists One thing that comes to mind about Key West is the standing in the middle of the main street, one can look down Duval Street at one end and the Atlantic ocean at the other. Many a time have I seen groups of people arriving in Key West by car for the first time, in the middle of the street the first thing and just stand—look—look. But first one way, then the other."

"Yes," added Edna, "and another interesting place that also the tourists is the beautiful estate of Ernest Hemingway, the author. It is in the same line of type of estate, and the house itself is enclosed within a high brick wall. It has a private swimming pool and everything." And not uninteresting is the man himself, as she described him. Seemingly a stickler for comfort, he wears shorts, sports shirts and moccasins day in and day out—he never appearing to the public in anything else—except upon special occasions. But then as Edna and Cleo reveal, everybody else wears practically the same thing for no conventional style of dress is observed in Key West. Everybody wears what he wants to

Navy Yard Reopened

The navy yard, which was closed during the Hoover administration and has recently been reopened, also attracts many visitors. "We are proud of that navy yard," Cleo and Edna declared. "You see, the opening of the yard brought scoudrons of planes—and men—and this, in a measure, brought greater prosperity to Key West. The army barracks were reinforced activity took on more of a hustle and the town was improved to quite some extent — especially since several fortification projects are now in progress. Everybody else is enthused over the coast defenses that just outside the three mile limit."

Opportunity for jobs seems to be less in Key West than in most American towns. One reason for this, say Cleo and Edna, is that there are fewer jobs to be had. And those which are available have become so weakened with the infusion of the Cuban and Spanish standards that working conditions and wages have deprived the middle class of decent positions. For the young people, school teaching offers the best opportunities, and this occupation seems to be the most prevalent one. Secretarial positions are the next most frequent, and many young people go into NYA work—serving, park supervising, and woodcraft.

Economic Status Evaluated

"Taking everything into account," they summarize, "Key West is a relatively prosperous

Badminton Final Played Tonight

Odds Tie with Evens In Games This Week

Both Odds and Evens will battle tonight for the badminton championship title. The match will be played in the gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

Both Odds and Evens won two sets each in the badminton games Wednesday afternoon in the gymnasium.

In the first set Paulette Nolan Even, played Margaret Carter two games. Since Paulette came out ahead in both games, a third was not played. The final scores were 11-1 and 11-2. Though Paulette won by a great margin, Margaret gave her stiff competition. After she became warmed up by the first game Ruth Thomas, Odd, defeated Mary Jane Medlin with 11-0 and 11-1 scores in the second set of singles.

The first set of doubles was played with Minnie Ratliff and Cornelia Watson, Odds, against Meta Helms and Marion Prveling These teams were well matched though the games were slightly lower than the usual. Mary Odds slated up 15-8 and 15-3 victories. Elizabeth Eanard and Norma McCree, Evens, scored 15-2 and 15-5 leads over Gene Bryan and Mary La King in the final set of doubles.

Helen Milam, Even, and Ruth Thomas, Odd, played one game of singles which Helen won 11-8 However, time would not allow another game of singles for Helen Milne the winner of a set. This was the closest game of the afternoon.

Officials for the games were Miss Rebecca Averil, scorer and umpire; Carese Brown and Tara Thomas, linesmen.

Malarial Parasite Studied

Parasitology Class Uses State Health Board's Campus Research Laboratory to Gain Practical Training

Through the facilities of the Division of Malarial Research of the state board of health, which is located in the basement of what was formerly the old infirmary, and which is operated with funds from the Rockefeller Foundation, the parasitology class has been receiving practical training in recognizing the malarial parasite and its development.

The class consists of only nine students and therefore being comparatively small, it could easily gain access to the laboratory equipment, which is much more complete and always more than ouch study than ordinary classroom facilities offer Blood specimens are taken from anemic and mosquitoes in various stages of development are available for the observation of the students, who meet in the research station at 2 o'clock each test.

For the past two weeks, the students have been studying the schizogonous cycle of the parasite, or the development of the parasite in man after it has been ejected from the salivary glands of the mosquito, under the direction of laboratory technician Miss Lucille Lenat. By means of oil-immersion microscopes which magnify objects 1,500 times, blood smears of people who have the three different types of malaria known to man are studied and analyzed as to distinguishing characteristics.

Female Is Master Examined

The human blood is examined in both thick and thin drops in which are "fixed" on slides with methyl alcohol. In the thin drops only one layer of blood cells show as it is spread over a large surface, and parasites can be more easily discerned in the individual cells. The stained slides are placed also in the process of examination under the oil-immersion lens. Each unlike the high-power dry and low-power dry lenses, can be projected into a film of oil spread over the blood smear. This enables the observer to gain the best view possible of the object which she wishes to examine.

Distinction between the three types of malaria is made through the appearance of the infected blood cell itself and through the development of the parasite which infect the cells. In Plasmodium Vivax, one type, there is an enlargement of the red cells, and the parasites are very large. Also each cell harboring a parasite in it has schiffner's dots, or tiny pink granules.

In Plasmodium Malariae, there is no enlargement of the cell, and the parasites are very small and compact. Usually there are no granules in the cells.

In Plasmodium Falciparum, usually only the young forms and sexual forms of the parasite are found.

Parasites Destroy Cells

Through their examinations of human blood, the students found that the malarial parasites live on the hemoglobin, red coloring matter, in the cells and finally destroy those cells which they inhabit.

The class will next study, under the directions of Mrs. Lulu Hall, malarial parasites in the mosquitoes which transmit them. In connection with this study, examination of and preparation instruction, on the eggs, larvae and pupae of mosquitoes will be given. Following that, the students will take up the investigation of the development of the parasite in the mosquito, of the parasite in man. In this study they will see how the mosquito becomes infected by biting a person having malaria, and then how the infection develops in the mosquito's stomach and finally reaches its salivary glands again —the fly then being prepared for the "host"—man.

Upon completing the study of the malarial parasite, the parasitology class plans to study parasitic worms and insects, and to take up hookworm detection, as part of their training to become laboratory technicians.

Tarpon Club Takes In Three Members

Three girls and one of eight trying out made the Tarpon Club Tuesday afternoon.

The new minnows are: Marcie McIntosh, Lois Vann and Ruth Smith. These new additions to the members after doing formation swimming and a short ballet, using the back crawl, front crawl, walla crawl and also surface dives.

Every Tuesday the minnows will practice formations to be in good form for possible pictures to be taken by Life magazine.

Since the president, Betty Barthloff, graduated last semester, the vice-president, Mary Collins, has become acting president.

Plans are being made for initiation to be held in the near future.

Students Give Hearts Away

Hearts beat faster on Valentine's day—and get around more, too. Even students' hearts. In studies have even been known to give professors their hearts on Valentine day, to completely do the spirits of the time affect them.

One class gave their professor their heart literally.

Professor Earl L. Vance, head of the journalism department, on coming into his journalism 401 class Tuesday, found the class trying their best to look innocent and studious while on his desk lay a mysterious looking package.

Though Mr. Vance does not admit it, he advanced toward the package like a presidential nominee advancing toward a bomb. It bore these words: "We only regret that we have but one heart to give the Master Thy Class."

Mr. Vance opened the package. In it was a piece of chocolate candy shaped like a heart covered paper heart.

Love makes the world go round.

Romantic Sentiments Hold Sway As Valentines Deluge Campus

Continued from page one

forth the greeting when tightly pressed fingers were passed along the row.

White tulips, pink carnations, red lovely fancy hyacinths, and fragrant violets were delivered to happy girls at the various dormitory offices as early as 8 o'clock messengers.

The chuckle of the day came from one wing of Landis hall's fourth floor, an exceptional floor, at that. In fact all the girls were "too divine" and are all desired Valentines . . . according to Western Union's Valentine greeting number 13. Every time Georgia and Florida came identical greetings to girls living on that floor, the messenger boy would say they appreciate the thought!

Lovely lace paper, gold and even blue heart-shaped boxes were by far the most popular gift during the festival and surrender varied the candy theme by writing but a clever greeting with candy hearts on a huge piece of paper.

But the height of something or other climaxed the entire day . . . The girl who received only one Valentines and two (2)gifts from one (1) fellow and then retired because he didn't write a letter!

Radium is worth about $25,000 a gram, and the entire world's supply is thought to amount to 700 grams, or about 24 ounces.

Dance Groups To Present Concert

Original Dances Will Be Program Feature

The three extra-curricular dance classes will present a spring concert on April 19 at 8:15 o'clock in the college auditorium. This concert will feature original compositions by the groups.

The advance class includes Margaret Clements, Mary Blanland, Alistair Everett, Dorothy Gibbs, Margaret Harrison, Patricia Mack, Janice Miller, Roberta Padgett, Minnie Ratliff, Gwen Stephenson, Carolyn Stowall, and Barbara Thomas.

The intermediate class is composed of Emma Cox, Mary Alford, Edith Erwin, Betty Brown, Amelia Gordy, Anna Frances McKay, Cornelia Whitson, Mary Jane Medlin, Eleanor Miller, Elizabeth Miller, and Marilene Dale.

The beginning class is just being formed.

Dance Group Will Repeat Demonstration Feb. 29

Miss Nelle Bond Dickinson, dance instructor, announced that a dance demonstration to be given in the big gymnasium February 29 at 8 o'clock. It will be a repeat program of the one given fall with a few additional dances. The demonstration being presented now for the freshman orientation classes and humanities classes but others may attend. The time concerning the dances will be included.

Betty Brown Is Elected New Play Night Leader

Betty Brown was elected new chairman of playnight at a W. A. A. meeting last week. The election was held to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Nancy White.

Plans for forthcoming novelty playnight programs will be discussed within the near future.

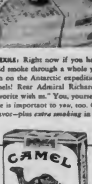
Play Has Final Showing Tonight

Continued from page one

hurst, property manager; Marta Crouch, business manager. Louise Usher, chairman of ushers. Miss Hazel Richardson, director.

Selections of the speech department this year have been "Your Town" and the Christmas Nativity pageant. Penny will be included in the season tickets which may be purchased for 40 cents.

U.S. ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION OFF FOR YEAR'S SURVEY



SLED DOGS...YEAR'S SUPPLY OF SLOW-BURNING CAMEL CIGARETTES ACCOMPANY ADMIRAL BYRD TO ANTARCTIC

DUKE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF NURSING
DURHAM, N. C.
The Diploma of Graduate Nurse is awarded after three years, and the Degree Bachelor of Science in Nursing after two additional years of approved college work before or after the course in Nursing. The entrance requirements are intelligence, character, high school graduation and one year of college work will be required. The annual tuition of $100 covers the cost of uniforms, books, student government fees, etc. Catalogues, application forms and information about college requirements may be obtained from the Admission Committee.

"MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF...MORE PUFFS PER PACK"...
That's how these three members of the U. S. Antarctic expedition tell of the advantages of their favorite cigarette...slow-burning Camels. Richard Maudlon, senior dog-driver (center), sums up when he says: "Slow burning is my measure of a milder, cooler, more flavorful smoke. I'd sledge a mile for a Camel." Nothing destroys a cigarette's delicate elements of flavor and fragrance like the excess heat of too-fast burning. Cigarettes that burn fast also burn hot. Camels are slower-burning...milder, mellower, and — naturally—cooler! Try Camels. Find out for yourself how slow-burning Camels give you more pleasure per puff...and more puffs per pack—more actual smoking (see right).

OFF TO VOLUNTARY EXILE. Right now if you had to choose the one and only brand of cigarette you would smoke through a whole year—you'd make sure you picked the right brand, wouldn't you? Well, that's exactly what these men did. Take that 3-year expedition took Camels! Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd explained: "Slow-burning Camels are a great favorite with us." You, yourself, may never go near the South Pole, but the right cigarette is important to you, too. Camels give you more mildness, extra coolness, and extra flavor—plus extra smoking in every pack. (See below.)

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

CAMELS — FOR MILDNESS, COOLNESS, AND FLAVOR — SLOW-BURNING COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Copyright, 1940, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

'O wad some power the giftie gie us To see oursel's as ithers see us'

Students have said jokingly at such times as quarters and semesters that they wish they could grade the faculty and occasionally one hears somebody say that we need a student committee on faculty affairs as well as our present faculty committee on student affairs. Although such remarks are generally lightly made and as lightly taken, they have a fundamentally sound basis that is well worth consideration. At some institutions this idea of student rating faculty is actually put into practice.

Take, for instance, Pennsylvania State College where early this year a campus-wide collegian poll of the faculty was taken by the students. The president of the college and the dean of men placed their approval on the survey, which was conducted to determine the teaching effectiveness of the entire college faculty.

President Ralph D. Hetzel said of the poll "If performed conscientiously and supervised intelligently, the faculty rating should be helpful to students and faculty alike."

Only one dean, who was frank in his criticism, registered disapproval to the survey. He based his disapproval on the fact that student appraisal, in many cases, is likely to be based on inadequate knowledge of the factors that enter into successful teaching, and in some cases might be influenced by personal bias. He went on to point out that instructors who are most popular with students are not necessarily the best teachers; in fact, he said quite frequently the opposite is true. He added that members of the faculty should and do value student opinion on the effectiveness of their classroom work, but student opinion is only one of several criteria, most of which are more important than this one.

Others, although they sided with a few points of this objector, did not oppose the general outline and purposes of the survey.

Other deans who favored the questionnaire, believed that it would instigate instructors to plan their work more carefully. Another said that he would get as much amusement out of reading the results of the survey as anyone else would, but that the plan had been tried at numerous other institutions and has never done any harm or good.

Of course any such plan would be full of short comings, but they could be openly faced and taken into consideration when evaluating the results. The criticism that answers to the survey would be colored by personal bias would not apply any more to student evaluation of faculty members than faculty evaluation of students.

Regardless of these few adverse criticisms of student appraisal of faculty members as it was carried out in this particular institution, we believe that the plan is worth trying and would like to see something of the sort tried here.

Welcome Mrs. Roosevelt

The arrival of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt here Saturday and the accompanying arrangements concerning the seating so that everyone, including townspeople and faculty as well as students and alumnae will have a chance to hear her talk, brings with realistic nearness our need for a larger auditorium. Although plans for such a structure have been drawn up there are no immediate prospects tat it will be built. Without a larger auditorium we will have to make the best of the situation as it is.

The cooperation of the entire student body, as outlined in the special convocation yesterday, will be needed to make the First Lady's visit here, although it will be all too short for us, a really successful one. More especially the members of the freshmen and sophomore classes should be thanked for their fine spirit of cooperation in giving up their places in the auditorium.

We all feel deeply honored in having Mrs. Roosevelt come to our campus and are looking forward to the privilege of hearing her. Let each of us show by her actions what we will not be able to express otherwise.

Many Happy Returns

Many happy returns to Dr. Conradi on his seventy-first birthday from the student body at Florida State College for Women.

The annual custom of serenading our president and the four class presidents giving him gifts from their respective groups are only outward manifestations of our deep inward feelings—too heartfelt to be expressed in words.

This marks the thirty-first year that Dr. Conradi has served in his present capacity. He has watched the school grow from a small women's college to the large modern, progressive institution that it is today—the third largest state women's college in the country. This familiar figure on campus has seen the enrollment, equipment, and buildings increase by leaps and bounds. For thirty years he has given freely of his talents, of his time, and most important, of himself.

May this birthday be a very happy one, President Conradi.

Your Government..... Collegiate Comebacks

Very few of us realize the why's and wherefore's of the social regulations here. We are swept along in the whirl of college life, dressing for the artist series, or not going to dinner with bandanas on our heads merely because it seems to be the thing that either is or isn't done. Yet back of all our social activities is a committee which formulates our rules and policies about everything from dances to the manners in the dining room. This committee is the social committee. Your Government this week will discuss the set-up of the committee, its membership and functions.

Set-Up and Membership . . . .

First of all, the social committee is a standing committee of student senate, with a chairman who is a senior appointed by senate and who has a vote in that body. The chairman with the assistance of the president of C. G. A., appoints the 26 students who serve on the sub-committees of the social committee and as members of the main committee itself. There are eight members from the committee on social standards which is headed by Mary Allen; eight members from the dance committee, headed by Jane Price; three from the off-campus committee; seven from each dormitory. In addition to these this year it also has a sub-committee, called the dining hall committee included in its make-up. Together, the 26 girls and their chairman try to make social conditions such that they will be not only gracious and pleasant, but practical and convenient as well, for, after all, the social activities here are as an integral part of a college as is academic life.

Social Standards Committee . . . .

It is the social standards committee with its eight members which does more of the actual policy forming and functioning than one would expect of the social committee: the others, such as the dining room or dance committees serve in regard to their own division of the social life on campus.

It seems that whenever the reason underlying any sort of rule or regulations is to be explained, one begins by saying, "When a large group of people live together it is necessary." Here, again, it is necessary to say that with a community the size that we must have our social regulations. It would be a simple matter for all of us, cut off from contact with the rest of the world as we are, to let ourselves go completely and to degenerate to the level of ignorant people. To keep our own self-respect we must make certain incentive to make life living rather than just existing. However, it goes deeper than just mere self-interest. Our college years are supposedly our most learned years: in addition to gaining knowledge the greater part of what we have studied should still be fresh in our minds. Yet no one could consider herself educated, or even in the process of being educated, did she not have a certain amount of culture, a certain amount of poise, and a certain amount of knowledge of social patterns. All the girls at Florida State college do not have the same backgrounds. It should be, therefore, a meeting place and melting pot for the wide variety of ideas concerning culture and courtesy.

The social standards committee must set up regulations and policies of conduct which will conform with the usual social patterns, yet will meet with the approval and convenience of the students. It is this continuing wisdom makes the policy that students should dress for each of the artist series. The reason for this is twofold—first, it is good for the morale of the students to have to dress up, and to get away from their usual routine; second, it is but simple courtesy which we owe to the artists coming here to draw for them. Another example of the work of the committee which meets both social standards and the convenience of the students is the request that we wear slacks only on the back part of the campus. This dining hall committee has not been seen by the public in slacks, yet we can go anywhere else we find it necessary to go wearing them.

Dining Hall Committee . . . .

As the set-up and work of the dance committee has already been developed in this column we can proceed to the discussion of the dining hall committee. This is a relatively new committee, functioning under the chairmanship of Nettie Young, and made up of the social directors of the residence halls, the chairman of house chairmen, the chairman of social committee, and chairman of the social standards committee, fro mthe dining room there is a committee advisor in the person of Miss Hamilton, who sits at one table rather from each dining room, and the hostess from each table.

The purpose of this division of the social committee is to set up standards of conduct which will tend to a gracious and pleasant atmosphere in the dining halls, and to gain the cooperation of the students in maintaining these ideals. The committee feels that it is not too much trouble for students to dress for dinner on Sunday and Wednesday, to remain at their tables until everyone has finished, to refrain from wearing bandanas to dinner, to eat food only from their own table, and to be as careful of their manners as they would be at home. The above three however are not important. Rather, it is conducting ourselves in such a way that mealtime will prove a pleasure and a relaxation for us, that is important.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace. . .

In convocation, Tuesday, we voted to make the chairman of N.S.P.A a third vice-president of C.G.A. I, for one, voted for the bill as the lesser of two evils. At least, we said, we can elect the chairman of N.S.P.A. However, the vast majority of students are, I believe, unsatisfied with this arrangement.

The plea that this new title for the chairman of N.S.P.A will give the students a greater voice in executive council and college council is a little weak to many of us. In the first place, that doesn't necessarily represent the student body! If they do, as it seems they must, then they would see it as their business to attend N.S.P.A. and find what is being discussed. It does not seem necessary that executive council reporter of N.S.P.A.'s activities be the chairman of N.S.P.A. Then too, despite the best of intentions on the part of the chairman or on the part of the members of executive and college councils, it would be hard to avoid guidance of these councils of N.S.P.A.'s topics and activities. On the surface, this does not seem to be undesirable, but in the long run I believe it would be With continued judicial influence, the meeting would grow to be just another meeting. C.G.A. with the few straggling students, not C.G.A. members, present, lending a weak voice at one time or another to say "Yes" or "No" or "Perhaps."

Is that what is to become of student opinions? Is there no place we can go to meet in a large body, unfettered by outside influence, talking and arguing about what we are interested in, drawing our speakers from opposing groups; discussing whole-heartedly campus problems—even campus politics—without fear of over-stepping judicial chalk marks or treading on the chairman's toes?

The suggestion I would make for N.S.P.A.'s chairman is this. Let her be elected by the student body as a whole, having no part in senate or the two councils any more than any other of us, being just another name on the ballot, not the third vice-president of C.G.A. Certainly we would not lose by it. And we would have the N.S.P.A. that should be—a place of untrized discussion.

Maybe we're wrong, but in our humble opinion campus wit hit a new low with the advent of Confucisiums. As a striking example; "Confucius he says 'Man who sits on tack is better off'." See what we mean?

* * * * *

We gather FRP. TJE column from Gainesville last week that the lads down yonder don't like the Tallahassee sense of humor. That being the case they probably don't see anything funny in their being disappointed in Hedy Lamarr. We can see them working a crossword puzzle sitting on a streetcar with Helen of Troy—not to mention the fact that Hedy is probably nabbing her nails to a nothing while she worries about what Thelma Todd's eyes have that she ain't got.

* * * * *

Comment on spring inventory—
Spring is here, spring is here
Or so the poet said
And nature's dressed in bright new green
But I am in the red.

* * * * *

Comment heard outside of prom last weekend: "Oh well next year we can go to Sophomore Hop!" Isn't it nice to be hopeful.

* * * * *

And from the exchanges comes some advice to unhappy Husbands—"Quit your Naggin."

* * * * *

Just when we thought that anyone who managed to stay up here after the recent slaughter of innocents, we heard that a certain teacher told a student, "Your brain either ought to be cultivated or plowed under—I can't tell which right now."

* * * * *

One of our campus wits actually thinks the following is funny:

	Guess how old I am?
	21?
	No
	24?
	No
	23?
	No. Try 22.
	22?
	Nope.

All of which proves that it take all kinds of people to make a world.

* * * * *

After hanging around the post office all day Wednesday in vain we were very happy to find that one of the newspapers in the state has offered to print, free of charge any ads submitted by members of the fairer sex with matrimonial intentions during leap year. "What," we want to know "are we waiting for?"

* * * * *

And speaking of valentines, we heard that one girl got seven telegrams and four boxes of candy. Of such are revolutions bread (which is what the majority of us ate while she was making a glutton of herself).

* * * * *

From the Biblical quotations explaining why 250 of us dropped by the wayside in the recent massacre was "No man may pass through because of the beasts." Interpreting it for the benefit of parents who just don't understand "No man (or woman) shall pass because of the beastly exams."

* * * * *

The North Carolina paper says that one of its alumnae who is working in a library on the lower east side of New York was asked for a football story by ragged-little-urchin-with-a-dirty-face. She told him that she thought they were all out, but that he could look for himself if he wanted to. A few minutes later he came back and uttered some profanity which the dictionary will regard-little-urchins-with-dirty-faces-in-lower-East-side which we can't print here. After informing the librarian with the above-mentioned naughty words that she didn't know what she was talking about, he produced his football story—The Hunchback of Notre Dame.

* * * * *

We found out today that tryouts for next years columbists began next week. We ain't shedding no tears. In fact everybody's happy. You like it because you don't have to read this stuff any more. The girls who are going to try out for it are happy because they don't know any better. We're happy because we can maybe have some friends again. Isn't this a lovely world?

* * * * *

An anonymous rowing lady penned the following lines in a melancholy mood the day before Valentine's Day. Her forbodings, we learned later, were utterly groundless—lucky girl!

The door bell will be ringing.
And sisters will be singing
Of love and candy.

And here I will be sittin'
Maybe do a little knittin'—
Ain't that dandy.

I'm fast a complain pettin'
From my elbow and my frettin'
About red hearts and things.

Too many questions they'll be askin'
While smugly they sit baskin'
In what the fourteenth brings.

I'm feelin' low and cynical,
I'm awful sad and mad.
I want just one small Valentine
To make my poor heart glad.

I swear by all that's holy if I meet another beam.
And I don't get a single line—
I'll scream, I'll scream, I'll scream!

Magazine Jottings. . . .

Sooner or later there comes a time in a magazine's life when its editors feel that they must get out an anniversary issue. Why, only the Divine Power that watches over publishers, knows.

So for months ahead of time they scurry hither and thither marshalling writing talent and artistry. They send out advertisements and subscription blanks. The readers are confused that they begin to automatically throw away anything that looks like a subscription blank. Then one day the Enfante Terrible emerges on the stands

The reaction of the public at this point is usually crescendo. They either utter a collective howl of rage at finding their habits thus disturbed, or they eye it apathetically and wonder which next great institution will fall beneath the axe of Modernism.

In consequence when a magazine puts out an anniversary issue and not only manages to evade a bazaar sovereignty but even to maintain a certain degree of normality in its contents, there is time out for a cheer from this corner. The Nation has done this—and with a 75th anniversary number, too!

Of course we admit that this issue of the Nation (February 10, is decidedly thicker than usual, and that it has a heavier cover upon tinted and illustrated. It also has more than the ordinary amount of advertisements and editorial pats on the back for itself. But with all this, it is one of the best special editions put out since Scribner's turned the trick about five years ago.

The magazine is divided into three large sections: the Past, America: 1940 and Looking Abroad. This, of course, excludes the editorials, books and arts section, comments, miscellaneous poetry and so on.

An illustrious collection of writers has been gathered together, including the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Oswald G. Villard, Lewis Gannet, J. F. Stone, Kenneth Crawford, Max Lerner, Archibald MacLeish, Carl Sandburg, Raymond Swing, Nathaniel Peffer, Thomas Mann, George Kaufman and Louis Fischer.

Now with this collection of literary strong-arm men, it is difficult to select a typical article to review. By typical we mean a logical, clearly-written article on some pertinent subject dealing with trouble in all the articles in these departments. But for titles, well, Incitement to Treason, by Raymond Swing struck us as being the snippiest title in the collection. Just read the first sentence:

"The Allies frankly hope the removal of Hitler and Hitlerism will be the act of elements within the German nation. They are not talking Hitler's armies; they are bringing pressure on Hitler's followers, deliberately making life difficult for them so they will be driven to find release and relief by acquiescence in the overthrow of the Hitler-regime." In other words, the British and French policy is incitement to treason. It is an open invitation to some group to seize power in Germany.

This paragraph at the beginning of the article contains the nucleus of the author's whole idea. Only Mr. Swing won't mean anything—not unless the power this time is diffused and not concentrated under one head.

Therefore, the whole idea of a good peace is an uprising of the German people themselves under strong leaders who would take Hitler's crown and diffuse his power.

And the Allies can help with promises.

They can help by realizing that no peace can be true unless the results of that peace fit into the social fabric of Europe. And unless the Allies help Germany diffuse her power that is, smother the power among many heads — for any arrangement that will stop actual warfare, whether it be peace or not."

In brief only frank talking and deep thinking can help us. It is not peace that we want, we will have to establish a temperate but firm imperialism on Central and South America, and we will see that it has a two-ocean navy. It is peace we want, we must work for it.

However, this is by no means the only article of great importance in the Nation. We recommend "Russia—23 Years After," by Louis Fischer, and "War and the Election" by Kenneth Crawford. And if you still have an aversion to the Nation, remember that you think it prints only "high-brow stuff;" read "The Great Caviar Riots" by George Kaufman and "A Day's Wooing" by Katherine Anne Porter. They both classic examples of everything that humor should be.

—VIVIAN AHLSWEDE

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

JEANNETTE MILLER ..... Editor-in-Chief
MABEL BENNETT ..... Associate Editor
MURIEL DUNN, LOUISE HUCK ..... Managing Editors
VIVIAN AHLSWEDE ..... News Editor

Exchanges, Polly Dinkins; Clarinda Nave, Margaret Painter; Critics, Margaret Paul; Assistant, Margaret Anne Sparks; Race Horses, Editor Sarah Wertz; Feature Editor Ira Bell.

Reporters, Harriet Reaves, Bertha Rood, Mary Catherine Rose, Louise Bonner, Mary Caldwell, Greta Carter, Martinez Dale, Dixie Dunlap, Betty Ann Reino Emmanuel, Annie Dorothy Fuller, Hardee Kirby, Jo Hickman, Emma Jean Rigby, Bettye Bryan Lewis, Mary Ann Lewis, Mary Elizabeth Lewis, Mary Frances Cooley, Velma Pate, Grace Rushing, Jolene Sullivan, Ann Tanner, Jodine Thomasson, Isabella Waterhouse, Betty Jane Yadah Walker.

BUSINESS STAFF

GRACE SPARKMAN ..... Business Manager
CHARLA PENDER ..... Assistant Business Manager
VELMA TURNER ..... Circulation Manager
MARY GLENN GRIMES ..... Advertising Manager

Entered as second class mail matter January 25, 1913, at the postoffice at Tallahassee Fla under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Members, National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association.

Representative for National Advertising
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y.
CHICAGO · BOSTON · LOS ANGELES · SAN FRANCISCO

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

Of The World

For Finland . . . .

Tuesday the Senate passed a bill increasing the expert-import bank's capital by $100,000,000. It may extend its lending money to Finland and China to help fight their defensive wars with Russia and Japan.

The measure, which will make the bank's capital $200,000,000, authorizes it to make non-military loans of $17,500,000 each to Finland and China. The measure now goes over to the house, where it will probably be approved very soon.

Although neither Finland nor China is mentioned by name in the measure, it is understood that these countries are the beneficiaries from its passage. The bill requires that the bank, at its discretion, may loan up to $20,000,000 of "new" money to either country and specifically bans military loans.

Meanwhile Britain has given the necessary formal permission to volunteer to fight for Finland in the war against Russia. This action, which has been under way for some time, regularizes the enlistment of British volunteers.

Only those over 21 years of age, who for other reasons are not going to be called for Britain's own military services, are free to join the forces.

It is said that thousands of men from all parts of the empire are offering their services to the Finnish recruiting bureau, though no number has as yet been known to have reported for Finland yet.

Finish War . . . .

According to recent reports, Finland's Mannerheim line is still holding up under the strain. Though it has been badly beat in places. After the successive days of Russian assaults of tremendous fierce it is hoped reinforcements for the line still stands pat.

Finland has acknowledges loss in a "few foremost positions" to the Reds on the Summa sector where the fighting is heaviest. However, the Finns say the Russians were repulsed before they penetrated any further.

Continued resistance of the Finnish troops on the Summa sector is miraculous, even the Finns admit. They declare that Russia's few gains in this area have not yet Reds throughout the thousand miles of war materials.

Russian reports of the fight, however, say that the Red army's drive is developing successfully. That the Finns have suffered many losses.

Communiques from each of the two countries are still to be met, daily, to themselves. Just which is the "powers that be" are going to fight?

Although Finland has thus far astounded the world with her head fight to repulse invading Reds, it is certain that she can not last much longer without assistance. Britain and the United States' efforts to aid her will no doubt ward off little Finland's day of reckoning, but that he is bound to come unless she receives much more than the passive assistance she has gotten thus far.

Navy Bill . . . .

A record peace time navy appropriation bill, providing $567,-000,000 for the fiscal year 1941, was passed by the House of Representatives Wednesday.

The bill would provide funds to start work on 18 new combat ships and five auxiliaries; to purchase 30 new planes and to continue work on 15 warships and 18 auxiliary vessels already under construction.

Provisions of the appropriations bill say that the United States must have a greater navy than any other nation in order to protect her neutrality. The bill was presented to the House as "a by-product of the unrest in international affairs" and not a "product of militarism."

Methodists Plan Rally Sunday

Over 1000 Expected At Youth Meeting

As part of a nation-wide recognition of youth-movement during the month of February the Methodist student organization with 1500 forces with approximately 1,000 young people from the Tallahassee district is a Youth Crusade Rally at the Trinity Methodist church on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. This rally, which will be one of eight assemblages throughout the state, will introduce a series of five sermons having as their main theme the subjects and problems advanced by youth.

Speakers for the occasion will be Dr. Walter Towner, personal leader of young people's work in the South-eastern and Methodist Jurisdiction from Nashville, Tenn., whose subject will be "Youth in the Modern Advance," and Virginia Perry, Florida State College girl who will speak upon "For What Is Youth Advancing."

The college choir will have charge of the music, which will be the outstanding feature of the program. The opening selection will be an anthem, "I Will Follow Thee." Five hymns will comprise the rest of the singing.

A four-point program the Youth Crusade is now in its second year of operation. Crusades been instituted by youth leaders throughout the country in the spring of 1937. The aim is to thoroughly approved by the Colleges Bishop, executive board of the bishops of the Methodist church, and rapidly evolved into a stigantic crusade to enlist the aid of youth in the cause of Christ.

Its objectives are to deepen the spiritual experiences of present church members, to reach and establish those outside the church, to make the life and teachings of Jesus vitally effective, to discover the nature and purpose of the church, to give specific preparation for the tasks of the church, and to participate in the world mission of the Methodist church.

For this year, the specific goals toward which the crusade movement is advancing are peace, temperance, race relations, citizenship, service to the community, and loyalty to the church.

These goals, as seen from the crusade standpoint, are joined in a band with the four "rules of action," which are the mainspring of the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Christian discipleship, disciplinary intelligence, and abundant living.

Francis Black, president of the local group, is in charge of the program announcements and opening prayer, and Dorothy Mc-Neil will serve as pianist for the rally.

On March 3 programs on youth's emphasis will terminate in a Youth Sunday, the morning which will center about the theme "Methodist Youth Advancing in Christian Service." Later on Good Friday, March 22, this will be followed up by consecrations on the part of Methodist students for relief funds for the indigent of China.

Valentine Avalanche Descends

February 14 meant smiles and heart throbs for the students at Florida State college, but for the colleges postmaster, Mr. George Atkinson, and his student assistants, it meant long hours of concentrated toil when approximately 1,800 letters and 500 packages arrived in the morning mail on Valentine's Day.

English to Speak Here February 22

In observation of George Washington's birthday, next Thursday at 11:30 a. m. Colin English, state superintendent of public instruction, will speak at a special convocation for F.S.C.W. students. This will mark the opening of Americanism week and the beginning of talks in schools, essay contests, and public meetings sponsored by the Congress for Democracy, according to Dr. Robert Lee Cousins, superintendent of Florida high school.

Classes will be dismissed at 11:30 Thursday for a half holiday by proclamation of Governor Cone.

On February 22 at 4 o'clock in the English auditorium of the State Congress for Democracy, will open a series of Forum meetings. Another feature of the program will be the presentation of citizenship certificates to new voters in the county.

There will be a parade at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of Washington's birthday.

The Congress for Democracy grew out of the Conference on Education for Democracy in New York last summer. It has as its purpose the arousing of interest in the privilege of democracy.

World Conference for Christian Youth, "Christian Victor," will be the theme of a series of 10 sermons which will begin on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock and will follow the Amsterdam set-up which Charles D. Hurry will outline. At 4 o'clock there will be arranged later, the seminars will include such topics as "Christian Youth and the Social Order" by Dr. Searle Bates, "Christian Youth in a World at War" by Dr. W. O. Lewis, "Christian Youth and the World Missionary Enterprise," by Miss Sirac, "Christian Youth in a World of Conflicting Loyalties," by the Rev. Mr Stuntz, "Jewish and Christian Youth" by Professor Hoffman, and "Christian Youth and the Call to Christian Service" by the Rev. Mr. Pulton.

Florida State students who will act as chairmen of the seminars with co-chairmen from the University of Florida, include Ruth Reeves, Florence Gressof, Janet Wells, Betty Nickinson, and Virginia Bateson.

Banquet to Be Held

An outstanding event of the banquet in the college dining hall on Saturday afternoon at 6:30 a discussion of "The Ambassadors With Tensions Released," will be led by Dr. Hoffman, who has been known particularly because former Chautauqua audiences.

On Sunday morning at 10 o'clock following a business meeting beginning at 8:30 a worship service open to all students will be led by Miss Ila Sircar and the Rev. Mr. Stuntz. A talk, "The Call of the Modern World to Christian Youth," by Rev. C. Darby Fulton, will immediately follow. At 11:30 Dr. Baric will lead a service of commitment.

Appointments with ambassadors

Dates Set for Two Summer Sessions

Dates for the two summer sessions this year at Florida State college have been announced as June 10-July 20 and July 22-August 24.

The first session will last six weeks, with the second one lasting five, making a total of 11 weeks.

Every summer school, which is co-educational, offers opportunities for three types of study. These include regular college work leading to a degree, college courses for teachers who wish to satisfy the state certificate requirements, and graduate courses for those who wish to continue their work beyond the bachelor's degree.

Methods of admission are by certificate or examination. Certificates will be accepted from the approved high schools of Florida. From any accredited high school or other state which is accredited by the state university from any accredited college or university. Candidates not admitted by certificate will be required to take written examinations upon entrance subjects.

may be made from 2 until 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon by request.

Miss Ila Sircar will preside over the college Y.W.C.A. vespers at 5 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, and beginning at 6 o'clock the ambassadors will be available for the various student religious centers for informal group meetings. Dr. Conrad Hoffman, Jr., will be at the Baptist conference room and Ann Franklin, Marion Preeling, Helen Irene Prend, Marion Gadduan, Kathryn Scott, Kathryn Cowart, Anna Ganas, Anna Gayford, Mary Gelene Jane Goodley.

Katherine Graham, Betty Graves, Florence Gregory, Virginia Hampton, Mary Anna Hampton, Gerasidine Harbeson, Mary Frances Harder, Carol Harper, Margaret Harrison, Annie Belle Hartsfield, Mildred Hath Hearon, Mary Anne Henry, Reba Henry, Dorothy Hickman, Eleanor Hooker, Patricia Robert, Lois Clare Hoder, Lucy Beth Holding, Evelyn Hollis, Margaret Janice Hornbeak, Nancy Horney, Edna Mae Howard, Betsy Howe, Dorothy Durham, Mary Elizabeth Hudnall, Davene Hunter, Elizabeth Hunter Margaret, Helen Hutchinson, Mary Carolyn Nan Ingram, Helen Jeremiah, Elizabeth Jones, Frances James, Marjorie Jessup, Wilma Johns, Carolyn Johnson, Frances Johnston, Doris Jones, Elizabeth Jones, Ella Maude Jones, Mildred Jones, Dorothy Jones, Anastasia Kastalis, Marilyn Keating, Virginia Louise Keir, Roxilu Kelton, Harriet Elizabeth Kent, Edna

Nooney Reports On Press Club Trip

Press club members heard a talk on the trip made to Gainesville to visit the Press Club and made plans for the programs of second semester at their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Sara Nooney and members about going to Gainesville. Only juniors and seniors of the club went. Bertha Mundell was the editor with Sara Nooney acting as managing editor. Other staff members were Margaret Ann, wire editor; Margaret Pattner, society editor, and Sally Rainey, sports editor.

President Nooney announced that Miss Helen Grattgner, a student at the college, will sell some of her experiences as a reporter on the Miami Herald at the meeting on February 27.

Charles P. Heiffinstein, editor and publisher of the Suwannee Democrat, a member of the state board of control, is expected to be the guest speaker for the March 5 meeting. Mrs. Bronnt Myers, advertising manager of the Suwannee Daily Democrat will be the guest speaker on March 19.

The Press club will have a forum at the meeting on April 9. Bertha Mundell, Margaret Ann, Harriet Benson were named on a committee to select the subject and invite guests for the discussion.

The open membership period of the Press club has begun and will continue through February. All students who are interested in journalism are invited to become members of the club during this time. It will be the first opportunity for freshmen to participate in this activity.

pet, entertainment: Elizabeth Ann Bryan, chairman of the dance program: Frances Rogers, music, and Elizabeth Whittington, tickets, equipment and act; and general chairman of the seminars will be Sara Nooney, who is also secretary of the 1940 Youth conference, and Lucille Arnold is the publicity chairman.

Registrar Lists 367 Students on Approbation

Continued from Page One

Marguerite Lee, Leonore Marjorie Driggers, Theresa, Alvarine Dube, Mary Belle Duncan, Sara Duncan, Winnifred Gene Dupree, Elizabeth Durrance, Mary Poy, June Marie Durrell, Frances Eckland, Kathryn Eckland, Mary Evelyn Elvina, Rachel Erwin, Alleldar Everett, Elizabeth Fain, Frances Fairbanks, Lorraine Faulds, Marion Fernald, Betty Ann Ferran, Mrs. Frances Fleming, Catherine Fuller, Bette Rose Pitts, Paulina Plaka, Marion Pollard, Mary Polston, Mae Belle Ford, Carrie Lee Forehand, Ellen Fortune, Elizabeth Ann Franklin, Marion Preeling, Helen Irene Prend, Marion Gadduan, Kathryn Scott, Kathryn Cowart, Anna Ganas, Anna Gayford, Mary Gelene Jane Goodley.

Katherine Graham, Betty Graves, Florence Gregory, Virginia Hampton, Mary Anna Hampton, Gerasidine Harbeson, Mary Frances Harder, Carol Harper, Margaret Harrison, Annie Belle Hartsfield, Mildred Hath Hearon, Mary Anne Henry, Reba Henry, Dorothy Hickman, Eleanor Hooker, Patricia Robert, Lois Clare Hoder, Lucy Beth Holding, Evelyn Hollis, Margaret Janice Hornbeak, Nancy Horney, Edna Mae Howard, Betsy Howe, Dorothy Durham, Mary Elizabeth Hudnall, Davene Hunter, Elizabeth Hunter Margaret, Helen Hutchinson, Mary Carolyn Nan Ingram, Helen Jeremiah, Elizabeth Jones, Frances James, Marjorie Jessup, Wilma Johns, Carolyn Johnson, Frances Johnston, Doris Jones, Elizabeth Jones, Ella Maude Jones, Mildred Jones, Dorothy Jones, Anastasia Kastalis, Marilyn Keating, Virginia Louise Keir, Roxilu Kelton, Harriet Elizabeth Kent, Edna

Elizabeth Kimbrell, Mrs. Ibex King, Jean Amanda Kirby, Mary Louise Kirkpatrick, Dorothea Kneppel, Mary Jane Lambeth, Eunice Lamon, Dorothy Lane, Wilhelmina Lee, Georgia Lorraine Leedy, Elizabeth Leffler, Edna Louise Lelbovit.

List Continued

Rosetta Leonard, Lucy Lester, Mary Alice Lester, Ada Jane Lewis, Frances Lewis, Ray Dennis Lillegren, Sarah Elizabeth Lisee, Margaret Jean Lisee, Elizabeth Lewis, Marguerite Love, Ermestine Makemson, Virginia Makemson, Irene Estelle Manning, Frances Marchesseau, Betty Markham, Carol Martin, Mrs. Mary Martin, Annie Leuria Mathews, Martha Ann Mattox, Hope Mc-Clain, Lanie Mae McDonald, Marjorie McClure, Jean Catherine McCord, Alice Mae McDonald, Jeanne McElheran McDowell, Mrs. Gertrude McGaun, Mary Mc-Kay, Maudelle Lucile McKinnon, Jayne Mendelson, Ida Merrill, Eleanor Miller, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, Joan Miller, Virginia Miller, Dorothy Miles, Marie Mitchell, Dorothy Mitchell, Jean Hazel Mitchell, Sonia Mitchell, Susan Mitchell, Dorothy Moe, Virginia Monroe, Mary Ann Morgan, Margaret Morgan, Marjorie Morrison, Pauline Allee Morrow, Paula Jeanne Mosley, Eleanor Drake Mullins, Ela Genevieve Murphy, Martha Jessica Murphy, Catherine Neel, Dorothy Nickerson, Mary Elizabeth Nicklinson, Mabel Nihoul, Mary Adeline Nollan, Josette Nolan, Sara Nooney, Edith Ott.

Dorothy Overman, Anna Carolyn Oxley, Frances Elizabeth Parker, Velma Pate, Marie Patterson, Margaret Ann Patterson, Martha Pattishall, Alexandra Peckham, Myra Pennington, Martha Dent Perry, Virginia Perry, Gertrude Philmon, Phillbeck, Emily Susan Phillips, Anne Pierce.

Mary Elizabeth Pollard, Mary Post, Mrs. Kathryn Powell, Mary Alice Tucker, Laura Powell, Prentice Pruitt, Sarah Margaret Quincey, Minnie Ratliff, Dorothy Ann Reagan, Mary Ann Rehkin, Elizabeth Rickman, Lucile Ribord, Mary Frances Robinson, Martha Robbins, Ina Margaret Robinson, Evelyn Rodeney, Ruth Rogers, Patricia Ross, Merryday Rosser, Ella Russell, Catherine Ann Saunders, Ila Scharfschwerdt, Edith Schivendor, Rose Scott, Margaret Mary Scott, Edith Selver, Barbara Sexton, Eleanor Shaffer, Mary Shevalia, Frances Vivian Slade, Mary Elizabeth Simmons, Mary Catherine Smith, Nell Smith, Mrs. Reba Southwell, Iris Sperber, Mary Stapleton, Mary Slade, Rachel Stein, Gwen Rose Stephenson, Virginia Stewart, Glenn Stivender, Evelyn Stowall, Martha Stubberg, Bonnie Sue Sullivan, Ruth Suhr, Geraldine Sweat, Elenor Lee Sweet, Virginia Tacker, Betty Ann

First Voters Note

If you care to receive a citizenship certificate at the Congress on Democracy ceremonies on Washington's birthday, be sure to slip this item, write your name in the blank space and mail it to Mrs. Dan Fitzgerald, 838 Beverly Court, Tallahassee, or leave it at the college book store.

This will entitle you to a seat in the section being reserved for first voters.

I.

having come of age, plan to participate in my first election this year and will attend the Leon County Congress for Democracy ceremonies at the Leon high school auditorium on Thursday evening, February 22nd, at 8 o'clock, at which time I will receive my citizenship certificate.

Library Acquires Valued Additions

Of special interest in the library are the recently added original books on early American history.

These books, dating as far back as 1726, and secured from the Mc-Gregor foundation, are some of the most valuable books in this country. They are as follows: The Manuscrips Diary of F. P. Cowdrey, 1840-1850, The History General de los Hechos de Los Castellanos en Los Islas, by Antonio de Herrera, and published in Madrid in 1726, and the History of the First Discovery and Settlement of Virginia, by William Stith, published in 1747.

Outstanding in this group is Domestic Slavery in the United States, by Jesse Torrey. This book is one of the first written on slavery in this country. It was published in 1817. There is also the Diary of the Expedition Ponce in Flaa de Pensacola, by Galvez. This diary is without a distinguishable date, and it is written in Spanish.

Magazines which have been added to the library since January, 1940, are the American Journal of Psychiatry, the Journal of Social Hygiene, the Public Opinion Quarterly, the Yale Law Journal, the American Journal of Medicine, the Living, and the Transient.

Bioraphies which have been added since November are: Master of the Whirlwind, by Bond Boone, by Leonard Cauby; Brisbane and Hearst, Lord of Gan, Salmon, by Oliver Carlson; A Goodly Fellowship, by M. E. Chase; Cis American Women in the Attempt at Education, by Frasier Hunt; Philip Messinger, by George Chapman; Forests and Comparative Education, by L. Duroselli; Far My Own, by Mary Knight; I Was a Shareropper, by H. N Knwe; Dorothy Dix, Projector, Samuhon, by E. Marsha; A Woman's Place, by Elizabeth Cutting; Jane Addams, by Putman; Maud, by I M. Rutherfurd; Abraham Lincoln: The Years of War, by Carl Sandburg and Mary Todd, by George Dixby.

Taylor, Mary Arnett Taylor, Jeanette Tharpe, Grace Thiele, Barbara Thomas, Lynette Thompson, Marianna Thompson, Nell Thompson, Sara Jane Thompson, Louise Thrasher.

List Concluded

Jeanne Tillotson, Dorothy Townsend, Frances Trantham, Avis Tucker, Laura Elizabeth Turbyfan, Jane Anna Urbhan, Jane Urban, Clifton Van Brunt, Margaret Louise Van Hess, Corrine Vann, Polly Venning, Rae Venning, Mary Vergowe, Helen Vogt, Margaret Rae Vort, Katherine Von Dohlen, Harriet Walker, Edna Louise Warren, Mary Louise Cornelia Watson, Joan Weaver, Elizabeth Anne Webb, Marian Webster

Constitutional Change Passed

By accepting the constitutional change which was brought up in convocation last Tuesday the student body gave its consent for the abolition of the present N.S.F.A. executive committee and the creation of a third vice-president who will act as chairman of the student forum and serve as the campus representative of N.S.F.A. The third vice-president will automatically become a member of the executive committee of C.O.A. and college council.

Taking the place of the old forum committee, which was established during the 1935-36 session, a new student forum will be set up with the newly created vice-president acting as chairman, assisted by an executive committee. This committee will be composed of one representative from each of the classes, to be elected at the first forum following the installation of the new chairman.

The third vice-president will automatically become a member of the executive of C.O.A. and college council. She will receive all communications from the national headquarters of the student federation, will present these ideas in forums and executive council meetings, and will notify the national office about the activities on this campus.

French Club Plans Varied Program

A varied program consisting of a skit, singing, games, and a French talk has been planned for the French club meeting in Brownell lounge this evening at 7:30 o'clock. There will be a short meeting for officers immediately afterward.

Members of the club will answer roll call with French idiomatic. A prize will be awarded to the winner of the French spelling bee which will follow the roll call.

A French playlet teaching how to make three apples out of two will be presented by Frances Hanlon, Lola Lastex, Hazel Cantrell, and Ruth Kezers.

A short talk on the social classes in France will be given by Dorothy Gibbs.

FIRST SIGN OF SPRING?
THE BABY CHICKS
in
VAN BRUNT & YON'S WINDOWS
Seek it First at VAN BRUNT & YON, INC.
YON'S HARDWARE

DUKE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
DURHAM, N. C.
For those of serious words are given only to those who may be taken completion, in three and four years. Requirements for admission: Three years of college work including Chemistry, Physics, and Biology. The minimum requirement is Character and three years of college work. Catalogue and application forms may be obtained from the Secretary of Admissions.

BENNETT'S College Inn Pharmacy
Helena Rubinstein's Once a Year Sale!
20% OFF on these famous beauty preparations for one week only!
FRESH BANANA SPLIT . . 12c
Rich Marshmallow Whipped Cream
WHITE HOUSE SODA . . 10c
Two Dips Ice Cream and Whipped Cream
HOT CHOCOLATE FUDGE SUNDAE 15c
With Banana Whip
NEAPOLITAN SUNDAE . . 15c
Three Spoons Ice Cream, Fresh Peaches with Ice Cream
HOT CHEESE BURGER ON HOT BUN . . HOT CHOC. 25c
$2.25 Vita Ray Face Powder and Cleansing Cream—Special $1.18
$1.50 Value Jergen's Lotion and All-Purpose Cream—Special 89c
$1.00 Tangee Lip Sticks . . 79c
50c Woodbury's Bouge—Special 24c
25c Value Drene Shampoo and Dazza Hand Lotion 12c
10c Lux Soap, 3 for 21c
10c Woodbury's, 3 for 21c

WEDGE SANDALS
in —Red and White—
—Blue and White—
—All White—
$2.99 at the
FRENCH SHOP

85¢
Replacement Price 1.00
Here's big news in hosiery shades for 1940! Exciting, romantic colors that will brighten up your wardrobe! See these new restful, sun-kissed tones tomorrow in your favorite Joette Stocking.
LIVELY— Clear sparkle nude.
DYNAMIC— A lively sunny tonic.
AUDACIOUS— Vibrant sun nude.
JOYOUS— Rosy medium tone.
FLIRTATIOUS— Golden tan biege.

MILLER'S Cootery
111 E. COLLEGE AVE.
"JOSETTE" three thread CHIFFON HOSIERY
In Sun-Kissed Sparkling
NEW SHADES!

'Dan Cupid' Will be Theme Of Annual Sophomore Hop

In keeping with the "Dan Cupid" theme, the sophomores and their dates will trip the light fantastic at the sophomore hop which will be given in the gym tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock. Ted Sherwood and his orchestra will furnish the music for the gala occasion.

To match the valentine theme, the color scheme of all decorations will be red and white. Three large red hearts, nine by seven feet, will be placed around the gym. One red heart will be on the rear wall, and the other two hearts will be placed on the side walls. Also, to put the "hop-goers" in the valentine spirit, they will all enter the dance floor by way of an enormous red heart with steps leading through it.

Those in charge of the hop are: Fairfax Bates, chairman; Monterey Whittlesey, business manager; Mary Lou McGowan, decorations; Jane McGuire, refreshments; Helen Benton, student hostess chairman; Helen Emanuel, printing; Bee Williamson and Sue Veninga advertising; Ella Maude Jones will be in charge of the sophomore council girls, who will act as assistants at the hop. Lou Atkinson is the head of the dance committee and is in charge of securing the orchestra.

Prior to the appearance of Mrs. Roosevelt on Saturday afternoon, a tea dance for all sophomores and their dates will be held in the gym from 4:00 to 5:30 o'clock.

---

lovers by court orders, and during the events each lover was asked to give a skit of some famous love scene. The house was decorated as a throne room, and Louise Rice acted as king and Elsa Frye as Jeti as queen. Little red hearts were placed about the room. Guests, who wore costumes were met by a page of the king's court.

Members of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority entertained Tuesday afternoon at an informal tea for friends. Katherine Powell and Margaret Roberts were in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Laura McMullen, house mother, poured and refreshments of tea and cookies were served.

Popular Upperclassmen Lead From and March

"Flags were flying, bands were playing, and all the lovely senoritas had flowers in their hair," as the six belles of the ball, Katherine Graham, Marjorie Jessup, Elizabeth Ann Webb, Martha Murphy, Cornelia Watson, and Anne Jones, led the grand march at the junior-senior prom last week-end.

More than 500 juniors and seniors, with their dates danced amid scenes of a Spanish festival Saturday night to the music of Bobby Peters' orchestra. The old dining room was decorated with Spanish flags and posters with Spanish village scenes on the walls which lent a true festival atmosphere.

A bull ring was constructed at the south end of the hall, the scene of the bullfight. A clever dance skit introduced to the "prom-trotters" the six juniors and seniors elected by their classes most popular.

The phenomenon of sleep still is a puzzle to scientists.

Sororities Make Plans For Teas, Suppers And After-Dinner Coffees

Much social activity is centering around the sorority house this week with a number of teas, suppers and after-dinner coffees planned for the near future.

The pledges of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority will have a tea on Sunday afternoon from 5 to 6 o'clock for their freshmen friends.

Members of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority will give an informal party for their friends on Saturday night from 8 to 12 o'clock. Cocos and sandwiches will be served as refreshments.

Alpha Gamma Deltas will have open house tomorrow afternoon for sophomores and their dates.

Parties Planned

Sophomores of the Tri Delta sorority are giving a buffet supper for their dates on tomorrow night at seven o'clock preceding the sophomore hop.

The province president of Alpha Xi Delta, Mrs. Grace Watson Griffith, will arrive Saturday to visit the chapter on this campus. On Sunday afternoon from 5 until 6 she will be honor guest at a tea given by the members, pledges, and patrons.

Members of the Zeta Tau Alpha house will sponsor a tea dance for sophomores tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock.

The seniors of Zeta Tau Alpha honored the chapter members of that sorority with a "King of Hearts" party. The guests were invited as historical

as seen in MADEMOISELLE

ELLEN KAYE takes the spotlight when Spring unfurls her drama. Crisp touches of white . . . swirling skirts . . . provocative details are important to play their roles in capturing a young man's fancy.

Her left—Rayon crepe with buttoned-on pinafore effect of white eyelet. Black, navy, copen, aqua. 9 to 15. $00

Left—Two-piecer of rayon crepe with white silk pique trim. Black, navy, copen, aqua. 9 to 15. $00

Above—Rayon jersey white new bodice and midriff. Sailing blue, aqua, rose, gray, Gaupy blue. 9 to 17.

the VOGUE tallahassee, florida
'feminine wearables

Classical Club Traces Cupid

Pictures depicting various subjects in connection with the origin of St. Valentine's day are being displayed on the Classical club bulletin board this week.

The conception of Cupid's being a little boy with a bow was handed down from the ancient Romans, who adopted Cupid as their god of love in the fourth century B.C. It was believed that Cupid carried two kinds of arrows, one tipped with gold and the other with lead. The former was supposed to produce love and the latter hatred.

According to this display there have been many theories concerning how St. Valentine's day received its name. One account says that it was called this in tribute to St. Valentine because, as a church official, he refused to frown upon the "mating" element of Lupercalia, an annual festival held in Rome on February 15. During this festival the priest of Jupiter assigned to each youth a maiden whom he was supposed to marry sometime during the following year.

Later the Roman officials decided to present to these boys and girls a saint whom they could admire and by whom they could pattern their lives. Valentine was selected as the saint to be presented.

Religious Calendar

Y. W. C. A.

Sunday

5:30 p. m.—Vespers. Leader: Doris Dorner. Speaker: Miss Elizabeth Thomson, speech instructor. Subject: "Worship in Poetry."

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

4:30-5:30—Clothes sale.

Wednesday

7:15 a. m.—Early morning worship in tower room.

Thursday

1:30-2:30—Clothes sale.

BAPTIST

Friday

7:00 p. m.—Foster - mother buffet supper. General hostess: Laura McCaughan.

Sunday

6:00 p. m.—Training Union program. Subject: "Serving In the Power of the Holy Spirit." Leaders: Betsy Bragg, Gloria Morgan, Dorothy Tiedeman, Naomi Howard and Ruth Sanderson.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday Thursday

7:00 p. m.—Vespers in Bryan tower room. Subject: "Life Beautiful." Leader: Edith Williams.

PRESBYTERIAN

Friday and Saturday

8:00 p. m.—Devotional periods at church, with Reverend William Robertson as speaker.

11:00 p. m.—Prayer group in Bryan tower room.

Sunday

8:45 a. m.—Worship service and Bible study. Leader: Doris Dorner.

11:00 a. m.—Church service. Speaker: Reverend William C. Robinson, D.D., from the Columbia Theological Seminary at Decatur, Georgia.

6:30 p. m.—Fellowship supper hour. Speaker: Dr. Robinson.

7:30 p. m.—Church service. Speaker: Dr. Robinson.

METHODIST

Sunday

3:00 p. m.—Youth Crusade Rally. Speakers: Virginia Perry and Dr. Walter Towner. "Youth of people's fellowship hour.

Tuesday

7:30 p. m.—Vespers. Speaker: Mrs. F. B. Godfrey.

Wednesday

9:30 p. m.—Joint meeting of the three councils (Senior, Junior and Freshman).

Thursday

5:00 p. m.—Choir practice.

EPISCOPAL

Friday

8:00 p. m.—Forum, "The Bible —As Revelation of the Word of God." Speaker: Bishop Frank A. Juhan.

Sunday

9:00 a. m.—Study class, Rugs hall. Subject: "The Life of Christ." Leader: Peggy Lowe.

7:30 p. m.—Student auxiliary meeting. Subject: "The Church and the Coming Social and Economic Order." Speaker: Elizabeth Ann Webb.

Tuesday

5:30 p. m.—Confirmation class and discussion group.

Thursday

10:00 p. m.—Compline service —musical.

Friday

7:15 a. m.—Holy Communion.

YWCA Will Give Second Faculty-Student Party Tomorrow Night

The second of a series of parties sponsored by Y.W.C.A. to promote friendship between faculty and students will be given in the Bryan tower room by Misses Anna Forbes Liddell and Dr. Kathryn Allen.

These parties are given under the direction of Elisabeth McBride Miller and Mary Frances Fetner, co-chairmen of the faculty-students relations committee. Arrangements for this party are being made by Ruth Garrison, Martha Van Valkenburg and Barbara Ash.

Those who will attend are Florence Allen, Peggy Baker, Zina Cogdill, Louise Daffin, Virginia Green, Jean Hampton, Martha Hostetler, Alice Muriel Humphrey, Mary Lou King, Betty Lansdon, Ella Maude, Annette McFaddin, Gwen-solyn Merritt, Ruth Moore, Lucy Lapsley Morrison, Carolyn Stowell, Eloise Townsend, Myrtle Van Valkenburg, Polly Vinning, Frances Waid, and Colleste Whitsett.

Janitor Predicts U. S. Will Enter War Before Long

Continued from Page One

are some of the faculty members by their first name. Dan, as he seems to be the favorite although he has plenty of competition, likes says Dr. Kurz has been a daddy to him, "hoping" him out with candy when he was small and when he was burying his home. "I'd drop anything to help Dr. Kurz any time he wanted me." he avowed, and from the fervent expression on his face, there could be little doubt of his sincerity. Miss Gibbons, Miss Dorner, Dr. Hrvler, Dr. Popper, Dr. Moore, Dr. Abbey all are friends of Dan.

Dan works all year round, during the summer and through the Christmas holidays. In summer school he carries on his duties as janitor and in addition at the end of school and summer school and during Christmas holidays he has extra chemicals to do in the summer time he takes care of the flowers in the botany laboratory for Dr. Kurz. However, he has a week's vacation during the summer time, and he always makes it a point so go somewhere. Last summer he visited his people in Georgia.

"Not much goes on around here that I don't know about," he said. "I hear all the lectures and plays and things in the little theater, because I have to be there to attend to the lights." He keeps up with the Flambeau, too, which he characterizes as a nice newspaper.

In his spare time Dan works around his home with the garden and the chickens. He reads the Daily Democrat and the Jacksonville Journal. His favorite radio programs are those with "Cowboy" music, and he likes stringed instruments best. "I always listen to President Roosevelt on the radio," he volunteered.

Third Term Approved

Mentioning Roosevelt got him off on the third term question. Dan, an enthusiastic Roosevelt admirer, thinks the president will run for a third term. When asked if he were going to vote for Roosevelt, he said no he didn't vote. "It is my will and desire to vote," he said, "but the colored people don't vote here much. When I first come here I talked to my friends about going to vote, but they said the colored folks here don't vote much."

Dan, a steward in the Florida Union Methodist church here, is a strong believer in predestination. We were discussing the anti-lynching bill, and he told how once he witnessed a hanging where a Negro man bung for 10 minutes before he finally strangled to death. His neck never did break. Dan believes that all doctors or anyone can do is make death a little easier. "When the Lord gets ready for you to die, you're going," he summed up his beliefs with conviction.

Discussion of the anti-lynching bill brought out that Dan doesn't believe in capital punishment, either. "No one," he says, "has the right to take someone else's life." He cited the Ten Commandments as a basis for his belief. "Man was born to die. Let him live his days out and let God kill him when the time for him to die comes."

Dan didn't know much about the anti-lynching bill as such, but he has pretty definite ideas about lynching. He believes everyone has the right to have a court trial. He said there was some talk among the Negroes about the bill, but he added, "If everyone carried out his philosophy of staying out of trouble and treating people right, there wouldn't been any need for lynching."

Cold flurries by a highway research board show that automobile drivers between 18 and 21 years of age kill 220 persons annually for each 100,000 drivers; yet this group makes the best records in driving tests.

REYNOLDS AND JENNIE MURPHREE HALLS GIVE PARTIES ON ST. VALENTINE'S DAY

St. Valentine's Day was a day of much social activity in the freshmen dormitories. In Reynolds hall Dr. Edward Conrad cut the birthday cake at a tea marking the 27th anniversary of the hall's opening, and Jennie Murphree hall girls were hostesses to faculty and visitors at a Valentine dinner in the dining room.

Decorations for Reynold's birthday tea carried out the Valentine theme with the birthday cake topped with 27 candles and banked in red and white flowers. An old fashioned bouquet decorated the tea table.

Wilma Johns, house chairman, was master of ceremonies for the program. Reynold's song was sung by the hall trio, Sue Pinner, Caroline Leedy, and Shirley Erickson. Mrs. Tye Williams, a personal friend of Mrs. Mclean, Elisabeth Cochran Reynolds for whom the hall was named, gave a short sketch of her life. Another Reynolds song was sung by a group of students, and then eight girls told some of the ideals of the hall. "Garnet and Gold" concluded the program. Charlotte Cooper at the piano, and Marcy MacIntosh at the violin accompanied the singers.

Honor guests at the tea were: Dr. Conrad; Miss Olivia Dorcas, Miss Kay Warren, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Mamie Andrews, Miss Grace Fox, Miss Margaret Wylie, Mrs. Josephine M. Lever, and Miss Eva Mosley Bellinger.

Miss Ida Rowan and Miss Mary Boatwright, social directors of the hall, were assisted in entertaining by the Reynolds social committee and the counselors. Members of the social committee are: Wayles Wood, Bertha Lee Hoffman, Ann Neazes, Pauline Gallamore, Shirley Erickson, Mary Lou King, Florence Turner, Jane Garrett, Helen Hawkins, Frances Allen, and Sue Chaires. Counselors are: Wilma Johns, Joan Weaver, Christine Harbin, Laura McCaughn, Louise Patterson, Mary Lou Gordon, Patty Holbert, Sara Noonoy, Martha Polsom, Miriam Stuckey, Katherine Camp, and Martha Talom.

Jennie Murphree girls used Valentine decorations for their formal dinner Wednesday night in the dining room. Hearts and candles were on the tables. After-dinner coffee was served in the dining room after which the guests returned to the hall parlor for a short program.

Lorraine Leedy and Annette McPartlin, and Mary Jane Potter and Hazel Wimbley both sang duets, followed by group singing. Ruth Smith and Marcy McIntosh played a piano duet.

Miss Sarah Scruggs and Miss Georgia McCorkle, social directors of the hall, greeted the guests with members of the social com-

Symphonic Concert Will Be Presented

Under the auspices of the arts series the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, one of America's five most symphony orchestra, will give two concerts, March 2 and March 3, in the college auditorium. The orchestra will be under the direction of Eugene Goossens, well-known composer and conductor, who has directed many symphony orchestras both in this country and in Europe.

Of the two concerts to be given the first will be held on Saturday evening, March 2, and the second on Sunday afternoon, March 3.

Soloist: Gia Belle Tillman, Martha Whitehurst, Jane Watts, Margaret Bostwick, Laura Foote, Carol Lou Williams, Carolyn Ryan, Virginia Jones, Clara Shafiro, Sara Bennett, Mabel Jackson, and Eleanor Laurie.

Guests of the students were: Dr. Marian Irish, Dr. Edward Conrad, Miss Madeline Duncan, Miss Gladys Dorman, Miss Margaret Gaston, Miss Helen Parker, and Mrs. H. H. Hay. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Yarnes, Dr. and Mrs. William Barrows, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, Miss Helen Shuck, Miss Ruth Schoettmer, Mrs. Clive Cross, Miss Mary Setzer, Miss Nellie-Rose Johnson, Delmar Bugeili, Miss Mildred Finneran, Dr. William Rogers, and Miss Dorothy Breen.

ANN MILLER, star of stage and screen, now appearing in George White's Scandals, is definitely the outstanding dance discovery of our time! . . . and a dozen more and more smokers are making every day is that CHESTERFIELDS are COOLER, BETTER-TASTING and DEFINITELY MILDER.

Chesterfields are Definitely Milder AND BETTER-TASTING

You'll always find these two qualities at their best, plus a far cooler smoke, in Chesterfield's Right Combination of the world's best cigarette tobaccos.

Make your next pack Chesterfield and see for yourself why one smoker tells another They Satisfy. You can't buy a better cigarette.

MAKE YOUR NEXT PACK Chesterfield

The Cooler, Better-Tasting, DEFINITELY MILDER Cigarette

Copyright 1940, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, February 23, 1940

VOLUME XXVII

NUMBER SEVENTEEN

Would bes'

Get Petitions In

WELCOME

Youth Conference Members

Voting Machines Will be Secured For Elections

Petitions for Office Are Due for Checking On Saturday Night

Arrangements have been made with the Leon County Board of Registration Commissioners to secure from them six voting machines, which will be used for the spring elections to be held March 5 and 12.

Petitions for offices are due tomorrow night. They will be scanned for duplications by the nominating committee, composed of the following members from the different campus organizations: Katherine Graham, Marjorie Jessup, Mandy Ruth Baggot, and Lynette Thompson of C. O. A.; Jeanette Mullis, Muryl Roland of the Flambeau; Jeanne Webster and Jean Miller of the Playfellows; Florence Gregory and Ina Norment Boatman of the Dixiaff, and Louise Rice and Mary Collins of W. A. A.

If there are not two nominees in each office, more petitions will be called for from the student body, and specified groups will be asked to make nominations for offices closely associated with that group.

The names of the petitioners will be turned over to the office of the dean of students with the documents of qualifications, where they are checked for grades, health, and citizenship records. After action has been taken by the faculty committee, the names of all candidates will be made public. The Flambeau of March 8 will carry the platforms of all candidates for major offices.

Candidates Will Speak

On March 12 the candidates for president of C. O. A. chairman of the judiciary, chairman advisory, and the editors of the Flambeau, Seminole and Playfellows will give talks in convocation stating the reasons for their seeking the office. The floor will be open for the questioning of the candidates for a limited time. The remaining candidates for offices on the same ballot, the first vice-president of C. O. A., the second vice-president, third vice-president, secretary, treasurer, chairman of the residence hall committee, and chairman of the Flambeau committee, will be introduced at that time. These candidates will be voted upon on Wednesday, March 13.

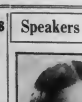
The candidates for minor offices will be presented Thursday, March 14. These are the class representatives to judiciary, the house chairmen, members of the W.A.A.-campus committee, officers of the Women's Athletic association.

Continued on Page Two

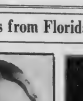
21 Club Schedules Meeting Tuesday

The 21 Club had for its initial activity this quarter a discussion of Washington's birthday sponsored by the Florida Women and Democracy. The discussion, held last night in Conn Hall school, included the presentation of certificates of citizenship to those students who attended and who have reached the age of 21.

The first meeting of the 21 Club will be held Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 in 203 Westcott building. Dr. Marian Irish, associate professor of political science, will speak to the group on "How to Vote Intelligently." "Different Systems of Voting" "System on Thursday," and the "Use of Voting Machines."



The 21 Club, which sponsored the bringing of voting machines to the campus last year and provided attendants at the machines, hopes to do so again for the coming elections. Membership is open to all seniors regardless of race and all undergraduates of 21 years of age or older. President of the 21 Club is Jean Miller.

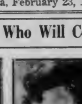


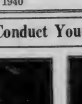
Coyle Moore Will Speak In Jacksonville Monday

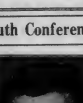
Dr. Coyle E. Moore, assistant professor of sociology, will speak to the Jacksonville Council of Social Agencies on the subject of "The Social and Financial Cost of Welfare Problems in Jacksonville" next Monday night in that city.

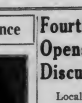
The council will hold an all-day meeting, the purpose of which will be to interpret the work of the council to laymen.

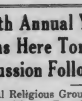
Speakers from Florida Chain of Missionary Assemblies Who Will Conduct Youth Conference











Shown above are eight outstanding speakers from the Florida Chain of Missionary Assemblies who will conduct the fourth annual Youth Conference opening here tonight. Coming from all parts of the world, these speakers will bring to the conference the problems of youth in their countries. Reading from left to right, top row, they are Miss Ila Romola Sircar, India; Dr. Conrad Hoffman, Jr., director of the fatherg-national Missionary Council's Committee on the Christian Approach to the Jews; Dr. Rev. Hugh S. Stanta, missionary to South America; Dr. Robert MacGowan, of this country and Scotland; the Rev. C. Darby Fulton, Japan; bottom row, Dr. W. O. Lewis, general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches; Dr. W. Sparks, general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches; Dr. Charles D. Hurrey, director of the Youth Conference.

Correspondent Speaks to Class

Writer Gives Ideas Of Hungarian People

Members of Miss Marion Irish's class in comparative government had the privilege of hearing R. H. Markham, Christian Science Monitor correspondent in Hungary, when he and Mrs. Markham visited the campus Wednesday.

Mr. Markham, who has lived on the Continent for 28 years, gave the class some of his ideas and impressions of the Hungarian people. He also discussed their philosophy of St. Steven's rule of Danubia, a belief held by Hungarians that all the land in the Danube area rightfully belongs to St. Steven and should be united under one ruler. They believe it their ordained duty to do all within their power to regain all their lost territory and re-unite it.

In an interview with a Flambeau reporter, Mr. Markham was asked to comment on the present European situation. "War in Europe he says. "The present conflict presents the most momentous issue since the 30 Years War. If Hitler and Stalin triumph, then the world will be dominated by forces and ideas that are in aggressive conflict with everything Americans cherish."

"Hitler's crusade is not primarily against any little or big nation and is not essentially against any geographic boundary. It is the domination of absolutism and the destruction of democracy in the world. He is trying to make despotism triumphant, a despotism based on doctrines that the Nordic, blond Germans are a chosen race and that all other groups are inferior."

Mr. Markham said also, in regard to the outcome of the war: "By no means is it certain that Hitler will not triumph. I believe that Americans take too much for granted and are too certain that the victory will be an Allied one.

The well-known journalist was for many years a correspondent for the Monitor in Vienna, where the Austrian Anschluss he was transferred to Budapest and assigned to cover central Europe.

He and Mrs. Markham are visiting in the state for a visit, which has been prolonged due to illness, and will leave Thursday to return to Budapest in the spring.

NSFA Postpones Forum

The N.S.F.A. forum planned for Tuesday, February 20, was postponed because of Dr. Conrad's illness. The forum is to be held at NYA work, will be held next Tuesday, February 27, in 304 Westcott building at 9 o'clock.

Historic Journey of A Glass of Milk Traced From Modern College Dairy To Dining Hall Table

That milk you drink from the new miniature glasses in the dining hall every day did not, as the little city girl in the story books, originate in a bottle. On the contrary, it began as a handful of green clover in a very beautiful hillside about two miles southwest of the college where acres of reddish soil are set aside as the college dairy. Small, airy red brick buildings with white, big wooden feeding barns, two silos for storing grains, gravel runways and contented cows browsing over the landscape, the scene is more like a comfortable Wisconsin farm than a busy, efficient dairy serving nearly 2,000 hungry females daily.

Since most of the 930 acres included in the entire college farm land is devoted to the dairy, and for the 175 head of cattle rather than its approximate 1296 head of women, one gets an eagerly put the blame for rareness of sweet potatoes on the farm managers. The cows, which are not as particular about variety in their meals, average consuming 250,000 pounds of grain, 150 tons of ensilage, and 50 tons of hay in a year all this 25 acres has recently been put into white Dutch clover which will increase by an approximate cost of $300, an experiment which so far proved extremely successful, according to J. P. Love, farm superintendent.

Process Traced

Following a glass of milk in order to better explain the chain of operations that bring it from the side of a hill to your dinner table, we might trace it from the cow in the stall into the anatomy of a cow, which we will skip for the time being. At 3:45 in the afternoon our cow along with her sisters, is herded up to a narrow concrete runway where in her stall, she walks through a washing pool and a lateral shower bath that cleanses off any mud she might have acquired during grazing. Coming out of the runway onto a gravel stretch she enters the low-roofed milk shed, or "parlor" as it is called in dairy parlance, where 20 cows can be taken care of at one time actually with the use of milking machines but occasionally by hand. In the latter case each milker is required to wash his hands in disinfectant before going on to the next cow

The cows being milked stand in a double row facing one another with a low wall and a manger between to pacify them. Pans keep up a continuous current of air to blow away any flies that might come in when, a door is opened; for none could come in through the screens which are equipped with electric screens on which a too-adventurous insect promptly electrocution himself with a brief zzt! The whole room is lined with cream-colored tile with the angle ordinarily formed by the junction of floor and wall carefully rounded off to prevent accumulation of dirt there.

Cows Numbered

Each cow has a number on her collar which is recorded on a chart along with the number of gallons of milk she gives at each of her two daily milkings. Heaviest milked of the herd at present is one averaging about four gallons. Feed is weighed out to each cow according to her capacity.

After milking, the cow who produced our hypothetical glass of milk is turned out to pasture once more, but the milk goes on its way. Adjoining the milking parlor is a small laboratory where A. V. Davis, dairy foreman tests samples from each cow for cream, butter, a bovine disease, as well as for percentage of butterfat in the milk. In the months test Mr. Davis adds certain chemicals to the test bowl of cream which is from white to green. He then matches the shade of green in a color chart. If it matches the yellow green well and good. If it matches the blue-green the cow is promptly isolated from the rest of the herd and the milk not used Other tests such as the bacteria count are taken care of by the state board of health

Milk Is Cooled

The pure milk is kept large steam sterilized cans, then aces through a cooling process which brings it down to a temperature of 46 degrees by allowing it to pass over pipes containing brine solution and flow back into the can. It goes immediately into cold storage until it can be transferred into a second cold storage room below the college kitchens. Eventually it finds it way to an aluminum pitcher and thence to your table, dear reader.

A short distance from the brick milking building is the ice house full of the smell of hay and corn and velvet beans, mixed and unmixed. Overhead sifted baysced and corn dust on ones shoulders, is a loft in which the fodder can be combined according to an tny desired ratio and sent down a kind of funnel to the ground floor for use If a sensitive boring farmer has accidentally large crop of grain the dairy

Continued on Page Two

Correspondent Speaks to Class

Writer Gives Ideas Of Hungarian People

Members of Miss Marion Irish's class in comparative government had the privilege of hearing R. H. Markham, Christian Science Monitor correspondent in Hungary, when he and Mrs. Markham visited the campus Wednesday.

Mr. Markham, who has lived on the Continent for 28 years, gave the class some of his ideas and impressions of the Hungarian people. He also discussed their philosophy of St. Steven's rule of Danubia, a belief held by Hungarians that all the land in the Danube area rightfully belongs to St. Steven and should be united under one ruler. They believe it their ordained duty to do all within their power to regain all their lost territory and re-unite it.

In an interview with a Flambeau reporter, Mr. Markham was asked to comment on the present European situation. "War in Europe he says. "The present conflict presents the most momentous issue since the 30 Years War. If Hitler and Stalin triumph, then the world will be dominated by forces and ideas that are in aggressive conflict with everything Americans cherish."

"Hitler's crusade is not primarily against any little or big nation and is not essentially against any geographic boundary. It is the domination of absolutism and the destruction of democracy in the world. He is trying to make despotism triumphant, a despotism based on doctrines that the Nordic, blond Germans are a chosen race and that all other groups are inferior."

Mr. Markham said also, in regard to the outcome of the war: "By no means is it certain that Hitler will not triumph. I believe that Americans take too much for granted and are too certain that the victory will be an Allied one.

The well-known journalist was for many years a correspondent for the Monitor in Vienna, where the Austrian Anschluss he was transferred to Budapest and assigned to cover central Europe.

He and Mrs. Markham are visiting in the state for a visit, which has been prolonged due to illness, and will leave Thursday to return to Budapest in the spring.

NSFA Postpones Forum

The N.S.F.A. forum planned for Tuesday, February 20, was postponed because of Dr. Conrad's illness. The forum is to be held at NYA work, will be held next Tuesday, February 27, in 304 Westcott building at 9 o'clock.

Redfearn Essays To Carry Credit

Compositions entered in the Bedford Prize Essay contest may be substituted for work in social studies this year. It was learned when the contest was announced in the beginning of this week. The requirements for entrance in this contest are that each contestant be a junior college student between 16 and 103 or their equivalent and must be taking an additional course in social studies such as economics, geography, history, journalism, political science, or sociology.

The subject for the contest this year must be some phase of social planning in Florida. the specific phase assigned to the student for each contestant according to her interest. The subject must be treated from the approach of one of the social sciences and must be placed in a historical background. The essay must have a minimum of 3,000 words and must not exceed 7,000 words.

It must have footnotes and a bibliography, arranged according to the form recommended by the greatest manual.

Credit for the essay may be received in a specific course in one of the social studies. The student should apply to the instructor of the said course for this credit. All essays must be handed to the committee having local arrangements by April 20, 1940. This committee is composed of Dr. Mabel Irish, chairman; Dr. Beulah B. Birley, economics; Dr. Raymond Kent, W. A. A. sponsor; Dr. Ernest Vance, journalism; Prof. Earl Vance, history; and Dr. Jerome T. Abbey, history. Chairman of the committee.

Youthful CPA Is Triumphant

Clarissa Knight, class of 1936, is the first woman certified public accountant to have been trained by a woman; C.P.A. having been taught by Miss Luella Richey, assistant professor of accounting here.

Clarissa was the only one of four applicants who passed the three-day Maryland state examination for certified public accountants.

When she applied to take the examination in the fall, Clarissa was discouraged by the examining board because of the fact that she had attended a woman's college and because much of her work here was in music.

Clarissa, who is one of the few people in any state passing this examination at the first attempt, worked in the business office of this college until last year, when she left to accept a position in the Ford plant, Baltimore, Md.

Skipper Will Go to Kappa Delta Pi Convention

Mrs. Dora S. Skipper, instructor in education, will attend the biennial convention of Kappa Delta Pi in St. Louis, Missouri Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. Skipper, who is president of the local chapter, will be the official delegate from here.

While she is in St. Louis, Mrs. Skipper will attend a dinner in celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the founding of supervisors of civic teaching have been asked to attend and Mrs. Skipper will represent Florida State college.

Debaters to Meet In Direct Clash

Inaugurating the first direct clash debate to be held in Florida, the debate team will meet Presbyterian college from South Carolina Monday afternoon, February 26, at 5 o'clock in 203 Westcott. Direct clash differs from regular debating by having direct rebuttal following each speech, and limit being seven.

Patsy Herbert, Mabel Nihoul, Joan Weaver, and Mary Brice Deaver, comprising Florida State's debate team will take the negative side of the question Resolved: That the United States should follow a policy of strict economic and military isolation toward all nations outside the western hemisphere engaged in armed international or civil conflict.

This subject, chosen by Pi Kappa Delta, national debating honorary, provides the question for this season's intercollegiate debating in order for all colleges to meet in debate on a common basis.

Upholding the negative side of the isolation question, Ruth Brown and Jack Jones of Washington and Lee in Virginia defeated Joan Weaver and Helen Hawkins in the debate debate this year, last Monday afternoon. Officials at the debate included; Dr. Venita Jones, associate professor of history, Miss Margaret Wyly, instructor in speech and Mr. William Renfrow, chemistry instructor as judges; Rex Withers, debate manager; Mabel Nihoul, chairman.

Florida State marked the first stop of the Washington and Lee team in its tour of the south.

Junior Minstrels Practice Starts

Review Will Center On Oriental Theme

Practice for Junior Minstrels, to be presented March 15, began Thursday night under the direction of Lib Miller, chairman of the show. With an oriental theme, the Junior Minstrels are to break all precedents this year and not be collegiate.

With all speaking parts of equal importance, the minstrels is using a cast of new, previously undiscovered talent.

Chairmen and members of committees for the event are dancing, Carmen Lytal, chairman; with Janet Sweat and Jane Brown assistants; music, Dot Guthrie and Janet Tharpe; stage manager, Rachel Brwin with Sonia and Beryl Mitchell, assistants; costumes, Mary Ruth Clancy; advertising chairman, Pauline Stimmons, Barry Hutchison, Claude Burger.

Parts for the minstrels have been cast as follows: Speaking parts, Mary Blalock, Jane Powers, Miriam Denny Guy, Jean McGillivray, Margaret Roberts, Kitty Jo Whitman, Betsy McMichael, Mary Small, Nancy Kulp, Mary Lou Atkinson, Audrey Atherton, Margaret Ann Barnett, Pearle Tyler, Dee Williamson, Mary Elizabeth Young and Ruth Warren.

Those in singing parts are Barbara Mabry, Nancy Kulp, Martha Stenberg, Mary Greenleaf, Amelia Avant and Dorothy Hickman; music, Janet Tharpe, Dot Guthrie, and Charlotte Cooper; dancing parts, Doniee Youngblood, Alayne Markwell, Ann Gamble Jean Lance, Lucille Moore, Catherine Saunders, Pat Hansen, Carrie Lee Foster, Paula Jean Muller, Mae Hampton, Myrtle Ray Williamsburg, Martha Davis, Amelia Gordy, Dot McCowan, Lois Cooper, Mary Lou Atkinson, Beryl Mitchell, Margaret Faircloth, Betty Hyatt, Gwen Stevenson, Betty Gibney, Nancy Lee Doggett, Peggy Shimmer, Ann Arend, Lucille Wakefield, Betty Brown, Carmen Lytal, and Roberta Padgett.

Vance and Bristol to Be Speakers at Wednesday Meeting of AAUP

The American Association of University Professors will meet at 7:30 next Wednesday in the Augusta Conradi theater. At this meeting Mr. Earl Vance head of the Journalism department, and Mrs. Margaret Bristol, assistant professor of economics will give talks on topics of current interest to the organization.

Missionary from India Will Speak at Vespers

Miss Ila Romola Sircar, a native of India, will speak at vespers Sunday at 5 o'clock in Westcott lower room. Miss Sircar is actively identified with the Christian Youth Movements in India and will be speaker at the Youth Conference meetings. She is connected with the chain of missions and has been with this work since 1926. Before coming to this college, Y.W.C.A. is sponsoring her visit to this campus.

Fourth Annual Youth Conference Opens Here Tonight With Panel Discussion Following Welcome

Local Religious Groups and Organizations In Addition to Four Florida Colleges Will Send Delegates to Meetings

Conference Calendar

Friday Night

Augusta Conradi Theater

8:00—Welcome . . . . Jack Eppes

8:10—Worship

8:35—Presentation of world ambassadors . . . Charles D. Hurry.

8:35—Panel: "Youth Living Under World Tensions"

Leader: Charles D. Hurry

Speakers: Ila R. Sircar, W. O. Lewis, Hugh C. Stuntz, C. Darby Fulton, Robert W. Searle.

9:30—Open forum.

Saturday Morning

Little Theater

9:00—Worship . . . Robert McGowan

9:40—"Nazi Germany and World Jewry" . . . Conrad Hoffman Jr.

10:20—Open forum.

10:35—Intermission.

10:45—"Destructive Forces in American Life" . . . . . Robert W Searle

11:30—Open forum.

Saturday Afternoon

History Building

2:00—Seminars:

"Christian Youth and the Social Order . . . Robert W Searle 305

"Christian Youth in a World at War" . . W. O. Lewis; 209

"Christian Youth and the World Missionary Enterprise" . . . Ila R Sircar; Little Theater

"Christian Youth in a World of Conflicting Loyalties" . . Hugh C. Stuntz; 303

"Jewish and Christian Youth Relationships" . . . Conrad Hoffman; 104

"Christian Youth and the Call to Christian Service" C. Darby Fulton; 210.

5:30—Banquet.

8:00—Party at gymnasium.

Sunday Morning

9:30-10:00—Devotional session.

Sunday Worship

Open to all students, auditorium.

10:00—Worship . . . Ila R. Sircar, Hugh C. Stuntz.

10:30—The Call to the Modern World to Christian Youth" C. Darby Fulton.

11:00—Service of commitment Robert W. Searle.

Closing of sessions.

2-4 p.m.—Appointments with ambassadors by request

5:00 p.m.—College vespers W.C.A. . . . Ila R. Sircar.

6:00 p.m.—Baptist community hall . . . Conrad Hoffman Jr.

7:30 p.m.—Methodist student group . . . Charles D. Hurry

6:00 p.m.—Presbyterian church . . . C. Darby Fulton.

With eight world-renowned speakers of the Florida Chain of Missionary assemblies conducting a series of lectures, seminars, forums, and group meetings, the fourth annual Christian Youth conference to be held at Florida State college will convene this weekend. The opening session will begin tonight at 8 o'clock in the Augusta Conradi theater, with Jack Eppes, co-chairman of the conference, extending a welcome to the missionary ambassadors.

All conference members are asked to register and obtain banquet tickets at Rugg hall on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Dr. Charles D. Hurrey, general secretary of the committee on friendly relations among foreign students in America, is director for the youth conference. In the past 20 years he has visited 50 different countries and has discussed the attitudes of the different countries toward World America. leaders in Europe, the Near East, Asia, South America, and other countries.

Speakers Listed

Other speakers on the program will include the Rev. C. Darby Fulton, Japan; Robert W. Searle, general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches; Dr. Conrad Hoffman, Jr., director of the International Missionary Council's Committee on the Christian Approach to the Jews; Dr. Hugh S. Stanta, missionary of the Baptist World Alliance; Miss Ila Romola Sircar, India; Dr. Coswa, of this country and Scotland, and Dr. W. O. Lewis, missionary to and scholar of South America.

The opening service tonight will feature the same worship program that was used at the first world conference of Christian youth at Amsterdam this summer. Bringing together 1,800 delegates from most of the lands and churches of the world for purpose, brought out in the theme "Christus Victor," was to mobilize youth to witness to the reality of the Christian community as the only answer to the confusion and to which has been entrusted the message of peace and the world's spiritual, political, and social confusion. All Florida college students, Charlotte Kamper and a University of Florida student, Waldo Proffitt, both of whom were chairmen of the youth conference held in this

Continued on Page Two

Delegates Attend Home Ec Meeting

On February 24 the State student Home Economics club will hold its annual meeting on the campus of Southern college in Lakeland. Florida. The annual of the American Home Economics association and both high school and college will be attended.

One of the principal speakers of the convention will be Miss Bolette Projer, state supervisor of Home Economics in Florida. The program will also include a discussion of "Interpretation Expression of One's Personality" by Miss Janet Sharp, head professor of clothing and textiles at Florida State college.

A demonstration of the meeting will be an informal tea at the Bathing Beauty cafe. State Southern college girls will act as hostesses.

Delegates who have been selected to attend from this college include Mary Alice Johnson, senior; Miriam Stuckey, junior; Carolyn Johnson, sophomore; Ruth Hendricks, freshman Other students who will attend are: Mary Lou Thomas, Donna Haney, Mary Lou O'Neel, Nora Lee Harding, Nana Kurtz, Ruth McCain, Mary Rhame, Selma Wike, Audrey Cowles, Dorothy Cohen, Janene Tillotson, Betty Langston, Lollie Mae.

The following faculty members will also go to Lakeland for the convention: Dr. Ruth Conner, president of the State Economics club and professor of home economics education; Miss Janet K. Smith, associate professor of clothing and textiles, Miss Helen Cates, instructor in foods and nutrition; and Miss Rex Todd Withers, assistant home economics teacher.

From Other Colleges

Cheating at Auburn was the topic discussed at a meeting of more than 50 presidents of campus organizations. Cheating, they agreed, arose from three main causes, crowded classrooms and administration of examinations, student ignorance of cheating regulations, and dishonesty of the students themselves. Although no decision was reached, it was agreed that something must be done.

Plans for a national campaign under the leadership of the Y.M.C.A. Foundation, Inc., to raise an endowment fund of $1,000,000 for strengthening the institution's academic program, are underway, the governing organization at the Y.M.I. The campaign is to be under the direction of an executive committee appointed by the board of directors, and is the result of a survey to determine the most pressing need of the institute. The survey revealed that the most urgent needs were those relating to the academic program. The only way to meet those needs, it was decided, would be to provide an endowment fund which would put Y.M.I. on a more equitable with the endowed institutions which have the advantage of greater financial security when strengthening their academic program.

The million dollar fund is to be used to establish an adequate faculty retirement system, to provide faculty members to advance in their professions by giving them an opportunity to take graduate work, to enrich the work of the five academic departments, (civil engineering, chemistry, electrical engineering, liberal arts), through the purchase of equipment and building up of departmental libraries, to provide for the growth of the college library, and to establish a reserve fund. Graduation activities between now and final examinations will center around a memorial gifts from a limited number of alumni, parents, and others who are in a position to contribute substantial amounts. Next fall a more extensive campaign will be undertaken.

A committee of five has been appointed to draw up a new set of principles and by-laws at Emerson following a student body vote favoring the establishment of an honor system.

The annual Founder's week celebration at Rollins began February 20 and will continue through February 27. Included on the program of events are lectures, a concert by the National Symphony Orchestra, a Founder's day convocation, and a presentation of "You Can't Take It With You," by the Rollins Student Players.

The presentation of Bach's Mass in B Minor for the first time in the South will call the attention of the music world to the fifth annual Winter Park Bach Festival, February 29 and March 1. In the Knowles Memorial chapel at Rollins. Mme Elizabeth Schumann, internationally famous opera singer, heads the quartet of soloists who will participate in the festival. Artists who will participate include a chorus of 150 selected voices and a small orchestra of players from the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

A series of employment seminars will be held at the University of Florida under the sponsorship of the Personnel bureau, to aid seniors and other students in finding jobs.

Twenty-three thousand dollars has been donated to the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine in the form of anonymous gifts of $10,000 and $5,000 to the department of surgery for bacteriological research work. $6,250 to the department of internal medicine, $2,250 to the Rawi Shrine fund, and $646 from the Taft for Institution of companies.

Four colleges and two universities were represented in Duchesne's seventh annual music festival, February 10-12. Included on the program were the Michigan Little Symphony orchestra, the Davidson Glee club, the Queen's Choral club, the Davidson-Queen's symphony, the Davidson Festival chorus, and members of the Davidson Symphonic band. With the completion of the festival, Davidson's music organization started on their annual tours.

Voting Machines Will Be Secured for Elections

Continued from Page One

and the business managers of the three publications.

Machines Open All Day

The voting machines will be open all day from 8:30 until 6:30 on both Wednesday and Friday. Members of the election committee will tabulate and post the returns after each election.

Last year the machines were open only in the afternoons from 1:30 until 6:30 during which time 710 students voted. The members of the elections committee were chairman, Katherine Orchard, president of C. O. A.; Marjorie Jessup, chairman of judiciary council; Lynette Thompson, treasurer of C. O. A.; Virginia Balkcom president of Y. W. C. A.; Jeannette Mullis, editor of the Flambeau; Jean Webster, editor of the Fantaseum; Florence Greaney editor of the Distaff Louise Rice, business manager of the Flambeau; Jean Webster, editor of the Fantaseum; Florence Greaney editor of the Distaff Louise Rice, business manager of the Flambeau; and Miss Kloeppel, freshman adviser.

Know Government Says First Lady

Women Urged to Take Interest in Democracy

"Girls, take a vital interest in government in all its details," Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt advised Florida State college students when she spoke on "Citizenship in a Democracy" here last Saturday.

She cautioned, "You won't like it very much. You may think it isn't a clean game, but we women, if we keep our ideals, can do much to improve politics."

Mrs. Roosevelt pointed out the great responsibility of the United States in a world at war to find the answers to some of the most problems of the day which, she said, will mean much to our future welfare of what the problems are. She urged her audience especially the students, to "know the whole situation of the whole community" for the solutions problems are just now being thrust upon us in the hope that a great deal of new country to settle. Now we are building a civilization. To do that we must know our problems and fit them so that with our minds to the state and to the nation."

She touched on one of her favorite topics, the place of women in local and national affairs, saying, "Women have a part in finding a solution for such national problems as that of population. To help in these problems Mrs. Roosevelt said women must study the problems of their local, state, and national governments and do only what they think is right and not follow the crowd."

"If we can keep ideals alive in these youth in the country, I think we can safely leave the future in their hands."

After the address Mrs. Roosevelt was escorted to the home of Mrs. Ralph D. Mellon, president of the Alumnae association, for a dinner party. Guests at the dinner party included President Edward Conradi, Mrs. Ernest Rkemmerer, Mrs. Ralph D. Mellon, Mrs. Conradi, and Fred P. Cone. After the dinner Mrs. Roosevelt left by car for Jacksonville.

Mrs. Moor, Marjorie Jessup and Jeannette Mullis entertained Mrs. Roosevelt to the state. Mortar Board members at the 1939 and 1940 usher committee members served in the auditorium.

The college auditorium was filled to capacity for the address and hundreds of other students and townspeople packed the gymnasium and the Augusta Conradi theater, where public address systems were installed to carry the address.

Historic Journey of A Glass of Milk

Continued from Page One

sometimes burn up that in place of raising its own, weighing it in on an outdoor scales beside the storehouse.

Next to the storage barn come the big wooden feeding barns. During the winter when the cows are kept inside down around the lower sections the cowhands take pity on their charges and after the 2:45 milking, bring them into those barns for feedtop and shelter until 4:30 next morning when they are milked again and turned out to graze. Between the feed barns are the two brick silos, holding 190 tons each.

Location Described

The farm buildings are located in the shape of a letter L, with the milking barn at the apex and the feed and storage barns running along one side. Forming the other branch is the maternity ward and the calf barn. The latter is a long, airy brick building with barred pens on either side, forming an aisle from one end to the other. Forage is piled on racks overhead to facilitate pitching it down to the pens at the end of a shovel. In each of the pens is an automatic drinking fountain; as the calf pushes his nose into the trough he depresses a lever which causes the trough to fill with water. The calves soon don't take very long in finding out just how to manipulate the device either.

Most of the calves are in the left hand bloc of pens because their mothers, the purebred registered bulls occupy the right-hand row. Animals running with their buffalo-like heads are that having delays between various colleges is an excellent idea. However, I think the students should be a little more appealing to the interest of the student body. I think that it would be a good idea if they would have debates in connocation?

Alma Anderson: I think that we should have more debating on this campus. It should really be placed before the students and interested more on our campus than it has been and that more people should be taken to put it into the limelight.

Sarah King: I believe that debating on our campus should become a permanent practice and that it would develop a spirit of fellowship and co-operation between the students and faculty.

Eunice Worn: I don't think that we should attempt debating at the present time. There would be more publicity! I think that something could be done to arouse more interest in it. Would it be possible to establish a mural debating on this campus?

Mary Ann Hall: I believe in debate debating and that we should have more of it. I haven't had any kind of debating but as I would like to have. I think that debating in high school should be spent on it.

Sarah Bryant: There hasn't been enough interest given to debating here. And I definitely believe that more could be done with it if interest were stimulated by debating subjects that would attract the interest of the college girls since this has been done.

Peter McCraw: More publicity is necessary. Announce the debate advertise more around the important, the debaters should be selected so that they can participate students.

June Daily: We should have more debating than we are having now, and we should carry our debating further than we have at time. I like the idea of regular debating subjects that would attract the interest of the college girls since this has been done.

Ruth Cowart: I think that intercollegiate debating is excellent. It is a means to our becoming better informed on current topics. It makes us think and to express our opinions between colleges. I believe that interest is naturally growing on campus and that debating subjects and the subjects more interesting

Birthday Address Given by Conradi

"The principles illustrated by the characteristic democratic and good will of the United States are as important to the world today as they were in the days of the universe," declared President Edward Conradi before the regular student convocation Tuesday, on the event of his seventy-first birthday. Dr. Conradi concluded his address by contrasting the ideals of democracy and dictatorships with sections of the United States, and pointed out that Germany is somewhat smaller than the state of Texas.

The educational importance of the American pioneers who "carried civilization out of the wilderness, adding that his own father was one of these brave people to whom America owes so much. "These pioneers struggled against odds to master nature's treasury and later to find a way to "make democracy work for all on the same level," he brought out.

After criticising the conditions of Europe with those of the United States, Dr. Conradi stressed the importance of the American flag, and the value of our public schools. Dr. Conradi reminded the students that freedom, justice, and democracy are best represented by the Constitution of the United States.

Council Members Learn To Operate Lands Jook

Dancing sessions in the bottom floor of Landis hall, to be held every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights, will represent the main project of sophomore council.

Members of the orsanization met Saturday to learn the technique of running the "look" that will furnish music for all students interested in dancing.

AIR-CONDITIONED
MARTIN & DALTON
DEPARTMENT DRUG STORE
216-212 SO. ADAMS ST. PHONE 173
SPECIAL FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND SUNDAY ONLY
This Ad and Is Good for a Regular 15c Choc. Soda at Our Fountain
5c
OFFER GOOD ONLY FEBRUARY 22, 24, 25, 1940

Inquiring Reporter

Debating Under Discussion

What do you think should be the position of inter-collegiate debating on this campus? What do you think can be done to stimulate interest in debating here. These were the questions asked by your Inquiring Reporter this week.

Helen Benton: I think that debating should be stressed more than it has been. It would be a good idea to have the newspapers of different colleges and their students to broaden our view. I believe that debating is not featured more on our campus than it has been and that more people should be taken to put it into the limelight.

Sarah King: I believe that debating on our campus should become a permanent practice and that it would develop a spirit of fellowship and co-operation between the students and faculty.

Eunice Worn: I don't think that we should attempt debating at the present time. There would be more publicity! I think that something could be done to arouse more interest in it. Would it be possible to establish a mural debating on this campus?

Mary Ann Hall: I believe in debate debating and that we should have more of it. I haven't had any kind of debating but as I would like to have. I think that debating in high school should be spent on it.

Sarah Bryant: There hasn't been enough interest given to debating here. And I definitely believe that more could be done with it if interest were stimulated by debating subjects that would attract the interest of the college girls since this has been done.

Peter McCraw: More publicity is necessary. Announce the debate advertise more around the important, the debaters should be selected so that they can participate students.

June Daily: We should have more debating than we are having now, and we should carry our debating further than we have at time. I like the idea of regular debating subjects that would attract the interest of the college girls since this has been done.

Ruth Cowart: I think that debating brings us nearer to other colleges and helps us to be interested in them. And they should be advertised more around the students so that they will be sure to know something about their activities.

Dot Guthrie: I think that intercollegiate debating is excellent and is a large part in our campus activity.

Fourth Annual Youth Conference Opens Here Tonight

Continued from Page One

campus last night with addresses to the world conference.

Seminars Planned

The Saturday afternoon seminars will be held in class rooms of the history building. "Christian Youth and the Social Order," will be discussed in room 108 by Robert W. Searle; "Christian Ideals in the Social War," in room 209, by W. O. Lewis; "Christian Youth and the World Mission," by Henry Smith Leiper; "The Little Theater by Ila R Sircar; "Christian Youth in Today's Culture," by Dr. Gene Volunteer and Scottish Conference. Each has been a private exercise pen where he appears to spend most of his time trying to find down the rabbit trimbers that separate him from his fellows and a gary hare.

In a line with the calf barn is the maternity barn, where mothers and their very young calves are kept in green and white barred pens filled with fresh straw. At one end of the barn is a room in which artificial formulas are mixed for the patients. A special field man in the building is set aside for the inmates, as in the case of the calf barn.

Cost Stated

The farm was built piece by piece at the relatively lost cost of about $16,000. Portions of it had to be drained and much of it cleared of forests. Recently the improvements of the latter was turned over to the WPA, which has added several acres to the total land reclaimed. Location of the buildings at the top of a hill has given them excellent drainage in both directions.

Pressure for farm machinery and for the dairy's five milkers, has been comes from an automatic pump, which, despite its size, runs so smoothly that a penny balanced on its hood is not disturbed by its motion.

Besides the buildings described in the above paragraphs a large wooden barn is set aside at a distance for feeding and caring for the bulls and those which must be isolated from the herd to prevent spread of disease.

All in all, the dairy is a working proposition on a large scale, Dr. Brouthe in the neighboring farming sections has had a great effect on the cattle dn on the rest of the smaller private dairy farms. They have only difference lies in dairy's immaculate cleanliness, its straightforward efficiency, and the fact that it was designed alone lines as scientific as an architects pencil could draw them and a carpenter's T-square could lay them out. So next time you sulp down your daily drink of milk, though you will probably be no more conscious of it than if you had never heard of this article, you at least have the satisfaction of knowing that it came from and how it got there.

Over 800 Attend Methodist Rally

Dr. Towner Delivers Principle Address

The Methodist Crusade Rally, held last Sunday at the Trinity Methodist church as a part of the Methodist Advance movement, attracted over 800 young people from the college and the Tallahassee district.

The principle address of the rally was given Sunday afternoon by Dr. Walter Towner of Nashville, Tennessee, director of young people's work in the southeastern jurisdiction of the Methodist church. His subject: "Youth in the Methodist Advance" concerned the development of power and efficiency in the past 25 years and the relationship that this development has upon the lives of young people today. Dr. Towner pictured the effects that fashion designers have upon the change of clothes and declared that much of the work of scientists has upon our food—how canning and refrigerment has made possible the planting of crops in distant sections instead of the fields. He pointed out the fact, however, that all of these changes have come about by the method of planning were ineffective and, to a certain extent, destructive, unless the people of a community could be far sighted enough and intelligent enough to look into the future possibilities and try to apply their improved methods to the conditions in their own communities.

He particularly stressed the advantages of the Methodist Advance that has been made, and pleaded for a similar spirit of spiritual power, which, as he said, had far more energy in the lives of young people than anything else.

The remainder of the program consisted of a solo recital by Gertrude Spetiel, who played "Romance in E Flat" by Williams, "Caprice Viennois" by Kreisler, and "Andantino Cantabile," by Renaud; a ceremonial hymn by D'Ambrosie), Jean Hampson, violin, Edna Warren, accompanist.

"Allegro Moderate from 7th Concerto" by Rode, Hazel Dahlgren, violin, Dorothy Bamford, accompanist; "Grave" (Friedman Bach-Kreisler), Mrs

Speaker Talks As Home Burns

The doorbell rang noisily causing the group of girls and their guest speaker to jump nervously. A pledge went quietly to the door. Suddenly there was a sound of heavy feet on the stairs; they stopped at the door.

Every girl thought to herself, "How rude. Wait till this meeting is finished. I'm going to lecture the girl who is making all that noise."

Meantime more and more peculiar noises came from upstairs while the speaker tried valiantly to go on with her talk. Finally it was quiet again, the pledge reappeared, and the talk was over.

As the guest rose to go, the housemother entered and said:

"You must have wondered about the noise," she said, "someone came to the door or tell us our house was on fire. And sure enough a fire started in Evelyn Doyle's room. Helen Isabel Hall, Carol Sue Hudson, and Ruth Janet Rosbner Jane Ann Uhrban, and Mary Ene Nothern, freshmen.

Ruth Asbury, Mary Phillips Bond, Mary Virginia Miller, Irene Fremd, Elaine Miller, Hildebrandt, Mary Kastanakis, Elizabeth Ann Hall, Elizabeth McBride Miller, Rachel Ann Stein, and Sandra York, sophomores

Margaret Marie Bryant, Patricia Ann Fleming, Wilma Rose Johns, Lavinia Lou Miller, Virginia Irene Stewart, Elizabeth Uhrban, Ruth Jane Uhrban, and Edith Mays Williams, juniors.

Lena Margaret Bischoff Morrison, Jessup, Mrs Jorie Robertson Jessup, Mrs Ida Mcrrow, Caswell Adrienne Lasche, Virginia Lee Makemson, Helen Wilma Rose Mc Mary Ruth Rovers Lyle Thompson, and Margaret Vogt, seniors.

Nine Music Majors Play at Recital

Nine members of the School of Music participated in a recital in Carnegie auditorium Wednesday afternoon in the college auditorium. Each student played one number on the program, with five of the students choosing it for rendering their selections.

The program, which included one selection by each student, was as follows: "Mazurka" Bolzoni by Dora Cohen, who was accompanied by Myrtle Hoffman; "Souvenir de Sarasate" (W. Bolzoni by Mary Louise Crowell, violin, accompanied by Pauline Morrow; "Gavotte and Musette (D'Albert), Frances Rogers, piano; "Gigue" (Handel), Ruby Virginia Weaver, and "Andantino Cantabile," by Renaud; a ceremonial hymn by D'Ambrosie), Jean Hampson, violin, Edna Warren, accompanist.

"Allegro Moderate from 7th Concerto" by Rode, Hazel Dahlgren, violin, Dorothy Bamford, accompanist; "Grave" (Friedman Bach-Kreisler), Mrs

Life Of Skater Is Bumpy One

Spring is'coming! It's not just in the imagination of poets that people are beginning to learn to skate—not just one or two but here groups of them almost any skates every week-end and flock to popular levels.

To those who have mastered the art, skating is a delightful form of exercise. To those who have not learned how, it means a lot of falls and bruises.

Said one of the beginners. "It's like learning to walk over again. I'm always on the pavement."

Among the sights to be seen last week-end at the rink was one making good progress along a street with three others left behind. Another was groping her way along with a cane. The latter posed to hold it with two hands and balance myself, but it didn't seem to work very well. After 20 times I tried it; so I decided to play safe and use it this way," she explained.

The fact after a skating orry is particularly bad for a beginner, especially if her classes are all on the top floors of buildings. "If only I didn't have to climb thousand and VA steps I'd skate a lot more," she continued.

Even though I know how to skate pretty well, I have my troubles, too," said one of the students questioned. "One week-end a group of us went skating, and I fell down 15 times. Almost impossible in Tallahassee, doesn't it? But it really happened and we missed dinner."

Junior Top Ten Leads Averages

Registrar Announces High Class Records

From a recent list made of ten highest scholastic averages each class, the junior class found to lead with a record of 2.84 average. The freshmen ranks second with 2.81 the next group with 2.74, and the senior more group, 2.69.

These figures, compiled by registrar's office, are based on records made of the ten individual students of highest standing each of the four classes up to present time. The freshmen's averages represent one semester, sophomores three semesters, juniors five semesters, and seniors seven semesters.

Those holding the ten highest averages in each class include Mary Catherine Bellas Ann Evelyn Bodie, Helen Isabel Hall, Evelyn Doyle, Helen Isabel Hall, Carol Sue Hudson, Ruth Janet Rosbner Jane Ann Uhrban, and Mary Ene Nothern, freshmen.

Ruth Asbury, Mary Phillips Bond, Mary Virginia Miller, Irene Fremd, Elaine Miller, Hildebrandt, Mary Kastanakis, Elizabeth Ann Hall, Elizabeth McBride Miller, Rachel Ann Stein, and Sandra York, sophomores

Margaret Marie Bryant, Patricia Ann Fleming, Wilma Rose Johns, Lavinia Lou Miller, Virginia Irene Stewart, Elizabeth Uhrban, Ruth Jane Uhrban, and Edith Mays Williams, juniors.

Lena Margaret Bischoff Morrison, Jessup, Mrs Jorie Robertson Jessup, Mrs Ida Mcrrow, Caswell Adrienne Lasche, Virginia Lee Makemson, Helen Wilma Rose Mc Mary Ruth Rovers Lyle Thompson, and Margaret Vogt, seniors.

Swindell, violin, Sue Pruner, accompanist, "Concerto, G major (Mozart) accompanied by Mendelssohn Betty Graves, piano.

HOORAY AMERICA

Musical Comedy

On the Screen

STATE
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
February 23-24
Broadway Melody of 1940
FRED ASTAIRE • ELEANOR POWELL

SUNDAY & MONDAY
February 25-26
The Way Down East
DOROTHY LAMOUR

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
February 27-28
A great story... a great performance... a great picture for the realm of imagination

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 29
—On the Stage—
Musical Revue
"HOORAY AMERICA"
—On the Screen—
A SHORT STORY of TODAY'S TIMES
All Women Have Secrets
with JEAN GARGAN (Dionne Quints) and Gloria Dickson

RITZ
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23
NELSON EDDY in "BALALAIKA"

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 24
ROY ROGERS in
"Days of Jesse James"

SUNDAY & MONDAY
February 25-26
FRED ASTAIRE in
Broadway Melody of 1940"

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
February 27-28
WALLACE BEERY in
"The Man from Dakota"

THURSDAY & FRIDAY
February 29-30
Charles Laughton in
"The Hunchback of Notre Dame"

Glamour Girl

BLOUSES

Be a femme fatale in one of these delectable new Glamour Girl blouses for Leap Year—designed to make you lovelier! Fabrics beautiful fabrics that launder beautifully in LUX. Above: imported sheer batiste with lacework trim and V-neck... dainty as a daisy. Dress—Size 32-38 in navy or black. Below: lace trimmed chiffon with tucked shirt-boom... in white and newest Spring pastels. Size 32-40.

$1.95

LIPPMAN'S
HUB STORE

SCW Swimmers Enter Contest

Tryouts for 10 Events Will Be Held Monday

Florida State college will participate in the International Telegraphic contest which will be held from February 26 to March 15. The results of the meet will be telegraphed to the sponsoring college for this year by Texas State College for Women who won the meet in 1939.

Tryouts for the meet will be held Monday at 4:30 in the pool. Ten events will be included in the meet. The crawl, back and breast strokes will be held at 40 yards and 100 yards; medley relay at 60 yards, and free style relay at 80 yards. Entries for these events are to be submitted within the four districts, central, eastern, southern, western. The central district will be in charge of entries with an entrance of seventy-five swimmers, followed by the eastern district, representing the district October 11, and the western district 9.

First requirements will be entrance upon all the colleges and universities participating. The rules limit number and distance each swim papers vouching for accuracy in regard to rules and time will be kept by a physician who will vouch for each participant being a health and fit person. All swimmers must be checked by a competent jeweler.

In 1938 Florida State college entered two of the honors of Martha Hazelman, winning the 60-yard back stroke in 39.1 seconds and Marion Weeks won the 100-yard breast stroke in 1:30. In the last four years this college has not participated.

Posture Clinic Held Wednesday

Following the business meeting of the Girls' Recreation Association last Wednesday night, a posture clinic was held with Miss Katherine W. Montgomery in charge. Junior and senior physical education majors acted as figure of freshmen and sophomores.

Posture types were classified as "correct," for those having poor posture, "relaxed," those having round shoulders, and "artificial-erect" for those having almost perfect posture.

Janet Wells, who had the highest number of points, Mildred Wood, Jean Wood, and Denora Tyler were cited as "artificials." After the clinic Dr. Sarah Parker Wiley gave a talk and read a poem on posture.

During the business meeting a nominating committee was selected for the elections which will take place at the next meeting of the association. A debate by Irene Prend, Ovella Linton, Pat Pellerin, and Anna Frances McKay will also be held at this meeting with Miss Nellie-Bond Dunmeyer, Miss Grace Fox, and Miss Rebecca G. Averitt as judges.

Alumnae President Expresses Thanks

I wish to express my deep appreciation to the college officials, Dr. Conradi, Mr. Kollum, Dean Dorman, Miss Katherine Warren, and many others who worked so tirelessly to entertain the two thousand details of arrangement that Mrs. Roosevelt's appearance here.

To Miss Rachel Pitchford and her committee in the dining hall for their generous, helpful publicity.

To Miss Mary Mooty of the art department for arranging the lovely flowers that lined the stage of the auditorium.

To Dr. Conrad and Mr. LaJoie for their helpful work and cooperation.

To all members of the faculty and staff of the college for their splendid co-operation with the alumnae with seating arrangements. I appreciate their sympathetic understanding and helpfulness in trying to solve an impossible problem.

To the student body officials, the usher committees of 1939 and 1940, members of Student Body and Sophomore Council for their untiring efforts in making this mammoth undertaking.

To Miss Tracy and her staff for their patience and poise in serving dinner at a later hour than usual.

To Dean Opperman and Miss Dye for arranging the delightful period of relaxation for the occasion.

My sincere thanks to Miss Charlotte Stevens, alumnae secretary, for her help and efficiency in handling so many people in the office.

Lastly to the sophomore and freshman classes for their willingness and thoughtful unselfish austiude in giving up their seats in the auditorium at the request of the alumnae and special guests of the college and to have the opportunity of seeing and hearing Mrs. Roosevelt. To Miss Katherine Byrd and Miss Ann Pope for their splendid spirit of helpfulness in remaining with the girls at the dormitories.

I hope that the inadequate seating capacity of the auditorium was sufficiently impressed upon the people last Saturday and that the event of Mrs. Roosevelt's lecture will lead to a serious consideration and promotion of a movement to actually set a new auditorium for the college. If this is the outgrowth of the sacrifice of the sophomore and freshman classes, then I am sure they will feel repaid and that their unselfish act was justified.

MRS. FRANK D. MOOR.

Girls Help With City Recreation

Leadership Students Announce Activities

Members of the recreational leadership class, under Miss Mary Hirth's supervision, are participating in the Tallahassee recreation movement, under the guidance of Mr. Carter, head of the Tallahassee recreation department. Each student in the class go to the Leon county armory on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to play games with the children of the town in sports, dramatic, and other activities. There is a committee for wrunts and tumbling, composed of Jean Wood, Peaches McKay, Meta Helms, and Marion Preeling; and a committee for mass activities and games composed of Frances Battle, Evelyn Hartley, and Pauli Mylhertz. Irene Prend Louise Rice, and Mary Jane Hedrick, in charge of the children's activities. Each student in the class is voluntary and the group rejoices in their interest and in recreational leadership for its first week.

Another leadership committee is the committee for mass activities and goes to the old Leon high school building on Monroe street and on Friday afternoon and teaches handicraft to the high school students and to the children in the old field of work. Jane McCay, Ida Mae McCormick, Ruth Hall, and Mabel Nihoul are the members of this group.

Another recreational leadership class also assists with the faculty play-party on Monday night and also the Friday night play-night. Gene Bryan, Marion Preeling, Dorothy Mercer, and Cowin are the members assisting with the Monday night recreation badminton, bridge, Chinese checkers, shuffleboard, and other quiet "figure streamlining" are made available by this group to faculty members attending.

Plans are being made by the Friday night play-night committee, of which the co-ordinator of the activities is Mary Jane Hedrick, for a square dance. World's Fair dance, a fandango, and a Mardi Gras committee, which is composed of Florend Brown, Martha Murphy Cave Jordan, and Mary Jane Hedrick, intends to announce further plans later.

Senate Passes On Proposed Change

A change involving selection of sophomore council during the month of March was considered at senate Wednesday afternoon of this week. Following a motion from Miss Maud Jones, Article III, Section 1 of the By-Laws was revised to read as follows: "During the month of March approximately 40 girls from the freshman class shall be selected to constitute sophomore council. The group selecting sophomore council shall consist of executive council of C.G.A. president of W.A.A., president of Student Association of Student Government convention at Shorter college in Rome, Ga., next month. The three-day meeting will begin on March 28 and conclude on March 30. No delegates will be sent to the Florida student government convention this year.

On the proposal of Mamie Ruth Bargeit, chairman of residence halls committee and chairman of off-campus committee were raised from five-point offices to six-point offices. During the concluding moments of the meeting a committee made up of Kathleen McCarthy, Helen Miller, Martha Strobere, Elizabeth Rogers and Berni Mitchell was appointed to work with Mart Pierson, secretary of C.G.A. on nominations for May queen this year.

High Schools Participate In Basketball Tournament

The district basketball tournament for B and C girls' junior and senior high schools will be played at the college gymnasium here beginning Thursday and Saturday. The Florida high school team will be host. Winners in high school finals will be played Thursday night at 8 o'clock and the senior finals at 8 o'clock will be played Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

May Day Helpers Chosen

Sonia Mitchell and Beth Blair were elected assistant chairmen of May Day at a junior class meeting Tuesday afternoon. They will assist Martha Robbins, chairman of May Day.

At the end of the year the junior class will elect one of these girls to be chairman for next year.

Star-Gazing Teacher Announces Unusual Astronomical Set-Up

Two Eclipses to Take Place During the Year, One Visible in Tallahassee, One in Africa

The future looks rather bright, at least from an astronomical viewpoint, according to Miss Elizabeth Lyon, instructor in physics, who keeps an eye on the wanderings of other worlds by means of the college telescope and sets of charts. Nearly any clear night you may find her and her scopes on the lawn in front of the Westcott building initiating lines of gaping physical science students into the mysteries of Saturn's rings or the horizontal bar stripes of Mars. Yesterday, however, we sat in her office surrounded by green steel lockers and sunshine, while she described enthusiastically the state of the heavens for the next few months.

"At present," she said, "we have a very interesting grouping of the planets—one that most people since only once in a lifetime. Beginning low on the western horizon we can see Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, and Mars one above the other, like a chain along the Zodiac. Mercury is so near the sun, though, that it can be glimpsed only rarely because of the haze." Going to a chart tacked to the wall of the small office she pointed out five lines, each of a different color, to represent the paths of the five planets mentioned. With a finger on the red line of Mars and another on the yellow line of Saturn she continued. "You see here that Saturn and Mars were in conjunction on the thirteenth of this month; that is, they were the same number of degrees away from the sun and so appeared close together. From now on they will begin to move apart. If the weather hadn't been cloudy on the thirteenth we could have seen the crescent moon, too, right between the two planets."

At another point on the chart stares red line, Venus' green one, and Mercury's purple one are conjoined. That, Miss Lynn explained, marked another interesting grouping, visible to the public around the middle of June.

Two eclipses will take place during the year, the astronomical figures indicate, but only one will be visible from Tallahassee. However, that one is by far the more important. Miss Lynn hastened to tell the reporter. "It won't be what we call an 'annular' or 'ring' eclipse and will take place on April 7. At that time the small shadow of the moon will pass the face of the sun, leaving a ring of the sun's face visible around the shadow. The middle of the eclipse will begin at 8:26 a.m." She delved into two official-looking books with one on top of figures. "You see the middle will come at six minutes after five, and the ring effect will last only five and four-tenths minutes. Tallahassee is fortunate in being directly in the path of this eclipse or we shouldn't see this peculiar effect at all."

A second eclipse on October 1 will be visible only in South America and parts of Africa which would mean a rather far jaunt even for an astronomically minded student. On November 11, however, Tallahassee will have an opportunity to witness another unusual phenomenon, a transit of Mercury, meaning that Mercury will pass directly over earth and the sun. The small planet will appear as a tiny black dot moving over the fiery expanse of the afternoon sun. Also during the month occur in a hundred-year period, and the next showing will be in 1940.

The telescope, under Miss Lynn's supervision, will be taken out tonight in order that stargazers can do some constructive gazing at the moon and the beautiful "naked" planet Saturn, providing the weather man grants a clear night and a scarcity of tornadoes.

Robbins Reports Intramural Scores

Martha Robbins, senior intramural manager, announces the following scores for the sports played so far this year. Those are the volley ball, basketball, ping pong and tennis.

Tying for first place in final intra-mural scores so far are Jennie Murphree and Gene Bryan with a total score of 950 points each. Jennie Murphree received 200 points for volley ball, 400 for tennis, basketball 225, and ping pong 100. Gene Bryan's total score place with 850 points, and Alpha Delta Pi third, with 775 points. Reynolds Hall, 625 points, is fourth, and the Newman club, fifth, with 575 points.

Other final scores are: Delta Zeta, 550; Delta Delta Delta, 525; Pi Beta Phi, 450; Methodists, 450; Kappa Delta, 450; Alpha Gamma Delta, 350; Presbyterian, 350; Kappa Alpha Theta, 300; Sigma Kappa, 300; Alpha Chi Omega, 300; Zeta Tau Alpha, 250; Christian, 250; Bryan Hall, 150; Gamma Phi Beta, 150; Mu, 150; Dining Room, 100; Baptist, 100; Episcopal, 100; Alpha Xi Delta, 100; Landis Hall, 50, and Episcopals, 50.

Odd Teams Win At Badminton

Finals Friday Night Close Week of Games

Before a crowded gallery of cheering play-sitters, the Odds scored high in a thrilling victory at the finals of the Odd-Even badminton games in the gymnasium Friday night.

A total of five games were played. In the doubles set, the Odds won two out of three games. In the singles the two opponents tied the first score and played it off to the Odd's advantage. The Odds also took the second game, so a third was not played.

Lined up against each other in the doubles set were Minnie Ratliff and Cornelia Watson, Odds, and Meta Helms and Mary Jane Medlin, Evens. The Odds won the series with Ratliff in the right court. Both teams, well matched, ran exciting at first to test the opposing strength, but after the first three points the Odds' offensive took over with the surprise hits of Medlin to back them up. The score ran up to 15-11, in favor of the Evens.

In the second game of the set it was a toss-up as to which was the stronger team. The Evens had a steady, dependable player in Meta Helms, who was good on both short and long strokes and a tricky player in Jane Medlin. Medlin's deceptive placing is effective in catching her opponents unaware. She had a deceptive serve and soft smashes which she often followed up with soft; taps close to the net. However many of her smashes were wild and the ball went into the net or landed at her feet.

The Odds had one dependable player in Cornelia Watson, who had a good reach and took all of the high shots. Ratliff showed good comebacks in surprise shots.

The game started out fast, but slowed up under numerous errors on both sides. The score was tied 13-13, and the Evens set the point up five. The Odds took it with a hish score of 18-13. They also took the third game, 15-7.

The singles set was played with Paulette Nolan, Even, and Ruth Thomas, Odd, with her doubles partner against each other in a badminton tournament in Mall Hattaway the summer for the Y. W. C. A. and Thomas won the championship.

Springs, 300; Alpha Chi Omega, 300; Zeta Tau Alpha, 250; Christian, 250; Bryan Hall, 150; Gamma Phi Beta, 150; Mu, 150; Dining Room, 100; Baptist, 100; Episcopal, 100; Alpha Xi Delta, 100; Landis Hall, 50, and Episcopals, 50.

WAA Calendar

Today

4:30—Odd - Even swimming meet.

8:00—Playnight (at gym) sponsored by F club.

Tomorrow

2:00-5:00—"Open House" at gym fencing, badminton, dancing.

Monday

4:30—Odd soccer and hockey practice.

7:30—F club meeting in Bryan atrium.

9:00—"Recreation Night" held at gym for faculty.

Tuesday

4:30—Even hockey and soccer practice.

4:30—Tarpon club practice.

Wednesday

4:30—Odd soccer and hockey practice.

6:00—Pre-training course for life-saving instructions in pool.

Thursday

4:30—Even soccer and hockey practice.

4:30—Tarpon club practice.

Students Will See Dance Exhibition

A dance demonstration and lecture, directed by Miss Nellie Bond Dunmeyer, instructor in physical education, will be given in the gym for members of humanities classes and orientation physical education classes Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock by members of Miss Dickinson's classes.

The demonstration will include techniques, in which all dance students will participate, and composition work in which each class will present different work. The lecture, which will be open to one interested, will be given by Miss Dickinson.

First Playnight Held for Faculty

Various Sports Are Available Each Week

Twenty-five faculty members were at the gym last Monday night enthusiastically playing badminton, swimming, dancing, playing ping-pong, fencing, learning golf, and whole-heartedly engaging in the more strenuous activities of life. This, the first of the faculty play nights, to be held from now on each Monday night from 8 o'clock to 9:30, is an experiment begun by the recreational leadership class under the direction of Miss Mary Suffet, and for the purpose of making a social time to all the faculty these vigorous activities.

The only students admitted to the gym at those hours are those who are instructing in some sport as a member of the class. Games other than these more "violent" activities are offered to those who prefer them, such as those for bridge, Chinese checkers, or just "looking-on."

The play-night will be in collaboration with the recreational leadership group, is planning a student-faculty dance in the near future. Other plans include work in puppetry at the faculty play-nights and construction of marionettes will be demonstrated next Monday night.

Former Dance Instructor Will Return Next Quarter

Miss Claudia Moore, former instructor of dance here, will return at the beginning of the fourth quarter when Miss Katherine Montgomery, director of physical education, will take a part-time leave. Miss Montgomery will maintain her general executive work in the physical education department, while Miss Mary Suffle, instructor in physical education, will take over the director's daily work.

Landis Dormitory Will Be Open to Summer Students

Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence halls announced that summer school students will be allowed to live in Landis hall with the opening of the first session on January 10.

Men students will be housed in Bryan hall as they were last year, Miss Flowers said.

The plan of having two sessions, which was inaugurated last year, will be continued. The first session is scheduled for June 10 through July 20, and the second session for July 22 through August 24, making a total of 11 weeks.

'57' Club Formed To Recognize Laughter Producing Students

Highest Honor, Award of Dishonor, Bestowed On Girl Who Makes Worst Breaks in Class

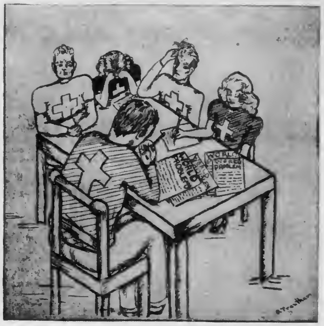
If you, by chance should enter the Sit Spot and Spoon about 3:30 on Friday afternoon; and if you should see three girls sipping Coke, talking and laughing and if, by chance, these girls should be wearing conspicuous cardboard pins; then you have been a spectator at a meeting of the mystic "57" club.

The club was organized by three girls in a certain class on campus who found they were outstanding in their humorous remarks in class. Quips had been made by each of the three that the class in an uproar. Feeling that such humor should not be limited to the confining boundaries of the classroom nor judged by the biased eyes of a teacher, they organized their activities and have developed an organization whose purpose is to encourage their cracks and quips in class.

On one side in the Spit and Spoon, you will probably see a new membership pin. A larger pin of the same material with queer figures on it. Though it appears to be just a cardboard square clumsily fastened to the left breast proud owner, in reality, a symbol of a great honor. Worn in part as tribute to the most deserving of the trio. It is called "highest Award," and it bears four figures. The first is of two letters, "S. S." which stands for Spit and Spoon. The second is of a dunce-cap, the meaning of which need not be explained, the third is a "foaming pint from fountain pen", which is the format of their first class-room activity as a club 'not taking Price but procuring a leaky pen' they wouldn't tell but they said it was personal; and the fourth award is a hand-man's noose which signifies the favorite pastime of the members of the '57' club—playing hangman's noose. This highest award has been labelled the Dishonor Award for the girl who makes the worst breaks in class that cause the most giggling among the members.

The story is told that at one meeting a member of the trio had to leave the "Spic" before the others. The remaining two members stayed for awhile, and seeing the first member on campus later the more impulsive of the two ran up to her and said, "Oh, we had the best time after you left!" This member wore the dishonor award for two weeks afterward.

The second award is the first on record in honor of mediocrity. The girl receives this award who amazes the others with her wit nor remains dull in the classes for that reason. This pin is just a little smaller than the first and bears the "S. S." symbol and the "fountine pen."



The third award is considered an insult. It is called the honor award and is granted to the wise guy making dumb. The pin is also making its meaning fairly small as befits its meaning and the word "dumb" is used.

During their meetings at the "Spic and Spoon" every Friday, the girls play their pet game "hangman's noose." They have several pet words for this game among them, antidisestablishmentarianism, idiosyncracy, and parapsychology. All three members are constantly searching for new and longer words and when one is found and revealed the club howls of into gales of laughter while more somber "Spic" customers stare and stare at the "57" club.

Roseboxds were served and eaten in old Rholand mouth as we were radishes today.

The chairman for the next meeting will be Marion Preeling.

Youth Conference

Behind Military Ball

With college students all over the country voting overwhelmingly for peace in polls of student opinion, and with people saying that world peace is the thing most to be desired, it seems more than a trifle inconsistent that next weekend several hundred Florida State college girls will go to Gainesville to attend a military ball.

There are those who laugh at mixing the principles of national and world peace with dances and other social functions. Why associate the spotless, attractive, dashing uniforms and gleaming polished boots with the ill-clad, half-frozen ghosts of men who stumble wearily through the snow and sub-zero weathee of a strange land—Finland? Why speak of the gay, laughing, joking fellows in Gainesville, whose thoughts for the weekend are concentrated on girls and fun, in the same breath with many another fellow in Europe who is struggling grimly each day to keep himself alive? Why? Because those other men and boys are not as far away from us as we would like to believe they are. Because behind all of the tom-foolery of Kay Kyser and his Kollege of Musical Knowledge is the principle of compulsory military training for colleges—a principle which is reminiscent of the youth programs of Germany, Russia, and Italy.

Where are the majority of the young men of the first two countries mentioned? Probably wishing down in their hearts, even deeper than where their feelings for the doctrines of Hitler and Stalin are imbedded, that they could change places with us in our still peaceful land. Probably wishing that they could sit down again to a table groaning under its load of delicious, steaming food instead of having to subsist on poor quality, testeless, scanty rations. As our young men march down the field in Gainesville, they should be very thankful that they are parading before their bouquet-laden sponsors in this democratic country instead of before some stern-visaged dictator who is sending them into war to attempt to carry out his wild schemes for world supremacy.

Such functions as Military Ball help to do their bit to glorify things military. Dance music, soft lights, gaiety, men in uniforms and girls in swirling evening dresses cover with a thin veneer of glamour the not so cheerful fact that European boys' military training helped to prepare them for where they are today. We would all do well to keep that thought in mind.

Alumnae Speaking

I have been asked to make a statement concerning the use, by the faculty, of the new Student-Alumnae building. I realize that once this building is completed and furnished it becomes a unit of management under the supervision of the college authorities. However, I can tell you of the original purpose for which the various rooms in the building were planned, since it became my duty and privilege as president of the Alumnae Association to make a study of conditions and neede of the various organizations on the college campus.

After making a thorough study of these needs, then writing to some two dozen colleges and universities over the country who already had such buildings for blue prints of their plans, I set out to do the difficult task of planning the location and use of the various rooms in the building.

I wish you to know that my original thought, and it is my present one as well, was that this building should serve as a real center of activity on the college campus. It should be a place where students can gather for recreation, social diversion and for carrying on the work of their various organizations. My idea with regard to the use of the building by the faculty and alumnae of the college was, and still is, that these two groups would be not only thrice welcome to use this building with the students but would be urged to do so. In fact, a special club room on the second floor was originally planned for a room where members of the faculty would feel free to go to meet their friends socially with each other, with students, and with the alumnae. There was also a committee room on this floor designed for the use of the faculty, and for faculty and students. This is still my idea, if it is worth anything.

In answer to a general rumor on the campus that the Tallahassee alumnae have gone on record as opposing the use of the building by the faculty, I know that no such act has been taken and I cannot imagine our beautiful new Student-Alumnae building without the fellowship and presence of the faculty.

Mrs. Frank D. Moor, President, Alumnae Association.

It's a good thing to know how your bread is buttered and take heed. When it is the advertisers who support our paper it only follows that we support them, too. Week in and week out they pay for space in these pages and make possible their publication. Merchants who advertise will be found to be reliable, and next time your allowance starts burning a hole in your pocket, patronizing these stores will bring satisfaction.

Your Government.....

By MAXINE ARMISTEAD

Do you ever wonder from where the money for our publications, tha four classes, conventions, and dances comes? Most of us know that we have a student activity fee, but few of us realize that there is a part of our government which sets aside the funds, carefully allotting and budgeting, carefully auditing the books to make possible the most activities here.

* * * * *

Budget Committee . . . .

The budget committee is responsible for this work. Set up in 1935, this committee is a standing sommittee of college council. It is made up of three faculty members, who lend their knowledge and experience to the five student members. The faculty members are Dr. Venila L. Shores, Miss Louella Richey, and Miss Ruth Schornherst. Three of the student members, Patty Holbert and Sonia Mitchell, who are juniors, and Harriet Kent, a senior, are appointed by college council. Gene Dunn, who serves as chairman of the auditing committee, and Ruth Rogers, who serves as chairman of the committee as a whole, are chosen by student senate. These two chairmen must be seniors. Serving in ea-officio capacity is the dean of students and the business manager of the college.

* * * * *

Auditing Committee . . . .

The auditing committee, whose chairman is Harriet Kent, is a standing committee of student senate, but Harriet also serves on the budget committee. It is the duty of this committee to audit the books of all student organizations receiving money from the student activity fee at the end of the first semester and again at the end of each treasurer's term of office in the organization.

* * * * *

Procedure And Duties . . . .

The duties of the committee are quite extensive. They must survey the activities covered by the student activity fee and reorganize the distribution of the funds. They must prorate the part of the student activity fee which is allotted to the four classes, C. G. A., W. A. A., and the publications. They must draft a budget for any organization that fails to hand in a budget by the third Monday in April. They must approve budgets, report approved budgets to the business manager and receive the report of the auditing committee.

Each organization concerned must make out its budget for the coming year by two weeks after installation of the new officers. This budget is made up by the out-going and in-coming presidents. The budget committee then puts all tha budgets together to decide on the validity of each request and to decide what prorata share of seven dollars of student activity fee administered by the committee should go to the organization or activity receiving funds. Too, tha committee must make definite allotment to each item in each budget.

After this is done, the budgets are submitted to college council in May with recommendations for changes in the machinery of administering the funds. The approval of the administrative officers must then be obtained. Tha first meeting of the committee in the fall is devoted to hearing protests from organizations concerning their budgets. The budget is then presented in final form to college council.

* * * * *

Funds . . . .

In the prorating of the seven dollars fee to C. G. A., W. W. A., the classes, and publications, there is a convention fund, a dance fund, and a social fund set aside. Tha convention fund, set up last year, may be drawn on by C. G. A., W. A. A. and the publications. The organization must petition the budget committee for the money, stating the purpose and the expense of each item.

The dance fund is even newer than the convention fund, having just come in this year as a result of a recommendation from last year's social committee. Its purpose is to concentrate the funds spent for dances; each organization that sponsors a dance is alloted a certain amount. Then any money not spent or any profit made by the sale of tickets goes into a reserve fund to be drawn upon. A good example of the use of a reserve fund is the new "jook" organ in Landis recreation hall, which was paid for in part by money from the reserves of the dance fund.

After all the budgets have been drawn up, and the allotments have been made, the work of the budget committee for the remainder of the year consists of considering special petitions and formulating recommendations.

Quotable Quotes

"College men and women are peculiarly tha sentinels on the outer walls. There was never more need for clear thinking and courageous doing by college men and women than there is today. We of the universities must more aggressively, more earnestly, more militantly combat these falacies and heresies and expound and 'sell' representative democracy. It is the bastion of our liberties; and the foundation of our faith must not be undermined." Diplomat Joseph E. Davies (Wisconsin '98) urges collegians to fight the falacies of today's world.

"Education is the leading out of the indvidual into an efficient and fully integrated personality, at home comfortably with himself and with his fellows, and in the world in which he lives, equipped to make a living and to live a life while he makes his living and en rapport with the ultimate spiritual realities that lie back of the visible phenomena of the university." Boston University's Pres. Daniel L. Marsh states his definition of modern high education.

"Educators throughout the nation may have sound reason for confidence in the sensibleness of present-day university students. All of the international and national political and economic jargon which they have heard outside the classroom, and perhaps in a few classrooms, has not caused them to lose faith in opportunities for careers in existing American enterprises and professions, nor have they been attracted by the bonanza of government debt or private borrowing as an educational aid." Dean C. W. Ackerman of Columbia university's journalism school, asserts his faith in the college youth of the nation.—ACP.

Collegiate Comebacks

We were reading about a Miami at Oxford journalist who offered anyone, anyone, 25 cents an hour for writing for her. We ain't got no money but we do have a new, well, practically new rabbit's foot and quarterlies are only three weeks off.

* * * * *

We got a letter the other day from the Gainesville columnist he still thinks:

1. Hedy ain't so glammerus
2. We're better (isn't that sweet?)
3. But our sense of humor is demented.

Well, what do they expect when they bring jokes like this up?

A tramp was sleeping on a railroad track and a train came along and ran over his feet. But don't feel sorry for him, he has a good job now. He makes holes for men to plant potatoes.

Yah, and he has a better job now—he works in a bakery and makes holes in donuts.

Ain't that funny?

* * * * *

And then there's the item in the exchanges about the faculty of a northern school that put on a musical revue for the students. We can just imagine some of our more stately professors executing buck and wings and singing, "You're Letting the Grass Grow Under Your Feet?"

* * * * *

Ode to those of us who aren't cute—

While all you gals are busing
To the Military ball
Tha rest of us are cussing
At the military bawl.

* * * * *

Maybe when we write stuff like this it's time some one else takes over.

So next week we're gonna quit worrying (1) about hurting people's feelings (2) Deadlines (3) Not being constructive. Any Thursday night from now on anyone can find us outside the Democrat office making faces at the poor sisters. We're weeping, we're sad, we're nostalgic.

* * * * *

We really thought Mr. English's speech was grand—what this country needs in active citizenship, but when he said, . . . "automobiles, homes, silk stockings—the best things in life"—we wondered.

* * * * *

And by way of variety we're still chuckling to ourselves about the girl who heard that the boy she'd asked up to a dance was having initiation that weekend. Did she wait to hear from him? Nope. She wired, "Sorry, but you can't come up this weekend. Be seeing you."

* * * * *

On the night of Wednesday, February 21, approximately 400 students filed into the auditorium to watch the demonstration scheduled by Venetian glassblowers. The lecture preceeding the demonstration was so interesting that we wish to quote it:

The demonstration was as follows.

Following the intriguing and breath-taking demonstration Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews addressed the students and they left tha auditorium.

* * * * *

Overheard: FUN'S fun but you can't just sit around and laugh all the time.

* * * * *

They say Dr. Richards is crazy about electricity. Now we guess that makes him an electric fan

* * * * *

Charles N. Pollack, Harvard senior, has a very, very red face—and here's why:

When the Crimson relay swimming team decided to make a try for a new record in the 800 yard distance, Pollack was chosen to call out tha laps to the swimmers from the edge of the pool. The first three mermen turned in excellent time, and the fourth member of the team was well on his way to breaking the established record, when—Caller Pollack became over-excited, fell into the water atop the record-breaker! He fled from the pool—with the swimmers doing some tall calling of their own in his direction!

* * * * *

Editorialists on the University of Minnesota's Daily have a new and not too complimentary (to themselves) explanation for the current feminine hat fads. Listen to their spouting:

"With a half-dozen exceptions, the girls all buy hats. And it's no use trying to figure out why. What appeals to the ladies is clearly the ludicrous—after all, look at the things they marry."

Magazine Jottings . . . .

Many thousands of words are published each week in articles about those outstanding topics of speculation—the third term question, the economy program, armament expenditures. Everyone, from the expert economists down to the country newspaper editor, seems to feel called upon to express his opinion. Few have hard cold facts upon which to base their reasoning. They simply guess that what they want to happen will happen. In this week's "New Republic" there is an article which "hits the nail on the head" with a hammer made up of substantial reasoning—Bruce Blivon's "The Six Washington Jitters."

Mr Blivon faces his issues squarely. He lists the problems which he thinks are at present giving Washington not one but six cases of "Jitters." The first of these is the third term question. Mr. Blivon feels that Mr. Roosevelt does not wish to run again, but that he may give in to persuasion from those who think that he is the only Democrat who could win in the forthcoming election.

A second unexpected upset left Washington collecting its wits—John L. Lewis' walk-out on the New Deal. Many and varied are the explanations given to account for his action, the most probable being that Mr Lewis is not and never has been a New Dealer at heart, and now believing that he has extracted all of the good which is coming to labor from the present administration, he has gone in search of greener pastures. Mr. Lewis, says Bruce Blivon, is acting like an editorial writer, telling everyone what is wrong with the world while he sits waiting for things to happen. Has he forgotten, or doesn't he really know, how strong opposition can be toward labor unions in a less liberal administration?

Washington's jitter number three is caused by the economy wave, which apparently with the support, or at least the consent, of Mr. Roosevelt, is going through Congress like wild fire. This wave has some queer features. It is cutting down on funds for such works as PWA, WPA, NYA and CCC, leaving persons fired from these ranks to fall back on the community for help. At the same time in order to increase prosperity and protect our country, the economy wave is increasing expenditures for armaments. Quoting Mr. Blivon: "President Roosevelt is not callous like so many men on the Hill; he is just mistaken. He honestly believes that one-half billion dollars spent for battleships does the country as much good as one-half billion dollars spent for schools, roads, bridges, and dams." The approximate two billion dollars allotted for armaments each year will come from revenues 60% of which are collected from "indirect and hidden taxes." That is the kind of taxes which are passed on to the consumer without his being aware of it—the kind that are paid by those of the lowest income group, and not by the wealthy. People who can scarcely manage the necessities of food, clothing, and shelter, will pay for the guns.

Reputable economists know that government isn't like private institutions—an unbalanced budget does not spell disaster, nor a balanced one prosperity. Quite the opposite is true, they maintain, for a federal defecit may make the national income 10 to 20 per cent greater. The president, who seemingly didn't learn this lesson from the 1937 economy spree with its disasterous results, appears to be preparing to get burned all over again.

The fourth of the problems which are worrying Washington is the absence of the prophesied war boom. Long predicted, somehow to date it has failed to arrive. Indeed, our exports to France and Great Britain have decreased since 1937. There has been, it is true, a total increase of exports, because the warring countries are not at present able to sell to all of their former buyers, but as soon as the war gets a little farther under way, the participants may be expected to begin again a struggle to maintain their foreign trade, just as in World War I. As time goes on they will be able to supply more and more of their own needs as well, and will probably have a shortage of money, so that we may expect a decrease in the present war trade.

Washington these days is being held in a state of fear-of-expressing-its-opinions. It is troubled by a search for radicals, communists, fascists, and what have you—namely the investigations of the Dies, Smith and Woodram committees. Mr. Blivon, however, is of the opinion that this country is less in danger of radical opinions than ever before because of the confusion the European situation has caused. But the hunts for "Un-Americanism" have their effect, for they scare Congress into being ultra-conservative, and keep leaders from expressing opinions of any except the most the most un-radical type.

The last of the sets of jitters in Washington is caused by an undercurrent—the rising feeling held by some of the influential leaders that the United States must eventually take an active part in the European struggle. Says Mr Blivon, "These people don't for the most part actually wish the United States to go to war. They only wish to have us do the things which, six months or a year hence, will produce a war fever in themselves and many other people."

Whether one agrees wholly or not with all of Mr. Blivon's conclusions, we cannot help but think that they are based on a sound knowledge of national events. Undoubtedly he has his fingers close on the pulse of the nation, and is better prepared than we are to draw conclusions. We think that reading articlee like this one is well worth anyone's time because they stimulate one's thoughts along new and different lines, and especially because they do make one think.

Turning from news to news-gathering, we read an article in the same New Republic comparing the radio with read-

Continued on Page Six

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

JEANNETTE MULLIS — Editor
MABEL BENNETT — Associate Editor
MURYL ROLAND, LOUISE RICE — Managing Editors
VIVIAN AHLSWEH — News Editor

Exchanges, Polly Douglas; Outside News, Margaret Painter; Columnist, Isabel Day; Society, Margaret Scott; Sports, Sara Rooney; Copy Editor, Sarah Worth; Picture Editor, Iris Bell

Reporters: Harriet Benson, Bertha Bond, Mary Catherine Bogut, Louise Burger, Mary Coldwell, Doris Carter, Marlene Dale, Pauline Dale, Marguerite Diaz, Helen Emmanuel, Anne Gaylord, Celeste Herdee, Kitty Jo Hickman, Emma Jean Hisley, Bettye Hyatt, Peter McGrew, Mabel Nihoul, Jayne Mendenhall, Eleanor Miller, Mary Francis Oven, Velma Pate, Grace Rushing, Sibyle Sanders, Betty Ann Taylor, Jennie Thomasson, Isabelle Waterhouse, Belle Tonge, Vadah Walker

BUSINESS STAFF

GRACE SPARKMAN — Business Manager
LILLIAN BOWNESS — Assistant Business Manager
VELMA CATE — Circulation
MARY GLENN GRIMES — Advertising

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879

Members National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y.
CHICAGO · BOSTON · LOS ANGELES · SAN FRANCISCO

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

Of The World

By MARGARET PAINTER

Third Term . . . .

Once again members of the democratic party are bringing pressure to bear on President Roosevelt concerning his third-term plans.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson, Democrat from Colorado, who has declared that Mr. Roosevelt will be glad to step down, makes it clear that he will decline the nomination spoiled the torch.

The chief executive has been reminded that it is beneath the dignity of his office to manipulate politics. Johnson feels that if Mr. Roosevelt's intentions to step down are to be the end, his present attitude of silence is best, but if he has no intention of accepting the nomination, his silence besides demoralizing and ruining the Democratic party, it stifles any chances any other Democratic nominee may have.

Touch the recent Republican National Committee meeting in Pennsylvania has not yet shown any signs of swinging any one candidate's attitude, party leaders have a firm conviction that Wendell D. Willkie, the dark horse, will have to beat in the elections in November.

Turn now to the assumption that the president will seek a third term. Several factors have influenced their conclusions. For F. D. R.'s changing of the Democratic party. C. O. P. leaders believe was done because the president knew that by breaking his tradition, he could confuse American voters by the overturning of another. Secondly they believe that Hull, McNutt and Farley are mistakes put up in order to present unflattering comparisons with the president.

Another and extremely favorable pointed for pro-third term, is the humbling hope for European peace, which plays right into their hands.

Aid To Finland?

According to leading Scandinavian newspapers, Germany has threatened to invade Sweden if the European war if Sweden participates in the defense of Finland.

Reports from Berlin, Germany, from the declarations of both the Swedish king and premier, some countries and countries had threatened Sweden with war, Swedish and Finnish newspapers and Italo-Germany is that country.

Svenska Dagbladet, semi-official Finnish newspaper, accuses Sweden of having her own interests and is preparing the way to Germany's threats. Commenting on Count Ciano's proclamation, made the first of the week, and stating that Sweden could not interfere on behalf of Finland without herself being drawn into a world war, the newspaper openly lashed Germany with threats, and was in order to halt Sweden's plan to aid the Finns.

More than shows on the surface to uphold the Swedish "no help for Finland" announcement, but the Swedes gotten any encouragement of help from the Allies they would have been quick to throw their whole power against Russia.

On February 7 Daladier and Chamberlain met in Paris, where they have agreed immediate aid and assistance to Finland. Unless the little country receives some substantial assistance—and soon—she is bound to fall. Chamberlain realized as usual, and he would consider the matter and report back to London.

On the following day, Sweden and Norway told the Allies that they would take some time for France and Britain to transport troops to Finland, they would give immediate major aid to the country, provided the Allies would pledge their help should Germany attack from the rear. This also, Chamberlain said he he would consider, and while he did so the Scandinavian lines were slowly crumbling. "Chamberlain fiddle while Finland——."

In the meantime, the Nazis warned of the proposal to help the Finns and began to bring pressure to bear on Sweden and Norway. They were warned that any cooperation with France and Britain in aiding Finland would bring a direct attack on them by Germany. The two Scandinavian countries, however, still waited. Finally Chamberlain answered, though very mildly, by advising British volunteers to be recruited that Britain would do no more than disgusted the Swedes. Only men not needed or wanted for the British army were allowed to enlist to aid Finland.

Risk of a war with Germany without assurance of Allied aid, Scandinavia felt was too great to take and so announced, "No aid to the Finns."

Sweden is now dickering with Germany regarding aid to stop Russia, should that country take over Finland and attempt to do the same to Sweden. Germany has told what Russia in short is any more than she wants the British there—what she would really like is to dominate Sweden herself. As a result, the Germans are driving a hard bargain. They agree to stop Russian invasion of Sweden, should it occur, if Sweden will sell all of her high grade iron ore to the Nazis and not to Britain.

Britain is like a big boy who urged a little boy to fight, yet when an occasion arises for him to fight, hides cautiously behind his mother's skirts.

English Speaks For Democracy

State Head Reminds Students of Duties

Collin Enstlin, state superintendent of public instruction, spoke to the student body and faculty members of Florida State college in a special convocation, called in honor of George Washington's birthday yesterday. He was introduced by Dr. William O. Sedd, head of the college of Arts and Sciences.

Mr. English spoke on "Democracy," and during his speech, he reminded the students that the first president of the United States was only 21 years old when he started to serve his country.

He asked them to consider what the American way of life really means. He said that we have so much that it is hard to realize the value and extent of what Americans do have in a material way. The citizens of the United States, he declared, have more material wealth than those of other nations.

The American way of life in which the individual is all important and where he expresses himself as he pleases is the greatest heritage of all, declared Mr. English.

He also said that education is perhaps the greatest home of democratic government. Our American forefathers fought for freedom of government, worship, and education. American citizens should appreciate and hold fast to opportunities to go out and participate in the citizenship rights offered by the best form of government that exists today: American democracy.

If American democracy is to survive while others take the form of government fall under the rule of dictators, it must through the ability and willingness of the leaders and citizens to serve and to take part in activities for the welfare of the state. American must conserve its natural resources, soil, forests, and mineral wealth in order that future citizens may carry on the government of this country satisfactorily.

He concluded that opportunities for young citizens are better today than ever before, and he urged the students to go out ready to take the responsibilities of promoting democracy.

The devotional was led by Betty Mckenzon. The college glee club sang "God of Our Fathers." Louise Thrasher sang the solo part.

Remedial Reading Courses Continue

Dr. Dorothy Rose Disher, assistant professor of psychology at Florida State college is again giving individual attention to a very limited number of students who have difficulty in reading because of lack of speed, lack of comprehension, or a poor vocabulary. Girls who wish special help either apply themselves or are recommended by their instructors.

As in the past, reading examinations are given to determine what reading traits need correcting in the individual. Then instructions, drills, and exercises based on the textbooks and the student's course of study are given in private conference.

On the average, during last semester, there was a 37 per cent gain in silent reading rate, a 51 per cent gain in comprehension, and a 36 per cent gain in paragraph organization.

Modern Swing Classics Throw Symphony Lovers Into Frenzy

Jazz Bands Teach People To Know Operas And Cause Them To Become Curious About Original

By MARLENE DALE

Swing is a topic that is being discussed very much at this time, whether people are speaking for or against it. There is more than one aspect to the question besides the goodness and vileness of it. Indeed, head of the college of Arts and Sciences.

Mr. English spoke on "Democracy," and during his speech, he reminded the students that the first president of the United States was only 21 years old when he started to serve his country.

He asked them to consider what the American way of life really means. He said that we have so much that it is hard to realize the value and extent of what Americans do have in a material way. The citizens of the United States, he declared, have more material wealth than those of other nations.

The American way of life in which the individual is all important and where he expresses himself as he pleases is the greatest heritage of all, declared Mr. English.

He also said that education is perhaps the greatest home of democratic government. Our American forefathers fought for freedom of government, worship, and education. American citizens should appreciate and hold fast to opportunities to go out and participate in the citizenship rights offered by the best form of government that exists today: American democracy.

If American democracy is to survive while others take the form of government fall under the rule of dictators, it must through the ability and willingness of the leaders and citizens to serve and to take part in activities for the welfare of the state. American must conserve its natural resources, soil, forests, and mineral wealth in order that future citizens may carry on the government of this country satisfactorily.

He concluded that opportunities for young citizens are better today than ever before, and he urged the students to go out ready to take the responsibilities of promoting democracy.

The devotional was led by Betty Mckenzon. The college glee club sang "God of Our Fathers." Louise Thrasher sang the solo part.

Remedial Reading Courses Continue

Dr. Dorothy Rose Disher, assistant professor of psychology at Florida State college is again giving individual attention to a very limited number of students who have difficulty in reading because of lack of speed, lack of comprehension, or a poor vocabulary. Girls who wish special help either apply themselves or are recommended by their instructors.

As in the past, reading examinations are given to determine what reading traits need correcting in the individual. Then instructions, drills, and exercises based on the textbooks and the student's course of study are given in private conference.

On the average, during last semester, there was a 37 per cent gain in silent reading rate, a 51 per cent gain in comprehension, and a 36 per cent gain in paragraph organization.

Youth Congress Calls For Aid

500 Delegates Pass Resolutions At Meet

WASHINGTON, D. C. (ACP)—Meeting amidst a flurry of condemnation, repudiation and parliamentary bickering, some 5,000 representatives of United States youth organizations attending the American Youth Congress citizenship institute here again asked the people of the nation and their government to come to their aid.

After hearing President Roosevelt ask them not to "pass resolutions on subjects which you cannot possibly know," and Congressman Martin Dies, who declares votes voted as follows: 1. In favor of the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States. 2. In favor of the formation of committees throughout the nation to watch for violations of civil liberties. 3. In general favor of representatives to be cooperation with labor and farm organizations which protect legislative program like the Congress'. 4. In favor of an American Youth Congress to be held in Havana about September 1, 1940. 5. In favor of sending a message from American youth to World Youth Congress delegates assembled in London pledging to work for "world peace and social justice." 6. In favor of "peace demonstrations to be held by youth groups throughout the nation on April 6.

An attempt to introduce a resolution from the floor on the question of the Russo-Finnish war was ruled out of order by the meeting's chairman. "The resolution would have ruled out of A. Y. C. membership any group "that is a member of any political organization which supports totalitarian dictatorship in any country, or who by his public declarations or actions gives his support of such a principle."

Condemnation and repudiation of the A. Y. C. was voiced by several individuals who presented information which they said indicated the organization is claiming the support and membership of several groups who are not affiliated with the A. Y. C.

Practices Started For Hockey, Soccer

Practice has begun for Odd-Even soccer and hockey practice. All those who are interested in these sports are urged to come out for practice. Odd soccer and hockey practices are at 4:30 Monday and Wednesday, and Even soccer and hockey practices are at 4:30 Tuesday and Thursday.

Alfriend Invited To Celebration

Mrs. Mary Bethell Alfriend, instructor in English and author of the novel Sea Cass of Apalachee, will stand in the receiving line at the centennial luncheon and reception given by the Irving Bachelor contest committee of Rollins college in honor of Irving Bachelor, author of Dri and I, founder of the state contest for high schools of the state, and known as the dean of Florida's literary colony.

The luncheon will be followed by the Centennial Collegiate Country club today.

Mrs. Alfriend will be accompanied by her husband and Mrs. Loy Egerton Whitfield Miller, instructor in English.

The luncheon, given in honor of Irving Bachelor, Rollins alumnus will celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the contest sponsored by the high schools of the state. At 4 o'clock Friday afternoon on the campus of Rollins, Dr. Hamilton Holt, Bachelor's home in Winter Park, will confer awards will be presented.

Mrs. Alfriend received her invitation from Rollins officials.

Sociologists Take University Course

Three instructors of the sociology department together with their students from the division of social work attended the short course on juvenile delinquency held in Washington last week-end which emphasized the prevention and treatment of juvenile delinquency in the home and school.

Among those in attendance were Dr. Margaret Cornell, Iris Starzl, and Doris Cahoon witnessed the program headed by leading out of state officials as child welfare, Sanford Bates, director of Boys' clubs of America; Miss Mary Irete Atkinson, director of the child welfare division, Children's Bureau Washington, D. C.; Richard Chappell, Supervisor of the probation division, Federal Bureau of Justice, Washington, D. C.; and Charles A. Stute of the National Probation association of New York.

Speakers on the three-day program stressed the need for awakening the community to a prevention of delinquency in youth, by recognizing the circumstances before they reach stages of court and institutional treatment, the necessity of innoculating the community against juvenile delinquency, as well as the importance of the social worker's attitude toward the child rather than consideration of technique alone.

The Florida center on the Treatment of Delinquents and Prevention of Delinquency was organized by the General Extension Division of the University of Florida with the cooperation of the State Probation association.

Dormitories Get Prints, Books

Periodicals Supplied By Cultural Project

From money saved from the annual social funds, Dean Olivia M. Dorman has alloted $100 to the dormitories for cultural and educational projects. For the last two or three years Dean Dorman has saved a small portion of the annual social fund in order of that these projects could be established for the enjoyment of girls living in the halls. It is hoped that this fund may hereafter be continued as a permeant item.

Forty dollars has been alloted for a magazine and two papers to each hall. Subscriptions have been made for the Sunday New York Times and Herald-Tryibune newspapers and the Atlantic Monthly, National Geographic, Reader's Digest, Life, and Coronet magazine.

The balance of the fund, $60, will be divided among the different halls to be for such cultural features selected by the director and house council or social committee of every dormitory.

"A Landscape With Houses" by Hamilton Bass Reynolds will be the print for the month in the Treasury of Art Masterpieces, in which 144 of the world's greatest paintings have been reproduced in color. They are also planning to buy a book of poetry, as yet unselected.

Bryan dormitory will either buy a book of art or reproductions of illustrations on various periods of history. The two privileges being considered by the Bryan social committee illustrate the Elizabethan period in literature and the athletics and festivals of Ancient Greece. Every hall will have one or two watercolor paintings with the help of Mrs. Beatrice Beyer, art instructor in the Art department.

Van Cook's "The Brides" has been selected by Landis hall, and Gilchrist will receive two Cezanne prints, "Mt. Sainte-Victoire" and "L'Estaque."

All of these prints by Cezanne and Van Gogh have been reproduced by a Viennese company.

Other dormitory funds to buy frames for these pictures have as yet been made. As soon as they arrive, Dean Dorman will have a series of programs will be held in the dormitory halls giving a brief review of the lives and works of the artists and poets concerned.

The prehistoric Blotheres were not true pigs, or even related to them, although the resemblance to wild hogs living today in Europe is close. They were powerful cutting teeth, two heavy-clawed toes on each foot, and head to toe descendants of extinct today.

Freshmen Vie For Band Dates

"Marry! sign my name for me I can't piew through this mobs!" "Oh, that cute drummer. I hope I can get him." "Where's Monde? after my name." And so in general chaos and warfare the freshman class in the lobby fought to sign up for dates the weekend of March 8, when the University of Florida band will play here.

It is expected that approximately 40 boys will arrive here Friday afternoon and will be on the lookout for college girls to date. The first night those "dateless" boys will be provided with Florida State belles, but after that they will "have to look out for themselves."

Creary Chosen As Building Director

Miss Dempsey Creary of the class of '41 will take over the duties as director of the Bowens Longmire Student-Alumnae union building, when it is opened for open, Dr. Edward Conradi announced. Selection was made by the state board of control.

Miss Creary will have full responsibility for all student activities in the building which is to be used as a center for the students and alumnae. The alumnae group who sponsored the idea for the building, planned it to be a center for recreation and the headquarters for various organizations.

While a student at F. S. C. W. Miss Creary ,was active in athletics, played for dances and in student publications. She was a member of "P" club, Pistarcovo and Seminole Literary Society Board, the Torchbearers, Panhellenic Council, and was secretary of the Student Government association. She was also a member Mortar Board. Since graduation she has been engaged in Girl Scout work, serving in an executive capacity in North Carolina, Tennessee, and California, and recently in Miami During the summer of 1938, she was a member of the training staff at Camp Edith Macy, the National Girl Scout Training school in New York.

Hyman Is Chosen IRC Secretary

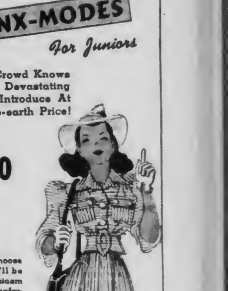
Group May Sponsor Bohemian Student

Members of the International Relations club elected at their meeting last Monday, Selma "Lyman as their new secretary to fill the position left vacant when Mary Frances Peiser resigned. The election took place during the business meeting following the discussion of current events and world affairs.

Also discussed by the group was the sponsoring of a Bohemian girl on our campus. Word of a young woman in Bohemia who was interested in coming to America to go to college was received by Mary Allen Lester, chairman of the I. R. C. from the registrar's office. An application has been made by the Bohemian girl to enter the University of Florida at Gainesville, but since it was felt she could obtain a better choice of subjects at F. S. C. W. her letter was forwarded here. After reading the application blank the chairman explained the duties of an organization as sponsor of a student and the group entered into a discussion of the matter. No definite action has been taken yet, but investigation of the matter is being made.

The discussion was centered around no main idea but topics were suggested by the different members during the discussion. Questions were asked by members of the group on current topics as well as historical topics of current importance and were answered by other members of the group. Several of the problems discussed were the problem of citizenship when fighting for a foreign country, the Finnish problem and its implications, the probable result of the Japanese-Chinese war, the Philippine independence problems, and others. Plans for the Scandinavian peninsular democracy, Japan and China will be in reference to the war and their cultures, and the Philippines will be announced in the future.

If, on a 1000-mile trip the speed is kept below 45 miles an hour, the cost of the trip will average about two and one-fifth cents per mile.



There Will Be A BIG RUSH For These Brand New Arrivals In

MINX-MODES

For Juniors

The Young Crowd Knows The Trick. Devastating Styles They Introduce At This Down-to-earth Price!

$6.50

Come on in and choose yours first! You'll be wild with enthusiasm over the crisp Bonforssed Chambrays . . . Tubby-ish Seersuckers . . . Lorraine Ginghams and soft Miramar Rayon Crepes. In glorious "good-enough-to-eat" pastels . . . brite sun shades . . . stripes, plaids . . . print!

Sizes 9 to 17

MAIL AND PHONE ORDERS FILLED

Steyerman's

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR QUALITY

BENNETT'S COLLEGE INN PHARMACY

Fresh Banana Ice Cream Soda
Two Dips of Cream, Whipped Cream—Special 5c
2 for 15c

Hot Barbecued Pork-Burger
Chocolate Milk with Ice Cream
15c

Hot Cheese-Burger On Rolls
Potato Chips, Old Fashion Milkshake
20c

Special Roast Turkey Dinner . . . 25c
Your Choice of Three Vegetables or Salads, Hot Muffins, Drink, Coffee, Tea or Buttermilk

Grilled Club Steak Sandwich
On Toasted Bun, French Fry Potatoes, Lettuce and Tomatoes, Cup of Chocolate
30c

Sugar Baked Ham and Tomato Sandwich
On Raisin Fruit Bread and Lettuce Crandwich
20c

Grilled Pimento Cheese Sandwich
Jumbo Dish of Vanilla-Fudge Ice Cream, Whipped Cream
20c

TRY OUR NEW METHOD OF LAUNDRY AND DRY CLEANING

CITIZENS' LAUNDRY & DRY CLEANING CO.

PHONE 332
1115½ E. PARK AVE.

Avoid embarrassment . . . invite charm with Phoenix "Run-It-Low" hosiery. They're delightfully sheer . . . but just connot run!

PHOENIX
$1.25

New American Personality Colors to give you leg glamour.

LINDEN'S
Tallahassee's Leading Ladies' Shop

Two Sororities Schedule Formal Dances For Saturday

Two sororities, Kappa Delta and Delta Phi Epsilon, will entertain friends and dates at their annual formal dances tomorrow night.

Members of Kappa Delta sorority will be hostesses at their annual formal dance to be held tomorrow night. Preceding the dance they will hold open house that afternoon, and Sunday morning members and their dates will have a breakfast at the Three Torches tea room.

The Kappa Delta house will be decorated with calla lilies, tiger gladiolas, roses, ferns and greenery.

Chaperones for the dance will be Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Elliot, Judge and Mrs. Roy Chapman, and Miss Elizabeth Timberlake.

Hostesses will be Caroline Richwards, Harrie Kent, Jeannette Litschi, Ina Margaret Robinson, Bunny Turnbull, Clifton Van Brunt, Lavine Voss, Jeanne Webster, Martha Ballenger, Vonelle McCoskey, Barbara Anderson, Margaret Marie Bryant, Elizabeth Cofer, Betty Evans, Jenn Gilbert, Mae Hampton, Anne McMorris, Betty Morrison, Beth Rickards, Lillian Sample, May Wellner, Lucile Walker, Mary Myers Alford, Frances Battle, Sarah Fuller, Hope McCain, Mary Carlton, Mary Rolling Duncan, Susan Mitchell, Jean Williams, Carolyn Brinson, Mary Ann Irvin, Louise Pringle, Maurine Floyd, Helen Nosgle, Rosalie Perry, Elizabeth Phillips, Rex Withers, Wade Bennett, Martha Boetrkel, Barbara Brown, Jeanne Du Pre, Jimmy Fain, Sarah Farrior, Betty King, Lucile Lowry, Sue May, Gladys McGain, Betsy McMichael, Frances Phillips, Marjorie Silks, Patricia Shannon, Daphne Smith, Roberta Van Brunt, and Nancy White.

Delta Phi Epsilon will give its formal dance tomorrow night in the ctih room of the gymnasium. The theme of the dance, "Good Luck On Leap Year," will be carried out with crepe paper streamers and a horseshoe in purple and gold over the door. The no-break program in the form of a four-leaf clover, will also be in purple.

Hostesses will be: Naomi Brauer, Marie Brownsteen, Miriam Bushnell, Stella Fink, Rosalie Glickman, Selma Hyman, Cynthia Pearlman, Rosalie Romer, Blanche Saul, Perry Schemer, Mimi Schneider, Sara Tepper, Tybee Wittenstein, Jean Mankee, Bell Markovits, Marcia Lipshitz, Lillian Fleet, Rosalie Feinberg, Emily Wilson, Eugenia Arginis, Shirley Braverman, Claire Shapiro, Lillian Rosein, Roberta Marks, Dot Gordon, Florence Greenberg, Florence Lutz, Dorothy Dubbin, Madelyn Halpern, Anita Berkowitz, and Estelle Rubin.

The young men invited are: George Wally, Sidney Cooper, Ansel Wittenstein, Herbert Goldman, Philip Goldman, Phil Lewin, Howard Gilbert, Charles Rosenblatt, William Wollson, Seymour Miller Irvin Kanerack, Richard Kraus, Joseph Glasser, Fred Grodnitzky, Louis Norris, Sidney Mendelson Edward Goldberg, Herman Held Herbert Kaye, Harold Bloom, Sidney Aronwitz, Nathan Aronwitz, Raymond Cohen, Julius Soat, Sherman Kaplan, Arthur Corshon, Robert Sturpitz, Bernard Newman, Larry Kohn, Arthur Rose, Erwin Rose, Stewart Simon, Bernard Puchs, Sidney Bevenick, Irving Rubin, Shelby Traeger, Jerry Kemp, Bernard Uman, Albert Seral, Howard Weisman, Sam Acquintar, Paul Haimovitz, Melvin Bernice Rothkind Manos, Sam Schneider, Theodore Bauman, Frederick Burke.

Sororities Give Round Of Informal Parties And Talks This Week

A number of sororities are planning informal functions this week.

The Alpha Gamma Deltas will entertain with an informal party Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. Frances Moore is in charge of arrangements. The refreshment committee is composed of Sarah Hutchinson and Ann Gaines.

Monday night Miss Olivia N. Dorman, dean of students, spoke to the sorority members at 8:30 in the Alpha Gamma Delta. An informal discussion followed on the part sororities play in activities and public opinion on campus.

Miss Dorman was there in celebration of George Washington's birthday. After the talk she was entertained with an informal tea Wednesday afternoon for friends.

Tuesday night at 8:30 on the present situation in Europe. Preceding the talk tea was served.

Delta Zeta entertained with a coffee for friends last night at 7:30 o'clock. Roselle Pugnitt was in charge of refreshments. The pledges of Delta Zeta will give an informal party for the active members Saturday evening at 7:30.

Magazine Jottings

Continued from page Four

ing in the affairs of Kenyon up with the world—"Radio vs. Reading" by Edwin Muller.

The article, based on a survey made by the School of Public and International Affairs of Princeton university, tells of the powerful wand of public opinion which may be wielded by a clever radio announcer. When Congress was debating the repeal of the Neutrality Act, its members were snowed under by an avalanche of mail—100,000 letters in a few days. This was the result of radio broadcasts by partisans on one side or the other. It caused a sensation in Congress. Were the legislators to become Charlie McCarthys to carry out the will of persuasive radio orators?

Practically all citizens in the United States has access to a radio, and it is the members of the lower economic levels, the coal miners and the tenant farmers who listen the most, for radio is for them about the only contact with the outside world. The survey showed that there are about 45 million radios in the United States which run an average of five hours a day.

The important thing, however is not who listens to the radio the most, but who listens to what. It was found that on the lower economic levels the programs which were most popular were the musical and entertainment hours. On the other hand, those with the high income brackets listen most frequently to informational programs and newscasts.

Does the radio injure the sale of newspapers and books? Surprisingly enough, it was found to do quite the reverse. Sales of books reviewed or quoted on the air showed a marked increase, and questionaire revealed that after hearing a news report on the air, the listener often turned to his paper for fuller details. As one of the answers put it, "It's easier to listen, but you get more out of reading."

Both radio and newspapers have their place in keeping America well informed. The radio supplies the incentive, arouses the interest. Then the public turns to its books, newspapers and magazines to read, at its own convenience and at the speed which suits the individual best, the full accounts of subjects that prove interesting.

These two glimpses by no means exhaust the material in the current New Republic. You will like Anthony Armatrong's account of the "First Air Raid" and be thoughtfully impressed at its endline. The "History of a Great Idea" by John P. Flynn gives a hint of some happenings behind the scene of the armament program. Altogether, we know you will enjoy the current thought-provoking issue of the New Republic.

Betty Ann Taylor.

Newly Formed Alumnae Club of Alpha Chi Omega Will Entertain Visitor

Tallahassee alumnae members of the Alpha Chi Omega, national social sorority, met at the sorority house on Park avenue last week to form an alumnae club. Miss Helen Cate was elected temporary president.

Plans were made by the group for a formal reception February 29, honoring the forthcoming visit of Mrs. James H. Rand, national president, for the occasion. All faculty members, friends, sorority presidents and chaperons will be invited. The receiving line will include: Elizabeth Blair, Tallahassee; Mrs. Rand; Miss Mc-Kay, house chaperon, and Miss Bernice Brevis, alumnae advisor. Dr. Kathryn Abbey, will assist in serving during the afternoon.

Among other formal activities planned in Mrs. Rand's honor will be a tea given by Mrs. Friday afternoon, March 1.

Mrs. Rand was elected to her office as national secretary, at the 1939 Alpha Chi Omega convention held in Montebello club in Montebello, Canada. At present she is visiting all the southern chapters of the sorority. She will arrive here February 28 from Rollins college in Lakeland, and will visit through March 2.

Tallahassee alumnae present at the organization meeting included: Mrs. Hamilton Partridge, Jr., Mrs. Clifton Brock, Mrs. George Starr, The Wood sisters, Miss Marion McKay, Miss Bernice Brevis, Miss Helen Cate, Miss Margaret Graham, Miss Ruth Boatwright, Miss Doris Terrell, and Miss Sarah Deakey.

Miss Novena Harrison of Atlanta, an alumna of the chapter at the University of Georgia, was a special guest at the meeting.

Budgets Cause Hopefuls Much Worry, Work

Practical Marriage Elective Is Among Most Popular Ones

When the three hour course, Marriage and the Family, under Dr. Coyle E. Moore, associate professor of sociology at Florida State college, was first offered on the campus in the fall of 1930, not more than six courses on this subject had been presented in the whole country. It was also the first of its kind to be offered in a women's college in the South. A course under the instruction of Dr. Ernest Groves at the University of North Carolina preceded the Florida State course by two years.

In the last two graduating classes at Florida State college more than 40 per cent had had the course, probably indicating that it is greater percentage of students take this elective than any other offered.

In the last two or three years the average class has been 45 in number, and approximately 150 to 200 students take it every year in the regular session and at summer school.

The purpose of the course is to enable young women to make a success of matrimony as a career. During the semester all the girls taking the course work out budgets for the first five years of their marriage. One can hear the classmates seriously discussing such questions as: How many shirts does a man wear out each year? What is the cost of socks and neckties? What allowances do men earn? What year do you plan to have a baby?

Another interesting assignment given during the course is a self analysis type concerning "Why Do You Expect to Get Married," (if you do) and "What Do You Expect to Get Out of Marriage." The purpose of the assignment is to show that marriage will not meet all of one's wishes and desires.

During the course emphasis is placed upon the way that marriage and the family function in a realistic world, rather than on our dreamy, romantic conceptions of the institution.

No particular text is used because of the extensive variety of material involved within the course. Occasionally outside speakers are brought before the students: lawyers giving the legal aspects of divorce, doctors, dietitians, and psychologists.

Two years ago the Christian Century carried an article concerning the course. As a result Dr. Moore received letters from some 50 to 75 ministers asking for bibliography, outlines and syllabi.

The girls taking marriage and the family seem to think quite well of the course, as evidenced by the fact that many of them persuade their fiancees to read the parallel books also. During every course several admirers of the girls send to Dr. Moore requests for information on marriage and the family problems.

Geological Survey Moves In Lower Floor of Old Dining Hall Houses Skeletons of Prehistoric Animals And Other Exhibits

"Florida State Geological Survey Exhibits of Fossils and Minerals" reads the neat black and tan sign over the entrance of the former lower dining room facing Reynolds dormitory. In the dim interior, surrounded on three sides by piles of fossil bones, dusty filing cases, and tier on tier of glass cases holding book cases, is the improvised office of Herman Gunter, state geologist. Gunter, his hand, also Miss Moore, house chaperon, and Miss Bernice Brevis, alumnae advisor. Dr. Kathryn Abbey, will assist in serving during the afternoon.

Among other formal activities planned in Mrs. Rand's honor will be a tea given by Mrs. Friday afternoon, March 1.

Mrs. Rand was elected to her office as national secretary, at the 1939 Alpha Chi Omega convention held in Montebello club in Montebello, Canada. At present she is visiting all the southern chapters of the sorority. She will arrive here February 28 from Rollins college in Lakeland, and will visit through March 2.

Tallahassee alumnae present at the organization meeting included: Mrs. Hamilton Partridge, Jr., Mrs. Clifton Brock, Mrs. George Starr, The Wood sisters, Miss Marion McKay, Miss Bernice Brevis, Miss Helen Cate, Miss Margaret Graham, Miss Ruth Boatwright, Miss Doris Terrell, and Miss Sarah Deakey.

Miss Novena Harrison of Atlanta, an alumna of the chapter at the University of Georgia, was a special guest at the meeting.

Brinning up the huge skeleton required a great deal of work on the part of the geologists. It rested in the north side of the spring in about 15 or 20 feet of water, according to Mr. Gunter, which made recovering it rather difficult.

Excavation Described

"At first we used a set of large tongs opened and closed by means of a cord. We would send the tongs down, close them up around of the skeleton, but this proved destructive in that it damaged the bones so badly. The skeleton was covered with slimy ooze so that we couldn't see where to drop the tongs with the least injury. Finally we pumped the mud away and with the aid of a water glass we were able to see the skeleton more clearly and take more care in grapping for it. Just the same, it took quite a bit of grapping to do on Cesar when we started putting him together," Mr. Gunter admitted with a little smile. The survey now has a diving helmet which will be used in future operations if another opportunity arises.

Since a few of Oscar's ribs and part of his hind foot were found when he was flashed out of his slumey grave, Mr. Gunter has gotten in touch with the Smithsonian Museum of Natural History and the Field Museum of Natural Science, big called Mister rather than his title of Doctor, is to be used in both institutions, to find missing parts to complete the skeleton.

Besides the mastodons in the vertebrate group, the museum has on hand a set of mammoth tusks, the early horse, the rhino, and Oscar's mate, as well as the skull of a tapir and the tooth of the ferocious saber-toothed tiger. Models of the material in this field must be stored, however, due to lack of room.

"We would like to set up one group of recent animals, however, consisting of a puma, bear and deer in their natural habitat," added Mr. Gunter. "Also along with the mastodon in the display would be placed a few other large skeleton of a duongbike animal." In case a mess of slightly baffled, a duongo is a seagoing animal of the order of sirenia or sea-cow.

Invertebrate material will fill most of the show cases, the geologist explained. "We hope to reconstruct the Silurian sea in literate recent shell formations, and then trace them back to the site. We exposed formation we have, which is the Ocala limestone. Evaluating will be labeled as we won't need guides."

A great deal of the material which the museum has collected has been sent to other museums and is stored because of lack of space to display it. The present size of the lower hall has been allotted to it until such time as the college needs the space for classrooms. Dr. Colcord, however, has expressed hope that the museum may remain indefinitely. Mr. Gunter intends to put in charge a well-educated person with the use of girls who are interested in the new and fascinating study of mammoth paleontology, the science of rock formations.

"This field has great possibilities for women," he told the reporter. "Two of our best workers are women. The old conception in particular hire experts to study fossils, such questions as: How in order to determine the age of the limestone? Whether it is with other studies of the oil fields."

By this time almost all the dayliets had drawn from the clustered hall leaving only the yellow glow of the lamps. Gunter and the reporter decided she had to be leaving too. "Perhaps," he surmised, glancing at Oscar's ungenty between a shark's bony jaw and a mammoth's tusk, "perhaps you may have the upper aiming for the state." Gunter's eyes twinkled behind his glasses

"Well, if you girls wouldn't eat so much, maybe we would."

Florida High Will Give Mystery Play Next Week

Speech classes of Florida high school will present a mystery play, "Drums of Death," at the Auruna theatre on Friday, March 1, at 8:15.

The play centers around a magic stone of power which can only be removed from the body of its dead owner by a blood relative. The action takes place on a plantation in a coastal swamp. Among the characters are two Haitian servants, three girls who have been lured to the plantation, and the sheriff, who carries the comedy role.

Several Florida State college speech majors are assisting with the production. Irene Bannerman is in charge of lighting. Betty Jane Jaco, Sarah Woodruff, Marie Crouch, and Beth Blair are doing the make-up. Mr. Ralph Haworth, director of Florida high, is directing the play.

Tryon and Rogers Speak At Pensacola Dinners

Dr. William Rogers, and Miss Florence Tryon, were guest speakers at the dinner meeting of the Florida State college alumnae of Pensacola at the San Carlos hotel there last Friday evening.

Miss Tryon spoke on the new student-alumnae building and the rooms alumnae college weekend. Dr. Rogers' topic was "English, the Easiest Language to Learn." The meeting called to order by Miss Jane Rice, president of the group, was followed by dancing to the music of Hal Kemp's orchestra.

Dr. Rogers was guest speaker again the next day at the luncheon of the American Association of University Women when he spoke on "The Priceless Ingredient of the Super Best-Seller."

'Don't Want No Women!' This Weekend, says Frat

COLUMBUS, Ohio (ACP)—Women, an institution hitherto regarded as a necessary factor in the building of any house (?) will have no play in—nay are strictly prohibited from—the home of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity —for one weekend a year at Ohio State university.

From the front of the fraternity house hangs a huge sign which proclaims: "Keep Out—This is the world that 'Anti-Woman Weekend' is in progress.

FIVE NATIONAL SORORITIES WILL HOLD INITIATION CEREMONIES TODAY

Five sororities, Delta Phi Epsilon, Zeta Tau Alpha, Sigma Kappa, Alpha Delta Pi, and Delta Delta Delta, are holding their spring initiation ceremonies this weekend. Most of them have planned special entertainments to honor their new members.

Five Delta Phi Epsilon pledges will receive full-fledged membership at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the formal initiation is held. The pledges are Selma Schloss, Rose Claire Shapiro, Selma Jenkins, Rosalie Glickman, Florence Lotz, Pessy Schemer. They will later be honor guests at a formal banquet in the dining room of the Cherokee hotel, decorated to represent the theme of "Good Luck on Lean Year."

The social chairman of the sorority, Amelia Schneider, is in charge of the affairs to be given this weekend. On her committees are Marie Brownstein, Cynthia Perlman, Sara Tepper Blanche Feinberg, and Selma Schloss. The pledges will decorate for the banquet, and the spitting forth a special issue of the pledge paper, the Telegram." Selma Schloss is acting as editor and Florence Greenberg as business manager.

Entertainments have been planned for the banquet. On the program will be a tap dance by Perry Schemer, Alexis Cohen, Rose Hyman, and additional songs by Madelyn Halpern.

The Zeta Tau Alphas are initiating Camilla Gillette, Helen Herman, Kathryn Young and Betty Dumon tomorrow night. A breakfast will be given for them Sunday morning at the Duck Kitchen.

Saturday night the Sigma Kappas will entertain with a dance the Floridan following the initiation of Sally Rivers, Mattie Lee Peacock, Hilda Frankenberry, Lottie Horne and Elizabeth Weathers.

Eight girls will be initiated by Alpha Delta Pi Friday night. They are Laurie Turner, Anne Gamble, Polly Ann Williams, Mary Elizabeth Leech, Anne Arnold, Annette MacParland, Julia Perry, and Mary Ariana.

Delta Delta Delta is initiating 14 girls this weekend. The pledge rite weekend. On her committees are Marie Brownstein, Cynthia Perlman, Sara Tepper Blanche Feinberg, and Selma Schloss. The pledges will decorate for the banquet, and the spitting forth a special issue of the pledge paper, the Telegram." Selma Schloss is acting as editor and Florence Greenberg as business manager.

Entertainments have been planned for the banquet. On the program will be a tap dance by Perry Schemer, Alexis Cohen, Rose Hyman, and additional songs by Madelyn Halpern.

Religious Calendar

BAPTIST

Sunday

11:00 a.m.—Church service, Dr. W. O. Lewis, secretary of the Baptist World Alliance.

6:00 p.m.—Training union.Dr. Conrad Hoffman, director of International Council. Subject: "The Christian Approach to Jesus."

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday Thursday

7:30 p.m.—Vespers in Bryan tower room. Subject: "Neighbors Together With God." Leader Sarah Hopkins.

PRESBYTERIAN

Sunday

6.30 p.m.—Fellowship hour. Speaker, Dr. C. Dirby Fulton,

Thursday

7:30 p.m.—Council meeting.

METHODIST

Sunday

6:30 p.m—Young people's fellowship hour. Speaker: Dr. Charles Hurry.

Tuesday

7.30 p.m.—Vespers. Speaker: Katherine Adams.

Thursday

7:30 p.m.—Young people's Bible Speaker: Dr Orr

EPISCOPAL

Sunday

6'00 p.m.—Faculty forum. C. Hoffman and Robert A. Searle.

Tuesday

5:30 p.m.—Confirmation class and discussion group.

Thursday

10:00 p.m.—Compline service.

Friday

7:15 a.m.—Holy Communion.

Chesterfield presents a Combination you can count on for

Real MILDNESS AND BETTER TASTE

The perfect blend of the world's best cigarette tobaccos in Chesterfield gives you the two things you want and look for in a cigarette . . Real Mildness and Better Taste.

Then, if you add that Chesterfields are far cooler, you know you have a cigarette that really satisfies.

You can count on the great Combination of CLARK GABLE and VIVIEN LEIGH to give you great pleasure in "GONE WITH THE WIND"

In Selznick International Picture Produced by David O. Selznick . . . Released thru United Artists

You can count on the RIGHT COMBINATION of the world's best cigarette tobaccos in CHESTERFIELD to give you more smoking pleasure with their MILDER, BETTER TASTE

Chesterfield

The Cooler, Better-Tasting, DEFINITELY MILDER Cigarette

Copyright 1940 Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Smile,
Politicians,
Smile

Get Your Culture,
Girls

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, March 1, 1940

VOLUME XXVII NUMBER EIGHTEEN

Primary Election System Replaces Preference Vote

House Chairmen To Be Required To Specify Particular Residence

This year there will be several changes in the election system now outstanding. One being the return to the old system of primary elections. While the petition system of nominee selection will be kept and voting machines will continue in use, this major change will go into effect and house chairmen will run for specific dormitories.

These changes are the result of some action taken at the call meeting Wednesday.

The reason for the first change, the return to primary and general elections, lies in the fact that the system of preferential voting that was used last year was found to be too complicated to set up on the voting machines.

It was also voted by senate that the president of A. A. be elected on a ballot with the major offices of C. O. A. The reason for this is to make it possible for anyone defeated for this office to run for senior intercollegiate manager.

Candidates Nominated

Senate also nominated Martha Dobery and Betty Ball for first vice-president of C. O. A. since no candidates had run for either office Mart Pierson was the only candidate petitioning for this office.

At this writing the list of candidates has not been passed upon by the faculty committee on student affairs and therefore cannot be released.

Candidates for major offices will be presented at the convocation Tuesday, March 12. At this time they will make their speeches and submit to questioning from the floor. They will make their speeches and primary elections for offices having more than two candidates will take place in convocation by ballot.

The box office in front of the auditorium will be open from 2:30 until 5:30 Tuesday so that day students and those not attending convocation on that day may express their choice in the primary election.

All day Wednesday the student body will go to the polls and vote in the general elections for major officers

Convocation Held

On Thursday another convocation will be held and the candidates for minor officers will be presented to the student body. Primaries for minor offices will be held in convocation after candidates have

Continued on page four

Faculty-Student Broadcasts Begin

Scheduled for next week over the newly installed facilities for broadcast direct from the campus are two programs which may introduce faculty-student broadcasting as a regular feature of college life.

On Monday night Professor Bell V. Vance, head of the journalism department, will speak from 9 to 9:15 o'clock on "Time and the Teacher." On the following Wednesday at 8:15 o'clock Mary Sprague, soprano, and Eleanor Mullins, mezzo-soprano, will present a musical recital under the direction of Miss Ella Scoble Opperman, dean of the school of music.

While WTAL has broadcast before from the campus, using temporary facilities, permanent equipment was not installed until recently. It was by Mrs. Stoddard's lecture on February 17. Next week's two presentations will mark the first use of the new facilities for the college faculty and student.

Forum To Hear Eyman

The education forum of the American Association of University Women will be held next Thursday night at 8 o'clock, at the home of Miss Sarah Herndon at 624 West Call street. At this meeting Dr. Ralph Eyman of the education department will speak on "Training the Secondary School as a Training Ground for Democracy."

Dr. Abbey To Speak

Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, professor of history, will speak on the "History of Florida" at the regular meeting of Mortar Board at 8 o'clock on Sunday night in Landis parlor.

Distaff Deadline Set

The deadline for articles, stories or poems intended for publication in the Distaff, will be Wednesday, March 13, Florence Gregory, editor of the Distaff announced Wednesday.

FSC Team Wins Clash Debate

Presbyterian College Loses On Isolation

Florida State College for Women emerged victorious from the first direct clash debate ever held in Florida against Presbyterian college Monday afternoon on the subject, Resolved: That the United States should follow a policy of strict economic and military isolation toward all nations outside the western hemisphere envisaged in armed international or civil conflict.

On the affirmative side of the question was the Florida State college team, composed of Patty Wilson, Mabel Wilson, Joan Weaver, and Mary Brice Deaver. Speaking on the negative side were John Weldon and Dousal Hudson from Presbyterian college, Clinton, N. C.

The chief characteristic of the direct clash debate is that it does away with the opportunity to evade the subject under discussion. It was originated by the directors of debate at Winthrop college and the two teams debate itself economically and practically, each team working by itself from the rest of Europe, and thereby win the decision.

Judging the debate was Dr. Richard F. Nichols. Miss Wilson acted as chairman.

History Honorary Initiates Pledges

Two new pledges Dorothy Dickerson and Martha Dent Perry will be initiated into Phi Alpha Theta, national history honorary this afternoon at 5:30 in the initiation there will be a banquet at the Cherokee Hotel. The theme of the banquet is Spring kept a secret.

Members who will be present are Kathryn Eckle, Patty Holbert, Margaret Marie Bryant, Sara Mackey, Gloria Curtis Boyles, Betty Nickinson, Selma Hyman, Elizabeth Ann Hall, Mrs. Herman Kurtz.

Faculty members are Dr Vesilla Shores. Dr. Kathryn Abbey, Miss Florence Reno Tyron, Dr. Annie Myrl Cooper, and Dr. Robert Spencer Cotterill.

Dr. Cotterill is secretary of the Phi Alpha Theta Dr Annie Marie Pepper was elected treasurer, Miss Florence Tyron and Selma Hyman, secretary.

A formal tea will be given March 12 in Broward Lounge for all A and B students who were enrolled in freshmen history courses last semester.

FSCW Chosen As 1941 Youth's Conference Site

Balkcom, Montero Are New Campus Delegates On Executive Council

Florida State College for Women again will be the site of the next all-college Christian Youth Conference of Florida to be held next spring, it was voted during a business session of the conference held here last week-end.

James Beardsley of the University of Florida was named chairman of the 1941 convention during the same business session, with Ray Balkcom of this college elected as secretary. Other officers to act as members of the executive council include Della Mastrey of Florida State college; Frank Conlin, University of Florida; Dorothy Kerr and Laura Green University of Miami, and Ruth Davenia, University of Tampa.

Bringing eight world-renowned speakers each outstanding in his field of missionary enterprise, the Youth Conference, held here for the fourth time under the sponsorship of the Florida Chain of Missionary Activities, which is completing its tenth year of existence, ended Sunday.

Conferences Held Together

This year the A and M college for negroes at Tallahassee joined their conferences simultaneously and the meetings which were carried out the theme "A Christian in a World of Tensions," or more appropriately "The Christian and their audiences. "Youth in a Tense World."

Representing five different countries, Dr. Stanley Jones, America, Japan, and the United States, the ambassadors bold of Canada abroad, spoke on the relation to national, racial, economic and international tensions they exist today in a chaotic world of agressions, race prejudice and war.

At the opening of the conference Nov. 29, Lucia Hurrey, secretary of the committee on friendly relations, introduced each panel of speakers, the first of whom was Miss Ila Romola Sircar, Hindu lecturer and a direct disciple of Kin-ward college, a division of Punjab university.

Sircar Speaks

Miss Sircar's speech showed that India is very much like the United States and is rapidly progressing in the fields of many of our social problems, and the more progressive leaders are trying to solve these problems in the Christian way. The principal aim in India is to break democracy and other forms of government down between nationalism and internationalism.

The second speaker was the Rev. W. G. Stuntz, national secretary of the Baptist World Alliance and former president of William Jewel college The Rev. Mr Lewis has spent the last 20 years in Europe and Africa, talked from personal experience.

Mr. Lewis spoke on post-war conditions. as well as the German

Continued on page three

'Army Child' Likes Hawaii Best Of Many Places She Has Lived

Life at Schofield Barracks Offered Varied And Colorful Attractions For Emma Jean

By BETTY BETTS

After living in 14 states and the Hawaiian Islands so far in her 19 years of life, Miss Emma Jean Hall, sophomore here, enjoyed living in Hawaii more than any other of the interesting places where she has lived.

Miss Emma Jean first moved from Florida she lived in New York City. Then to Ohio. Then became a teacher at Yale University in New Haven, Conn. and the family went there to live. From New Haven the family went to Milwaukee, Wis. Then to Washington, D. C.; Annapolis, Md.; Norfolk, Va.; Panama, Panama Canal Zone, Kansas, Phoenix, Ariz., San Diego, and San Francisco, Calif.; El Paso, Texas, and the Hawaiian Islands Marfa, Tex.

When asked about which places were most interesting in which to live Emma Jean replied that she enjoyed living in the Hawaiian Islands. She said that when she was 11 years old her family moved to the Schofield Barracks, the largest army post that the United States owns, which is on the island of Oahu in the territory of Hawaii. Her father, a captain in the army, had been given orders to go there and his assignment was to stay there for one-half years. When asked about the interesting places she visited, she said she went to a school called Leilehua. It was a school outside the army post to which about 800 pupils went.

School Described

She said that there were a great many different nationalities, Korean, Portuguese and Hawaiian children who attended the same school as she. The different grades were divided into sections numbered 1, 2, 3, and so on. Emma Jean's last name started with the initial "H," so she was put in section B which included the "H's" through the "M's." She said that there were about one-third Americans and two-thirds foreigners and added that the Japanese were the smartest students in the school. Emma Jean remarked that the educational system over there is much like that in the United States in that practically the same sub-

Continued on page two

Symphony Orchestra And Conductor

Presenting two entirely different programs the Cincinnati symphony orchestra (above) directed by Eugene Goossens, below, will be an outstanding attraction at Florida State college this weekend.

Two Plan Joint Voice Recital

Thrasher And Mullins Will Sing Wednesday

The certificate voice recitals of Louise Thrasher, soprano, and Eleanor Mullins, mezzo-soprano, will be given Wednesday in the college auditorium Wednesday night at 8:15 o'clock. Both students are pupils of Miss Etta Robertson and will be accompanied by Gladys Hock. The final selection is to be a duet.

The program is as follows:

Voi che sapate (Le Nozze di Figaro), Mozart; I've Been Roaming, Horn, Beethoven's Sirenen; Gaity; Polly Willis, Arne; by Louise Thrasher.

Invocation (Orfeo (Euridice), Peri; L'Heure Purpre, Pierne; La Bergere aux Champs (French folk song arranged by Pierne), Lasshia choi ptanga (Rinaldo) Handel, by Eleanor Mullins.

Chanson de Florian, Godard; Le adieux du Berger, Godard; Spanish songs of California, La Hamaca (The Hammock), El Quable (The White Earth), El Canotero (The Shoremaker), arranged by Parwell. The Little Shepherd's song, Winter Waits, Louise Thrasher; Four by the Clock, Mailinson; Where Corals Lie, Elgar; Come Down to Kew, Dess, Twilight, Russell Kerlan; Summer Weather, Nor Mullins.

On Wings of Song, Mendelssohn; Louise Thrasher and Eleanor Mullins.

Building Receives New Appropriation

A new appropriation of $5,136 by President Roosevelt and the Works Projects Administration to complete the Student-Alumnae building has now brought the total federal aid to $99,042. The original appropriation of $93,906 did not include interior painting and the shelves up and grading that must be done around the building.

The appropriation, which must still be checked by the state Works Project administration at Jacksonville, will be put into effect within the next week or ten days.

The college originally agreed to put $85,000 into the Student-Alumnae building, while the W P A agreed to supply $93,000. This would have brought the cost to approximately $158 000. The college has put considerable of these additional funds cannot be definitely determined until the structure is finished.

Victoria Schuck Attends Education Meeting

Dr. Victoria Schuck of the political science division attended the meeting of the Civic Education Committee of Florida, held in Jacksonville, February 24

The committee with Dean Walter J. Matherly of the University of Florida as chairman and composed of editors and representatives of various professions and educational institutions in the Florida portion of the Southern Policy Association. The committee is now publishing factual information of constitutional amendments to appear on the ballot in the general election in November.

At the luncheon which followed the meeting, Miss Mary Anderson of the children's bureau spoke on wage and hour legislation.

IRC Delegates Go To Meeting

U. S. In War Is Topic Of Southern Forum

The annual conference of the Southern Regional International Relations clubs will be held at the University of North Carolina, in Chapel Hill, on March 21-23, Mary Warner Moss of Willian and Mary colleges and Henry F Grady, the assistant secretary of state, Dorothy Stratton will be announced later.

During the conference period five round table discussions will be held on the following topics Europe Latin America, the Far East, the economic aspects of the United States foreign policy, and the peace of tomorrow. Conference delegates are asked to come prepared to contribute to discussions on these topics.

Each round table presented two informal dances will be held at the university The total cost of attending all affairs at the convention has been announced to be $2.85. A complete Remized program of the convention will be announced shortly.

Delegates attending from the International Relations club on our campus will be announced within the next few weeks.

Faculty To Attend Music Convention

Dean Ella Scoble Opperman, dean of the school of music, and several of the music faculty plan to attend the convention of the Florida State Music Teachers association to be held in Ocala on March 4 and 5.

Dean Opperman, who is first vice-president of the association, will give a resume of the national convention of the Music Teachers association which she attended at Kansas City in December.

Miss Margaret Whitney Dow, assistant professor of organ, will conduct an organ forum and also give an organ recital at the First Christian church in Tampa Sunday afternoon.

Richey Attends Meeting

Miss Luella Richey of the commerce department will spend tomorrow in Gainesville, where, with faculty members of the University of Florida and members of the state department, she will help plan a business workshop. This workshop will be held next summer at the University of Florida for business teachers of the state.

'Liz Ann Makes Big City News

The Sunday edition of the New York Times of February 18 featured an account of the internship on city government carried on here in public administration work.

The article in the educational section of the paper states that, "Florida State College for Women is the first institution in the southeast to inaugurate an internship in local government in its public administration work."

After stating that the first student is Elisabeth Ann Webb, who is working in the office of Ben Bridges, city auditor and is being supervised academically by Dr. Victoria Schuck, the writer concludes by saying that, "The introduction of undergraduate internships in local government by Dr. Schuck's course is in line with a movement now sweeping the country to assist in the articulation of the academic educational system with career service in the national, state, and local government."

Last year the New York Times carried a story of the work done in this class in the college elections.

Recital Features Piano Selections

Another of the series of student recitals will be held Wednesday afternoon in the college auditorium with the girls from the school of music participating In this recital the piano occupied the stage role for five of the students who chose it for rendering their selections.

Included on the program were, A Yellow Violet (Mokrejs); Sara Les Jahns piano; Scherzo, Op 10, No. 3 (Beethoven). Pauline Morrow piano; Evening in Seville (Niemann). Marjorie Clayton, piano; Polish Dance (Severn), Charlotte Cooper violin; Pauline Morrow, accompanist.

Poems Gardner Read), Lula Cooper, viola; Sue Pinner, accompanist, Prayer in Notre Dame (Boellmann), Dorothy Basford, organ; Prelude, Op. 28, No. 12 (Chopin), Mary Lou Bennett, piano; Variations, F minor (Haydn), Jean Hamilton, piano; La Folia variations (Corelli), Virginia Rouse, violin.

Attention Seniors

All seniors are urged to place their orders for graduation invitations before April 1. It is very important that they do this as soon as possible as the order cannot be held over after this date. Also seniors who wish to order senior rings please do so in order that they may be delivered before the end of school.

College Bookstore
J. G. Wheeler.

Fremd And Grier Solo For Wings

Student Fliers Have Chance To Win $1000

Irena Fremd, sophomore, became the first Florida State College student to pass the "wings" under the Civil Aeronautics Training program when she soloed last Monday Margaret Grier became the second when she soloed Wednesday.

The students were in the air for ten minutes circling half-way around the field on their solo flights which followed eight hours of instruction from Ben Bridges, Tallahassee airport manager, who is a flight instructor.

Both girls declared, "It's fun!" Neither of them were not afraid. Irene and Margaret are now proudly displaying their wings and planning to do their 35 solo hours in order to get a private license. They must do one cross country hop before obtaining their license.

Margaret Grier and Irene Fremd are members of a class of ten taking part in the Civil Aeronautics training program, which was created by the federal government to have 1,000,000 private pilots trained within five years. The object of the program is to increase demand for private flying so that they may be put on the market more cheaply and come into general use. At present there are only 35,000 private fliers in the United States. There are a total of 800,000 students in the country taking part in the 72 hour course.

The Florida State College aviation students are now taking an intensive ground course which includes meteorology, instrumentation, parachute and rules of air commerce. They will receive 72 hours of ground work and from 35 to 50 hours of flight instruction, and they must undergo three examinations, one, navigation, and meteorology, to be given by a government inspector Royal Mattice is ground course instructor.

Participation in this program will make these students eligible to take part in a private contest sponsored by the Institute of Aeronautical Science this year. The three outstanding pilots developed during the year by the institute will receive scholarship prizes from the Shell Oil Company, the first being $1,000; second, $750; and third, $500. The school establishing the most proficient record for the year will receive the Shell Intercollegiate trophy.

Other student pilots are: Sara Woodruff, Jean MacRae, Louise Prine, Dot Hunt, Frances Rogers, Jonnie Thomasson, Re-

Continued on Page Six

Search For New Campus Angles Puts Photographer On Inside

'Shooting' Fire Drills and Night Views Of College Buildings Present Problems

By BETTY ANN TAYLOR

If a photograph of the history building, a picture of an artist lecture, or a shot of the Thanksgiving dinner is desired, the chances are that Sam Adams will be the subject to make it. Mr. Adams has been photographing the campus for many years, he says that he has several thousand pictures of the college and all of the buildings, he has climbed to the top of the college gates, crawled into the dormitory attic, odd places, climbed into the roofs, and even crawled in the dark of the electric steps to get an upward look on the ivy-covered towers.

His camera has served as his pass into the most private parts of the college Where other men are strictly excluded, Mr. Adams is the welcomed to make his pictures. He has visited the private rooms of the infirmary, and even been inside of the dormitory rooms.

Visits Dormitories

His visit to the dormitory rooms took place last summer. Lands is being redecorated, but being lacking some of the cash necessary to purchase such things he was several hundred beds, tables, chairs, etc. In order to hurry the authorities in supplying this need. Mr. Adams was asked to make pictures of the dormitories to show just how crowded things were. So with camera and flash bulbs he went into the lower floor of Bryan and took pictures of several of the cubicles showing the tiny rooms in which some of the girls had to live.

Mr. Adams has photographed many phases of college life, including a fire drill. Several years ago an annual editor decided to picture this hitherto unpublicized feature among campus activities in the Flambeaux. Mr. Adams was notified on the eventful evening, and about light flash time

Continued on page three

Orchestra Plays Here March 2, 3 On Artist Series

Goossens Will Direct Two Varied Programs On Saturday, Sunday

The Cincinnati symphony orchestra comes to Florida State College for Women on the artist series program for two concerts Saturday and Sunday. The orchestra, considered one of the four principal orchestras of America will be under the direction of the distinguished conductor, Eugene Goossens.

The concerts which are to be given will have entirely different programs. The first will be held tomorrow night at 8:15 in the college auditorium. On the program will be "Overture, Carnival" by Dvorak, "Symphony in D Minor" by Franck, Suite, Op. 19" by Dohnanyi, and "Introduction and Wedding March," from "La Gioconda" by Ponnelli Amalthea.

Second Program

The second concert, to be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, will have for its program: "Overture Fidelio" by Beethoven, "Faust" by Mosart; "Symphony No. 2 in B Minor" by Brahms, "Scherzo," Schumann, (orchestrated by Rimsky-Korsakov, Ladov, Glasounow, and Tchernepine) "Bacchanal Festivals." Debussy; "Tone Poem, The Maiden," Sinnalaus.

The Cincinnati orchestra has a background filled with musical organizations dating back to the latter part of the nineteenth century having been organized in 1895.

One of its predecessors was an organization known as the musicians, many of whom became members of the present orchestra when it was organized.

Previous to the formation of the orchestra, musical organizations, choral and instrumental, had been formed in Cincinnati. One of the most famous of the musical projects still carried on in the present time is the Cincinnati May Festival, in which the Cincinnati symphony orchestra plays the major role.

Names important in the organization of the orchestra include many prominent and distinguished men as directors like that of its conductors, in turn, Frank van der Stucken, Leopold Stokowski, Fritz Kriel, and Eugene Ysaye. Pritz Reiner, and Eugene Goossens.

The Cincinnati symphony orchestra is supported by a subscription association, thus enabling it to include artists of the highest ability and to hold itself to the position as one of the finest symphonic ensembles in the world.

Woodruff Begins Recital Series

First in the series of speech recitals this spring was given last night in the Municipal Little Theatre by Sara Woodruff, who appeared in the junior recital. She presented a one-act play "The Slave With Two Faces," an allegory by Mary Carolyn Davis; a satire, "Afternoon Tea," by Charlie Hastie Chapman and a poetry appreciation of Edgar Lee Master's "Spoon River Anthology" by Sara in a group and member of Zeta Phi Eta, honorary speech fraternity.

Joint recitals to be given by junior speech majors will begin March 18 when Beth Butler and Marie Crouch on March 12 Following them on March 25 will be Betty Rose Scott and Martha Whitehurst; April 8, those of Joan Weaver and Frances Billson on March 19.

Senior graduate recitals are scheduled for April. Al, recitals will be presented in the auditorium Corradi theatre

Education Honorary Taps Nine Students Wednesday

Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary tapped Sarah Lines, Virginia Millon, Martha Dent Perry, Frances Alderfar Evereet, Marie Jeanne Jarrett, Edna Kimbell and Ada Lewis Wednesday afternoon

Students members of the honorary are Reta Southwell, Rose Kirby, Claire Willett Kathryn Eckles, Mary Ann Gerrude McClaun, Gladys Silvender, Lillian Alderidge, Alice Lee Lester, Sara Quinsy, Evelyn Rickman Frances Farmer, and Bettie Young.

From Other Colleges

Modern quoters of Confucius were termed mutilaters of the English language by Laurence Lau, Chinese student at Creighton. Lau says Confucius said few of the things being currently attributed to him and the current fad is a descendant to the memory of the great Chinese philosopher, Paul Yee, another Chinese student, said that Oriental residents in the United States were amused by the American version of pidgin English.

A biology student at Creighton completed a drawing assignment and asked the instructor, "What should I put here to balance this drawing?" The instructor replied, "You might put anything — a bird, a flower, even the American flag—anything." When he collected the drawings, he found an American flag waving where a "freely-flourished" of the genus sibella should be. He passed the drawing.

* * *

Students at the Woman's College of North University of North Carolina are planning a drive against the proposed cut in N.Y.A. funds recommended by President Roosevelt. John Lang, state N.Y.A. director, in a speech at the college said, "I can't see why the wealth of this nation is worth more than the price of two battleships." The president in his message to congress on January 5 recommended an $85,000,000 appropriation for N.Y.A. instead of the $100,000,000 appropriation of last year.

* * *

Michigan State's new $1,100,100 auditorium had its debut at a recent lecture series. With a seating capacity of 4,500, the new building has a stage opening measuring 56 feet wide and 37 feet high, with a newly installed sound system above. Five remote control connections have been placed throughout the auditorium for sound control. The orchestra pit may be raised to floor or stage level and has three sets of controls. It is furnished with removable cushioned seats, chairs and a balcony seating 2,000 persons.

* * *

The fourth annual trip to Cuba sponsored by the Spanish department of St. Petersburg Junior college will leave for Cuba March 30 and return six days later. The students will fly to Key West for a three hour stopover, and from there to Cuba. They will stay at Hotel Plaza and visit points of interest including the University of Havana, Morro Castle, the Columbus cemetery, and the cathedral in which Columbus is buried. The tour will also include movies, open air cafes, the National casino, and several night clubs and cabarets.

As a feature of Homecoming the "pomps and wonds" of Alabama State College for Women, presented their annual homecoming night program February 26. An outstanding event on the A. S. C. W. campus, college night developed from a small stunt night competition between the classes to the present large performance planned for three nights to more than 3000 persons from all parts of the South. The first suggestion of the present program was a program held in celebration of Washington's birthday at which each class had a color scheme and distinctive stunts. Then each class activity were divided into two teams with purple and gold as the symbols. In 1925 the present college night program came into being.

The time draws near when juniors at A. S. C. W. will again have to prove their fitness to become seniors by "finding the crook." The crook, to them no ordinary stick but a symbol of responsibility and superiority in every campus activity, is hidden by the seniors and sought for by the juniors three weeks before the close of each scholastic year. The custom was begun by the senate in 1924 and placed in the hands of each senior class. When the time arrives, a Crook court is called, members march into the auditorium while juniors, dromoted to the rank of freshmen, stand to do them honor The victims receive instructions as to the boundaries for searching and duties to perform during the week.

The "freshmen" must then rise at 5 o'clock every morning and continue the hunt throughout the

McGowan Speaks In Convocation

Lecturer Says Ideals Are Worth Attaining

There really is use in struggling on to attain the ideals of one's life in spite of the fatalistic attitude taken by the many people who threw up their hands in disgair and ask "What's the Use?" Dr. Robert MacGowan, one of the lecturers for the Florida Chautauqua Missions told the students of Florida State college in convocation Tuesday

Dr MacGowan said that everywhere people are asking the phrase "What's the Use?" as the better case where they keep all their little failures. Then looking at the lives of American pioneers, Benjamin Franklin, he reminded the students that America would have been in a bad condition if they had thrown up their hands, saying "What's the Use?"

The gangsters have chosen guns as their means of asking the question, and they use bribes to persuade to give up a life of crime and go straight because they realize that it takes pep, push, and pull to gain a place in the United States economic world. Dr. MacGowan urged the students, ideals are the salvation of civilization. The people must work to uphold these and not become cynics and talk quit saying "What's the Use?"

Then, looking to European conditions, he pictured the people belching forth into the skies this question. It is the duty of American leaders to put forth new strong spirituality, and make an appeal to them that the United States generations can be proud of.

Dr. MacGowan added that the world needs ideals, and all people must work together to promote civilization and democracy if America is to stand.

Dr. MacGowan has had 28 years of ministry in England and the United States and has spoken before state and national conventions, women's clubs, service groups, and literary societies.

Primary Elections System Replaces Preference Vote

Continued from page one

been presented to the students. Each year the list is read in front of the auditorium will be kept open from 2:30 until 5:30 for those who did not attend convocation. Friday finals for minor offices will be held then.

Six voting machines, to be secured through the cooperation of the Leon County Board of Commissioners and to be located in the lower floor of the Carnegie building from 8:30 to 6:30 on both election days, will offer students a realistic setting for casting their ballots. Under the supervision of members of the Y. W. C. A. student organization for active voting in primary elections will enter the booths to indicate their choices. Election returns will be tabulated by the elections committee headed by Katherine Graham, President of college government.

day for as long as it is necessary to find the symbol. When the Crook is found, the pair who found it are given the privilege of Crook week as an impromptu ceremony. The freshmen date the seniors call finals court and, when the victims are submitted to their final punishment, the senior class rise and pin are presented to the successful class president.

King House, which houses the A. S. C. W. psychology department and the student counselor, is famous for the fact that it was the first house in the state of Alabama to have glass windows.

* * *

Ten fraternities at the University of Kentucky have agreed to abolish "hell week" the period usually given over to the taking of pledges. The seven fraternities retaining the custom have agreed to abide by the interfraternity council rules. Kappa Alpha pledges will be required to wear only the chapter's traditional badge, collars, ties, shirts, monocles, and walking sticks Phi Delta Theta pledges will have to wear nothing more unusual than red neckties with their best suits. The only unusual clothing to be worn by Phi Kappa Tau pledges is the fact the traditional gunny sack

Inquiring Reporter

Is Organization Move Valid?

What do you think of the action taken by the committee on organizations in scheduling the meetings of campus organizations? The purpose of this is to keep certain days open when no meetings are scheduled. Do you think this is desirable? Has this action worked benefits or hardships on you as an individual or on an organization of which you are a member? Do you think the committee on organizations is justified, that it has the right to schedule other organizations' meetings? What do you think will be the effect of this action?

Harriet Benson: I think the committee is attempting to solve a problem they have not analyzed. The real problem, it seems to me, is that not enough girls on campus participate in extra-curricular activities. Too many girls participate in more than their share. The only handicap I've worked on the girl who for political reasons, and that refers to practically everything. In my opinion, the committee has no right whatsoever to take the action they have taken and they have seriously injured the program of student participation and student opinion that they are doing on this campus. It doesn't this committee concentrate on interesting more of the students in participating in activities and participate in absolutely nothing—in vital, interested-outside activity instead of killing the activities we have.

Vernon Crownbeau: I think that it was a good idea, but so far as I can see, it will not be so far as I can see. With the over-organization that is on this campus, it would be quite impossible for any committee to successfully set dates for any meetings. There are more conflicts now than there ever were that I am supposed to attend than before the committee took this action.

Lynette Thompson: I think that the actions taken by the committee on organizations is excellent, and would like to see them able to make better use of her time if she knows just when her meetings are going to be. The action has worked no hardships on me. I do think the committee has a right to schedule other organizations' meetings. I don't yet see how it will be the effects of the action.

Lolla Watrous: I really do not like this arrangement of a meeting every night because there are too many factors which enter the selection of a meeting time for some organizations. For some groups the time of meeting may be more suited than others if there these organizations have already considered their meeting time and time which is best suited to them. I do not think that it is the department of right to have some other time set down by any committee other than the time for the day set down is suitable in many instances I am especially opposed to scheduling meetings for Sunday night. How this can be done over-organization I can't see. It does seem that we could keep the right to schedule our meetings.

Gertrude McGlaun: I think that it is a good idea to have definite times for organizations to have meetings.

Cecelia Harper: I don't like the idea of committees of Crook week as an impromptu ceremony. The freshmen date the seniors call finals court and, when the victims are submitted to their final punishment, the senior class rise and pin are presented to the successful class president.

Ruth Sanderson: I feel that the hours designated for the meetings of organizations are too limited. I object to 4:30-6:30 meetings for three reasons: For girls who have N. Y. A. or dining room scholarships it is almost impossible to attend meetings in the afternoon after classes. Especially if they are to have any time for rest and leisure at all. Also, it is difficult to get speakers for programs during the 4:30 afternoon. Many small group meetings such as those of committees are called for that period and they would conflict if regular meetings for organizations were scheduled then. Friday night is bad night for those who do not have Saturday classes and must be used for study by those who do. The rest of the week doesn't seem like the most enjoyable time for a club meeting. Also, many girls who go away for weekends leave on Friday and it would be harder than ever to decide on a time satisfactory to all members. I don't think that campus organizations should be allowed to conflict on Sunday night with church services for those who like to attend

Mary Lou Hancock: From observing the effects of the plan since it was drawn up "in full," I do think it was a sincere effort on the part of the committee to enable girls to coordinate their activities and stop rushing to every place they have meetings at night. As a committee of college women, they are not to be criticized for trying to help us with their power. Many colleges have committees for doing so; there may be held. I don't think, however, that the present plan is satisfactory. Many girls' clubs are distributing their meetings over the week, thus depriving having call meetings, etc. In other words, the same people are doing the same things in the same extent. There is a definite need on the campus for some sort of a procedure by which activities can be distributed more equally throughout the student body—and that's a problem well worth the attention of the committee.

Marjorie Swaim, chairman of privileges, and Dorothy Brown, president of the college government association: I think it really is a good idea, but it has not had jurisdiction or not, one of the purposes of the A. C. A. is to keep conditions on campus as much as possible similar to the plan originally drawn up. There is equally as much over-organization this year as there was over-organization. Many girls, anything neglected their studies,' and health. were not always pleased with the organizations, or entered clear of extra-curricular activities because they felt that they could not keep up with all these things. So the extra-curricular activities should be used in other schools to try to keep down over-organization and over-loading of the individual. We found that some of the ways by which the A. C. A. is to provide for membership in organizations and open and closed nights for meetings.

So the executive council got the organizations committee to send questions to the organizations on campus. Then they met and if they could meet at a certain time on Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays or Sundays. One admitted purpose of the change is to try to keep down some of the activities of their group and to keep the A. C. A. from being C. O. A. is just performing its duty. It hasn't worked up hardships on me because I find it a relief not to have to attend meetings which were always scheduled on Monday afternoon Tuesday night, Wednesday afternoon, and Thursday night. In all organizations of which I am a member the committee was perfectly fair in giving us all the time needed for a girl's meeting. I think it worked out about it because the change has been made.

Emily Phillips: It seems to me that each group should be left free to choose its own convenient and desirable time for meeting. If a girl belongs to organizations which conflict too often the best thing for her to do resign that is the most important to her.

Avis Lyman: I definitely don't like the change. I like for meetings because in that way many girls, for instance dining room girls, N. Y. A students, and student assistants only have to attend one arranged work scheduled that cannot be changed. will be unable to attend meetings as they did when the time was set considered to the individuals of the group.

Vivian Ahlrweh: The idea of coordinating and unifying meetings of all organizations is no doubt a good one in theory, but I do think it will work out in practice.

Against the week nights, I have nothing.

Against Friday and Sunday nights, I have everything. In the first place, a great many people leave town week-ends, particularly the popular people who are mixed up in the organizations on campus.

In the second place, what about church and league on Sunday nights?

In the third place, what about playnights?

In the fourth place, what about the meetings?

In the fifth plan, what about Jack Benny, Charlie McCarthy, and the hit parade? I always give up Charlie McCarthy for anything.

It seems to me that if organizations can find meeting times suitable to the largest number of members possible that there is no need for any other regulation of meeting times. Even with the plan suggested, all girls who belong to organizations cannot attend the meetings, so why lay further restrictions on our clubs?

Hazel Wilkinson: I think it is simply awful to have business meetings on Sunday evening, for it prevents many girls from attending league and church. We prohibit dancing on Sunday, why allow business or organization meetings on Sunday? Many organizations cannot meet during the afternoon because of participation in team athletics and everyone knows that Friday evening is play night and "time-out" for the movies. Then enough students have classes Thursday at 4:30 to interfere with meetings. Even though a group did decide to give up a party for one Friday night each month, there would be other meetings the next Friday night and then the next throughout the month To verify this I went by A. J. Pi's Phi and Life Saving, all of which are scheduled for Friday night. To anyone who is a member of all three it means a meeting every Friday night.

I am in favor of shorter meetings at opportune times, but for better organization, these meeting times do not work, and Sunday, never.

Army Child Likes Hawaii Best

Continued from page one

locks and keys, and there are American teachers.

Emma Jean stated that the students had much school spirit and that the girls were as enthusiastic about the sports as the boys. She told of winning medals on the track team and also of acting as a cheerleader at the football games. One of the most exciting events that she had was the May Day festival. On this day everyone on the island wears a lei. Many persons go about selling beautiful gardenia lei for the price of 90 cents. There are also leis of roses and carnations, and everyone carries out the spirit of the occasion by singing May songs and songs of Hawaii.

Schofield Barracks hold 10,000American soldiers. There is always great competition between the artillery and the infantry, as both groups call live in the barracks and there is a new ruling that no soldier or officer may stay in the islands for over two years at the time. Sports are especially for the soldiers. is very monotonous. The army post is, however, a perfect place to raise children. There are free horseback riding, swimming pools, tennis courts, hops which are organized dances given every two weeks for the officers' children, basketball games, and competition between the different companies in which everyone on the post is always welcome to witness. The children of the infantry officers are two-story brick, all alike and in a long row with quarters for the artillery are built of wood. Most of the officers have cottages on the beach where the family can spend the summer months. Emma Jean's grandfather also lived at the Schofield Barrack. where he was a colonel in the army.

At the end of three and one-half years, Emma Jean's father was ordered to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and for now a captain of artillery at the University in Gainesville, where her family is living at present. Emma Jean likes the people of Florida very much as she thinks they are friendly and hospitable.

Auditions Held For Music Group

Youth Orchestra Will Tour South America

Auditions were held Wednesday morning in the college auditorium for six Florida State college students and two young men of this district, contestants in the preliminary round of the nation-wide contest for membership in the all-American Youth orchestra. The orchestra, sponsored by the National Youth administration, is to be composed of approximately 100 young men and women, members of the contest, and, under the direction of Leopold Stokowski, will tour Central and South America this summer.

Those girls contesting were Julia Rosser, violin; Freddie Lu Suhr, violin; Virginia Rouse, violin; Helen Chalgren, violin; Jean Hampson, and Jean Catherina Hinchcliff, trompania

The two young men who also tried out were Jesse Velmer Sloan of Live Oak, Florida, and Carl Hoffman, Tallahassee, flute, a freshman at the University of Florida.

Those accepted from this district tuesday will participate in the state contest to be held in Tallahassee sometime in March. The winners will compete in a regional concert by the United States to one of the smallest. Jesse went on to say that there wasn't even a whole regiment, there being only 16 officers and 400 enlisted men. If the war was run down, the windows in her house would rattle. There were no trees, tall grasses grew around it, and no one was allowed to use the front yard. Everything at the fort had to be repaired. The fort was built during the war of Marfa, where the population consisted of 3,000 Mexicans and no Americans.

However, shortly after her arrival the fort was put in order and Emma Jean began to like it. She said that there were 20 young people of her age, and she said of the fun she had attending barbecues, some of the big ranches close by and of attending roundups and brandings. She said that the closest river was the Rio Grande and that they often went there to camp and picnic. She said that every year in Marfa they held a large "wild-west" rodeo which people from miles around came to see. Everyone in town becomes excited and puts on cow-girls for the occasion, which Emma Jean was one. Naturally Jean was chosen princess of the rodeo.

When asked about the schools there she stated that there was no need for now a captain of artillery at the University in Gainesville, where her family is living at present. Emma Jean likes the people of Florida very Twas Exciting Tho, Wasn't It?

This really happened Tuesday afternoon we were sitting calmly at our desk studying when the fire engines rushed madly down College avenue.

There seemed to be a mob of the Cecil B. DeMille variety following so we went, although it did necessitate a little detour.

Down the street we ran for two blocks—just like a motion picture heroine rushes through the traffic of a New York street after the one and only.

We arrived at the scene of distater—we knew it was the scene because everything had stopped there. But we couldn't see any disaster. The mob couldn't see a disaster. The firemen almost didn't see the disaster. The disaster was a small flame on the second floor of a house—maybe. But we aren't sure there was a disaster.

* * *

We orders: to Pi. D. A. Russell in Marfa, Texas, where he had been commissioned to open up the fort which had been abandoned for years and which was only 60 miles from the Mexican border too. "Thus," said Emma Jean, "we had to move from the army post to the fort." We visited the states to one of the smallest. We went on to say that there wasn't even a whole regiment, there being only 16 officers and 400 enlisted men. If the war was run down, the windows in her house would rattle. There were no trees, tall grasses grew around it, and no one was allowed to use the front yard. Everything at the fort had to be repaired. The fort was built during the war of Marfa, where the population consisted of 3,000 Mexicans and no Americans.

However, shortly after her arrival the fort was put in order and Emma Jean began to like it. She said that there were 20 young people of her age, and she said of the fun she had attending barbecues, some of the big ranches close by and of attending roundups and brandings. She said that the closest river was the Rio Grande and that they often went there to camp and picnic. She said that every year in Marfa they held a large "wild-west" rodeo which people from miles around came to see. Everyone in town becomes excited and puts on cow-girls for the occasion, which Emma Jean was one. Naturally Jean was chosen princess of the rodeo.

When asked about the schools there she stated that there was no need for now a captain of artillery at the University in Gainesville, where her family is living at present. Emma Jean likes the people of Florida very

Crime Prevention Week Observed

Proposed Amendment's Advantages Discussed

Crime prevention week, which is being sponsored by the Florida bar association and the various civic organizations of Florida will be observed by students of this college Tuesday afternoon in convocation when Dr. Paul W. Shandweiler, assistant professor of sociology, spoke on crime prevention. Florida voters, he reminded the students, will have a chance to fall to vote for a constitutional amendment that will make a pardon and parole law legal in the state. At present Florida is one of the two states which is without an adult probation-parole system. Dr. Shandweiler said that the saving made possible by such a system would reach to one fourth of a million dollars annually. This money could be used to provide for more educational and recreational programs that would serve to keep our youth off the streets.

At the present time the total annual bill for crime in the nation exceeds fifteen billion dollars for public education, relief, and the upkeep of the army and navy. Substituting probation and parole for the present penal system would be a saving of $300 in the care of a prisoner.

Not only will the the proposed amendment be a saving in dollars and cents but in lives as well. Dr. Shandweiler emphasized the individual guidance which after correctional possibilities defined. The extent of the time and the type of treatment depends upon the individual case. Probation and parole are not a means of letting criminals go free, but a means of rehabilitating the criminal. Substituting probation and parole for the present penal system would be a saving of $300 in the care of a prisoner.

Not only will the the proposed amendment be a saving in dollars and cents but in lives as well. Dr. Shandweiler emphasized the individual guidance which after correctional possibilities defined. The extent of the time and the type of treatment depends upon the individual case. Probation and parole are not a means of letting criminals go free, but a means of rehabilitating the criminal. Substituting probation and parole for the present penal system would be a saving of $300 in the care of a prisoner.

Sixty per cent of released prisoners of the nation start a new life to crime, but under the protection parole system there is far increased likelihood of his future as practical results demonstrate when the individual is released.

A concrete way of reducing the crime problem in Florida would be to support the new plan for the remaking of lives.

AIR-CONDITIONED
MARTIN & DALTON
DEPARTMENT DRUG STORE
210-212 SO. ADAMS ST. PHONE 122

FOUNTAIN SPECIALS

Peach Melba Sundae ..... 15c | Giant Cho. Ice Cream Sodas 10c

COLLEGE SPECIAL CLUB STEAK 30c

HALF-FRY APALACH OYSTERS with F. F. Potatoes 35c
Lettuce and Tomato Salad, Drink .....

DIXIE MADE PAINTS
DIXIE MADE FOR DIXIE TRADE
WHAT DIXIE MAKES MAKES DIXIE
Interior and Exterior Paints in All Shades

Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & VON INC.
YONES
HARDWARE

GARDEN COLORS in Larkwood ANKLETS
Impudent little lisle anklets bring garden colors to your feet. Poppy, larkspur, daffodil, hyacinth, moss pink, American beauty ere just a few. Sizes 8½ to 10½.
25c, 35c 50c
the VOGUE tallahassee, feminine wearables

SEAMS GO STRAIGHT AND NARROW WITH Larkwood
79c
$1.00
From heel to hem, a trim sharp bee that gives your legs more curve appeal. Straight and strong seams tailored to the fineness of a pin stripe. It's a smart girl who looks to Larkwood for seam bravery when skirts are so short.
the VOGUE tallahassee, feminine wearables

STATE
FRIDAY—SATURDAY
March 1st, 2nd
NORTHWEST PASSAGE
SPENCER TRACY
SUNDAY and MONDAY
March 3rd, 4th
GENE AUTRY
"SOUTH OF THE BORDER"
TUESDAY
March 5th
The Saint IS Back!
THE SAINT'S DOUBLE DANGER
WEDNESDAY—THURSDAY
March 6th, 7th
CHARLES LAUGHTON
VIVIEN LEIGH
Sidewalks of London

RITZ
FRIDAY and SATURDAY
March 1st, 2nd
GENE AUTRY
"SOUTH OF THE BORDER"
SUNDAY and MONDAY
March 3rd, 4th
SPENCER TRACY
In
"NORTHWEST PASSAGE"
TUESDAY—WEDNESDAY
March 5th, 6th
CAROLE LOMBARD
In
"VIGIL IN THE NIGHT"
THURSDAY—FRIDAY
March 7th, 8th
DON AMECHE
In
"SWANEE RIVER"

Talk On Modern Dance Presented

Students Illustrate Techniques Discussed

At the second lecture demonstration given by the modern dance group this year on Wednesday afternoon, Miss Ruth Lee, dance instructor at Florida State university, was guest speaker, assisting Miss Nellie-Rose Dickinson, head of the modern dancing classes at this col-

Previously Miss Price has discussed demonstrations in various colleges of Georgia, in which she illustrated different steps and exercises used in her own classes. Using the dancers to explain her methods and practices in walking, running, variations in rhythmical beats, and falling.

The scheduled program of the afternoon was devoted to demonstrations of three groups of movements used in the modern dance: an instrument, in which the body prepared for definite rhythmic patterns; the elements of position with pattern movement, and composition in which each groups go through different movements to constitute for a dance.

All of the classes participated in the demonstration of technique in the elements of combinations for illustrations of what was given: the leap pattern and run pattern. Five movements were next demonstrated by individual girls. Barbara Thomas illustrated the pendulum movement, Minnie Ratliff, the percussive movement, Dorothy Brown, the restative; and Nellie Miller, the rebound. Margaret Crockett and Barbara Bell also demonstrated the primary, second and two-part inventions forms, for which music by Stainer Foster and J. S. Bach was used.

Eight dances illustrating the various types of composition were then participated in by extra-curricular groups, individuals and Miss Dickinson. A piece in round form was demonstrated by the advanced extra-curricular groups and the "Sarabande" by a beginning class in dance. Miss Dickinson followed these with a vocabo dance.

The next dance directed by Miss Elen Sinland, Illustrating rhythmic forms, was paid investigation forms, for which music by Stainer Foster and J. S. Bach was used.

Eight dances illustrating the various types of composition were then participated in by extra-curricular groups, individuals and Miss Dickinson. A piece in round form was demonstrated by the advanced extra-curricular groups and the "Sarabande" by a beginning class in dance. Miss Dickinson followed these with a vocabo dance.

The next dance directed by Miss Elen Sinland, Illustrating rhythmic forms, was paid investigation forms, for which music by Stainer Foster and J. S. Bach was used.

Miss Sue Daniel, Mary Lou McCreary Alice Armstrong, and Elizabeth Bell demonstrated a negative burial ceremony.

A Greek archaic dance, representing a leader of the chorus was given by Miss Dickinson and a fan dance by Barbara Thomas as the concluding numbers of the choreography.

Music for this last group was from the compositions of Handel Mompou, Satie, and Harrison. The accompaniment was arranged and played by Kathleen Griggs.

Search For New Angles Puts Photographer On Finside

Continued from page one

to look his ahead in Frnal of Orchitre, concealing his camera in the bushes facing the doorway He waited patiently after a while a policeman, the faithful protector of the campus, came by.

"It is a bit unusual to see a man hiding in the bushes in front of the dormitories, the officer could not be blamed for being a little suspicious. Several times he walked by, eyeing the intruder flashily he scooted Mr. Adams in rough voice. 'What are you doing here?'

After some minutes of explanation the policeman was finally satisfied and left Mr. Adams to his waiting. At last the dreadful dawn rose and from the doorway poured flocks of girls, clad in pajamas and in street clothes, sleepy eyed and wide awake, hurried to their nest and heads still unmussed by a pillow, all carrying towels and all looking cross because of the rude interruption of their night's quest. The photographer's shutter flashed. Shrieks came from the girls as soon the light flashed. Heads appeared in the stairway windows, and some shrieks arose. Everyone, shouting, tried to find out what was going on. A few had pajamas, months later, of being themselves pictured in the actual standing on the steps of Gilchrist, outfitted in bathrobe and pajamas, slippers and hair curlers.

Among the more unusual pictures of the college are some taken by the annual of 1938 in which the campus is shown as it looks at night with many brightly lighted window panes shining through the pines.

The making of these scenes presented a problem—if they should be made at night with all the lights in the buildings on, nothing but the gleaming windows would show for the silhouettes of the buildings and trees would be lost

Dancing Postponed

Because of artist series program Saturday night Mortar Board will not sponsor dancing in Landis recreation hall as it usually does at that time

Rain Club Taps 9 Baby Rays

Faculty Represented In Group Of Campers

Nine bewildered students and faculty members, numbering in all about like umbrellas, which invited them to a meeting of the Breakfast Club met together one morning last week in Gilchrist parlor. Here they were received by Martha Robbins who was clad in a raincoat and rain hat, although the sun was brightly shining.

Martha solemnly led the girls to the Sweet Shop where they found Catherine Anderson, Dot Parks, Frannie Fryer, Jan Wood, and Jaket Bell awaiting her arrival. Raindrop Jan Jewett completed the group, took the minutes on a paper napkin.

The club was formed one blue Monday when the nine rainy week end campers arrived at F. S. C. W. last week to find that it rained. Therefore they made their plans for the future introducing the three "R's" of rain control, to protect no problems. Meetings will be held every morning at seven to get together. Critically there were ten members but three of the founders were left behind due to school this year—they are now called Ex-Rain.

Anna Frances McKay was elected Sunbeam for next year and Frances Bell was elected Raindrop. The meeting was adjourned with the singing of the Rain Club Breakfast Club now Leaves the Air." Baby Rays are Cornelia Gene Bryan, Frances Bell, Anna Frances McKay, Jean Wood, Irene Parks, Frannie Fryer, Clementis Bryan, Frances Battle, Miss Nellie-Rood Dickinson, and Miss Ruth Lee Montgomery.

In the darkness. On the other hand, one naturally can't take night pictures in the dark. The problem was solved by taking two pictures of each scene and then combining them

The first was taken just before dark to get the exterior of the buildings and trees. The spot where the camera was placed was carefully marked, and several hours later from the identical spot a picture was taken at night with all the lights in the building glowing in the night. In printing these two pictures were combined, one on top of the other, so that the finished results were the beautiful scene in the Plastacows.

Mr. Adams has photographed every building on the campus, most of them many times. His took the construction pictures for Landis and is making those for the Student Alumnae building. In doing construction pictures he takes a set every two weeks of every month to show how the work is progressing. It is interesting, he says, to watch the buildings grow.

The newest thing that Mr. Adams has tried is aerial photography. He has made several pictures of the college from the air, and is very much pleased with the results. This type of photography requires special equipment and special skills in making shots. It is difficult at first to focus the camera on the right plane. It is disappointing, too, to make a picture which promises to be splendid and then find when the film is developed that the object supposedly photographed didn't get into the picture at all.

Incidentally, technically good pictures aren't always the ones that sell best, according to Mr. Adams. He has made many professional photographic hand compositions for which there was no demand. On the other hand, many times he has taken photographs which proved to be very popular although ordinarily they were poor compositions and were not considered worth printing by the public's taste.

Tarpon Club Movie Shows In Honolulu Theater

The Grantland Rice Sportlight "Aqua Rhythm" in which the Tarpon Club executed difficult patterns of formation swimming has just been shown in Honolulu.

Within the next year the film already shown in Florida and other states and in the Canal Zone, will appear in more distant parts of the world.

Even Swimmers Set New Record

Wood Is High Scorer As Odds Lose 44-12

Midst the cheering of over a hundred lusty voices, four girls in the Jenks pool broke their way to a new national record for the women's national relay—a relay 196-yard free style relay during the Odd-Even swimming meet a week ago today, as well as winning over the Odd team.

The time made during the relay afternoon was 9'6 seconds which shows almost an entire second clipped off of the former national record which was established by the University of Southern California in 1937, with 97.2. Two other records, the southern record of one minute, 1.8 seconds, held by Texas State college for women, and our own record of 97.8 made in 1938-37 by the Odds were broken automatically at the same time.

The winning relay team, composed of Ernestine Mackemson, Dot Parks, and Jean Wood, was taken from the freshmore and senior classes and all will have a chance to try out in the National Telegraphic Meet to be held soon. All these girls are members of the Jenks club and appeared in the Grantland Rice Sportlight "Aqua Rhythm." Both Virginia and Ernestine Mackemson are sisters of one of the girls who helped to make the former national record in 1936-37, Martha Mackemson, who graduated last Friday.

Yvonne Marchesseau, Mary Collins, and Dell Perry Jones added all the events that took place Friday, of which the "Evens" won by a score of 44 to 12, having a score of 44 to the Odd score of 12. Each team took three out of all the events, totaling 12 points; Irene Prend was second with 11 points, and Ann Hendricks was tied for third place with seven points.

"In the other events, Virginia Mackemson won the diving with 18 points, Irene Prend won the breast stroke for speed, Ernestine Mackemson won the back stroke for speed, Denora Ecker won the diving events, and Jean Wood won the 50-yard backstroke for speed

Those participating for the Odds were Peggy Barker, Nancy Lee Doggett, Pat Ireland, Marion Swanson, Denora Ecker, Starling Hall, and Paula Jones. Even contestants were Dot Parks, Martha Mackemson, Virginia Mackemson, Irene Prend, Jean Wood, Hazel Witherspoon, and Louise Rice.

FSCW Chosen As 1941 Youth's Conference Site

Continued from page one

persecution of the Jews and Christianity. He recommended Christianity as the only solution for the present problems of the world.

South America Discussed

The third speaker was the versatile and dynamic Rev. Hugh Clark Latimer, who was born in India, educated in America, commissioned as army chaplain in France, later sent to Bolivia to direct the American school in La Paz, and now is acting to promote religious education in Latin America.

He described the two main phases of movement as secular and protestant, but said that Latin America was constantly threatened by a third movement having to withstand propaganda from abroad and was convinced that she must stay out of Europe.

The Rev. C. Darby Fulton, executive secretary for the committee of foreign missions, explained the four tensions in Japan as being between intellect and religion, individualism and nationalism, Christianity and Shintoism, and Japan and China.

The last speaker was the Rev. Robert W. Searle, general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, graduate of Rutgers university and New Brunswick Theological Seminary, and author of "The Searle Survey," pointed out that the tendons in America were between the different age groups, the economic levels, and individualism versus social security. His proposed solution was universal Christianity.

Speaking at the Saturday morning session of the Youth Conference was Dr. Conrad Hoffman, executive secretary of the Board of National Missions in charge of Jewish work, director of the International Missionary Council's committee on the Christian approach to the Jews, and layman speaker for the Florida chain of missionary assemblies.

Jewish Problem Reviewed

Dr. Hoffman talked to the Youth Conference on "Vast Germany and World Jewry," saying first that Nazism was the expression of the desire of the German people for social and economic justice.

He then explained the various ways to approach the attaining of these ideals. There is the approach of the radical, which is essentially that of the Nazis. They believe that everything is wrong with the world so that it is necessary to change everything. On the other hand, there is the conservative approach, which holds that everything is well with the world so that the only thing necessary for the well-being of society is to leave things as they are. The ideal approach, however, he says lies in between these two and is the approach of the Christian, who appreciates all things and holds fast to what he has in addition to effecting changes where they are needed.

He explained the Jewish problem in Germany Dr Hoffman expressed the fear of becoming a "German-baiter" by too severe criticism of these people. Many Germans are daily risking their lives to protect the Jew, he revealed.

Dr. Hoffman pictured to the conference some of the horrible conditions in Poland as he proposed to today in the concentration camps and in the cities. He told of one man who was deprived of anything to drink for eight days and said that if one of his courageous fellow-prisoners had not smuggled water to him, this man would certainly have died of thirst.

He related the story of the St. Louis, telling how a shipload of refugees from Germany came across the ocean to Cuba, which had promised to receive them, and how when they got there they were not allowed to land. Desperate, the little group appealed to the other countries in the American continent to receive them. Even the United States would not allow them to land. Finally they sailed back to Europe, several committing suicide on the way at the thought of having to return to Germany. When they reached the other side of the Atlantic, Holland, Belgium, France, and Great Britain—four small and overcrowded countries, took them in.

What about the United States? queried Dr. Hoffmann. When is she going to assume her just share of responsibility?

There is a great danger, he said, that anti-Semitism may work over into the United States. It already exists in Poland, Rumania, and Hungary, and pseudo-ism is growing here.

Here is our opportunity, concluded Dr. Hoffmann, to show others a more Christ-like way of life. It is a challenge. "What shall we do? What will you do?"

Searle Lectures

Following Dr. Hoffman's speech, Dr Robert W. Searle talked on "Destructive Forces in American Life." In which he enumerated and explained some of what he thought to be the most destructive forces in our life today.

Sunday morning, before a mis-

Evens Clip Relay Record

The Even swimming team which smashed by .3 seconds the national record of 97.2 for the women's national inter-collegiate 196-yard free style relay in the telegraphic meet here recently, is shown above. From right to left are Dorothy Parks, Ernestine Makemson, Virginia Makemson, and Jean Wood.

Corey Will Head Odd Hockey Group

At the last meeting of the W.A.A. Pay Corey was elected new hockey manager to succeed Virginia of Minnie Ratliff, former leader.

W. A. A. amended its constitution so that requirements for participation in odd-even sports are determined by the quarter as well as by the semester. No one can accumulate more than over 5 hours of unsatisfactories and be permitted to take part in the odd-even contests.

ed gathering of conference members, students and faculty, were the Rev. C. Darby Fulton, who, perhaps, knows more about Japan than any average American is able to learn, spoke upon "The Need of the Modern World for a Christian Youth." The Rev. Mr. Fulton, who was born in Kobe, Japan, and educated there until 15 years of age, is the son of missionary parents, who served in Japan for about 50 years under the executive committee of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church in the United States.

In his talk Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Fulton pleaded for a great missionary movement. "The missionary obligation is inescapable; it is an inescapable part of being a Christian" he maintained. Explaining this point, he said that it was like knowing that our cure.

Two Telegraphic Meets Scheduled

From March 6-11 the swimming classes will participate in two telegraphic meets at the gymnasium. These meets will be part of similar meets held at the same time in various colleges of the south, the results of which will be wired to the state college of Texas and then to a national committee for comparison and setting of records.

The classes will be allowed to enter 15 swimmers who may participate in any 4 events they wish. The specific events will include the 40-yard crawl, 40-yard back crawl, and 40-yard breast stroke; the 100-yard crawl, back-crawl, and breast stroke; the 60-yard medley relay, 80-yard free style; 75-yard medley relay, and the 100-yard free style.

Girls who have already signed up for the meets are Mary Lou Jean Wood, Irene Prend, Betty Brown, Frances Battle, Claudia Jesanock, Denora Ecker, Ernestine Makemson, Virginia Makemson, and Peggy Barker. Those who may be interested are urged to sign up as soon as possible.

WAA Calendar

Today

4:30—Odd-Even hockey and soccer practice.

Tomorrow

2:00-6:00—"Open House at gym (fencing, badminton, and dancing).

Monday

4:30—Odd hockey and soccer practice.

6:00—Recreation night for faculty.

Tuesday

4:30—Even hockey and soccer practice.

6:40—Tarpon club practice in pool.

Wednesday

4:30—Odd hockey and soccer practice.

8:30—Telegraphic swimming meet.

Thursday

4:30—Even hockey and soccer practice.

6:30—Tarpon club practice.

Diving Classes Begin Monday

Fremd Will Instruct Group In Techniques

Beginning this week extra-curricular diving classes will be held at the pool every Monday afternoon at 4:30 for those who are interested in improving their diving techniques along with their swimming. Irene Fremd will conduct the classes.

Only about 15 girls can be accommodated for instruction. All who are interested are urged to get in touch with the instructor as soon as possible. No distinction will be made as to ability of swimmers; both the rudiments of diving and advanced instruction will be given. Special emphasis will be placed upon springing from the board at first, as a part of the approach.

Diane, a sophomore, has had previous experience in this field. While in high school she was on the swimming team for three years, she coached swimming and diving at the same school one summer, and was swimming instructor at a Girl Scout camp for two years.

She is now a physical education major and has taken four years of swimming and diving since she has entered college.

FHS Cast To Give 'Drums of Death'

"Drums of Death," a mystery play, will be presented here Thursday and Friday nights March 7 and 8, in the Augusta Hill theater by the dramatic classes of Florida high school.

The play centers around a magic stone which can be removed from the body, of its dead owner by a blood relative. Involved in the mystery surrounding this powerful stone are two Brazilian servants, three girls who have been mysteriously lured to the plantation, the sheriff who carries the comedy role, the niece who is the only one left to remove the stone, and another mysterious character.

Due to unavoidable circumstances the student who was to take the part of Julie will not be able to appear so Ralph Donaldson, instructor at Florida high will play the part.

Members of the cast are: Ralph Oussenam, Ruth Hall, Doris Jacoby, J. P. Foldes, Jeanne Eyman, Kathryn Sikes, Emily Jenks, Richard Arnold, Francis Lowery and Doris Maier.

Members of the staff are Henry Middlebrooks, Richard Arnold, Bill Jones, Frances Jeanne Hansen, Jeanne Jones, Edwin Chason, Bill Messer, John Bellamy, Carter Glover, and Francis Lowery.

Irene Bannerman, Betty Jane Jeno, Sara Woodruff Marie Crouch, and Beth Blair, all of the college, are in charge of lights and makeup for the play, Iris Watson, Mary Lucy Mendenhall, Mary McCann, and Patsy Bond.

YWCA Will Hold Informal Forums

Two more informal "bull sessions," to which everyone is invited, have been planned by the Y.W.C.A., to follow the Youth Conference. The questions which were most popular at the conference have been selected for discussion at these gatherings.

Racial problems will be discussed next Tuesday at 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Robert Hilliard. Miss Hilliard will be "To the Hope for a Christian Social Order the Importance of Other Races Enough?"

At the last meeting, the date of which will be announced, students will present their views on the question, "Loyalty to Friends May Place Us In an Unchristian Position. How Can We Serve Our Friends in Such a Situation?"

Miss Julia Graham conducted the first session to which loyalty to the church was discussed.

LIKES / FLASHING SPEED ON SKIS

but chooses slow-burning Camels for

It takes your breath away even to watch him. Down the side of the mountain . . . with relentless turns . . . and there he is—faster and faster. That's Bob Bourdon, former Vermont champion. On skis, he's one of New England's fastest. But so, smoking, he's strictly on the slow side. Read what he says (at right).

In the Canton Mountain Aerial Tramway, Franconia Notch, N. H., Bob Bourdon (above) enjoys a Camel. "No need to be in any smoking," says this ski champion.

"Camels are slower-burning and give me extra mildness, extra coolness, and extra flavor."

"THE faster the going, the more fun in skiing," says Bob Bourdon. But he has a different angle on cigarettes. When Bob Bourdon says: "Slow burning is my guide on more and more occasions, and more flavor," he's putting the stamp of actual smoking experience on the findings of science.

Fast burning in a cigarette wastes heat. Nothing dulls the delicate elements of cigarette flavor and aroma so surely as excess heat. There's little pleasure or comfort in a hot, fast smoke in which the flavor has been burned away. The extra mildness, refreshing coolness, and that smooth, mellow flavor of Camels are constantly recent under the repeated scientific tests, in which Camels...the cigarette of costlier tobaccos...burned the slowest of the sixteen of the largest-selling brands tested! Let your sense of left / So, change to slow-burning Camels and enjoy extra pleasure and extra smoking.

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

Copyright, 1940, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Camels—the cigarette of Costlier Tobaccos

MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF... MORE PUFFS PER PACK!

'til We Meet Again

As a result of the recent survey made by the committee on organizations the recommendation has been made and approved by college council that all organizations having regular meetings shall meet in accordance with the schedule set up by this committee. The committee on organizations made the survey and college council made the suggestion that meetings be scheduled at definite, stated times.

According to this schedule, meetings will be held on Tuesday afternoon from 4:30 to 6:30, Thursday afternoon at 1:30 and from 4:30 to 6:40. Friday night from 8 until 10 o'clock, and Sunday night at the same time. The new schedule has already gone into effect in some instances, as it was to become effective with the next meeting of each organization.

As far as possible the preference in regard to the time of meetings of each organization was taken into consideration by the committee. This was done by questionnaires sent out for the survey to heads of organizations asking the purpose of the organization, the time of its regularly scheduled meetings, and whether it could change its time of meeting, etc. If the time the committee has scheduled is inconvenient for the majority of the members of an organization, and [illegible] would prefer another time within the scheduled [illegible] the president of the organization concerned is asked to notify the [illegible] on organizations.

Behind this action of the committee on organizations in making the survey and the action of college council in approving the recommendation of the committee is an awareness of the fact that this campus is over-organized, not [illegible] in the number of organizations but in the relatively small number of persons who belong to a relatively large number of organizations.

A small number of students would probably be in agreement that there [illegible] should be no limit to the number of organizations to which students may belong. It is behind the action of the committee on organizations [illegible] to curb.

The committee believes that by limiting the days on which organizations may hold meetings [illegible] it will eventually be great overlapping of meetings on one date. In this way those people who go to a meeting almost every day will be compelled to drop some of their activities or at least they will have to [illegible] a lot [illegible]. It is hoped that as a result of this action, many students will have to branch out and draw their membership from people outside the [illegible] rooms that now comprise the greatest meeting-goers.

Perhaps these aims will be realized, and if they are the committee should feel that the action it has taken has been worthwhile. However, the plan requires great responsibility, attendance of meetings, and will work hardships on many of the organizations on campus.

In the first place, the hours on Friday and Sunday nights which are designated as times for meetings to be held, are times used by many students for some form of recreation; be it attendance at church services or playnight, or merely staying at home's room to listen to the radio. Or oftentimes Monday is one of the busiest days and much preparation is required on Sunday night for the next day's classes.

That leaves two hours on Tuesday afternoon and three hours on Thursday afternoons for meetings to be held. These may develop into days when we go from one meeting to the next.

There are certain organizations that are going to suffer as a result of this change, one of them being N. S. F. A. It seems that all year something has kept this organization from assuming its proper place of importance on campus. The recent action that was hoped to give the organization greater status on campus has been nullified by scheduling N. S. F. A.'s meeting at 1:30 on Thursday. Without having any objective data to offer on the subject, we believe that there will not be enthusiasm in attendance at the meetings. The organization needs all the encouragement it can get in build[illegible] position, and it does not appear that this will help. Of course, N. S. F. A. may take recourse in applying for another hour, but with all meetings crowded into a few days it will be difficult to find another time more suitable than this.

The organizations of the W. A. A. are at a somewhat similar disadvantage. The W. A. A. the [illegible] club, and the Life Saving club all are scheduled for Friday nights. With each of these organizations meeting once a month, anyone belonging to all three groups, (and such a proposition is not unlikely), would have a meeting three Friday nights out of the month.

But regardless of the scheduling of meetings, a more significant question exists in the minds of thinking students. Why does the committee on organizations wish the approval of college council, have the right to put into effect "Hamilton plan". The general student body, as far as we know, has not been approached on the subject except for the letter sent out during the [illegible] drive. How does one committee with the endorsement of another, have the right to regulate the meetings of other organizations? That question remains to be answered.

All That Glitters Is Not Gold

In about two weeks one of the most important events of the college year will take place. At that time the approximately 2,000 students at Florida State college will go to "the polls to elect their major and minor student officers for the coming year. On their selection will rest their ideals and policies of the college and its students for one year.

Since there is so much at stake, everyone should take extra care to know as much as possible about each candidate for every office down to the most minor ones. This is one time when girls should be elected for their ability to hold the position and not their popularity, or excellence in sports, dancing, singing, etc. Just because a girl has made it a point to be seen in the company of the campus big-wigs for the last three years and has gotten up for one convocation, as many times as she can manage it, that is no indication at all that she is better qualified to hold a particular office than another girl who has been more retiring. If we won't take the trouble to inform ourselves about the candidates, our elections will degenerate into mere popularity contests.

Last year our elections system took a great step forward when we turned to a system of petitions in place of the former one of nominations. Under the latter system a girl had to run for the position for which she was nominated without having much choice in the matter. The more or less accepted procedure was when a girl heard herself nominated in convocation to run for an office, she cast her eyes down, tried to look embarrassed, and muttered, "Why, I'm so surprised—I never expected it." Chances for most worthy yet lesser known girls being overlooked were very great. Under the new system students run for offices because they want to run and feel that they are capable of doing the work. On the whole we have a better selection of candidates because each girl is running for the position in which she is interested.

Another excellent innovation last year was a training course for prospective candidates for major and minor offices before their petitions were started. In former years students went into office not having more than a vague idea of what they would be expected to do. How could they intelligently form their policies and election platforms under such circumstances? The answer is that what they offered the student body in the way of policy was practically nothing. The really intelligent and informed voters would do well to attend some of those meetings, also, so they can be better prepared to vote. At any rate no officer can excuse some blunder by declaring that she didn't know what she was letting herself in for.

Another far-reaching, progressive step last year was the substitution of voting machines which insured greater accuracy and speed in counting the votes. The newness seemed to stimulate a greater student interest in participation in the actual voting than the year before. However, there is still much to be desired in the way of interest in the elections. The Twenty-One club is working hard to help eliminate the long lines at the voting machines which we had last year. If the officers know that they were the choice of 100 per cent of the student body, they will have more incentive to work and will feel an even greater sense of responsibility. This is a chance for each and every one of us to do our part toward formulating the policies of our student government and toward making it truly representative.

Collegiate Comebacks

Your Government.....

This week and next Your Government will take up the discussion of the court system of our college government association, beginning with judiciary, followed by the residence hall committee, formerly known as Lower Court, the off-campus committee, and the newly formed house councils.

* * * * *

Organization of Judiciary....

There are twelve members of judiciary, consisting of a chairman, Marjorie Jessup; the chairman of the residence hall committee, Mamie Ruth Bagnoli; chairman of the off-campus committee, Marjorie Hollaway; followed by the residence hall committee, formerly known as Lower Court, the off-campus committee, and the newly formed house councils.

* * * * *

Organization of Judiciary....

There are twelve members of judiciary, consisting of a chairman, Marjorie Jessup; the chairman of the residence hall committee, Mamie Ruth Bagnoli; chairman of the off-campus committee, Marjorie Hollaway; followed by five representatives from the senior class, Connie Ash and Yvonne Marchesseau; three representatives from the junior class, Betty Nickinson, Lucille Wilkes, and Connie Mahon; two representatives from the sophomore class, Jeanne Walker and Janet Wells; the freshman adviser, Dorothea Kloeppel; and the president of C. G. A., Katherine Graham, who serves in an ex-officio capacity.

One of the sophomore members always serves as a guard, while a junior acts as secretary. The secretary keeps careful, exact, and complete records of each case and meeting. These records become part of C. G. A. files.

* * * * *

Duties....

It is the duty of judiciary to deal with infractions of major college regulations and with the cases referred from the residence hall and off-campus committees. Major offenses consist of cheating, drinking, stealing, dancing in town, staying out all night, violation of the honor code, taking over-night absences while still on academic probation, disregarding lower court probations, disregarding restrictions and judiciary and C. G. A. probations, immoral conduct, and gambling in your room. There are four types of probation: Judiciary, college government, residence hall, and house council.

At the end of each semester, or at any time when it is necessary, the progress of the department is reported to the faculty committee on student affairs. All the decisions of judiciary recommending full restrictions, disciplinary probation, C. G. A. probation, or suspension must be reviewed by the faculty committee. If the faculty committee believes a sentence to be too harsh or too light they may refer it back to judiciary. In like manner, judiciary may maintain its original sentence, or lighten the one suggested by the faculty committee.

There are no set rules by which judiciary goes, no express punishment for a certain violation. For this reason judiciary's Wednesday night meetings sometimes last until early morning, while they seek to interpret the girl's actions and try to be absolutely fair. The only infraction for which a girl is always liable to immediate suspension is in the case of drinking, possessing alcohol, or going to a place which sells alcohol, other than those places approved, such as public restaurants and hotels.

One of the main problems of judiciary is cases of stealing. Girls should immediately report the loss of anything whatsoever to Miss Ewing or to Marjorie Jessup. However, it is hard to discover the guilty person unless the girl is caught in the act or actually reports herself. Judiciary has had no searches this year for they found it to be not only an upsetting process, but also an unfruitful one. The only results accomplished last year were to find books people had forgotten to bring back to the library, or things they had forgotten to return to the girl across the hall.

* * * * *

Committee On Honor....

The committee on honor is a standing committee of college council which was set-up for the first time this year. The chairman of judiciary is the permanent chairman of the committee. The other members appointed by the chairman of college council in consultation with the chairman of judiciary. At present its membership consists of two faculty members, Miss Mary B Bettle and E. R. Smith, and five students, Marjorie Jessup, Katherine Graham, Cornelia Watson, Betty Nickinson, and Janet Wells.

The duties of this committee, as stated in the handbook are (1) "to define the standards of honorable conduct at P. E. C. W.; (2) to plan and direct a program for promoting the acceptance of these standards by the faculty and student body. As it may plainly be seen, judiciary is in charge of enforcing the decisions of this committee. Not all of its ideals are in the handbook, for they believe that not everything can be expressed in black and white. It has been the policy of our present judiciary not to insist upon discussing honor at every opportunity. They believe that the students here are honest and trustworthy, or else the majority of them would not be here. The honor code of honesty, responsibility, and loyalty is simply a code of educated, adult people all over the world.

By HARRIET BENSON

Though you're going down to O'ville,
And I'm staying here again,
I don't give a hoot Because I'm just a scatterbrain.
I don't care to hear Kay Kyser
Oh, his swing drives me insane!
Wouldn't you agree I'm scatterbrained?

* * * * *

Speaking of O'ville, have you heard about those Six Hungry O'villites who agree to swap love, affection, and steady mail for home-made candy, cookies, or what have you? Just another argument for being a home-ec major —or an argument for co-education; choose your own. Anyway, I sure hope one of you can cook. Enough to give Sam forsaken Cupid a little boost for more frequent flights between here and that—meaning O'ville. Oh, yes, the address you want for this is 133 Washington street. Answer so they'll know it pays to advertise.

* * * * *

Exchange from St. Pete junior college: Dopey Definitions Phase—That part of the body between the ears.
Convex—Guests at that state-owned hotel.

* * * * *

And someone wrote a poem about us the other day—wanna hear it?

When the moonlight beams
The girl without dreams,
Sits huddled over her desk.

Mourning for much-needed rest.
Her eyes are deep-sunken
And circled with black.
Her cheeks are all sallow
And slumped is her back.

Her fingers are calloused
From using the pen,
While writing term papers
Each now and then.

She hath no lover
Her arms to fill;
Her legs are muscled
From climbing the hill.

Her hair is stringy
And drools down her neck;
She don't give a rip.
If she looks like heck.

Her nails are jagged,
For ages unpolished;
Her brain is quite misty
And slightly demolished.

Her figure is podgy
Unsightly, we feel,
From eating pot-pies,
At most every meal.

The clock strikes three;
She raises her head,
Closes her books
And falls into bed.

If this keeps up
For two years yet
No handsome man
Will this girl get.

* * * * *

And how many petitions did you sign? Saw a gal the other day with her left arm sprained it signing petitions. Now everyone's massaging it for her to get her vote.

* * * * *

Seventy-eight Indiana university graduates have become college presidents. And what is it that we do? Get married? It's almost the same.

The freshman speaks—on elections:

When I was very blue
A girl I hardly knew
Started chatting up a spree.
And made my sadness flee.
Most uncommon introductions
Made me come to some deductions
Then dawn came to my reflections—
Let's have more elections!

* * * * *

Caesar closed his oration with "et tu, Brutus." We won't quote him but you get the idea, don't you?

Magazine Jottings...

"Little Women of the World"

By Margaret Fishback,

Atlantic Monthly, March, 1940

In our secluded college world, we look with scorn or pretended) and just a little envy at the glamour "debuting." Atlantic Monthly looks with horror a evolution of the expense and function of the noble tra tion of coming-out parties for our social butterflies.

The "Little Women of the World," today's debutante longer are demure, well-chaperoned, and well backgro ed, young flowers. But they are exhibitionistic, und seemed, young each! Margaret Fishback, in this Atla article, scathingly estimates the present cost of a " New York debut at $5,000. No wonder the lower class invitated.

And no wonder it is the wealthy debs of today who "come out" with the biggest bang. Pappa pays. A debut is a commercial, not a social event. But in the 18 coming-out party was meant to present the heretofore sh tered lady of 18 to society. And society included her para contemporaries and eligible young men.

* * * * *

According to Miss Fishback, before the organization publicity-minded secretaries, debs had not become nationa advertised products. "Before 1920 it would have been als as unthinkable to endorse a cigarette as to smoke one. (the debutante) wouldn't have been photographed drink champagne in a night club with her beau of the moment because she wouldn't have been allowed in a night club w her beau of the moment unless Mother went too." But era of extravagance and reckless behavior has evolved w expensive wool is pulled over the eyes of gullible, soci ambitious parents.

Guest lists for coming-out parties are now concocted the well-paid secretaries and are furnished by the ra The guests, mostly college men and prep-school seniors m never be seen again. The debuts of today have lost former purpose—to find suitable husbands for daughter the elite. Now it is clever for debutantes of tender ye to appear, well-escorted at the proper night clubs. even more clever is it for the deb to be mentioned frequ ly in the gossip columns, where she is raised to a nat interest number one—for, maybe, six months.

"Our national urge," says Miss Fishback, "to have t biggest circuses, the highest buildings, the fastest trai and the most expensive debs has made us famous to the debutante racket." And it is a racket. "And with the fa lon for gaudy, extravagant debuts have come gaudy, extrav gant debutantes, restless, strident, and brittle as the spa ling balls on a Christmas tree. Dignity has no glitter publicity value. Quite feminine charm is lost in the uproar

Yes, we are pushovers for the debutante raquet pens pleasure from reading what the debbies have for breakfa and what's new in the trade (he white horse up Fifth Ave. While, the debs and families are subject to the publi secretaries, and the cost of wrangling invitations is right placed. But a step toward a successful cure is inte ance at Junior Assemblies in New York and similar fun tions in other cities. The Junior Assemblies were once scription dances for the gals "who could muster a nice oaken background." Now the Junior Assemblies are re dered simply beauty, but also tops in dullness.

Even without the prerequisite of Junior Assembly their equivalent, a well-attended debut may be secured w pappa's money.

In the 1880's fathers are more fortunate. Here shou and great-grandparents are first in importance. In Charl ton, St. Cecelia Ball and in Baltimore, Bachelor's Cotil are revered social debs. At these sacred balls, only men of at least 21 are admitted, dances are filled along time, and the debs are expected to return to their ow arena after the dances. To be presented at and take debutante must be recommended by her father or m guardian who is a member of the organization. Compa to New York brand of debuts, these rate certainly have th points. Mass presentation is cheaper, but it is "fle in its exportation of unpresentable girls.

Simple parties and social prestige are gradually winni back their prominence in debuts. We can now begin look from our secluded world of college days toward the more sensible social set of our glamourous sisters. It seem that it is becoming obvious even to debutantes and their parents that "there must be some way of presenting a debutante to adult society without cheapening her or offendi the public."

By Louise Burger

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

JEANNETTE MULLIS — Editor-in-Chief
MABEL BENNETT — Associate Editor
MURIEL POLLARD, LOUISE RICH — Managing Editors
VIVIAN AMLOWEN — Feature Editor

Exchanges, Betty Douglas; Outside News, Margaret Fulmer; Circulation, Isabel Dart; Society, Margaret Scott; Sports, Sara Bussey; Copy Editor, Sarah Worth; Picture Editor, Ira Bell.

Reporters: Harriett Benson, Bertha Bond, Mary Catherine Bond, Louise Burger, Mary Caldwell, Doris Carter, Martinez Carr, Dorothy Chandler, Betty Dale, Helen Brinkman, Carlyn Garrett, Ann Hardee, Kitty Jo Hickman, Emma Jean Rigby, Bettie Kirkland, Ann McGraw, Mabel Hilton, Jayne Mendenhall, Eleanor Nelson, Frances Owen, Velma Pete, Grace Rushing, Shirley Sessoms, Ann Shaw, Dorothea Thomasson, Mesdelle Wasserman, Bess Young, Vedah Walker.

BUSINESS STAFF

GRACE SPARKMAN — Business Manager
LILLIAN MCINNESS — Assistant Business Manager
Circulation
MARY OLDEN ORMOND — Advertising

Entered as second class mail matter, January 26 1915, at the postoffice at Tallahassee, Fla under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Members National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association.

Representative for National Advertising by
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y.
CHICAGO · BOSTON · LOS ANGELES · SAN FRANCISCO

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

Of The World

The Balkans . . . .

Germany's drastic need for raw materials is clear in her interest in Rumania's abundant supply of oil and particularly her oil. It is extremely necessary to her oil to carry on war with the Allies and as Russia's supply at the present moment pretty uncertain, Rumania's supply is a factor. Rumania's annual output of 60,000 barrels annually.

Russia promised to sell Germany 1 650,000 tons of oil during the first year of the pact, but which she had agreed to deliver. It seemed as there was a shortage in Germany wells controlled by Russia, and these controlled by Germany opposed to these terms of oil sales and stopped the flow of oil. He clearly turn events Rumania is getting under the influence of Germany and whether or not she will be pressure.

European War . . . .

Two items concerning Europe's war this week: First, had the two men of Mussolini and the Russo-Finnish Peace" conference? Second, would the Allies' protest to nations now ships?

These questions overshadowed the desperate fighting by the Finns and the encounters between the western front patrols. It has been made known that the number of Allied naval patrol east German traffic through Britain and Norwegian waters.

Finland . . . .

The command Finns continue to struggle stubborn bow bending to the on the second day of the line by the Russian infantry and artillery, which have had a ter on thousands of fresh supplies and recruits. And yet Finland with her war but brave little artillery, and famed skiers is fighting with the power of steel to hold back her Mannerheim line.

And in the meantime the Allies and the United States are devoting their regard for peace to save nation by doing their own interests.

England and France have sent planes, munitions, clothing, and other commodities. However Finland has criticized the Allies pointing her blame most directly at England for going back on too many promises of returning aid if they were not only loaned for their slowness to operate, but most recently for only munitions men that are unqualified in health or age in England to volunteer to serve in the Finnish army.

Scandinavian Countries

It seems that the Scandinavian countries are at last given up the idea of sitting back and letting the other country and countries be massacred in Finland by the driving Russians. While they in their turn were simply waiting in their boots with resistance to Germany on one side and Russia on the other conditions were worse. Sweden as the Finns now see a new chance for hope as their neighbors have finally decided to render them aid. For Norway, Sweden, and Denmark have pledged themselves. Have the nations realized that uniting together to form a strong defense against the major powers is the best thing? We hope if the air raid on Pasian Sweden was not committed by Russia—or Germany; who knows! Whatever is the answer, these northern countries have decided to band together the four of them stick the better off they'll Hitler . . . .

And on another front Hitler is showing every indication of eventually being has made scheme. He made it known to the world in his recent speech that he was going to be the winner of the tangle in Europe. Hitler believed that he had ground for his belief, giving for his faith in God's aid. He also stated that he was sure of Russia, Japan, and Italy's aid when it was needed.

Third Term . . . .

Among traditionalist Democrats the consensus was reported to be that no President could seek the nomination if desired; second, the President could name his favorite candidate if he did not choose to run; third, the President had not as yet chosen between these alternatives.

Republicans seemed to take it for granted that in the November elections their candidate faces Roosevelt or a candidate sponsored by him. In effect, the Democrat platform would be to finance the Roosevelt record. The Republicans' attack must be more than one upon that record. In an effort to make constructions of their program, the Republican committee has been at work for two years preparing a 20,000 word report. This document of the proposals on the national

Registration Figures At Florida State College For Women Exceed 2,000 Mark For First Time

Registration figures for this school year of 1939-1940 have just been released by the registrar's office; and in consequence it is found that for the first time in its history Florida State College for Women has passed the 2,000 mark in registration with a total of 2,009 students now enrolled in classes on the campus.

The largest class, as usual, is the freshman class with 806 students registered. The sophomore class is second with an even 600 enrolled. The juniors and seniors follow in order with the junior class having 391 members, and the senior class 317

There are more special students than graduate students, 96 as compared to 94 enrolled in courses on the campus, and only 94 graduate students have returned to take work this year.

F & C Retains Position

With these registration figures Florida State College for Women retains its place as being the third largest state women's college in America. Texas State College for Women and the consolidated schools of the University of North Carolina hold their positions as being the first and second largest state women's colleges respectively.

However, the all-time registration figures of this college by themselves do not mean a great deal. It is true that they will be surprising in a greater or lesser degree to some persons, but their significance is lost, if figures are taken in their present single form. To realize their meaning it is necessary to take them in conjunction with the registration figures for previous years, say the past eleven years.

But enrollment in any college, whether in state or not, is an odd thing. It slides back and forth around, and then again it takes a sudden leap forward for the better. Sometimes it remains, it stands almost still. An example is the record of attendance for the eleven years in the high school year of 1929-29.

Attendance Climbs

In 1928-1929 the number of students in the college was 1564. Between then and the five years 1930-31 attendance climbed steadily to 1,970 in the fall of 1935. At the total of 1771 students, excluding graduates, in 1937 students was found to be due to various causes, the more outstanding among them being failure to graduate, marriage, finance, or illness.

Phenomena Noted

Another queer phenomena in attendance figures mentioned above is the fact that there is a slight rise always in the student attendance between the junior and senior years. That is, if attendance per cent. This was the year in falls off in the freshman, sophomore and junior years, it always rises slightly in the senior year, making more people graduate from the senior class than finished the junior year. This is due, of course, to the fact that many drop out in summer school and have reached the status of seniors in the summer school attended in their junior year. Also, there are many transfers from junior colleges.

The first complete record of attendance in the class that graduated in 1939, the class that entered the college in 1935. The freshman year there were 599 students in the class. In the sophomore year they decreased to 456. In the junior year to 239, and in the senior year to 245, so that fewer than one half of those entering in 1935 graduated in 1939.

The 1937 class, which entered in the fall of 1929, had 711 in the freshman, year, 524 in the sophomore year, 325 in the junior year, and 271 in the senior year, a decrease of over 62 per cent from the freshman year.

The 1934 class did better. Upon entering in the fall of 1930, this year 922 students registered; in 1931 there were 6883, in 1932 there were 627, and in 1934, 427 seniors—a decrease of 972 or 69 which attendance reached 1777, excluding graduates.

In 1931, 949 freshmen entered the college. By 1935 the number had fallen off approximately 50 per cent. to 329. There were 605 sophomores and 396 juniors from this class.

Depression Felt

The low in the Florida State College for Women attendance record since 1929 with 1564 students, was the year 1933-34 with 1561. At this time the depression seems to have been seriously felt, for the freshman class in 1933-34 was the lowest since 1926. There were only 563 freshmen registered, and this number dropped to 366 sophomores in 1934-35, to 264 juniors in 1935-36 and rose to 286 seniors in 1936-37.

The next year, 1936-36, there was an increase of almost one hundred students, attendance figures rose to 633 freshmen. In 1935-39 this dropped to 463 sophomores, to 353 juniors, and rose in 1937-38 to 359 seniors.

The last complete record of attendance, barring the 1940 enrollment is the 1936 class which entered as freshmen in 1936 with 663 students. There were 514 sophomores, 319 juniors, and rose to 344 seniors, the largest graduating class on record.

Special Students Included

Special students are usually included in the regular class attendance, while graduates are usually committed. Special students have been fairly consistent in attendance during the years, fluctuating with the shuffling of the classes.

In 1928-29 there were 19 special students, the number reaching its high mark in 1930-31 with 68. This was the same year all the attendance was high. This number of specials has never been equaled since. In 1939 there were only 56 students taking special work.

In 1929-30 there were 39 special students. In 1930-1931, 68; in 1931-32, 66; in 1932-33, 44; in 1933-34, 39; in 1934-35 40; in 1935-36, 46; in 1936-37, 49, in 1937-38, 52; and in 1938-39, 56. Since 1938 the number of graduate students has remained fairly constant until 1939 usually between 10-20. But in 1939-39 the number of students suddenly increased to 31 graduate students.

In 1929, there were 12 graduate students; from 1929-31 there were ten each year; in 1932-33, there were 19; in 1934, 16; in 1935, 18; in 1936, 19; in 1937, 16, and in 1939, 30.

'Workshop' Plan To Be Used Here

Eleven Florida Schools Expected To Cooperate

This summer our campus will be for the first time the scene of educational workshops for elementary and high school teachers and principals, according to Dean H. L. Eyman, of the School of Education. Eleven Florida schools will be represented by their teaching staffs in the program.

The workshop idea is a comparatively new method of studying the problems which have been scientifically carried out at the University of Florida last summer. The workshop will be housed in the demonstration school and classes will be held in a room in which to work. The workshop plan uses the conference method whereby the various study groups are formed to investigate their problems.

There will be a health workshop and a general workshop this year. Students attending the health program will receive six semester hours credit, either graduate or undergraduate.

Director of the health workshop will be Miss Alice Shaw, who is connected with the state health department in Atlanta. Miss Shaw was formerly director of health education in the state department of Florida. There will be an assistant director who has not been yet announced.

Fifty health teachers from various Florida schools will work in the health unit and put into a program of health training and education for their respective communities. In preparing these programs, the teachers will do extensive reading in the library of the workshop library and the Florida State college library.

The health teachers will form special study groups for the investigation of various problems under the direction of Miss Shaw. They will make written reports of their findings.

A program of health education for the state of Florida will be worked out which will probably become the essential part of the course of study.

In the general workshop the principals and teachers of 11 Florida schools will study the particular problems of their schools and its problems. This staff is composed of the following members: F. E. McCarty of Miami; Dr. R. L. Goulding and Dr. R. D. Moon of the Demonstration school of Florida State college; Mrs. Lucy Skipper, instructor in education at the college; Ernest W. Cason, Charles H. Clark and H. B. Fletcher of the demonstration school, and Earl Rich of the state department of education.

Under the guidance of this staff the representatives of the schools will develop a complete program for their schools which can then be developed in six weeks. The schools taking part are as follows: Port Lauderdale, Morningside of Miami, Lee, Monticello, Wewahitchka, Port St. Joe, Port Walton, Jay, Quincy, and Sealey Memorial school of Tallahassee.

Typical problems which will be studied include the philosophy of the school, its aims and purposes for the war in which the nation is engaged, how the community needs the means by which community needs can be met, curriculum can be improved, and the position of the school in the total recreational, health, and vocational programs of the community. A study of how adequately the schools are meeting formal education needs will also be made.

Miss Katherine Fletcher will be librarian for the workshop. There will be a workshop library but the library of the college will be available for the use of those studying in the workshops.

The reports of the workshops may be made available to the public. Dr. R. C. Moon and Joe Hall are in charge of the entire summer workshop program.

Prof. Kyser Will Be Highlight Of Full Military Ball Weekend

Cavaliers With Help of Cotillion Clubbers Will Sponsor Monthly Dance Here March 9

By BILL REGA

Of course you want to know what's going to happen this weekend. Well, I'll do my best to try to make ourselves useful for once and shoot the dope to you.

Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock the dance will be the thing, and a good many of your Tally ettes are to be present.

Your first glimpse of Kay Kyser will come at the concert at 8:15 Friday night. It is said that the veddy veddy formal Military Ball will be the event of the program. Incidentally, we've seen the officer's favors, and we bet they're going to be nice. Kay Kyser's eyes up your way next week when you lucky girls receive their corsage, we almost gave it away! Anyway, you'd be surprised—

Saturday afternoon comes the tea dance, which often turns to be the best dance of all, because it is the last dance before the dreaded goodbye dance for Prof Kyser, but it isn't goodbye for the week-end.

Doors of chapter houses among fraternity row will be open all day Friday and Saturday to hundreds of beautiful girls from all parts of the country especially from Tallahassee—when Greek-letter men entertain girls with dances, banquets, skits, and picnics. And of course several of the fraternities on campus will have their early evening dances Friday and Saturday. Even Cawthon Chan will have their dance saturday night from 7 to 9 o'clock.

We'll be looking for ya, Friday, honest we will. Gosh, this is a big week . . .

To add insult to injury, those fraternities and sororities are making money for some people. Our Alligator had an article Wednesday telling us that we could sell 'em—not the Alligators!—to that good mag if we're clever enough. And while we're on the question of jokes we might as well get the whole affair straightened up right now. We admit we didn't think your best-ice joke was so funny, but we certainly didn't deserve to be blamed for that horrible trash with no feet punching doughnut holes or something like that. We didn't say it, and what's more we don't think it's funny either. It's perfury— is it a crime? LIES. That's what it is.

Majorie Rawlings Rawlings, author of the Pulitzer Prize novel, "The Yearling," speaks here tonight. We've never seen Miss Rawlings, but we're going to cut our engagement with Kay and go to auditorium to hear her. We're also going to try and get our hands on her, and if we find she tells us something interesting, we'll let you in on it sooner.

To strengthen the bond between the campus and Tallahassee, the Cavaliers, campus dance society will sponsor the monthly Florida dances at your campus, assisted by your Cotillion club and your Village Varieties. It is hoped that the veddy veddy formal Military Ball will be the event of the program. Incidentally, we've seen the officer's favors, and we bet they're going to be nice. Kay Kyser eyes up your way next week when you lucky girls receive their corsage, we almost gave it away! Anyway, you'd be surprised—

Saturday afternoon comes the tea dance, which often turns to be the best dance of all, because it is the last dance before the dreaded goodbye dance for Prof Kyser, but it isn't goodbye for the week-end.

Doors of chapter houses among fraternity row will be open all day Friday and Saturday to hundreds of beautiful girls from all parts of the country especially from Tallahassee—when Greek-letter men entertain girls with dances, banquets, skits, and picnics. And of course several of the fraternities on campus will have their early evening dances Friday and Saturday. Even Cawthon Chan will have their dance saturday night from 7 to 9 o'clock.

We'll be looking for ya, Friday, honest we will. Gosh, this is a big week . . .

To add insult to injury, those fraternities and sororities are making money for some people. Our Alligator had an article Wednesday telling us that we could sell 'em—not the Alligators!—to that good mag if we're clever enough. And while we're on the question of jokes we might as well get the whole affair straightened up right now. We admit we didn't think your best-ice joke was so funny, but we certainly didn't deserve to be blamed for that horrible trash with no feet punching doughnut holes or something like that. We didn't say it, and what's more we don't think it's funny either. It's perfury— is it a crime? LIES. That's what it is.

Majorie Rawlings Rawlings, author of the Pulitzer Prize novel, "The Yearling," speaks here to-

Confucius Say Contest Opens In Magazine

Student Philosophers Urged to Seize Pens And Use Imaginations

A specter is haunting the campus, the ghost of a long-dead philosopher, a man of wisdom, a polished Bard and a twinkle in his eye—none other than the great Confucius

Up until 18 months ago only a few scattered students, journalists, philosophers, and Charlie Chan fans knew anything about Confucius, whose pointed epigrams were first uttered along about 500 years before Christ.

Then 16 months ago came the awakening. Walter Winchell, the all-seeing blessed event, had read Confucius' sayings, arranged as it may seem, and began running amusing parodies on them in his syndicated column. They became "Confucius say." Two months before Christmas a wave hit Hollywood. Gags came out from under the bottom of Guy Lombardo; since then it has been recorded in the Confucius Joke and incorporated it into their programs. Por Allen's detective, "Confucius Says" Confucius Joke and incorporated it into their programs. Por Allen's detective, "Confucius Says" Confucius Joke provided a fertile script supply. Meanwhile, Walter Winchell, growing steadily more bored over the pirating of his long-lost discovery, found his collaborators.

Confucius,-however, remains a popular man—or shade. The sayings attributed to this dignified scholar from ancient China ranges from good clean fun to a deep dark gray and from pierciing wit to smelly puns. They have spread over the country by their special medium, the college campus, until Confucius has probably gotten himself a little dusty from turning over in his grave. To top off the fame, that venerable and staid organ of Republican thought the Saturday Evening Post, announced at the beginning of this week that it would pay $750 to anyone who can find a Confucius proverbs which could be applied to meet the present day situation. How much really will be paid for such proverbs which could be applied

SIX HUNGRY LONESOME
G-VILLITES WILL SWAP

Love and Affection and steady mail for home made candy, cakes, cookies, or what have you?

John H. Pomeroy,
Ed Williams,
Benjamin Cottle

Address: 132 Washington Street, Gainesville, Florida

Bill Anderson,
Don Kimball,
Hubert Parramore

Rogers Reports NYA Program

1.7 Average Stressed By NSPA Speaker

Interest at the N. S. P. A. meeting Thursday focused on a report given by Ruth Rogers on NYA activities at the Gainesville meeting.

In giving a background for her subject, Ruth reported that NYA has set up 103 different projects in Florida, and 1,000 activities throughout our country. In our county alone there are 1,000 students working regularly and 14 temporarily, a total of 1014 NYA workers in Gainesville College for women's campus. The maximum pay given a student is $20 a month and the minimum is $10 a month. Florida State's quota is 1525 and annually.

She especially emphasized the importance of the NYA program in the girls employed in this work. A 1.7 average satisfies a girl to a job and she is able to retain a 1.7 average entitles her to 80 hours of work a month. It is made very clear that only students with a C average were permitted to apply for work on NYA projects.

Many advantages made accessible to the Gainesville unit of the NYA work were enumerated by the speaker.

Such points as the fact that a girl is able to earn a third of the $15 monthly expense of education, and that she gains both practical experience and the association with faculty members were included.

Scholarship of the NYA group of this campus was discussed. It has been announced that 60 per cent of the girls are above average in their grades and 20 per cent are below average. 1.99 is the average for the NYA girls, and 1.44 is the average low down for the average college girl on our campus.

In addition NYA girls take active part in campus affairs and hold many important campus positions. A recent survey showed that the NYA group included every major office holder, 35 minor officers, 9 Mortar Board members, and representatives of numerous other honoraries.

Coming Of Cincinnati Orchestra Will Bring Friends To Ahrendt

Violin Professor Played With Symphony Two Years During Direction of Fritz Reiner

Among the music faculty of Florida State College for Women, better to whom the coming of the Cincinnati symphony orchestra to this campus will be a reunion of friends and former confreres. Karl Ahrendt, professor of violin, is a former member of the orchestra, having played with it in the years during the time when the orchestra was under the baton of Fritz Reiner.

Mr. Ahrendt stated that the personnel had changed very little since he left, there is a new member and that new members have been added to increase the good friends of his. He remembers many amusing anecdotes concerning the various members of the orchestra. The "prank-ster," ever present in any group was a member of the first violin section, and of him Mr. Ahrendt says, "I'll never forget the time that he went around stealthily during intermission, sticking pennies in the "f" holes of all of the violins, which we had left on the chairs on the stage. You can imagine the consternation when we returned to our seats and picked up our fiddles to resume the rendition of our selections."

Another incident, occurring when Paul Whiteman was to come to the campus to present the Symphony for a benefit concert in Cincinnati, concerned the German first base player, Mr. K., who is very much averse to beer.

"During one of the rehearsals, Whiteman, not satisfied with the effect he wanted, stopped the orchestra and asked the bass fiddle players to play the next passage. 'No, no, you must slap the strings, they do in Germany' bands this way,' shouted Whiteman, endeavoring to demonstrate by violently hitting the strings on the bass fiddle with the palm of his hand. This was too much for Herr K., who, gathering up his dignity as well as his "bull fiddle," replied in an indignant tone of voice, 'Vs don't do dot', and walked pompously from the hall.

Prominent Author Will Speak Here

Lecture Series To Bring Kirby Page To Campus

Kirby Page, author and social evangelist, who has spoken before 300 college and university, including the University of Chicago, Stanford university, Smith, Harvard, and Columbia, will appear here on March 11 on the college lecture series.

He will speak on "How America Could Provide Plenty for Everybody" in the Augusta Conrad theater at 9 o'clock. The lecture is open to all college students.

Kirby Page is the author of 19 volumes on international economics and social and religious questions. His books have been translated into ten different languages and have been published in England and India. Many other million copies of his books and pamphlets have been sold.

His latest book is Religious Resources for Personal Living and Social Action. Among his other books are Living Creatively, which was listed first in the volumes by religious workers in a national survey by the Head Foundation, "Christianity and Socialism," recommended by the Book of the Month Club, and Jesus of Christianity, selected first by the Religious book club. He has written also articles in international problems: he is contributing editor to the Christian Century, and from 1932 to 1934 was editor of "World Tomorrow" His articles have appeared in many leading periodicals.

Page is qualified by 25 years of concentrated study and travel in 39 countries. The lecture tour he is now taking is the most especially every state in the United States. During his work he has crossed the ocean 20 times. He has spoken in innumerable churches and numerous clubs and forums and was a special lecturer at Yale Divinity School in 1936.

sophy B-103. All you need is a little imagination and a good pencil!

All interested students of Florida State College for Women who have sharp pencils may mail requests for pamphlets to Dr. Colin Campbell, care of Professor Bellaity, 688 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts. The contest will close at midnight March 15 in the meanwhile, when people on the campus, in the classroom, at play night, in the dormitory room, or in the showers suddenly burst out with "You have given me a thought!" they might well be referred to the above address and told that Confucius say "let's keep this thing between you and me and the fleas."

—Jo

During 1899, a total of 59,876,044 tire shipments was made, it is reported by tire manufacturers.

200 Leave for Gainesville To Attend Military Ball

About 200 girls are leaving for Gainesville today to attend the twentieth celebration of the annual military ball this weekend with Kay Kyser furnishing the dance music.

The festivities begin at 5 o'clock this afternoon with a parade led by the sponsors of the officers of the cadet corps. From 7:30 until 8:30 o'clock officers and their sponsors will head the dedout.

On Saturday morning many fraternities will give breakfasts, and the afternoon will be filled with dances and parties given by the various college organizations. Among those who will entertain are the Seahound and Blade, the White Friars, Pirates Krewe, L'Apache, Cavaliers, Colonels, and Barchie dance societies. There will be a tea dance from 3 until 5 o'clock and Saturday night the other dance will be given.

Sponsors from this college are: Frances Trantham for Colonel Jim Garland, Marion Grinnel for Major William Calhrae, Annie Lee Cannon for Major Ed Weissenger, Helen Smith for Captain Chester Byrer, Mary May Paschall for Captain Jame- McMullan, Mary Katanalle for Captain Cecil Wilson, Peepsie Giersch for Captain Ben Hedrick, Dorothy Higley for Captain Everett Williams, Donna Haney for Captain Ed Neff Jr., Harriet Poe for Captain Laurance Madill, Mary Neville for Captain Lamar Jones, Dorothy Daniels for Captain Jerrino Cottrell and Mary Verpoort.

Among the others who will attend the ball are: Marjorie Smith to Maldee Tabeling, Virginia Johnson, Virginia Jones Elizabeth Moore, Willree Gaines, Betty McCammon, Sue Chalres Virginia Monroe, Teresa Shuttz Jean Kobey Mary Collins, Janie Bryan, Dot Hetsch, Belle Yonne Audrey Atherton, Bubbie Beckwith, Mary Virginia Day, Joan Miller, Mickie

Talent Program Given By Student Group

Gilchrist hall talent manifested itself in a gay program in the Gilchrist parlors last Friday night under the direction of Isabel Prine On an improvised stage in the west end of the room Cornelia Watson, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced Gilchrist residents in a series of skits, solos, and harmony groups before a capacity audience of students, faculty members and staff members.

Invited guests other than Gilchrist residents were Dean Olivia Dorman, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Katherine Warren, Miss Madeline Duncan, Dr. Edward Conradi, faculty sponsors, Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Dr. Viola Graham, Dr. Coyle Moore and social directors of the various dormitories.

Frances Baker To Attend Methodist Conference

Miss Frances Baker, Methodist student secretary, will leave Tuesday to attend a Deaconess conference at New Orleans, Louisiana, March 5 through 8. Following that she will attend the Women's and Missionary Council which will be held in the same city, March 7 through 11.

The meetings are annual events and include Methodist representatives of woman's missionary societies from all of the southern states and frontier missionary and western states. Miss Baker will give a report of her year's work as Florida State and will receive information concerning her duties.

She will return the following Tuesday

Jennie Murphree Students Hear Cowles on Orchestra

The weekly assembly held weekly Jennie Murphree tea Walter B. Cowles of the music department answered questions concerning the approaching Cincinnati symphony orchestra concert. He also gave brief biographies of Caesar-Franck, Claude Debussy and Rimsky-Korsakov, whose music will be on the program for the concert.

Following his talk Mr Cowles played phonograph records of the first and last movements of Caesar-Franck's symphony, the overture to Rimsky-Korsakov's Golden Cock, and Debussy's Festival.

EARN MONEY!

You can establish a profitable business selling our excellent SOLVENT shampoo that makes bronze, beachy, lustrous hair. Dissolves dandruff and contraband use prevents its reappearance. Contains no alcohol, no free alkali, no sulfonated oils, no injurious ingredients. Easy to sell to everyone who wants hair health and beauty. Generous commission. Good income assured. Write to MARTIN'S SOLVENT PRODUCTS, Inc., 813A Lexington Avenue, New York.

GTFinn, Aleene Pridgen, Jean Hitchcok, Marie Byrd, Rosalie Posner, Sara Tepper Robert Marx, Marie Brownstein, Mary Frances Oven, Mary Geiger, Louise Bulkley, Mary Stapleton, Rosella Pugnitt, Marion McKinney, Dorothy Swanson, Helen Isarmas, Isabel Waterhouse, Betty Dumont, Bobbie Jo Henderson, Lula Crane, Jean Hitler, Celia Pierce, Dorothy Babers, Paula Jean Mortier, Carolyn Francisco, Betty Hiratt, Elizabeth Ann Pierce Willis, Ruth Williams, Mary Mar- Paschall, Marilyn Bennett, Ruth Terrell, Helen Smith, Mary Small, and Betty Ann Scott,

Others Listed

Dorothy May Anderson, Julia Mae Bryan, Elizabeth Frances Slade, Belva Sutton Margaret Bennett, Anne Tennant, Jean Finn, Mary Swearingen, Roberta Rhyne, Betty Setzer, Dorothy Starlings, Kale Hedrick, Drusilla Hendrickson, Ann Wilson, Mildred Anderson, Mary Elizabeth Hall, Mary Jo Elaine Beisler, Annie Lee Cannon, Jean Gilbert,

Tillie Van Brunt, Barbara Brown, Jean Williams, Beth Rickard, Ann Tennant, Jean Finn, Betty King, Frances Cofer, Carolyn Edmondson, Jean Gilbert, Peggy Phillips, Mabel Daphne Smith, Nancy White, Susan Mitchell, Mary Elizabeth Hall, Mary Anderson, Sarah Fuller,

Letitia Barnes, Pearl Gay Marion Rogers, Doris Cahoon Sarah Byers, Marjorie Parmadore, Frances Mary Caldwell, Rose Williamson, Topsy Mitchell, Margaret Ann Stevens, Mary Jane Pierce, Alice Valentine, Betty Venning Emmett Curtis, Lucille Smoak, Polly Venning, Louise de Jarnette Virginia Loughnot, Del Sellers, Mary Chami, Elizabeth Leffler, Eddie Hill, Mary Jane Lambeth, Pat Hancock, Mary Ann Bell,

Mary Smith, Pat Brandt, Beth Mitchell, Elinor Andrews, Dora Edwards, Ada Lybarker, Sally Rivers, Marjorie Fourtlian, Louise Thrasher, Carolyn Grither, Jane Jones, Barbara Ash, Monterey Whittner, Elizabeth Hollery, Roberta Padgett, Mary Lou King, Martha Bowers, Kathrine Saunder, Edna Lebovitz, Sally Rivers, Jeanette Mayo

Gene Parkhill, Edna Sue Hendry, Adele Gleason, Marion Grinnel, Frances Trantham, Margaret Harmony, Mart Pierson, Judy Campbell, Helen Dahlgren, Mar- Lamb Waitson, Gayle Anrus, Lelia Kirkpatrick, Anne Chandler, Betty Nicholson, Betty Lindsey, Suzane Wilson, Dottie Mae Durran, Rachel Irwin, Catherine Brown, Nancy Lee Dazzett, Louise Crosby, and Vadah Walker.

Club Will Show French Picture

Medical Profession Satirized In Movie

The presentation of the French film, Dr. Knock, in the Auguste Conradi theater Monday night at 8 o'clock will be one of the few opportunities for students to see a French motion picture and will climax the activities of the French club. Miss Marie Davis, French instructor in French and Italian and sponsor of the club, has been assisted by Marie Jenesu., program chairman of the group, in arranging the arrangements for the showing of the film.

Louis Jouvet, a leading star on the French screen, played the title role in the play by Jules Romains and was co-director as well as actor in the film.

Dr. Knock was barred for some time by the New York censors apparently because it contains such rich satire on the medical profession. It is the story of a young French physician who buys the practice of an easy-going doctor in a small village, Saint Maurice.

In the picture opens. Dr. Knock is being met at the station by the old doctor and as they drive from the station, Dr. Parpalaid explains that he has sold his practice because he could scarcely make a living out of it.

However, Dr. Knock is much surprised when Parpalaid leaves and he uses so-called American methods of drumming up trade. By practicing a sort of terrorism, he soon has many patients that he has to establish a hospital of 250 beds. He has formed a horrible opinion of people before he was scarcely a living to be made.

When the old doctor returns for his first quarterly payment, he thinks he sees through Dr. Knock's methods. The younger doctor is so convincing that before Dr. Parpalaid leaves, he asks for a consultation.

Extensive plans have been made for the distribution of the tickets and the cost of admission is 25 cents.

Members of the French club who will usher are Betty Morgan, Betty Kennedy, Betty Oyer, and Ruth Calvin. Girls who will take tickets at the door are Mary Evelyn Wooten, Lois Lastra, Carolyn Yarn, Helen Dahlgren, Martha Hostetter, Dorothy Gibbs, and Mary Stapleton.

All students are invited to attend. There will be English subtitles so that the knowledge of French is needed to enjoy the picture.

Presbyterians Have Party In Laboratory

A novel party service consisting of equipment belonging to the chemistry department was used when the Presbyterian students met in the chemistry laboratory Monday night to prepare bandages for Finnish supplies in Korea, their contribution to the War Zone.

While the group tore the cotton cloth into strips and wound it on a hand-cranking machine, Miss Miriam Wilson and Miss Elizabeth Lynn prepared special refreshments for the party. After 40 yards of cloth were ready the group divided into two rows of laboratory beakers, each girl wrapping from 150 to 200 cubic centimeters according to her capacity and thirst. Sandwiches and cookies were served from glass containers which usually hold chemicals, but which were empty of other minerals and elements.

Phi Delta Phi Reception Fetes A and B Students

French travel pictures, dolls in various types of French dress, coins, bills, advertisements, books, magazines, and French records furnished a genuine French atmosphere in the law library by the French honorary Pi Delta Phi at the Kappa Delta house yesterday afternoon. Students who received A and B averages in French classes this semester were guests of members of the honorary and the French Department.

Iced cakes, tea and mints were served to the guests who called during the afternoon.

Members of Pi Delta Phi include Sandra Peckham, Gertrude Glaun, Harriett Kent, Ernestine Makremon, Virginia Makremon, Adelaide Pennell, Rosella Pugnitt, Pauline Plake Lillian Allerdice, and Margaret Yost.

Likes At FSC Vary Widely

By BELLE YONGE

"The sorority house on weekends when piles of men come up from Gainesville is the only thing about this school," cried the popular girl enthusiastically as she asked what she liked most about the college. But when she was in her opinion the monthly dances were definitely a step in the right direction.

The sincere-looking girl standing near, burst forth with a democratic spirit of the students in this school is the realization of an ideal very dear to my heart," she said impressively. "I transferred from a large women's college where snobbery reigned supreme. If you didn't have a lot of money and didn't dress very well, or if you didn't come from one of the most outstanding families in your town, you were treated as if you didn't belong."

Many other girls mentioned the friendship and good fellowship of their classmates as the most outstanding feature of the college. Very few failed to mention "their friends" or "the girls" as one of the things which make college worthwhile.

Another often mentioned feature was the friendliness and consideration of the faculty and other people connected in some way during which those of tender years become restless and irritable Many teachers plan picnics and other types of parties for their classes, and during these social events they have a wonderful opportunity to acquire a better understanding of each pupil, and

"You know," said a girl one night recently, "I came to this glorious type, "the library is my favorite place on the campus. Now I'm not a minute on a laugh at me. I hated it at first, but an upperclassman took me in one day and introduced me to the stacks and the browsing room Now my idea of a wonderful way to fill a free hour is to pick a book at random and read it. That's how I'm getting the greatest part of my education. I really like to read books about chemistry or books written in French or Latin. They are hard to understand but you have no idea how interesting they become when you find that if you are reading them of your own free will."

"Isn't only thing I like about college is the whipped cream," interrupted a blue-eyed freshman.

"This college is giving me a good education, but that's what I came for; so that's what I like best," the girl with the glasses responded briefly but emphatically. With her was another student who agreed with her but said that she came to prepare herself to get a good job at a living wage.

Many expressed such ideas as getting mail, going home, and not getting any "U's" this quarter as what they liked best.

Said one freshman, "Have you ever noticed how wonderful the campus is in the spring or even when the leaves are falling and the sun is shining in a bright blue sky? It's almost breath-taking."

"The campus is beautiful on cold nights when the moon is shining through the pines." a soft-voiced girl from Alabama told us. "I like the guys on the campus too " We don't have that

Visiting Officer

Mrs. James H. Rand, national secretary of the Alpha Chi Omega is visiting Beta Eta chapter of that sorority here as national inspector.

Mrs. Rand arrived here February 28 from Beta Gamma chapter in Lakeland, and will remain through March 2.

A formal reception was given in her honor Thursday afternoon, at the Alpha Chi Omega house. The entire faculty, Beta Eta sorority and patronesses, sorority presidents, sorority chaperons, and friends were invited.

The receiving line included: Elizabeth Blair, president, Mrs. Rand, Miss Marion McKay, house chaperon, Miss Bertha Deeta, alumnae advisor; and Dr. Katherine Abbey, faculty advisor.

Nell Register, Louise Burger, and Nell Thompson were in charge of the reception.

Church Calender

Y. W. C. A

Sunday

9:00—Vespers. Westcott tower room.

Tuesday

5:00—Bull session to follow up Youth Conference: "A Christian Solution to Racial Tolerance." Place: The home of Mrs. Robert Miller.

Wednesday

7:15—Early morning worship. Westcott tower room.

Friday

7:30—Cabinet meeting in Broward lounge

METHODIST

Friday

7:45—Couple party at Student House. Chairman: Dorothy Altman.

Sunday

9:45—Sunday School Speaker: Frederick J. Hanover. Topic: "The Phrase of Judas."

5:30 p.m.—Fellowship hour. Leader: Gia Belle Tillman

Tuesday

7:30—Vespers Leader: Ursa Cofer.

Wednesday

9:45—Prayer meeting of three councils.

Thursday

9:00—Choir practice.

EPISCOPAL

Friday

6:00—Forum "The Nicene Creed —Sufficient Statement of Christian Faith." The Rev William G. Gehri, from Memphis, Tennessee

Sunday

9:00—Study class. Rose hall.

7:30 p.m.—Student auxiliary meeting Subject: "The Church and the International Order." Speaker: Lenora Dale.

Tuesday

5:30—Confirmation class and discussion group.

Thursday

10:00—Comoline service

CHRISTIAN

Friday

8:00—Class meeting Place: The home of Mrs. Ross Hoffman.

BAPTIST

Friday

8:15—Christian Endeavor. Leader: Katherine Shearer.

BAPTIST

Friday

8:00—Greater council meeting Speaker: J. Roy Robinson, state student secretary.

Sunday

6:00—Training union program. subject: "In His Spirit We Work Together" Leaders: Evelyn Ann Dyer, Ed Butler, Betsy Brazz, Martha Polsom, and Mary Geiger.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday

7:00—Vesper. Bryan tower room. Subject: "Home Missions" Speaker Rosalind Darcy.

PRESBYTERIAN

Saturday

1:30—Easter play practice. Reynolds Recreation Hall.

4:00—Hike and picnic. Meet behind Bryan.

Sunday

9:40—Worship service. Leader: Elizabeth Draughan

10:40—Lesson Leader: Annette McPartlin. Subject: Jesus and Problems of Life.

Wednesday

7:15—Play practice. Reynolds Recreation Hall.

Cavaliers Dance Society Of Gainesville To Help With Monthly Dance Here

The Cavaliers, dance society of the University of Florida will work with the Cotillion and Village Vamps club here as sponsors for the third monthly dance next Saturday night, March 9. Dancing will begin at 8:30 in the college gymnasium to the music of the Collegians orchestra composed of University of Florida students.

The boys were asked to assist because the committee felt that the Gainesville students attending would feel free to ask to meet girls and to break when asked if a group of their own students were on the committee. Cavaliers, Cotillion and Village Vamps will be distinguished by ribbons and will introduce dancers.

Tickets for the dance will go on sale again from 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the dormitories and in the lower floor of the Westcott building.

Fremd And Grier Solo For Wings

Continued from Page One

ther Veal, and Marion Webster They all plan to solo next. They were chosen to take part in the program on the basis of academic standing, college records, class seniority, personality, physical fitness, and aptitude.

SORORITIES BEGIN SPRING ELECTIONS AS THREE GROUPS CHOOSE OFFICERS

Spring elections for sororities began this week with three of the Greek letter organizations electing their officers.

Kappa Delta sorority had its annual election of officers on Monday night. Officers who were elected to offices for the first quarter of the year are: president, Anne Mac Morris; vice-president, Mary Carlton; secretary, Beth Rickards; treasurer, Margaret Marie Bryant; assistant treasurer, Rosalie Perry; editor, Betty Nickinson.

Annual elections of officers of Kappa Alpha Theta were held last Monday night in their chapter meeting. Those elected are as follows: president, Mary Beth O'Steen; vice-president, Mary Connell; recording secretary, Christine Russ; treasurer, Florence Hall; corresponding secretary, Mary Crouch; rush chairman, Emma Jean Higley

Newly elected officers of Zeta Tau Alpha are: president, Dorothy Swanson; vice-president, Betty Dumont; secretary, Mary Wood; treasurer, Margaret Hudson, historian, Bertha Bond; guard, Isabelle Waterhouse.

Entering their house mother, Mrs. Rosabelle Gilliliand, the Alpha Gamma Deltas entertained Tuesday evening with a birthday party. Elizabeth Moore was in charge of arrangements.

Last Thursday at a joint chapter and pledge meeting of Alpha Delta Pi, Annette McPartlin awarded the cup for being the outstanding pledge. Evelyn Bunn received the scholarship cup. Kitty Jo Hickman, the new Since this week is Alpha Delta Pi week, the chapter members and pledges have had several get-together Tuesday night they entertained with a steak supper, Wednesday with a fudder party, and Friday with up-side-down day when the jobs were reversed. Eve Corry and Frances Lee are in charge of the program for the week.

The Beta Phi Alpha sorority pledges had crackers and tea Thursday afternoon at o'clock.

The Zeta Tau Alpha were entertained with a Military ball Tuesday night by members of the Balloons were used as decorations and the guests spent the afternoon dancing.

Refreshments of tomato juice, pretzels and crackers were served.

The Pi Beta Phis entertained at an informal tea on Thursday afternoon for their friends.

William Cullen Bryant also wrote copy for his newspaper on the backs of old letters and printed manuscripts, never on paper.

Chesterfield's Twin Pleasures are Real Mildness and Better Taste

You can't miss the extra pleasure you get from Chesterfields.

Because of their right combination of the world's best cigarette tobaccos, Chesterfields give you a cooler, better-tasting and definitely milder smoke.

You can't buy a better cigarette

Jack and Bob Hawley

When the HEASLEY TWINS, stage and screen dancing stars, perform for your pleasure, it's almost impossible to tell which is which . . . but you can't mistake the twin pleasures you get in Chesterfield's REAL MILDNESS and BETTER TASTE.

Chesterfield

The Cooler... Better-Tasting

DEFINITELY MILDER Cigarette

Copyright 1940, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Practice Teaching Holds Varied Perils For Beginning Pedagogs

Making Lesson Plans, Handling Discipline Problems Are Only Part of Many Duties

A college junior stands at the doorway staring about the room. she steps forward slowly as though some unseen object were blocking her way. She approaches a desk at the front of the room. Her knees are weak and she feels as if her insides were going to cave in. Her face is bloodless. Her brow is drenched with sweat. The books and papers in her hands quake as a nervous rumble strikes them. She opens her mouth, but no sound comes. Theories crowd her brain into a state of paralysis. The young thing begins to pray. "Dear God, give me strength for just this one hour."

The prayer is interrupted by the sound of a childish voice that says: "What happened to all the little fish when Noah went Into the Ark?" The girl smiles, seems to gain composure, confidentially begins to answer, and then an utterly dumbfounded look crosses her countenance She prays frantically for words, any words which might satisfy the childish query, but her mind does not seem to function.

The first day of practice teaching is often like this, and these kinds of questions are built up the foundation for undergraduate gray hairs. What did your teacher say to you when you passed notes to that cute little blond boy across the room or made awful faces in an attempt to conceal a wad of bubble gum while you recited? Making discipline play a small part in classroom life plays a large part in the life of a pedagog.

However, discipline is only a small fraction of the knowledge which our "teachers to be" must acquire. They are required to make out lesson plans, write examinations, grade all papers, and average all grades. They must take complete charge of a classroom for a required number of hours before they are considered experienced enough to hold a first year teaching job.

Practice teachers must remember that children will not conform to a lective type of instruction Points must be emphasized repeatedly and children must, be told when they should write things down. Lessons must be made interesting by one means or another, and rest periods must be used to relieve the tension of long periods of sitting, during which those of tender years become restless and irritable Many teachers plan pictures and other types of parties for their classes, and during these social events they have a wonderful opportunity to acquire a better understanding of each pupil, and

In the training of a child many things must be considered such as adaptability to the subject, native intelligence, conscientiousness, previous educational background, home environment, etc. Each pupil is a distinct psychological case, and a good portion of his future life is determined by the molding which he receives in early school days.

Sororities Make Plans For Pan-Hellenic Sing After Annual Dance

Plans are now underway for the Pan-Hellenic sing which will be presented in the Augusta Conradi Little Theatre at 4 o'clock on March 17, the day after the annual dance.

In the inter-sorority sing which will be the first of its kind ever to be presented here, each sorority will be limited to two songs within a time limit of five minutes.

At the end of the program the audience will sing the interfraternity hymn, which will be flashed on a motion picture screen.

Chairman of the program is Eleanor Miller and Carolyn Collins has charge of arrangements for showing the interfraternity hymn . A committee composed of faculty members will be appointed to act as judges.

A total of 3,244,537 retail sales of new passenger cars and trucks were made during 1939, a gain of 38.4 per cent over 1938.

Make Your Mark On Tuesday

The Florida Flambeau

Hail To the Orange and Blue

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXVII | Tallahassee, Florida, March 8, 1940 | NUMBER NINETEEN

Model Senators Attend Meeting This Weekend

Pate, Harrison, and Alagood Represent FSCW in New York

The senate of Florida State College for Women has sent three delegates, Hilda Alagood, Anna Pate, and Margaret Gray Harrison to represent it at the National Model Senate convention in Fordham, New York today and tomorrow. Their hosts will be the students of Fordham University.

The girls were selected by the Social Science department. Dr. Stock and Dr. Marion Irish; with the nominations passed by the executive council. Hilda was elected to represent the college senior senator, Margaret as junior senator, and Velma as liberal. The three girls are women. Hilda and Margaret, political science Majors and Velma is a social studies major.

The convention, which they are attending as model senates will be a meeting place for delegates from all parts of the country. Interest in this new step in student legislation.

The representatives left Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in order to arrive in Fordham by 7 time for registration at 9:30 this morning. Senate then convenes at 11 o'clock and the session lasts all afternoon during which time the bills that were brought up by the senators are read. At the close of the meeting delegates are given to take the oath of office and assignments for their committee meetings. Tonight there will be four committee meetings which cover the four current topics, foreign affairs, labor, finance, defense, and relief.

Senate Convenes

Senate will convene again Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and the time limit for floor is open to discussion and a passage of the bill. It is expected that after senate comes to a finish that after a whole day spent in debate, the convention will adjourn sine die with an election to officers for the coming year and a definite place is set for the next convention. Immediately before this a banquet will be given for the delegates.

Miss Alagood senior senator, especially emphasized the fact that the National Model Senate convention is a student affair. She said that its delegates are students who pass that as we would like to see passed by the United States senate, and that her try to follow the correct parliamentary procedure. This plan is carried out through the political science departments of colleges all over the country, and its purpose is to develop interest in national affairs in the minds of the young people of our nation.

Margaret, Hilda, and Velma are

Continued on page three

Month of Dollars' Drive Is Launched

A "Month of Dollars"—was launched today by Mrs. Frank O. Moor, president of the college alumnae association in a drive for $10,000 to be used for furnishing the new dormitory. Student alumnae when building which is now nearing completion.

Following the announcement of the drive, folders containing stickers and bills were sent to all the student body. Similar folders will be given to the college faculty and staff and will be mailed to students to their parents. The 6,000 alumnae will receive the folders early next week.

In the announcement of the drive, Mrs. Moor said, "This thing will be the first and last time any friend of the college will be called upon to contribute and the method by way toward such a building. It is an unusual institution. The student - alumnae building has been built at a cost of approximately $150,000. Aside from the Works Progress administration, the five - story building will serve as headquarters for all previously scattered student and alumnae activities and will contain rooms for entertainment and recreation.

Deadline for the sum, which will be used to furnish the main floor of the building and as much of the other rooms as possible is to be made as of April when the annual Alumnae College homecoming will be held.

Conductor Terms FSC Audience 'Considerate and Appreciative'

Miniature League of Nations is Contained In Personnel of Famous Symphony Orchestra

A small army of musicians with a board of briefs instruments descended from a wheezing train last Saturday afternoon for a two-day stay in the hill city—the Cincinnati symphony orchestra, with its distinguished conductor, Eugene Goossens. The main objectives of the moment were two performances on the campus here, one Saturday night, and a second Sunday afternoon, but between the prelude to the third act of "Lohengrin" and "The Marriage of Figaro" overture the members of the symphony managed a more or less conducted tour of Tallahassee.

In the ranks of the orchestra, which is considered one of the four principal orchestras in America, is a miniature League of Nations including Russians, Bohemians, Germans, Englishmen, Finns, and an astonishing number of other nationalities. The conductor, tall, friendly Eugene Goossens, is English. At a reception in Landis hall Saturday night he obligingly told a group of else club ensemble members, who had his first debut as a violinist at the tender age of seven. "My father first put a violin in my hands when I was three and a half years old," he explained. "He too reached 17 Mr. Goossens began an engagement with the Queen's orchestra in London, where he played until he was 21 years old. At this time he was asked to conduct an opera and thus made his first appearance as a conductor which he has been ever since. Aside from leading his 90-piece symphony he has found time to compose two operas and a ballet which will be played for the first time in Cincinnati on April 12 of

Continued on Page Six

Mexican Exhibit Opens Wednesday

Collection to Include Varied Forms of Art

An exhibition of crafts of contemporary Mexico, consisting of objects personally selected by Frances Flynn D'Antonio, assistant exhibit expert on folk art, is to be on display Wednesday in 112 Education building, according to announcement by Miss Emily Wilson, head of the college art department. This exhibit will be open to the public during the week as one of the features of the current artist series program.

It is particularly unique in the fact that it represents the highest type of handicraft, rather than that typified by the ordinary trinkets on sale and displayed to American tourists. The quality of work in the exhibit was chosen by the artist herself, and is the result of a study of the Mexican ideology of art at the present time. Mrs. D'Antonio studied in Miss Helen McMillan, critic of the exhibition, and has had art, radio and foreign elements. The foreign elements were brought into Mexican art during the time of the conquest, and although the Mexican people have been under the influences of the Spanish can be traced in their pottery, textiles, Italian, and Chinese art.

A strong sense of Mexican nationalism is conveyed by this exhibition for Count d'Harnoncourt researched carefully in the country for the purpose of truly Mexican art forms. He felt that the greatest menace to the development of their art was the machine with its power to produce cheaply and in quantity and low price. Next was the huge tourist trade of the United States which has ruined for the lower type of Mexican handiwork with its inferior machine made products.

Metalwork has been the traditional craft of the Mexican people and insensibly since the time of the conquest and in the exhibition are also some examples in steel, silver, and copper of their present day craftsmanship.

The outstanding piece of glassware is in the unique form of a Mexican church in honor of the Virgin of Guadeloupe. Included are pieces of lacquerware in the two layers of color have been applied and the top layer cut away to yellow the main color to show through in intricate design.

Textiles are also well-illustrated in the outstanding artistic product of the Mexico of today. A rich variety of weaves will be included in this exhibition. The costumes of the display will be those distinctive of the country. Yucatan, Oaxaca, and Puebla, and the art centers of the interior are the home of the women of these sections. They also show the final influence of native and European art.

Miss Wilburn urges that students of the college see this exhibit, for she feels that this, and the next, will be unusual collection, represents the real art of Mexico today.

Botanists Take Field Trip as Spring Comes

Specimen Collecting Left as Appetites Win Over Science

Music majors have their symphony practice and students their painting exhibits, physical education majors their dance recitals, and botany students have their field trips.

Last Saturday the whole botany department, including teachers, student assistants, botany majors, and N. Y. A. girls, assembled at the Seminole inn cafeteria at 8:30 a. m. Here they ate shoes, old sweaters and bandanas, and carrying collecting boxes, plant presses, canteens, hied away to the woods to entertain the lovely spring day. Starting at a steak fry and collecting some material from nature.

This was a near-perfect field trip, and Dr. Kurz was treating the crowd to a picnic dinner. They went to Aspalaga on the Apalachicola River, approximately the destination after advancing progressively from paved road to sand road to dirt road. Students graded dirt to two car tracks which finally terminated into grass, necessitating a final walk to the river.

The only fussy appetites everyone piled out of the car ready for the steak fry and the picnic dinner. Before the first mouthful could be eaten, Miss Schornhurst and Miss Diffenbaugh had dug and botanically collected a few specimens. However, the delicious steak soon banished all scientific thoughts from even Dr. Kurz's mind.

There followed a most unscientific banquet of steak fry sauce as a cushion for the diners to recline on and a generous helping of delicate china. Served-made by the cook, Mrs. Brock and a few great warblers, the botan-

Continued on page three

State Governing Institute Here April 1-5

Speakers at Meeting To Include Teachers, Prominent Officials

The first annual Institute of State Government, sponsored by the division of political science, will be held on this campus April 1-5.

Many state officials will be speakers at the Institute, which is intended to help familiarize more fully students of American government and social studies with the functionings of their government.

According to Dr. Marian Irish, head of the division of political science, the object of the institute is to acquaint the students to the executive officers of the state, to offer them first-hand and practical information on the constructure and services of their government, to vitalize and give some dynamic force to their acceptance of civic responsibility. The division of political science wishes to take advantage of the prestige of the state capital and the cooperation of Florida public administrators to provide the students with this sounding box in public affairs.

Among the state officials who will participate in the program are: R. A. Gray, governor of Florida who will speak on "The Florida Plan of Government"; Fred M. Knott, state treasurer; J. M. Lee, state comptroller, and Walter Moore, state representative. Executive, who will speak on Florida Executive Offices; Chief Justice, chief justice of the supreme court; Attorney General Cliff Couper Ohlbe, and Millard Davidson, director of the Industrial School at Marianna, who will deal with the administration of juvenile delinquency; Dr. Mallory Hitchcock, superintendent of public instruction; T. J. Brooks, superintendent of pensioner of agriculture; H. C. Wall, chairman of the Florida industrial

Continued on Page Three

Faculty Sponsor Funds For Finns

The local committee sponsoring the "Funds for Fighting Finns" drive, headed by Miss Diffenbaugh, wife of Dr. G. L. Diffenbaugh, English instructor, has collected $30.00 to date and

Although the results of the drive have been disappointing, Mrs. Diffenbaugh reports that the committee has met with hearty generosity and enthusiasm. The campaign which began Monday will close Friday.

Members of the committee from the faculty are: Miss Mildred Pitchford, instructor in French; Mrs. Leo Miller, instructor in English; Dr. Mabel Ulrich, director of education; Dr. Kathryn Abbey professor of history; Miss Katherine Warren, assistant dean of students; Miss Pauline Hopkins, instructor in librarian; Miss Eleanor Green, home economics department; Mrs. Ward Fletcher, instructor in education.

Graves Named Speaker For Commencement

President Edward Conradi announced Tuesday that John Temple Graves II, an editor and author, of Birmingham, Ala., will deliver the commencement address May 27 and Bishop Patrick Barry, D.D., of the diocese of St. Augustine, will preach the Baccalaureate sermon for the graduating seniors of this year.

University Band To Play Tonight

Program Will Include Wide Range of Music

The University of Florida band, sponsored by the freshman class of Florida State College for Women, makes its annual trip to this campus tonight for a concert, beginning at 8 o'clock in the college auditorium and will be open to the public without charge. No admission without admission. The program is to be played under the baton of which will feature concert music and the other swing. The band will play for the Saturday afternoon on the athletic field.

The band is to arrive here at approximately 6 o'clock, and the members will eat dinner at specified tables in the dining hall. The time for play night, which is to be held after their concert, will be specially extended until 11 o'clock.

The boys will eat all their meals at the college hall, with the exception of breakfast Saturday morning, which they will eat in Tallahassee Saturday evening to Gainesville.

The program for the concert is as follows: Orange and Blue, Fight, Florida, Florida Blues; Florida school songs: the march of the Fighting Gators, We Are the Boys From Old Florida; Atlantis—suite in four parts, V. F. Saunders; Intermission; Medley: Humm of Praise, Court Function, Dance of the Sea Nymphs, Fall of Atlantis; popular selections, Over the Rainbow, An Apple Pie the Old Fashioned Way, "Birth Control" oral arrangement including Florida Alma Mater.

Newmanites Hear Ands

Dr. Ned Ands will be the speaker at the Newman club meeting at 8 o'clock Sunday night in Broward Lounge. He will continue his talk on "Birth Control" and open the floor to discussion afterwards.

College Publicity Director Tells Of Varied Journalistic Career

Pitchford Describes Growth of Flambeau, Her Work on Newspapers and as Publicity Director Here

"I accidentally stumbled into newspaper work near the end of my senior year in high school," declared Mildred Pitchford, Florida State college publicity director and Flambeau sponsor recently in an interview.

"The high school that I attended was a small section in the town weekly paper. The Stewart Messenger for its name. I was interested in working on the paper as soon as school was out for the summer vacation. I did be interested in working on the paper as soon as school was out for the summer vacation. I did be interested in working on the paper as soon as school was out for the summer vacation. I did all six dollars a week. Not knowing any people in the business I got the school kids. I would walk down the street and say to people that I represented the Stewart Messenger reporter. Do you know anyone who has been married during this week or is having any visitors? After two or three days the editor raised my wages to eight dollars; however, at the end of the week I was to receive ten dollars. The editor was surprised at the amount of news I had handed in that first week."

Miss Pitchford stated that the variety of news she had to do on a weekly paper gives good experience. She did everything from society reporting and church reporting to bookkeeping and cutting up rolls for advertising.

Enters F S C W

When summer was over, the Messenger suspended publication job permanently at twenty-five dollars a week, but Miss Pitchford kept the position and entered Florida State college. That fall, journalism was not included in the college curriculum. At the beginning of the second year journalism was introduced along with Art Earl Vance, journalism professor. Only one class was taught that year, 1926-29.

"Before that time," Miss Pitchford said, "the staff of the Flambeau had to be selected by the dean of women. There were too many petty offices on the staff. The 1926-29 staff, which had been elected in the spring of 1926, was dissolved. The new one was selected from the journalism class. I was editor that year."

A change in size and make-up of the Flambeau took place that year, too. From a small four-page five-column paper the Flambeau was changed to its present size. The space then was divided somewhat as it is now. The former editor said that the first question asked by the students and faculty members was "How are you going to fill the paper?" She added that without trained writers, the task would have been impossible.

When she returned to visit the college a few years later, Miss Pitchford was astonished to find that the paper had a private office, a telephone, and typewriter. The staff had been dropped from pillar to post.

"The first edition of the new paper was quite an adventure," she related. "The paper was late in coming off the press, and the staff was in suspense. Since it came out during dinner, the time was too late to get the papers in the post office. What could we do? Many students were in the 'rec hall' dancing because it was Friday night; so I went in and started dancing. I asked each girl that I danced with if she would be doing anything special for a few minutes. Knowing that they would not be busy and not telling them what I intended to do, I managed to meet me. Right after rec I dismissed the dance, ran upstairs and 25 girls, and we had them delivered in 15 minutes."

Head of Fur Photographer

After graduating in the spring of 1929, Miss Pitchford was employed in a photographic concern for a while before doing any newspaper work. Then she was with the New Smyrna paper. However, she remained with the Daytona Beach Journal for the longest period of time, which was 4 years. While there she worked under Herbert M. Davidson, formerly with the International News service, and Cecil Eastman, former Associated Press reporter.

"I was put on as society editor at first. Although I asked to be changed to city desk I had to prove to the editor that I could do other types of writing. I did other stories in spare time. Newspaper men have a prejudice against having women on the city desks. I enjoyed the work much more after being changed. I had no family with me, therefore the editor felt free to send me on as-

Continued on Page Six

Pitkin Visits Campus

Walter B. Pitkin, internationally known author who wrote Life Begins at Forty as well as other books, is shown above center as the surprise visit to Florida State College for Women.

With him are Charles Heifenstein, left, editor of The Suwannee Democrat of Live Oak, and a member of the state board of control, who brought Pitkin to the campus, and Harriet Benson, secretary to the college Penn club.

Defeated Ones Give Banquet

Black cats perched upon 13's, on a blue background were the ominous placecards for the Defeated Candidate club members at their first annual banquet last Friday night in the college dining hall. Centerpieces for the tables varied from bad luck signs, such as a man walking under a ladder, to miniatures of Perdinand, symbolic of the bull thrown by bullfighter.

Upon seating herself every DCC member was given a penny for good luck—or perhaps just to ward off the bad luck which they seemed to follow her.

A toast to themselves was proposed by the president, and all drank it down to DCC" with grape juice. Numerous toasts followed.

He remarked as he observed that population is tending to decentralize at present, that "most of the big cities are dead, and the country man's best bet today."

He said that newspapermen must know more about unrelated things than members of any other profession and that "there is no such thing as human knowledge that can't be cashed in on in the newspaper field." Pitkins always prints reporters who are opposed to specialists, those who have equal interest in everything from a dog fight to a wall street crash.

"Write down in black and white everything you know you know about people, events past and present, and organize them so that you can wake up at 2 a. m. and forget your stomach ache by reading them," he went on. "Specialized fields in journalism like musical criticism and so on are 'freak jobs.' But if you have a strong inclination in a particular direction, follow it. You probably will get into one of those jobs after a while."

Professor Pitkin is professor of journalism at Columbia university and has edited several magazines and the New York Herald Tribune. He has written several books and is one of the editors of the Encyclopedia Britannica. The writer also has an international reputation in the literary world and holds honorary degrees from several foreign universities.

Before Mr. Pitkin's talk, Mr. Heifenstein spoke to the students on journalism as training for satisfactory leisure.

Pitkin Speaks To Journalists

Author Advises Group To Avoid Big Cities

Professor Walter B. Pitkins, author of the best-seller Life Begins at Forty, spoke to members of the Press club and journalism students at Florida State college Tuesday afternoon when he was brought to the college by Charles Heifenstein, Live Oak newspaperman and member of the state board of control. Dr. Conradi was invited to address the students.

Prospective journalists were advised by Mr. Pitkin to look for jobs in smaller cities because the metropolitan newspapers are overcrowded.

He remarked as he observed that population is tending to decentralize at present, that "most of the big cities are dead, and the country man's best bet today."

He said that newspapermen must know more about unrelated things than members of any other profession and that "there is no such thing as human knowledge that can't be cashed in on in the newspaper field." Pitkins always prints reporters who are opposed to specialists, those who have equal interest in everything from a dog fight to a wall street crash.

"Write down in black and white everything you know you know about people, events past and present, and organize them so that you can wake up at 2 a. m. and forget your stomach ache by reading them," he went on. "Specialized fields in journalism like musical criticism and so on are 'freak jobs.' But if you have a strong inclination in a particular direction, follow it. You probably will get into one of those jobs after a while."

Professor Pitkin is professor of journalism at Columbia university and has edited several magazines and the New York Herald Tribune. He has written several books and is one of the editors of the Encyclopedia Britannica. The writer also has an international reputation in the literary world and holds honorary degrees from several foreign universities.

Before Mr. Pitkin's talk, Mr. Heifenstein spoke to the students on journalism as training for satisfactory leisure.

Elections Open As Candidates Are Announced

System Will Combine Voting Machines And Primary Balloting

The spring election season swings into activity with the official announcement of candidates for both major and minor offices in the Colleges Government Association.

Major candidates follow: President of C.G.A.: Pat Brandt, Cornelia Watson;

Secretary of Judiciary: Betty Nickinson, Louise Patterson and Carolyn Milne;

Freshman advisor: Gene Bryan, Elizabeth Linn, Kathleen McCarthy;

First vice-president of C.G.A.: Mart Pierson, Martha Stroberg, Lucy Ball;

Second vice-president of C.G.A.: Mary Frances Penner, Elle Maude James, Prudence Hall;

Third vice-president of C.G.A.: Helena Armistead, Mary Frances and Bryan;

Secretary of C.G.A.: Margaret Barker, Jean Chaires, Martha Ellen Hackl, Kitty Jo Hickman, Winifred Price, Carolyn Smith;

Treasurer: Edith Williams, Anne Pierce, Beryl Mitchell;

Member of conference hall committee: Nelle Loyless, Wilma Mitchell;

Chairman of off-campus committee: Hilda Alagood, Lois Gilbert, Nell Thompson;

Editor-in-chief of Flambeau: Sara Nooney, Margaret Painter, Margaret Scott;

Business manager of Distaff: Vivian Ahlewelt, May Weltner

Persons for candidates for the office of editor of the Flastocowo, Miss Griffee.

Minor offices have the following candidates;

Junior representative to judiciary: Carolyn Mims, Bee, i Mitchell, Elizabeth Mathews, Ruth Murphy, Dorothy Mickerson, Betty Wickinson, Edith Williams;

Senior representative to judiciary: Anne Arnold Margaret Barker, Ruth Bell, Mary Howe, Helen Iserman Betty Neal Carol Marshall Mary May Paschall, Mattie Lou Peacock, Norma Pennyer Carolyn Rowell, Martha Sharpe.

Members of the off-campus committee:

House chairmen: Betsy Bragg, Martha Polston, Jane Jernigan Margaret Carese Brown, Kathryn Camp, West Landis Anna Lee Hall, Ella Belle Tillman, East Landis: unopposed and automatically elected, Mary Evelyn Gordon, Gilchrist; Ruth Asbury, Broward; Margaret Booth, Bryan; Dorothy Hurst, Reynolds. Sara King Jennis Murphree

Members of the off-campus committee: Hilda Alagood, Lucille Arnold Betha Bell, Del Hatsch, Pauline Simon, Elizabeth MacDowell Miller, Mary Frances Penner, Jean Pierce, Nell Thompson, Jenn Gilbert, Gilchrist; Jane Blasdell Broward.

Business manager of Flambeau: Harriett Benson, Louise Usher

Continued on page three

Sophomore Council Votes on Freshmen

At a meeting of Sophomore Council yesterday afternoon, freshmen were chosen from the names the freshman class were voted upon. They will be tapped during the last of March.

The voting machines will be set up by Reynolds Hall girls on Wednesday and Friday of next week.

At this meeting a committee to write the history of the organization was appointed and appointed, composed of Mary Caldwell, chairman; Sarah King and Montrey Wilson.

Plans were made for the meeting of Sophomore Council to check at the monthly dance and at Pan-Hellenic Hop. Girls will help with this monthly dance are Marian Webber, Sarah King, Sara Ann McKay, Amanda Crawford. Elaine Hundertmark Mary Caldwell, Jane Heinz Miami, Mart Pierson, Percy Cook Percy Thornton, Bernice Walton, Jane Wood. Checking at the Pan-Hellenic Hop will be Helen Benson, Peggy Cook Louise Crosby, Lenoir Dekle, Marguerite Diaz, Elizabeth Emmel, Elizabeth Miller, Percy Thornton, Ava Tucker, Paulette Nolan, Peaches Mc-Kay, Jane Telford, Sarah King, Marion Webber Elaine Hundertmark Nadine Wood, and Amanda Crawford.

Weaver, Jaeckel Broadcast Poems

The second in the series of monthly broadcasts over radio WTAL, sponsored by Kappa Zeta Phi Eta, speech professional fraternity, was conducted this week by Anita Jaeckel and Edith Weaver. On their 15-minute program, Anita Jaeckel featured poems for children, closing with "Lullaby Lady."

These broadcasts, an annual custom of the honorary, are made on the Thursday morning of every month at 7:30. The next program has been announced as a short play in which most of the members of the fraternity will have a part.

The poetry hour, another project of Zeta Phi Eta was led this week by Louise Usher president of the honorary. Reading poems of Edna St. Vincent Millay, Louise conducted the program at the usual hour from 8 to 6:30 in Reynolds parlor. These programs are informal gatherings to which all interested students may come.

IF ELECTED, WE HEREBY PROMISE-

President of C. G. A.

There's no use in my making absolute promises about what I will and won't do if I am elected to office, for everyone of us knows that circumstances and conditions modify policies. But I can give and keep this promise—If sincere interest, honest effort and just plain work on my part will do it, student government's aims and objectives for next year will be accomplished.

One of these aims should be a better informed, more alive and interested student body. By fostering closer cooperation between an active N.S.F.A., executive council, and student senate, I believe this can be done. If students feel that what they have to say is an open forum with effect the legislation and debate in student senate, I'm sure they would think it worthwhile to take an active interest and part in student government.

I'll do my best to be your representative to the faculty in the true sense of the word: to reflect student body opinion as closely and truly as I can rather than from every source on campus. It is our government and every student here has an opinion worth seeking.

Many of the policies on campus are valuable parts of our government. Those which promote democratic government, helping us to develop ourselves into thinking individual integrity as concerned citizens, I strongly recommend retaining. There must be emphasis on individual integrity as concerned citizens. Any attempt to discourage against the "everybody-else-does-why-can't-I" attitude. Members of judiciary would visit each orientation group at least once to interpret purposes and aims of institutions. This would all be an encouragement to the individual and more aware of the honor code and workings of judiciary.

Secondly, no student will be made to bring about a more equal distribution of responsibility among members of the organization. In this way the class representatives will share in their offices duties.

It will be my purpose to further the spirit of honor by having dance regulations uniform and giving definite announcement regarding them. There will be removal of regulation prohibiting riding to dances.

In answer to a frequent question concerning my having time sufficient time for the office, I would not run if I did not have sufficient time.

In handling cases I promise an unbiased, unprejudiced, tolerance and understanding will be my chief aims in order to give all student cases a just decision.

Your questions and considerations are always urged and will be appreciated.

—Louise Patterson.

Freshman Advisor

The purpose of orientation is to assist new students in making the most successful use of their college experiences, especially in regard to their academic and social adjustment and in the development of college citizenship and esprit.

The scope of orientation is the freshman year and through freshman year and through factual adjustments to life throughout a college lifetime. It concerns many persons with interest in specific phases of the program and the general student body as well. It takes place everywhere as one is continuously making adjustments.

The duties of the freshman advisor as the general leader of the orientation program are chiefly executive. She is assisted by executive assistants, and general members of the orientation committee who are chosen by her with Through cooperation with them and the faculty a purposeful program is accomplished. It would be my objective to lead orientation groups in such a manner as to make the meaning of the word.

I have been pretty interested in this work all through college and I believe that I have had a good background for this office though functioning as a counselor, executive assistant, freshman aside, and membership on the orientation committee this year and last, and by attending the counselors' training course my freshman and sophomore years and the freshman advisor's training course this year and last.

I feel that I would be fully capable of performing the duties of freshman advisor in Helping formulate the program of freshman orientation, selecting the committees on orientation, helping select and contact the counselors to live in the freshmen dormitories, acting as chairman of the orientation leaders and the committee on orientation, is serving as a member of executive council, judiciary, senate, college council, and ex-officio member of the lower court, and member of the election committee, and I would strive to represent true student opinion.

It would be a pleasure and a privilege to serve you as your freshman advisor. I would give of my best to the job.

—Gene Bryan.

I know that no girl would send in her petition for any major office unless she really wanted that office and knew the benefits that she would do the work efficiently.

Then it is up to the student body to elect a candidate which is the majority of its members feels is best.

If you, the student body, elect me to be your next vice-president, I shall do my very best to serve you all well, especially the new students to whom this office is directly responsible. I shall strive to put a well-rounded program of orientation consisting of the special needs of such groups the day students, the transfer students, and the second-semester freshmen.

—Elizabeth Linn.

The office of freshman advisor is one of great responsibility and great opportunity. A position of responsibility because the freshman advisor, more than any other one student, influences the junior character of the students by her guidance of the freshman class. A position of enjoyment because she has the opportunity to put some of the best of herself into a program in which she is deeply interested.

My first thought as freshman advisor will be that of counselor. I will attempt to be an understanding friend to the new ones who come in the most direct contact with the freshmen. They are the ones who have the best opportunity to help the freshmen in their adjustments. I believe that their selection and training is very important. I will talk with them frequently during their year as counselors and attempt to coordinate their work and help them personally with their problems.

As advisor to the freshmen I will try to remember at all times that the purpose of orientation is to help campus students, offcampus students, day students, second-semester freshmen, and transfer students. I will try to impress the freshman class in its duty duties as member of senate, judiciary, and executive council, and to help to coordinate these bodies branches of college government by keeping them informed of the activities and functions of one of the largest groups of the student body.

I feel that my qualifications for such an office? The work has three phases, first, executive, is great, serving all of the orientation program; second, legislative, in that the freshman advisor is a member of senate, and third, judiciary, as the freshman advisor is a member of judiciary. The freshman advisor is also a member of the executive council. I believe that a person who possesses the ability to fill above positions would be a valuable member of two councils.

As a counselor this year I have gained an understanding of the freshman and a knowledge of the scope of orientation. The training in and evaluating meetings given by the freshman advisor this year and last, as well as the actual experience of being a counselor, have been principal preparation for the work of freshman advisor. I have had experience in the past three summers of being a 4-H club leader.

I have been representative to senate from the junior class for the past year. In this capacity I have had valuable experiences and have gained a more realistic knowledge of the scope, duties and responsibilities of a member of our legislative body.

As for judicial work I have been a member of house council, in this way gaining some experience in dealing with problems in such a capacity, so that their contact with court shall help rather than harm them.

I feel I know that the freshman advisor has opportunities to help individuals and the school as a whole, that the work is well worth the great amount of effort required to do it well. .

—Gene Bryan.

First Vice President

I, Grace Bali, as a candidate for 1st vice-president of C. G. A., if elected, would do everything in my power to carry out the duties of this office effectively.

As a member of the executive council I would try to carefully study our various campus problems, to gather student opinion, and to represent it in the best possible way.

As chairman of senate I would earnestly endeavor to create more student body interest in the senate and to gain a well-carried program of orientation consisting of the special needs of such groups the day students, the transfer students, and the second-semester freshmen.

—Elizabeth Linn.

The office of freshman advisor is one of great responsibility and great opportunity. A position of responsibility because the freshman advisor, more than any other one student, influences the junior character of the students by her guidance of the freshman class. A position of enjoyment because she has the opportunity to put some of the best of herself into a program in which she is deeply interested.

My first thought as freshman advisor will be that of counselor. I will attempt to be an understanding friend to the new ones who come in the most direct contact with the freshmen. They are the ones who have the best opportunity to help the freshmen in their adjustments. I believe that their selection and training is very important. I will talk with them frequently during their year as counselors and attempt to coordinate their work and help them personally with their problems.

As advisor to the freshmen I will try to remember at all times that the purpose of orientation is to help campus students, offcampus students, day students, second-semester freshmen, and transfer students. I will try to impress the freshman class in its duty duties as member of senate, judiciary, and executive council, and to help to coordinate these bodies branches of college government by keeping them informed of the activities and functions of one of the largest groups of the student body.

What are my qualifications for such an office? The work has three phases, first, executive, is great, serving all of the orientation program; second, legislative, in that the freshman advisor is a member of senate, and third, judiciary, as the freshman advisor is a member of judiciary. The freshman advisor is also a member of the executive council. I believe that a person who possesses the ability to fill above positions would be a valuable member of two councils.

As a counselor this year I have gained an understanding of the freshman and a knowledge of the scope of orientation. The training in and evaluating meetings given by the freshman advisor this year and last, as well as the actual experience of being a counselor, have been principal preparation for the work of freshman advisor. I have had experience in the past three summers of being a 4-H club leader.

I have been representative to senate from the junior class for the past year. In this capacity I have had valuable experiences and have gained a more realistic knowledge of the scope, duties and responsibilities of a member of our legislative body.

As for judicial work I have been a member of house council, in this way gaining some experience in dealing with problems in such a capacity, so that their contact with court shall help rather than harm them.

I feel I know that the freshman advisor has opportunities to help individuals and the school as a whole, that the work is well worth the great amount of effort required to do it well. .

—Gene Bryan.

First Vice President

I, Grace Bali, as a candidate for 1st vice-president of C. G. A., if elected, would do everything in my power to carry out the duties of this office effectively.

As a member of the executive council I would try to carefully study our various campus problems, to gather student opinion, and to represent it in the best possible way.

As chairman of senate I would earnestly endeavor to create more student body interest in the senate and to gain a well-carried program of orientation consisting of the special needs of such groups as the day students, the transfer students, and the second-semester freshmen.

—Elizabeth Linn.

Second Vice President

I am deeply interested in the work of the 2nd vice-president of C. G. A. This office is the one in which there are many opportunities for helping establish more firmly the benefits and traditions of P.S.C.W., mainly, through sophomore council. I feel that I am qualified to hold and carry out the functions of office because I am a member of sophomore council, of W.C.A., secretary and house officer of my sorority. Then I feel that I know the college morals, traditions and services which will enable me to be 2nd vice-president.

—Mary Frances Fetner.

I am running for the office of 2nd vice-president of the College Government Association because I have a deep interest in all of the activities of duties relative to this position.

One of the main functions of the 2nd vice-president is to act as the sponsor for sophomore council. I believe that this organization is one of the most vital groups on campus. Having served as chairman of sophomore council I feel that I have gained knowledge and thorough understanding of the problems connected with the office and that this experience would enable me to serve not only well but ably, but to help to keep sophomore council in its essential relationship as a link between the classes and the activities of our government.

If elected, as a member of executive council I would endeavor to represent both the opinion of sophomore council and the whole student body and to work always that I was elected by the students to serve the students.

—Ella Maude Jones.

If I am elected second vice president of C.G.A. I will do my best to carry out the duties of the office and to represent to the best of my ability the opinion of the student body by being open-minded, unprejudiced and interested in the work on sophomore council, senate and executive council.

—Paulette Nolan.

Third Vice President

I am running for the office of third vice-president of C. G. A. because of my vital interest in campus activities and activities. If elected I would try to keep the student forum in the same position which it has always held on this campus: a free discussion group where students can meet to set forth their opinions.

I would earnestly support which would fit the interests and the desires of the student and only rewarding matters on our own campus, but on problems and ideas throughout the nation. I would be the direct representative of the student body. I would take a across section poll of their ideas as presented in the forums to the executive college council.

—Maxine Armistead.

I am not an office holder in any campus activity, organization at this time. I have not been an office holder in the past. My own reason for coming forward now is that as an ordinary member of the student body I have seen the urgent necessity for making the student forum a vital part of our college life. With the co-operation of the whole student body it can become a working unit of which we may well be proud. I will do everything in my power to make this body a means of expressing the true opinion of the entire student body.

If I am elected I shall attempt to select the topics for discussion with the greatest care, to encourage a number per cent student participation, and to work untiringly to make this forum a smoothly running part of campus life.

My responsibility to the student body would be to insure the success of the recent change affected by the adoption of N.S.F.A. chairman in college government. I shall do everything in my power to express student opinion in executive council and to keep the forum a free, unprejudiced body.

—Mary Pinckard Bryan.

Secretary C. G. A.

If I were elected secretary, I would keep the minutes as accurately and neatly and possible, striving to be fair and impartial in presenting the facts as best I can.

I feel that I have had training in executive council. I would endeavor to present student ideas to the faculty and to present to the students in such a way as to promote the greatest cooperation.

This is an important office. I am sincere in this campaign and would do my best to perform the duties of secretary and to represent the student body in an actively democratic manner.

—Mary Ann Barker.

The minutes of C. G. A.
I'll try to keep.
And be on time
For every meet.
A little interest
In P. S. C. W.
Would be a blessing
That come by thee
I'll try to give
To benefit you
If recommendations
Are what you crave
Then look in the records
And see what I've done.
Labeled: secretary of freshmen.

—Jane Chalres.

I shall endeavor to carry out to the best of my ability the above points.

—Sue Chalres.

The secretary of C. G. A. should not only be able to keep accurate, up to date minutes, but should take an active part in all matters concerning our school. She should have a keen interest in the individual member of the student body as well as the student body as a unit.

In the past I have held several secretarial offices and am very much interested in working with people. I feel that I should be capable of holding this office and if elected, should strive to keep accurate minutes, to assist other members of executive council in every possible way, to cooperate always, and to perform all my duties promptly, carefully, and efficiently.

—Martha Ellen Hackl.

If I should be elected secretary of C.G.A. I will fill the duties of the office conscientiously. Having held various offices in high school I feel that I am qualified for this position.

As a member of senate, I would endeavor to represent the student body well. I would try to keep the students well-informed as to what is going on in our college government.

—Kitty Jo Rickman.

I, Winifred Price, candidate for the position of secretary of C. G. A., do promise that if I am elected, I will do all in my power to fulfill the duties of said office. I also promise to try my best to bring about better faculty-student cooperation and to remind all the students with the important business of C. G. A. in order to promote more interest in the affairs of student government. I have held offices similar to this one in high school therefore I feel that I possess the necessary qualities to make a success in the office.

—Winnifred Price

Sincerity in believing and efficiency in practicing all that obtains the best results toward government which is complete both as a whole and within each part. I should maintain if elected secretary of C.G.A. The keeping of exact and accurate minutes and the prompt accomplishing of minor duties. I should be willing to assist in my endeavors while my attitude would be one of cooperation with the student body, administrative officers, and faculty.

—Carolyn H. Stowell.

Treasurer C. G. A.

Most people probably aren't too sure about what a treasurer of C. G. A. is supposed to do. So this is:

(1) Act as member of executive council, of C. G. A., college council, and senate.

(2) Draw up a budget for the year and within that financial transactions of the organization.

(3) Collect all C. G. A. fines.

If elected to this office most of my efforts would be made toward. I would center around the first two of these, but would attempt to fulfill the requirements of the third efficiently.

—Beryl Mitchell.

I feel that training and practice in the handling of money is the most important requirement for performing efficiently the duties of treasurer of C. G. A. As an accounting major and I feel myself well qualified in this respect.

At present I believe that the most serious problem confronting this office is the selection of a more satisfactory method of collection of convocation fines. If elected as treasurer of C. G. A. I promise to make an earnest effort to solve this problem.

As a member of senate and executive council, I would endeavor to represent student opinion in an unbiased a manner as possible. If elected to this office I promise to perform its duties efficiently and capably and to serve the student body to the best of my ability.

Continued on Page Three

—Aime Pierce.

I am submitting to you, students of the Florida State College for Women, my candidacy for the office of treasurer of C. G. A. I have not held any C. G. A. office up to this time, but I have served as the treasurer of many organizations. I have had experience in clerical work and dealing with orders through business offices and book store. My work as a student assistant I would be careful to handle bookkeeping with exactness and would be faithful to do any duties that the office entails. I am interested in all phases of student government, and as a member of senate, executive council and college council, would try ways to represent student opinion in all its aspects.

I am eager to serve you. I ask for you to determine whether I am qualified for this office, whether I shall be counted among the "also-rans."

—Edith Williams.

Chairman of Residence Hall Committee

I believe that the chief purpose of the residence hall committee should be to foster and aid the student's sense of responsibility and a better understanding of the principles back of the minor regulations. I can see much in favor of the new house council plan, and believe that through its efficient administration much can be done to replace the old system with one

Continued on Page Three

THE SWEET SHOP
AT THE SOUTH COLLEGE GATE
Phone 1091 We Deliver
Little Dinners 35c
HOME MADE PIE AND CAKE
SANDWICHES—COLD PLATES
COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE
SOUTHERN DAIRIES ICE CREAM

Seek it First at VAN BRUNT & YON INC.
YONS HARDWARE

See Our New Line Of
Wilson's Tennis Racquets
A RACQUET CASE FREE WITH EVERY PURCHASE

BENNETT'S
COLLEGE INN PHARMACY — Phone 80
MONROE STREET PHARMACY — Phone 93
Eat at Bennett's Two Fountain Cafes
A HOT BAR-B-Q TURKEY ROLL and large Fresh Orange Ade 15c
HOT BAR-B-Q PORK SANDWICH Potato chips, Large Cheesecake Milk with Ice Cream 20c
GRILLED WESTERN STEAK SANDWICH on hot bun, F. F. potatoes, lettuce and tomatoes 25c
OUR FAMOUS JUMBO ICE CREAM SODA Two dips Ice Cream and Whip Cream 10c
A SUGAR BAKED HAM AND TOMATO SANDWICH one scoop potato salad, and double rich malted milk shake 30c
BANANA WHITE HOUSE SPECIAL A delicious special for 12c
Cosmetic Counter Specials
$1.10 Angelus Lip Sticks 79c
50c Jergens Lotion 37c
$1.00 Tangee Lip Sticks 79c
$2.00 Dorothy Gray Bisquit Weather Lotion $1.00
$2.00 Yalee Velvety Perfume Powder & Cologne $1.00 ..... 89c
50c Lucor Dusting Powder ... 33c
50c Lady Esther Face Powder 39c
Early American Pastime Packet $1.00
50c Woodbury Lip Sticks 25c
1 0c Woodbury Soap, 3 for 21c
10c Lux Soap, 2 for 11c
50c Yalee Cashmere Bouquet Soap and Hand Lotion 24c

STATE
FRIDAY & SATURDAY March 8-9
FEARLESSLY ON THE SCARLET
GRAPE-NUTS
SUNDAY & MONDAY March 10-11
WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY March 13-14
RAFFLES
THE AMATEUR CRACKSMAN
BECOME RAFFLES—THE GENTLEMAN OF THE NIGHT
Make the 3-Step Test!
1 2 3
For "Surprise" Support in Dainty New Rhythm Step Shoes
Lovely new styles you've dreamed of wearing—we've picked them for you. Just 3 steps will show you how adorable Rhythm Step Shoes are. Ankle-easy cushion heel, arch and ball of foot—and no extra weight! Come in and see!
Elwood
7.75
ELWOOD
White Buck with Tuftan Trim.
B1 or Le Reels.
Also with Navy Trim.
MILLER'S Cootery
111 E. COLLEGE AVE.

RITZ
FRIDAY MARCH 8
DON AMECHE in "SWANEE RIVER"
SATURDAY MARCH 9
LEGION'S LAWLESS
SUNDAY & MONDAY March 10-11
HENRY FONDA in "Grapes of Wrath"
TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY March 12-13
CLARK GABLE in "STRANGE CARGO"
THURSDAY & FRIDAY March 14-15
Feature Cartoon "Gulliver's Travels"

From Other Colleges

By JONNIE THOMASSON

Seven girls at Texas State College for Women can proudly show that all A's record for last semester. Of the 11 five are freshmen, three are seniors, one is a junior, one a sophomore, and one a post-graduate student.

There are 218 honor students in their student body. Classifying one by classes, freshmen lead with 58. Dividing them into departments, home economics makes have the best A's in the business, if nothing else).

Those girls over there in Texas will be having a College Government election this week, with the general air of straightening out "a few of the kinks in the government machinery" in preparation for the elections coming up soon. They intend to have speakers from other colleges and universities in college government to open forums. Panel discussions, a Campus Kwiz party, and open house in the student government office. They want to stimulate the interest of every student. This may be possible by perhaps the next issue will tell.

Under the "Interesting If True" items one might put the University of Michigan's Prof. Howard Walker Pillsbury's conclusions after conducting his recent study of the mechanical intelligence of Michigan. Professor Pillsbury says that the average college girl "is like her father, like son" has some truth in it, as the intelligences concerned. His studies show that there is almost as much correlation between the marks of father and son as there is between those of a student who lives in high school and college. The professor would even go so far as to permit students to the university on the basis of membership in a family with a good scholastic record. Also, he states that children in the same family are similar in this respect to their children and parents, and he points out all this is due to inherited ability and not to the same home and school environment.

North Texas state teacher's college has initiated something similar to a "kangaroo" court in an effort to curb disorderliness of the times. Even faculty members are fully arrested and hailed before the court (that's ways in special, by the office of the college paper. The guilt of the offender is usually rather embarrassing. He is forced to wear for one day a sign which reads "THIS ONE STEPPED ON THE GRASS." Several offenders will face court, for they must make a visit to the president's office and receive their sentences according to the offenses of that office." It would seem that this idea is really serious about "letting the grass grow under their feet."

Harold Hoffman, a psychology major at Ohio State University, recommends five easy steps if you would like to be an "A" student. Briefly stated, number one is study, of all things. Then one must look for the opportunities, to help create a superior future, and then he must strive to utilize a liking for professors and studies and of that we think he must be neutral. Fourthly decide on "I'll show you" attitude. Strive to learn something that can be done. Lastly, be a good sport.

That's all there is to it, girls.

Emory Giles club serenaded Administration Building, Saturday night at 10:30, over WSB and WAC. Red Lantern was the club's second coast to coast hook-up in three weeks, and the first prompted by a series of every-other-week broadcasts to the South Pole. It will be the last one of these broadcasts to originate in WSB and Atlanta if the continued by the Presidential and its radio station.

One thing that is very noticeable when reading papers is the "humor which seems to be rife schools so "on the air." Various schools promote programs by their local stations, professors make speeches, or occasionally, as in the case of the Emory Glee Club, they really do something big which makes us all the more enthusiastic about the bend our own college is taking in this respect.

Tennis Players To Give Exhibit

Four Famous Players Appear Here Saturday

Four nationally known tennis players will play a series of exhibition matches on the local basketball court Saturday afternoon at 2:30 on the city asphalt court on Park avenue. Charles Hare, the number one tennis player in England will play an exhibition game with Nick Bollettieri, former number one player on the Duke university varsity team, who is at present a resident of Tallahassee. Following this game, Mary Hardwick, who ranks second to Helen Wills Moody in England, and Valerie Scott, both of whom played on the Wightman Cup team last summer, will play a game

Following the two games a doubles game may be played. The players in this game will be announced later.

The three players who will arrive here Friday are on a tour of Florida and have been playing in centrally located towns all over the country since late September. Their first game in Florida was played in Miami, and from there Tampa they went to St Petersburg, then to Orlando, West Palm Beach, Clearwater, then back to Orlando, Tampa, Sarasota, they will remain in Tallahasee until Sunday morning when they will go to Jacksonville.

After their game in Pensacola, they will have a several weeks' "rest months' tour of this state, which covered 19,000 miles. They intend to go to the Bahamas for a short series of games.

Spectators will watch the games from bleachers furnished by the city. Tickets will be sold at the entrance gate, and are on sale at state. Adult tickets will be fifty cents, while high school students will be twenty-five cents.

Chairman of Residence Hall Committee

Continued from Page Two

life and improve the general social standard of the campus.

The residence halls committee should shape a set common policy for the house councils which attempt to solve the many similar types of dormitory problems. Irregularities should be brought before the council with emphasis placed upon the individuality of each house, but with the good organization should be to increase the general campus spirit and to help each student realize his part in our society.

I feel that my experience as vice house chairman and house chairman will be an asset in the work qualify me for the position which, if I am elected, I shall attempt to fill to the best of my ability.

Wilma Jones.

Should you see fit to elect me as your next chairman of the residence hall committee, I will endeavor to fulfill the duties of the office and to cooperate with faculty advisers, officers and fellow students in every way possible. One of my duties will be to acquire complete understanding of our social regulations by more study and reading, and this individual must be considered As an officer I feel that I have a representative manner—which I consider positive, rather than negative—and an active personality—which is often negative. I shall always solicit the cooperation and support of my fellow students.

Nelle Loyless.

Chairman of Off-Campus Committee

For a year I have served as a member of the off-campus committee. I feel that the position for the office of chairman of the off-campus committee is the logical next step. If elected, I promise to give my best efforts toward keeping the off-campus life as democratic and outstanding as our present chairman has done. I will be consistent in my dealings with the members, accept suggestions from any source, be supermost in my mind, promote greater interest in the work, and use my every effort to make the house councils remain in strict accordance with the policies and duties given to them by the workings of the organization.

I believe that the committee should endeavor to prevent infractions of rules, rather than punish until they have been committed, and I shall encourage this practice. I solicit your vote in the forthcoming election, and promise to be truly representative of your ideas.

Hilda Alsanord.

Price and by Miss Mary Setze, faculty advisor of the faculty-student relations committee. Chairman of the committee, are Elizabeth McBride Miller and Mary Frances Patton.

"F" Club Plants 250 Pine Trees

Forestry Department Gives Trees to Group

At Camp Flastacowo 250 young pine trees were planted by the members of the "F" club during their last "clean-up" visits to camp. In an attempt to beautify the camp woods and grounds, the girls, through the efforts of Miss Katherine Montgomery, obtained these trees from the state forestry department free of charge to plant and set them out. In all 300 trees were granted to the club for this project. The remaining trees will be planted sometime within the next few weeks.

A representative of the state forestry department aided several girls in planting the first few trees, giving them specific information and instructions as to the best results. This representative said that the forestry department when grants of trees or other plants are made. He showed them how to use the "dibber" in making holes for the trees, and helped them in the actual planting for the trees. This work is a part of the conservation activities of the "F" club to preserve and keep beautiful the grounds and surroundings of Camp Flastacowo.

Dot Paris, Kirby Smith, Lillie Wallace, Mary Ann Hall, Peacock, Louise Prine, Brunelle Mabry, Verna Lee, Elaine Lefferes, and Florence Gross and Alumnae, aided in the work at Camp Flastacowo last week-end February 17.

Editor in Chief Of Flambeau

Should you, the students, elect me to edit the Flambeau for next year, the first aim I shall try to make it a mouthpiece for the students' views. I shall write Through Pro and Con. Inquiring Reporter and guest columns. I will endeavor to give students opportunity to express opinions on vital issues concerning themselves and their welfare. I would back any policy or movement which would benefit the student body as a whole.

I am convinced that we students of Florida State college, are college WORTH the name. I am proud of the word. We are capable of being proud. We are capable of being given opportunity to do so in matters academic, governmental, social and personal. We are determined toward allowing us to govern ourselves in matters no more than be governed like children who receive my whole-hearted support.

Anything which I might be able to do as chairman and editor toward promoting better faculty-student cooperation and understanding will also be my aim.

And finally, I will do all within my power to uphold the present high standards of the Flambeau.

Margaret Painter.

Realizing that the Flambeau represents the only publication for Women not only to the student body, the faculty, and the alumnae, but to the state at large, I will do my best. If I am elected editor, I will endeavor to make it a true organ of the student body, not in theory, but in deeds. In actuality. By encouraging contributions of guest editorials, by the use of Through Pro and Peace from students other than journalism majors, by using a Pro Inquiring Reporter and actual personal contact with the student body. I will try to feel the pulse of the group and to express it in the paper.

Lastly, I will endeavor to uphold the high standards which the Flambeau and to make it worthy of a high place in college journalism.

Margaret Scott.

Editor in Chief Of Distaff

If elected editor of the Distaff I would try to uphold and carry out the ideals set by the Distaff in following aims and action:

I would try to get out a good print a wide variety of material, namely humorous and serious essays, plays and poetry of every type, stories both humorous and serious, and a few short articles.

This material I would obtain in the usual Distaff manner, i.e., contests, outward solicitation, and the present policy of the editorial staff members turn in at least one contribution a year so we should have plenty of material on hand.

I would like to feature both the art and the editorial staff and take on more students who were not only interested in writing but who promise to be equally effective.

I hope to maintain all pre-established standards, and try to establish some of my own.

My qualification in reference to my journalism experience are as follows: three years experience as worker and contributor on the Distaff editorial staff, one year as news editor of the Flambeau, winner of one of the Flambeau keys for reporters, a member of

Urges Payment

All sororities, organizations and honorories who have not paid for their representation in the 1940 Flatacowo can make payments all day Tuesday, March 12, on the Treasurer's desk of the Westcott building. All dues and monies are payable on Tuesday.

FERRELLE LITSCHGI.
Business Manager.

Minnows Train For Tarpon Initiation

"Minnows" are now being trained every Tuesday afternoon by Vonnia Marshbanks for Tarpon initiation into the Tarpon club. According to the regulations of the club, girls are required to trycout for membership by swimming one year before they can be initiated. About 15 girls are taking part in these classes. Miss Marshbanks will have a fourth meeting on Tuesday afternoon, at which time a date will be set for the initiation of new members. During the latter part of this month elections of officers for the coming year will take place.

Editor in Chief Of Distaff

Continued from Page One

prohibition. She has also been campus a representative literary magazine. Because I believe in the Distaff, a broad understanding of student opinion and a sense of judgment of literary quality, together with experience in editorial work, I am seeking this office.

Should I be elected I would make such innovations in the staff policy, First, I would choose from the staff a few representative types of Florida State college girls and have them each shown an interest in the publication; that is, I would try to have in the staff a broad understanding of student opinion and a sense of judgment of literary quality, together with experience in editorial work. I am seeking this office.

Should I be elected I would make such innovations in the staff policy, First, I would choose from the staff a few representative types of Florida State college girls and have them each shown an interest in the publication; that is, I would try to have in the staff a broad understanding of student opinion and a sense of judgment of literary quality of the article.

Third, I would endeavor to secure faculty interest in this publication by printing from time to time faculty contributions and student contributions.

Fourth, I would try to keep alive student interest in writing for the Distaff and in reading the publication rather than journalism students' contributions, I would announce contests, and encourage for debate. Contributions on student opinion and make an open forum to be published in the next issue.

My broad policy is to make the Distaff representative, not only of the literary but of student opinion fully. All these points, I believe, would make it so.

May Weltner.

Elections Open As Candidates Are Announced

Continued from Page One

Business manager of Flambeau: Nancy May Henry, Mary Myers Alford.

Business manager of Distaff: Dorothy Mitchell.

President of Women's Athletic Association: Frances Battle, Minnie Ratliff, Margaret Clements.

Vice-president of W.A.A.: Anna Frances McKay, Lucy Cobb Hall.

Secretary of W.A.A.: Starling Lou Wynn.

Treasurer of W.A.A.: Frances Reiland, Mary Alice Kirchner.

Senior Representative, manager: Gene Bryan, Rachel Erwin, Bernice Hodges, Clements, Clements, Minnie Ratliff.

Each of the candidates to campaign speeches the election set-up has been patterned as closely to that used last year as possible, with girls of voting age registering at the office, aided by members of sophomore council, supervising all voting.

Beginning today names and pictures of all candidates are posted on the C. G. A. bulletin board. In addition, sample ballots may be found on all campus bulletin boards with voting instructions. On Monday sample voting machines will be stationed in lower Westcott, Bryan and Jennie Murphree dormitories to acquaint students with the correct voting procedure. "It" club members will be on hand to explain the machines to demonstrate how they work.

Polls will be open Tuesday, March 12, in the Westcott, Bryan and Murphree dormitories from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. Voting machines will be used in these dormitories. Ballots will be used in the Annex and in the town girls' room in the basement of the Westcott building.

Tabulating all returns after all primary and final elections will be the elections committee headed by Katherine Graham.

Life Saving Corps Will Hear Lowery

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the club room of gymnasium Miss Bunny Lowery, alumnae of the college and physical education instructor at Lake Worth school, will tell members of the Life Saving Corps of her work there. Miss Lowery is here as Clearwater Beach and in her high school there.

Next Friday through Wednesday, Harold Kenning, field examiner for the National Red Cross, will be on campus to give the final instruction and the examination to the students who are to present life savers and wish to become junior life savers.

In preparation for the finals which have been held past two weeks girls have taken a training course under the direction of Miss Mary Louise Hutchinson in physical education, and various students have been the class instructors. These girls include Yvonne Marchesseau, Jean Hitchcock, Jeanne Bryan, Anna Dell Perry, Frances Battle, Devora Ricker, and Irene Prevatt. A written examination will be given this afternoon at 4 o'clock on Wednesday as final preparation for Mr. Kenning's course.

Dr. Kurz Treats Botanists To Steak Fry

Continued from Page One

and the other half to finish the courses, from pickles to demitasse in the dessert.

Their hunger satisfied, the crowd changed from ordinary mindedness to scientific interest, a scrambling across brooks, over hills and down ravines, to brush in search of botanical treasures. Botanical curiosities such as someone found a fern gametophyte, or identified Trillium cuneatum, or found a cypress knee and two or three hours of collecting. Dr. Kurz distributed once more to their cars, proudly displaying their specimens.

Those who went on these field trips were: Dr. and Mrs. Kurz, Misses Jeanne Bryan, Frances Smith Williams, Amanda Zewadski, Mary Ann Hall, Mary Ann Baggs, Helen Sprinkner, and Betty Ann Taylor.

rect voting procedure. "It" club members will be on hand to explain the machines.

Tuesday is the convocation candidates for president of C. G. A., chairman of the house presidents' advisory, and the editors of Flambeau, Distaff and Flatacowo will speak. Mr. A. B. McGregory will speak for the college. "State Social Services."

New Alumnae Building Is Described to Students

A description of the new alumnae building by Anne Jones and a demonstration of the drive to get $10,000 to furnish the building was given at the events of the regular convocation Tuesday afternoon.

The idea of an alumnae building, which originated in 1936, is finally coming true. On the basement floor there are the Planters' room, the Big Seven dining room. Day students' room, a kitchenette, a lounge, ping pong tables, card tables, and place for dancing at any time. On the first floor features a lounge, library, kitchenette, alumnae office, and the Assembly room, Distaff office, Flatacowo office, C.O.A. business manager room, and faculty room are to be found on the third floor. Bedrooms to be rented for alumnae and parents, and Dempsey Dormitory are on the fourth floor with a costume room, club rooms, and corresponding rooms comprising the fifth.

Anne then introduced Mrs. Frank Moor, president of the college alumnae association who told of the students can help furnish the building. Each student was asked to bring the price of a chair to her through the campus mail, which would contain space for votes.

Local Alpha Chi Alphas Plan National Convention

At a business meeting held Monday night Gamma chapter of Alpha Chi Alpha, national journalistic sorority, decided to send a national convention to be held at Miami Beach in the latter part of June.

Three committees were appointed to arrange for the details of the convention. Vivian Ashwell, Mary Roland and Eleanor Mooney will have charge of housing; Mable Bennett, Margaret Painter, and Bernice Bloodworth, arrangements for the banquet, and Sarah Wood, Dorothy Mullis and Margaret Painter, entertainment.

This is the first time that the convention has ever been held in Florida and delegates are expected from every Alpha Chi Alpha chapter in the United States.

Initiation of the pledges and election of officers for Gamma chapter were scheduled the beginning of the next year.

Inquiring Reporter

Light Restriction

What do you think of the new light restrictions? Do you think we as students can do anything to change the situation? Do you think such restrictions necessary for college students presumably capable of thinking for themselves? These were the questions asked this week by your Inquiring Reporter.

Pauline Dale: I think something like this should have been brought up a long time ago. It is one of the best restrictions that has ever been made. Now we can study body for its own good. No, I don't think we can do much of anything to change the situation unless we get a compromise, but perhaps, two or three light extensions a week for emergency study. Such restriction seems to be necessary since it is evident that students waste too much time on the campus, and this will help stop now. If a time limit were set, perhaps we would waste our studies accordingly.

Mary Small: I think these light restrictions are very silly. If we are not old enough to take care of our health by this time, we never will be. If no one pays any attention to these restrictions they will have to be done away with. If this were a little girls' boarding school it would be our right to have light restrictions. But I don't see the students are going to get their studying and sleep when their lights are put out go off so soon?

Margaret Miller: Maybe the light restrictions are a pretty good thing if they accomplish the purpose of teaching us to study on time—day time you understand —more effectively. I have very pessimistic about the students being able to do anything about changing the new rule. I am for giving it a fair trial. Personally, it will provide a pretty good excuse for some to bed and forestling a lot of stuff I should be doing.

Roberta Padgett: If college is to prepare girls for life too many restrictions will defeat this purpose. We have to learn independence and this is accomplished some time before we leave college. I don't think students will be prevalent on campus as it is reported. If the student body will quit begging for more light and work before the administration, something will be done about it. Otherwise, nothing will be done, and Florida State will be one step another step backward.

Mary Horsey: I don't think the new light restrictions are a way to make the students to get as much sleep as they need because most of the girls seem to be able to study better late at night than at 8 the morning when the dormitories are quiet. Yes, the students can do something about the situation. Such restrictions are not necessary for college students capable only of thinking for themselves.

Virginia Balkcom: No doubt seven hours sleep a night are necessary for every girl but if many have been going with less it's not because they have to study. I won't say I approve or disapprove of the new restrictions. I think everyone realizes that these restrictions were made for the purpose of helping us, but some adjustments will have to be made. For instance how can girls who are carrying heavy academic work, or extracurricular load, get everything done that has to be done and not stay up more than 12 or two? I study more often than once a week? If we accept these restrictions it will be with the whole thing is an experiment and then if it doesn't result in doing some constructive reasons on which to base our disapproval.

Mayor Mossman: I think whether we realize it or not the

Continued on Page Five

Model Senators Attend Meeting This Weekend

Continued from Page One

taking two bills, which they consider vital to the state of Dr. Marion Irish that they hope to be passed. The first bill is To provide for federal appropriations for the improvement of education in the United States. The second is To provide for the elimination of the state textbook commission and the substitution of a free textbook law, and the integration of federal trade system of textbook purchase in the state. Tilda has been appointed to the finance and business committee of the senate to which committee foreign affairs

Students' Note

The National Model Senate convention, which was held last year in Washington, D. C. had at its hosts students of George Washington university, and representatives that were sent from Florida State were Ruth Webster, Anita Jaeckel, Elisabeth Anne Webb, and Hilda Alsgood. At the convention they were elected delegates from different colleges of Washington, Florida, one of which were senators and 11 Florida State girls. The only student that will attend both conventions, said that every indication led her to believe that there will be an increase in colleges represented and in number of delegates sent this year.

It was from the convention attended last year in Washington, D. C. that our delegates brought back the new idea of setting up a model senate on our campus. This idea was a fair one that year that they succeeded in working out their plan by inviting various colleges throughout Florida to send senators. It worked out so successfully that it is hoped by the members of senate hope to make it regional, in order that colleges of the state of Florida may be represented. The chairman and Secretary over the model senate session, which was held here last year, was Hilda Alsanord who will be succeeded as chairman by Bill Grimes of the University of Florida, and Dorothy Ricker one of our campus as secretary and treasurer. The next session of the model senate is scheduled to be held in the fall of next year on the University of Florida campus.

WAA Calendar

Friday, March 4

4:30—Odd and Even hockey and soccer practice.

8:00—Life saving corps meeting in clubroom of the gymnasium.

2:00—F club meeting (After the University of Florida band concert)

10:00-11:00—Co-ed dance.

Monday, March 11

4:30—Odd soccer and hockey practice.

8:00—Recreation night for the faculty.

Tuesday, March 12

4:30—Tarpon club practice.

4:30—Even hockey practice.

4:30—Odd and Even soccer practice.

Thursday, March 14

4:30—Even soccer practice.

4:30—Tarpon club practice.

Finals of Swimming Meet To Be Held Here Monday

On Monday the finals of the national telegraphic swimming meet in which this campus is participating will be completed. The first half of the meet took place last Wednesday. When both halves are completed the results will be sent to the main office here to the state college of Texas and to the national committee for compilation and setting of records.

The events of the meet included the crawl, back crawl, breast stroke at 40 and 100 yards and various relays and free-style contests. Each swimmer may take part in eight events.

The girls who will participate in the event are: Dot Paris, Jeanne Bryan, Jewel Betty Brown, Frances Eckland, Gladys Peacock, Frances Hicks, Elizabeth Mosher, Virginia Makemson, and Peggy Barker.

Chairman of Off-Campus Committee

Continued from Page Two

If I am elected chairman of off-campus committee, I shall undertake to remedy two of the greatest problems relating to this committee.

First, I shall endeavor to stress the importance of the sororities and fraternities realizing that it will be efficient and cooperative with the off-campus committee whenever who has been assigned to that house.

Second, I shall try to impress on every girl living off campus the importance and necessity of practices of C. G. A. rules, not in the sense of tattling but in the sense of helping the girl and all with whom she may be associated.

I feel that I am well qualified to hold this position as I have had ample experience both as house chairman and member of the off-campus committee for the past year. I shall endeavor to understand the existing problems, and to help in every way possible to alleviate some of said problems.

Jeann Gilbert.

Careful thought has preceded the decision to run for the office of chairman of the off-campus committee. For the past year I have served as a member of the committee, during which time I gained a knowledge of the problems of the off-campus students.

The chairman of the committee should be a girl of capable leader. She should be genuinely interested in her work, have willing service at the time which would be necessary to fulfill her duties and should be able to work with people. I feel that I possess these qualifications to the degree which this office requires.

In fulfilling the duties of the chairman of the committee, it should be her endeavor to act as the link between students living off-campus and the College administration.

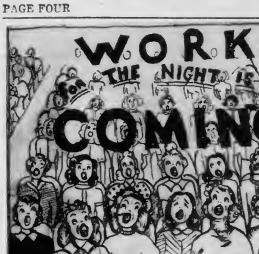
As a member of Judiciary I will be open minded and fair, and to senate I shall conscientiously attempt to represent the opinions of the group which I represent.

I should appreciate the privilege of your support in this student body in this capacity.

Nell Thompson.

Editor in Chief Of Flambeau

I believe that a student newspaper should cover all campus activities, and that clearly and at the same time maintain high journalistic standards.



If I am elected editor of the Flambeau I promise to serve the student body to the best of my ability. I shall do what I can to encourage the expression of student and faculty opinion on the pages of the Flambeau through the Inquiring reporter pro and con, and guest editorials and articles.

—Sara Nooney.

Y.W.C.A. Entertains Sat

Y. W. C. A. is entertaining Saturday night with a party for 30 freshmen at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown. This is one of the series of parties given by the faculty-student relations committee to promote friendship between faculty and students.

Mary Ellen McCall is in charge of the party arrangements. She is being assisted by Winifred

Morpheus vs. Minerva

Since the announcement in convocation Tuesday that lights must be turned off at 12 o'clock there has been hardly any other topic of conversation among the members of the student body. That such a condition exists is only natural since this is something that is of vital importance to every student from freshman to senior hall member.

So much has been said on both sides of the question that it is not necessary to do more than sum up the pros and cons briefly.

It is doubtful if there is a student on campus who does not favor the theory back of the new light restrictions, that is, that girls our age need seven or eight hours sleep a night. Probably a majority of us realize, too, that the restrictions were imposed upon us for our own good. Those favoring the new regulation say that college is the place to learn good habits and that the college authorities are trying to help us accomplish this desirable aim. It is said that students waste their time during the day, and if they know lights will have to be out at 12 o'clock they will budget their time better, managing to get all of their work done and at the same time getting seven or eight hours sleep. Another need for turning lights off at 12 is that we suffer from eye strain from too much studying at night by artificial light. And of course the financial element is another justification for turning off lights, although it has not been emphasized in this present situation.

Those who disapprove of the new light restrictions are equally strong in their arguments. They say that being of college age and presumably behavable of managing ourselves, it should be up to each individual girl to decide when she shall go to bed. They raise the question "Are freshmen any healthier than other students because they have to turn off their lights early?" To the argument that it is the duty of the college to teach us good habits such as going to bed early, they reply that such teaching has not had very effective because as freshmen we too turned off our lights early. They argue that college should approximate a life situation as nearly as possible, and point out that when we get out into the world there will be no one to tell us to turn the lights off when 12 o'clock comes. And to the objection that staying up late to study by artificial light causes eye-strain, they tell about eye strain in the library."

But one main objection that the students seem to have in the way in which this resolution was imposed. A great many students feel that in anything so vital as this, and especially since it for their own good, that they should have been given more consideration than they were. True, they say, an experiment was conducted to determine if there were any correlation between the students who stay up late and those who go to the infirmary from exhaustion, but after this data was gathered were they given any voice in deciding whether restrictions of some sort were necessary?

The results of the recent light extension experiment show that none of the girls participating in the experiment were admitted to the infirmary during the two weeks the plan was in operation. About one third of the 584 students taking part in the experiment used light extensions after 12 o'clock. This, then, if the experiment meant anything, was hardly a true basis for legislation.

As for the college authorities having the right to pass these restrictions the student handbook on page 15 says the authorities of the college reserve for themselves the regulation of all matters pertaining to the public health and the safety of the students.

But the college constitution gives interesting additions to this statement. On page 23 of the constitution of Florida State College for Women, not the constitution of the College Government association, is a statement to the effect that no general legislation affecting teachers or students of more than one school shall be effective except that passed or approved by the faculty senate. However, it states, the senate may delegate its power of legislation upon a particular matter to any of the other faculty bodies, to a standing committee, or to a special committee appointed for that purpose. No such delegation of power was made. The faculty senate is, the constitution states, the legislative body of the college organization.

The new light restrictions came as a result of recommendations by the faculty committee on student health and was passed by the executive council, (the faculty executive committee) at a recent meeting.

As outlined on page 27 and 28 of the college constitution, the jurisdiction of the executive council is predominantly administrative, not legislative. The exceptions are the enactment of legislation which unusual conditions may make necessary between meetings of the general faculty and the faculty senate, such legislation to be effective only until it can be submitted to the faculty senate for final action. It also has power to annul any administrative action of the general faculty, faculty senate, or any school faculty not assigned to that faculty by the constitution.

This last power of annulling administrative action has been interpreted to give the executive council authorization to pass legislative measures, although the faculty senate, not the executive council, is primarily the legislative body. This is a matter of interpretation of the constitution, and from one point of view only the faculty senate and not the executive council of the college could pass such legislation as the light restriction measure.

If the students disapprove the measure as heartily as they evidently do, what recourse can they take? A motion was made and passed in the general student body meeting Tuesday that we have a discussion on the subject. The question is, if they want to take action, should insist that a meeting as time was requested be held. Although few students at present realize that they have any control over that sets forth the officers of the college and their duties, all students should familiarize themselves with it so that appropriate action may be obtained.

Your Government..... Collegiate Comebacks

By MAXINE ARMISTEAD

Last week it was stated that the column for today would deal with the residence hall committee and the various house councils. This plan has been changed. Since selections for senior hall are now being made it was considered an opportune time to give a description of it, its history, development, government, purpose, basis for selection, size, status and jurisdiction. The subject of the lower courts of our judicial system will be taken up at a later date.

* * * *

History and Development . . . .

Senior hall was begun in the spring of 1936 from a plan which had been evolving for five years. Because the idea was new, still in the experimental stage, and none of the details had been worked out the plans for the year 1938-1939 were only temporary. The committee for the selection of members was the election committee. As no other group was directly connected with the movement, it seemed logical that the girls assisting with student elections serve with the assistance of the social director of the hall in an advisory capacity. Senior hall was located on the second floor of Gilchrist, which automatically limited the number of girls to 50 due to the number of rooms.

Any experiment demands change. Last year the junior class voted that senior hall be located on the first and second floors of East Landis Hall, thereby accommodating 66 girls. The election committee, the previous year to select the members was occupied with elections, so a new committee made up of two girls on senior hall, two girls not on senior hall, the retiring president of the College Government association, the director of the residence hall who was the sponsor the first year, and a faculty advisor appointed by college council.

* * * *

Privileges and Government . . . .

Senior hall is under no regulations; however, they voted to accept the major policies of the college, such as no drinking and not receiving a car. Outside of this they have no regulations whatsoever. There is no set time for them to come in, they may be out of their rooms at any time, and they have no requirement of signing out cards. In the case of an all day or a week-end trip they usually leave a card in the office saying where they are going in case someone wishes to get in touch with them. A girl living in senior hall is not subject to the authority of judiciary. If a girls' conduct should warrant it she might be asked to withdraw, and she would then come under the jurisdiction of judiciary.

* * * *

Third Year . . . .

The members for the third year of senior hall are now being chosen. The committee is the same type as that last year except that the sponsor will be director of the 66 girls from senior hall on the committee are Bettie Young and Ruth Rogers, the girls not on senior hall, Marian Grinnell and Frances Mills. Kathleen Callaway serves on the committee as president of C. O. A., and Dr. Waskom is the advisor.

There are many differing opinions of senior hall and its purpose floating around campus, but the following statement is the report of a committee of the college council regarding senior hall, and therefore Miss Callaway serves on the committee as president of C. O. A., and Dr. Waskom is the advisor.

There are many differing opinions of senior hall and its purpose floating around campus, but the following statement is the report of a committee of the college council regarding senior hall, and therefore Miss Callaway serves on the committee as president of C. O. A., and Dr. Waskom is the advisor.

The following material is a direct quotation from the college council.

* * * *

Purpose . . . .

Senior Hall shall be an honor, a reward, and a privilege of, and opportunity for, further service for those juniors who have already demonstrated ability to live successfully in regulated conditions and have proved that they are capable of assuming the responsibilities that accompany the increased freedom of senior hall. The privilege of living, although exempted from prescribed rules of dormitory life on the basis of maturity of judgement, thoughtfulness, and

Continued on Page Six

Or Forever Hold Your Peace. . .

Let me be among the first to go on record as being in favor of the new resolution regarding the 12 o'clock rule for upper classmen. If anything were calculated to raise scholastic standards, campus, it undoubtably this. Being unprepared consistently is wonderful for the ulcers, but for one to learn to think quickly on her feet.

But the effect on the mind is underrated. It is the effect upon the physical organ that we must consider. This new resolution we must remember, insures our rest, you know, rest . . . sleep . . . "Beauty nature's best conserver," you know. But I should like a poll of student opinion as to whether this 7 hours of sleep will be sufficient. I think it would be just lovely if we should have another resolution suggesting that all upper-classmen have a nap just after lunch. We must protect the health of the students.

Since it seems that this is going to be here for a rest cure which this new resolution seems to make so obvious! I think we should go even further than a nap after lunch. We should have a nap after breakfast, too. Why? Why, because, someone should warn the dining room officials to stop serving coffee to upper classmen. It make keep us awake.

Yes, this is a proud and happy day for this college. This is the beginning of a great movement to protect the future mothers of America. May I have a fanfare of trumpets for a sound effect?

—Dorothy Gracie Miller.

Yes. I like the rule about lights out and not having to get up until seven. Why? Because in the first place it is only an experiment to see if our health can be improved upon, and what is for our health, I'm very much for.

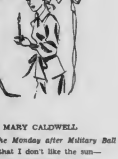
Next, I believe that if a girl has no more concern for her own self, then some one should do this for her. I have heard all kinds of comments about this rule and it is my conclusion that the girls don't mind the rule but how it was made—that is—not having any student opinion or suggestion. After the experiment is made, then I'll say a while I believe they will see that all is not the main reason for ill health but until they do—I'm satisfied!!".

KITTY FORD.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

JEANNETTE MOLLIS ..... Editor
MABEL BENNETT ..... Associate Editor
BETSEY LOUISE RICE ..... Managing Editor
VIVIAN AHLSWEDE ..... News Editor



Reporters: Hattie Bessen, Bertha Brod, Mary Catherine Bogan, Louise Burger, Mary Caldwell, Leota Carter, Marjorie Dair, Pauline Dair, Martha Dale Fields, Betty Gilbert, Thomas Greene, Helen Riley Jo Hickman, Emma Jean Hipps, Bettye Hyatt, Patsy Hyatt, Mary Ann Jones, Ruth Kelly, Frances Lewis, Ruth Lewis, Frances Owen, Velma Pate, Grace Rushing, Sylvia Sanders, Betty Ann Taylor, Jonnie Thomasson, Isabella Waterhouse, Belle Yonge, Vivian Walker

BUSINESS STAFF

GRACE SPARKMAN ..... Business Manager
GILLIAN MCWHITE ..... Assist. ant Business Manager
VELMA PATE ..... Circulation
MARY OLIVE CHISHOLM ..... Advertising

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the post office of Tallahassee Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879

Members National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association.

By MARY CALDWELL

Lament on the Monday after Military Ball

It's not that I don't like the sun—
Oh hapless day, oh wretched day,
Oh! I hoped you'd pass me by!
But I just told the moon good-bye.

* * * *

Now that the said M. B. is over, it's at last definite that spring is verily upon us. In fact it seems that spring is here to stay. The forerunner of summer, spring has sprung. Ah spring, wonderful spring—spring time, spring daze, spring lightly, let's spring, aspirin, and whazzat. And if any of the doubting Hangars-on-for-four-years have their quizzical eyebrows raised and are thinking thoughts of Wait-a-While-for-Mothballing, well—we even have the words of a cute little integrated freshman to back us up. Quoth she: "Spring is here. Spring is come. Look at all the pretty little green terminal buds." Which settles all.

If there's anything the that spring really means, it's stuff like windy walks, and Easter suits and silks, and fluffy hats. Yes indeed. Pretty poises, flying kites, likewise dresses, jacks, and yo-yos, rain—I mean reign.

Spring brings daydreams, inspires verse . . . calls for term papers, and thralls of "It won't be long until those two-hour You Know Whats" . . . hence this bit of uncalled-for poetical comment—

Ode to Exams

I wish they'd hurry,
I want them to come—
I crave tricky question»,
I think they're fun.
Ever since
And I don't flunk one.
I'm the teacher.

* * * *

And another thought of spring is—ah! romance. Of course we at P. S. C. W. are particularly fortunate. Along about this time every year, we have the University of Florida band to become acquainted on campus. But their uniforms are actually detectable. It's the sound of gruff voices we're not used to. But anyway they're good musicians too. The only trouble is that by the time they finish playing and we get dates with them (scramble, scramble . . . oh, he's too short . . . oh, isn't he handsome . . . oh, please let's trade) well, by the time we get dates, they're so "puffed out" that we have to spend the rest of the evening "puffing them up" . . . conversationally of course. The freshmen generally take care of that.

* * * *

INSERT—A Borrowed Bit of Advice
With chloroform
I hope to stifle
The sap who yells
"Ain't she an eyeful!"

* * * *

What we are wondering is: Couldn't the said U. of F. band use a good quartet? Those of you who were either altruistic or broke last Tuesday at 1:30 will remember such a group being Around the Flame Room call them. Good harmony. Captivating. They sang a little ditty about "Won't you give a nickel or a dime, kid"—and personally we unclutched our tight wad and sent a coin scurrying in the S T A L E direction (Student Alumnae Edifice). And our point is that if they can do that with us we wonder what THEM plus the U. of F MIMS could do for coeducation on the State Senate floor. If you see what we mean. . . It's just a thought of course.

* * * *

And yesterday we read that twice a year at a Los Angeles college the students devote a Special "Howdy" Day to making friends and forming community and learning names and meeting classmates. They just run around all day being friendly. . . But of course we only have one election a year here.

* * * *

Incidentally, we sprnt one of Those Days last Wednesday. Errands to Run, Things to Do, People to See. So—

Hippity hop to Sweet Shop
Hippity hop to the show,
Hippity hop to the dorm again,
Cee I wish I could stay.

* * * *

Some little bit of political potentiality sure is missing a good deal on campus this year while saving their feet. Good, "convincing" ground that between the Gates and Almost - Anywhere - Uptown - You - Happen - To - Be - Stopping-Thank-You-Ma'am. Hire a car, my candidate, and carry your majority.

* * * *

We really hate to mention the matter but we just uncovered some new information on CONFUCIUS (carefully disguised to prevent sudden shock for those who feel as we do about the whole business). Anyway, it seems that the honorable gentleman actually lived sometime in the 400's B. C. and it was in the year 478 B. C that the beforementioned "C." being very loyal, said: "No intelligent ruler allows to take me as his master. My time has come to die." But of course the poor fellow couldn't die as long as he had to go on originating new sayings—as Tsee Wenj On. And as is evident, we've kept him alive on this campus even until today.

So it seems to us that after, to these 24 centuries, the time has come for us women to let the poor man have his way. And we propose the following tombstone engraving:

Con/sushi
He said:

It's easy to see through girls who make spectacle of themselves.

Man's head is like doorknob . . . most any girl can turn it. You can tell she's a democrat by the way she spends that man's money.

Enough said.

Another's Viewpoint

Dear Editorialist, Inquiring Reporter, and Organization Members:

As chairman of the committee on campus organizations, I rear my ugly head to interpret the recent move of the committee in setting up a schedule for regular meetings of organizations. No doubt the persons who expressed opposition in the last Flambeau meant well, but they were not well informed. It is my purpose in writing this to effect a reconsideration of their hasty judgments and to clarify the question in the minds of those interested, by validifying legislation.

First, I wish to establish the authority of this committee, a point about which many of you are admittedly uncertain. For those of you who haven't indulged in reading the handbook, I quote section 3 (b) under Article II of the By-Laws—"The purpose of this committee shall be to investigate the problems and effectiveness of extra-curricular organizations on campus, to act as a coordinator of the organizations, and to administer the distribution of activities among the students. The organizations concerned are the C. O. A., W. A. A., Y. W. C. A., Panhellenic, the four classes, the Day Students' organization, the publications, the debating council, the class honoraries, Vilaire Vamos and Cotillion, the Student Peace Organization (which is now extinct), and any other organization created, other than academic honoraries or any organization desiring aid." I do not think that I am mistaken in saying that there has been no departure from our stated purpose and that we were entirely sincere and are thinking thoughts of Wait-a-While-for-Mothballing, well—we even have the words of a cute little integrated freshman to back us up. Quoth she: "Spring is here. Spring is come. Look at all the pretty little green terminal buds." Which settles all.

If there's anything the that spring really means, it's stuff like windy walks, and Easter suits and silks, and fluffy hats. Yes indeed. Pretty poises, flying kites, likewise dresses, jacks, and yo-yos, rain—I mean reign.

Spring brings daydreams, inspires verse . . . calls for term papers, and thralls of "It won't be long until those two-hour You Know Whats" . . . hence this bit of uncalled-for poetical comment—

Ode to Exams

I wish they'd hurry,
I want them to come—
I crave tricky question».
I think they're fun.
Ever since
And I don't flunk one.
I'm the teacher.

* * * *

And another thought of spring is—ah! romance. Of course we at P. S. C. W. are particularly fortunate. Along about this time every year, we have the University of Florida band to become acquainted on campus. But their uniforms are actually detectable. It's the sound of gruff voices we're not used to. But anyway they're good musicians too. The only trouble is that by the time they finish playing and we get dates with them (scramble, scramble . . . oh, he's too short . . . oh, isn't he handsome . . . oh, please let's trade) well, by the time we get dates, they're so "puffed out" that we have to spend the rest of the evening "puffing them up" . . . conversationally of course. The freshmen generally take care of that.

* * * *

INSERT—A Borrowed Bit of Advice
With chloroform
I hope to stifle
The sap who yells
"Ain't she an eyeful!"

* * * *

What we are wondering is: Couldn't the said U. of F. band use a good quartet? Those of you who were either altruistic or broke last Tuesday at 1:30 will remember such a group being Around the Flame Room call them. Good harmony. Captivating. They sang a little ditty about "Won't you give a nickel or a dime, kid"—and personally we unclutched our tight wad and sent a coin scurrying in the S T A L E direction (Student Alumnae Edifice). And our point is that if they can do that with us we wonder what THEM plus the U. of F MIMS could do for coeducation on the State Senate floor. If you see what we mean. . . It's just a thought of course.

* * * *

And yesterday we read that twice a year at a Los Angeles college the students devote a Special "Howdy" Day to making friends and forming community and learning names and meeting classmates. They just run around all day being friendly. . . But of course we only have one election a year here.

* * * *

Incidentally, we sprnt one of Those Days last Wednesday. Errands to Run, Things to Do, People to See. So—

Hippity hop to Sweet Shop
Hippity hop to the show,
Hippity hop to the dorm again,
Cee I wish I could stay.

* * * *

Some little bit of political potentiality sure is missing a good deal on campus this year while saving their feet. Good, "convincing" ground that between the Gates and Almost - Anywhere - Uptown - You - Happen - To - Be - Stopping-Thank-You-Ma'am. Hire a car, my candidate, and carry your majority.

* * * *

We really hate to mention the matter but we just uncovered some new information on CONFUCIUS (carefully disguised to prevent sudden shock for those who feel as we do about the whole business). Anyway, it seems that the honorable gentleman actually lived sometime in the 400's B. C. and it was in the year 478 B. C that the beforementioned "C." being very loyal, said: "No intelligent ruler allows to take me as his master. My time has come to die." But of course the poor fellow couldn't die as long as he had to go on originating new sayings—as Tsee Wenj On. And as is evident, we've kept him alive on this campus even until today.

So it seems to us that after, to these 24 centuries, the time has come for us women to let the poor man have his way. And we propose the following tombstone engraving:

Con/sushi
He said:

It's easy to see through girls who make spectacle of themselves.

Man's head is like doorknob . . . most any girl can turn it. You can tell she's a democrat by the way she spends that man's money.

Enough said.

—Caroline Edwards, Chairman,

Committee on Organizations.

Of The World

By MARGARET FAINTER

Finland . . . .

Poor little Finland—still in the headlines as writers the world over tell of her slow death at the hands of Russia. It is nothing short of miraculous that this article is not headed "Russia," rather than "Finland."

The Red army, with its hundreds of tanks and planes have launched a series of attacks against Finland, but Finnish fight of defense have thus far remained unbroken, according to reports Wednesday. As the battle appears to be increasing in intensity, Finns report terrific Russian losses both in men and equipment, but how great are Finland's losses is not known, but they are very likely considerable.

The Finns, still in possession of Viipuri, have given no indication of when the end might be given to. They admit that loss of the city is inevitable but say that their resistance will go on even though Viipuri falls.

Despite expressions of sympathy and good will to Finland by the American people, U. S. aid so thus far been less than Sweden's. It is reported, however, that the $30,000,000 credit from the Export-Import Bank, a ground $10,000,000 Sweden has given and $10,000,000—$25,000,000 in cash and $10,000,000 in materials.

Third Term . . . .

"Third term talk"—there's no getting away from it. Elections have rapidly neared. And F. D. R. continue to leave the American people in the dark as to his plans—and therefore the plans of the Democratic party. Many theorize as to what he will do have been advanced, but the two vital questions still remain unanswered. "Will he run for a third term?" and if not, "Who will he choose to fill his shoes?"

Perhaps he is now awaiting foreign developments, including the Summer World Fair visit to the scene of turmoil.

Should F. D. R. show even the slightest inclination to run again, he will be drafted without further ado. It is believed nearly all democrats only mildly to running for a third term—will also be drafted. As long as he continues to "say nothing" the administration's supporters will continue to talk him up.

Many who have given careful thought to the present European conflict, including Mr. Roosevelt himself, are convinced that a dictate or even not-too-far-distant power already have told the President, and he himself seems to believe that in this event, his continued management of American policy is necessary to our national welfare and to the making of a lasting peace. If he does run, the names of other strong presidents, Jefferson, Jackson and Theodore Roosevelt, will attempt to name his party successors. In this event, the names of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson and Justice William O. Douglas are on the "prospective success" list.

Regardless of what the American public thinks of Mr. Roosevelt and his new Deal policies, he can find serious fault with his foreign policy and his efforts to assure a national security through rearmament. Even F. D. R.'s most ardent backers, however, are tiring of this suspense and hoping each day that the first term question mark will be erased.

* * *

War Is General . . . .

Six months ago, on September 1, World War II began, and still there is little hope of a peace. When Neville Chamberlain announced that Britain was officially at war with Germany, the world took it as a formal announcement of approaching doomsday. Tens of thousands of people were expected to be killed in short order and the United States was convinced she would be drawn in within six months or a year, though the war that is this far meant suffering and loss of life for many and hardship only with shipping in European waters. It has been far less horrible than was expected. Still there is a "death ray" and other dreadful weapons not human but unnaturally, the world shook in her shoes when war was declared.

Although the war has not performed into the bloody orgy of death that it can, it is presumed that attacks will become much more severe within the next several weeks. Though the world still is ominously hope for a peace. Also speak President Roosevelt has contributed to the cause for peace by dispatching his emissary, Sumner Wells to the warring capitals. Wells' visit may have no results whatever, yet it may pave the way for a peace conference. America wells and owes that he can make himself heard above the roar of motors and the firing of guns.

Fantasy Invades Distaff's Pages

Magazine to Come Out After Easter Holiday

"The college girl plays with realism and fantasy" will be the theme of the next Distaff Flambeau Gregory announced Student Magazine announced Tuesday. Articles dealing with subjects extremely realistic and lifelike will be presented in the magazine in contrast with other articles dealing with the fantastic. The usual sections will be included as well as poems, stories, and features. The titles and authors of articles will be announced for next week's Flambeau.

The publication of this issue will be foam (light tan) color and green and the design will be announced later. Students will find the Distaff in their boxes on returning from Easter vacation.

Two girls have been added to the staff of this publication. On the editorial staff, Doris Carter has taken over her duties and Nellie Loyless is a new member of the business staff.

Leadership to Be Theme of Banquet

Dr. William O. Dodd, dean of the School of Business Administration will speak on leadership at the annual Phi Beta Kappa leadership banquet to be held tonight in Smith dining hall at 6:30. Florence Gregory announced the toastmistress.

Special invitations have been sent to present officers, and candidates for offices on campus and the Morse Board members, Dorothy Breen, associate professor of English and Miss Ruth Kasel Stevenson, associate professor in history will be guests. Anyone who is interested in leadership and who desires to engage in campus activities is cordially invited.

Bettie Young, Dorothea Kloepfer, Marjorie Jessup, and Lynette Hamilton are in charge of the banquet room arrangements and decorations committee. Elizabeth Anne Webb and Betty Jane Hall are program committee. Marjorie Morse, Margaret Robinson, the invitation committee, and Jeannette Mills, the publicity chairman.

Executive Council Must Pass Move

The motion made in convocation last Tuesday that there be a meeting to discuss the new honor system and honor committee referred by the president of the student body to Dr. Connell, president of the executive council, was passed by the council Wednesday. According to Dr. Connell, before any action may be taken on the motion, it must be heard by the executive council of the college administration.

Members of this council are Dr. Connell, Dr. Dodd, Dr. Stevenson, Dean Bodenhafer, Dean Opperman, Dean Dorman, Prof. Smith, Mr. Kellum, Dr. Andrews and Mr. Doyle. This administrative committee council meets by call from the president's office. No definite date for meeting has been set yet. After the motion has passed this meeting, Dr. Connell will refer it back to Katherine Graham and she will present it to the students.

Hearing Requested On Lights-Out Law

Seventy-three members of the student body have signed a petition for an N.S.F.A. meeting at which the student body of Florida State college may voice their opinion concerning the action the college executive committee took in passing the recent light restriction law without the consent of the faculty senate.

As a motion was passed in convocation requesting a student body meeting with members of executive council this petition was removed from circulation for a while. However, upon learning that the motion for a meeting would be delayed indefinitely, the framers of the petition took up the matter again.

The petition is as follows:

Whereas the recently imposed light restrictions were not submitted to the student body for discussion or vote and whereas we believe that the students as mature citizens of a democracy have the right to express openly any topic pertaining to their welfare and to govern themselves in a democratic manner, and whereas we believe the N. S. F. A. as an organization designated to provide for the expression of student thought to be the proper channel through which to carry on such a discussion, we the undersigned do hereby petition the chairman of N.S.F.A. as the official chosen by the students to lead democratic discussion to arrange a called meeting of N.S.F.A. for the evening of March 5 or 6 to discuss said restrictions, or, if such a called meeting be impossible, to defer the topic scheduled for the next meeting in favor of this more timely one.

Dot Nickerson, chairman of N.S.F.A., has announced that such a meeting can be held next week. The designated time will be posted on the bulletin board in the lower floor of the Westcott building.

No action has as yet been taken concerning the motion carried in convocation Monday.

Executive Council Passes Exam Ruling

TO THE FACULTY

The following plan was adopted by the college executive council February 27, 1940:

No test or examination will be given in the college infirmary.

When a student has been ill in the infirmary at the time of a semester examination during the term, on presentation of her infirmary nurse card a recommendation from the teacher, apply to her academic dean for the privilege of taking a delayed examination. No such examination may be given by a teacher without this permit.

Unless the semester examination is taken within 10 days, a fee of $1.00 for each examination will be charged. In case of long or serious illness, the dean may waive this fee.

In cases of cutting or leaving a semester examination without completing it, the student will lose credit in the course unless the academic dean gives a special permit for his examination. A fee of $1.00 will be charged for each examination.

For tests other than semester examinations, arrangements, if any, shall be made between the student and teacher concerned.

S. R. DOYLE,
Secretary

Junior Minstrel's Theme is Oriental

"The Sultan of Gagnad," this year's oriental version of Junior Minstrels, will be presented Friday night with a cast of heretofore undiscovered talent. The show will have its premiere since February under the leadership of Betty Miller.

"The Sultan of Gagnad," unlast year's theme, "Dixie Days," was an old-fashioned black-faced minstrel, will not be a minstrel but will carry an oriental flavor. The oriental theme for the Junior Minstrels this year was first decided out in costume and setting.

"The court and harem of Gagnad" remains as previously announced except that Betsy McClelland has been added from a minor speaking part to a leading role, and Mary Margaret Cann has been given a speaking part.

According to the chairman, the show will present something of an individual acts, in addition to the regular minstrel show.

Extensive advertising for the minstrels will commence "Tallahassee" in Tallahassee and Gainesville. The committee for costuming is headed by Mary Margaret Cann; advertising, Pauline Summerlin, Kathleen Lytal, and music, Dot Guthrie.

Richey Helps Plan Business Workshop

Miss Luella Richey of the commerce department spent last Saturday in Gainesville, where with faculty members of the University of Florida and members of the state department of public instruction, helped plan a business workshop.

This workshop, sponsored by the state department of public instruction, will be held this summer at the University of Florida. All high school business teachers will be invited to participate, and the work will carry six hours of undergraduate or graduate credit in business education. Much research will be done concerning the needs of all high school students for social and exploratory business subjects, and the needs for business training in the special offerings.

It is expected that this study will result in a bulletin of guidance for large, medium, and small high schools, in revraming their business courses in line with the rapid changes in business.

Three Articles Submitted In Writing Competition

Feature articles written by journalism students here have been submitted to several national news and feature-writing contest sponsored by Alpha Chi Alpha, national journalism honorary.

The stories submitted were "I

Recitals Broadcast

In addition to the customary excitement surrounding the giving of a member certificate verbal, Louise Terrell, left, and Betty Mullins, right, had the additional thrill of knowing that the broadcasting of their voices over WTAL facilities inaugurated radio broadcasting as a regular feature at Florida State College.

FSCW Makes Debut On Radio Station

Following the installation of greater broadcasting facilities by radio station WTAL of Tallahassee, Florida State College for Women made its debut on the air with the joint certificate voice recitals of Louise Thrasher, soprano, and Eleanor Lewis, mezzo-soprano, the recital, which was held in the college auditorium Wednesday evening, was the first ever to be broadcast from this campus.

The permanent facilities which have recently been installed were first used for the broadcasting of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's lecture on Thursday.

The next program scheduled to be broadcast is the Easter cantata, which will be given by the Seminole school music majors and convocation period next week.

Inquiring Reporter

Continued from Page Three

inflation and Roosevelt's policies has been gone for our own good. I don't think that we as students can do anything about it. I think that students should remember that they will get a chance in the survey to state why they had to stay up late next year students failed to take it seriously and authorities were led to believe very few people used light cuts so they didn't need them. While I don't like the restrictions, I think that I myself am capable of going to bed, but if the faculty reports have been carefully checked and the time that cuts of the students aren't capable of this. I'll abide by the rule. It looks like its up to the students to prove themselves worthy of the privilege again. It would have been better, I think, to have prepared the students for the cuts and let this go into effect later.

Rose Williamson: I feel that as long as we have student government we ought to be able to pass the rules to govern ourselves and whatever the majority wants should rule. If we can't be trusted enough to take care of ourselves by now, onless is no place for us. Carmen Zaffuto: I think the light restrictions are an insult to the intelligence of the student, especially graduating seniors.

Am One of the Underdogs" by Melvine Bass, "College Life's Place" by Johnie Tomasson, and an article on "Journalism" written by Louise Burger. The winning article will be printed in the next issue of the Al-Chi, publication of Alpha Chi Alpha the winner will receive a cash prize.

Last year the feature article contest was won by a Florida State college student. Georgia Harmon, who wrote on swing music.

EARN MONEY!

You can establish a profitable business selling the excellent SOLVENT shampoo that makes hair healthy, lustrous hair. Dissolves dandruff and constant use prevents its reappearance. Contains no alcohol, no free alkali, no sulfonated oils, no injurious ingredients. Easy to sell to everyone who wants hair health and beauty. Generous commission. Good income assured. Write to MARTIN'S SOLVENT PRODUCTS, Inc., 813A Lexington Avenue, New York.

Europe Federation Discussed By IRC

At the regular meeting of the International Relations club on Monday Nona Irwin spoke on what lies behind the proposals made for establishing a federation of Europe, which was taken from the article written by C. Darby Crandall in the February edition of Harper's, entitled "The Struggle for Peace." This speech was followed by a full table discussion, Johnnie Mae Whitfield also aided in preparation for the meeting.

During a business session Dr. Marion Irish, sponsor of the club, offered a new program unit to be adopted for the end of the semester. This study outline on the organization of peace will be followed by the club for the rest of the meetings held this year. This is to begin with the universal movement, which is being sponsored by the commission to study the organization of peace under the chairmanship of James T. Shotwell.

The first topic for study will be "The Interpretation of Peace in Modern World." Mabel Nihoul and Patsy Robert will be in charge of this program with the aid of the club.

Shores Attends DAR Conference

Student Loans to Be Subject of Report

Dr. Venilia Shores, associate professor of history, will attend a meeting of the Florida state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to be held at the Miami Biltmore at Coral Gables, Tuesday through Friday.

Dr. Shores is the Florida conference chairman of the committee on approved schools, and a member of the national committee on approved schools. At the meeting she will make a report on a study of student loans made by the committee. This study has been carried on for a year, and as a result changed rules for the administration of loans will probably be established. These loans are available to students in high schools and colleges of Florida. Two former Florida State college students have used these loans—Elizabeth Mathaney and Marjorie Tillis.

The organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution has four student loan funds: The Margaret Hall Fund, the Libbye McCain fund, the Princess Cantacuzene fund, and a general student loan fund. The first two of these funds have been loaned to students in the Florida State near Orlando, Florida the only Florida school on the approved list of the national society. This list includes 18 high school and colleges in the entire state of the country, and many in the mountain districts of the south. The way the D. A. R. is endeavoring to bring education to underprivileged students.

Dr. Shores will go to the conference from Miami where she and Caroline Brevard chapter in Tallahassee.

Food Conference To Hear McLester

Dr. James S. McLester, past president of the American Medical association and author of a book entitled "Diet in Health and Disease," will speak Wednesday night at the opening session of the Dietitians and Food Administrators conference to be held here on the campus March 27 through April 1, Miss Ruth Bell said. His talk will be "The Part Played by the Vitamins in Human Nutrition."

"Deficiency Disorders Commonly Found in the Southeast" is the subject of Dr. McLester's address to conference members Wednesday morning. Much of the discussion of what can be done to raise the level of human nutrition in the south.

The conference, composed of dietitians school luncheon managers, hotel and college dietitians and restaurants, is being held by the Florida state department of health, the state department of education and Florida State college under the auspices of the Florida Dietetic association.

Constitutional Exam Scheduled April 13

CONSTITUTIONAL EXAMINATION

Attention All Prospective Graduates and Juniors

A special examination on the Constitution of the United States will be given Saturday, April 13 at 1:en high school at 2:00 p. m. All prospective graduates who are not exempt are urged to take the test on this date. Juniors are also urged to take the examination at this time since here after an opportunity will be given only in July and September.

Sample questions will be posted on the personnel office bulletin board around the first of April and students who wish to take the test will sign up for it at that time so a sufficient number of such questions may be prepared

ELIZABETH G. ANDREWS,
Director of Personnel.

Two Speech Majors Will Give Recital

Presenting "Pull Circle" by Anne Morrow Lindbergh and "Victoria Regina" by Laurence Housman, Beth Blair and Betty Crouch will give their joint speech recital next Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Augusta Conover Stone theater.

"Pull Circle," to be given by Beth Blair, is a tight comedy, depicting the four stages in college life. The first stage is that of the prospective college entrant before leaving home, the second shows the changes of the student during her freshman year, the third, the intellectual aspect of her junior year, and the fourth stage the completion of the circle back to normal after graduation.

In "Victoria Regina," Betty Crouch will portray the series from the play entitled "Revelations." She has selected dramatic and tragic and contrasts scenes from the play to present in it.

Both Marie and Beth are junior speech majors, members of Zeta Phi Eta speech professional fraternity, and have previously been seen in "Our Town."

Father Carroll To Talk to YW

Another Bull Session Series is Scheduled

Y. W. C. A activities for the week include another of the series of bull sessions, a membership meeting, and the regular Sunday afternoon vespers.

Father William J. Carroll will speak on the life of St. Augustine in the Y.W.C.A. vespers in the lower room of the Westcott building on Sunday, March 10, at 5 o'clock.

Father Carroll's talk will be the fifth in a series of monthly vespers talks on the lives of great religious leaders. The series was begun by Rabbi Eichorn's talk on Abraham; other lectures have been the life of Moses by Miss Sarah Herndon, instructor in English; the life of Jesus, given by Reverend Jack Anderson, and the life of Paul, given by Reverend E. N. Caldwell.

The second of a series of bull sessions to be held during the week conference was held Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Robert Miller. The subject of the discussion was "In the hope for a Christian social order; is tolerance of other races enough?"

The question of the Christian attitude toward various minority groups was the phase of the subject which was discussed.

The last bull session will be held on Tuesday, March 12 in the Augusta Conover Stone theater. The subject will be "Loyalty to friends may place us in a conflict" question. How can we serve our friend in such a situation?

There will be a membership meeting at 5 o'clock in the Y.W.C.A. room, called and for the purpose of nominating the new officers of the organization.

The clothes shop sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. during February for the sale of second-hand clothes, was quite successful, Virginia Bellamy president of Y. W. C. A has announced.

The clothes collected and stored in a drive last year in school discarded clothes were placed in the shop in the domestic stories. Society and off-campus girls. There was another drive this year during the first semester. The clothes were renovated and were put on sale for anyone who wanted to buy attractive clothes, hats and shoes at very reasonable rates.

It was originally planned that the clothes not sold be sent to tornado refugees in Albany, Georgia, but it was learned that they did not need extra clothing. Therefore, the clothes have been turned over to the Tallahassee Welfare Agency for distribution.

He'll fall hook, line and sinker for your new dual role. Be a beguiling infant in ribbons run through lace . . . because "Baby Talk" always gets your man. Then bewilder him with your knowing air in "City Slicker". Both, frankly, flattering smashes!

BABY TALK—sweet thing with rows of ribbon run through Norwegian lace. Puff-ball pockets and sleeves. $12.50

CITY SLICKER — all shined up with brilliant stripes on woven pique, plus plenty of blarney in the Irish crochet.

the VOGUE tallahassee, feminine wearables

AIR-CONDITIONED
MARTIN & DALTON
DEPARTMENT DRUG STORE
216-218-20 ADAMS ST. PHONE 133

FOUNTAIN SPECIAL
Fri. Sat. and Sun. Only!
THIS AD
and...
9c
Will entitle you to one delicious
Peach Melba Sundae
"The finest in town!"

Saint Patrick's Day Will Be Theme For Dance Tomorrow

Carrying out a St. Patrick's day theme, the third monthly dance will be given from 8 to 12 o'clock tomorrow night in the gymnasium.

The Varsity Eight, a University of Florida band, has been secured for the event. Hostesses will be the Village Vamps and the Cotillion club with the help of the Cavaliers, a dance society at the University of Florida The Village Vamps and members of the Cotillion club will wear ribbons on their wrists to be easily identified

The gymnasium will be decorated in St. Patrick's day colors of green and white. Three hundred and fifty tickets have been sold for the dance given for the University of Florida boys In charge of the dance is Jan Simmons. Others on the dance committee are: Jane Price, chairman, Maxine Armistead, Hazel Hinsey, Jan Wells, Mary Lou Atkinson, Mary Carlton and Barbara Thomas.

Members of the Cotillion club and Village Vampa who have been invited to act as hostesses are: Vivian Adams, Mary Lou Atkinson, Grace Ball, Fairfax Bates, Jane Bishop, Sue Bryant, Mary Caldwell, Mary Connell, Amelia Gordy, Mae Hampton, Jean Kobey, Barbara Mabrey, Joan Miller, Dorothy Mitchell, Elizabeth Moore, Elizabeth Phillips, Margo Roberts, Ina Margaret Robinson, Dot Rudasli, Jan Simmons, Frances Slade, Mary Catherine Smith, Martha Stroberg, Belva Sutton, and Lucille Walker.

Beth Rickards, Ann Towson, Betty Langston, Pat Brandt, Mary Jane Lambeth, Margaret Ann McGarry, Olive Dell, Louise Burger, Barbara Binnicker, Ann Angel, Ruth Pierce, Dorothy McGowan, Betty Brown, Frances Fryer Jean Hitchcolk, Polly Ann Williams, Betty Hyatt, Lib Miller Margaret Hearin, Jean Colley, Virginia Monroe, Dottie Mae Anderson, Jean Chazel, Lois Cooper, Margaret Faircloth, Dorothy Garrison, Kate Hedrick, Gladys McCain, Betsy McMichael, Betty McDerman, Virginia Walker, Nancy White.

Gene Parkhill, Emmett Curtis, Susan Mitchell, Beverly Sherard, Dot Daniel, Mary Bolling Duncan, Mart Pierson, Roberta Rhyne, Barbara Brown, Betty King, Mary Elizabeth Leech, Ann Gamble, Peggy Caldwell, Ann Wilson, Dorothy Stallings, Mary Lucille Palmer, Beth Mitchell, Mary Smith, Frances Phillips, and Elaine Beisler.

Conductor Terms FSC Audience 'Considerate And Appreciative'

Continued from Page One

this year. He plans to begin work on a third opera during the coming summer.

Conductor Works Late

"I like to work very late," he told his listeners, "and I drink cups and cups of coffee in order to do so. I like the early morning hours, especially in summer when there is not so much to disturb me." The dignified conductor, who has followed such equally famous predecessors as Frank van der Stucken, Leopold Stokowski, Dr Ernst Kunwald, Eugene Ysaye, and Fritz Reiner, on the little railed stand, spoke precise British—"exactly like Charles Laughton!" as several delighted glee club warblers put it. He appeared surprised when a piano student informed him that she had studied two of the compositions from his "Kaleidoscope" suite. "It's very unusual to find anyone over here who has heard of them," he explained. "The prices are generally extremely high since the music is printed in Europe"

The audience at his two performances here, Mr Goossens approved, seemed "to appreciate the music" and to be "very considerate." "You don't have orchestras come here very often, do you?" he questioned. "Well, you ought to have at least six a year!" As he talked a lady of the college staff came in bearing a glass of oranaeade in the familiar Sweet Shop cup. "Ah," said Mr. Goossens with a smile, "is that my orangeade?" He turned to his circle of listeners. "You see, I don't like tea or coffee after a performance—I always have orangeade."

The famous conductor is the son of a conductor and the grandson of another but has no sons of his own.

In the organization under Mr. Goossens' baton are a number of interesting situations. On the business ends of the bassoons, which a campus belle described as "those long things that look like telescopes," are two men who are father and son. The first and second harpists who chatted comfortably during Schuman's "Carnaval" are husband and wife respectively, the former having taught the latter to play the big gold instrument. In the viola section are the ingredients for a minor crisis—a Russian and a Finn bowing away side by side. The percussionists also play the violas, leaving friends mystified as to just where to classify them.

Orchestra Has Joker

Mentioned in last week's Flambeau was the "practical joker" without whom no organization would be possible or complete. He arrived with the rest, the unpredictable Bohemian violinist, to instill humor into the situation. "No one really minds his pranks," said one of the men "They know he just does them for fun." During the Saturday night performance the funster made a remark to a member of the audience from his place on the stage "What did you say?" asked a companion.

"Oh", replied the violinist, "that girl was chewing gum and I just asked her to please chew in time with the music"

Others of his pranks have been somewhat more obvious According to other members of the orchestra he once fastened two violin bows together so that when a fellow-musician picked up one, the other was flipped far out into the audience. During an opera in which occurred a "dance of the seven veils" he refused to play at all and watched said dance through his opera glasses from a vantage point in the orchestra pit

From here the orchestra, which played recently in Montgomery and Mobile Ala., went to Jacksonville completing the Florida [illegible] on its 11-day tour Four more performances will take it back to Cincinnati The two-day stay in Tallahassee marked the longest stop-over in its itinerary since it has been spending only one day at each town where it has performed.

Phi Alpha Theta to Fete 150 Superior Students In Freshman History

Phi Alpha Theta, national history honorary, will entertain 150 students who made A or B in freshman history courses last semester with a tea Tuesday afternoon from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock in Broward lounge.

The tea is an annual affair given by the local chapter in honor of their founders.

In the receiving line will be Katherine Eckles, retiring president; Patty Holbert, incoming president; and Dr. Annie Popper, club sponsor. Mrs. Robert S Cotterell will preside at the tea table and members of the club will act as hostesses for the occasion.

Margaret Marie Bryant and Helen Sharp were on the invitations committee. Sarah Margaret Quincey, and Muriel Boyles have charge of the decoration, and Selma Hyman and Betty Nickinson are planning the refreshments.

Phi Mus Mark Founding At Ritualistic Service

Ritualistic service early Monday morning was held by the local chapter of Phi Mu, marking the observance of the eighty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the fraternity at Wesleyan college, Macon, Ga Honoring the founders, Mary Dupont Lines of Jacksonville, Mary Myrick Daniels of Americus Ga., and Martha Hardaway Redding of Macon, Ga., collegiate and more than 100 alumnae groups in various cities held formal Founders' day observance.

The ritual includes the presentation by each active and alumnae member of one penny for each year of Phi Mu's age, and the pennies, accumulated through some 75 years, have been placed in a fund used for financial aid to Phi Mu juniors and seniors who need assistance to complete their college course. This fund has been called the Alpha Memorial loan fund in honor of the founding chapter at Wesleyan.

On this campus after the early morning service at the chapter house, active members wore rose carnations under their pins throughout the day.

Zetas Plan Easter Party; Other Groups Entertain

Zeta Tau Alpha members are making plans to entertain for friends at a party with an Easter Bonnet theme from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. They are carrying on the round of informal sorority parties which has included a number of teas this week.

Kappa Alpha Thetas entertained for friends at their weekly tea Tuesday afternoon, and members and pledges of Delta Delta Delta were hostesses at an informal tea for their friends at their house Wednesday. Guests spent their time dancing in the play room Delta Zetas gave an after-dinner coffee Thursday night with Rosella Fuguitt in charge

Publicity Director Tells of Varied Journalistic Career

Continued from page one

signments to neighboring cities The paper covered the county, and stories are much better if they are covered personally by the reporter."

While working for the Journal, Miss Pitchford covered the police court at different times, writing up murder trials and coroner's inquests. That work and interviewing, she found very interesting. Primo Carnera, Gar Wood, Lady Campbell, and various concert artists are among the people that she interviewed.

Interviews Celebrities

Primo Carnera was passing through on the train, which had to stop at the station and again at the water tank just outside of town. Miss Pitchford told that she got on the train at the station, and interviewed him on the way to the tank She said that people treat newspaper reporters in very different ways. Some only answer questions asked them; others are always ready to talk. Some artists are glad to give reporters good seats to their concerts, while others think they are being very generous if they even give the newspaper representatives passes. Usually the high authorities are the easiest to approach The "small timers" are the haughty ones.

"The society department is about the hardest one of a paper. There is such a volume of material, and the stories are sometimes short. Also, mistakes are made more easily in that section. People become offended quicker"

"Compliments are rare things in a newspaper office. People usually have something to fuss about. 'They did not say this, or my name was spelled incorrectly last week.' If the paper is good, they never think to say anything about it. When someone accidentally happens to give a compliment, the office gets the big head. And another thing, do not go into newspaper work with the idea of getting rich. The work is interesting and helpful, but you have to enter it for those reasons, not for money."

Begins Work Here

"Socky" Pitchford came to work in the Florida State college publicity department in 1935. For many years the publicity work was connected with the alumnae office, but a few years ago they were separated into two distinct departments.

Today Miss Pitchford sends news to approximately 150 weekly papers, 35 dailies and to the local office of the Associated Press

Many people have the idea that a publicity department serves as a means of attracting new students to the college That is not its main purpose, Miss Pitchford states. The publicity office serves as a clearing house for information about the college. It keeps people informed. Though most of the news is circulated through Florida papers, the Associated Press and sometimes professional magazines carry stories. Not so much radio work is being done yet.

Pictures are being used more and more in publicity work. "Pictures and news must supplement each other. I do not want journalism to become tabloid, but I do believe that pictures have their place. They offer variety and help give a truer picture of the campus However, the pictures have to be taken with much care in order that they may not be used in ways that give wrong impressions of the college They can convey a different meaning from the one intended by having a catchy cut line."

Miss Pitchford recounted an interesting experience with a picture taken last year of the three Elizabeth Millers who lived in the same dormitory, but who were not related. Their mail and phone calls were always getting crossed. A picture was taken of them receiving a phone call at the same time. A Tampa paper ran the picture, then gave it to a telephone company that used it. That company in turn sent it to an Ohio telephone company which circulated the picture over Ohio and even made a good cartoon from it. There is a copy of it in the publicity office. That example shows how pictures help. The story itself was run in most of the 48 states.

The camera used in the publicity office is a 4 by 5 speed graphic camera, the type used by many newspaper photographers. With photoflash bulbs, pictures can be taken inside. Also action pictures can be taken with it. Until recently the finishing was done in town, but now the publicity director has a temporary dark room on campus and does her own developing and printing. In that way she is able to take more pictures because it is less expensive.

"The approach in publicity work is very important," Miss Pitchford said in closing the interview. "There are great possibilities in it and newspaper experience helps very much."

SEVEN NATIONAL SORORITIES TO INITIATE SEVENTY-EIGHT STUDENTS THIS WEEKEND

This weekend will be a busy one for seven national sororities, Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Chi Omega, Delta Zeta, Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Kappa Delta, all of which will hold initiations this week.

Fourteen pledges will be initiated into Pi Beta Phi tomorrow evening. The new members will be Eleanor Yothers, Mary Smith, Louise de Jarnette, Marguerite Hamilton, Paula Jones, Martha Ann Mattox, Alice Price, Pat Hansen, Mildred Woodward, Evelyn Walton, Polly Venning, Beth Mitchell, Peggy Caldwell, Dot Sellars, Jane Roth. An initiation breakfast will be given Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the Floridan hotel.

Tomorrow the Kappa Deltas will initiate 12 girls. They are: Wade Bennett, Martha Bostwick, Barbara Brown, Jeanne Du Puy, Jimmy Fain, Sara Farrior, Betty King, Jane May, Marjorie Silks, Tillie Van Brunt, Nancy White, and Martha Davis.

Seventeen pledges will be initiated into Kappa Alpha Theta Saturday. The new initiates will be Barbara Ash, Dorothy Babers, Peggy Barker, Jean Cheaney, Jane Colley, Elizabeth Barughn, Frances Compton, Caroline Francisco, Maxine Harrison, Paula Muller, Margaret Mercer, Mary May Paschall, Celia Pierce, Katherine Saunders, Elizabeth Weaver, Jean Hoffman, and Myrtle Jackson. Following the initiation a banquet will be given in honor of the new members. Katherine Powell is in charge of the arrangements. Toastmistress will be Ruth Terrell.

This weekend Chi Omega will initiate 13 pledges. The new members will be: Annie Lee Cannon, Kate Hedrick, Elaine Beisler, Dorothy Stallings, Nona McEuen, Edna Earl Wilson, Mary Anna McBride, Mary Huddleston, Gloria Johnston, Ann Wilson, Mary Regar, Mildred Anderson, and Nan Ingram. The initiation breakfast will be given Sunday morning at the Cherokee hotel. At this time the cup for the best all around pledge will be presented.

The Delta Zetas will have initiation on Saturday at which time Margerite Dressler and Kathryn Watkins will be initiated. After initiation Mrs. Henry Owens of Thomasville will entertain the chapter at a party.

The Alpha Chi Omegas are having initiation tonight. The following will be initiated: Mary Ellen McCall, Gladya Petrie, Winifred Price, Mary Alice Kirchner, Madee Tabeling, Virginia Johnson, Jane Boyd, Mary Lila Bibbs, Muriel Humphrey. On Saturday night the sorority will have a banquet honoring the new initiates at Wakulla Springs at seven o'clock.

Initiation for the Alpha Gama Delta pledges will be held Saturday after which a banquet will be held at the Floridan hotel. Those who will be initiated are as follows: Natalie Houchard, Virginia Walker, Virginia Monroe, Alma Godwin, Sue Chaires, Bertha McLaughlin, Harriet Adams, Mary Bryce Deaver, Mary Annie Hampton, Ann Sollar, Marjorie Richardson, and Elsie Mae Willits.

Religious Calendar

CHRISTIAN

Sunday

5:00—Buffet supper at the home of Mrs. Homer Graham, Meridian circle.

7:45—Christian Endeavor. Leader: Austin Puckett. Subject: "Hearing the 'Still Small Voice'."

PRESBYTERIAN

Friday

8:00—Taffy-pulling party. Church annex.

Sunday

9:45—Worship service. Leader: Madge Suhr.

4:30—Play practice.

4:45—Play practice for Easter program.

6:00—League. Speaker: The Rev. H. F. Beaty. Subject. "The Meaning of the Cross."

Wednesday

7:15—Play practice at Miss Wilson's apartment.

BAPTIST

Friday

4:30—Y.W.A. weekend at the college camp. Speaker for three study classes: Miss Inabelle Coleman, editorial secretary of the Baptist foreign mission board, from Richmond, Va. Chairman of social activities: Rudine Light.

Sunday

6:00—Training union program. Subject: "Worship—Essential to Spiritual Growth." Speakers: Naomi Howard, Frances Jordan, Gloria Morgan Betsy Bragg, and Ruth Sanderson.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday

7:00—Vespers. Subject: "Evangelism" Leader: Grace Wimberly.

METHODIST

Sunday

6:00—League meeting at Waukeenah.

8:30—Fellowship hour. Leader: Gwendolyn Philbeck.

Tuesday

7:30—Vespers. Speaker: Miss Frances Baker. Subject: her trip to New Orleans.

8:00—Business meeting of the three councils

Wednesday

8:45—Worship program for the three councils.

Thursday

5:00—Choir practice.

EPISCOPAL

Friday

8:00—Forum: "The Two Sacraments." Speaker: The Rev. C. C Tarplee, Christ church, Monticello

Sunday

9:00—Study class. Peggy Lowe, leader.

7:30—Student auxiliary. Subject: "The Church and the State." Speaker: Eleanor Miller

Tuesday

5:30—Confirmation and discussion group.

Thursday

10:00—Compline service.

Y. W. C. A.

Sunday

5:00—Vespers. Westcott tower room. Speaker: Father W J. Carroll. His subject will be the lift of St. Augustine

Tuesday

8:00—Bull session: "Loyalty to Friends May Place Us in an Unchristian Position. How Can We Serve Our Friends in Such a Situation?"

Thursday

5:00—Membership meeting Y W. C. A room for the purpose of nominating new officers of Y.W.C.A.

Your Government

Continued from Page Four

reliability, are not exempted from responsibility for group and general college welfare.

• • •

Basis for Selection . . . .

Not more than 50 juniors who have proved for three years their positive merits in college citizenship shall be invited to live in senior hall. To be eligible they must have demonstrated the following qualities: 1. Comprehension and acceptance of policies of the college set up to protect the health, safety, good name, and general welfare of the students. 2. Comprehension and acceptance of group responsibility, with alertness to see what is best for the general good and the courage to work for the benefit of the whole. 3. Discrimination between personal pleasures and privilege, and group welfare. 4. Ability to contribute to good citizenship by taking the lead in molding public opinion, fostering desirable movements, and wielding good influence through example and precept.

Size . . . .

The number invited to live in Senior Hall shall include only those who have shown the above qualities, however small the number may be. It shall be increased or decreased in accordance with the number of those known to meet the requirements for membership.

• • •

Status and Jurisdiction . . . .

The experiment of senior hall, the basis of selection for membership, general requirements, evaluation of results, and length of experiment is entirely within the jurisdiction of the college council. Neither the members of senior hall during any particular year nor of the general student body have any jurisdiction over these points although their opinions will be taken into account by college council.

Student Secretaries Will Meet With Dr. C. P. Shedd At Gainesville Conference

Miss Billie Ruth Currin, Miss Miriam Wilson, and Miss Julia Gehan, student secretaries of the Baptist, Presbyterian, and Episcopal organizations, respectively, will leave Monday to attend a conference at Gainesville

They will be among the denominational leaders in the state who will meet with Dr. Clarence P. Shedd, a professor in the school of religion at Yale university, New Haven, Conn. Their purpose will be to discuss student work and its development up to the present time as well as its anticipated progress for the future.

Panhellenic Will Have Dean Hudson's Orchestra

Dean Hudson and his famed Florida Clubmen have been secured to furnish the music for the Panhellenic hop from 8 to 12 o'clock next Saturday night in the gymnasium. Frances Colwell will be vocalist with the orchestra

The orchestra, which has been gaining prominence since it was organized on the campus of the University of Florida several years ago, can be heard over the radio at 9:30 every Tuesday night. Hudson has recently signed this new radio contract with a national manufacturing concern and is scheduled to play over Southern C.B.S. hook-up, including WBT and WAPI. well here.

Music Teachers Figure In Meet

Dean Opperman Keeps Executive Position

Representatives from Florida State college faculty were prominent in the activities of the convention of the Florida State Music Teachers' association held in Tampa, March 2-5.

Dean Ella Scoble Opperman, head of the School of Music was reelected first vice-president of the organization, and Miss Margaret Whitney Dow, assistant professor of organ and theory, conducted an organ forum and presented an organ recital. Miss Jeanne Compton, instructor in piano, gave an outline of the special short course on this campus at the request of association. The course was given for piano teachers in the state of Florida relative to the study of applied music for credit in high schools, as outlined in a bulletin on the subject put out by the superintendent of public instruction.

College Calendar

March 10—March 16

Sunday

5:00 p. m.—Y. W. C. A. vespers—tower room — speaker, Father Carroll—"Saint Augustine."

Monday

8:00 p. m.—Faculty play night—gymnasium.

8:00 p. m.—Lecture — Mr. Kirby Page, "How America Can Provide Plenty for Everyone." Augusta Conradi theatre.

Tuesday

1:30 p. m. — Convocation and Primary Elections for major officers.

8:00 p. m.—Speech recital—Augusta Conradi theatre.

Wednesday

Election day for major offices.

4:30 p. m.—Residence hall teas.

4:30 p. m.—Student music recital—auditorium.

Thursday

1:30 p. m.—Convocation and primary elections for minor offices.

8:00 p. m.—Speech recital — Augusta Conradi theatre.

Friday

Election day for minor offices.

8:00 p. m.—Junior Minstrels — auditorium

8:00 p. m.—Play night, gymnasium.

Saturday

8.30 p. m.—Panhellenic hop — gymnasium.

Three Sororities Plan Installation Services For New Officers

Three more sororities selected their officers for the coming year this week and are making plans to install them in the near future. Beth Blair will be president of Alpha Chi Omega again next year. Officers who will serve with her are: Margie Smith first vice president, Claud Anne Rhodes, second vice-president; Nell Thompson, recording secretary; Nall Register, treasurer, Doris Carter, corresponding secretary; Louise Burger, Lyre editor and historian; and Eloise Steele, rush chairman.

Ann Jones will serve as president of Chi Omega sorority for next year. With the other officers elected recently she will be installed on March 18

Other officers are: Jane Price vice-president; Mary Frances Oven, pledge mother; Margaret Miller, secretary; Janet Wells, treasurer; Roberta Rhyne, chapter correspondent; and Annette Cone, house manager

The Alpha Gamma Delta sorority had election of officers Monday night in their chapter meeting. Those elected were as follows: President, Peggy Schaller; vice-president, Corrine Butler; second vice-president, Lucille Arnold; recording secretary Elizabeth Moore; treasurer, Dorothy Donnelly.

Hail, Greeks Hail

The Florida Flambeau

The Bunnies Are Coming, Hurrah

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, March 15, 1940

VOLUME XXVII — NUMBER TWENTY

unior Minstrel rings Gagmad Shriek' To FSC

Oriental Extravaganza Will Include Novelties, Dances, Pointed Humor

The Sultan of Gagmad," ori- cal extravaganza, featuring Young as Hasan Ben Sober, Shriek of Gagmad, with his ent of 12 dancing girls and ertainment by specialties rep- ming talent from every ntry will be presented to nt at this year's Junior ntrels.

chairmaned by Lib Miller, he Sultan of Gagmad," op- with Tiny Blalock, Jane vers, and Miriam Denny Guy Burns, Bo and Rose, colore- boys, being transported to ntry by soothsayer, Taboo, Williamson. Throned as an is their collesarre, a be- ver in crystal gazers. Crystal er, Taboo, consultant to the ion, advises an immediate ansion for a wife for the sul-formed with appropriate the second act is a rapid e of dancing and singing as- ns who hope to become the ns. The climax comes in the ict as the Sultan arrives.

Harem Listed

Sultan and Sultanas, the sul- r right hand men are Mary Erwin and Sarah Ivey Hick- while the harem includes: e Youngblood, Allaire Ma- ell, Ann Gilmore, Jean Lance, e Moore, Catharine Saunders, Hansen, Dorothy Lou Williams, Claire Foster, Paula Jean y, Myrtle Van Valkenburg Mae Hammond as Snakebite. ameen Lytal, chairman of ming, has directed and staged original dances. Among the e numbers is a Bronx chorus, ed by Gladys Lippard and Bet- McMichael. The chorus which is not a routine includes, Nancy Doeret, Ann Angel, Betty ton and Betty Gibney. In Gol- troup are also a group of oon dancers The couples are ia Davis and Amanda Goetz- McGowan and Lois Cooper. Lou Atkinson and Dorothy bell, Margaret Faircloth and B. Hyatt, and specialties by ven Lytal with Lucille Wade and Betty Brown.

Ballroom Dance

llegiate dancers from the mod- dance classes are Roberta ett, Alfred Everett, and Smith. Russian influence is ture in by Mary Hamilton and Lou Atkinson with a dance the second act.

ring soloists are Barbara Ma- who sings "The Beautiful Drop" as an Austrian folk ; singer Confucius Says" a Chinese. Audrey Atherton. mps and dances "The Yodel- ie" as a Swiss miss, and ella Stribling sings "The ental." "The Whirling Der- is this representing Arabia Mary Greenleaf. Amelia Avant Dorothy Hickman.

Finale Planned

Finale arranged for two pianos Dorothy Williamsons will be ew with Janet Tharpe and

Continued on Page Two

utnam Will Head niversity Women

Maxine Putnam, editor paper in English IV, the demon- school, will serve as pres- of the Student American As- ation of University Women t year.

other officers elected at the ary meeting of the group, Wed- night were Jane Carmen s associate professor of Eng- first vice president; Miss beth Lynn, instructor in ory, second vice president; Barbara Morehead, instruc- in English, corresponding sec- Miss Mildred Hall, record- g secretary; Miss Gladys ey, instructor in geography, urer; Miss Martha Chapman, ish instructor, and Miss Dor- Diffenbaugh, board meme organization voted to send contribution to the Million Pellegrini Fund of the Sal- organization.

announcement was made of the ial meeting of the South At- section of the A. A. U. W. ch will take place in Miami March 29, 30, with headquar- at the Miami Biltmore hotel members who plan to attend convention are asked to in- the president of the Talla- branch, Miss Elizabeth

Show Producer

Lib Miller, above, in official head of "Sultan of Gagmad" which will be presented in the college auditorium tonight.

Five To Attend IRC Conference

Students Represent FSC At Chapel Hill

Five students of Florida State college will attend the southeastern regional International Relations conference which will be held next Thursday through Saturday, March 21-23, at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, on the campus of the University of North Carolina. The two official delegates elected by the club here are Mary Alice Lester, president of the club, and Syoti Sanders Everhart Rickman. Helen Mlam and Helen Bellamy will also attend the conference.

At the opening of the first meeting on Thursday by the president of the University of North Carolina the general theme of the conference will be touched out for discussion on "The European Theater of War." "Our Neighbors to the South" "Latin America," "Powers and Politics in the Orient," "Economic Facts and Fallacies," "America's Foreign Policy" and "The Peace of Tomorrow".

Miss Amy Hemmingway has been the higher officials of the national organization, will preside at one of the assembly programs, and at the banquet following the conference on March 23, Henry Grady, assistant secretary of the state of North Carolina, will be the after-dinner speaker.

The social entertainment features of the conference will be two informal dances given at the university.

Several University of Florida students, one of whom is Dick Logan, president of the International Relations club at Gainesville, will also represent Florida at the conference

Children's Plays Will Be Produced

With the objective of slowly establishing a repertiore of children's plays which can be repeated every year, the members of the speech department, under the direction of Miss Kemper Moore, instructor in speech, are now making the two-act play "Polly Patchwork," and "The Sentimental Scarecrow."

The two children's plays are to be completely staged and costumed by the children of Interlaken children. Each year the value of the plays will be increased by the addition of more costume- and better staging, while the price of the plays will be decreased as far possible.

The first two plays are being produced by Martha Whitehurst and Anita Jaeckel, speech students.

Alagood Elected National Officer At Model Senate

Stock Exchange Head Gives Keynote Speech At Eighth Convention

Hilda Alagood, junior, was elected secretary-treasurer of the National Model Senate at its eighth annual session at Pordham university in New York city last Saturday.

Hilda with the old and new officers of the senate participated in a round table discussion of current events over the National Broadcasting system Sunday afternoon from 4 to 4:30. The officers discussed the third term question, the advisability of cutting the census questionaire, the possibility of a Japanese embargo, and state poll taxes on the third minute broadcast.

Hilda, was one of three students selected by the political science department to represent Florida, State colleges at the convention which was held March 8 and 9 at Fordham university. Hilda was a delegate at last year's session in Washington, D. C. and was a senior representative. Margaret Christie Hamm, junior political science major, and Velma Pate, senior social science major, attended as delegates.

The delegates registered Friday morning at the convention headquarters, the Hotel Concourse Plaza. The first plenary session of the senate was opened Friday at 1 o'clock with prayer and welcome of welcome by the Rev. Robert I. Gannon, president of Fordham university.

Rev. Gannon lauded the senate and emphasized "self-help" leadership of the proper kind and the entrance of intelligent young

Continued on Page Three

School Groups To Hear Eyman

Dr. Ralph L. Eyman, dean of the school of education, will speak at the mid-winter meeting of the State Association of School Board members to Orlando on March 27, it was announced by Eyman's address is "Coordinating Teacher Training and Curriculum with the Needs of the Public Schools." Carl Widell of Orlando will preside at the meeting in the Angebilt hotel.

Gov. Fred P. Cone, all members of the state board of education and secretary of the Florida Education association will be guests of honor at the meeting.

Dr. Eyman also is to speak at the annual meeting day for teachers in Dade county next Thursday.

He will present an address on "Trends and Developments in Intermediate Grade Education" before the intermediate school teachers of Miami next Thursday.

A smaller group composed of those interested in the workshop plan will hear Dr. Eyman discuss "The Workshop Plan in Florida."

Katherine Graham to Talk Over Radio Monday Night

Katherine Graham, president of the C. O. G. A. will speak Monday night at 8 o'clock over WTAL on "College Government Association Activities of Week." This is the third talk of the series of five broadcasts to be given from the college.

Dr. Harold P. Richards, head of the psychology department, spoke last Monday night on the subject of "Scientific Thinking and Happiness."

Art by Students Now on Display

Pictures Exhibited In Gilchrist Parlor

An unusual exhibit from the art department was hung in Gilchrist parlor Wednesday for the first in a series of departmental teas, displaying a representative group of work from the entire department. the exhibit will be open in Gilchrist durnng the weekend.

An outstanding group of oils is shown featuring particularly the work of the junior and senior art majors, but the exhibit includes most of the techniques taught by the department—water color, chalk, textiles and charcoa, as well as oil. There are examples of abstract design, textile design, still life in the various techniques, posters, commercial art, advertisements, and two unusual stage drops. Attractively hung in the gallery, the exhibit is small rooms opening into Gilchrist parlor. The lighting is good and the wall space adaptable.

Miss Lucile Lee, outstanding work in the entire group was done by Charlotte Bartlett senior art major. Five charcoal drawings, one of a fat slovenly woman, another of a woman in dejected abandon and one of Lucy, an enormous negro model are smazingly expressive and appealing and have been most favorably commented upon. Her chalk drawing of the Three Trees is also noted also.

Among the more unusual is Jane Godley's "Trying" night scene in the woods. the figure of a tramp and the dim forms

Continued on Page Three

Speech Play Set For April 25, 26

"The Learned Ladies," a three-act play by Moliler, is in rehearsal for production April 25 and 26. Directed by Miss Kemper Moore, instructor in speech, the comedy will be an adaptation from one of the translations.

The plot, development and humor of "The Learned Ladies" must be emphasized through characterization. The effect depends on the acting. Unlike modern drama, Moliler's play has no wire cracks.

Cast for the parts in the play are: Betty Rae Scott, as Crysale, an honest bourgeoise Marie Chapman, Philaminte, wife of Crysale; Martha Whitehurst and Jane Usher as Armande and Henriette, daughters of Crysale; Betty Jane Jaco as Belise Crysale's sister; Mary Thomas as Clitandre, lover to Henriette. Beth Blair as Trissotin, a wit; Jane Woodruff as Vadius, a learned man; Mary Louise Hall as Martine, a kitchen-maid; Beth Ford as Julian, servant to Vadius The parts of Bonnefoy and Lepine have not yet been given.

Meeting of FEA Faculty Members

Dr. Heinlein to Head Psychology Section

Several faculty members from the departments of philosophy and psychology will represent the Florida State College for Women at the forty-fifth annual meeting of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology which will be held at Tulane university, New Orleans, during the Easter holidays.

The faculty members who will attend the meeting are Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology; Dr. Anna Forbes Liddell, professor of philosophy, Dr. Robert D. Miller, assistant professor of philosophy and religion, and Dr. Louise Wilmer, assistant professor of psychology. Dr. Heinlein, Dr. Liddell and Mrs. Robert D. Miller will also attend the meeting.

Fourteen addresses in philosophy and twenty addresses in psychology will be given by members representing institutions of higher learning throughout various parts of the nation, Dr. Knight Dunlap, internationally famous experimental psychologist will take a prominent part in a special symposium devoted to the philosophy of science. A round table on psychological research in civil aeronautics will also be a feature of the convention. Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, who is serving his fourth successive year as member of the executive council of the society has been appointed to act as chairman of the psychology section dealing with papers and addresses devoted to mental tests, social adjustment, psychiatric research.

The Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology consists of more than 300 philosophers and psychologists from all parts of the country. The society is unique as an organization in that it believes that it combines both philosophy and psychology in this way that philosophers help review the assumptions held by psychologists and both groups combine their efforts to gain a more comprehensive and accurate view of human nature and the universe.

Above are major officers who were elected this week, reading from left to right they are: Cornelia Watson, president of College Government association; Carolyn Sloss, chairman of judiciary; Elizabeth Linn, freshman advisor; Mikelle Ratliff, president of Woman's Athletic association; Vivian Ahlgren, editor of the Distaff; Margaret Scoil, editor of the Flambeau.

Organ Students To Give Recital

Passiontide Program To Be Given Sunday

Pupils of Miss Margaret Whitney Dow of the school of music will present an organ recital of passiontide music in the tower room of the Westcott building Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The seven girls who will participate are: Mary Stephenson, Louise Hamilton, Mary Catherine Butler, Virginia Dunn, Dorothy Sanford, and Margaret Rinck.

The program will include: Adagio (Franck), Mary Stephenson; Meditation (Faulkes), Louise Thrasher; A Lenten Supplication (Dethick), Edith Fiarr; Hosannah (Dubois), Corinne Butler; Chorale, Sub Whar (Bach), Poor Sinner, Do? (Bach) Virginia Dunn; two Lenten preludes, Jesus Crucifixus and Stabat Mater (Edmundson), Corinne Butler; "The Passion Chorale, "O sacred Head Now Wounded" "O Haupt Voller" (Bach), Margaret Rinck; "Christus ist Uns Verlangen" (Bach) Dorothy Sanford; "O Sacred Head now Wounded" (Reger), Edith Fiarr; "O Sacred Head now Wounded" (Brahms), Corinne Butler; The Crucifixion (Bach), Edith Fiarr; "Behold the Last Words (Bach), Mary Stephenson; Grief," "O Mensch, bewein'dein Sunde gross" (Bach), "My grievous sin bemoan" (Bach), Margaret Rinck.

Chorus Will Sing Easter Cantata

A chorus of 37 sophomores, juniors, and seniors, students in public school music, will present in Easter cantata, "The Risen King," by Schmecker, in convocation Tuesday afternoon. The program will be broadcast over WTAL.

Julia Rosser and Eleanor Mullins will act as conductors, and Helen Anderson will be organist. The cantata, which is under the direction of Miss Bertha Phipps of the public school music department, will feature Louise Thrasher as soprano soloist. Patricio composed of Mildred True Hamilton, Frances Rogers and Margaret Lewis, sopranos; Virginia Rouse and Elizabeth Miller, altos.

Light Resolution Passes NSFA

Committee, Executive Council May Confer

A motion was carried in the N.S.F.A. forum Monday to send a committee of 12 girls to represent the student body at a meeting to be held with the executive council of the college concerning recent passing of light restrictions.

Sarah Worth, who was elected by the forum as chairman of the committee, will appoint 11 other girls to assist her. On meeting with the executive council, the student committee will endeavor to clarify the constitutionality of the act and appeal for modification of the restriction.

The following resolution was made and passed by students attending the forum:

"Whereas the light restriction regulation passed by the college executive council recently has caused a considerable amount of unrest among the student body; whereas the college constitution states in Article III, section 2, that "No general legislation affecting teachers or students of more than one school shall be effective except that passed or approved by the faculty senate; whereas there has been a great deal of confliction over the interpretation of the jurisdiction of the college executive council as stated in the constitution, we the students of Florida State College for Women attending the N.S.F.A. forum to discuss the new light regulation resolve

1. That in the future all legislation affecting the students of more than one school be subject to the vote or approval of the faculty senate.

2. That the present light restriction regulation be sent to the faculty senate for approval.

3. That the president of the college be requested to submit for interpretation the portion of the constitution dealing with this matter to some impartial body such as a attorney or some similar judicially minded persons.

4. That the students of the college ask their parents to inform

Continued on Page Two

Elections Close Today As Final Votes Are Cast

Sixty-One Percent Of Student Body Express Choice of Officers

Campus elections will end this evening at 5:30 as balloting is completed for major candidates in the College Government association. A total of 1227 students representing 61 per cent of the student body cast their votes in the final election for major officers on Thursday showing a decease of 2 per cent over last year's figures.

With a landslide maiority of 773 over Pat Brandt's 422, Cornelia Watson took top position as next year's president of the student body following final balloting on the voting machines in the lower floor of Westcott building Wednesday. First vice-president went to Mary Brown automatically elected in Tuesday's primaries by a vote of over 91 per cent. Second vice-president positions were won respectively by Ella Maxine Jones with a total of 646 to Paulette Nolan's 544 and by Maxine Armistead with 774 to Mary Prichard Bryan's 384.

Closest race on the records was between Kitty Jo Hickman and Julie Chairs for secretary of C. O. G. A., with the latter wigning by the slight margin of 586 to 587, Ann Smith and Carrie Dena Bryan for freshman advisor by a count of 1,000 to 227 in the contest for treasurer Beryl Mitchell received 663 votes to Edith Williams' 510

Johns Wins

Chairmen of the residence halls and off-campus committees went to Wilma Johns with 696 votes to Mary Leylene Cobb's 532 to Nell Thompson with 643 to Hilda Alagood's 585 in the judiciary elections. Margaret Scott polled 689 votes to Mary Hamilton's 523 as editor-in-chief of the Flambeau, while Vivian Ahlwerh won an overpowering majority of 841 over May Wethner's 323 for editor-in-chief of the Distaff. Only no candidate ran for the offfes of editor-in-chief of the Atlantcowo. arrangements will be made

Continued on Page Six

Sophomore Council Change Proposed

A constitutional change regarding the selection of sophomore council girls was read to the student body at assembly period for two weeks and then presented to the student body for their vote in the regular assembly period in convocation.

The constitutional change which had been recommended by senate is in the By laws, Article IX, page 19 of the handbook under this article remaining unchanged and a third section added since the current handbook was printed.

These sections now read: "Section 3—The sophomore council shall act as a link between its class and the campus as a whole and shall be the first activity out the program of the Y.W.C.A., C.O.G.A. etc.

"Section 3—The second vice-president of C.O.A. shall serve as president of the sophomore council. The first vice-president of the Y.W.C.A. shall serve as chairlioning of sophomore council in Y.W.C.A. and shall be present at each meeting of the sophomore council."

It appears that senate recommends would make the sections read as follows: "Section 3—During the month of March approximately 40 girls from the freshmen class shall be elected to constitute sophomore council. The retiring sophomore council council shall constant of the executive council of C.O.A. the president of Y.W.C.A. the vice-president of Y.W.C.A. the president of W.A.A., the president of the day students organization, the out-going chairmen of the residence halls, two members of the orientation committee chosen by the freshman faculty Section 3—Reworded to read as stated in Handbook 1939-1940.

Section 3—The second vice-president of C.O.A. shall serve as sponsor of sophomore council.

These changes were suggested since sophomore council is recognized as a branch of C. G. A. and has no more connection with Y. W. C. A. than with any other campus organization

Girls Show Emotions Ranging From Excitement to Nonchalance on Entering Voting Machines

"Heavens! how do you work this thing!" queried an excited voice behind the thick blue velvet folds of the curtains of the imposing voting machines the night of "What do you turn?"

What again! We turned around and peered at two nervous lasspacing the small compartment enclosed by the curtains. This was the sixth time in 15 minutes that a girl had gotten stuck in one of those "terrifying" voting machines and could not get out. What was the matter?

"You don't turn anything," replied an operator capably. "Just push the lever back. There was a scuffling of feet, and with a bang of the lever the curtains parted to reveal a startled girl with eyes wide and hands upraised. "Well!" she exclaimed. "Imagine that!" and she sauntered nonchalantly off.

Incidents like this typified the excitement that prevailed last week as the lower floor of the Westcott building was crowded with voters seeking to "count up one" for their pals running for offices. First bruised fingers, then a chance at voting this year, girls who had gotten stuck in one crowded and eager to participate in the elections.

The approaches of the students to the machines revealed the appprehension or anticipation shown. Some girls were hesitant and turned around once or twice before they pulled the curtains while others boldly walked in and jumbled at the lever afterwards. Some waited for their turn with expectancy as if there were a surprise in store for them, while others waited in complete ignorance of what it was all about. These latter had to have the mechanism of the machine explained to them several times; then, when it came their turn to enter, they brushed themselves off, primped, stepped forward, and gave themselves up to the machine as if they were about to be executed.

Then there were the arrogant students who rolled up their sleeves in preparation for the slaughter. These were the ones who, after they had finished, left the polls with finality as if to say "that's that." Others came out thrilled or tickled. For instance, there was the senior who was heard to say "It's so exciting. Just pull the curtain. And pull the right one!" (Uh-huh, we always thought the dignity of certain seniors would tend down with age, day).

One freshman was completely overwhelmed with the workings of the machine broke down, at last, that is what everybody thought happened when the curtain which clinched the votes and opened the curtain had not been pushed back far enough, and although voting at that poll was held up for about 15 minutes so that students had to be sent to another machine a line soon began to form again.

Speaking among the voters for personality was the subject of public opinion.' Overheard at various times of the importance of their positions, button-grabbers, flourishing their pencil in the air, remarked to anyone who happened to be listening, "See how important I am? They can't go in unless I push the button."

And just about that time one of the machines broke down, at last, that is what everybody thought happened when the curtain which clinched the votes and opened the curtain had not been pushed back far enough, and although voting at that poll was held up for about 15 minutes so that students had to be sent to another machine a line soon began to form again.

Speaking among the voters for personality was the subject of public opinion.' Overheard at various strategic points were conversations of the jolley kind that went like this:

"You getting ready to vote?"

"Yeah."

"Well, are you voting for me?"

"Did you vote for me?"

"Yeah, so don't forget to put in a good word for me."

Of course the machine would take the "good word" seriously to heart!

All evidence pointed to the fact that this year's elections far surpassed those of last year both in number of voters and in spirit. Students who had helped to supervise the voting last year agreed that elections were not as complicated this year, and that they took less time. But what a commotion!

From Other Colleges

A heated discussion is raging on the N. J. C. campus between Campus News, student newspaper, and the administration over certain privileges which the staff feels are essential in democratic procedure. The discussion is the result of the re-making by the administration of several laws that have not been enforced previously, namely: (1) the approving of their budget at the beginning and ending of their books at the end of the year (2) the submitting of their nominees for administrative approval (3) the awarding of their scholarships through the administration. The News protests vigorously on the grounds that the move was based on misconceptions, that the paper was in no way unrationed or advised beforehand, and that authorities stated that student opinion on the matter would not or considered. In an editorial in the form of an open letter, the News editorial board requests a meeting of the authorities and staff for discussion in the name of "loyalty to principles of democratic procedure and equal rights for all."

Student recommendations for changes in the fee set-up to go into effect at Michigan State next year will be considered by the State Board of Agriculture at its next meeting. Under the proposed plan all student monies will go into the college general fund to be administered by college officials. This plan, according to student council, would be unfair to the student body because members of campus governing groups will have no way of checking on how or where student funds are spent. A referendum will be conducted as the result of recent board action to determine whether or not Michigan State News (11) will be retained at the reduced quo of three issues per week (12) will be reduced to two issues per week at 35 cents per term, or (13) will not be included in student fees.

The name of Dr. Ludd M. Spivey, Southern president, featured prominently in Pounder's Parade activities there last week. Honor was paid the president of 15 years for his part in securing for the Stanley Jones foundation at Southern the creation of the only southern "Chair of Democracy," and various other improvements on the campus which had only two buildings 15 years ago and now boasts of a well developed campus with plans for many more new buildings underway to house a triple enrollment of 1314 in contrast to the 400 of 15 years ago.

A student committee in academic affairs has been incorporated as a part of the Wilson college governmental system. After working quietly for a year as an unaffiliated committee, it is now definitely a part of the college government. The student newspaper hails the move as another preservative step indicating a desire on the part of students to derive the most possible benefit from the courses included in the college curriculum.

The Auburn Plainsman runs on its editorial page a resolution recently issued by the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual freedom, a group of faculty members and administrators from American colleges, which runs as follows:

Resolution
Student Rights

Whereas, the Constitution of the United States of America in Article 1 of the Bill of Rights guarantees that there shall be no abridgement of freedom of speech, press, and peaceful assembly, and

Whereas, these freedoms and rights are basic to the development of democratic institutions and procedures, and

Whereas, these same civil liberties recognized by implication the importance of free and full discussion, and

Whereas, intellectual growth at its best depends upon intelligent reason, experience, and diversity, and

Whereas American schools and colleges should maintain the highest possible standards for their students in free and full discussion regarding contemporary social, economic, and political as well as historical matters, and maintain the right of students to organize in groups for such discussions:

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, that the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom urges upon all thoughtful and responsible public officials constant vigilance and protective action to maintain these essential liberties for all students and student groups without actual or interference

Meeting of FEA Draws Faculty

Orlando Is Site For March 28-30 Session

Florida members and alumnae of Florida State colleges will be active at the fifty-fourth annual session of the Florida Education association in Orlando from March 28 through March 30.

Dean William O. Dodd of the college of arts and sciences, will be the speaker at a Florida State college dinner to be given March 28.

Chairman of the committee on necrology is Miss Martha G. Chapman, instructor in English. The committee will meet on Thursday of the first day and will report on Saturday.

A luncheon and a breakfast for this section and the home economics and retard art division are under the charge of Miss Bernice Deets, assistant professor of industrial arts, and Miss Janet Smith, assistant professor of clothing and textiles.

Miss Ruth E. Fairman, assistant professor of Latin and Greek, will make a committee report to the Latin section and the home and Latin in Florida.

Dr. Dorothy Rose Disher, assistant professor of psychology, is to be leader of a discussion on "How Can This Group Assist in the School Health Program?" at a general meeting of the child welfare group. Dr. Hugh L. Waskom, assistant professor of psychology, will attend the meeting of this group. Dr. Waskom is state chairman of the mental hygiene group last year.

Miss Maxine S. Putnam, critic teacher and instructor in education, will also be in charge of a dinner of the council teachers of English group. Miss Deets will preside over the art group at the meeting.

Light Resolution Passes NSFA

Continued from Page One

The college of their opinions on the matter.

5. That the secretary of N.S.F.A. be requested to send a copy of these resolutions to the president of the student body, the president of the college, the secretary of the faculty senate and the dean of men.

Dr. F. C. Moore, retired college professor, will speak before the Monday N.S.F.A. forum and discuss the justification for the Florida State college motto and fact that the laws of hygiene are as definite and unchangeable as those of the girls defying these laws continuously, he said, on the campus which had only two buildings 15 years ago and now boasts of a well developed campus with plans for many more new buildings underway to house a triple enrollment of 1314 in contrast to the 400 of 15 years ago.

A student committee in academic affairs has been incorporated as a part of the Wilson college governmental system. After working quietly for a year as an unaffiliated committee, it is now definitely a part of the college government. The student newspaper hails the move as another preservative step indicating a desire on the part of students to derive the most possible benefit from the courses included in the college curriculum.

The Auburn Plainsman runs on its editorial page a resolution recently issued by the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual freedom, a group of faculty members and administrators from American colleges, which runs as follows:

Resolution
Student Rights

Whereas, the Constitution of thy United States of America in Article 1 of the Bill of Rights guarantees that there shall be no abridgement of freedom of speech, press, and peaceful assembly, and

Whereas, these freedoms and rights are basic to the development of democratic institutions and procedures, and

Whereas, these same civil liberties recognized by implication the importance of free and full discussion, and

Whereas, intellectual growth at its best depends upon intelligent reason, experience, and diversity, and

Whereas American schools and colleges should maintain the highest possible standards for their students in free and full discussion regarding contemporary social, economic, and political as well as historical matters, and maintain the right of students to organize in groups for such discussions:

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, that the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom urges upon all thoughtful and responsible public officials constant vigilance and protective action to maintain these essential liberties for all students and student groups without actual or interference by governmental or other external agencies.

In recommending the Plainsman praises the Auburn administration for its recognition of the student right to express, in this resolution, citing as proof of their liberalism the fact that this year a more liberal Auburn student government is being governed for the first time, a more liberal absence rule is now in effect, and student themselves, accepting the responsibility of their new freedom has stepped in and asked that cheating be stopped.

Auburn's new $175,000 general classroom building has been approved and accepted, and several departments are to move in immediately. A modern feature of the new building will be the "single lighting system" which has built-in laboratory tables and cabinets and other equipment which will occupy the entire basement floor. Classrooms vary in size accommodating from 30 to 80 students.

A complete library of all available information on agriculture and industry has been set as the goal of course in campaign by ODK, agricultural fraternity of Auburn. Also on the plan of campaign as organized provides for the accomplishment of the goal through contributions from alumni and others of both money and manuscripts.

New Jersey College for Women recently observed a Sharecroppers' Week during which discussions and book displays centered around the sharecroppers and their problems. As an Arkansas sharecropper spoke, discussing the problems of this group, what has been said should be done to solve them.

Inquiring Reporter

Who Should Interpret Constitution?

The recent light restriction issue has caused considerable discussion of the college constitution, with references to its interpretation on matters concerning student regulations. What is your suggestion as to how we can settle such matters of interpretation to the satisfaction of both groups in the college governmental system? Do you think a body such as our supreme court that interprets our national constitution would be one way? Would you be in favor of a body composed of faculty and students, to settle matters of interpretation of the constitution? How would you go about organizing such a group if you think it would be desirable?

Sara Swanson: I favor the idea of having a supreme court, composed of faculty and students. The students could be elected by the student body and the faculty members could be appointed by the faculty.

Atlant Day: As there are various opinions concerning the correct interpretation of the college constitution, it seems to me that a group separate from those involved in the conflict is needed on the campus to determine the true interpretation of it by which make up our college constitution.

If the group who is to determine the meaning of such words as administration and legislative powers are not experienced in the governing form as is the case of such a committee. In a democracy of such as ours, we need to be conscious of the constitution we are governed by, and the faculty is part of this same constitution.

Dorothy Mims: The argument that the light regulation was not passed according to the provisions of the college constitution seems to be well grounded. Under the powers of faculty great Art. 4, Sec. III, Section 3 "To pass rules and regulations for the government of the students; however, the Senate shall delegate this responsibility to committees, as Student Affairs which shall act in all matters in connection with and a committee from the student body. Such committee shall be subject to the approval of senate." According to this every time the Senate does anything, whenever such-and-such an office is created with three instead of two points, whenever one of the million and one matters of legislation is passed by not the faculty committee on student affairs, it should be "okked" by the faculty senate. Evidently there is some discrepancy, and it might be a good idea for the student committee appointed by the faculty with the executive council to suggest to them that the constitution be changed so that a faculty - student supreme court to pass on the constitutionality of legislation passed. But exactly—NO! That constitution is entirely clear, and in no wise comes under jurisdiction.

Ralph Bryan: I know very little about constitutional law. However, it seems to me that the student body does not have the right to judge in any way the college constitution, which primarily has to do with the actual set up of the administration of the constitution. The citizens of the state would have more of a right to do this, that any attempt to create a so-called "supreme court" would only confuse matters us and the faculty even more as to which are our various duties are.

Della Monteros: The light situation has convinced me that we need a committee of some sort to

EARN MONEY!

You can establish a profitable business selling our excellent SHOWLOVE shampoo lines, tonics, strong, healthy, lustrous hair. Attractive dandruff and constant use prevents its reappearance. Contains no alcohol, no free alkali, no sulfonated oils, no injurious ingredients. Small capital to sell to everyone who wants hair health and beauty. Generous commission. Good income assured. Write to MARTIN-SENOUR PRODUCTS, Inc., 512A Lexington Avenue, New York.

meet of the nervous cases, admitted by Dr. Moore to be referred on Mondays and Tuesdays. Wednesday is select for who are frequent post-weekend patients. Thursday's impending test forum expressed the opinion that Dr. Moore was not basing his observations on the majority of students, who as a result, are being made to conform to a set aimed at a few. Many of the students make up any lack of sleep between the hours of 12 and 7 o'clock at other hours in the day, they said.

Another N.S.F.A. meeting with the executive council. The time of the student forum will be announced soon.

DUKE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF NURSING
DURHAM, N. C.

The Diploma of Graduate Nurse is awarded after three years, and the B.S. degree and Science in Nursing for two additional years of college work, one before or after the course in Nursing. The entrance requirements are high school graduation, one unit of science, character and graduation from an accredited high school. After 1940 two years of college work will be required. The annual tuition of $100 covers the cost of uniforms, books, student government fees, etc. Catalogues, application forms and information about college requirements may be obtained from the Admission Committee.

U. S. Has Plenty, Says Kirby Page

Yet, Almost One Half Of People Are in Want

"America can provide plenty for everybody," said Kirby Page, the well-known author and social evangelist, in his address Monday night on the college lecture series.

"We have fertile soil, raw materials, minerals, technological equipment, skill, immense reserves of labor power, a democratic form of government, and a great heritage of religion, and so on," he continued, "but a third or a half of our people are in serious want.

With this opening, Mr. Page continued his address contrasting conditions in America as they are with conditions as it is logical to suppose they could be. He stated that we have ignominiously exported wheat, pork, and tobacco and we have alarming reserves of men, money, machinery, land, power, and, all of which could be organized toward a prosperous and happy life for all. He said that for years, with the depression and a decrease in purchasing power, we failed to use from one-third to one-half of our machinery. Instead of using our men and service in incredibly low.

We do not make use of these resources, Mr. Page went on, because of the "profit motive" efficiently distributed purchasing power. A small percent of the people is receiving a large part of the national income. The masses, or the laboring class, have very little income or purchasing power with which to buy the products of our major industries.

In suggesting solutions for this maladjustment, of which is a lack of power, Mr. Page showed that 300 corporations control 1-3 of the continent's wealth in 1929 "Privilege," he quoted, "always flows toward power." He finally suggested need is system of social control so that the general public will have a fair share of purchasing power. To accomplish this we must have a new attitude toward property, though he stated that he believed private property was good and necessary. We will also find it necessary to have a new attitude toward government.

Mr. Page concluded by stating that private property has led us to blunders which should be inexcusable now, and that we must "grow up" to solve these problems.

Mr. Page came here from Gainesville where he spoke in the afternoon at the university under the sponsorship of Y. M.

Library Announces Holiday Schedule

The library will be open during Easter holidays at the following hours:

Thursday morning: 8:15 to 12 noon; Thursday afternoon: 1:30 to 4 o'clock; Thursday night: 7:30 to 9:30

Friday morning: 9:30 to 12:30; Friday night: 7:30 to 9:30

Saturday morning: 9:30 to 12:30

Monday morning: 9:30 to 12:30.

On Thursday morning reserved books may be borrowed from 8:15 to 12 o'clock and ers due at 9:30 Friday morning.

The library today will be open all of the hours noted above except Thursday morning.

Other announcements concerning the holidays will be posted in the Westcott building and in the library.

LOUISE RICHART SON, Librarian.

Nine Music Majors Play At Recital

Continuing the series of student recitals held weekly nine girls of the school of music, Virginia Pratt, Anna Anderson, Dorothy Cecile Ffarr, Alma Chalker, Maryan Barnes, Pauline Morrow, Ruby Dunstan, Alma Jones and Rosie, performed Wednesday afternoon.

An unusual feature of the program was the final selection, Rachmaninoff's Prelude, Op. 29 by Cade, presented by a trio composed of Miss Barnes, violin, Virginia Rouse, violin, and Ruby Dunstan, piano. Also included in the program was Goullwogg's Cake Walk (Debussy), Virginia Pratt; Etude Mignon in Spring (Jonn), Alma Anderson, and Poem (Gardner Read), Lois Cooper, viola, Dania Trice (Granados), Edith Pfarr, piano; Columbia Universal Dance (Chopin), Alma Chalker, piano; Rumanian Rhapsody Op. 68 (David Popper), Maryan Barnes, cello, Ruby Dunstan, accompanist; Two Waltzes in E flat (Brahms), Pauline Morrow, piano, and Polka and Fugue (Weinam), Ruby Dunstan, piano.

The next student recital will be held at 4:30 next Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the college auditorium.

C. A. He is the author of 19 volumes and 18 pamphlets on theological, economic, political and religious questions.

He has spoken at 300 colleges and universities over the country, and has crossed the ocean 26 times and has visited nearly all countries of the world. During a tour around the world in 1936 he had the occasion to stay in the home of Mahatma Gandhi and he also interviewed Mussolini, Hitler and many other outstanding Indian leaders.

Mr. Page's wife and family Ottawa and were entertained by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek while they were in China. Other interesting interviews were those with the prime minister of Japan, the foreign minister of Turkey, and President Quezon of the Philippines. They were received by the King of Iraq.

Two languages, Saxon and Norman French, were spoken in England for many years after the Norman conquest.

Junior Minstrel Brings Gagmad 'Shriek' To FSC

Continued from Page One

Del Gudine playing the part of Satan with Miss Janet K. Smith, assistant professor in clothing and textiles, Miss Margaret Ellis designed costumes which, after rehearsals, have been made as authentic as possible.

Miss Elizabeth Thomason, instructor in speech is serving as faculty supervisor and critic. Stage manager for the show is Rachel Wolff, Miami Beach, and Jack Mitchell as assistants; advertising manager is Pauline Simmons with Betty Hyatt and Louise Barrett assistants. Dot Parker has been in charge of tickets, and Mary O'Bleen, programs, and Sara Woodruff, makeup.

Others for the review are to be dressed in black, red, or white and will wear turbans, in keeping with the oriental theme. Others are Hope McCrary, Beth Cox, Eileen Louise Burger, Anne Jones, Dorothy May Anderson, Gwendolyn Autry Connall, Peaby Trantham, Leota Kirkpatrick, Pauline Simmons, and Allene Harrison.

Social Workers Will Meet

On Monday at 9 o'clock the Leon Jefferson chapter of the Florida Federation of Social Workers will meet at the Florida State Hotel. At this meeting a dining room will be reserved for those who wish to participate in the affair. Dr. Edward R. Annis will speak on "Economic Implications of Poor Health Conditions." The public is cordially invited.

It is reported by safety authorities that there would be fewer traffic accidents at night if motorists would dim their lights before passing a car.

YWCA Voting Set For Next Week

Polls Will Be Open Monday and Tuesday

Members of Y. W. C. A. in attending, will vote for their officers for the year 1940-41 by way of a table installed for the purpose on the lower floor of Westcott building, following the first primary, a second primary will be held Tuesday in case a number of candidates for one all offices exceed two. In case both primaries, the polls will be open from 8:30 in morning until 5:30 in the afternoon.

A membership meeting was held Thursday, March 14, at 5 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. room. Nominations were made for new officers. The nominating committee was composed of Katherine Alexander, chairman, Virginia Bryan, Elisabeth Linn, Margaret Ann Thornton, and Anna F. Liddell.

The committee in charge of elections is composed of Irene Edwards, chairman, Marjorie Frisbee, Eunice Lasche, Peggy Pryor, Frances Gaines, and Miss Thornton. Dr. Anna F. Liddell, faculty adviser, is also present and will go to camp for a "Y" week end March 29. Plans for the details of the program committee announced today.

Activities being planned for the weekend include the retreat of the cabinet members and leadership of the new ones.

Daytona Editor Will Be Speaker

Herbert M. Davidson, editor of the Daytona Beach News Journal, a member of the board for Journalistic schools of southern universities and association, will speak in room History building at 9:30 Monday morning.

Mr. Davidson, after attending Columbia University and Princeton student work. for a time associated with the International News Service and was representative of the Chicago Tribune.

His paper, the Daytona Beach News Journal, shows as a member the editor here.

Bellamy is First Student To Make Contribution For 'March of Dollars'

Minnie Bellamy, a freshman was the first student to contribute to the March of Dimes drive Mrs. Frank D. Moor, president of the Tallahassee unit announced yesterday.

Mrs. Moor has already received one dollar and seventy-five cents, $25 and $100 checks from Tallahassee business men, and $25 from an out of the state alumna.

Following the announcement the drive, folders containing the March of Dimes seals and the student body, faculty and staff of the college and alumnae have received from this week.

The deadline for the $15,000 which will be used for furnishing and equipping the new Tallahassee building is the end of April, when the annual Easter college homecoming will be held.

—EASTER DRESSES—
—SPECTATOR SPORTS—
—SCHOOL DRESSES—

GO PLACES and DO THINGS In Stripes Prints or Plain Fabrics

Upstairs At WILSON'S

HOW TO WIN BOY-FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE STAG-LINES

By Dalea Dorothy Clix

Dear Miss Clix: Please help me decide! Two men from R.... University, a pre-medical and a pre-law student, both of whom are Seniors, brilliant, all intellect. One, an entomologist wants me, he says, to be "his life partner in his chosen field" and would be happy to be a paleontologist, who dreams of spending his whole life in the Gobi Desert. But Miss Clix, I love life, laughter, gaiety, dancing, sophisticated people! What shall I do?

QUANDARY

Dear Quandary: I may be wrong, but I see very little dancing and laughter looming up for you in the Gobi Desert or the jungles where you catch boll weevils. Since you're all for entomologists and paleontologists you people—have fallen for you, you must have something, and I don't mean all intellect, why not devise some "protective coloration" to make your self-effacing self in the mundane kind of bird you might easily assume? Why not try sophisticated hairdo's, a good perfume, and beautifully polished fingernails?

AND NOW, DEAR, READ THE NEXT COLUMN CAREFULLY

AND HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO ABOUT BEAUTIFUL NAILS

Beautiful fingernails, at last, are within the grasp of every woman, everywhere! Color them with the exciting tones of DURA-GLOSS, the nail polish that's new, different! Its rich color flows as with amazing smoothness, dries quickly to a brilliant, gem-hard lustre that lasts longer, resists chipping longer! Switch to DURA-GLOSS! In fashionable colors, DURA-GLOSS is only a dime a bottle! At cosmetic counters everywhere.

SC Swimmers reak Record

Relay Team Wins 100 Yard Free Style Race

Florida State college swimmers made national and southern records in the second part of the telegraphic swimming meet held Saturday afternoon. Colleges joined in the contest have two years and used in their best performances.

Florida State's first meet held March 8 at Charlottesville team composed of Peggy Lee Virginia and Ernestine Simmons and Dorothy Parks made national record for the 300 yard free style relay, which had never been held week. This time is 56 seconds which is seconds better than the old national intercollegiate record.

Mary Barker broke the southern national intercollegiate record the 100-yard backstroke when made this distance in 1 minute and 28 seconds. The former record was 1 minute and 31 seconds.

The southern record for the 75-yard medley relay was cut by seconds by True Prendi, Peggy Lee and Dorothy Parks, swimming in the breast stroke, backstroke and free style respectively in a new time of 51.5 seconds. The southern record was 52.2 and the artificial record was 52 seconds.

Ernestine Mikkonson placed third in the 40-yard crawl with Betty Parks and Jean Wood placing second and third, respectively.

Ernestine's time was 24 flat. The school record of seconds was made by Martha Jackson in 1935. The southern record is 21.9 seconds.

In the 40-yard back crawl, Barker placed first over Prendi and Virginia Mahan. The southern record for 40 yards was made here by Mikkonson and is 29.1 seconds. Peggy Lee holds the national record for seconds in the 24.8 seconds.

Ivy Prendi broke the school record of 23.2 seconds for the 40-yard breast stroke when she made the distance in 32.4 seconds. The southern record is 26.6 and the national is 26.4 seconds.

Doris Baker swam the 100-yard free style in 1 minute and 30.1 seconds. The southern record of minute 16.2 seconds was made by Florence Ward in 1935. The national record is 1 minute 7.

The only entrant in the 100-yard breast stroke was Dennis Mahan, the winner time was 2 minutes. The southern record made in this event is 1 minute 43.2 seconds and was made here in 1936. The national record is minutes 26 seconds.

The intercollegiate swimming meet was held in 1930 and North State entered in 1934. The college won the southern title that year and was southern champion for the year 1935. It did not swim in 1936 which was the only year it entered until this year.

The winners of the first five years of the southern region will be certified by night letter on March 20. This college is in both of these groups, those having their pools and those having the 1000 students.

Other colleges in the southern group are as follows: William and Mary college, Duke university, Washington college, Oklahoma A. and M. college and Methodist college. Southern Methodist university, Harrisonburg State Teachers college of Virginia, Texas State College for Women, University of Georgia, University of Texas and Carson-Newman college of Tennessee.

The manager for this year was Texas State College for Women.

Alagood Elected National Officer At Model Senate

Continued from Page One

ments to other colleges and state as well as federal politics.

Morris Speaks

William Martin, jr., president of the Stock Exchange, in giving the keynote address warned "senators that they were facing more serious problems than any other legislative group had faced in the past and that their real problem was the task of relieving unemployment and making government protection in business safe. He defined the government's role as stagnant in when taking part in business enterprise."

Following the address of Mr. Martin the "senators" adjourned to committee meetings. Hilda, who introduced a bill to provide for federal appropriations for the improvement of education in the several states and to provide for the elimination of the Federal land commission and the subdivision of the federal trade system for foreign countries, was referred to the government and business committee and a subcommittee of that group. Margaret Alagood, who introduced a resolution to further reciprocal cultural relations between the United States and the Latin American Republics, was assigned to the foreign relations committee and a subcommittee of that group. A bill to establish a national park in the Virgin Islands Act was introduced by Yelma who was assigned to the public lands committee and a subcommittee of that group.

Record Held

The afternoon meetings of the senate were preceded by a dinner in an informal banquet at the Hotel Concourse Plaza. Lambeth Pairchild, WNC representative, at the banquet address outlined the conference proceedings before the United States Senate.

Sub-committee meetings were held Friday night and full committee meetings for discussion of the sub-committee findings were held prior to the second plenary session of the senate Saturday morning. Twenty bills covering the fields of civil liberties, labor, international affairs, and government and business were debated on the floor of the Model Senate Saturday in the typical manner of the United States Senate.

The Model Senate voted to extend the reciprocal trade agreements, to extend the Federal Housing Authority's activity, and to continue the present administrative program of deficit spending until such time as our economy shows definite signs of progressive recovery.

The Senate voted to abolish the Dies committee and to turn its activities over to the LaFollette Civil Liberties committee, and to abolish the National Labor Relations board and the Wage and Hatch Bill to include W P A. N. Y A and C. C. C workers were defeated.

Margaret's bill to further cultural relations between the United States and the Latin American countries was passed by the unanimous vote of the senate.

Election Held

The convention closed Saturday afternoon with the election of officers for the next session. The next will be part west at Princeton university. Sam Murray, Georgetown university, was elected president and Hilda Alagood, Florida State college, was elected secretary-treasurer. William Perive, Colgate is the retiring president and Richard L. Breen, Fordham, is retiring secretary.

It was from the National Model Senate attended at Washington, D. C. last year that FSC delegates brought back the idea of a state model senate. Anita Jaeckel, Elizabeth Anne Webb, Jeanne Webster, and Hilda Alagood attended the 1939 "senate" sessions organized the Model Senate which was held on this campus last fall. Dartmey Dunlap and Stuart Simon, who were the first delegates from the University of Florida, to the national "senate" at Princeton, will direct the delegates are working toward plans for the state model senate which is to be held in Gainesville next fall. Bill Grimes, University of Florida, is to succeed Hilda Alagood as chairman of the state "senate" and Dee Nickerson, Florida State college, is secretary and treasurer.

Instructor

Kening Will Conduct Instructor's Course

HARRY A. KENNING

Harry Kenning, above, national field representative of American Red Cross will conduct the instructor's life saving course here this week.

Life Saving Corps Schedules Dinner

The Life Saving corps is planning a dinner Saturday night in the dining hall in honor of Harry Kenning, field representative of the American Red Cross Mr. Kenning has been a member of the Red Cross first aid and life saving staff since 1916 when he attracted their attention through his work in carrying on an extensive "Learn to Swim" week in Philadelphia. He formerly worked in Puerto Rico and in the Virgin Islands in the disaster relief unit after the 1929 hurricane.

Others guests at the dinner are to be Miss Marion McIntosh and Miss Marjorie Mayer.

Life Saving Class Enrolls Eleven

Instructor's course in life-saving and water safety conducted by Harry Kenning, the national field representative of the American Red Cross, began this afternoon at 4:30 and will last through Wednesday.

Eleven students have enrolled for the course, which will include swimming, diving, life saving, water safety, and artificial respiration. The teaching methods will include lectures, demonstrations, and advanced swimmers. Classes will be held every afternoon from 4:30 through 6 o'clock and from 8 until 10 at night. On Saturday the hours are from 2 until 5 o'clock. After a student has passed the course she is qualified to teach junior and senior life saving and swimming.

Students who have enrolled for the course are: Barbara Thomas, Jeanne Webster, Mary Hampton, Kitty Ford, Minnie Ratliff, Mabel Wood Pat Patterson, Jeanne Watson, Barbara Conine, Martha Belle Duncan, and Carol Lorimer.

High Schools Hold Sports Day at Gym

Approximately 100 senior bleh school girls and their coaches from all parts of Florida will participate here in the college last Saturday.

Basketball was the chief feature of the all day meeting, which included a play period, folk dancing and games in the morning, basketball contests, a basketball game and a lecture demonstration. Also shown at this time was a picture of the "Florida Relays." "Aqua Rhythm" which features the college Tarpon Club in formation swimming.

The girls had lunch in the college cafeteria with Doris Madill of Florida High school, acting as toastmistress.

Cities in this section of the state with populations ranging from 2000 to 5000 were invited to attend. Carrabelle, Live Oak, Perry, Quincy, Madison and Tallahasee were represented.

Art By Students Now On Display

Continued from Page One

of Life" by Hans Sloin are lighted only by a small fire The use of the human silhouette quality which is quite moving, for the most of the figures are simple, objective and possibly hopelessness. Jane Sibo has some lively water colors.

Phoebe James' "House At Night" is also quite good It has a certain individuality and dramatic appeal which make it stand out among the work from the class in oils. Particularly good in this class also is "Mexican Sunflowers" by Louise Prina, senior in the department. Her technique is unusually good.

Representing the freshman class is Eleanor Stewart with a still life in chalk. The aims of the beginning class are to establish a knowledge of the fundamentals of design and to develop a command of the mechanics of technique.

Another student whose work should be especially noted is Margaret Davidson. Abstract design and her work in chalk are unusual in their smoothness and appearance.

Other students who work in the exhibition are Adamo, Audrey Bolton (a nice water color), Mary Catherine Pearson, Jane Blain, Erwin Rieman, Catherine Smith, Frances Cooper, Julio Extremera figure sketching', Dorothy Parker, Pat Mack (beautiful tone and all in chalk), Lucile Walker, Marianna Thompson, and Margaret Davidson. There is one abstract design in chalk signed only "Marsie" which should be the mystery piece of the exhibition.

Art club students in Osterizer were the hostesses and planning committee for the tea. In charge of selection of pictures was Berry Mitchell; mounting committee Mary Wall was headed by Sue Venning; Setting up the exhibit and hanging pictures were Louise Prina and Jane Godbey, and the hostesses were Lucile Walker and Sue Venning. The plan for the art tea was Miss Clara Olsen's social director in Osterizer. Miss Olsen says that this has been the first of a series of teas to feature displays from many of the interesting departments of the college. Cooperating with Miss Olsen in planning and supervising the exhibit was Miss Beatrice Williams, head of the department of fine arts. Miss Olsen announces that the exhibit is open at any time during the weekend to college girls, their dates, and friends.

All bookbinders were monks in the Middle Ages of Europe, this being considered a sacred profession.

Panamanians Realize War Danger

Homes of Margaret Greer and Judy Mohr In Canal Zone Would be Targets For Enemy Bombardment

By LOUISE BURGER

With nations tearing each other's hair in Europe, two Panamanians at Florida State college are acutely aware of the grave danger that the Panama Canal zone, their home, is in. Margaret Greer and Judy Mohr, sophomores read with alarm the newspaper accounts of the likelihood of Panama's being involved in a conflict.

Judy and Margaret agree that their first reaction to a declared war would be "To go home—immediately." And on a second thought, "To come back." In case of such emergency, Judy explained, women and children would probably be sent to the United States or to the interior of the Canal Zone.

According to reports in the papers and letters from home, Margaret and Judy have gathered some startling ideas about what could and might happen if warring nations found it profitable to interfere with international trade and commerce by attacking the Canal Zone. Margaret asserted that the Canal Zone being flat and open, it is liable to air bombardment. Using pictures from the November issue of the Life magazine to illustrate, Margaret went on to say that not only would planes be able to blow up the canal, but that they wouldn't have much trouble doing it.

Flood Is Possible

The Canal Zone is an area of about 853 square miles; the canal runs northeast to southwest some 40 miles through the three locks from the Pacific ocean to the Caribbean sea or vice versa. Judy and Margaret collaborated to show that one of the powerhouses were bombed, an entire set of locks would be placed out of commission, thus forcing the discontinuance of ship passage through the canal until repairs were made. Furthermore, the two "Panamanians" continued, if Gatun Lock the lock nearest the Caribbean sea were destroyed, most of the Canal Zone would be covered with 90 feet of water.

Judy is concerned about the food supply, since all the food consumed on the isthmus is shipped down there. If a war should involve the Panama Canal Zone in military action, the civilians would have to exist on army and navy rations. The water supply is sent from Madden Dam, situated in the northern interior of the zone. Right now about 43,000 civilians including army and navy officers and their families live at the Canal Zone. Several thousand natives and about 18,000 troops are stationed there.

Judy lives at Balboa, a small city of government employees. It is a mile from the most important and secret fortification of the canal, Flamingo Island. The island and Judy's house are on the Pacific Ocean side of the canal. Judy pounced on the map of the Canal Zone in life magazine to mark with an X the exact spot of her house. Across the bay, behind Judy's home, is Panama City, capital of Panama. Born in the Canal Zone, Margaret and Judy are equally familiar at Balboa, where Margaret's father is head of transportation and Judy's father is stationed as collector of the canal. Judy says the largest ship to pass through the canal has been the S. S. Bremen, from which a toll of $15,615 was collected.

Black-out Failed

Recently an experimental black-out, part of the defense program of the Canal Zone and the United States government was staged with the discouraging results that the whole of the canal and fortifications were invisible from the air. Announcing the black-out the Panama-American, a Canal Zone paper printed the following story:

"The first complete "black-out" in the history of the Canal Zone took place on Friday night from from 10:45 to 11 o'clock. At a given signal, the main power switches will be thrown and the entire Canal Zone will be plunged in complete darkness . . .

"Purpose of the blackout, besides giving Canal Zone residents the opportunity of experiencing how civilians in London and other cities feel when the air raid sirens begin to screech and the lights go out, is to permit the U. S. Army plans to observe just how much of the Canal and its defenses are visible during a complete blackout . . .

"When the Black-out occurs, cars which are in motion at the time will be required to pull over to the side of the road and extinguish their lights . . . The atmosphere of civilians is called to the fact that during the blackout, they will not be permitted under any circumstances to continue driving their cars with the lights extinguished . . .

"Since the locks will be in complete darkness throughout this maneuver, special protective precautions are being taken to insure that no unauthorized persons penetrate into the locks area while the blackout is in progress. Any attempt to approach the locks or Canal defense installations during the course of the blackout might result disastrously for the persons involved . . .

Second Attempt Made

The first blackout proving a failure, Margaret learned that a second attempt was made in the past few weeks. This proved more success mainly because the lights of the communities of Balboa, Panama City, Colon, and Cristobol were also darkened. Although it might be difficult for the plans to get beyond the 16-inch, 50-ton guns even the crew from dropping explosives over the side of the boat. Along with the blackout would find the canals and some of its main fortifications out in plain view—perfect navigation—but the blackouts become completely successful. The government keeps vigilant guard over all points of the canal, and especially upon the ships passing through the canal. Margaret explained that when a ship enters the mile and a half zone by Navy officials and is guided through the locks by a pilot. For the first lock, a detachment of soldiers and sailors come aboard the ship to be posted in order to prevent the crew from dropping explosives over the side of the boat. Along with the blackout would find the canals and some of its main fortifications out in plain view—perfect navigation—but the blackouts become completely successful. The government keeps vigilant guard over all points of the canal, and especially upon the ships passing through the canal. Margaret explained that when a ship enters the mile and a half zone by Navy officials and is guided through the locks by a pilot. For the first lock, a detachment of

WAA Delegates Will Attend Meet

Ratliff, Rice Chosen To Represent Students

Plans to send delegates to the convention of the southern district of the National Health, Physical Education and Recreational associations were discussed at the meeting of the Woman's Athletic association on Tuesday. The convention, which will meet at Birmingham, Alabama, will be held from March 25 through March 30.

Miss Katherine Montgomery, director of the physical education department, and Miss Ruth Lehman, instructor of physical education, will attend the sessions of the convention for directors and instructors in physical education. Departments of college women to be held Monday through Tuesday.

Louise Rice, present president of W. A. A. and Minnie Ratliff, incoming president, will represent the students in student sessions of the convention which will be held from Wednesday to Saturday.

Louise has been selected chairman of the committee to nominate next years' officers of the student section.

Also at the meeting Tuesday night Paulette Nolan was elected to take charge of badminton this year. Plans to have a faculty-student baseball game were made and a convocation program under the direction of W. A. A. were discussed.

Donald Budge Will Play Exhibition Match Here

Donald Budge, well known professional tennis player, will make a personal appearance at the college gymnasium, March 27. He will play against Miss Beth Lancaster, a member of the city tennis team and supervisor of the kindergarten.

The demonstration will be free and will take place from 4 until o'clock in the afternoon Mr. Budge has consented to answer questions pertaining to tennis after his performance

Dances Planned At YW Vespers

Relation to Religion Will be Emphasized

Dances with religious significance will be presented by the modern dance group under the direction of Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson, instructor in physical education at Y W C A vespers Sunday, March 17. Vespers on this date will be held in the Augusta Conradi Little Theatre at 7:30.

The dances to be presented have been chosen because they center around the idea of religion in primitive and more advanced forms. In these periods dancing was an important part of religious worship and ceremonies for worshiping always including dances of various forms.

The program will include first Earth Worship, the earliest form to be depicted from Primitive Harmony, the next from of dancing in the development of dance in connection with religion follows. Other dances to be executed will be the Yuletide Dance, the Medieval dance and the Sarabande.

Dr Liddell will give an introduction to the program explaining the connection of the dance with the religions of these various periods. The dances will be done by dance classes and by the extra-curricular dance group. Special lighting will be under the charge of Miss Mary Moody, instructor in art and Jean Hendrick, associate professor of textiles and clothing.

The costumes for the dances will be under the direction of Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson.

Woman Golf Professional To Give Demonstration

Miss Helen Dettweiler, professional woman golf player who was scheduled to give an exhibition at the gymkhana Thursday morning was unavoidably called away and was unable to be here at that time However, she will return to Tallahasee on March 26 to give the exhibition

Miss Dettweiler is one of the few women professional players and holds the women's western open championship title. She employed by Wilson Sporting Goods company and a traveling over the country lecturing and playing exhibition games.

"SPEED for bob-sledding thrills!"

S-L-O-W BURNING for smoking thrills!"

says champion "Bucky" Wells

IF you want to know how it feels to go 80 miles an hour on a racing bob-sled, "Bucky" Wells of Keene Valley, N. Y. can tell you. He's done it many times. He likes those speed-thrills on a racing bob. But when it comes to cigarettes, "Bucky" Wells is on the slow side . . . a slow-burning side. That means Camels!

"I've smoked Camels for years and I know they burn slower," "Bucky" says. "There's cool comfort in a Camel. Mildness — mare flavor. And — slow burning means extra smoking. Yes, penny for penny, Camels are the best cigarette buy. I'll tell the world they are!"

Why would anybody feel that way about his cigarette? Try a Camel and see. Camels are a matchless blend of costlier tobaccos...slow-burning. They give more pleasure per puff, more puffs per pack.

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

FOR THE THRILLS AND 'EXTRAS' IN SMOKING — EXTRA MILDNESS EXTRA COOLNESS EXTRA FLAVOR AND EXTRA SMOKING — I PICK THE SLOW-BURNING CIGARETTE — CAMEL

THEY'RE OFF! Streaking down the mile-long icy trough of the St. Yon Horseshoe run at Lake Placid, N. Y., with "Bucky" Wells driving. Fifteen breath-taking turns to go. Fifteen chances to taste the supreme thrills of speed. But in smoking it's different, very different. "It's slow burning that makes a cigarette rich with me," "Bucky" Wells says. And he means what he says. Because slow-burning Camels have been his cigarette for ten years.

ONE-TWO-O-BOY! ONE-TWO-BOB!" And, as the crew bobs, "Bucky" picks up speed...60—70—80 miles an hour, driving high on the glossy wall of ice as he swings the quarter-ton steel sled around the curve. But in the fold of cigarettes, this daring sportsman finds the key to the quality of slow burning that he finds in Camels. You can tell by their mild, mellow taste that Camels burn cooler, slower—and scientists have confirmed this. (See panel, right.)

MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF MORE PUFFS PER PACK!

Camels — the cigarette of Costlier Tobaccos

Copyright, 1940, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina

Vox Populi

When the last vote is counted tonight, election season will be over, and 1227 students will have entered the voting machines to do their bit for their candidates. Although this is a record number of votes cast, it is only 61 per cent of the student body. Last year 63 per cent cast their votes in the major elections, while the year before voting reached a top high with 80 per cent of the students supporting nominees. (Elections in 1938 had been stimulated by political parties and pep meetings organized to arouse campus spirit for participation in government.)

No matter how discouraging it may seem having little over half the student body interested enough to exercise their democratic privilege, there may be a ray of consolation in the fact that only from 40 to 50 per cent of the United States citizens generally vote in their presidential elections, and that here in Florida the percentage is down to 40. But for this consolation, we must discount the fact that the United States citizenry is a heterogenous body, made up of people fro mall walks of life and all degrees of education; while we take pride in calling ourselves the "educated," the "informed."

This is the second year we have used voting machines and it is an advance to the organizations concerned. Although the County Commissioners lend the machines gratis, it costs $60 to bring them here. This $60 was divided this year among the following groups: Women's Athletic Association, Dolph Flatarouse, and Phantom, each $10; College Government Association, $20; and the student activity fund, $20. Last year C. G. A. bore the expense alone. This expense has been incurred because it is felt that the students can benefit by these lessons in practical citizenship. Last year the proportional system was tried, but was discarded this year because it was found too complicating and because, as a number of large cities who were experimenting with it had been forced to return to their old systems, it was doubted the method was really not educational.

When so many people spend so much time planning, and so many candidates work themselves into temperatures over their campaigns, it is surprising that the other half can stay at home at the crucial moment. Students of the other half protest that they are too busy right now with quarterlies and term papers, that they don't know any of the candidates and therefore don't think they could vote intelligently, and that it really doesn't matter anyway who wins.

Now the elections committee carefully worked out a plan so that no one would have to waste much time waiting in line by the machines because it was noted last year that many students did not have time to vote. Pictures of the candidates were pasted on the bulletin board and candidates were introduced in convocation. Those running for major offices even made speeches in convocation and were open to public questioning.

There is probably good reason for the students' slight acquaintance with minor candidates. They merely walk across the stage and at the sound of their name take one bow and with a strained smile and march on into the wings. Perhaps this plan could be worked out to overcome this difficulty by calling on N. S. F. A. meeting previous to elections. At this time all the candidates could be introduced, and the students could question them on their views and qualifications. This would probably be more successful than the conversation questionings between the halves of the formal and less forbidding, with students really interested in elections attending the forum.

Interest must be up to the student herself. If she can live in the college community without caring who governs it and without making any attempt to enter it, all the voting machines, all the careful planning, and all the speeches are of no avail, and she will always be one of the other half.

—Margaret Scott.

Defeating Ourselves

About 100 students of this college met Monday afternoon at the N. S. F. A. forum to discuss the recently imposed light restrictions that have been the subject of much heated interest during the last week. The students were exercising their rights as intelligent, reasonable human beings to express themselves on an issue which, judging from the opinions voiced at the meeting, does not have their approval. It is the purpose of the student forum to serve as a place where students may go and voice their opinions on issues, either pro or con, as they come upand N. S. F. A. is to be complimented on having this forum so soon after the issue became known. In these respects the student meeting held Monday was justifiable and reasonable, because in a democracy we have freedom of expression. We have the privilege of protesting to rules we consider objectionable.

However, there are some phases of that same meeting that were not justifiable and were not reasonable. On the contrary, there was open evidence of rudeness, disrespect and disorder.

Anyone attending the particular N. S. F. A. forum in question knows at once the suggestion to which these adjectives apply. The speaker brought in to represent the health committee's point of view was kind enough to come and discuss, on the one key his position and age should warrant, regardless of whether he had to say or how the students felt.

If we only could realize it, we would know that exhibitions like the one we've just cited defeat our purposes, rather than accomplish what we want. We ebtain to be heard. I feel capable of looking out for ourselves, yet the discourtesy shown at that meeting would indeed give cause for doubt.

Your Government.....

By MAXINE ARMISTEAD

The column today will be a continuation of the discussion of the judicial branch of our government. Week before last we took up judiciary; now we have lower court or the residence hall committee, the off-campus committee, and the new system of house councils in operation for the first time this year. Let us begin with the house councils, for it is from this that cases are referred to the residence hall or off-campus committee.

* * * * *

House Council . . . .

House council was set up to answer a need which has been felt for some time. While it is still in the experimental stage, it has filled its purpose and will be continued next year. Each dormitory has its own council, with the house chairman who acts as representative to the residence hall committee as chairman, the various floor chairmen as members, and the director of the hall acting in advisory capacity.

Each floor chairman has the following duties: to be responsible for investigating irregularities, to make a written report to the director and to the house chairman, to send warnings, to discuss irregularities with the directors, and to appoint proctors. The irregularities with which house council is concerned are: entering late from campus (not riding), failure to sign off engagement card twice, improper arrangements for day trip, failure to have town house approved, to sign up for town visit, to sign up to spend the night out of the room, to sign off overnight absence card at light flash, being out of the room after light flash, typing after light flash, spending the night three in a room, failure to sign off riding by seven thirty or to introduce a date, improper arrangements for long hikes, late dismissing dates, lights on with no light cut, consistently dirty room, excessive noise, too many dates, and disregarding house council restrictions.

* * * * *

Purpose . . . .

The principles behind the workings of house council are several. Each floor chairman has the responsibility of seeing that the girls on the hall know about the regulations and the reasons for them. It is believed that the floor chairman can know the girls personally and understand their viewpoint better by this system of direct contact. Too, with this plan a girl will not have a court record because she misunderstands or accidentally breaks a rule. She does not even go to a house council unless an irregularity occurs several times in succession, for the first time a rule is broken the floor chairman discusses it with the girl without any record of it being made. House council may impose restrictions of one sort or another, or put a student upon house council probation, which means a trip to the residence hall committee at the next offense.

Each house council serves as a policy forming body for the separate dormitories. However, they have to approve the use of the parlors by various organizations for entertainments in Landis the decision regarding the use of elevators after light flash was made by the house council.

* * * * *

Residence Hall Committee . . . .

The residence hall committee is made up of the house chairmen of the dormitories which include Ruth Bassett, chairman of the house chairmen and of the residence hall committee. Those chairmen are Harriet Gill and Anne McMorris from Randolph, Lucile Hall from Gilchrist, Mary Wimberly from Broward, Louise Clark from Bryan, Wilma Johns from Reynolds, and Linnie Lou Gautier and Evelyn Gordon from privately owned houses.

The cases coming to the residence hall committee are those referred from house council, or for entering late after a dance, improper arrangements for an overnight, absence a guest spending the night in the room, freshmen and sophomores riding after dark, failure to sign up or to have riding approved, going over a study sign, using a radio in the room, taking too many week-ends, failure to make arrangements for entering a hall, and disregarding house council probation or restrictions placed by the residence hall committee. In the instance of repeated appearance before the residence hall committee for a serious infraction, the committee may place a girl upon lower court probation, which entails no penalties, but means that any further irregularity occurs the case will be referred to judiciary. All similar infractions occurring in off-campus houses are dealt with by the off-campus committee, which operates on the same plan, and of which Marjorie Morrison is chairman.

Continued on Page

Purpose . . . .

Besides dealing with cases of infraction the residence hall committee meets weekly to discuss policies and to serve as much interest as possible in dealing with the cases in house council. Each case coming before the committee is dealt with thoroughly and after that the girl in case may have every opportunity to explain her actions and how the infraction occurred, for this reason there can be no set rule of conduct governing any particular case.

Mamie Ruth Bassett suggested that more importance and attention should be given to the selection of house chairmen. Few people realize that these are the girls who make the lower court and are their representatives there. Often lower court can talk to a girl, correct her misunderstandings of the rules and the reason for their existence, and prevent an eventual trip to judiciary.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace. . .

It is indeed gratifying to see that the Health committee is so concerned about our well-being. I hope they continue to be so, for there's one matter they should look into, when they have time:

What I'm driving at is the lighting of the classrooms and the library. Sometimes the light from the sun is poor outside, but unfortunately it is very effective, too, in cutting off light from the classrooms in the bottom floors of the library and in the basement. Down at the administration school a fine big oak was cut down because it was shading rooms on the north side of the building too much. Couldn't we spare a little greenery and save the precious eyes of our young womanhood?

Lighting in the periodical room has been improved, but the card catalogue is still pretty much in the dark, as are other rooms in the library. One is tempted to take a flashlight along to locate bound volumes of magazines.

Now that we students are assured of enough sleep to keep us going, it seems to me that the next step in our improvement could be conserving our eyesight.

—Jean Sistler

Collegiate Comebacks

Columnist's note: This week's column is a conglomeration of feeble attempts at wit from your regular columnist and tryouts for next year's column-writer. Everything even slightly humorous is from the tryouts.

* * * *

And concerning the light restriction situation, we have nothing more to say except:

'Twas midnight and the stealthy steps
Did stop and hover at my door—
All pussyfooted was my crinkly spine.
As I studied on the floor.

'Beware the light-out law, my girl,
The rules that catch the studious sort,
Beware the proctor, yes, and shun
The frumious lover-parent!

I took my science book in hand
Long time the proper gear I sought;
So studied I by the muffled light,
And sat awhile in thought.

And as in uffish thought I sat,
The proctor with her eyes of flame
Came quickly in the dimlit room,
And frowned as she came.

'And hast thou broke the light-out law?
Give me your name my erring maid—
Oh, dimlit, dark, today,
I shall not make my grade.

* * * *

Elections are here again with the usual increase in bright and friendly faces—or could it be the Wednesday Seven Hours Sleep each night?

* * * *

But say what you will about 12 o'clock light flash—it is wonderful to go to bed at 10:30 with an easy conscience because one really can't get much done in an hour and a half—(but no!)

* * * * *

It's a Very Good Thing that Easter Vacation is just one week off—if we have to listen just one more time to the exciting things Cute Girls did at Military Ball. At least they will have a new angle on the old stories after Easter

* * * * *

We knew Spring was really here when we saw the new outfits going down to O'ville two weeks ago—now is the time for most of us to drag out last summer's cute little numbers—just to keep in the swing of things.

* * * * *

That mob scene in the Spirit last night wasn't a political rally—it was just the Pree Ciarette Man again.

* * * * *

He snuk in the back door to the roaring tune of "The Camels are Comina."

* * * * *

Here's another One Of Those Things—a new freshman story—A puzzled, peculiarly freshman voice was heard saying from the depths of a voting machine:

"What do I do now? I don't know these people" Any candidate that happened to be around must have begun to realize the Futility Of It All.

* * * * *

The Villonovan sums up that Monday Morning Feeling with:

'Move an move on.
Oh time in your flight:
Make the bell ring
Before I recite."

* * * * *

We're wondering how quarterly results are going to work in with—yes, here it is again—Light Flash Restrictions. Oh well, it won't be long before we'll know whether or not a little last minute studying is more help than a good night's sleep when one is in the middle of a test.

* * * * *

Now that . . . well anyway, with a twirl at a villain's mustache we borrowed on campus, we quote the following from the Lasa-O:

"The fog
Comes
On little cat feet.
About the time of examinations
And sits
On silent haunches
Looking over desk and chair
And then moves on . . .
Only sometimes it doesn't."

* * * * *

Exercise (noun) to Increase Your Vocabulary. Repeat slowly ten times immediately after curfew each night. Guaranteed to increase your roommate's vocabulary 100 per cent:

laissez faire—a blonde dame debate—what do fish look

* * * * *

We quote from the column Vox Hop of the Johns Hopkins News Letter:

"The student body of Hopkins would be more cultureconscious if there were less emphasis placed on being cultured and more emphasis placed on being conscious." . . . No comment, just quoting.

* * * * *

Theme song for the week: (V. M. I. Cadet)
"A tisket, a tasket, I hardly think I passed it
And if my parents ever ask, I think that I shall lie."

Magazine Jottings.....

Office Women and Sex Antagonism

By Elizabeth Cushman,
Harpers, March, 1940.

We women are failing to fit ourselves for our real work, keepers of homes, as our grandmothers played the role. Instead we are attempting or preparing to attempt two jobs at once—strenuous business careers with homes as sideline.

Because women aren't physically made for business careers and have to face an unacknowledged sex antagonism, business is a blind alley for the great majority of us is the opinion of Elizabeth Cushman, author of "Office Women and Sex Antagonism."

No matter how much the young working woman attempts apparently to be business-like in thought as well as deed, there is no getting around the fact that she evidences her fundamental feminine pre-occupations in everything she does and says, during as well as after business hours. Discussion of business topics is usually in the form of criticism or complaint about individuals or conditions, and in the main these are intensely personal in their approach to whatever sense of which they find themselves a part. The young unmarried woman takes dictation simultaneously with her indecision of what dress she is to wear for her date that evening; the married woman keeps half her thoughts on her clerical work for instance, and the rest on her home and family.

The other reason why we don't set alone better in business is sex antagonism. The moment we cut the last thread of tradition that separated us from Victorian days and began to accept business responsibilities, the men in the business world began to expect working women to "be able to take it." Although men in the Victorian Age cast a dictatorial influence over their women, they in turn shielded them. Even today domestic housewives are guided under the thumb of man's world; but the working women, who independently compete with men for jobs, have to be able to take all the hard knocks. And that's where sex antagonism begins.

Women's jobs today have stolen from manhood all but retreats from bar to barber shop. "He never gets away from our sex. He is surrounded by women all day in his business life, just as he has always been in his domestic and his social life."

It has long since become old-fashioned for men to complain, however, at the higher status of women. Some of them probably don't even resent it, for in the offices especially women have carried on the age-long custom of making our men's jobs easier and smoother. The miss who says, "Wait till I ask my secretary about that," adding with a laugh, "She knows everything!" has business than I do—is speaking a truth wild horses couldn't draw from me unless he expected his remark to be taken in jest. Men don't resent women as long as they remain underlings. A few men will take orders from a woman and like it. Thus, the "boss" behind the mahogany desk listens to the advice of his stenographer, pays her for it with a salary that in comparison to a man holding the same position, and the general public praises the "boss" for his shrewd, original ideas.

"We women aren't fooling anyone but ourselves" says Miss Cushman, "and we certainly are not fooling our men. We as a sex take lower wages than men because we know we have no right to desert our homes and our families; still we take whatever we can get and say, smirkingly, 'We haven't been in business long enough yet—' We're grateful to them for letting us do litter jobs for them, and as one author so aptly states, "We're doing pretty well in getting one portion of the male population to let us work for them so that we can help support the other portion!" Such scorn we have aquired has been earned by our willingness to work so hard for so little.

A certain amount of business experience, admits Miss Cushman, helps to broaden a woman's viewpoint—just as long as she isn't a 'career' woman for more than five years. Working women after marriage definitely prejudice against the number of nagging wives in the country, give the working girl a perspective of herself, make her realize the meaning and value of money, and influence her to have consideration for workers. At the end of five years, however, says the author, the honest girl, who also has been seeking money and experience, will readily admit that she has had very little of the one and quite enough of the other.

"Five years is the longest stretch of time a girl can afford to take out of her life in order to learn how to live the rest of it," is the opinion of the author. "It is one of the prices we pay for being women!"

—Doris Carter.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

JEANNETTE MILLER, Editor-in-Chief
MABEL SEWELL, Associate Editor
MURIEL BRYAN, LOUISE HICK, Managing Editors
VIVIAN ARLEWINE, News Editor

Reporters: Harriet Benson, Bertha Bond, Mary Catherine Bozel, Louise Burney, Mary Caldwell, Doris Carter, Marlene Dai, Pauline Dickinson, Dee Dees, Helen Duncan, Mary Taylor Gilbert, Barbara Hickman, Emma Jean Ripley, Bettie Hoyt, Betty McCraw, Mabel Mitchell, Mary Elizabeth Moore, Mary Nell Nix, Francis Orr, Velma Pate, Grace Rushing, Sylvia Sanders, Betty Ann Taylor, Jeanie Thomasson, Isabelle Waterhouse, Bess Young, Vivian Walker

Exchanges: Polly Douglas; Outside News, Margaret Painter; Columnist, Jean Sistler; Society, Dorothy Scott, Barbara Bond, Sara Hoover; Copy Editor, Sarah Wells; Picture Editor, Iris Bell.

BUSINESS STAFF

GRACE SPARKMAN, Business Manager
LILLIAN SOWDERS, Assistant Business Manager
VELMA PATE, Circulation
MARY OLLEN GRIGGS, Advertising

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1925, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Members: National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association.

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y.
CHICAGO · BOSTON · LOS ANGELES · SAN FRANCISCO

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

Of The World

By HARRIET BENSON
Over There

peace, transient as it may be for a time over Finland, ...ssar and little understood ...ny many doubt its durability ...ere, sincerity. However, ...e is an explanation for it ...e seems logical. Namely ...

...ld Marshal, Hermann Goering, ...g Minister Two Nazi, seems ...e at the bottom of the Russo-...n peace maneuvers and if ...e acted, it has been through ...e Wenner Gren, a Swedish ...friend. Gren is said to be ...most powerful man in Europe ...en he is certainly the richest. ...These two men, Goering, ...n, and Gren, the plutocrat ...Swede, have been close friends ...since Goering married ...ir first wife, the niece of ...Baron Rosen. However, ...e fortune of Goering and ...r prominence in the peace ...Summer Welles' shadow ...e seen these, too.

...ll began during a pleasure ...ake by Gren on his yacht ...ssau several months ago. ...e wealthy Swede was the ...actor a coded message was ...ed by him from Goering ...e sailor aided him to take ...e ship that Summer Welles ...going on his peace mission ...e fire in New York made ...ssible and boarded the ...ner. On arriving in Rome, ...e was the first of the two ...d Mussolini. From there ...went to Berlin where Gren ...ained, at present he is ...k in Berlin, doing all that ...y know and experience in ...s of the kind give him the ...e to do toward an early ...

Swedes In Danger

...den and Goering are working ...ace for a purpose. If Rus...a campaign against Finland ...ld continue and, in the end, ...e successful, Sweden would ...ably be the next battle ...und. This would be as disas...s to Swedish industries as ...s having the Allies attempt ...ve to stop Russia. In either ...e Sweden, rich iron deposits ...ld be in the hands of a for...power. Neither Goering nor ...n want this. As for Mr. Welles ...s a Russia that is tranquil ...d productive is much more ...ortant than a warring Russia. ...is peaceful can guard against ...alism of fields, invaluable ...Germany and give plentifully ...the raw materials to the Nazi ...chinery. A war in Sweden would ...Hitler's various industrialists ...The activity of Gren reflects ...e attitudes of men on Wall ...eet and in London's City ...rangely enough, these men ...for the most part, ardent ...s for peace, now or soon. ...e reason for this opinion is ...Uncle Sam's delightful ...ness war times has cut down ...e sending funds abroad. ...Uncle Sam, through Jesse ...es, Pur Wall Street and Lon...n's City, have's no money to ...and if Nazi communism wins, ...e capitalist system will be ...mpaired.

Over Here

...ll present, we have no ambas...ors to Germany. It is said that ...e fact, no one of those that ...ir scolded Sumner Welles ...ined during his trip to the Nazi ...ntry cannot. Among those ...sible for this position Char...s Pickett seems to be the most ...ly prospect. Pickett is a ...Saint and is head of the Amer...n Friends Service Company. ...e has lived in Europe, near ...rmany and is acquainted with, ...t only the "High and Mighty" ...Nazi-land, but also the lower ...ers of the Nazi-land, but also the lower ...ers. At present, Pick...n is the peace negotiator at the ...ment.

...s appointment is being pro...ted by several prominent men. ...ends of Pickett, who feel that ...e United States needs some one ...e there like him who, on the ...ntal, has his finger on Ger...many's pulse.

Election Returns

President of C. G. A
Cornelia Walton 772
Pat Brandt 423
Chairman of Judiciary
Carolyn Mims, (elected by 81 per cent vote in primary).
Freshman Adviser
Elisabeth Linn 631
Gene Bryan 561
First Vice-President C. G. A.
Mary Pierson, (elected by 51 per cent vote in primary.)
Second Vice-President C. G. A.
Second Vice-President of C. G. A.
Ella Maude Cone 646
Paulette Nolan 540
Third Vice-President of C. G. A.
Maxine Armistead 774
Mary Frances Byrum 386
Secretary of C. O. A.
Sue Conley 595
Kitty Jo Hickman 387
Treasurer of C. G. A
Beryl Adams 663
Edith Williams 510
Chairman of Residence Hall Committee
Wilma Johns 698
Nelle Leyden 477
Editor-in-Chief of Flambeau
Margaret Cone 492
Margaret Painter 492
Editor-in-Chief of Diutell
Vivian Ahlswede 841
May Weltner 533
President of Women's Athletic Association
Minnie Ratliff, (elected by 51 per cent vote in primary).
Senior Intramural Manager
Frances Brown, (elected by 51 per cent vote in primary).
Chairman of Y-W Cabinet Committee
Nell Thompson 643
Hilda Kingood 336

State Scientists Plan Round Table

The Florida Academy of Sciences, Tallahassee section, will hold its first meeting for before the general public on Monday evening, March 18, at 8 o'clock in the Augusta Conradi theater, according to an announcement made by Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, who is president of the Tallahassee section of the academy.

Members of the college faculty who will lead and participate in the round table discussion are Dr. Kathryn P. Abbey, professor of history, Dr. C. P. Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology, Dr. Robert B. Mitty, assistant professor of philosophy, Dr. Harold F. Richards, professor of physics, and Dr. Sarah Parker Wilson, professor of biology. Dr. Richards will act as chairman, and Dr. William M. Barrows Jr., assistant professor of physics, will serve as moderator of the round table. The topic which has been selected for discussion is "Science and Use Abuse of the Concept of Cause and Effect in Various Fields of Knowledge."

Music rendered by the Little Theater orchestra will be a part of the general program of the evening. Dr. Richards, chairman of the round table discussion, the audience will have the privilege of questioning the faculty members on their points of view concerning the various applications of the concept of cause and effect.

Dining Hall Issues Holiday Schedule

Beginning with dinner on March 21 through dinner, March 26, all meals will be served in the College dining hall (second floor south).

Beginning on March 22 through March 25, breakfast will be served at 8:30. Doors will be closed ten minutes after the bell has rung. The ringing bell will ring at 8 o'clock.

Other meal hours will be as usual, lunch at 12:45 and dinner at 6:30.

Tables for the entire holiday or for single meals may be reserved at the dining hall desk beginning at lunch on Thursday, March 21.

Camp and food orders will be handled only in morning office hours, 10:45 to 12:15.

College dining hall.
Anna M. Tracy, dietitian.

Johnson Favors Keenness Above Preparation

Pitkin's Assistant Says Writing Field Open to Clever Girl

"Although most people say that you should take specialized courses in college, I am constantly amazed at what girls do in the publishing field who are prepared without any preparation. You only have to have brains to succeed," Miss Johnson, editorial assistant to Dr. Walter B. Pitkin, assured Flambeau reporters on a recent visit to Florida State campus.

Miss Johnson and Dr. Pitkin, who are making a survey of Florida newspapers, arrived in Tallahassee Tuesday afternoon to speak to a journalism class at the college, en route to Gainesville.

Continuing a list of her line of thought, Miss Johnson told of two women she knew who had started out with a little time and with on previous experience or training.

One of these was a recent graduate of the University of Missouri at Columbia. She had a good job in Oklahoma, however she wanted to be in New York, so she went into radio. Although she had no experience, she got interested in having good contacts and knowing how to use them. Through these she was able to get an introduction into the CBS company. Here she found that there was an opening for a stenographer in the publicity department if she knew shorthand and typing well and could exert to work on the broadcasting studios. She was certain that this job would lead to her getting radio copy reading in which she was interested, and she was determined to have it. However, it was already Thursday and she couldn't take shorthand until Monday.

When she went to a business school with that idea, Miss Johnson, her shorthand in three and one-half days, they told her it was impossible. Nevertheless she persisted, and by Monday was able to pass a test which secured her job.

Another example of an untrained woman getting the job she wanted was told by Miss Johnson. She told of that this woman also had the handicap of being middle-aged with she explained, is a great disadvantage in securing work in New York. She had for years collected clippings from books, magazines, newspapers, and pamphlets of anything concerning women "She showed me her files and they had over 10,000 cards I thought very foolish and told her so. However, six months later she had developed the program for the last American book which is heard over CBS and which deals with American women, their work and those of contemporary times. This program was considered so constructive by the Federal Bureau of Education that it has been taken over by them.

Asked if she did any writing on her own Miss Johnson replied "was a modest, "Yes, some," and a quick change of subject to "You have a lovely campus here isn't it quite a large school?"

Presbyterians Are In Charge of Play

An Easter pageant "He Is Risen," written by Dorothy Lohman Sumerau, will be presented by the Presbyterian student group at the Presbyterian church, Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock.

The cast will include Louise Crosby, representing the character of Mary; Virginia Ferrar, Martha; Mary Rhame, Rebecca; and Helen Iverman, Judith. Two angels' voices will be Jeanette Faulds, Helen, and Caroline Brinson, Daphne. Betty Van Pleet will take the part of Peter, and Peggy Thornton that of Lucius. Lowell Patterson, Mark Vaughan, and Martha Belle Durrance will represent three Roman soldiers.

Consisting of two parts, both scenes of the pageant will be laid in the garden of a Jewish home in Jerusalem during the feast of the Passover.

The various committees which are supervising the details of the pageant are: dramatics, Louise Crosby and Betty Ferrar; properties, Corrine Butler and Pauline Morrow. Mrs. Calidwell has charge of the decoration, and Catherine Burgess, the program. The directors are Miss Miriam Wilson, student secretary, and Doris Terrell.

Home Economics, Ag Students Meet

The second annual conference of student teachers in home economics and agriculture took place last Saturday afternoon, when plans for developing a cooperative program of home economics and agriculture in schools and in the community as the theme of the meeting. Attending the conference were 16 agriculture students from the University of Florida, 26 students from the home economics department in addition to both teacher trainers from the two state universities and J. Frankin Williams, state superintendent of agriculture education, and Miss Estelle Proctor, state supervisor of home economics education.

Talks and discussions of pertinent subjects such as "Duties of the Agriculture Teacher in School and Community," "Agencies in the Community with which the Teachers Can Cooperate," "Methods of Developing a Program in Home Economics and Agriculture," and "the Units of Work in Home Economics Below and the Units in Agriculture for Girls," highlighted the program.

Dr. Ruth Connor, professor of home economics, Mrs Nina Rike Williams, critic teacher of home economics, and Mrs Rex Todd Whitney, state supervisor of trade in home economics, conducted the committee directing the conference.

Results of Light Experiment Given

The results of the recent two-week light extension experiment with 224 college girls participating in the experiments were announced by the Florida Power company this week. The preliminary records were checked every day during the two weeks of the experiment, about one-third of the participants showing daily variations. This percentage was 73 of the 547 students taking part in the experiment. Six hundred and thirty dormitory girls took part with 224 using light extensions 26 of the students using lights in their study lights on after 12 o'clock; and 99 of the 224 using lights on for the experiment signed the slips.

In the majority of cases, lights were turned off between 1 and 2 o'clock. Statistics record that 214 turned their lights off between 1 and 2 o'clock, 379 between one and two, 29 between two and three, only five between 3 and 4, and one student kept her lights on all night.

These figures are approximately 1/3 of the number of hours used for students forgetting to turn in light slips.

Dr. Lewis and McKinnell Go to Chemistry Meeting Saturday in Gainesville

Dr. Leland J. Lewis, Dr. B. W. McKinnell, and Miss Ruth Bidwell, of the college chemistry department, and Mrs. Leland Lewis, attended the meeting of the Florida Section of the American Chemical society held in Gainesville last Saturday.

Dr. Charles E. Rawlins, president of Gustavus J. Esselen company of Chemists and Chemical Engineers of Boston, was the speaker for the meeting.

Then she went on to tell about the interesting people she has met in connection with this campus, the reporters again asked her about her work. "I don't like it," she answered, "because I find I would make such nice contacts —most such interesting and exciting contacts, you know that's not the way to decide on the kind of work you want to do."

Miss Johnson worked on the staff of the American Girl, national Girl Scout magazine. She also worked on the Encyclopedia Britannica before becoming Dr. Pitkin's assistant. She has attended five colleges or universities, among which are Ohio State, Michigan State and Smith.

Vacation Notice

This is to call your attention to the information regarding arrangements for Easter vacation which has been posted on the bulletin boards in your residence. We will appreciate your making your arrangements for the holidays as soon as possible.

And They Said Santa is Dead

A certain member of the faculty who begs to remain anonymous has just made a contribution to the "March of Dollars" drive comparable only to a Federal aid grant.

With his $5 contribution he or she included a letter of agreement which stated that when the faculty has given $400 he will give another $5 to complete the first $500, and when the total faculty contribution reaches $985 he will contribute $15 to round out the first thousand. For each $500 faculty contribution over $1000 he will give $5.

P. S. This agreement is contingent only with the recipt of future salary checks, he added.

Stuart Chase Will Speak At Annual FEA Meeting

The fifty-fourth annual meeting of the Florida Education association will be held in Orlando March 28, 29, and 30. At this time one of the speakers will be Stuart Chase, well-know writer.

The headquarters for the meeting will be at the San Juan hotel, however, all the Orlando hotels will cooperate in providing special rates for visiting teachers.

Associate professor of industrial arts, Miss Bernice Deeta, is chairman of the Art Division in the state and Miss Ruth Wilburn, also associate professor of industrial arts, will attend from Florida State college.

Senior Hall Leaves Light Question to Individuals

Concerning the new light regulation, the Senior hall council has carried at the Senior hall meeting last Sunday: We, as members of Senior hall, as a group, recognizing the importance of health, individually accept the responsibility of getting enough sleep.

Mary Frances Byrum is the chairman of Senior hall, and the following girls compose the hall council: Rose Mary Carlton, Margaret Lingo, Connie Ash, Lillian Fleet, Muryl Rowe, Dorothy Kloeppel, Marjorie Jessup, Hazel Wilkerson, Bonnie Turnbull, and Virginia Milton.

AAUW to Hear Andrews

Dr. Elisabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel will speak in Gainesville next week before the Fla. W. Div. Conference. Her subject will be: "Finding Our Possibilities." Dr. Andrews plans to go to Gainesville on Thursday and from there on to Lake Wales where she will spend her Easter vacation.

Strauss Club Organized By Waltz-Lovers

Members of New Dance Group Glide to Soft Strains From Records

"Danube so blue, as onward you flow"—to the dreamy waltzes of Strauss waltzes, a group of unconsciously dressed Florida State college girls glide lightly about every evening from 7:15 until 7:45. They are members of the exclusive Strauss Club

The members of this new group include Jeanne McPherrel, Marion Gaddum, Bertha Bond Bertha Bloodworth, Betty Cowles, Vivian Ahlswed, Amelia Stone and Dorothy Miller.

Definite requirements have been established that each member must meet. For example each must know how to waltz. No jitterbugs may join. Each member must contribute a small amount of money in order that the record library may increase. Each member must give one half hour during the week and three hours on Saturday night to waltzing. No cuts are allowed.

Upon accidentally going by the room during one of these sessions one finds all the furniture piled in one corner, and shoes scattered here and there—and the dancers sway about with bare feet, but sometimes a person just passes through the door and peers in the closet when she takes them off, and when the beds are moved, there they are.

Every member has her own individual interpretation of the waltz. Amelia leads in a most dignified manner, Jeanne Bond Betty and Bertha Bond like to adapt steps to the three-four time of the waltz compositions. Vivian likes to add a graceful leap to each step she takes.

After a 30 minute stretch the girls have the job of unraveling the furniture again. That is quite a task. They do it all, dancing and furniture moving, "just for pleasure." They say that a waltz is harder work than jitterbugging.

Music for this weekly diversion is furnished by Jean's record player, which plays the records through the radio loud speaker. On failure of the pick-up, Bertha Bond plays Chopin's waltzes on the piano in Reynolds' rec.

Blair and Crouch Present Junior Speech Recitals

Beth Blair and Marie Crouch will present their junior speech recitals last night by performing "Full Circle," a light comedy, and selections from "Victoria Regina." Beth prav "Full Circle's" part in the four-act play, a college girl's life, while Marie gave the dramatic interpretation of "Bereavement" from Lawrence Housman's "Victoria Regina."

Ushers for the recital were: Lillian Garcia, Elette Steele, Mary Blair, Marilyn Hutchinson, Betty Ross Scott, Eleanor Scott, Marjorie Smith and Mary Ann McCall's.

Bellamy Addresses 4-H Club Members

Dr. Raymond Bellamy, head of sociology department, presented a direct challenge to members of the 4-H club at their monthly meeting held recently, when he talked on the preservation of our natural resources, which develops happier and more meaningful living within rural and small community sections.

At the recent business meeting of the 4-H club a revised form of the club's constitution was read and approved. There was some discussion concerning requirements for membership, and whether girls with no previous affiliation with a 4-H club would be acceptable for membership. A committee was appointed to formulate an amendment to the constitution considering the question.

Columnist Promises to Disclose Beauty Section Girls Next Week

General College Weekend Will Feature Music Of Jack Teagarden; Politics Begin to Stir

Did ya miss us?

We honestly wrote a column last week, but we're still looking for it. We have a sneaking suspicion that Mr. Cox, our city editor just threw it out We have a hunch, though, that you could ya expect after Military Ball weekend.

Speaking of the General College Queen becau Thursday here, and with that celebration of feminine pulchritude—whew!—on display, it's easy to see why Military Ball has suddenly blossomed into the most popular building on the campus.

And speaking of queens, let us whisper a few shell-like ears that finally next Friday we'll tell you what beauties among you have been represented in the Seminole beauty section. We already have the pictures, so let it out till next week. Kay Kyser was in the public eye, but he really been no politics to the section this year, not that there couldn't be a few.

There's a long story tied up with Jack Teagarden and Harry Brown, editor, turns pale green every time it's mentioned. They sent 34 pictures off to Kyser, who was then in New York, and when he got back to Kyser's decision. About six weeks later the pics got yet to be head from, so began a stream of wires.

The sad, sad tale climaxed that the 34 pictures Kyser had received but two. Exit most or Mr. Brown's hair. After a while the lost pictures were discovered to have been cut from publication to postoffice, but finally they all were accounted for. It too Kay Kyser's delirium weekend to make up his mind there were so many beauties. Of course we don't know thet's true, but it sounds better than saying he's too dog busy, doesn't it?).

General College weekend will feature the music of Jack Teagarden, ya can bet on it It's not officially announced yet but everything is practically in the bag. They were lola of so that prayed every night that Glenn Miller might put in an appearance here, but sure we should have known better from the start. Teagarden, ya know, used to be with Paul Whiteman.

You're in the midst of politics and we're starting the meeting of cleht? stuff. All the power ers what be are organize and it's a strange day when you don't surprise at least one mysterious looking bunch ensconced in whispers accompanied by vigorous head shaking. It's a great thing this politics business.

Plenty of good reports have filtered regarding the last month-dance, and we're looking forward with much joy to Spring-Hi! Which reminds us that's all this we hear about harems and slaves Friday nights? It sure sounds mighty interesting!

Plenty of action on our constitution revision going on. The committee appointed has presented us with a streamlined version, and they're ready for it to be read now. Most everybody seems in favor of it, but there's always that clown to R we'll bet there aren't 50 people out of the whole school who even know the constitution, streamlined or no.

It's bad enough now to a degree, but those coeds are rarer than the proverbial heb's teeth, but we're getting after our studios and ask you to pick your campus queen, and bring a thing to our office. Yet the other day the Allstator received a bulletin asking them to offer a prize—crown, I guess, so she might be elig-ible to take part in the other beauty contest.

When she went to a business school with that idea, Miss Johnson, her shorthand in three and one-half days, they told her it was impossible. Nevertheless she persisted, and by Monday was able to pass a test which secured her job.

Another example of an untrained woman getting the job she wanted was told by Miss Johnson. She told of that this woman also had the handicap of being middle-aged with she explained, is a great disadvantage in securing work in New York. She had for years collected clippings from books, magazines, newspapers, and pamphlets of anything concerning women "She showed me her files and they had over 10,000 cards I thought very foolish and told her so. However, six months later she had developed the program for the last American book which is heard over CBS and which deals with American women, their work and those of contemporary times. This program was considered so constructive by the Federal Bureau of Education that it has been taken over by them.

Asked if she did any writing on her own Miss Johnson replied was a modest, "Yes, some," and a quick change of subject to "You have a lovely campus here isn't it quite a large school?"

You'll Dance Smoother
If your floor is Waxed
With Johnson's Dance Wax

Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & VON INC
YON'S HARDWARE

THE SWEET SHOP
At The South College Gate
PHONE 1091
Complete Fountain Service
Little Dinners
Home Made Pies and Cakes
Cold Plates - - - Sandwiches

Colored Easter Legs
in Larkwood HOSIERY
Legs as fragile as Easter eggs . . .
that's the hosiery look this Spring. But there's no foolishness about these colors, tender though they be.
Morning Glory blends with greys and blues. Locket illuminates golds and greens. Polka flashes with navy and beige. Rosebud sparkles with pastels and brown. They are the Larkwood Colonial Colors.
the VOGUE tallahassee.
feminine wearables

Moon Over Miami

Starring
Don Ameche
Betty Grable
Robert Cummings
Carole Landis
Jack Haley
Charlotte Greenwood
Cesar Romero
Jane Darwell
Robert Conway
Vivian Blaine
Wally Vernon
Billy Gilbert
Hal K. Dawson
Directed by Walter Lang
Produced by Harry Tugend
Screen Play by Vincent Lawrence and Brown Holmes
Based on a story by Kathryn Scola and Walter Bullock

Coming Soon to the
STATE
FRIDAY—MARCH 15th
Walt Disney's
Pinocchio
...and you've missed a Treasure

...ATURDAY—MARCH 16
Mat. 3:30 p.m.—Night 8:30 p.m.
SEATS NOW ON SALE
Make Reservations Early

MAT: ORCH	$1.65—$1.10
BALCONY	$1.10— .75
NIGHT: ORCH	$2.20—$1.65
BALCONY	$1.65—$1.10

Federal Tax Additional. Govt. Tax

On Stage—In Person
EDWARD EVERETT HORTON
—In—
"SPRINGTIME FOR HENRY"
THE FUNNIEST, FASTEST ROMANTIC COMEDY THAT EVER PLAYED IN NEW YORK AND LONDON! HORTON WILL BE SEEN AS THE WEALTHY, STAGE-STRUCK PLAYBOY WHO CAN'T KEEP OUT OF TROUBLE. AN EXCITING "FULL CIRCLE" AND HILARIOUS, EXCITING LAUGHS FROM START TO FINISH!

SUNDAY & MONDAY
March 17-18
Walt Disney's
THE
Blue Bird
A Paramount Picture
IN TECHNICOLOR
SHIRLEY TEMPLE
in
"BLUE BIRD"

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
March 19-20
ALLAN JONES
in
"Great Victor Herbert"

TUESDAY
March 19
Columbia presents
BLONDIE Takes a VACATION
BLONDIE Plays BUDGET
with
PENNY SINGLETON
ARTHUR LAKE
LARRY SIMMS
JANET CHAPMAN
DONNIE DUNAGAN
DANNY MUMMERT
and
JONATHAN HALE
Directed by Frank R. Strayer
Produced by Robert Sparks
Original Screen Play by Richard Flournoy

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
March 20-21
Walt Disney's
INVISIBLE MAN RETURNS
with
VINCENT PRICE
NAN GREY
CEDRIC HARDWICKE
and
JOHN SUTTON
Directed by Joe May
Produced by Ben Pivar
Screen Play by Lester Cole and Curt Siodmak
Based on a story by H. G. Wells

RITZ
FRIDAY, MARCH 15
"Gulliver's Travels"
Feature Cartoon
SAT. SUN. MON.
March 16-17-18
Walt Disney's
Pinocchio
ADS IT DOES
...as you'll love
Time to see it
See Characters to take their places with all SCARCE IMMEDIATELY
TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
March 19-20
SHIRLEY TEMPLE
in
"BLUE BIRD"
THURSDAY & FRIDAY
March 21-22
ALLAN JONES
in
"Great Victor Herbert"

Dean Hudson Will Set Tempo For Annual Panhellenic Hop

Dancing boys and girls, sorority and fraternity letters add pins will be silhouetted in black and white against the walls of a gymnasium decorated with yards of crepe paper of the varied colors symbolic of the campus sororities. Saturday night when Dean Hudson and his Florida Clubmen play for the annual Panhellenic dance.

The orchestra will be located at the west end of the gym, and directly behind the platform will be a backdrop on which a couple dancing will be silhouetted. Surrounding the silhouette will be portrayed in black and white the Greek letters of sororities and fraternities. The names of the different sororities represented on campus will be lettered on strips of crepe paper of their respective colors which will be strung from the balconies to make the ceiling low.

Large representations of sorority pins will decorate the walls.

Acting as chaperons will be Dr. and Mrs. Herman Kurz, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hay, Dr. and Mrs. Paul P. Finney, and Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Sloan.

Honor guests will be Dr. Edward Conrad, Dean Olivia N. Norman, Miss Madeline Duncan

Religious Calendar

Y. W. C. A.

Sunday

7:30—Vespers. Little Theater. A modern dance program will be presented by Miss Nelle - Bond Dickinson and her dance group showing the relationship of words to dance.

Monday

8:30-5:30—Election of Y.W.C.A. officers. Lower floor of the Westcott building.

Tuesday

6:30-5:30—Election of Y.W.C.A. officers.

5:30—Bull session. Broward lounge. Subject: "Loyalty to Friends May Place Us in an Unchristian Position. How Can We Serve Our Friends in Such a Situation?"

Wednesday

7:15—Early morning worship. Western Union room.

PRESBYTERIAN

Saturday

1:30—Play practice and choir practice at the church.

6:30—League supper.

7:30—Easter pageant at the Presbyterian church.

CHRISTIAN

Sunday

7:45—Christian Endeavor. Leader: Harry Rosch. Subject: "Introduce Your Friends to Christ."

Wednesday

7:30—Prayer meeting in charge of the young people.

METHODIST

Sunday

9:45—Church school.

8:30 p. m.—Young people's fellowship hour.

HOLY WEEK SERVICES

Monday

7:30 a. m.—Subject: "The Light of the World." Leader: Frances Baker.

Tuesday

7:30—Christ in Gethsemane." Leader: Gertrude Spettel.

7:30—Vespers. Subject: "Meditations on the Cross." Leader: Pauline Flake.

Wednesday

7:30—"Praying Hands." Leader: Donna Will Brown.

12:40—Spiritual Fellowship with Those Who Suffer."

Thursday

7:30—Communion. "The Last Supper." Leader: The Rev. Jack Anderson.

EPISCOPAL

Friday

8:00—Forum. Subject: "Historic Episcopate." Speaker: The Rev. George Hirley from Thomasville, Georgia.

Sunday

9:30—Study class. Subject: "The Happenings of Holy Week." Leader: Percy Lowe.

7:30—Student auxiliary. Subject: "Cooperation and Unity." Speakers: Beth Colvin and Lenora Dale.

HOLY WEEK VESPER SERVICES

Monday

6:00-6:15—Subject: "Litany of Penitence."

Tuesday

6:00-6:15—"The Story of the Cross."

Wednesday

6:00-6:15—"The Work of the Cross." These services will be given by the Episcopal student choir under the direction of Dorothy West.

NEWMAN CLUB

Saturday

8:15-6:00—St Patrick's Day supper party in Landis recreation room.

Miss Anne F. Pope, Miss Mary Boatwright, Miss M. Kathleen Gruppe, Miss Katherine Byrd, Dr. Annie Tift, Miss Mabel Montgomery, Miss Katherine Warren, Dr. Hazel Stevenson, Miss Sadie Kling, and Miss Florence Tyson. Miss Lelia Venable will act as faculty advisor.

No-breaks during the evening will be Alpha, Beta, Gamma, Eta, Epsilon, Zeta, Eta, Theta.

Anita Jarkel is chairman of the dance, and Carolyn Collins is in charge of decorations.

Love Will Be Theme At Annual Breakfast Party

Members of the Village Vamps will act as hostesses at their annual post-dance breakfast in Bradley morning at the Floridan hotel at 9:30 o'clock.

All Village Vamps attending the waffle breakfast will dress either in white or black, the club colors. A theme of love will be carried out by the use of spring flowers and love birds as decorations.

Dr. Cecile Moore, faculty sponsor for the croup will be honored by a special guest.

A skit will be presented in which all members of the club will take part, and each member will sing something her "goat" song.

Members who will attend are Ann Towson, Beth Rickards, Betty Langston, Pat Brandt, Mary Jane Lambeth, Margaret Ann McGarry, Olive Dell, Gene Parkhill, Dorothy Sheard, Susan Mitchell, Beverly Sheard, Dot Daniel, Mary Bolling Duncan, Mart Pierson, Roberta Rhyne, Barbara Brown, Betty King, Mary Elizabeth Leech, Ann Gamble, Peggy Cabell, Ann Wilson, Dorothy Stallings, Mary Lucille Palmer, Beth Mitchell, Mary Smith, Frances Phillips, and Elaine Beisler.

Elections Close Today As Final Votes Are Cast

Continued from Page One

concerning the annual after the Easter holidays.

Winners in Tuesday's primary by 51 per cent or more were: Aside from Mart Pierson, Munnie Ratliff over Frances Battle and Margaret Clements as president of the Women's Athletic association; and Carolyn Mims over Betty Nickinson and Louise Palmer as chairman of Judiciary. The primary system replaces last spring's system of preferential voting which was abandoned due to confusion caused by the large number of candidates. Several times were also changed in order to avoid confusion in the ball before the six machines. Members of the "21" club and sophomore council will be in charge of the set-up expressed satisfaction at the effectiveness of the change.

Names on today's ballot as a result of yesterday's primary held in special convocation are: For senior representative to Judiciary, Martha Murphy with 577 votes in the primary; Dorothy Nickerson with 568; Betty Nickinson with 425; and Edith Hagan with 248. For sophomore representative to judiciary eight votes cast; candidates were Margaret Barker with 262, Lucian Ellen Hackl with 255 and Betty Hagan with 244. Frances Battle took the lead over Gene Bryan and Rachel Irwin voting to win the office of senior mural manager by a vote of over 51 per cent in Thursday primary.

Today's Ballot Given

Other offices to be filled in today's election include business manager of the Flambeau with Harriet Bennon and Isabel Day as candidates; business manager of the Distaff with Dorothy Mitchell unopposed; vice-president of W. A. A. with Anna Pressley McKay and Jean Wood; secretary of W. A. A. with Starling Hall and Waxies Wood; treasurer of W. A. A. with Frances Eckland and Mary Alice Bonner; business manager of the Flastacowo with Mary Henry and Mary Myers Alford; house chairman with Betsy Bragg and Martha Polsom running for lower Jennie Murphree. Carese Brown and Kathryn Camp for west Landis, Anne Kurtis and Ola Belle Tillman for east Landis. Mary Evelyn Gordon unopposed and automatically elected for Gilchrist; Ruth Autrey for Bryan, Virginia Stuart for Reynolds and Sara King for Jennie Murphree; members of the off-campus committee with Hilda Alagood, Lucille Arnold, Bertha Bond, Dot Helach, Pauline Simon, Elizabeth MacDowell Miller, Mary Frances Ovett, Jean Phillips, Anne Pierce, Neil Thompson, Jean Gilbert, Mildred Jones, and Blanche Saul; and junior representative to Judiciary with Martha Stirberg, Jan Wells, and Mary Carlton.

The polls will be open today until 6:30 with students whose names occur from A to M in the alphabet voting from 8:30 until 11:30; and those whose names occur from N to Z voting from 11:30 until 12:30 and from 1:30 until 3:30. All students unable lated.

Popular Orchestra For Panhellanic Dance

Dean Hudson and his Florida Clubmen, above, who will come to the campus this weekend, will play for the Panhellenic dance tomorrow night in the gymnasium. Hudson's band was organized on the campus of the University of Florida several years ago and since then has become one of the outstanding orchestras of the East.

Alpha Delta Pis Elect Kirkpatrick President

Leota Kirkpatrick was elected president of Alpha Delta Pi sorority at their spring election this week. Other officers are: vice president, Jerry Harbeson, recording secretary, Gene Parkhill; corresponding secretary, Frances Frantham; treasurer, Ann Angel; and chairman of executive council, Anne Lewis.

Retiring officers elected are Coca-Colas and ice cream with chocolate sauce. Faculty members attending were Miss Louise Richardson, Miss Kathleen Gruppe, Miss Louise Limp, and Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson. Students attending were Marjorie Jessup, Katherine Graham, Dorothea Kloeppel, Ruth Rogers, Elizabeth Anne Webb, Sarah Young, Connie Ash, Yvonne Marchessault, Louise Lamb, Miller, Janet Jewett, Martha Robbins, Charlotte Barbiea, Jeanne Webster Lynette Thompson, Frances Slade, Anita Jaeckel, Jeannette Litschagi, Mart Pierson, Jan Wells, and Jean Walker.

College Calendar

March 17—March 23

Sunday

3:00 p. m.—A. G. O. Lenten program—Lower room Westcott building.

5:00 p. m.—Panhellenic Ball — Augusta Conradi theater.

7:30 p. m.—Y. W. C. A. vespers—Miss Nellie - Bond Dickinson and dance group — Augusta Conradi theater.

Monday

8:00 p. m.—Faculty play night—gymnasium

8:00 p. m.—Academy of science meeting — Augusta Conradi theater, panel discussion — Speakers: Dr. Albert Dr. Heinlein, Dr. Miller Dr. Richards.

Tuesday

1:30 p. m.—Convocation — auditorium. Theme music by Public School music chorus.

6:30 p. m.—Junior speech recital —Betty Rose Scott and Martha Whitehurst — Augusta Conradi theater

6:00 p. m.—Kappa Delta Pi honoring freshmen, home of Mrs. P. P. Pinner.

Wednesday

4:30 p. m.—Residence hall teas.

4:30 p. m.—Student music recital, auditorium.

Thursday

11:30 a. m.—Classes dismissed for Easter holidays

Alpha Gamma Deltas Fete Inspector at Formal Tea

The Alpha Gamma Delta sorority honored their visiting national inspector, Miss Margaret Ritchie, with a formal tea Tuesday afternoon. Faculty members, patrons and patronesses of the chapter, presidents and house mothers of all other sororities and alumnae chaperons were invited guests.

In the receiving line were Peggy Schaller, president of the chapter, Miss Ritchie, Mrs. Rosabel Gilland, house mother, and Dr. Anna Forbes Liddel.

Miss Hitchie is chairman of the Alpha Gamma Delta summer camp and arrived here Sunday afternoon after visiting six Alabama chapter of the sorority.

Former Students Reunite For Gainesville Banquet

Approximately 150 Florida State college graduates and former students will attend the annual F. S. C. W. reunion dinner Thursday night, March 28, at McCrimic's restaurant, according to an announcement of the alumnae office.

Speaker for the dinner will be William O. Dodd, dean of the College of arts and sciences. Dr. Edward Conradi, president, and R. L. Eyman, dean of the School of Education, are among the college officials who will attend.

Mrs. C. B. Houghton, of Orlando, is chairman of the reunion dinner, which is to be held during the annual convention of the Florida Education Association, March 29-30 in Orlando.

MANY SORORITIES PLAN ENTERTAINMENTS CENTERING AROUND PANHELLENIC DANCE

This week end is dominated by many plans in celebration for the Pan-hellenic dance. On Saturday night before the hop the Chi Omegas are giving a buffet supper in their back yard for their dates.

The Kappa Deltas are having a tea dance on Saturday afternoon from 5 o'clock to 6 and then entertaining at a supper at 6:30. The Kappa Alpha Thetas are having a tea dance on Saturday afternoon and are having a picnic on Sunday for members and their dates.

The Phi Mus are having open house Saturday afternoon, and Saturday night the pledges are giving an intermission party. On Sunday morning the sorority will entertain at a breakfast in honor of their dates and the pledges will furnish the entertainment.

The Phi Phis and Zeta Tau Alphas are both having tea dances from 3 o'clock to 5 on Saturday afternoon. The Sigma Kappas are also entertaining with a tea dance on Saturday afternoon and a breakfast on Sunday morning for their dates.

The Alpha Gamma Deltas are entertaining their members and dates with an intermission party Saturday night. Tea dances from 5:30 to 6:30 are being given Saturday afternoon by Delta Delta Delta and Alpha Xi Delta sororities. The Tri Deltas are also having a picnic Sunday for members and their dates.

Alpha Chi Omegas are having a tea dance Saturday afternoon from 4 till six, and the Alpha Epsilon Pis are entertaining at a tea dance from 4 to 6. The A. E. Pis are also having a breakfast supper from 4 to 7 for members and their dates. The Kappa Delta sorority had their initiation banquet Tuesday night at the Floridan hotel.

Panhellenic To Sponsor Sorority Song Contest As Feature of Weekend

Panhellenic Council will present, in the Augusta Conradi library Sunday afternoon from 4:30, a song contest featuring the sorority songs of the various chapters represented on this campus. Under the direction of Beulah Dora Bryan, master of ceremonies, each sorority will be allowed just five minutes in which to present its musical entry. Judges will be a group of the faculty women selected by Miss Lelia Venable, Panhellenic adviser.

The songs may be presented in any way to include any number of voices, but the words of the solos are not to be entered. The form of the song has also been up to the sororities whether evening dress, all-white costume or chance. Sweet songs and playful ones are on the program and not a few of the we're-glad-it-happened-to-be-a-girl-and-you-are variety. Carnations and two bunches of violets are on the plate, one sweetheart two gardens of dreams and an angel. Hens of Troy is included, a few knights, and a dream girl. In fact, as we go to press the entries seem not only varied but widely varied.

The interfraternity hymn which was to have been part of the program has been lost according to Chairman Collins who was in charge, somewhere on the road between the fraternity monthly.

However the following songs have been entered on the correct program.

Alpha Gamma Delta—Pledge Song and Reverie.

Alpha Chi Omega—Alpha Chi and Never Take a Chi Omega.

Alpha Delta Pi—Violets and I Love the Phi.

Alpha Xi Delta—She's the Girl I Want to Know and Oh Alpha Xi.

Beta Phi Alpha—Sorority Medley and Beta Phi Girl.

Chi Omega—Sweetheart of Chi Omega and Chi Omega Just for You.

Delta Delta Delta—Inspiration Song and Dream Garden.

Delta Phi Epsilon—The Top of the Tower and Dedication.

Delta Sigma Phi—Delta Sig Serenade.

Kappa Alpha Theta — The Knights and Theta Lies

Kappa Delta—Heirs of The and Kappa Delta Garden of Dreams.

Phi Mu—I've Got a Little Phi Mu Girl and The Carnation

Pi Beta Phi—A Pi Phi is one Angel in Disguise and Symphony of Pi Beta Phi.

Sigma Kappa—Tales of Frashman and Little Bunch of Violets.

Zeta Tau Alpha—Zeta Memories and When I'm Married.

The entire student body is urged to this function which will bring to a close the program of the Panhellenic weekend

Congratulations,
Smart Girls

The Florida Flambeau

Glory be!
Our Last Issue

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXVII | Tallahassee, Florida, March 29, 1940 | NUMBER TWENTY-ONE

State Governing Institute Opens Monday Night

Well-Known Speakers Will Be Highlight Of Five-Day Session

The first annual institute of the government will be held on Monday through Friday, by the convention students of political science and social studies will have an opportunity to learn where the state dollar comes from and where it goes, the problems of law enforcement, juvenile delinquency, and the care of other subjects.

The institute, which is the first of its kind ever to be held in Florida is being sponsored by the upper division of political science which Dr. Marion Irish, associate professor of political science, is the head. The purpose of the institute is to encourage a greater responsibility on the part students by emphasizing the study of current procedures. It is hoped after the "Know Your Government" type of "Town meetings which aim to promote more intelligent participation in the democratic processes government.

Program Given

The addresses of the program to be built around four topics by the Florida Union of Government: "Florida Finances," "Administration and Justice," and "Social Service."

Speakers on the various topics will include the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, Governor Fred P. A. Cone, and other state officials.

"Florida Finances," State Treasurer W. V. Knott, speaking on "Where the State Dollar Comes From," State Comptroller J. M. Lee speaking on "Where the State Dollar Goes," and Walter Lee Leon county representative speaking on "Money Bills in the Legislature." Tuesday afternoon:

"Administration of Justice," Colin Terrell, chief justice of the supreme court, speaking on "The Business of the Judiciary" Attorney General G. C. Sapp speaking on "Problems of Law Enforcement," and Millard Olson, superintendent of the State Industrial School for Boys speaking on "Juvenile Delinquency" 6 o'clock Wednesday program.

Program Continued

"State Social Services," T. J. Cash, assistant commissioner of Pensions speaking on "State Aid to the Farmer and Consumer" and J. Richard Hunter, legal advisor for the unemployment compensation division of the Florida Commission, speaking on "Florida Labor Laws and Their Administration," 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Colin English speaking on "State Standards for Public Education." Lena Prince Mimms, director of public assistance for Welfare Board, speaking on "Social Legislation Problems in Florida and Its Administration," and Mrs. Elizabeth Rohenbeck, state director of health education, speaking on "Work of the County Health Unit." 8 o'clock Friday program.

Students To Edit Daily Democrat

Journalism students of Florida State college will put out the Tallahassee Daily Democrat on April 16.

Since this will be the weekend of alumnae college many of the issues will deal with the activities of the alumnae in various ways.

The staff will be as follows: Bonnie Mullis, editor-in-chief; Ann Ainsworth, city editor; Mabel Bennett, assistant ed-tor; Evi Boland, managing editor; Bert Benson, Bertha Fond, Mrs. Catherine Bogart, Louise Myers, Mary Carroll Davis, Ellen Marlene Dale, Margaret Hall, Helen Emmanuel, Anne Buford, Celeste Hardee Kilty, Jo Hinson, Emma Jean Bagley, Mary Hyatt, Mary McCraw Bass, Ethel Ritholz, Jayne Mendenhall, Elinor Miller, Mary Frances Smith, Velma Pate, Grace Rushing, Sibyle Sanders, Betty Ann Taylor, Jonnie Thomasson Jasper Waterhouse, Belle Young, Vedah Walker, reporters. Harriet Scott, society editor; Ruth Boozer, sports editor; and Sarah Worth, copy editor.

The proofs of ad. work, the editorial by journalism students and the annual custom.

New IRC Head

Mary Alice Lester, above, is the new president of the southeastern regional conference of the International Relations club.

IRC Conference Will Meet Here

Lester Will Serve As President Next Year

Florida state College for Women will be the scene of the Southeastern Regional Conference of the International Relations club, it was learned this week with the return of four delegates from the conference held during Easter vacation at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Not only did local representatives succeed in securing the conference next year for F. S. C. but they came out on top in the elections as well Mary Alice Lester, president of the local club, was named president of the conference for next year; Johnnie Mae Wright will act as secretary, and Silvia Sanders will serve as treasurer. Helen Emmanuel also represented this unit on the Council which Eugene Meyers, Emory University, first vice president, William Colvin, Vanderbilt University second vice president; and Owen Palmer, University of Mississippi recording secretary.

The theme of the conference just ended was "The United States in a World at War." There were 424 delegates present representing colleges from the southeastern states, with the University of Florida, the University of Tampa, Rollins and the University of Florida Negro represented besides Florida State College for Women.

Each session was made up of a series of round tables, speeches and meetings. There were four major round table groups with

Continued on Page Six

Ellison, Weaver To Give Recital

Presentation of "The Lord's Prayer," musical play by Francois Coppee and of "Society Notes," a play by Rose Cecil O'Neil, will speech recital of Frances Ellison and Joan Weaver Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Augusta Conrad theatre.

Frances will give a new translation of "The Lord's Prayer" made by Mary Carr Moore. The play is set during the time of the French Commune and Frances will portray the parts of Mademoiselle Rose, Zelie, a housekeeper; Mere Blanche, a neighbor; Pere Jacques Le Roux; an officer; and soldiers.

Society-Notes," one-act comedy, will be presented by Joan Weaver in the role of the society girl. In this play Joan will characterize Mrs. Sedgewick, a society hostess; Miss Florrie Pountain, society editor with a flair for sensational stories; Mrs. Hamilton, nous old man suffering from illness and Mrs. Hamilton's daughter.

Tickets for the joint recital will be Virginia Jones, Virginia Mulligan, Jerry Miller, Mary Shvakis, Dorothy Dasher, Virginia Lee Wilma Johns and Mary Ann Thomas.

The second in the series of junior speech recitals was given March 19 by Martha Whitehurst and Betty Rose Scott who presented "Roadlind" by Sir James Barrie and "Attuned" by Alice Gerstenburg.

Others for their recital were Gla Belle Tillman, Helen Anderson, Anita Lockhart, Marie Crouch, Catherine Saunders, and Mary Small.

Cadet Glee Club Will Sing Here Tomorrow Night

Senior Class Members Will Act as Sponsors At Concert Saturday

From the United States Naval Air station at Pensacola will come the Cadet Glee Club to present a concert in the college auditorium tomorrow night under the auspices of the senior class.

The club is composed of Naval Reserve Cadets and Marine Corps Reserve Cadets, making a total of 71 members, each of whom has had extensive experience with at least one college glee club and has been a member of such groups as choirs and quartettes. The personnel is constantly changing, however, for each cadet stays at the station only eight months.

Director Trained

The director of the club, Jack Finnesey, uses an appropriate baton, one made of a gold-plated aluminum tubing. Mr. Finnesey received his musical training at the University of Minnesota where he was connected with its glee club for his four years in school. The club will be accompanied by Ensign Thomas Emmanuel McCurdy, who has previously been connected with the glee club of Georgetown university, Boston, and is under the management of John C. Gray, who has also been the manager of the men's glee club at the University of Illinois.

Program Announced

The tentative list of selections to be presented includes: Stephen Aweigh, Bells of St. Mary's (Adams); Drink To Me Only with Thine Eyes, The Old Refrain (Kreisler), A Little Choo Har-Har (Sanders), Sylvia (Speaks), Annie Laurie, Finlandia (Sibelius), Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride (Shaw), My Lady Walks in Loveliness, Old King Cole, Lullaby (Brahms), Nocturne (Grieg), the Song of the Jolly Roger (Cadman), Over the Sea Down (Wilson), Dixie, and Anchors Aweigh.

Continued on Page Two

Day Student Group Nominates Leaders

Nominations for officers of the day students organization were made in the chapel meeting yesterday afternoon. The election of these officers will be held the first week in April, after the names of those nominated have been published. They are: president, business, registrar, dean of students' affairs and social director infirmary for approval.

The following students were nominated: Dorothy Holly Kinney, Mary Alice McNeill, Mary Frances Hicks, Elizabeth Bellamy, vice-president. June Dailey, Jane Murphy, and Alfredia Bell Smith McFadden, Mary Rhame, and June Daily, treasurer; Frances Wilson, Mary Mc-Fadden, Jimmy Pain and Gwendolyn Pulley.

Representative to Senate, Holly Kinney Ann Ainsworth, Mary Alice Lester Veal, and Mary Rhame; parliamentarian, Elizabeth Bellamy, and Alfredia Bell Smith; activity chairman Jimmy Pain, Avis Tucker, and Elsie Cater.

Transportation chairman, Elizabeth Dedrick, Ann Ainsworth, and Holly Kinney; social chairman, Bertha Tomeo, Mary Jackson Mc Rae, Ann Ashmore, Martha Nicks, and Mildred Bellamy; publicity chairman, Holly Kinney, Mary Ashmore, June Daily, Jamie Allred, and Edith Chacon.

Department of Commerce Wants College Students in Census

Bureau Has Found Absence Makes Heart Grow Fonder And Tends to Make Mind Forget

The United States Department of Commerce is asking college students to write home during March and request something besides the traditional check. They want the young men and women who are living temporarily at school to remind their parents: "Count me in when the census-taker comes to the family mansion' in April."

It has been Uncle Sam's experience in the past few censuses, stating that while absence may make the heart grow fonder, it also tends to make the mind forgetful. Census Bureau officials have good reason to believe that the accuracy of the count of students who happen to be away from home at the time of the census will be improved.

College students, temporarily away from home to attend school, should be counted as members of the households in which they usually reside. Students who have no permanent residence other than the place at which they are living while attending school or college, however, should be enumerated there. Such students should call or write to the district supervisor if the census if they are not enumerated.

Feeling that college students, ilta every other section of the population, will benefit from a reliable national inventory, the U. S. Bureau of Census is asking them to do their part in making the 1940 census a success. The bureau needs their help in the gigantic task of assembling facts about 132 million Americans in two ways. First, by making sure

Continued on Page Six

Even Honorary Pledges Eight

Tapping Climaxed By Dinner Last Night

Seven students and one instructor were tapped and pledged recently by Alpha Kappa Delta, honorary society, which chooses its members from the highest scholastic class loyalty, leadership, and character. Those tapped were: Miss Grace Fox, physical education instructor, Ella Maude Jones, Marion Hamilton Thomas, Mary Frances Parsons McKay, Jean Wood, Martha Strobery and Marian Freeling.

Formal pledging was held last night and was followed by a banquet, given by the new pledges, which faculty members and alumnae were invited. The table decorations were red and white, in accordance with the club's colors.

Four new officers of Esteem are: President, Janet Wells; and secretary-treasurer, Katherine Graham.

The retiring officers are: President, Vonnie Marchesena; vice-president, Martha Ann Bell; and secretary - treasurer, Katherine Graham.

Other members are: Marjorie Jessup, Dorothea Kloppel, Ruth Bowden, Margaret Robertson, Lynette Thompson, Anita Jaeckel, Mary Jane Hamilton Barnes, Janet Jewett, Joan Miller, Louise Rhea, Ruth Robinson, Jeanne Walker, Jeanne Webster, and Miss Katherine Byrd, social director of Annex Hall.

Members among the faculty are Miss Ruth Bramlette, Miss Hazel Stevenson, Miss Elisabeth Lynn, Miss Katherine Montgomery, Miss Mary Elizabeth Wilson, Miss Elizabeth Williams, Miss Nellie Dickinson, Miss Ruth Kelly, Katherine Warren.

Alpha Kappa founded at P.S.C.W. in 1926 and was formally recognized in February, 1931.

Ahrendt Plays in Concert

Karl Ahrendt of the music faculty gave a group of violin solos as a concert artist for Florida's elite symphony orchestra Tuesday evening, March 18, at the Tampa Municipal auditorium. He played at the piano by Miss Mary E. Winslow, also a member of the faculty of the school of music.

Webb To Be Head Of Senior Class

Students Vote on All Class Officers Today

Four seniors, thirty - five juniors, sixty sophomores, and eighty - three freshmen are running for offices in the elections being held today in class meetings after chapel session, Tuesday, and at other times during the week, nominations having been made earlier and are being cast today in the lower floor of the Westcott building for the candidates for these offices.

Elizabeth Anne Webb was unanimously elected permanent president of the class of 1940. Candidates for permanent secretary are Mary Dorothy Dorothea Kloeppel Kathrine Graham, Frances Slade, and Betty Rose Scott.

Senior Class Candidates

In the junior class, candidates for president are Mary Ann Ainsworth, Avegih, Bells of St. Mary's (Adams); Drink To Me Only with Thine Eyes, The Old Refrain (Kreisler), A Little Choo Har-Har (Sanders), Sylvia (Speaks), Annie Laurie, Finlandia (Sibelius), Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride (Shaw), My Lady Walks in Loveliness, Old King Cole, Lullaby (Brahms), Nocturne (Grieg), the Song of the Jolly Roger (Cadman), Over the Sea Down (Wilson), Dixie, and Anchors Aweigh.

Continued on Page Two

Day Student Group Nominates Leaders

Nominations for officers of the day students organization were made in the chapel meeting yesterday afternoon. The election of these officers will be held the first week in April, after the names of those nominated have been published. They are: president, business, registrar, dean of students' affairs and social director infirmary for approval.

The following students were nominated: Dorothy Holly Kinney, Mary Alice McNeill, Mary Frances Hicks, Elizabeth Bellamy, vice-president. June Dailey, Jane Murphy, and Alfredia Bell Smith McFadden, Mary Rhame, and June Daily, treasurer; Frances Wilson, Mary McFadden, Jimmy Pain and Gwendolyn Pulley.

Representative to Senate, Holly Kinney Ann Ainsworth, Mary Alice Lester Veal, and Mary Rhame; parliamentarian, Elizabeth Bellamy, and Alfredia Bell Smith; activity chairman Jimmy Pain, Avis Tucker, and Elsie Cater.

Transportation chairman, Elizabeth Dedrick, Ann Ainsworth, and Holly Kinney; social chairman, Bertha Tomeo, Mary Jackson Mc Rae, Ann Ashmore, Martha Nicks, and Mildred Bellamy; publicity chairman, Holly Kinney, Mary Ashmore, June Daily, Jamie Allred, and Edith Chacon.

Winshow, Ahrendt Will Give Recital

Two members of the faculty of the school of music, Karl Ahrendt, violinist, and Miss E. Winslow, pianist, and Karl Ahrendt, violinist, will present a recital in Gaines hall before the Twentieth Century club next Friday night, April 5. Ahrendt, violinist, will appear with her husband in a group of selections by Mozart.

Dean Ella E. Opperman will also appear on the program, speaking of the part of music in the history of Florida State College for women.

Glee Club Will Present Spring Concert Soon

U. of F. Will Sponsor Singers For Concert There in Near Future

The spring concert of the Florida state college glee club to be presented in the college auditorium Thursday evening is the first of a series of activities to be held this spring. The concert is to be followed by the sponsoring of the glee club by the University of Florida and a trip to Gainesville for a concert.

The select one on the program all are in some way characteristic of America, with negro spirituals, American Indian songs, mountain songs from Kentucky, and several ballads featured. The program will include five soloists. Miss Etta Robertson, director, Mildred True, Ruth Shepard Lucile Hollowell and Eleanor Mullins.

Miss Robertson, having spent some time collecting Indian songs in Arizona, will sing an Indian song. The Sunrise Call, a traditional Zuni song. A trio, consisting of Jeanette Thomas, Miss Eleanor Mullins, mezzo-soprano and Lorraine Landy, second alto, will also be featured.

One of the selections on the program, A Merry Maidens, was written by Gardner Read, composer who visited Karl Ahrendt here several days ago.

Program to be Presented

On the program are the following numbers: Sweet and Low (Barnby), Lambs (Nathaniel Dett), Oh, Had I Jubal's Lyre (Handel), Dear Leigh-Harris). The Moon Drops Low (Cadman-Harris), Per Pace (Verdi), The Sunrise Call (arranged by Cadman), Oh Come, Oh Come Harris), From the Land of the Sky Blue Water (Cadman-Harris), The Sunrise Call (arranged by Cadman), Oh Come, Oh Come Ing and The Nightingale (both collected and arranged by Howard Fenimore), Sweet and Low, Love Like Dreaming (Stephen Foster), Ah! May the Red Rose Live Always (Stephen Foster), Sheep and Lambs, (Sidney Homer), A Merry Maidens (Gardner Read), Night Wind (Roland Partridge), Moon Marketing, (Reve's Weaver), The Star, College Song.

Members of the glee club are:

Continued on Page Six

Constitutional Change Adopted

During the weekly student body meeting the following constitutional change was voted on and adopted: During the month of March every member of the sophomore class will be selected to constitute the sophomore council. Each member of the sophomore council shall constitute a committee of the council of the college government association; the president of Y.W.C.A.; the president of W.A.A.; the president of the student government association; the out-going chairman of sophomore council; and two members of the orientation committee chosen by the freshman class.

The sophomore council shall act as a check on the work of the entire campus as a whole. The members shall take the lead in the following activities: the well-rounded, constructive program for the year's activities.

The second vice-president of the college government association shall be the sponsor of sophomore council.

Dietetics Head

Miss Helen Davis, above, and former student at Florida State College was elected last night as the new president of the Florida Dietetic association.

Davis Selected Dietetics Head

Tour of Dining Hall To Close Conference

With a tour of the college food department following the final meeting this afternoon, the three-day conference for dietitians and food administrators here will be brought to a close. Approximately 70 dietitians and food experts registered in the East dining hall Thursday morning for the conference which began Tuesday evening with a talk by Dr. James S. McLester of Birmingham. Participants came from Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi as well as from Florida cities, including Orlando, Lakeland, Daytona Beach Gainesville, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Sebring, West Palm Beach, and Tallahassee.

Opening the conference Wednesday night, Dr. McLester, professor of medicine at the University of Alabama and former president of the American Medical association, spoke on "The part played by the Vitamins in Human Nutrition." During the course of his talk Dr. McLester described the functions of various vitamins which deserve closer study by scientists in learning what part vitamins play in the normal physiology of life. He cited differences between them and pointed out that their functions are dependent on many variables, some of them known, some unknown.

Members of the quantity cookery class from the home economics department served as waiters at the evening meal, presided over by Dr. Jessie Tilt, professor of Microbiological chemistry and nutrition.

After registration Thursday morning Dr. McLester made a

Continued on page two

CGA Installation Scheduled Monday

Thirty-five new officers including the executive, off-campus, residence halls, and judiciary offices will be installed with the traditional ceremony in front of Byran hall Monday night at 7:45.

The executive officers will be installed candles in one line and the residence halls officers installed candles in another line with the lighted candles behind Bryan around to the front steps of the hall. The outgoing president of college government, Kathryn Graham, will install the incoming president, Cornelia Watson, and the outgoing chairman of judiciary, Marjorie Jessup, will invest her successor, Carolyn Mims. The newly installed officers will march with all other officers. As each girl is installed she will receive a candle from that of her predecessor. And the old officer will snuff out her own light.

Jeanette Thorpe and Julia Lee Wilson will furnish music during the ceremony.

Marine Band is Scheduled On Artist Series Program

The United States Marine band will open the Artist Series program for next year with concerts to be given October 14. Dean Ella S. Opperman, chairman of the concerning committee on the artist series, announced the signing of a contract with the band, which will give two performances while on this campus.

Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi Tap 32 Students

Three Juniors Make America's Oldest Academic Honorary

The names of 11 new members of Phi Beta Kappa, oldest academic honor society in America, and 30 new members of Phi Kappa Phi general scholastic honorary society were today made public.

Those elected to Phi Beta Kappa include seven seniors three juniors and one graduate. The seniors are: Lena Margaret Shifflett, who is majoring in zoology; Rose Mary Carlton and Margaret Ollis Lingo, who are graduating with degrees in Majors in Jesup, a political science major; Josephine Orrell Mahaney, graduating in modern language; Virginia Lee Mahenson, who is majoring in Spanish; Lynette Thompson, whose major subject is Latin. The juniors include: Frances Celler, a classics major; Wilma E. Johns, majoring in English; and Evelyn Ulrban, a modern language major.

Peggy Stuntz

Peggy Stuntz who graduated last summer was also among the new members.

New members of the Phi Kappa Phi, which are chosen from seniors in the upper 10 per cent of their class, are: Ella Maude Jones, who is an economics and accounting major; Marion Hamilton, majoring in chemistry; Betty Markham, specializing in psychology; Mary Frances Parsons, a zoology major; Mrs. Rose Kirby Powell, who is engaged in elementary education; Joan Miller, graduate in modern language and social science; Sara Margaret Quinsey, social studies and elementary education; Mary Dent Perry, social studies; Lolie Watkins, vocational home economics; Gertrude McGlaun, a French major; Margaret Lingo, mathematics; Elizabeth Bellamy Lanier; Marjorie Jessup, political science; Gladys Silvester, elementary education; Georgene Dunn, economics and secretarial science; Marie Bell, home economics; Frances Dietetic; Bettie Young, elementary education; Jeanne Walker, chemistry and science; Rose Mary Carlton, mathematics.

Initiation will take place April 8 after which a banquet will be given at the Tallahassee Hotel. Dr. Katherine Abbey, professor of history will speak. Dr. Abbey is a member of the executive committee of the national council of Phi Kappa Phi.

FSC Team Debates Loyola University

Florida State college debated Loyola university here Wednesday afternoon and Thursday debated on the subject, Resolved: That the United States should follow a policy of isolation toward all nations outside the western hemisphere and equipped in armed international or civil conflict.

In presenting the affirmative side of the question the Florida team upheld the negative on the points that there is a need for a change in the present policy; that isolation would be the best policy, and that a policy of isolation for the United States could be carried out. The negative side contended that a policy of isolation would be unsuccessful; that isolation wouldn't work; that it had been tried and failed.

Debating for the visiting team from Loyola university, Chicago, Ill., were James Fletcher and Arthur Kopstad. The members of the Florida State college team were Joan Weaver and Mary Brice Bowden. The women debated and the debate was Rex Withers.

Last Monday night the Florida State team debating team was defeated by a two-man team from Washington and Lee college, Lexington, Virginia. Washington and Lee university is known for its strict economic and military isolation.

Debaters for Florida State were Patricia Holbert and Mabel Nichols.

The visiting team included W. B. Swartz, president of Pi Sigma Alpha, honorary political science fraternity, and J. S. Loyd, president of the James Madison Debate Forum at Washington and Jefferson. They, with J. W. Martin, another veteran Washington and Jefferson debater, are now on a tour during which they will meet 13 schools of the Southeast

Continued on Page Two

Glee Club Personnel Represents Wide Range of Interests

Have you been hearing rumors around campus about the Glee Club and some of the things it's been doing? Well, don't believe too many of them. They're just rumors. But here are some things about the Glee Club you can believe. We know; they told us.

When Musical Director Mary Carr Moore, publicity director, sent questionnaires to the members of our Glee Club, the girls had a gay time filling them out. The questions were very interesting, like: "What is your favorite piece of music?" or "What will your career be—teacher, housewife, stenographer, etc?" or "Do you have a hobby?" The replies were very different and at times amusing.

Thirteen of the 34 girls were born out of the state. Three of the 13 were born in Boston; others were born in Wacouata Michigan; Charleston, Mississippi; Greenwood, Alabama; Hartford, Alabama; Greenwich Connecticut, Forest Indiana; Montgomery, Alabama; Hamilton, Alabama; Welch, West Virginia; and Detroit, Michigan.

Several of the strange hobbies among the girls were flying airplanes, collecting buttons, diary, dates, cooking. One unique young lady declared that she enjoyed collecting toy elephants with their trunk up! Other hobbies were reading, dancing, backriding, dancing, swimming, golf, stamp collecting, gliders, sewing dramatics, singing, tennis, music, flowers, and sports in general. Reading, however wa. most popular among these musical young ladies.

Teaching ranked first among the anticipated careers. Twenty of the girls stated they expected to teach and most of them intended to teach music. Eight girls gave housekeeping, most emphatically, as their chosen career. Only six named it as second choice. Two girls chose to be librarians, two musical careers in some form. Ginger suggested a career among the titles, religious work laboratory technician, secretary, radio work, musical administration church organist, chemistry, and missionary.

Most of the favorite songs of the ensemble were from musical comedies. "Rosemarie" is most popular. "Liebestode" from Tristan and Isolde by Wagner and Debchert's "Ave Maria" tied with "Gloriana Mia" for third place. Other pieces mentioned were "Aida" first" from La Traviata by Verdi; "Tales from Vienna Woods" by Strauss; "Clair de Lune." from Debchert's Serenade; Wieniawski's "Concerto for Violin"; the "Waltz Song" from the opera Romeo and Juliet; Ave of Beethoven; and Mendelssohn; "On Wings of Song"; Tchaikowsky's Sixth Symphony"; negro spirituals; the prelude to "Lohengrin"; Strauss' "Blue Danube"; Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C-sharp minor." Two of the girls stated popular pieces for their favorites. One said, "Stardust when Glen Miller plays it"; another said "Anything in Boise." Several of the girls didn't state their favorites, one answering, saying that they liked too many too well.

There are eight sorority girls in the ensemble of the Glee Club One of the girls stated under "Remarks" that she was the fifth girl in her immediate family to belong to the ensemble. Another had one sister in it. One of the girls is studying aviation; another will study it next year. Special "loves" stated were almond candy bars and organ music. One girl has kept a diary for seven years.

Of The World

French-Soviet Break . . .

The French government is now attempting to avoid all responsibility for a break with Soviet Russia and has refused to break off the strained diplomatic relations with that country.

The strained relations have been brought about by the murder of Jacob Sourits, Soviet ambassador to France on demand of the French government, which accused him of attempting to send a "satanic" telegram to Josef Stalin boasting of Russia's Finnish triumph. France asserted that the ambassador's telegram was "an intrusion by the Soviet ambassador into the internal political life of France."

The French government has now announced that it cherishes the Sourits incident closed with Moscow's decision to recall the Russian ambassador from Paris after his recall was demanded by France.

The French and British governments are refusing to take the initiative of a clean break with Moscow, insisting that should they do so, it would be virtually the same thing as handing over the Russian army to German organizers.

U. S. To Sell Planes . . .

The House Committee Wednesday approved the Administration's new policy of releasing late model war planes for export and American manufacturers are now preparing to handle prospective Allied orders amounting to $1,000,000.

It is known that Secretary of War Woodring opposed the sale of planes, having recently asserted that he favored the President was slowly but surely getting the United States into the European conflict. In explaining the policy before the House Military Committee, however, Woodring asserted that the measure had been formulated by the War Department without pressure from anyone or any group.

Roosevelt has all along been in favor of selling the Allies the latest model United States planes. Assistant Secretary of War Johnson as well as Secretary of the Navy Edison agree with the President. The latter says that no invention remains secret long and the French and British might as well help to perfect them.

Although Allied censors have made an effort to suppress this fact, British aviation has fallen far short of expectations. The Allies are in real need of the U. S. plane detector, secret bombsight, and anti-aircraft gunsight, though they have not asked for the release of these three important U. S. military and naval inventions.

* * *

New Finland . . .

The setting up of a reconstruction peacetime government in Finland got under way Wednesday with the formation of a new cabinet. The new government will be devoted to reconstruction of the nation and its defenses, which received a severe set-back in the war with Russia.

Premier Risto Ryti, remaining as head of the government together with the new cabinet, has mapped out a reconstruction program, centering around an expectation of loans from Finland's friends abroad. Ryti also indicated that the task of aiding those Finnish citizens who have lost their property may become the responsibility of those whose property was untouched in the war. He described this as a "one-for-all" sacrifice.

It is thought that under the new government Finland will continue to maintain a strong, fully - equipped army, regardless of the settlement with Russia. As long as the Western powers are at war, Finland's army of some 250,000 men will be maintained.

For each ton it weighs, a passenger automobile in Missouri averages 27 miles to a gallon of fuel but a truck weighing 10 tons averages 60-ton-miles.

Florida Singers To Give Concert

Varied Program To Be Feature of Glee Club

By JOHN COTTON BROWN

Like Ali Baba and his 40 men the University of Florida Glee club will journey up to Tallahassee next Saturday, March 30 to give F.S.C.W. the finest choral concert they have heard in some years. But unlike the above mentioned felons, the Ambassadors of Good Will won't be in bags but in tuxedos that set them off to their very best.

Brought to Tally by the F.S.C.W Glee club in a sort of reciprocal trade agreement (page Mr. Ripley) the G'villagers will sing a program unparalleled for variety of selection and excellence of vocal technique when they appear in the auditorium April 6 at 8 o'clock.

Going into its fourteenth year under the direction of Professor Harold DeBerry, the chorus will open the program with their curtain raising "Men Are We, Hailing From Old Florida," following it with religious and classical pieces. Modern, colorful and in such novel numbers as Pike's "Medley of Negro Songs" and a group of arrangements by Warner Wilson at the piano.

The Glee club's Spring Concert consists of a glittering array of favorite numbers. Those responsible for the medley are the finest songs of Army, Navy, Carlmundi, and other sporting themes set off with "Garnet and Gold."

Concluding the concert will be the four soloists, Wayne Montgomery, tenor; Jack Armstrong, baritone; James Lee, bass, and Warner Wilson at the piano.

The Glee club's Spring Concert report of call for the Ambassadors immediately after school ended on Saturday night. They will be a new luxury bus, they carried the true spirit of the southland up to the World of Tomorrow where they sang at the request of Crowell Whalen and company in the beautiful Florida exhibit building.

The Day stop in Montgomery, Alabama also included a concert over one of the radio stations there.

On the way to New York they club spent a day and two nights in the nation's capital where they were looked after by Florida's representatives in congress. Lou Lowe's Capitol, saw the senate, house of representatives in action, met vice president Garner, and visited all the sights Washington has to offer including the White House, and the famous Smithsonian Institute.

So the Ambassadors are not only a top-flight singing lot, but a widely traveled lot as well, that might even present a vocal travel.

—Due.

Davis Selected Dietetics Head

Continued from Page One

second address describing Efficiency Disorders Commonly Seen in the South.' "The composite picture which depicts the disease of a people changes from time to time just as do the sketches in a fashion magazine,' he told his audience. 'True, a quarter of a century alters the lines in the first harshly as much as a single month alters the latter, but the changes come just as surely.' He then pointed out the deficiency diseases familiar to the South stating that it has been well said that few greater tragedies come to man than the emotional depression, the dulling of intellect and the loss of efficiency which accompany nutritive failures.'

Following the 10 o'clock address presided over by Miss Pearl Lafferty of Jacksonville members of the conference engaged in a discussion as to the best way of approaching a solution to Florida nutritional problems, led by Dean Margaret Sanders of the college home economics department.

Thursday afternoon's program featured an address by Miss Marie Casteen, director of food research and recipe development for the Hotels Statler of New York in line with her topic 'The Menu' and 'Producing the Menu' members of the conference were divided into discussion groups on hotels, restaurants, hospitals public school lunches, nursery schools, and college food service.

YW President

Mary Lois Thomas, above, was chosen as the new Y. W. C. A. president in their annual election held last week.

Scholarship Award Goes To Marshall

Carol Marshall was awarded the Mortar Board scholarship plaque Tuesday for making the highest scholastic average of the freshman class the first semester of this year. Along with her award of $20 Presidents Who Have Had Highest Averages were announced to convocation last Tuesday.

Those whose names appeared on the 1940 honor boards which will soon be hung in the parlors of the freshmen dormitories are: Helen Hall, Mary Calhoun Johnston, Evelyn Butts, Helen Anita Davis, Jane Dibble, Evelyn Ann Doyle, Lenore Hughes, June Theriot, Edna Mae Howard, Helen Herman, Carol Marshall, Joan Miller, Dorothy Nodine, Norma Pennoyer, Ruth Roehner, Edna Sellman, Jane Schenck, Jeanne Tillison, Jane Uhran, and Eleanor Withers.

Since 1923 the scholarship plaque has been awarded each year to the freshman with the highest average in the first semester. Carol's average was 2.96. Last year the plaque was awarded jointly to Edna Sellman and Mary Pinckard Bryan.

Informal tea followed the discussion.

At 8 o'clock Thursday night Miss Helen Davis, dietitian at the state tuberculosis sanatorium at Orlando, was elected president of the Florida State Dietetic association under whose auspices the conference is being staged. The annual business meeting of the organization who held in connection with the conference Serving with Miss Davis will be Miss Mary Ruth DuPuis, Jackson Memorial hospital, Miami, as vice-president, and Miss Agnes Sawby, Flagler hospital in St. Augustine, secretary-treasurer.

This morning's meeting presided over by Miss Helen Davis, will brought three speakers before the audience assembled in the east dining room. Herbert Andrews, manager of the Hotel Seminole, Jacksonville, opened first, discussing 'Personnel Management for Public Service Service' followed by Sabra Kennedy of the Southern Equipment company St. Louis, Missouri, on 'Some Equipment Problems.' Miss Marie Casteen returned then for two discussions on 'Standardization of Recipes' and 'Supervision of Processes.'

The final session of the conference will be a talk by John Hing of Mahoney Hirst and Arner, Miami, on 'Food Cost Control System' at 2:30 o'clock in the east dining room. Afterwards the audience will make a conducted tour of the college kitchens, dining rooms, and food facilities, and the meeting will conclude with a display of books and periodicals arranged by the college staff dietitians.

The convention, which is the first of its kind, was staged by the trades and industries department of the state department of education and by the college.

Thomas Elected YW President

Miller, Hampson, Trott To Fill Major Offices

Mary Lois Thomas was elected new president of the Y. W. C. A. during elections last week.

The other officers are: Elizabeth Miller, vice president; Jane Hampson, secretary; and Ruth Trott, treasurer.

The candidates for offices were: president, Corinne Butler, Joan Kennedy, Louise Patterson, and Mary Lois Thomas; vice president, Irene Edwards, Mary Frances Prther, Elizabeth McBride Miller, and Claudanne Brodeur; secretary, Martha Bostwick, Jean Hampson, and Margaret La Celle; treasurer, Katherine Allmandinger, Helen Bennett, Mary Jane Medlin, Frances McClure, Ruth Trott, Virginia Wynn, and Marie Manley.

Included in the cabinet are: Vespers: Polly Venning, Betty Branan; early morning worship, Frances Hutchinson, Ottilie Van Brunt; book exchange: Doris Anderson; world friendship: Joan Kennedy; faculty-student: Mary Calhoun Johnston; devotionals: Clara Bassett; social: Louise Patterson; Y-room: Kathryne Allmandinger; social service: Mary Margaret LaCelle; outside speakers: Martha Bostwick; publicity—posters: Betty Ann Taylor, paper; Mary Anne Hamilton, announcements; Mary Manley.

Membership chairman and music chairmen are being appointed.

Everyone is invited to the installation of the cabinet on March 21 at 8 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. cabinet.

Tea has been made for the Y. W. C. A. retreat at camp March 30 and 31. All Y. W. C. A. members and their friends are invited. The group will leave at 2 o'clock. From 3 to 4 o'clock the old and new cabinets will have a round table discussion on the following question: What are the unique features of the Y. W. C. A. on this campus? How can the purpose of Y. W. C. A. be made the most effective? All Y. W. members in the organization feel part of a religious fellowship? How can the Association effectively express its purpose in its various activities and in its general program? Dr. Anna P. Liddell will lead the discussion.

Mary Anna Hampton, Helen Hawkins, Jean Hampson, Betty Rose Howe, and Betty Shriner will compose the retreat committee.

Davidson Calls Journalism Art

Daytona Editor Gives Advice to Sophomores

"There is an art of journalism as well as of poetry," Herbe.r M Davidson, editor of the Daytona Beach News-Journal and a member of the advisory board of the Southern Newspaper Publishers association, told journalism sophomores when he addressed their class recently.

He was on his way home from California state capitol where he addressed journalism students in connection with this office in that city. N. P. A. which has been a closer bond with schools of journalism.

He recommended that college students take courses to give a background of general knowledge in all fields, paying especial attention to the English language of different occupations an to increasing their vocabularies. A certain amount of technique must also be learned in college he explained.

"Accuracy is the foundation of all journalism," he said, stressing integrity as well.

"Tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth," he told the class. He also recommended that students be natural" in their writing. He added that one of the most important factors in rising above mediocrity lr the profession of Journalism was that a reporter put something of himself into every news story he wrote, something that would make that particular news story different from any other ever written. "However," he cautioned," this must not take the form of editorial comment, nor must it be awkward. It must be the work of a skilled and talented writer."

Following his talk, Mr. Davidson answered questions of students. His wife Lillian R. Davidson, former New York Herald-Tribune reporter, also talked to the class.

Questioned about discrimination against women in journalism, the two answered optimistically that they believed that there was no more discrimination in this field than in many others. They added that many women did not advance in this profession as in others because marriage halted or partly interfered with their career. They recommended that students not refuse to work on the society desk of a newspaper, for this may be an opening wedge to other and more important positions on the paper.

The visit of these two journalists to the campus was arranged by Miss Rachael Pritchett college publicity director and former member of the News-Journal staff.

Canny Felines Fare Royally

"Something's under this table!" The excited voice of a girl could be heard for several tables around the one in which she was eating dinner in the old dining room.

"Oh, it's only the cat," someone tried to calm her.

"Only a cat," she screamed, "I hate cats." And she jumped up and ran out of the dining room.

Upon investigation it was found that not one but two cats haunt this dining room in search of tidbits handed out by kind-hearted students.

One of them is sleek and well-fed as any respectable feline living in the shadows of a large colleee kitchen should be. But the other is a wretched animal indeed. Skinny, dirty, and mangy. It is no wonder the girls scream when they see him coming toward them. The latter who has to remove this cat from the dining room at least once a day wears an expression of disgust on her face when she picks it up that is truly descriptive.

Between meals both cats, who seem to be good friends in spite of their difference in appearance, sit in the arcades and sun themselves or wander lazily around the courts in search of adventures which, however, are very scarce in their lives.

Plans Made For Summer School

Landis is Set Aside For Undergraduates

Plans for room reservation for the summer session of 1940 were released by Dr. Edward Conradi this week.

During this year's summer session Landis Hall, accommodating 371 students, will be open both terms. Although plans for both graduate and mature students for this year are not yet complete, last year rooms in Bryan hall were reserved for men in the south end of Bryan; graduate students were placed on the main floor of Bryan, and mature women on the first and third floors at the north end.

This year undergraduates will live in Landis hall. Other students may live there if they wish, but they will be under college regulations.

The plans as sent from Dr Conradi's office are as follows:

Students reserving space in the residence halls for either or both terms of the summer session must deposit $3.00 as a guarantee that the space will be occupied. When the room reserved is occupied by the student, her account is credited with the amount of the deposit. If, after paying the $3.00 deposit for room reservation, the student finds it impossible to attend the summer school, this amount will be refunded if she cancels her reservation before May 15. No deposit will be refunded after May 15.

The proper authorities may change the rooms of students staying for the second term of the summer session if it seems expedient to do so.

Students who are in college now, the second semester of 1939-40, and reserve a room in Hall may retain their present rooms for the first term of the 1940 summer school, if they make such reservation by April 1, 1940.

The $3.00 is payable to the college bank, 209 Westcott building. Upon payment of the $3.00 the student is given a card to take for room assignment to Miss Jessie Neal, secretary to the president, room 212 Westcott building.

Cadet Glee Club Will Sing Here Tomorrow Night

Continued from Page One

slow), On the Sea Buck, Shortnin' Bread (Wedlo), Go Down Moses (Hunter), Old Gra, Robe (Hunter), Soldiers Chorus (Gounod). The Long Day Closes (Sullivan), and Navy Blue and Gold.

The cadets will make their appearance in uniforms according to the division to which their belong, navy dress blue uniforms worn by the Naval Reserve cadets and khaki blue uniforms for the Marine Corps Reserve cadets.

Religious Calendar

Y. W. C. A.
Saturday

2:00—Retreat of old and new cabinets at camp for "Y" weekend.

Sunday

5:00—Installation of new officers and cabinet. Fiscc: little theater.

BAPTIST
Sunday

6:45—Sunday school. Nominations for B. S. U officers.

6:30—B. Y. P. U. Subject: "Spiritual Growth Eliminates Race Prejudice. Leaders: Hazel Cantrell, Naomi Howard, Dot Thedman, and Sarah Hopkins.

8:00—Church service. The B. S. U. will present a Home Missions play, "The World Is Our Home," directed by Martha Polsom. Dorothy Sanford and Mildred True will have charge of the music.

PRESBYTERIAN
Friday

7:15—Holy communion.

7:30—After dinner coffee.

Sunday

9:30—Study class. Subject: "Eastertide." Leader: Verger Lee.

7:30—Student auxiliary program presented by the student choir. Subject: Social Service Work in the Modern Churchman. Janet Wells.

Monday

5:00—Monthly meeting of student vestry.

6:30—Confirmation class.

Wednesday

6:30—"Called" choir practice.

METHODIST
Saturday

7:30 — Fourth-floor Gilchrist entertainment at the student house. Chairman: Madge Clayton.

Sunday

6:45—Sunday school. Speakers: Columbia Bible school students

11:00—Church.

7:15—Fellowship hour at the student house.

8:30—Fellowship hour at the church. Leader: Alice Royster.

7:30—Vespers. Speaker: Bertha Bloodworth.

Wednesday

6:45—Council prayer meeting. Subject: "Eastertide."

Saturday

6:00—At home of the Mrs. Leland Lewis.

Sunday

8:45—Worship program. Leader: Donna Haney.

8:00—Supper at church.

6:30 — Vesper program with students from the Columbia Bible school in charge.

Strengthening of the neutrality patrol is going forward with plans for eight new supplemental air bases along the Atlantic seaboard and in the Caribbean. Each base will have hangar facilities large enough to accommodate a squadron of planes.

Training Begins For Counsellors

Sixty Will be Chosen For Freshman Work

At the first meeting held Wednesday night in Reynolds parlor for the candidates for freshman counsellors, Dr. Olivia Dorman, dean of students, discussed Freshman's Point of View" in effort to acquaint prospective counsellors with the duties of an office and the problems of the coming freshman.

Following a second meeting Tuesday night possibly 60 will be selected from approximately 75 candidates to attend a training course for the next five consecutive weeks.

The girls for freshman counsellors will be selected primarily on the number of recommendations the individual girl receives through the three outstanding student groups, executive council, sophomore council, and the freshman counsellors, and the dean of girls' office. Faculty committee on student affairs, and the dean's office.

Scholastic average, health, and general leadership ability are the three main factors taken into consideration in choosing the counsellors.

The college trainers of all counsellors on campus have also been invited to attend the first meetings open to the candidates.

FSC Team Debates Loyola University

Continued from Page One

debate debaters, Florida State being the sixth college on the tour. They were scheduled to debate at Mississippi College Thursday and at the University of Florida on Wednesday, always taking the negative side on the question.

Debate judges for the Mississippi contest were: Frederick J Hoover, assistant professor of sociology; Miss Sadie O Young assistant professor of economics, and Dr. L. L. Waldon, associate professor of Psychology.

STATE
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
March 29-30
Ginger Rogers
Fred MacMurray
in
"Primrose Path"
SUNDAY & MONDAY
March 31, April 1
DEANNA DURBIN
"IT'S A DATE"
with
ROBERT CUMMINGS
WALTER PIDGEON
TUESDAY—April 2
FREE BLONDE
AND PRESTIDIGITATION
WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
April 3-4
FARMER'S DAUGHTER
RAYE - RUGGLES
RITZ
FRIDAY—March 29
Spencer Tracy
in
"I TAKE THIS WOMAN"
SATURDAY—March 30
SUNDAY & MONDAY
March 31-April 1
Ginger Rogers
In
"PRIMROSE PATH"
TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
April 2-3
Deanna Durbin
In
"IT'S A DATE"
THURSDAY & FRIDAY
April 4-5
Fredric March
In
"DARK ANGEL"

DON BUDGE
Plays with the Racquets We Carry
WILSON'S TENNIS RACQUETS
Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & VON INC.
VON'S
HARDWARE

Martin & Dalton
WEEK END SPECIALS
35c Dr. West Toothbrush
39c Calox Tooth Powder
Both for 39c
Dodah Vicliant 83c-98
F 6.5 Lens
Kadomatic Shutter 1-16 to 1-200 sec.
Built-in Self-Timer
$25.00
Large 60c Jad Pond's CLEANSING CREAM
And box of 238 Pond's Tissues for
54c
50c Jergen's Lotion
29c
Three Slice Golden Brown Toast
Combination Sandwich
15c
Fresh Strawberry
Shortcake
15c
Delicious Extra Rich
ICE CREAM SODA
10c

STRIPED CHAMBRAY

In
"Bonnie Bright Dresses"
$1.95
LIPPMAN'S
THE HUB STORE
Jefferson St.

Tennis Lecture Given By Budge

Four Matches Played In Exhibition Here

Donald Budge, internationally famous tennis pro, played four exhibition matches in the Florida State college gymnasium last Wednesday afternoon. He won two from Jack Harris of Haywood. Florida, his promoter by a score of 6-1, 6-1. He served doubles with Lib Moore, coach at F. S. C. W., against Beth Lancaster, supervisor of kindergarten at the college, and Harris. Each 6 couple won a set to the score of 8-2.

Before the game Mr. Budge gave a lecture demonstration, telling the audience that there were three things to always be remembered in tenis: (1) to keep your eye on the ball; (2) to keep low in position, and (3) to use the correct strokes.

Other exhibition games Mr. Budge and Mr. Harris left by plane for Atlanta where they took part in Georgia. Mr. Budge will visit his family in Oakland for a few days and then return to Los Angeles to play in a round-robin tournament.

The last year of his amateur career Mr. Budge won the British, French, Australian, and American championships. In 1938 he had never been done before since.

Donald Budge, right, internationally known tennis champion and professional, and his promoter, Jack Harris, left, are shown above with their doubles partners Lib Moore and Miss Beth Lancaster.

Tennis Star Appears at FSC

Home Ec Students Hear Chinn, Cook

The science building was the scene Tuesday for talks by two of the professional schools, when Ida Antrim Chinn, director of consumer relations for the Bell telephone company, and Miss Rosamond Cook, professor of home economics at Columbia university.

Miss Chinn, speaking to two evening classes of home economics students, discussed the opportunities for Home Economics in the Commercial World. She will lecture next at the Florida Education association in Orlando.

Miss Cook spoke on "The Meaning of the Wagner Labor Legislation," dealing especially with the effect of these statutes on the low income levels in society.

Webb To Be Head Of Senior Class

Continued from Page One

Rubi Torres were nominated for secretary.

Junior Candidates

The two candidates for president of the incoming junior class are Grace Bell and Lottie Crosby.

From the following group: Mary Caldwell, Mary Carlton, Alice Carlsmark, Chancey Sue Blanche Saul, Margaret Nelms, Grace Yarn Marion Webster, Adeline Wood, Belle Tone, and Amanda Zewadski, were nominated for the senate representatives for the incoming junior class.

Anne Alfriend, Lucilla Arnold, Carmen Constantina, Jane Goodman, Emma Jean Bilgier and Betty Simmons were nominated for vice president. Candidates for secretary are Fairfax Bates Aubrey Bolton, Mary Dana Brown, Ruth Duncan, Mary Frances Pelton, Betty Ryall, Florence Lutz, Gene Mendenhall, and Caroline Yarn Naomi Brauer, Peggy Cook, Dorothy Reward Tom Thomas, and Jean Wood are candidates for treasurer. Mary Pinkard Jean Louise Burger, Peggy Curtis, Esther Hack, Elizabeth Miller, Pat Tyler Mary Evelyn Wooten, Marybelle Wright, and Nell Smith are running for parliamentarian. For athletic manager of the incoming junior class, Marion Preston Lucy Tucker, Mary Jane Weeks, Jane Telford, and Anne Chance McKay were nominated. Jet Atkinson and Dot Guthrie are candidates for chairman of pre-Demonstration and Betty Brown, Sarah "Duke" Bryant, Ann MacGowan, Gwen Stephens, Jeanette Thorpe, and Rose Thomason are running for chairman of Junior minstrels. For cheerleaders, Audrey Alberson Preeting, Emme Jean Bailey Nell Smith, and Gwen Mathewes were nominated.

Sophomore Candidates

In the incoming sophomore class nominations for president included Kitty Jo Hickman Virginia Greene, Margie Mercer Alice Price and Frances McClure. Sara Arnold, Dot Stalling Joan Miller, Barbara Brooks, Mattie Jo Peacock, Jean Tally, Dot Miller, Anna Hampton, Jeanne Tothers, and Alease Wilson are running for secretary. Those nominated for treasurer were Beth Colvin Barbara Hall, Loretta Ellisa, Anne Cannon, Edna Safay, Bertha Lee Hoffman, Marty Maddox, Nora Berkowitz, Sara Parrier, Mary Arma, Mary Alice Kirchman, Doris Knowlin, Rose Mary Anderson, Margaret Gaston, and Mrs. Cleamer. Nominated for athletic manager were Alice Lodwick, Chase Berge, Ruth Cleamer Patterson, Starling Hall, Jeanne Pain and Dessera Reker.

Don Likes Tall Girls and Swing

"My idea of a perfect wife is a girl 5 feet, 6 or 7 inches tall; her eyes and hair don't matter," said Donald Budge, tennis pro who played here Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Budge added that he would help if she is a good dancer and has an even disposition."

Donald Budge said that his hobby is swing music. He collects records and plays the drums. When asked about his favorite swing number he said:

"It's not the melody that counts but the way it's played. I like anything with a good ride to it. However, my favorite selections are Benny Goodman's recording of "Roll 'em" and Count Basie's "Wash Tub."

The secretaries that Mr Budge likes best are those of Count Basey, Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw, Bob Crosby, Will Bradley—a comparatively new orchestra and Tommy Dorsey, who he says is his choice for the best all round band.

The tennis pro said that he had no particular schedule that he followed before a tournament play, only that he eats regularly with no fish or fried foods during the two weeks before tournaments.

This is the second woman's college that Mr. Budge has played the first being Mills College in California.

Mr Budge and his promoter Jack Harris of Hollywood, Florida arrived on campus at 12:30 Wednesday and had lunch in the college dining hall with Miss Rebecca Averill and Miss Claudia Moore of the physical education faculty. Miss Rachel Pitchford college publicity director; Miss Beth Lancaster, kindergarten supervisor, Peaches McKay and Lib Moore.

Annette McFarland, Paula Jones, Winnifred Price, Mernie Cason, Georgiana Hamburger, Amera Rogers, and Margaret Winn.

Candidates for chairman of the Sophomore-Senior breakfast are Nan Ingram, Beth Mitchell, Jean Hoffman, Phil Bryland and Helen Hawkins. Marcy Mackintosh, Dorothy Babers, Louise de Jarnette, Betty Lang, Madelyn Halpern, Pat Waller, Orleen Cox, Patsy McGraw, Virginia Monroe and Elaine Beisler were nominated for chairman of the sophomore-hop. Candidates for cheerleaders are Virginia H. Jones, Anne Cannon, Marian Hall, Melva Cook, Martha Griffitts, and Edna Earle Wilson

Freshmen running for senate representatives are Marjorie Richardson, Betsy Ross Howe, Elizabeth Rogers, Mary Angela, Laura Post, Mary Gusta Hugins, Janie Bellamy, Carol Marshall, Jane Roth, Evelyn Butts, Mary Lou King, Nancy Kulp, Tulie Van Brunt, Celia Pierce, Penny Councilman, Carolyn Stovall, Lorraine Cottrell, Mildred Woodward, and Mariana Boardman.

The rate of telephone usage in sweden is 127 instruments per 1000 inhabitants. There are 787,000 telephones in the country.

SATURDAY SPECIALS

BENNETT'S

DRUG STORES

COLLEGE INN PHARMACY and MONROE ST PHARMACY

Meet your friends at Bennett's two fountain cafes for luncheons and sodas

Special Hot Plate Lunch and Dinners 25c

Your Choice of:

ROAST YOUNG TURKEY WITH CRANBERRY SAUCE AND DRESSING

FRESH ROAST PORK, HAM WITH DRESSING

BROILED T BONE STEAK

Your choice of three vegetables, or two vegetables and salad. Hot rolls, Tea or Buttermilk

Fresh Strawberry Sundae Whipped Cream and Cherry 12c

15c Jumbo

Ice Cream Soda with 2 scoops

DRUGS

$1.00 Ironized Yeast Tablets 69c

MURINE 49c

1c Sale Fependent Antiseptic

2 50c sizes for 51c

10c Lax

Soap, 3 for 15c

4 10c Cakes

Woodbury's Soap 24c

Limeade or Orangeade With Sherbert 7c

Cream 2 for 16c

TOILETRIES

8c Val Binds R.A. Cream and Deodorant 39c

Free Coty Tandem Tester with Purchase

Coty Face Powder $1.00 Size Ipana

Tooth Paste 39c

8c Tek Tooth Brushes 23c, 2 for 43c

40c Pepsodent Tooth Paste 33c

Music Majors Give Cantata

Broadcast on WTAL Is Second in Series

The Easter cantata presented by students in public school music during the convocation period preceding the allster holidays was the second of a series of broadcasts over station WTAL from the college auditorium.

The chorus presenting "The Risen King" by Schnecker and was directed by two students, Julia Rosser and Eleanor Mullins. Lottie Thrasher was featured as a soprano soloist, and members of the double trio were Mildred True and Louise Thrasher, sopranos; Frances Rogers and Margaret Rinck, second sopranes; and Virginia Greene and Elizabeth Miller, altos. The organ soloist and accompanist was Helen Anderson.

The public music department, which is under the direction of Miss Zadi L. Phipps at the present time has 45 members enrolled, with approximately 250 other students studying in public school music classes. The chorus, which consists of majors in the department, included Atlas Alderman, Alma Anderson, Helen Anderson, Amelia Avant, Genevieve Bryan, Corinne Butler, Arley Carlton, Clarice Cash, Lois Cooper, Charlotte Cooper, Marjorie Clayton, Mary L. Cowart, Jean Daniells.

Virginia Dunn, Ruby Dunstan, Mary Edmonson, Jeanette Evans, Janice Field, Gene Hitchcock, Myrtle Hoffman, Elizabeth Hook, Sara Johns, Barbara Mabry, Margaret Matthews, Elizabeth Miller, Annette McPartlin, Eleanor Mullins, Pauline Morrow, Karolyn Patterson, Agnes Pronove, Margaret Rinck, Julia Rosser, Frances Rogers, Virginia Rouse, Sara Sheldon, Mary Stapleton, Pearle Suit, Myra Swindell, Margaret Thomas, Louie Thrasher, Mildred True, Pearle Tyler, Edna Warren, Hazel Wimberly, and Dorothy West.

School of Music Faculty Member Gives Recital In DeFuniak Springs

Mrs Frances Moore Hughs, a member of the faculty of the school of music, gave a 'cello recital at the Women's club in DeFuniak Springs Saturday evening, March 23. Mrs Hughs was accompanied in her recital by Mrs Gladys Mosley Orvell, an alumna of this college and a member of the music faculty at one time.

In accordance with its annual custom, the branch had invited the entire college community to be honored guests at the meeting.

Andrews Talks To AAUW In Gainesville March 21

Dr Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, spoke in Gainesville branch of the American Association of University Women on Thursday evening, March 21, at the Alpha Gamma Rho house at 8 o'clock. Dr Andrews' subject was "Finding Our Postwar Jobs."

In accordance with its annual custom, the branch had invited the entire college community to be honored guests at the meeting.

Mrs. Bristol To Conduct Gainesville Short Course

The weekly short course of the extension division of social work scheduled at Gainesville this week-end will be conducted by Mrs. Margaret Bristol, assistant professor of sociology. These weekly institutes, directed by different qualified persons each time, are sponsored by the State Conference of Social Work.

Life Saving Classes Continue Meetings

Demora Ecker, life saving instructor, announces that the life saving class meets this week Wednesday and Friday at 4:30 o'clock will be resumed this Wednesday. Girls who have all those enrolled who are still interested in taking the course are invited to come

Senate Committees Report For Year

At the senate meeting Thursday the chairmen of standing committees gave their yearly report. The committees which presented reports were the social committee, the budget committee, the handbook committee, and the S. F A. which will no longer be a component of senate after this year.

Changes made in the point system make the chairman of the social committee five points instead of four. The chairman of the dance committee was charged from one to three points. The chairman of the social standards committee was changed to two points. The dance committee and the social standards committee are both sub-divisions of the social committee. It was moved that the handbook be clarified to state that the business manager of the Flambeau is a three point office.

Chris appointed to handle the party for the outgoing senate are Kathleen McCarthy, chairman; Helen Milam, and Laura Foote.

Debating Contest Tryouts Announced

Tryouts will be held Wednesday at 3 o'clock in 303 Westcott for debaters to the Grand Eastern Debating tournament at Winthrop college, Rockhill, S. C., to be held April 11-13. This announcement comes from Dr. Weaver, chairman of the debater's bureau. Any student who is interested, whether she is a member of the club or not, may try out.

The subject for debate is Resolved: That the United States should follow a policy of strict isolation toward all nations outside the western hemisphere and engaged in armed international or civil conflict. Four girls will represent the State College at the tournament.

The Florida State college team chosen Wednesday, will debate at Presbyterian college, Clinton, S. C., April 10, on the same subject of isolation.

There are no railroads in Afghanistan.

Former Student Is New Book's Author

Mrs. Edna Hoffman Evans, who took her A.B. from Florida State college in 1934 and her M.A. degree in history in 1935, is the author of Bill and the Bird Bander, recently published by the John C. Winston company of Chicago and Philadelphia.

Mrs. Evans' book is about birds and the conservation work of the United States Biological Survey with them. Bill and the Bird Bander contains 78 photographs, mainly made by the author's husband, William J. Evans.

The author, while a journalism student here, was the exchange editor of the 1934 Flambeau and in that year she started the cartoon, "Spirit of the Week."

While a student here Mrs Evans won the Flambeau short story contest with her article, "And They Call It Relief." The prize was $100.

This year the author is teaching English and history in the junior high school at St. Petersburg high school.

The jacket of the book says the following about Mrs. Evans and her husband: "After graduation from the Florida State college for Women, where she also received her master's degree, Mrs. Evans worked on the St Petersburg Times as school editor, reporter and society editor, and then became a history teacher at the St. Petersburg high school.

Both Mrs. Evans and her husband have written articles which have appeared in such magazines as Nature, Outdoor Life, Better Homes and Gardens, National Sportsmen, and others."

Physical Ed Students See Exhibition by Western Golf Champion Yesterday

Miss Helen Dettweiler, champion of the open western golf tournament, was at this college yesterday for a demonstration giving instructions in golf to students of physical education.

Dettweiler, who has won current ways to stand, grip, and swing the golf expert called for volunteers from the class, then gave silver criticisms and suggestions.

Miss Dettweiler travels about the country giving professional golf demonstrations on behalf of a national sporting goods company. She came to Tallahassee from Valdosta, Ga., where she returned last night.

It Should Be Interesting

A play night somewhat different from the usual has been planned for tonight. It is to be in the form of a backward dance, so don't be surprised if the play night committee members tell you goodnight when you arrive and have you enter by the rear door of the gym.

The committee in charge of play night is trying to vary the form and program so that it won't be the same old "Bring-your-date-out-to-play-night" affair, but will be something that is interesting and a little out of the ordinary.

The dance may even start with "Home Sweet Home," and it is rumored that the girls may lead the boys on one occasion. Why don't you all come out to play tonight at 8 o'clock and find out for yourself?

Florida High Adds Dramatic Honorary

Troop 153 of the National Thespian dramatic honor society for high schools was installed at Florida high school by Ralph Donaldson, sponsor March 15.

Officers of the newly installed troop are Mary Alice Kirchman, president; Mary McCann, vice president; Bill Messer, treasurer; Ralph Chaseney, program chairman; Mary McCann, chairman of the constitution committee; and Iris Watson, membership chairman. Other members are Kathryn Ecker, Mary Jeanne Eyman, Ruth Mae Hawes, and Francis Lowry.

Membership in the National Thespian society is restricted to high schools and academies of recognized standing. Students meeting the required standards at dramatic work are eligible. Unofficial office are qualified for membership and are admitted only at the discretion of the troop sponsor, Ralph Donaldson.

The first project of the Florida high troop is to present the first senior class play, "Annie Laurie," which will be presented in the Augusta Conrad theater, May 1 and 2. It is a Scotch costume play taking place in the middle of the eighteenth century. Ralph Donaldson will direct it, and Irene Bannerman will be student director.

The troop will hold a business meeting in the art room of Florida high school April 5 to plan assembly programs.

Milton, Quincy. Win Contests

Elimination tournaments for district one of the Interscholastic debate and one-act play contest among high school contestants were held in the Augusta Conrad theatre Wednesday. General chairman of the district, which is one of the six districts into which the counties of the state are divided, was Mrs. Mary Buford, associate professor in speech. Assisting her were Miss Lenore Moore, with the play presentation groups, and Miss Margaret Wray, with the groups competing in debate.

Members of Quincy high school group won the one-act play contest Wednesday morning in competition with Pensacola, Milton, and Monticello. Pensacola placed second. The debate competition afternoon were won by Milton with Panama City in second place. Also competing in the debates was Monticello.

Following the elimination tournaments, the two winning high school groups will go to Gainesville for the district tournament. The state tournament, conducted by the General Extension division at the University of Florida, is the annual interscholastic contest program. The tournament will include a press conference, addressed by members in the publications contest, and accompanist, Miss Gilchrist in the finals which will determine state champions in debate and one-act play presentation.

Other colleges cooperating with the division are Florida Southern college University of Miami John B. Stetson university, Rollins college, and University of Florida.

Irish to Attend Meeting Of Southern Council on International Relations

Dr. Marion Irish, associate professor of political science, will attend a meeting of the Southern Council on International Relations in Nashville, Tenn., this week.

The purpose of the council, composed of ten Southern states is to work with all organizations interested in civic education. Such organizations are furnished with various types of literature concerning international affairs.

Faculty members who hold membership in this council are Dr. Cecilia Rivers, associate professor of history, and Dr. Irish.

During 1939, fifteen states amended their laws so that they could tax the income of those who receive federal salaries.

WEST COAST GIRLS PLAY A LOT OF POLO. Attractive Peggy McManus of Santa Barbara is shown above about to mount. She often breaks and trains her own horses. Above (at right), Peggy in "Western style" costume sits on the corral fence as she enjoys a Camel cigarette.

SHE LIKES FAST HORSES but slow-burning cigarettes—"that means Camels." Peggy adds: "Camels are milder, cooler, and more fragrant. By burning more slowly, Camels give me extra smokes. Penny for penny, Camels are certainly the best cigarette buy!"

SPEED'S THE THING IN A HORSE, BUT I LIKE MY CIGARETTES SLOW-BURNING. THAT MEANS CAMEL, THE CIGARETTE THAT GIVES ME THE EXTRAS!

PEGGY SAYS SPEED'S SWELL IN A HORSE

...but the cigarette for her is slower-burning Camels because that means

EXTRA MILDNESS EXTRA COOLNESS EXTRA FLAVOR

NORTH—South—East—West—people like a cigarette that burns slowly, the same as Peggy McManus does. Fast burning cuts down on your cigarette pleasure. Slow burning promotes real smoking enjoyment. In recent tests, no cigarette beat Camels for even equalled Camels for slow burning. Camels are extra mild, extra cool, with full, rich flavor. Penny for penny your best cigarette buy. Try a slow-burning cigarette made from mouthlessly blended costlier tobaccos . . . try a Camel cigarette, and get—

MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF—MORE PUFFS PER PACK!

Camels—the cigarette of Long-Burning Costlier Tobaccos

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plan equal to

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

Copyright, 1940, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Farewell to Arms

As the new editor and her staff take over the editing of the Flambeau, the old editors look back over the ledger of events of this year to see how the credits and debits balance. During the past months the editors have tried their best to uphold the policies and measures which they felt that the student body desired and to express their opinions about those which they opposed.

Probably the most outstanding item on the credit side of the ledger is the closer cooperation between the Alumnae Association and the student body. Due to a great extent to Mrs. Frank Moor, president, the Alumnae Association has sponsored an excellent series of programs including such well-known people in various fields as Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, and Cornelia Otis Skinner. These programs have been so popular with the students that it is hoped they will be continued in the future.

Allowing seniors to have three late permissions a semester is a great step forward toward liberalizing our regulations. At first glance only three late permissions a semester for members of the senior class alone do not seem to be more than a faltering step along the path of progress, but it is another matter when you stop to consider that never before have late permissions been granted to anyone except on very rare occasions. Perhaps in the future this privilege will be extended to other classes as well as to the seniors.

The social life at Florida State college has been enlivened by the addition of the monthly dances. They have encouraged greatly boys from the University of Florida to come up here and have given girls a chance to meet more boys more often. Instead of boys being allowed to dance only at play-night on Fridays and at sorority houses on Saturdays, girls can take dates to the recreation room in Landis to dance six nights a week. Mortar Board, Cotillion club, and the Village Vamps are to be commended for sponsoring these worthy projects.

An innovation in the judiciary system this year was establishing honor councils in each dormitory. So far the plan has met with marked success in dealing with minor infractions of rules. Dealing only with girls in one dormitory, the members of house council are able to know the girls better and to understand more fully why they broke the rules.

The Flambeau has added another column to its editorial page to help to explain to the students the workings and policies of our College Government Association.

One very tangible credit is the new buildings which have been put in use this year. They have helped pave the way for increasing our enrollment and making our college a more desirable place to attend. The present list of buildings will be completed as soon as the Student-Alumnae building is furnished by funds contributed by alumnae, students and friends.

While the debit side of the ledger is not as full as the credit side, it has, none the less, some important items which deserve much consideration by both faculty and students. First and foremost is the ever-present question in students' minds of the new light-cut restrictions. With some exceptions the students are opposed to having to turn out their lights at a certain time and feel that some revisions should be made. When a ruling is as unpopular as this one is, it would seem that it would not meet with marked success until it is made more agreeable to those most directly concerned.

The organization which has been buffeted around most this year has been N. S. F. A. With its meetings being few and far between it has accomplished very little on campus this year. Interest in this group should be revived at all costs, because it has been the one place where students gathered in any number to discuss pertinent questions. The chairman of N. S. F. A. has lost her identity as such by becoming third vice-president of C. G. A. It is greatly to be desired that this body continue to debate controversial questions which have some meaning, and not degenerate into a glorified sewing circle wasting breath on subjects which don't make any difference. It's destiny lies in the hands of the new third vice-president and in an interested student body.

Now that we have a new dormitory, dining room, and infirmary, we must realize that the increased enrollment will necessitate more classrooms and a larger auditorium if convocation continues to be compulsory. If we continue to grow in size, individual instruction will become virtually unknown.

Although our dances have become bigger and better and we have continued to engage good outside orchestras, there is still the question of signing in and out at the dances. The system used at the junior-senior prom for the last two years has worked very well although girls living off campus find it quite an ordeal to walk wearily home after several hours of strenuous continuous dancing. To walk to and from dances in the gym would be almost too much to ask of girls living on Park, College, and Copeland, yet it would seem that some steps could be taken to modify the irksome rule of signing in and out for quick dashes to the Sweet Shop or Soic.

There are numerous other credits and debits which could be added to the ledger, but space does not permit. As we, the old staff, turn over the Flambeau to the new editors, we send with them our best wishes for a successful year and for making the paper a truly representative organ of student opinion.

Your Government . . . .

By MAXINE ARMISTEAD

The orientation program which comes to the foreground again this week with the selection of the freshman counselors for next year and the beginning of the training course for them is a definite part of our governmental system. Much of the work is tied up with the administration, yet it leaves the responsibility in the hands of the students by their election of the freshman advisor who serves on executive council, college council, and judiciary. The responsibility is also in her assistants who work with the office of the dean of students to perform important functions of college government.

* * * * *

Personnel of the Program . . .

As mentioned above, the freshman advisor heads the orientation program, although the administrative division operates through the office of the dean of students. The freshman advisor appoints a committee on orientation to assist her in various phases of the work. She and her committee, the assistant dean and the freshman counselors make up the advisory council of orientation. Each group has separate duties but the work is coordinated by interviews with the advisor and by weekly and monthly reports.

The counselors themselves are the most important of orientation; upon them rests its ultimate success. They must accept certain responsibilities, realizing that should they fail in any one detail they are seriously weakening the effect of the entire program. Because the counselor should serve as an ideal she must keep up her academic work, observe and uphold college requirements, regulations, demonstrate good citizenship by participating in the general college program of activities, and discharge all her duties and responsibilities enthusiastically and promptly. The junior class is believed to be the first year for a girl to be a counselor, for she only has the freshman and junior classes under classes, but many girls prefer to live on senior hall, in sorority houses, or to have more time during their senior year.

Girls who are chosen to be counselors have no definite qualifications, but such things as interest, ability, and training are considered. It is as much to protect the counselor herself as to safeguard the welfare of the freshmen that the counselor be consenial to the work. Different girls may be suited to different types of counseling, for there are three types—advisors in the dormitory, counselor for off-campus students, and for transfer students.

* * * * *

Training Course . . .

The responsibilities of orientation are so great and the results so far reaching that each spring there is a training course conducted for the future counselors. This training course consists of ten meetings during the middle of May. The program is made up of lectures by the dean of students and her staff, assisted by members of the faculty occasionally. This follows by round discussions by the counselors, during which the phases of college life are examined critically and plans for the coming year are completed.

The subjects discussed are many and various including all of the phases of orientation and the problems of freshmen such as the emotional disturbances, requirements for group living, distribution of time, need for making choices, academic problems, need of friendly assistance, importance, orientation as an answer to the needs of the freshmen, the knowledge that is freshmen counselor must have, the part that she plays, the importance of her technique with individuals and with groups. This is wound up by instruction in specific problems of different orientation groups.

During the summer vacation this plan is followed by extensive selective reading dealing with the problems which the counselors will encounter.

* * * * *

Orientation in Operation . . .

Actual orientation begins with freshman week. The counselors are expected to be on hand to greet the freshmen as they come in and try to make them feel at home. During that first week the counselors, instructors and the sophomore council girls serving as freshmen aids are called into service. In addition to the extensive plans for orientating freshmen to the college, campus, buildings, rules and regulations, there is a social program in which the counselors must play an active part. This consists of the president's reception, a sing, and the Mad Hatter's dance.

During the next seven weeks there are alternate class meetings and formal group meetings. In the weeks of class meetings, informal group meetings are held occasionally in the form of a hike, weiner roast, picnic, or a party. The finale to the program occurs when the freshman class pledges its allegiance to the college and is recognized as a full-fledged branch of the school. When the freshmen elect their officers they officially become a class.

But orientation does not stop here. For the remainder of the year counselors serve as advisors and friends. The influence of the counselor reaches throughout the college years, but the responsibility is not here alone. The student body must realize their part in orientation, realize the effects and results of their attitudes upon the freshmen, and act accordingly. The criticisms of students should be freely given to the orientation program. The criticisms are more than welcome and would greatly aid the personnel of orientation.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace. . .

Looking back over the achievements of the year at first glance it seems that the Flambeau has done little more than publish a newspaper once a week, and that has not always been done as well as the the editors would have liked for it to have been done.

At the end of the year we come to the point of relinquishing our offices to new people without being able to point to anything tangible with pride. Yet, we feel that we can justly be proud of certain intangibles for which we have always gone to bat—student independence, freedom of the press, freedom of speech, the right of a minority to be heard.

The very act of naming these principles which we have endeavored to uphold implies that the going has not always been easy. Nor has it.

No one knows better than a newspaper editor who has the privilege of seeing things from the inside the news that is deliberately left out, the opinions that are withheld for fear of the consequences, and the editorials killed by the censored in any serious disagreement with the powers that be. Although there may be no open discrimination there are numerous unobtrusive ways of making one's displeasure felt.

There have been times when we have received barrages of criticisms, both complimentary and adverse. That is only natural because no one or no newspaper can or should try to please everyone. It is our philosophy that in a democracy there should be diverse opinion, all of which should be given hearing and consideration. We have tried to do that.

—Jeannette Mullis.

Collegiate Comebacks

Maybe our thought processes are perverted, but we're slightly unhappy. It seems to us that with all the extra convocations we've spent this year being patriotic and having school spirit, we could have born up under the strain of not having one the afternoon after holidays. However we have a theory. We think there's a limit to what people are going to stand. We think that there will come a day when no longer will people dare to drop extra convocations on us like so much manna from heaven. There'll come a day when no longer will we sit for an hour listening to soulful music in the middle of exam week. In fact we got so bitter about the whole thing that we penned a pome so that some day we can say unerringly, "We told you so."

There once was a camel,
Or so I've been told
By a writer bold
Who was also quite old
And sage with the wisdom
Experience brings
Who was honored by men
And praised by kings.

This burden-beast's owner,
The story began
Thought the more that one carries,
The more one can.
So little by little he increased the beast's load.
Til its back sagged down
And its legs became bowed.

A bow-legged camel, the wise man said,
Is about as much use as a camel that's dead.
And if the owner had only floored,
The bow-legged camel's a student who's bored.

The Stetson Reporter claims that the average income of College students is around twelve o'clock. . . . Eleven-thirty to be exact.

* * * * *

The Cincinnati News-Record has an item about a psych professor from the U of M who found there was a right high correlation between grades made by father and son. "Wanted," the professor added, "There ar four Phi Beta Kappas to call me mamma!"

* * * * *

Comment on the Easter bonnet situation:
Madame's hats have undergone
A major revolution—
Madame's hats are silly now—
Is there no solution?
Stylists have decreed a mode
Revolting in its size,
It tests milady's self-esteem,
It changes her whole stature.
The hats loads the hair brace,
The style's most aggravating—
In fact, to state it plainly,
Milady's hats are nauseating!

Incidentally, the above is man's comment on what we thought were pretty nifty numbers.

* * * * *

Comment overheard:
Don Budge (after polishing off the eggs, milk, cheese, ham, and what have you, the other day at lunch. That's fine, but when do we eat?

Our sentiments exactly. Don, but we were afraid to express 'em.

Yield not to temptation
For yielding is sin
Some sister will help you
Her brother to win
Fight manfully onward
Dark passions subdue
Don't run after the boys, girls
Let them run after you.
We do, they don't.

* * * * *

And then there's the near sighted snake who sloped with a rope

* * * * *

And the man who went hunting and bagged only his trousers.

* * * * *

And the absent minded professor who crawled under his dresser and waited for the chamber button to find him.

* * * * *

Heard at the Sweet Shop: Adam and Eve on a Raft . . . Shoot one . . . Morning after . . . Two and . . . Two puppies in a suitcase . . . Sweet Alice . . . 82. You figure it out.

* * * * *

Dignity is one thing that can't be preserved in alcohol.
—The Carolinian.

* * * * *

Frosh: Why the black crepe?
Soph: That's no black crepe. That's the roommate's towel.

* * * * *

And did you hear the joke about the little boy and the gun? Well, there was a little boy who had a father. His father bought him a gun for his birthday, but when he brought it home his wife said it wasn't large enough. So the man went back and bought a larger gun, but his wife still said it wasn't large enough. He went back to the store again and bought the largest gun they had and brought it home, but his wife still wasn't satisfied. She told him he must get even a bigger gun. So the man went back and looked in the store again but there weren't any larger guns. Then he went to another store and looked and looked but there were no guns bigger than the one he had. He looked through all the stores in the city and finally, when it was late and the man was very tired he found a toy gun and bought it to give to his little boy for his birthday.

And it's time to turn out your lights and go to sleep.

Magazine Jottings . . . .

By MARLENE DALE

"Soap Opera", by Merrill Denison and "WQXR—Quality of the Air", by Henry F. Pringle are contrasting articles on radio found in the April Harpers. Denison writes on the numerous tragic serials that fill the airlanes from 9 o'clock in the morning till 6 o'clock in the afternoon every week day. Pringle gives the story of a local New York station that does not broadcast for the masses but for those intelligent enough to appreciate better programs.

The name Soap Opera is very obvious. It originated from the fact that many of the serials are sponsored by manufacturers of soap. These programs of unrelieved tragedy can be heard almost any 15-minute period of any week day. Their purpose is to win the women listeners, which they have as shown by the balance sheet of the major network of sale of time to the companies. The popularity of soap opera is also shown by the quantity of letters received by companies in answer to premium offers of everything from some household gadget to a package of "tested, guaranteed, jumbo zennia seed."

Although the number of programs is increasing, the number of sponsors is not. In 1938 there were 31 sponsors and 152 quarter hour shows per week; in 1939 32 sponsors and 249 15-minute periods per week. Six manufacturers are now paying for two-thirds of all soap operas. The Procter and Gamble company owns five of the most popular shows, "The Guiding Light," "Ma Perkins," "Mary Marlin," "The O'Neills," and "Pepper Young." The 18 leading programs have an outlet of 33 stations. Since just stations cover the most densely populated areas in the country, their potential audience embraces 70% of all radio-equipped homes in the United States.

Merrill Denison goes on to say, "There is little difference between the soap opera of 1940 and the serial thriller of 1920, the ten, 30, and 20 melodrama of 1910, and the nickel dreadful of 1900. All have been cut from the same piece of literary cloth in that their success depends upon heightening the suspense of each succeeding episode."

One rule prevails in the soap opera: there must be a woman and she must suffer. Every problem is a woman's problem. "The Romance of Helen Trent" tells of the secret of a divorced woman of 35 who attempts to make her life new. In "Backstage Wife" a sweet wholesome girl marries a matinee idol and worries about holding her husband. In "Our Gal Sunday" a ranch-raised Western girl marries into British nobility and worries about how to keep it. Whatever the plot, the main technical job is to build up suspense Monday through Friday.

To educators, intelligentsia, and uplift groups, the number and nature of day time serials serve as an outstanding example of the social irresponsibility of commercial sponsorship. These writers are a waste of the greatest media of all communication, education and enlightenment.

"But even when one understands its nature, the possibility of the day time radio serial is disturbing. After gauging the mechanical and economic forces behind these serials and the whole hearted acceptance of them by millions of women, one cannot help but wonder what would happen if the same technique were used to entertain adults."

"An axiom of America's newest giant industry is that it cannot succeed to a level lower than public intelligence or taste," says Henry F. Prinsle in WQXR—Quality of the Air. The great majority of broadcasts the tired ether waves send out are designed for people with the mind of children. Broadcasters have to please the sponsor, networks and compete with every other program on the air at that same time. Since these three are a waste of the greatest media of all communication, education and enlightenment.

"Radio broadcasting," Mr. Prinsle stated, "may be a giant industry but its earnings are spotty. In one of the local New York stations, although it has lost money, has been making a vital contribution to the cultural status of radio during the past three years. Station WQXR, owned by the Interstate Broadcasting company, broadcasts nothing but fine music, excellent lectures, intelligently prepared news summaries and other printed matter. "We assume the radio listener to be an intelligent and cultural person" says Mr. John Hogan, president of the company.

Although Mr. Prinsle praises Mr. Hogan for the insane asylum in the view of other radio officials, he is confident that there is a market for quality on the air. He does not claim to air only classical music, but only first rate compositions of whatever variety fills the 85% of their air time devoted to music, which is recorded.

Started as an experimental station in Long Island city in 1928. WQXR was incorporated with the Interstate Broadcasting company in 1936. At first the New York papers did not bother to list the programs, which already had a large audience; then Hogan began to publish a leaflet for interests a week or $1.00 a year. Its circulation is still limited 10,000 despite the almost city-wide listings in New York papers.

The main dark spot on the future of the station is the heavy licenses stations now have to pay in order to broadcast records.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

JEANNETTE MULLIS ..... Editor-in-Chief
MARY ELIZABETH BURR ..... Associate Editor
MARY LOUISE RICE ..... Managing Editor
VIVIAN ASLAWER ..... News Editor

Reporters Harriet Benson, Bertha Bond, Mary Catherine Boyd, Louise Burger, Mary Caldwell, Doris Carter, Marlene Dale, Phillis Dale, Marguerite Dismukes, Frances Garrison, Carolyn Hardee, Edith Jo Hartman, Emma Jean Hogue, Bettye Hyatt, Mary Ann Lee, Mary Lou Lewis, Mary Ann Mahon, Mary Ann Mann, Frances Orvin, Mary Ford Price, Grace Rushing, Elvira Sanchez, Ann Taylor, Jeanne Thomasson, Isabelle Waterhouse, Belle Young, Yvonne Walker

BUSINESS STAFF

GRACE SPARKMAN ..... Business Manager
LILLIAN SCHWENG ..... Assistant Business Manager
VELMA FAYE ..... Circulation
MARY GLENN GRIMES ..... Advertising

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Members National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association.

Represented for national advertising by
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.
Chicago · Boston · Los Angeles · San Francisco

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

Additional Alumnae News on Page 6

FLORIDA STATE ALUMNAE NEWS

By CHARLOTTE STEVENS
Alumnae Secretary

Send in Drive Contribution without Delay

ident Alumnae uilding Drive lans Extended

Project for Raising Money is Sponsored By Maclay Plantation

Approximately $1,500 toward the goal of at least $10,000 for the Student-Alumnae Building has been raised thus far. Frank D. Moor, alumnae drive chairman, announced this week as letters were made to extend the time for turning in donations. Most of this sum comes from students according to Mr. Moor, who urges that all alumnae friends send in immediately cards recently mailed to them by the alumnae slots for coins and cards for bills. She wishes to keep a record of the donors and sums turned in and asks that information be listed. At the same time she made known the fact request to withhold the name of donors and amounts in would be complied with.

Another project to raise for the building Mrs. Moor obtained the consent of the Maclay family north of Tallahassee to open their plantation on March 31 for the benefit of the alumnae furnishing project. An admission of 50 cents is charged for all persons using the famed gardens. Mrs. A. Bridges is chairman of the garden benefit.

Following is a list of donors who have contributed to the campaign:

Mr. Edward Conradi, Agnes Edwards, Mrs. Arthur Williams for Mrs. H. Williams and in memory of Rowena Longmire, Mrs. W. Parks in memory of her sister Kathryn Beyer, S. E. Shaw and C. C. Collins of Cabot Bank, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Bassett, Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Moor, Marshall Balch, Mary Holmes, Dr. R. L. Kyman, Dr. Ross B. Briley, Sue Pitchford, Rena Bowen Stevens, Miss Lucy Wise, Mr. Royal Mattico, Mrs. Wise Williams, Dr. Harold Balch, Miss Anna M. Tracy, Mrs. S. R. Doyle, Miss Mina Pittman, Mrs. Ruth Hunter, Miss Mary N. Reid, Mrs. Olive H. Cross, Dr. Fred T. Dinzler, Dr. Harry Lee Bellamy, Dr. Margie Burks, Clarence Rogers, Miss Sara Moore, Miss Mattie Montgomery, Mr. John C. Caldwell, Irma Bidgood, Dr. Cecile Moore, Mrs. Marshall Cain, Mrs. Isabelle Gwynn Foster, Miss Mary Call, Miss Marjorie Portaire, Miss Ruth Schorb-ler, Mr. Henry F. Becker, Mrs. Phelia Fleming for the Woman Alumnae Club.

Mrs. Mary Bellamy, Miss Kate Phippe, Allie Lou Pelton, Ella Carruthers Dozier, Julia H. Mae, Mrs. J. L. Pahs, Mrs. A. Landry Mr. J. G. Kellum, Miss Julia Richey, Mrs. Marcyl Vet-ch, W. H. Mitchell, Mrs. C. H. Mills, Mary E. Nickel, Evelyn Osmond, Helen M. Shelly, Miss Ben Richey, Hazel Grimes Cone, Mrs. Randall, Mrs. Lamar Hall.

Continued on Page Six

Alumnae Board Of Directors Meets

The semi-annual meeting of the board of directors of the Alumnae association was held in the library of the Alumnae association on December 3, 1939. Members present were Mrs. Frank Moor (Beth Walton, 1919), president of the Alumnae association; Mrs. Frank Meadowcroft McGowan (Mary Lou Lehan, '19), vice president; Mrs. J. P. Ashmore (Mary Bell Thornton, '19), secretary; Helen Shepard, 1930, treasurer and the following: Mrs. Ray West (Evelyn Bernard, 1937), Adelaide Duval, 1939, Mrs. Lamar Hall (Mary Louise Stewart, '19), Mrs. Robert Gamble (Mary Louise Bowden, '19), Mrs. Edward Gamble (Willie Ison, '19), and the Alumnae secretary. Plans were made for the drive to furnish the new Student-Alumnae building on the campus and general policies of the association for the coming year were discussed. Luncheon was served to the board members by Miss Anna M. Tracy, who is the college dietitian and also chairman of the Faculty committee on co-operation with the Alumnae.

Active Alumnae Send In Dues

Active members of the alumnae association, who have not paid their dues for the year 1939-40 include:

Frances LaMotte, Polly Ann White, Prederico Roberts, Mary K. Ortenzo, Virginia Gunter, Frances Douglas, Marjorie Bennett, Helen Frances Taylor, Connie Wallis, Esther O'Byrne, Lucille Colton, Mary Palmer, Elizabeth Lounds, Betty Jane Bellamy, Muriel McCracken, Elizabeth Compton, Emily Bush, Mabie Rogers, Hazel Adams, Julia Beckman, Dawn Latham, Katherine Spivey, Sadie Lamar, Mary L. Thames, Barbara Swanstrom, Mary E. Stevenson, Frances Lane, Alice McKelvey, Mary McCahill, Doris Reed, Helen Shaliowsky, Evelyn Barnes, Dora Solomon, Lynette Patten, Ruth Wiaen, Ella Melvin, Ruth Badger, Marguerit Tyler, Bunny Lowery, Ruthe McElhannon, Florence Evers.

Gibson Dey, Dorothy Nye, Margaret Spurlock, Mrs. Fred Cubberly, Shirley Decker, Mrs. Charles K. Mansery, Mrs. Viola T. Stephens, Norma Dowe, Mrs. Jane McCormack, Mrs. Frank Hall, Elizabeth Crenshaw, Mildred Coker, Margaret Van Steenbergen, Ruth Hendrix, Beauvere Tomlinson, Jeanne McMullen, Olive Swearingen, Mary K. Lovelace, Mrs. Oracle Saunders Riley, Mrs. Blanche Agee, Gwendolyn Herndon, Betty Jane Hall, Margaret Eckland, Ruth Elkins, Mary Lamont, Mrs. Lula G. Davis, Mrs. Helen Belle Hilson, Mrs. Marie S. Taylor, Elizabeth Kresse, Gertrude Hall Jones, Christine Latham, Hazel G. Anderson, Mrs. J. W. Randolph, Helen Belle Carlisle, Susanna Trusler, Edna Kilnde, Nancy E. Bryan, Ruth Allison, Mrs. Carey Ramage, Marie Castellano, Margaret Peacock, Mrs. E. T. Bassett, Mrs. George L. Milligan, Bessie Iderstine, Martha F. Smith, Mrs. Jack Hendrix, Mrs. Secretchen, the director of attendance, she reported tonight, the Special School (ungraded, individualized program of work), and the School for the deaf and hard of hearing.

Births

To Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Williams, (Ethel Campbell, class of 1933) a girl, Sarah Katherine, on January 15, 1940.

To Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Chapman, Jr., (Henrietta Braswell, class of 1932) a daughter, Henrietta Noel, on January 30, 1940.

To Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Heath (Freda Koester, class of 1929) a daughter, Martha Ann, December 31, 1939.

To Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Wells, (Lydia Bell, class of 1927) a son, born February 19, 1940.

Notice to Alumnae

The Alumnae college is to be held on the weekend of April 12-13. All those in Tallahassee who are returning are asked to send in their reservation early to Miss Maude Flowers in Bryan Hall. Rooms will be reserved in Landis hall and vince students will be glad to write these rooms for the returning alumnae if they are necessary to know how many will be needed. The committee will appreciate all early reservation. On Friday night, April 12, Mrs. Hilton Sawyer Rawlings will lecture as part of the Alumnae college program. Space will be reserved for alumnae for the theatre tickets are $1.4 presumed that we want to be sure and save enough space for alumnae. Please indicate on your reservation blank whether or not you will be here in time to attend the lecture. Reservation fee for the entire weekend will be one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) which includes the price of the lecture also.

To answer to many requests we wish to announce that room and board is free for the entire weekend and breakfast will be furnished. The dormitory This promises to be one of the best Homecomings we have had and we hope you will find many things here which will be of interest to you.

Alumnae College Committee.

Barber Has Post As Psychologist

Alumna Heads Iowa Child Study Service

Miss Virginia Barber, who was graduated from Florida State college with the class of 1934, is now school psychologist and head of child study service in Ida Independent School District of Davenport, Iowa. She has held this important position since last summer.

Miss Barber, who is formerly of Kissimmee, has her B. S. degree in mathematics from Florida State college. In 1937 she was awarded a master's degree at the University of Iowa and two years later received her doctor's from the same institution. She is a member of Phi Kappa Phi and Sigma Xi national honor societies.

The work in which Miss Barber is engaged at present she describes as "most challenging and interesting." The center of the work is the problem of the treatment of the exceptional child, whatever the cause or nature of that exceptionality. She is well prepared for such work, having written her thesis on the subject dealing with tactile stimulation upon "vocal cords" and her doctor's thesis on a statistical study of the effect of specified distractions upon fluency of stuttering. The former thesis was published under hand authorship with Professor Lee Edward Travis, who directs; Miss Barber's research in the Iowa Speech Clinic. The Journal of Experimental Psychology the latter is being published as two articles in the Journal of Speech Disorders.

The Child Study Service of which Miss Barber is head includes the services of the school physician and his staff of nurses, the school psychologist, the school secretchen, the director of attendance, she reported tonight, the Special School (ungraded, individualized program of work), and the School for the deaf and hard of hearing.

Highlights of Alumnae College at F. S. C. W. April 12-14

Scenes which will be enacted at the Alumnae College April 12-14 at Florida State College for Women are shown above. At upper left Dr. Marion Hay, who is one of the faculty speakers, is shown in the typical class like the alumnae will attend and on the right Miss Katherine Byrd demonstrates how the various arrivals are greeted with badges. Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, Florida novelist, and Judge Elwyn Thomas of the supreme court who are two of the principal speakers also are shown. Judge Thomas of the supreme court has a professional handshake; and the students consumer education class as it will appear on the program. Landis Hall which is the newest and most modernly equipped dormitory at the college, and which will be used to house the visitors is shown above center.

Marriages

Anita Jones, 1938, to Fred Henry Winston, Jr. The couple will reside in Clearwater, Florida.

Lorine Gulin, class of 1938, to Maurice Stevenson. They will live in Lake Wales.

Grace Wicks, class of 1936, to Herschel Graves of Tallahassee, Florida.

Letitia Corbett, class of 1939, to James B. Moody, Jr., of Lake Wales. They will live in Orlando.

Gertrude Lanier, class of 1939, to Eugene Purgulit of Clearwater, Fla.

Jean Ollmer, class of 1938, to Dr. Harold Q. Nix of Tampa, Fla. The wedding will take place in April.

Annie Lee Dunn, class of 1938, to Grady Lester, jr. of Tampa, Fla.

Alice Bullock Miller, class of 1936, to J. O. Cornelius, of Tampa, Fla.

Ethel Shaw, 1929, to Creighton N. Gueliver, of Alexandria, Virginia.

Mary Lou Bell, class of 1938, to Richard Hulsey of Tampa, Florida.

Helen Waide, class of 1938, to Joseph Brennan, of Sebring.

Mary Elizabeth Kresse, class of 1932, to David Scoll of Washington, D. C. The couple will live in Washington, D. C. where Mr. Scoll is employed in the legal department of the United States Maritime Division.

Della Pearl Wakefield, class of 1939, to Rev. Frank Lyon, of Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Alice Cannon, class of 1939, to Charles Alford, of Talla..sasee, Florida.

Vonelle Herring, class of 1939 to Elbert Locke, of Tallahassee, Florida.

Sarah Moore, of class of 1938, to Maynard Ramsey, of Tampa, Florida.

Leona Ellenwood, class of 1932 to Charles C. Cocke, jr., of Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, in New York.

Helen McBride, class of 1939, to Newton Calhoun Jackson of Gainesville, Fla.

Marjorie Simmons, class of 1939, to J. R. Dicks, jr., of Plant City, Fla.

Betty Mack, class of 1937, to Curtis P. McCord, of Tallahassee, Fla.

Mary Sullivan, class of 1939, is working for the Associated Press in Key West, Fla.

Personals

Martha Lois Smith of Quincy, Fla. class of 1930, has been a member of the faculty of Flora MacDonald College in Wilmington, N. C., since last fall. She is associate professor of English.

Gracie Flournoy Ashmore (Mrs. J. P.) class of 1928, was recently elected president of the Woman's Club of Graceville, Fla. She has served as president of the club before and has been parliamentarian and chairman of the division of music for many years. Recently Mrs. Ashmore was one of the winners in a state-wide song contest, winning a place with a song and also a march. She will compete in the national contest sponsored by the Woman's Clubs of America.

Marguerite Kreher, class of 1933, is a member of John Barrymore's new company which is playing the major cities of the United States now.

Jane and Barbara Hubbard, class of 1937, have written in concerning their activities since graduation from college. Both attended the University of California for a year. Last summer Barbara took a Mediterranean cruise which carried her to Italy, Syria, Jerusalem, Greece and many other interesting places and at the present. Jane is on a South American cruise. Barbara now lives at 6746 Lexington Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Jean Spaniol is teaching English and Journalism in West Palm Beach high school.

Marguerite Evans, class of 1933, teaches English in St. Petersburg high school.

Nedra McNamara, class of 1934, is teaching journalism in Ponce de Leon high school in Coral Gables, Fla.

Mary Garfunkle, class of 1935, is teaching journalism at Miami Beach high school.

Ruth Persons, class of 1937, is teaching English and journalism at Cross City.

Mary Cooley, 1935, is assistant advertising manager for the Peoples Wallace Company in Springfield, Mass.

Mildred Boss, class of 1936, is an executive in Richey's in Atlanta, Ga.

Clotilde O'Rourke, class of 1937, is in the publicity department of Pan American Airways, in Miami, Fla.

Elma LaBar, class of 1939, was

Alumna Completes Series of 22 Books

Miss Allie Lou Pelton, formerly of Mayo, a graduate of Florida State College for Women with the class of 1921, is co-author of 22 books on elementary education. She has written these books in the home office of the John C. Winston Company, publishers, at Philadelphia, in her capacity as specialist in elementary education.

Miss Pelton, who received her L. I. degree in 1918 and her B. S. in education in 1921 from the state college, is a life member of the Alumnae association and served for a number of years as superintendent of the state colleges demonstration school before her present position. She has done editorial work for the Winston people throughout the time she has worked as specialist in elementary education for the southeast; but this series of 22 books is the first work upon which her name has appeared as co-author. She has worked out of the Atlanta office of the firm during all but the two years during which she was writing the books.

"Easy Growth in Arithmetic," is the name of the series on which Miss Pelton collaborated, and the books begin with the pre-school picture book stage and continue through the third grade.

chosen "Sweetheart of North Carolina State College" for the year 1939-40. She was chosen from 150 contestants.

Mortar Board Plans For Breakfast Honoring Alumnae On April 14

The members of Mortar Board are planning a breakfast for Sunday morning, April 14, to be held at the Three Torches tea room at the Florida State College for women here for the Alumnae college are invited to attend and are urged to make a reservation for this event upon arrival or by card before coming.

Reservations should be made with Ruth Rogers, Landis hall, who is the president of the organization.

Memorial Gift Is Sent To Chairman

Daughter Was Former Student At FSCW

A gift of $18 toward the Student-Alumnae furnishing campaign a Florida State College for Women has just been received by the college alumnae association from a mother who intends this as a memorial to her daughter.

The donor is Mrs. R. W. Parks of Cocoa, whose only daughter Katherine T. Beyer died in October, 1938, at the state college during the beginning of her senior year.

In sending the gift Mrs. Parks said, "Katharine was a senior and loved F.S.C.W. Had she lived I know she would have given freely to this fund."

Mrs. Frank D. Moor, of Tallahassee, president of the alumnae association sponsoring the drive to raise $10,000 to help furnish the Student-Alumnae building now nearing completion, acknowledged appreciation to Mrs. Parks in a letter immediately.

"I am deeply moved by the fine spirit shown by Mrs. Parks in this instance," Mrs. Moor said, "and I am sure anyone interested in the welfare of young women will feel the same way."

The Student-Alumnae building is made possible as the result of a Works Project Administration project. It will house all student and alumnae activities which have been carried on until now in one room about the campus and will provide quarters for recreation and entertainment as well.

Loyal Alumna Asks Support

Dear Fellow Alumnae:

Isn't it perfectly splendid that we are finally to have a building of our very own at college! The letters from the Alumnae office have enthused me so much that I have asked if there was anything that I could do to help make the project a success.

So here I am, doing my bit by urging you to return your coin folder with at least the dollar in dimes, if you cannot give more.

The Alumnae college meets April 12-14, and the date on the ground are bending every effort to have the bui.. in some sort of presentable state by that time. If we were all in or near Tallahassee we could pitch in and help. Instead here we are up North, but I feel we can do as much as the others if we send them the wherewithal to keep the ball rolling.

Just think how grand it will be when our ship comes in and we can sail down to college again and have a place of our very own to stay. Ship or no ship, I am going down in '41 when my daughter graduates and I expect to enjoy that new home as much as anything.

So fill up your coin slots today and if you aren't feeling too poor after that, stick in a bill or a check and feel happy and contented because you have done your part in making this new building in the State we want on our campus.

Loyally yours,
BETTY CORBETT GILBERT
(Mrs. Edwin C.)
291 Randolph Road
Springfield, Mass.

Landis Will Be Alumnae's Home For Week-End

Complete Program For Homecoming Announced By General Chairman

All the conveniences of modern living—reserving telephone and elevator service not to mention radios in best of rooms—will be afforded Florida State college graduates returning for the Alumnae college April 12-14. Daisy Parker, general chairman of the annual Alumnae college homecoming, announced.

This is possible since the alumnae are to be housed in the new Landis and Mary D. Lasseter dormitory which is the largest and most modernly-equipped of any built thus far on the college, and brings to a climax all the good things previously stored up for this occasion.

Headlining the speakers who will be drafted from the faculty, alumni and students on the campus this year will be Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, Florida author, whose book "The Yearling" soon will be filmed in the state of Ocala by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Mrs. Rawlings will speak on "Florida Writers" at 5 p. m. Friday night, April 13. Judge Elwyn Thomas of the Florida supreme court, and a student group in consumer education will be featured in the alumnae college this year in addition to competent faculty members who have given willingly of their time and effort each year for the occasion.

For Charged

A registration fee of $1.50 will be charged this year for town alumnae as well as those from out-of-town alumnae. This will include admission to the Rawlings lecture, which this year will be housed in Landis and have their meals at the college dining hall with other guests.

Theme of the Alumnae college this year is "Active Citizenship." The complete revised program, which also includes seven class reunions and a meeting of the Alumnae association as well is listed below. The program is arranged for the Sunday of Alumnae college.

Friday Night

9 p. m.—Address by Mrs. Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings college auditorium. Reception immediately following lecture, at the home of Dr. Edward Conradi.

Saturday Morning

9:30 a. m. Discussion or political citizenship at Augusta Evans Wilson theater—"National Citizenship." Dr R. B. Cotterll presiding: "The Relationship of the Individual to the Florida Courts," Judge Elwyn Thomas; "Relationship of the Individual to Contemporary Social and Economic Problems," Miss Bobbie Young. Also at 9:30 a. m., a meeting in the reading room of the library—"International Citizenship." Henry Becker presiding.

Continued on Page Six

Maclays To Assist With Alum Drive

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred B. Maclay have consented to open their Killearn Plantation Sunday, March 31, to the public for the benefit of the Alumnae Association of Florida State College for Women in raising funds to help furnish the Student-Alumnae building.

The plantation is located several miles north on the Thomasville highway and there are azaleas and many other flowers and shrubs, will be at the height of their blooming season then and will remain open that day from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. A charge of 41 will be made.

This has just been announced by Mrs. Frank D. Moor, of Tallahassee, president of the Alumnae association, who has set a goal of at least $10,000 to furnish the main portion of the Student-Alumnae Building and as many other rooms as possible.

Cards containing slots for coins and bills have been distributed to students, Alumnae and friends of the college for the purpose of furnishing the building which is being constructed as a Works Progress Administration project.

RESERVATION BLANK FOR ALUMNAE COLLEGE

Please tear this out, and mail it to Miss Maude Flowers, Bryan Hall office.

Name.....

Time of arrival.....

Do you wish a room in the dormitory?.....

Will you attend the lecture on Friday night?.....

Special Alumnae College Edition

Queen of General College Will be Elected Tonight

One of ten Florida State College underclassmen will be elected queen of General College this weekend at the University of Florida. Jack Teagarden, "troubadour of the trombone," and his orchestra will play for the dances both Friday and Saturday.

[illegible]n girls, selected from 25 [illegible]es representing the sor[illegible]s and the freshmen and [illegible] more classes, are: Mary Vocelle, freshman; Kate Hedrick, Chi Omega; Gene Parkhill, Alpha Delta Pi; Melva Cooke, freshman; Roberta Marks, freshman; Dot Guthrie, sophomore; Emma Jean Higley, Kappa Alpha Theta; Louise Crosby, sophomore; Betty Nelles Phi Mu; and Pat Hansen Pi Beta Phi. These girls are now members of the queen's court and will be presented at the Friday night dance, for voting.

Plans for the weekend include a Friday night concert and dance, a tea dance Saturday afternoon and the coronation ball that night. Teagarden has been famous for many years as one of the outstanding trombonists of the country and is bringing with him to Gainesville Kitty Kallen, attractive vocalist.

Others who have made plans to attend the week end are: Jane Price, Mildred Anderson, Mary Regar, Gloria Johnston, Dorothy Stallings, Laura Foote, Jean Phillips, Pearl Gay, Winifred Briggs, Florence Willis, Ruth Williams, Eleanor Scott, Barbara Brown, Ann McMorris, Hope McCain, Carolyn Brinson, Betty King, Roberta Van Brunt, Mabel Daphne Smith, Susan Mitchell, Joan Miller, Sara Duke Bryant, Emmstt Curtis, Peggy Caldwell, Pat Brandt, Virginia Monroe.

Jane Powers, Polly Ann Williams, Teeny Leach, Marion Grinnell, Margaret Harmony, Adel Gleason, Loucile Moore, Mamie Hogan, Thersa Sullivan, Marion Valz, Bobby Beckwith, Jean Kobey, Nancy Lee Doggett.

Amelia Snyder, Roberta Marks, Elinor Duke, Anne Presnell, Elsie Willits, Virginia Munroe

Notice, 'Key' Persons

I would like to make a few suggestions to the "Key People" in various communities and states through this column, since time is such an item with me and it does take a lot of time to attend to so many hundreds of details of the work of the alumnae association, and of our March of Dollars campaign. Please make some plan for your own community by which you can contact all alumne and urge them to send in their contributions. Of course, the alumnae in different states cannot do this in person but there are other ways in which you can remind them to return cards with gifts. Elsewhere on this page is a letter from Elizabeth Corbett Gilbert to the girls in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. If the key people could make plans for "benefits" in their communities, this would also be well.

We, in Tallahassee, have sponsored several money-making affairs during the year and have two more such affairs yet to come, namely, the beautiful Maclay gardens, Killearn plantation, will be opened Sunday, March 31, and the appearance of Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings the first night of alumnae college, April 12. A nice sum has already been realized from the alumnae sponsored affairs but we must get other communities interested in raising money and get the alumnae and friends to send nice gifts or we cannot hope to reach our goal of $10,000. Please, won't you feel the responsibility with me, and help put our March of Dollars campaign over?

Many, many thainks for your interest and help.

Very sincerely yours,
BETH W. MOOR, Pres.
Alumnae Association.

Alumnae Attention

I want to urge you graduates of the college to send your contributions for the furnishing fund of the new Student-Alumnae building to me as soon as possible. Also please put your name and address plainly on the enclosed card or envelope so that an accurate record of the donors for this fund can be kept on file in our new building. If you cannot send in your contribution by March 31, a later date will be entirely satisfactory, and if you wish no publicity about your gift, please feel assured that I will honor your request. I want every alumna of the college to really feel a part in the furnishing of this building, even if your gift cannot be a large one.

Let me also express, in this column, my appreciation for the prompt and generous donations of so many of our graduates, and urge you to keep talking about this fund to all alumnae with whom you come in contact and tell former students of the college, who did not graduate, but who are interested in the college and would like to make a donation just how and where they can send gifts. With the co-operation and help of all our girls we should receive replies from a large percentage of our alumnae. A list of our donors, so far, will be published elsewhere on this page.

To date I have received only approximately $1,500, so won't you send a nice gift real soon? It will mean sacrifice on your part, but I am sure that there is not one among our alumnae who is not willing to make a sacrifice for her Alma Mater. I am counting on you!

Loyally,
BETH W MOOR, Pres.
Alumnae Association

Alumnae Club News

On February 16, the Pensacola Alumnae club with Jane Rice, class of 1938, as its president had as its speaker at the formal banquet, Dr. William Hudson Rogers of the college English department Miss Florence Tryon of the history department was also a speaker on the program.

At a meeting of the Tampa alumnae on March 14, at the Hillsboro hotel, Miss Kathryn Abbey of the history department of the college was the principal speaker. Mrs. Frank Moor, president of the Alumnae Association, spoke on the drive for funds for the Student Alumnae building. Mrs. Ray West, (Evelyn Kennard, class of 1936) was in charge of arrangements.

On March 15th, the Sanford Alumnae club met at the Hotel Mayfair for a formal banquet. Mrs. Fred Bell (Emily Lingle, 1931) is president of the club and Mrs. Roy Mann, (Mary Ives, class of 1930) vice-president Dr. Kathryn Abbey was the speaker for the occasion and Mrs. Frank Moor asked for the cooperation of the alumnae in helping to furnish the Student-Alumnae building.

Department of Commerce Wants College Students In 1940 Census

Continued from Page One
that their parents will report on them to the census enumerator, and second, by supplying their parents with certain information they will need in order to report on them accurately. The latter precaution is advisable even for students living at home, since they may be at class when the enumerator arrives.

Offhand, it might be thought that parents would know everything about the student which would be called for in the census. The questions are being asked in 1940, however, are somewhat more complex than those of previous years, reflecting the need for facts bearing on the many problems which have arisen in the United States during the eventful decade just closing.

The queries on which parents are most likely to be uncertain are those relating to employment status. Information is wanted on the following points: number of weeks the student worked in 1939 (equivalent full-time weeks); number of hours he worked during the week of March 24-30, 1940: present, or if seeking work, last occupation (exact nature of duties performed); present or last industry (kind of factory, store or other place of business); present or last class of worker (wage or salary worker in private work; wage or salary worker in government work; employer; working on own account; unpaid family workers); whether at work in private or non-emergency government work during week of March 24-30; if not, whether assigned to public emergency (such as NYA) during that week if neither, whether seeking work; and if not at work or seeking work, does the student have a job or business, from which he is temporarily on vacation sick leave, or lay-off? (Students on Easter vacation between March 24-30 might be in this group).

The only other question which parents might have trouble answering concerns place of residence of the student on April 1, 1935. If the student was away from home at the time in prep school, college or elsewhere the parents are still to report his permanent residence, which normally would be the same as their own.

Mary Virginia Day to Be New Tri Delta President

Mary Virginia Day will be installed as the new president of Delta Delta Delta next month. She will serve with the following officers: vice-president, Caroline Thomas; corresponding secretary, Joan Miller; and recording secretary, Aleene Pridgon.

Treasurer, Mary Daniels; panhellenic representative, Jean Kobey; chaplain, Betty Siemons; publicity, Audrey Atherton; social chairman, Patty Walker; house manager, Tossie Varn; house chairman, Jean Colley; recorder, Patty Ross; historian, Brownie Davis; and activities chairman, Midge Scott

Nominating Group Will Make Report

The nominating committee of the Alumnae association will bring in a report at the annual business meeting of the Alumnae association to be held on Saturday afternoon, April 13, at 2:00 in the Augusta Conradi theatre. Nominees for the various offices of the association have been contacted and in a few days ballots will be mailed out from the alumnae office to all members of the association who have paid their dues for the past year or are life members of the association. These ballots must be returned immediately so that the report of the committee may be ready for publication.

There will be an addressed envelope enclosed with the ballots to facilitate the quick return of these ballots. Members who have a vote are urged to make sure their vote is recorded.

Topsy Mitchell Will Head Pi Beta Phis Next Year

Topsy Mitchell will serve as president of Pi Beta Phi for the coming year. She will be installed soon with the following other new officers: vice-president, Anna Pierce; treasurer, Mary Chazel; recording secretary, Dot Daniels; corresponding secretary, Elizabeth Leffler; rush captain, Sarah Duke Bryant; pledge supervisor, Pat Brandt; and historian, Bee Williamson.

HOW TO WIN BOY-FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE STAG-LINES

By Dalea Dorothy Clix

Dear Miss Clix: Pity the girl—that's me!—who goes on a blind date—and then falls in love! My roommate took me to a fraternity dance over at X—— College (near our school) and I met the captain of the basketball team. Once he started to hold my hand and then he suddenly said—"any man who had you for a sister would be lucky." Oh, Miss Clix, what can I do to make him think of me . . . not as a sister? HEARTSICK

Dear Heartsick: Your plight is not hopeless. After all, supposing he wouldn't even want you for a sister! However, you gave me one very significant clue. Why did he make that remark after holding your hand? How do your hands look—like a day laborer's? Be honest, now—were your nails beautifully groomed, impeccably manicured and tinted? That is a good way to begin climbing out of the blind date class, isn't it?

AND NOW, DEAR, READ THE NEXT COLUMN CAREFULLY!

AND HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO ABOUT BEAUTIFUL NAILS

Thousands of college women have found how they can have the most beautiful fingernails in the world! They are switching to DURA-GLOSS, the nail polish that's different. Goes on smoothly, levels out to a beautiful lustre—and best of all, it lasts longer! Only ten cents, at all cosmetic counters—you can have six shades (for different costumes) for what you often paid for one bottle. Start using DURA-GLOSS, today!

Class Reunions Are Scheduled

Class reunions scheduled for the Alumnae college on April 12, 13, and 14th are 1910, 1915, 1920, 1925, 1930, 1935 and a two year reunion for the class of 1938

Members of the reuniting classes have been contacted by double postcard which they are to return to their permanent class president. For the benefit of those not receiving cards the names of the class presidents and their addresses are listed below:

1910—Mrs. W. A. Smith (Elise Partridge), 3904 St. Johns, Jacksonville.

1915 — Mrs. Frank Warren (Pearl Caldwell), 4802 Astral Ave., Jacksonville.

1920—Mrs. C. R Bennett (Frances Shelley), 2368 S W 26th St., Miami, Fla.

1925—Lucile Sumner 814 W. Amelia Avenue, Tampa, Florida.

1930—Edna Mattox Calumet Building, Miami, Florida.

1935—Mrs. Howard Cone Jr. (Jennie Rae Nall), 2513 Red Road, Coral Gables, Fla.

1938—Sarah Scaley, Lee Florida (acting president).

Although these class reunions are special features of the Alumnae college this year, the events planned for the weekend will be of interest to everyone who returns. For the benefit of these classes, however, a time has been set aside for the members of these classes to have a meeting of their own. Also, luncheons and breakfasts have been planned by the various class presidents

From the class of 1935 we have a report that so far 17 members will surely return for the reunion. Among them are Mary Steffee Degtaff, Cornelia J. Hanna Beth Lancaster, Mildred Boss, Hazel, Royal Stephens, Helen Mizell Helly, Helenmary Fritsch, Margarette Early, Rachel McKinnon Middlebrooks, Adelaide Duval, Nedra McNamara, Carolina De Montigne Rawls, Adeline Bradford, Beth Corbin, Mrs Nevada Palmer, Mary Ellen Bailey and Jennie Rae Nall Cone. There will be others from this class, and we expect to hear soon from the rest of the classes with a report of members returning. If you are a member of one of these classes be sure you send in your postcard to your president so we will know how to plan for the activities. Your officers have been working on these reunion, for some time now and they will be disappointed if you don't plan to be with them on this occasion.

IRC Conference Will Meet Here

Continued from Page One
their respective topics, which met simultaneously and discussed their six assigned subtopics. Mary Alice Lester presented a paper entitled "The United States Policy Toward the War in China." The major topics of the conference's series were: "The European Theatre of War," "Our Good Neighbors to the South," "Powers and Policies in the Orient," and the "Peace of Tomorrow."

The program was arranged by the University of North Carolina. Those in charge were: Walter Kleeman, Charles O. Lerche, Mary Lewis, and Manfred Levey, conference officers of the university.

Thursday afternoon, the conference officially started with registration, and was followed that night with an informal gathering and dance.

Friday morning, the conference was greeted with welcoming addresses by Dr. Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina; Walter Kleeman, conference president; and Allen Early, first vice president of the conference. This series of welcomes to the delegates was followed by the first session of round tables from 10 to 11:30. In the afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock there was a second session of round tables. From 4 to 6, after the discussions, there was an informal tea given.

Among the hosts of the tea was William Joubert, economics professor on the faculty of Florida State College for Women on leave of absence. Friday night Dr Warner Moss, writer, lecturer, and professor at Williams and Mary College in Virginia, addressed the conference with the current question, "After Britain, What?"

Saturday morning, the third session of round tables was presented and Mary Alice Lester represented Florida State by presenting a paper to the round table-Powers and Policies in the Orient—which was entitled "The United States Policy Toward the War in China." From 11 to 12 there was meeting of the group for discussion of club work and problems Miss Amy Hemingway Jones, national executive, was in charge of the meeting.

Saturday evening at the formal banquet, which closed the conference, the next year's conference president, Mary Alice Lester, was presented. Walter Kleeman, the retiring president of the conference of the University of North Carolina, presented the guest speaker, Henry P Grady, assistant secretary of state Mr. Grady made an address on "Trade Treaties and Agreements.

Members of Sigma Kappa Sorority to Make Study Of Propaganda Methods

Following a nationwide program, Omega chapter of Sigma Kappa sorority is sponsoring the study of propaganda and its methods, with particular attention to the evolution of contemporary news material.

The purpose of the study is to attempt to maintain balanced judgment during the present world crisis. This project was begun yesterday with reports given by chapter members and pledges at an open forum discussion. Tuesday at 5 o'clock Miss Florence Tryon of the history department will speak at the Sigma Kappa House on "Women's Post in Propaganda." All students are cordially invited to attend this discussion.

Three Sororities Plan Informal Parties Soon

Three sororities, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, and Delta Zeta, are giving informal entertainments this weekend

Pledges of Alpha Gamma Delta are giving their seniors a spaghetti supper tomorrow night at 6 o'clock. At this time each senior will be presented with a gift from the pledges.

Members of Alpha Xi Delta are giving an informal tea for friends this afternoon at 5 o clock.

The senior members of Delta Zeta will be entertained Saturday night at a supper given by their pledges. This is an annual event of the sorority.

Student-Alumnae Building Drive Plans Extended

Continued from Page Five
Mrs. George F. Baker, Mr. Ernest Cason, Miss Louise Richardson, Miss Hazel Stevenson, Miss Antionette Guentner, Miss Gladys Fawley, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bridges, Miss Dorothy Purse, Mrs. Roy T. Gallemore, Dr. W G. Dodd, Dr. Olivia N. Dorman, Mr. Elmer Smith, Mr. Delmar Bugelli Gertrude A. Herring, Irene Reed Marie Joiffre, Lonnie I Landrum Mrs. R. E. Bellamy, Maude Britt Miss Virginia Southard, Dorothy Lancaster, Virginia Bryant, Mrs. George Ridge, Helen Davis, Ethel Chase Robinson, Marion L. Wakefield, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Heinlein, Miss Ruth Persons, Mrs. James Sampson, Miss Scott Turnbull, Rose E. Panowski, Mrs Larry O'Neal, Mrs. A. H. Roberts, Mrs. Howard Cone, Jr., Carolyn Melber.

Marian L. Stine, Mrs. Don T. Mann, Elizabeth Autrey, Wilda O'Hanlin, Mrs. Brooks Thornton, Miss Mary Settle, Mrs. Walter E. Militzer, Mary Ola Reynolds, Anne Louise Pates, Mary Wilkinson, Frances Willis, Lucile Sumner, Florence Hunt, Carolyn Jelks, Mrs. W. C. Roberts, Betty Harrison, Mrs. J. P. Ashmore, Mrs. Warren Anderson, Ruth Jean Hendricks, Miss Etta Robertson, Ruby Millilley, Mrs. J. A. Grady, Mary Frances Dunstan, Betty Ostlund, Dr. Sarah Parker White, Dr. Fred C. Moor, Wilma J. Ellsworth, Mrs. A. Gregory Harrison, Felicia West, Elizabeth Lightsey, Mrs. E. M. Moody, Margaret Peacock, Thelma Jones, Mrs. A. B Weil, Mrs. John Brengle, Mary Irene McKay, Mary K. Scott, Mrs. Dan B Byrd, Mrs. Harold McNabb, Loyola McLaughlin, Alma Lester, Mrs. B. P. Storts, Jr., Dorothy Bullock, Mrs. H. A. Johnson, Mrs. Joe Cawthon, Mrs. M. A. Davis, Mrs. Kathryn Reece Hann, Mrs. F. W. Poos, Mrs. G. H. McEwen, Catherine B. Lawrence, Natalie Lamb, Mrs. L. G. Thomas, Margaret R. Pace, Carol Wheeler, Dora Hartman, Isabel Brainard, Mrs. James P. Beuder, Evelyn Mudge, Florence Merrin, Mrs. Azalea Moor Wight, Mary Croon Whitfield, Mrs. James MacLean, Margaret Marshall, Mrs. C. P. Collins, Mrs. W. C. Little, Miss Mary Bennett, Alice Gillespie, Marjorie Raulerson, Shirley Decker, Adelaide Duval, Mary Collins, Florida Harding, Turner's Store (Tallahassee), and 18 alumnae and friends who did not sign their subscriptions.

INCOMING CGA OFFICERS TO BE HONERED AT RECEPTION IN BRYAN MONDAY NIGHT

New officers of the college government association will be honored Monday night at a reception in Bryan parlor following the installation ceremonies. Miss Katherine Warren and Miss Maude Flowers will pour coffee.

Miss Olivia Dorman and Katherine Graham will receive with the following new officers: Cornella Watson, president; Carolyn Mims, chairman of judiciary; Mart Pierson, first vice-president; Ella Maude Jones, second vice-president; Maxine Armistead, third vice-president; Sue Chaire[s] secretary; Elizabeth Linn, fres[h]man advisor; Beryl Mitchel[l] treasurer; Wilma Johns, chairma[n] of the residence halls committe[e] Nell Thompson, chairman of th[e] off-campus committee: Mar[y] Murphy, Betty Nickinson, sen[ior] representatives to judiciary; Ma[r]tha Stroberg, Jan Wells, a[nd] Paulette Nolan, junior representa[tives] to judiciary; and Mar[y] Ellen Hackl and Peggy Bark[er] sophomore representatives, Be[tty] Bragg, house chairman of low[er] Jennie Murphree; Carese Brow[n] chairman of west Landis; An[n] Kurtz, chairman of east Landi[s] Mary Evelyn Gordon, chairm[an] of Gilchrist; Ruth Asbury, chai[r]man of Bryan; Virginia Stua[rt] chairman of Reynolds; Sara Ki[...] chairman of Jennie Murphre[e] and members of the off-camp[us] committee who are: Hilda A[...]good, Lucile Arnold, Bertha Bo[...] Dot Hetsch, Elizabeth MacDow[ell] Miller, Mary Frances Oven, Je[...] Phillips, Anne Pierce, Jean G[il]bert, Mildred Jones.

Outgoing officers will serve [as] floor-hostesses introducing th[e] successors. All students are invit[ed] to attend.

Kappa Deltas Featured In Magazine Article

Kappa Alpha, local chapter of Kappa Delta, was featured in an illustrated article which appeared in the January issue of The Angelus, national Kappa Delta magazine. The article, written by May Weltner, concerned the thirty-fifth anniversary jubilee held by the chapter in November.

The Angelus also carried a reprint from the Tallahassee Daily Capital, a former local newspaper concerning the founding of the sorority on this campus in 1904, accompanied by a picture of Ina Margaret Robinson, this year's president of the chapter.

Landis Will Be Alumnae's Home For Week-End

Continued from Page Five
siding; "Historical Background of our Isolation Policy," Dr. Venila L. Shores; "Trends toward a Policy of International Cooperation," Dr. Marian Irish.

9:30 a. m.—Showing of Grantland Rice Sportlight 'Aqua Rhythm," with Florida State college formation swimmers; 10 o'clock a. m.; "Economic Citizenship," student chairman presiding, Augusta Conradi theater; "Legislation to Protect the Consumer," Miss Leila Venable; "The Effect of Contemporary Events and the Consumer," Dr. Beulah B. Briley; 10:45 a. m Student round table discussion on "Quality and Prices of Popular Products"; 11:30 a. m., Meeting I, Modern Trend in Literature, Music and Art, Augusta Conradi theater—Literature, Miss Louise Richardson; Music, Karl Ahrendt; Art, Mrs. Beatrice B. Williams; Meeting 2, Propaganda, browsing room, library Dr. Ralph Eyman, presiding—"Foreign Propaganda," Dr Marian Hay; "Propaganda in Disguise," Earl L. Vance.

12:40 p. m.—Lunch, college dining hall; 2 p. m., annual business meeting Alumnae association, Augusta Conradi theater; 7 p m., formal banquet college dining hall.

Glee Club Will Present Spring Concert Soon

Continued from Page One
first sopranos, Mary Ruth Sco[g]gie, Phyllis Howell, Marga[ret] Campbell, Laurel Hill, Gwendo[lyn] Merritt, Adele Johns, Mary Lou[ise] Pack, Ruth Shepard Lo[u] Thrasher, Marybelle Wright, Ma[r]guerite Lowe, Marjorie Clayton.

Second sopranos: Carolyn St[...]well, Phyllis Parramore, Je[...] Hampson, Marjorie Young, J[a]cinta Penn, Joy Wellis, Anne[...] MacFarlin, Virginia Dunn, Jean[...] Colley, Violet Gremli, Harri[...] Collins, Eleanor Werrt, Betty Ann Jacobi, Mary Stapleton, Shir[ley] Erickson, Genevieve Bryan, Gra[...] Wimberly, Vivienne Rainey, M[il]dred True, Betty Rose Scott, Dor[o]thy Hickman, Doris Anders[on] Corinne Butler, Floread Brow[n] Lula Cooper, Dorothy Baber Mary Alice Granger.

First altos: Janey Lewis, Lu[...] Arnold, Frances Rogers, Marth[a] Hostetter, Sayra Laney, Marjor[ie] Ingram, Virginia Rouse, Jea[n] Daniells, Christine Harbin, Ma[ry] Lou MacGowan, Kathryn Ga[...] Clara Trushin, May Belle For[...] Eleanor Mullins, Pauline Morro[w]

Second altos: Dorothy Hughe[s] Margaret Thomas, Marcia Rei[...]han, Margaret Curry, Marcy Mac[...]Kintosh, Audrey Bolton, Lu[...] Beth Holding, Elizabeth Whi[...]tington, Lorraine Leedy, Ma[ry] Faith Myhlertz, Hazel Lacey Amelia Avant, Elisabeth Mile[s] Harriet Benson, Jonnie Thomas[on], Margaret Thornton, an[d] Margaret Hunter.

Congratulations,

Sophomore Council!

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, April 5, 1940

Well, We Lived Through It!

VOLUME XXVII — NUMBER TWENTY-TWO

Council Selects 5 Freshmen for Members

Old Group Conducts Installation Service For Taps at Ruge

The forty-five new members of sophomore council were invited in a short ceremony at the hall Wednesday afternoon.

The new members, clad in white and carrying undergraduates, were accompanied by old members wearing light-colored dresses. The two groups formed a circle about a taper which were three large candles symbolizing the three graces. Miss Katherine Warren, assistant dean of students, Mary Mims, former sophomore council adviser, Miss Mary Jones, chairman of this year's council, and Virginia Dean, former Y. W. C. A. president made short talks after which Miss Anna Peyton Cooper, professor of philosophy, gave a prayer.

Florence Graham administered to the new members the oath of loyalty and service to the college. The pauning of the duties of the council to them was then made by the lighting of their candles from the three torches. The retiring councilors blew out their own candles, immediately following the service the old and new members had a banquet in the dining hall.

After the banquet the new members were further honored at a tea in Broward lounge.

The first business meeting of the new council took place yesterday.

Members Listed

New members include, Mary Anne Arnold, Peggy Barden, Betty Bell, Barbara Binion, Martha Bostwick Pat Bowden, Nutie Annis Lee Brown, Sue Chaires, Charlotte Evelyn Ann Doyle, Rita Fiorello, Frances Eckland Fain, Martha Ellen Fleming, Jean Hammon, Helen Mary Gray Holderman, Betty Rose Howell, Nan Ivarene Ivey, Jean Lerman and Virginia Dean Jones.

Mary Ann Kirchner, Betty Alice Ludlam, Carol Margaret McPhaul, Mary Ann Mercer, Joan Miller, Virginia Dorothy Nodine, Madeline Allen Price, Barbara Polk, Elizabeth Rogers, Selma Jane Carolyn Stoudt, Ruth Polly Vennina, Diana Vernon Jane Wells, Nancy White, Earle Wilson Wayles.

This is the fourth year since sophomore council was organized and that their members now

Continued on Page Two

Phlsweh Appoints Distaff Editors

Susan Ahlrich, newly elected editor of the Distaff, has appointed 17 members of the editorial staff and announced her plans for the future issues of the magazine.

The editor Vivian hopes to place emphasis on literary contributions than on criticism and hopes a greater amount of art will be also expected to add the touch of a photographer to the present staff.

The new editorial staff is as follows: Managing editor, Mary Harrison; Art editor, Mary Gray Bakers and Frances Copp; editor Bertha Call Christiansen; editor Ellis Carnes. Assistant editors Marvenette Dias, Mary Lea Bowman, Jayne Mendehall, Peggy Pennington Marjorie Richardson, Caroline Stowell, Mary Ann Tucker and Della Montero. Dorothy Mitchell business manager will be assisted by Nell Lou Montgomery Whittlesey, and Betty Bradford.

The new plans and staff will also effect this quarter's publication of the May Distaff. Deadline for Distaff contributions has been set for May 3.

Turkey Talks On Japanese Culture To Mortar Board

Appreciation of Japanese Culture was the subject of the talk given by Miss Helen Turkey instructor in textiles and clothing, to Mortar Board at a tea Sunday night. At this meeting she showed the group some of her 12 years' residence in Japan.

Knitting Fever Rages Through FSCW Ranks

Needles and Gay Wools Invade Class Rooms, Dining Hall and Dorms

When students knit in convocation and in classes no one thinks a thing of it, but when people start knitting between courses at dinner, that's news.

Imagine the writer's surprise to see a whole table the other night at dinner between the main course and the desert draw from under their chairs a knitting bag from it yarn and needles, and begin to knit steadily.

Further evidence that the knitting bug is really biting is shown by the fact that knitters, holding in their hands the inevitable wool and needles, and clicking them as fast as they can, run us down in the streets, in the halls, and stumble over us in the elevators.

What are they knitting? Wonder. The wool sometimes seems to take the shape of a sweater, a scarf, or mittens, but if you want to bet on it, you'd better say socks.

In reply to questions, some answer evasively "I don't know. I'm just knitting." That is the least harmful type of the knitting fanatic.

The specie that we object to most strenuously is the one that must finish whatever she's knitting before the end of the week and goes about doing it like it's a life or death job. She knits frantically for two or three days and finally produces a pair of socks which are so large that where the heel begins and which end of it is supposed to be the toe is a matter for debate in no one big hoot.

Some of the knitters seem to be striving to set a record of how many articles of clothing they

Continued on Page Four

Kean To Lecture On Scandinavia

Danish Newspaperman Will Speak Wednesday

Arnold W. G. Kean, American correspondent of the Social-Democratic Arsbladet, Danish weekly, will speak on "Democratic Scandinavia and the Wars," next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the Augusta Conrad theatre.

Mr. Kean has lived in many countries in Europe and America and has visited 42 of the United States. He has lectured in many of them.

After graduating from Cambridge university, England, at the head of his class, Mr. Kean studied law at Harvard university on a Commonwealth Fund fellowship. A member of a Danish senator's society of the Inner Temple, the speaker gained the degree of merit in the final examination for admission to the English bar, together with a prize for a special distinction in the examination.

Mr. Kean, who speaks Danish fluently and is married to the daughter of a Danish senator has lived for long periods in Scandinavia and is in possession of the friendship of many of the present day problems of Scandinavia affairs. The lecture will be under the auspices of the college lecture series.

English's Talk Ends Governing Institute Series

First Annual Program Emphasizes Civic Duty In Political Studies

The Institute of State Government is holding its first annual meeting at Florida State College for Women this week. Various cabinet officers and other prominent officials of Florida have lectured to students of academic convocation and social studies. The purpose of the program is to encourage a sense of civic responsibility by emphasizing the duty of citizens to their government.

The last program of this series will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Augusta Conrad theatre. The convocation will be as follows: "State Statistical

Continued on page two

Seymour Attends Language Meet

Spanish Poet Speaks To Group In Orlando

Dr. Arthur Seymour of the modern language department attended a meeting of the modern language section of the Florida Education association which met last Friday afternoon in Orlando. Juan Ramon Jimenez, Spanish poet living Spanish port, who is at present living in Coral Gables, in exile of condition in Spain, gave a talk at the meeting. Friday afternoon comparing poetry and literature in general. He also quoted some other poets and read some of his own poetry.

Professor Fenerstein, teacher of French and German at Rollins college, spoke on sims and methods of teaching languages illustrated by his own methods. He translated the use of films, projectors, and radio as methods of teaching in the future, pointing out that a few schools are already using this system. Saturday, the Sermon breakfast with the American Society of Teachers of French, the Florida branch of which was founded by Dr. Seymour three years ago.

Mrs. Alice Spicer Sexton, who is a graduate of Florida State college for women and who is at present teaching at St. Petersburg high school, reported on the meeting of the national French Foreign Language association which was held in Birmingham last November. Dr. Seymour gave a report of the Chicago National meeting that was held at Christmas time. Miss Leona Eckles, head of the romance language department in Duval county, discussed methods and tests for placement.

Florida High Students Will Give "Annie Laurie"

"Annie Laurie" the annual senior class play of Florida High school, will be presented May 2 and 3 in the Augusta Conrad theater. Tickets went on sale recently organized at Florida high school and are the production of the 20th century Scotch costume play.

Irene Thomas, student director of the play, assisting Ralph Donaldson, director.

Gosh! From The Citadel Too!

"Dear Box 434," read a letter elaborately decorated with Citadel seals, "I am 5 feet 9 inches tall, weigh 165 pounds, and am the spittin' image of Gene Raymond"

Romance seemed to be riding the mails as this weighty epistle awaited the arrival of Della Montero and Grace Stephenson in the campus mail the other day. But such was not the case. It appears, merely, that a famed member of the renowned institution known as Citadel wishes to write letters to an esteemed member of Florida state college for women, according to contents of said letter), and all for the reason that Della's and Grace's P. O. box numbers do not corresponds with his.

Chance or not post master placed the letter in 434 Gilchrist, and introductions between Butch, as he calls himself, and Della commenced. As Della calls herself, and Shirley Temple, Grace's explanation to Butch Raymond, are complete. Not only has Butch a flair for letter-writing but he's very obligingly has an equally accomplished roommate who appeals to Shirley Temple.

Corresponding with a similar box number is Miss Ann Hopkins, cranes sweeping the U. S. A. Other victims are Julia Hammond, Mrs. Vivienne Rainey. Linnie Lou Carter, Mary Hennig, and Peggy Hunter. So if you would like to extend you're popular, set aside 3 cents of your weekly allowance. Who knows what will follow?

Gator Glee Club To Give Concert

Program Will Feature Famed College Songs

A college medley of songs from Dartmouth, Cornell, Maine, Wisconsin, Florida, Yale, Harvard and the University of Florida will be one of the high points of the University of Florida glee club concert to be given at 8:00 o'clock Saturday night in the auditorium.

The occasion will mark the 200th concert of the university glee club who is now appearing here under the auspices of the college glee club.

The complete program follows: "We are the Boys from Old Florida"; "Dixie"; "Dartmouth Song"; "Jesus Tender Shepherd Hear." Brahms-Davison; "On Great Lone Hills" from Symphony No. 9 Dvorak a tenor solo by Wayne Monington; "I Love a Lassie" Lauder; "Miss Marshall: "Adoramus Te," Palestrina-Rogers; "Sanctus" Gounod; "Heavenly Light," Bach-Davison.

A bass solo by James Lee, "The Sexton," Old Scotch; "Ave Maria" tenor solo and choral accompaniment, Bach-Gounod; "Drink to Me," Bost Men," Russian folk song; "Song of the Vagabonds." Primi; Piano solo, "Nocturne" Rachmaninoff-Moskowski; "Route Marchin," Scott; "Ein Feste Burg" (A mighty fortress is our God) Hall; baritone solo "De Glory Road," (by request), Jaques Wolf; "O Sole Mio" Di Capua, Earle Pusselle,

"Lisa-Lisa," "Coti'h Picking Song"; "Kemo Kimo"; "The Square Dance" "In the spirit of Lincoln" Robert Russell Bennett; Lynes: "Medley From the South," arranged by Lynes.

The ensemble of the college glee club will have dates with the university boys, and they have been invited to attend Bowl Ball so to Landis recreation hall to dance after the program.

Piano Pupils To Compete

A piano contest for nine high school students from Bainbridge, Ga., will be held in the auditorium of the music annex next Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

Members of the Florida State college music department faculty will be judges at the contest.

Classes Elect Officers For Coming Year

Brandt, Hickman, and Bail Are Chosen As Incoming Presidents

In the elections Tuesday Pat Brandt, Grace Bail, and Kitty Jo Hickman were elected as presidents of the senior, junior, and sophomore classes respectively for the coming year. Elisabeth Anne Webb had previously been elected vice-president-secretary of the outgoing senior class. Kathrine Graham is the permanent secretary of the class.

Other juniors elected to be officers for next year are Ann Saul, vice-president; Dot Nickerson and Mary Ann Arnold, representatives; Martha Murphy, parliamentarian; Frances Cofer, chairman of Tuesday; Elisabeth Miller, secretary; Ann Pierce, treasurer; Nellie Dinos, athletic manager; and Sonia Mitchell, chairman of odd demonstration.

Elected to serve as officers of the junior class with Grace Bail, who has been president of her class her freshman and sophomore year too, were: Anne Alfriend, vice-president; Mary Calderon and Chancey Oven, ornate representatives; Faith Rose, secretary; Jean Wood, treasurer; Mary Pulliard Bryan, Parliamentarian; Mary Lou Atkinson, chairman of odd demonstrations; Dot Dubb Bryant, chairman of junior ministrels; and Audrey Gibson and Marion Pryor, cheerleaders.

Officers for the class of '43 are: Mary Virginia Brandt, president; Anne Arnold, secretary; Mary Alice Kirchner, treasurer; Martha Ellen Fain, parliamentarian; Starling Hall, athletic manager; Nan Ivarene Ivey, chairman of sophomore-senior breakfast; Virginia Monroe, chairman of sophomore dinner; and Virginia H. Jones and Anne Wilson, cheerleaders.

Due to the omission of three candidates' names from the freshman class ballots the Freshman class will meet in their counselors rooms all day today to elect sophomore representatives to annul. This re-voting is being held at the request of the majority of the freshmen in the interest of fair play in elections.

Also in a new election system was introduced whereby all voting will be done on the same day. People were nominated from the floor in class meetings and their names placed on the ballots, took place all day Tuesday in the Westcott building

AAUW Members Speak To Students

Dr. Carmen Roger president of the local chapter of the American Association of University Women, Dr. Ruth Porter Lofdell, professor of philosophy, and Miss Olivia Riley, student activists, spoke in convocation Tuesday on the A. A. U. W.

Dr. Lofdell spoke of the history, progress, and plans of the organization. Miss Riley spoke of the purpose of the association in the lives of college students by saying that the A. A. U. W. is through the A. A. U. W. fellowship committee that the graduates of accredited colleges and universities are provided with opportunities for study and study and research in this and other countries.

Speaking on behalf of the Tallahassee A. A. U. W. loan fund, Dr. Lofdell told of the fellowship granted each year to one Florida State college graduate for continued study. She also mentioned that Lynette Thompson senior classics major, has been offered a fellowship to Oberlin college in Ohio.

Dean Denton concludes the program by giving a brief sketch of her travels and study on a fellowship.

Dorman Will Head Deans Of Florida

Dr Olivia Dorman, dean of statistics, was elected president of the state dean's association at a meeting held in Orlando last weekend in conjunction with the Florida Education association.

Approximately sixty deans of students from Florida high schools and colleges attended the meeting. Miss Katherine Warren, assistant dean of students, and Miss Mamie Flowers, director of residence here were also present.

Class Presidents

Above are the class presidents elected this week, who will take office next year. From right to left are: upper row, Kitty Jo Hickman, president of next year's sophomore class; and Grace Bail, lower row, Pat Brandt, senior, and Elisabeth Ann Webb, graduate.

Rawlings To Open Alumnae College

Sportlight Will Be Feature of Program

A lecture by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings next Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the college auditorium will open the alumnae-college homecoming weekend. The subject of Miss Rawlins' address will be "Fact Into Fiction."

A nominal sum will be charged. The lecture will be followed by a tea furnishing the Student-Alumnae building. Judge Elwyn Thomas of the Florida Supreme court will also speak; student speakers from the class in consumer education will be introduced: and the Orastinda Rice Sportlight. "Rhythm", the first movie short subject taken at the college, will be shown at 9:30 o'clock in the Augusta Conrad theater.

Many other functions centered around the theme "Active Citizenship" have been planned for the Alumnae college members, who will be housed in Landis hall this year. There will be various discussions Saturday morning. At 8:30 o'clock in the Augusta Conrad theater National Citizenship will be discussed under the direction of Dr. R. S. Cotterell, professor of history. Judge Elwyn Thomas will speak on "The Relationship of the Individual to the Florida Courts." Miss Sidde Young assistant professor ofeconomic will discuss

Continued on Page Two

Lester Presents Paper On China

IRC Discusses Plans For April Conference

The United States policy toward the war in China was the topic of a talk Mary Alice Lester, chairman of I.R.C., made at the regular International Relations Club meeting yesterday. During her talk she made several references to a paper which she wrote for the recent I.R.C. Southeastern convention and which was read at the round table conference meeting.

She reviewed the United States policy from the time of the passage of the Neutrality act in 1937 to the present developments, bringing in also vital points, other factors in the history of our far Eastern policy which had bearing on present problems. She stated that we had been selling war supplies to Japan continually, while seeming to favor China in other policies. Little aid has been given to China, however, in the way of money or war supplies.

In closing, she emphasized the fact that the essential starting point of security in the Far East is independent China, and that China's determination to retain freedom remains the cornerstone of a workable Far Eastern policy.

Also during the meeting Monday, Helen Emmanuel gave a report on the conference program.

Continued on page three

Three FSCW Students Visit Sets For Filming of "The Yearling"

Martha Dent Perry, Sister, And Friend See Planting of Cane and Cowpeas for MGM Movie

Three little "crackers" girls went to the scrubs the other day, believe it or not, when Martha Dent Perry one of those famous girls who know famous people, took her sister Juanita Perry and Irene Fremd home with her for the Easter holidays.

Martha Dent, who has starred with Jackie Cooper, Freddie Bartholomew, Shubby Kruger, Rose Allen, and other famous movies in movie-land, whose name she has known and talked with practically everyone who has done anything to do with making pictures at Silver Springs in her own home town Ocala, conducted the girls over the site which is now being prepared for the filming of Marjorie Kinnan Rawling's "The Yearling."

Last year when Martha Dent went home she looked over the site for the picture with Jack Beddoes and Joe Marchant, the Marchant, whom she knows well, is business manager of MGM and had charge of the Tarzan picture taken at Silver Springs "Ruthless Peasant," "Boy's Town" and other pictures.

This year she watched the planting of numerous crops on one location. They included corn, cane, tobacco, cowpeas, and various vegetables common to Florida and Marion county. She and Irene also watched the workmen raised a new house from an old house which was said to have housed the original Baxter family mentioned in Mrs. Rawling's novel.

"The men working on the pictures are very careful of even the smallest details," said Martha as she described her experiences while at home. "For instance although the shooting of the picture won't be started until about

Continued on Page Three

Registrar Lists 158 Candidates For Graduation

Sixty-Eight Students Eligible For Degree In Bachelor of Arts

S. R. Doyle, registrar, this week announced 158 candidates for graduation on May 27, 1940. According to the list released, there are five students eligible for a degree of Master of Arts, 68 eligible for Bachelor of Arts 29 for Bachelor of Science, 42 for Bachelor of Science in Commerce, 67 for Bachelor of Arts in Education, 14 for Bachelor of Science in Education, 15 for Bachelor of Science in Home Economics, 2 for Bachelor of Music in Piano, 1 for Bachelor of Music in organ, 1 for Bachelor of Music in Piano and Public School Music, 2 for Bachelor of Music in Violin and Public School Music, and 2 for Bachelor of Music in Public School Music. The candidates are as follows:

Candidates in the graduate division, Master of Arts are: Mary Ellen Bowden, Mary Alice Graham, Mrs. Jittie Alberta Patrick McBride, Mrs. Mattie McCullough, Helen R. Sharp.

Colleges of Arts and Sciences, bachelor of Arts: Mary Elsie Ballenger, Charlotte Barlow, Betty Bell, Mabel Sieber Bennett, Bertha Ernestine Bodiworth Brandt, Jessie Lane Cox Pauline Elisabeth Douglas, Carolinn Wilson Edwards, Jane Pitts, Camilla Bunker Gillette Florence Gregory, Mary Glenn Grimes, Nancy Trotter Horney, Betty Jane Jaco, Nellie Anita Jeckel, Marjorie Kathleen Jones, Harriet Elizabeth East, Betty Shepard Lindsay, Lurline Sallie Cowen Lourcey, Ella Dell Lovelace Virginia Lee Lyon, Mary Caroline Orell Makemson, Jeanne Manlea, Laura Belle McCanahan Jean Catherine McCord, Mary Lea Louise Meacham Eleanor Glessner Miller, Betty Bradford Holcolson, Dorothy Cimeros Parker, Cynthia Faye Pearman.

Alexandra Peckham, Mary Louise Prine, Isabelle Ramsey, Mae Reagin, Margaret Louise Rice, Margaret Elisabeth Rogers, Ina Margaret Rollinson, Muryl E Roland, Janet Ruth Ross, Jane Gilmore Scoville, Orell Smoak, Dorothy Elsner Steele, Jean Hamilton Beauchamp Stevens, Mary Christopher, Bleva Floyd Sutton, Louise Rosalie Thrower, Lucretia Thompson, Ann Morgan Towson Barbara Beckwith Tyler, Lillian Lowry Vann, Bernice Louise Thomas Marion Elisabeth Vala, Clifton Van Ness, Jane Gilmore Voorhis Van Brunt, Jeanne DeLoren Webster, and Sara Caroline Woodruff.

Candidates for the Bachelor of Science division are: Constance Ann Allen, Mary Ann Hanna, Lena Margaret Bischoff Martha

Continued on Page Two

Senate Will Elect Counselors Soon

Election of new freshman counselors for next fall will be made at a called meeting of the senate on or before next Tuesday, according to an announcement Kathrine Warren, assistant dean of students.

At the meeting of prospective counselors, Miss Olivia Dorman, dean of students, will speak on "The Attitude of a Counselor," which comes under the heading of the "Knowledge Counselors Need." Future speakers and their subjects have not been announced yet.

A training course for all those who wish to become counselors will begin this week and will be continued over a period of seven or eight weeks Everyone interested in holding such a position was invited to the first two meetings Miss Dorman spoke on the first group on "The Needs of a Freshman" Miss Warren was the speaker at the second meeting with "Orientation as an Answer to the Needs of a Freshman," as her topic.

Pitchford Receives Honor

Miss Rachel Pitchford public-licity director of the Florida State college was recently unanimously re-elected head of the Florida division in the American College Publicity association at the Southeastern convention in Atlanta The convention next year is to be held in Birmingham, Ala., Miss Pitchford said.

Perplexed Freshmen Journalists Quiver at Demand of New Duties

Tongue-Tied Reporters Suffer Qualms, Don't Know What to Ask News Information Source

Worried frowns, perplexed and anxious expressions were rampant among the aspiring young journalists-freshmen this week. However, they swapped importantly up to assigned bureaus of information and announced that they were representin the Flambeau and was their own news-source!

When asked what was the greatest difficulty in the way of performing the prompt answer was "I don't know what to ask them." Being ingenious faced hard task of contacting the sources of information. The energetic young things earnestly dashed over to the office of the object of pursuit and waited patiently to interview the said source of information only to be tongue-tied when reporting.

The most disheartening thing about it is that I got this nice list of questions prepared and had it all planned out in my mind's eye as to what to do and how to act. Then, when I finally wriggled in to see him, I forgot it all, and my poised manner went "phloie," commented a usually poised young lady.

The reporters were asked if they "lined up" because of their new duties. The usual answer was drawled, "No, not much. I just stood in line and answered my nose a little more often, but outside of that nothing doing." One aspirant quickly admitted that she had "printed up a bit" and that was after all, you know, I want to seem controlled and all that."

Most of the freshmen trying out for the coveted positions as sophomore reporters have high hopes of a journalistic career both on the campus and in civilization. One young hopeful claimed that there would never be this world

Venable, Briley Attend Meeting

Three Day Conference Features Consumers

Two members of the college faculty on last Sunday attended the second national conference on consumer education at Stephens college, Columbia, Mo.

Dr. Beulah Briley, professor of economics and commerce and Miss Leila Venable associate professor of home economics, represented Florida State college at the three day meeting.

Miss Venable took part in two round table discussions on the second day of the meeting the first one entitled, "What and How to Teach Home Economic Students." and the second, "Consumer Education and Standardization of Ultimate Consumer Goods."

The conference, which was inaugurated only last year, had for its subject this year, "Modern Consumer Education Effective." Its object was cited as purely educational, and no forms' resolutions were passed. A closing portion of the session time was devoted to general discussions and round table than was given to these activities in the first convention. Aside from this the display of materials in the field were open to members of the conference.

Leading various group meetings were a number of distinguished names in the educational and economic fields; among them were Mary Barr, educational director of the Ladies Garment Workers Union, who spoke on "What Labor is Doing"; Faith Williams, chief of the cost of living division of the National Bureau of Labor Statistics; chief of the consumer division of the National Bureau of Home Economics; Walter J. Matherly dean of the College of Business Administration at University of Florida; Ruth Mack, project supervisor of education at Columbia university of Minnesota; and Hazel S. Sloan, executive director of the Alfred P. Sloan foundation in New York city.

Registrar Lists 158 Candidates For Graduation

Continued from Page One

Broyles, Doris Annette Cichoon, Rose Mary Cooley, Lucile Dyer, Jane Elizabeth Fischer Lillian Fleet, Florence Marion Gadsden, Mamie Jack Gaskins, Margaret Ollie Lingo, Betty Jane Markham, Kathleen Pryor Morgan, Jeannette Rankin Mullis, Norma Rodgerine, Merryday Rosser, Elizabeth Ruth Weiss Venning, Margaret Rae Vogt, Katherine Von Dreden Mabel O. Williams, Florence Elizabeth Willis, and Daphne Laura Wilson.

Candidates for Bachelor of Science in commerce are: Marr Elizabeth Allen, Mamie Ruth Bagwell, Letitia Ann Bell, Jamestine Cochran Brown, Hope Celeste Campbell, Carolyn Bevis Collins, Dalia Isabel Curran, Louise Elizabeth Douglass, Mildred Emmeline Gerrard Dunn, Mary Sabbey Finney Harriett Fox Hall, Kathryn Aurelia Gordy, Katherine McCreery Graham, Hazel Rebecca Hines Zacharias, Minnie Evelyn Hussey, Anna Josephine James Eva Pave Jett, Virginia Laure Kelly, Matthea Minna Kloeppel, Jane Elizabeth Kunkel, Betty Jane Lewis, Henrietta Susan Lisk Frances Jeannette Litchfel, Clara Julia Medwin, Joan Adele Miller, Mary Olive Overman, Alice Sweetine Paris, Helen Phelps Parramore, Dorothy Geraldine Peacock, Margaret Nell Rodgers, Mary Ruth Preyer, Frances Vivien Slade, Mary Nell Smith, Grace Evelyn Spelkman, Evelyn Stacy, Mary Bishop Swearingen, Geraldine Sweat, Dorothy Jeanne Ticker Ada Tully, Lavine Palmer, Evans Voss, Elizabeth Anne Webb Grace Wilson, Mary Lee Wilkerson, Ruth Williams, Edna Wilson, Grace Elizabeth Whitehurst and Julia Pauline Winn.

In the School of Education, candidates for bachelor of arts in education are Lillian L. Albertice, Beatrice Arnold, Josephine Barone, Mildred Bullock Benson, Thelma Miller. Mary Cochran, Martha Denbeaux Dooley, Sophie Draisbach, Kathryn Eccles Evans, Margaret Viola Ellis, June Louise Evans, Martha Virginia Fain, Rosalie Meinberg, Wilda Marshburr Finnell, Edwin Bruce Ford Wilbur Elizabeth Gaines, Pear Elisabeth Gay, Alma Hollingsworth Godwin, Annie Marie Hampton, Jean Margaret Hampton The Inc continuous with; Rena Eads Jeen Henry, Frances Edmundson Johnston, Catherine Keen, Cleo Delores Kenn, Rose Amanda Kirby, Thelma Porter Leitch Mary Ada Leslie, Sarah Elizabeth Lines, Avis Marie Lyman, Mary Carmen Loral, Patricia Joanne Myers Mack, Marion Morrell Martin, Annie Laurie Mashburn, Ida May McClain Ines Gertrude McGlaun, Virginia Milton, Lois Jeannette Nelson Innocent Moore Parramore, Mertha Dent Perry, Harriett Mai Pott Nevin Powell, Sarah Margaret Quincey, Evelyn Elizabeth Rick-man, Edna Isabel Roberts, Muriel Alice Rowley, Virginia Carolyn Sanders, Dorothy Mae Scott-Powell, Doris Virginia Summerlin, Martha Belle Tharp, Mary Nell Taylor, Annie Laurie Vest, Marie Rountree, Ouida Claire Wells, Mary Marilyn Williams, Willie Edna Woodham Eleanore Jane Young, and Wilma Lillian Young.

Continued from Page One

Candidates in School of Education for the bachelor of science in education are:

Mary Margee Collins Elizabeth Ann Shirley Weston Davis, Martha Frances Farmer, Frances Fryer Mildred Ellis Hearon, Janet Weathers Jewett, Catherine Bethune Kirby-Smith, Louise Marchbanks Dorothy Whitcomb Parks Martha Robertson Sessoms, Grimes Shivrder, Barbara Thomas and Clara Truslow.

In the School of Home Economics, the candidates for degrees in the Bachelor of Science in Home Economics are:

Ethel Marion Barnard Geraldine Allbritton Brock, Mary Philippa Challer, Minnie Sherwood Dennis, Alice Lucile Flow, May Belle Ford, Martha Virginia Greene, Evelyn Lois Greer, Marion Evelyn Grinnell Lillian Donna Haney, Mary Agnes Harding, Natalee Fern Heuchard Jessie Springer Keeler Emma Anne Kendrick Audrey Iris Knowles, Hazel Marjorie Lacey, Ada Carolyn Lamar Barber, Ila Belle Maki, Dorothy Manning Ila Jean McCain, Jean Fraser Mackae, Marjorie Arline Means Marjorie Mae Morrison Mary Lou O'Haver, Sibyl Jean Oliver Edith Evermontt and Marie W. Pattai List continues Kathryn Summers Powell. Marguerite Elizabeth Rushmann Vonelle Randolph, Alyce Ruth Sanderson. Eleanor R. Scott, Ruth Carolyn

Mystic Sees, Tells All

Fortune Teller Surprises Herself Foretelling Future and Digging up Past Events By Studying Faces

By ANNE OAKLORD

The unknown, the mysterious, the future has always held a fascination for man. Who does not peek behind the curtain which separates tomorrow from today is the most unsatisfied of human desires. "If I had only known" expresses one of life most poignant of human regrets. And the very idea that one's future may be seen by a human being sitting in a crystal-gazing ball, read by a child's palm, or told by some fascinated gypsy from one's own palm, told by a raspberry old grandmother with the aid of tea-leaves, or even by one's room-mate in a deck of cards, all tends to add something of a thrill down the spine of even the most sophisticated.

So, in spite of my definite skepticism, it was with a touch of excitement that I stood on the threshold of a building to which sedags, winter quarters of the spiritualists' camp. The next sign inside the door read, "Mrs. Ethel Readins, Clairvoyant. A thin, middle-aged woman of non-descript appearance, save for a pair of uncomfortably piercing eyes, which I noticed at once, was capable of "second sight," and nervously confessed that she had been closely resembled claws drew me into an equally non-descript room. It was simply furnished with small Christmas tree in the corner. The room was cleared a bit of a huge flat-topped desk. She swept the two girl friends ahead given for their glimpses into the future from the desk, remarking that she liked to have room to concentrate with money in sight. This fact should be remembered the two dollars and I my one did not, however, in any way impede her.

She then turned and stared at me. I felt her gaze penetrate deep into the very depths of my soul. Solemnly and somewhat her mouth. Impressed and trembling a bit in spite of myself, I sat entranced. first profound remark, "I can see that you have a very good time. Not a thing is bothering you. Since for the last hour laughter had not ceased with the blaring of a car radio to disturb the impressiveness of the room, I wasn't looking exactly as though I had lost my last friend. I couldn't help but feel that the slight hubs have suffered to bring forth such a statement as this upon questioning silence, she continued. "Maybe something is bothering you—someone is a long way off," another pause. "Yes, you're worrying a little bit about some one. You are worrying about someone away off. I can see it clearly." I was amused although it would have been terribly embarrassing if the woman, so I smiled, though I couldn't for the life of me think of a soul about whom I was worrying.

Finally pleased with herself, she continued, "I can see a happy new year in store for you. It's going to be the happiest you've ever known. Now in the New Year you don't worry, January." "You know," she confided, "I can never seem to see things in

Continued from Page One

Shepard, Mary Ruth Terrell, Louise Colden, Thomas Dorothy Ann Hamilton, Pearle Elizabeth Turnbull, Mary Nadine Versowe, Lollie Steele Watrous Juanita Williams, Dorothy Ellis Boutwell, Doris Virginia Summerlin, Martha Belle Tharp, Mary Nell Taylor, Annie Laurie Vest, Marie Rountree, Ouida Claire Wells, Mary Marilyn Williams, Willie Edna Woodham Eleanore Jane Young, and Wilma Lillian Young

Candidates in School of Education for the bachelor of science in education are:

Mary Margee Collins Elizabeth Ann Shirley Weston Davis, Martha Frances Farmer, Frances Fryer Mildred Ellis Hearon, Janet Weathers Jewett, Catherine Bethune Kirby-Smith, Louise Marchbanks Dorothy Whitcomb Parks Martha Robertson Sessoms, Grimes Shivrder, Barbara Thomas and Clara Truslow.

In the School of Home Economics, the candidates for degrees in the Bachelor of Science in Home Economics are:

Ethel Marion Barnard Geraldine Allbritton Brock, Mary Philippa Challer, Minnie Sherwood Dennis, Alice Lucile Flow, May Belle Ford, Martha Virginia Greene, Evelyn Lois Greer, Marion Evelyn Grinnell Lillian Donna Haney, Mary Agnes Harding, Natalee Fern Heuchard Jessie Springer Keeler Emma Anne Kendrick Audrey Iris Knowles, Hazel Marjorie Lacey, Ada Carolyn Lamar Barber, Ila Belle Maki, Dorothy Manning Ila Jean McCain, Jean Fraser Mackae, Marjorie Arline Means Marjorie Mae Morrison Mary Lou O'Haver, Sibyl Jean Oliver Edith Evermontt and Marie W. Pattai List continues Kathryn Summers Powell. Marguerite Elizabeth Rushmann Vonelle Randolph, Alyce Ruth Sanderson. Eleanor R. Scott, Ruth Carolyn

To Celebrate Birthday

Mr. Christian Predrick Heinlein of Baltimore, Md., father of Dr. C. P Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology, will celebrate his eighty-first birthday tomorrow

TIME TO CHANGE

Elect

FRANK JOHNSON

Sheriff

Of Leon County

For Honest, Fair And Inexpensive Service

If It's a Good Thing—Let's Divide! If It Bad Let's Not Impose On One Man Always

Library Display Features Orient

Miss Richey Lends Japanese Souvenirs

Oriental literature, with an exhibit of travel books was arranged by Miss Sarah Graham, assistant in the library will provide the theme of the feature display in the library for the next two weeks.

To correlate with this exhibition of Oriental literature Miss Graham has filled the display cases with Japanese articles brought from that country by Miss Helen Richey instructor in textiles and clothing of the home economics department. who has visited and lived in Japan

Miss Richey's red lacquer tray printed in gold, is of special interest. She attended a wedding in Japan, and, according to an old Japanese custom, carried on this tray as a gift from the newly married people. It was then returned ready for a public appearance "Ann" she continued impressively, "I've got a wedding to handle. Do you play a musical instrument?" Ann, ever the artful list of uses for one's hands. and party attended by fifty people and subsequently all of the guests. Other articles include shopsticks, a small Japanese doll, some Japanese books. Japanese fans, and a fascinating picture opened to the first page of the book. Miss Richey explained that the Japanese read from the back to the front. Also in the case is a picture of one of the ever-presenting Laughter, a famous character in the play "Seven Keys to Baldpate." This doll, the only article not belonging to Miss Richey, was loaned by Miss Martina Schuck, assistant professor of physical education and science.

Perplexed Freshman Journalists Digest Art Demands of New Duties

Continued from Page One

be anything quite so thrillins as seeing her own article in print. Ruby Tomlinson is the confessed "if they don't rewrite it beyond recognition."

A highlight in the week's activities from an amusing point of view was the reporters' contest in which the reporters were swaggering into the history building gaily, gaily, with chairs in the second floor, and skip blithely down the hall to the door of the publications office. Somewhat less bravado would fade and a meek look would appear in their eyes as they timidly opened the door and pretended not to see the shocked looks of the staid editor there so casually. "I just wanted to have the pleasure glance up and look me over." put in one reporter. This same freshman was heard to say subsequently jubilantly. "Why, good night, she didn't even look at me. I received a weak excuse for a grin and——" The freshman was at a loss for words.

"Gee, it is such a nice feeling to have the boss say, 'Hello there, look, isn't it?' Makes me think I'm one of them," commented one of the campus," said one of the group talking the new job over. "It's a privilege and a pleasure," observed that the youngster; at the behest of the editor-in-chief, Ann Shepard, Julia Olden, Dorothy Jeanne Ticker, Pearle Elizabeth Turnbull, Mary Nadine Versowe, Lollie Steele Watrous Juanita Williams, Dorothy Ellis Boutwell, Doris Virginia Summerlin, Martha Belle Tharp, Mary Nell Taylor, Annie Laurie Vest, Marie Rountree, Ouida Claire Wells, Mary Marilyn Williams, Willie Edna Woodham Eleanore Jane Young, and Wilma Lillian Young

Candidates in School of Education for the bachelor of science in education are:

Mary Margee Collins Elizabeth Ann Shirley Weston Davis, Martha Frances Farmer, Frances Fryer Mildred Ellis Hearon, Janet Weathers Jewett, Catherine Bethune Kirby-Smith, Louise Marchbanks Dorothy Whitcomb Parks Martha Robertson Sessoms, Grimes Shivrder, Barbara Thomas and Clara Truslow.

In the School of Home Economics, the candidates for degrees in the Bachelor of Science in Home Economics are:

Ethel Marion Barnard Geraldine Allbritton Brock, Mary Philippa Challer, Minnie Sherwood Dennis, Alice Lucile Flow, May Belle Ford, Martha Virginia Greene, Evelyn Lois Greer, Marion Evelyn Grinnell Lillian Donna Haney, Mary Agnes Harding, Natalee Fern Heuchard Jessie Springer Keeler Emma Anne Kendrick Audrey Iris Knowles, Hazel Marjorie Lacey, Ada Carolyn Lamar Barber, Ila Belle Maki, Dorothy Manning Ila Jean McCain, Jean Fraser Mackae, Marjorie Arline Means Marjorie Mae Morrison Mary Lou O'Haver, Sibyl Jean Oliver Edith Evermontt and Marie W. Pattai List continues Kathryn Summers Powell. Marguerite Elizabeth Rushmann Vonelle Randolph, Alyce Ruth Sanderson. Eleanor R. Scott, Ruth Carolyn

Inquiring Reporter

Scholarship Societies Questioned

The Inquiring reporter this week asked a number of girls what they looked to be the value of honoraries, and if they considered they to be worthwhile in colleges and out of college The replies were varied.

Dot Parks: The purpose of honoraries is to give a sorry or acknowledgment to those who have done outstanding and good work in a certain field In some cases the existence of honoraries is justified and in other cases it is not. Where a work honorary on campus that has now or will have by the time school is out one member. How can this now be justified?

Yes, I think honoraries add to one's prestige in and out of college but more on out of college. Good work is always better to your community or country is aware of your honorary and, if so, his attitude toward it. This is especially true of the honoraries on this campus. Their greater prestige on the attitudes of the students.

Dorothy Townsend: The purpose of honoraries is to recognize and help to further scholarship and service. In most instances, the above mentioned honoraries do not do this. In fact there is only one member and that one is a requirement for selection? If the campus as a whole is to be benefited it seems to me that the honoraries have to embrace more than one or two out of entire enrollment.

Dot Nickerson: I believe the purpose of honoraries is to inspire scholarship in the field and to reward those who do excel in certain lines of work or study. The existence of both the above mentioned purposes is justified by the fact that they lend prestige to the college as a whole. Only those members who are worthy, and they are helpful in forming friendships for people with like interests. Yes I believe membership in honories definitely adds to one's prestige in and out of colleges and that it helps to get a job I have no suggestions for change.

Chris are siicted for membership on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and service Choice of the members is made from lists of candidates submitted by the dean of students, the director of personnel, the faculty members of sophomore council, the freshman council, and the sponsors.

Sophomore council acts as a cooperating body between the colleges government of which they are the lowest branch and the student council. Its duties also include checking convocation rolls, assisting in orientation, and performing other services

Council Selects 45 Freshmen For Members

Continued from Page One

date for the first meeting of the two bodies, freshman commission and the freshman cabinet on F. W. A. In 1938 these two organizations were combines into sophomore council.

Girls are elected for membership on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and service. Choice of the members is made from lists of candidates submitted by the dean of students, the director of personnel, the faculty members of sophomore council, the freshman council, and the sponsors.

The college paper harder or easier than for the high school paper? Six out of ten who were asked replied without hesitation that it was harder and yet they seem to fun because it had such an air of real newspaper about it. Ann Ellis:

"Of course it does take a lot of time, but then think what I'm getting out of it." Yesterday the answers given to the question of whether or not the college found that her work was a bit too time consuming.

All the stories, with inevitable exceptions, were conscientiously placed on the hook by the authors of these newspaper masterpieces before the stated deadline. Scattered across the campus let all know that now the story was in and "Let's go to the Spic and forget about it."

Rawlings Opens Alumnae College

Continued from Page One

"The Relationship of the Individual to Contemporary Social Problems" by Mary Yarborough.

Mr. Henry Becker, professor of economics, will speak on the subject on "International Citizenship" at 1:30 o'clock in the browsing room of the library. Dr. Ralph Wenrich will speak on "Problems of Democracy" at 2:30 o'clock in the browsing room of the library. Miss Willie Lenella L. Shores, will discuss "Social Security and the Cost of Isolation Policy," and Dr Marion Irish will speak on "Trends Today" at 3:30 o'clock in the Student Cooperation.

Miss Wilcock there will be a program on "Economic Citizenship" by Mary Yarborough chairman presiding. This will take place in the Augusta Conradi Theater. Speakers will be Miss Lella Venable on "Legislation to Protect Consumers' Interest" and Dr. Beulah Briley, "The Effect of Contemporary Events and the Consumption" at 4:30 o'clock in the library discussion on "Quality and Prices of Popular Products." Dr. Ralph the Little theater, the meeting will be presided over by Miss Venable. Music and Art" will begin at 11:30 o'clock. Speaking at this meeting will be Literature, Louise Richardson; Music Mr. Ernest Williams; Art, Mrs. Beatrice B Williams; at the meeting on Propaganda to be held in the Modern Trend in Literature, Dr Ralph Donaldson will preside over the meeting room of the library. Speakers at this meeting will be Dr. Ralph Flynn on "Foreign Propaganda"; Mr. Earl Vance on "Propaganda in Business."

The annual business meeting of the Alumnae association will be in the Augusta Conradi theater at 5 o'clock in the formal banquet at 7 o'clock in the college dining hall, on Sunday morning will be closing reunions and Mortar Board reunion breakfast.

Lecturer Speaks On Lost Colony

New Evidence Found On Colonists's Fate

Miss Florence Rohr instructor of history at Brenau college spoke Thursday night at 7:30 in Bertil's # 30 history class. She presented the latest evidence about the fate of the Lost Colony of Roanoke, and stated that the survivors of this English settlement probably ended their wanderings in the Nacoochee Valley, in the upper source of the Chattahochee river in a Cherokee Indian village. about 400 miles from original settlement

To me this is a harmless way of giving and receives a little recognition which we all need. As to the prestige and value derived from membership in an honorary when applying for a job, this depends entirely on whether your community or country is aware of your honorary and, if so, his attitude toward it. This is especially true of the honoraries on this campus. Their greater prestige on the attitudes of the students.

Dorothy Townsend: The purpose of honoraries is to recognize and help to further scholarship and service. In most instances, the above mentioned honoraries do not do this. In fact there is only one member and that one is a requirement for selection? If the campus as a whole is to be benefited it seems to me that the honoraries have to embrace more than one or two out of entire enrollment.

Dot Nickerson: I believe the purpose of honoraries is to inspire scholarship in the field and to reward those who do excel in certain lines of work or study. The existence of both the above mentioned purposes is justified by the fact that they lend prestige to the college as a whole. Only those members who are worthy, and they are helpful in forming friendships for people with like interests. Yes I believe membership in honories definitely adds to one's prestige in and out of colleges and that it helps to get a job I have no suggestions for change.

Dots are elected for membership on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and service Choice of the members is made from lists of candidates submitted by the dean of students, the director of personnel, the faculty members of sophomore council, the freshman council, and the sponsors.

Sophomore council acts as a cooperating body between the colleges government of which they are the lowest branch and the student council. Its duties also include checking convocation rolls, assisting in orientation, and performing other services

Scholarship Societies Questioned

Continued from Page One

ing the status of honoraries on campus except that I believe there should be some recognition for outstanding art and music majors. Why isn't there an honorary for them? I know there are for journalism—why not establish a chapter here?

Aliant Day: I am not a member of any honorary on campus and, therefore, have no idea of their purpose other than recognition of an individual who has achieved a standard grade average which is agreed as reasonable by the organization.

To me this is a harmless way of giving and receives a little recognition which we all need. As to the prestige and value derived from membership in an honorary when applying for a job, this depends entirely on whether your community or country is aware of your honorary and, if so, his attitude toward it. This is especially true of the honoraries on this campus. Their greater prestige on the attitudes of the students.

Dorothy Townsend: The purpose of honoraries is to recognize and help to further scholarship and service. In most instances, the above mentioned honoraries do not do this. In fact there is only one member and that one is a requirement for selection? If the campus as a whole is to be benefited it seems to me that the honoraries have to embrace more than one or two out of entire enrollment.

Dot Nickerson: I believe the purpose of honoraries is to inspire scholarship in the field and to reward those who do excel in certain lines of work or study. The existence of both the above mentioned purposes is justified by the fact that they lend prestige to the college as a whole. Only those members who are worthy, and they are helpful in forming friendships for people with like interests. Yes I believe membership in honories definitely adds to one's prestige in and out of colleges and that it helps to get a job I have no suggestions for change.

Bankhead Speaks On Lost Colony

Author Tells Story Of Roanoke Settlement

Miss Florence Rohr instructor of history at Brenau college spoke Thursday night at 7:30 in Bertil's # 30 history class. She presented the latest evidence about the fate of the Lost Colony of Roanoke, and stated that the survivors of this English settlement probably ended their wanderings in the Nacoochee Valley, in the upper source of the Chattahochee river in a Cherokee Indian village. about 400 miles from original settlement

English's Talk Ends Governing Institute Series

Continued from Page One

for Public Education" by Colin English, superintendent of public instruction. Present Status of Education in Florida and Its Administration" by Miss Minnie Minton, director of public assistance. Report of the Research Board, "Work of the County Health Units" by Mrs. Elizabeth Bohenberger, director of health education.

Previous speakers have been as follows: R. A. Gray, secretary of state; W. V. Knott, state treasurer; J. M. Lee, state comptroller; Walter Moore, Leon county representative; Ernest Dupont, chief justice of the supreme court; Dorothy Dodd, state archivist; Shelby South Carolina. The third stone was placed in 1939 near Gainesville Ga. The 1940 stone was placed on March 25 at Dawsonville Ga. in honor of "Dare Stones" in honor of the deceased author

Miss Rohr is completing a lecture tour on the subject of Women. She exhibited a map of one of the stones at her lecture Thursday. Miss Rohr said that the Pearces are still looking for further traces of the settlement.

There is yet no definite proof that the stones are genuine, but historians are divided in their opinions concerning it.

STATE

FRIDAY & SATURDAY
April 5-6
A STORY THAT SHAKES NATION IN SONG

MICKEY ROONEY
Young Tom Edison
THE HUNTER GEORGE McCARTHY
RANDOLPH SCOTT

SUNDAY & MONDAY
April 7-8
A PICTURE AS BIG AS THE HEART OF AMERICA

"ABE LINCOLN IN ILLINOIS"
RAYMOND MASSEY

TUESDAY
April 9
Warren WILLIAM
THE LONE WOLF STRIKES

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
April 10-11
Jackie Cooper
in
"SEVENTEEN"

RITZ
LAST TIMES TODAY
Fredric March
in
"DARK ANGEL"

SATURDAY
April 6
DOUBLE FEATURE

SUNDAY & MONDAY
April 7-8
Mickey Rooney
in
"Young Tom Edison"

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
April 9-10
Raymond Massey
in
"ABE LINCOLN IN ILLINOIS"

THURSDAY & FRIDAY
April 11-12
Fred Astaire
in
"Broadway Melody Of 1940"

Before the Dance Use
Johnson's Professional Floorwax 50c
After the Dance Rejuvinate Your Floors with Johnson's Paste Floorwax
Regular 1 lb. Can
Now 59c

Seek it First at VAN BRUNT & VON INC.
YON'S HARDWARE

$2.98-$5.95
LIPSEY'S
106 E. College Avenue

dds Win Soccer Game vens Lead Oh Hockey Field

Next Game Scheduled For This Afternoon

The first of three odd-even soccer and hockey games last Wednesday resulted in a soccer victory for the odds with a score of 4-0 and an even hockey victory for the second of the games to be played this afternoon at 4:00 and the last match tomorrow at 4 o'clock on the field north of the gymnasium. The winners will be the victor in two matches of three.

Soccer game started Wednesday afternoon with an unforeseen beginning. The evens were only two players. The odds quickly provided the evens with five from their never depleted supply of freshmen, and the game was on. Their first goal was kicked by Ruth Smith, who played excellent game throughout the game. The second one was made by Betty Lane, an odd player, who scored when Nancy Lee Hall managed to muster the eleventh player. However, Lillian Allerdice provided the odds bountifully when she tried to stop a kick made by Ann Lee Hall and the ball bounded on and went between the goal posts, making the score 4 to 1 in favor of the odds at the first game. The game terminated for its many additions such as Helen Milam's eight-inch rompers, and Marian Hall's grand entrance ten minutes late for the game. Nancy Lee Hall starred for the odds with Lana playing for the evens. And the best games of the day were by those who played for the odds as Nancy White, odd student body president, scored all of the 40 team Brunells Mobley, Ruth Smith, Ann Lee Hall, Lana Lee Vergove, Florean Lee, Frances Eckland, Kitty Barnes, Helen Lodham, Stella Lee Betsy Ross Howe, Joe Ann Elsie Cater, Beryl Mitchell and Belle Holden. The Evens players were Kitty Ford, student body president, Marian Webb, Avis Tucker, Janet Wells, Jo Shreve, Catherine Hagerman, Helen Milam, Lillian Allerdice Myrtis Louque, and Betty Lee.

The hockey game got off to a fast start early in the afternoon when Betty Lee Hall, student body president, Katherine Kirby and Helen Hetzel, and Dot Parks made the goals for the evens, getting around odd goalie, Shirley Lee with fast shots. The forward line kept battering but as usual the odds were unbeatable as clean play and teamwork, outstanding players were Dot Parks and Louise Rice, who were good in backing up the forward line. Mary Corry, whose bullying was outstanding throughout the game, Mary Gray Holderman, and Peggy Barker, who did a fine fielding job.

The other hockey players are Catherine Kirby Smith, student body president, Dot Parks, Anne Marchesseau, Meta Helms, Mary Wood, Louise Rice, Pamela Lee, Marion Preeling, Ethel Lewis, Paulette Nolan, Hazel Williams, Merryday Rosser, and Betty Oner. The odds who composed the hockey team are Peggy Barker, student leader and captain, Jane Dibble, Etta La Roe Louque Wilson, Sue Erwin, Pat Morrison, Madge Overcash, Starr Lee Hall, Gene Bryan, Mary Grey Holderman, Peggy Barker, and Jeanne Hobson.

Miss Mary B. Settle referred hockey game, and Miss Grace Lewis served as referee for the other game.

Three FSCW Students Visit Sets for Filming "The Yearling"

Continued from Page One

the first of June the directors of the farms people move into the new so that it will look more "at." Also, the animals which will be used in the picture will be allowed to roam around the farm to become used to their surroundings two months ahead of time.

Expert advice is sought in all things," she continued. "During the weekend, we went with Mr. Marchant to Gainesville to the agricultural authorities at the University about the planting and the raising of corn. This was necessary since one month of "Spring" will cover a 12 months' period on the book, and the problems of corn as well as tobacco and other crops will have to be solved for different periods of time. This, as she explained, will entail extra nourishment for other aids to nature for the short season in the acreage.

She also described another interesting observation on the same farm in which Mr. Marchant noted old sugar mill in a yard. They passed a house on the way. Hailing a woman who was in front her chickens he offered to buy the mill from her and took another bit of "almost" to "The Yearling." "Oh there are constantly on the lookout for just such material," added Martha.

While visiting the various types of "Florida Cracker" Martha took the opportunity to talk to many of the men who will be prominent in producing the film and discussed "business" with them. During her sightseeing trips with Mr. Marchant she learned that he had been in Japan and had supervised the building of a studio there.

Mr. Chester Franklin, who directed the animal scenes in "Rasputin," interested her in his present capacity as director of the animal sequences of "The Yearling." Under his charge are 53 deer, a cow, a horse and two bears—each of which will have to duplicate or double in Hollywood. "The reason for so many deer," explained Martha Dent, "is that every stage of a deer's life will be represented in the film and it is necessary to be certain of available animals at all times." Mr. Franklin will work with some of the best animal trainers in the country, and they will teach the animals to work by signals instead of by sound.

She became acquainted with Victor Fleming, who directed "Gone With the Wind" and who will direct "The Yearling" as well as Art Brown, construction engineer for MGM. Who has supervised some of the largest "prop" jobs in motion picture history.

She also met Paul Gross, art supervisor of the film. "We had some interesting conversations together," Martha said as she eagerly told of their mutual interest in the poet Browning. An amusing incident about Mr. Gross as she described it, was the meaning attached to his nickname "Killer." It seems that while the picture "Three Comrades" was being filmed, there was no one to kill Robert Young. When someone suddenly asked Mr. Gross, who was supervising the art production, why he could not do the killing he immediately took over the job. His name stuck.

Of the famous people Martha Dent knows, the closest is her own brother, Horace Dent, who acts as local business manager of "The Yearling." has charge of hiring all of the local people who will take part in the picture. Having started appearing in pictures about ten years ago "Mr. Perry has since starred in 500 films as well as acted as technical adviser. He holds the record (three minutes, to be exact) for underwater swimming and has established the record by eating a banana, a sandwich, and a chocolate bar, and by drinking a bottled beverage while under water. The most recent picture in which he has starred, for "Human Fish," won for him the acclaim of Graceland Rice as America's best all-around aquatic swimmer.

Martha Dent has appeared with her brother in many of his pictures, and is, herself, partial to swimming as a sport. However, physical education is not her major although one might expect it. She is specializing in social studies and history. Doing honors work in history, she is writing a paper on "Glandstone and Disraeli"—a far cry from watching one's breath confrol in underwater jaunts, a feat which she has capitalized on in about 20 pictures during the last eight years.

Dancers To Give Spring Concert

Program Is Composed Of Original Numbers

The modern dance classes under the direction of Miss Nellie Bond Dickenson, physical education instructor, will present a spring concert in the auditorium at 8:15 o'clock on April 19.

The program will be composed of original dances designed by the dance students and by Miss Dickinson, and the "American Circle" number will be accompanied by music created especially for it by Gardiner Read, well known composer.

Carl Ahrends of the music department composed the "Saraband" for the string quartet which will be the accompaniment for one of the dances, and Miss Dickinson did the choreography for both the "Saraband" and the "American Circle." Some of the music for the latter number accompaniment was composed by Dorothy Guthrie and Miss Kathleen Grupe, social studies instructor, will supervise.

Costumes for the concert were designed by Miss Janette Smith in the costume designing department, assisted by Ruth Hendricks and Carmen Lytal.

The total program consists of a Primitive suite; a Medieval dance directed by Janice Miller; an unnamed number composed by Carolyn Stowell; a second number composed by Barbara Thomas; Jan Suite; and a suite from "Dance Of San Lucas" directed by Pat Mack. There will be several solo numbers by Marcheta Cowan, Betty Jane Hall, and Miss Dickinson, principal.

The dancers in the concert have been drawn primarily from the three extra-curricular groups, but a few of the dancers are students who have had more than the usual two years' experience; these students are Mary Ellen Sleiland, Janice Miller, Dorothy Chinn, Gwen Stephenson, Nell Smith, Margaret Clements, Barbara Thomas, Dorothy Thomas, Margaret Harrison, Carolyn Stowell, Pat Mack, Roberta Padgett and Ruth Hall.

The second group of extra-curricular dancers is composed of girls from the modern dance classes of this year; Annelu Dordy Cornelia Watson, Mary Alford, Betty Ross Howe, Eleanor Miller, Jean Hall, Mary Lucile Dale, Cornelia Watson, Mary Alford, Betty Ross Howe, Eleanor Miller, Jean Hall, Mary Lucile Dale, Dorothy Chinn, Gwen Stephenson, Nell Smith, Margaret Clements, Barbara Thomas, Dorothy Thomas, Margaret Harrison, Carolyn Stowell, Pat Mack, Roberta Padgett and Ruth Hall.

The second group of extra-curricular dancers is composed of girls from the modern dance classes of this year; Annelu Dordy, Cornelia Watson, Mary Alford, Betty Ross Howe, Eleanor Miller, Jean Hall, Mary Lucile Dale, Dorothy Chinn, Gwen Stephenson, Nell Smith, Margaret Clements, Barbara Thomas, Dorothy Thomas, Margaret Harrison, Carolyn Stowell, Pat Mack, Roberta Padgett and Ruth Hall.

Minnows Initiated Into Tarpon Club

The Tarpon Club initiated 17 Minnows Tuesday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. room with Mary Collins, president, in charge. The club will elect new officers at 4:30 next Tuesday afternoon in the club room of the gymnasium.

The new members are Denore Eicher, Barbara Beckwith, Frances Eckland, Jean Hitchcock, Mildred Anderson, Vivian Adamo, Betty Jane Hall, Marian Webb, Betty Mc-Michael, Edna Earl Wilson, Mary Armes, Paula Jones, Peggy Barker, Nancy Kulp, Gale Anne Vaughey Lee Doggett, Anne Wilson.

Martin & Dalton

Try Our Fount and Luncheonette—We'll try to Please You

EXTRA SPECIAL

Half Spring Broiler, F. F. Potatoes, Lettuce and Tomatoes—They're Tender and Delicious 35c

All Sandwiches Toasted on Golden Brown Bread

20c Regular 20c Banana Splits

Chocolate Nut Sundae with Whip Cream and Cherry 15c

Made with 3 scoops ice cream, fruits, chocolate syrup, whip Cream & Cherry .. 15c

Regular 20c double decker Mixed Ham lettuce & tomatoes Potato Chips 15c

American, Pimento, or Swiss Cheese With Lettuce 10c

Student Discusses Test Values From Psychological Standpoint

Suggests Elimination of Needs For Cramming Thus Promoting Cultural Objectives Instead

By JONNIE THOMASSON

I'm tired. My head aches. My fingers feel cramped. My eye-lids are heavy, and my brain's dull. I've just finished my quarterly tests—I say I've finished them, but I wonder if they haven't finished me? And for what good have I endured all this? What will the results be? Will they be accompanied by music created especially for it by Gardiner Read, well known composer.

Carl Ahrends of the music department composed the "Saraband" for the string quartet which will be the accompaniment for one of the dances, and Miss Dickinson did the choreography for both the "Saraband" and the "American Circle." Some of the music for the latter number accompaniment was composed by Dorothy Guthrie and Miss Kathleen Grupe, social studies instructor.

Costumes for the concert were designed by Miss Janette Smith in the costume designing department, assisted by Ruth Hendricks and Carmen Lytal.

The total program consists of a Primitive suite; a Medieval dance directed by Janice Miller; an unnamed number composed by Carolyn Stowell; a second number composed by Barbara Thomas; Jan Suite; and a suite from "Dance Of San Lucas" directed by Pat Mack. There will be several solo numbers by Marcheta Cowan, Betty Jane Hall, and Miss Dickinson, principal.

The dancers in the concert have been drawn primarily from the three extra-curricular groups, but a few of the dancers are students who have had more than the usual two years' experience; these students are Mary Ellen Sleiland, Janice Miller, Dorothy Chinn, Gwen Stephenson, Nell Smith, Margaret Clements, Barbara Thomas, Dorothy Thomas, Margaret Harrison, Carolyn Stowell, Pat Mack, Roberta Padgett and Ruth Hall.

The second group of extra-curricular dancers is composed of girls from the modern dance classes of this year; Annelu Dordy, Cornelia Watson, Mary Alford, Betty Ross Howe, Eleanor Miller, Jean Hall, Mary Lucile Dale, Dorothy Chinn, Gwen Stephenson, Nell Smith, Margaret Clements, Barbara Thomas, Dorothy Thomas, Margaret Harrison, Carolyn Stowell, Pat Mack, Roberta Padgett and Ruth Hall.

fear the funds for a "going-home" ticket won't come on time; they can't get through standing the fact that Joe or Tom or Dick will be waiting at the bus station for them, and that, consequently, the nicest clothes for all kinds of occasions must be packed. Perhaps they really know the facts that the question sheet calls for, but with so many other important things on their minds they are not able to give a clear answer or even to recall the material in the short length of time allowed for the test. So on the basis of scientific study can these answers give a valid picture of one's mental harvest under such distracting conditions?

Sometimes when exams are announced and groans come from the pupils, the professor will answer that he dislikes the idea as badly as they do because it means extra work for him, both in finding suit in making out the material for the printed sheets so if these are his problems for both teachers and students alike what is the value of spending the emotional constitutions of all concerned and still not getting the desired results?

Everyone knows students who can and cram and cram for one night before an exam, and who will honestly and frankly admit that they know nothing in spite of the fact that they have filled in, often correctly, the sheet of questions. If college is really intended to teach us to think and to fill us with a zest for learning more and more about the ways of life, would not the purpose be more nearly accomplished if there was some incentive toga student's studying all along rather than cramming her brain full of meaningless facts? Her grade may be high if she crams, but her value derived from the course is practically nothing. If there was no longer a need for this stuffing the brain worthlessly, these same girls would strive to learn all along because they would know because their semester evaluation would depend on every day's work rather than being summed up in one hour. But students do want to learn, but why bother to study when you can do a quarter's work in one night and fool the teachers into thinking you're smart and grading you accordingly?

Anyway we do not come here to be graded. We come in an effort to learn many things that we'll need to know before we can compete with others. But tests make this objective sink into the background, and we struggle for grades; we try to learn what the teacher thinks is important rather than really digging deep into the subject. Of course there is not come through a struale for grades, but through a long period of understanding, acquiring and using that which one has acquired.

But leaving the question of culture aside, once more I want to ask, do our hastily scribbled words give the teachers valid data on which to evaluate our benefits from courses? These instructors want to be fair, and they are really trying to do so; still is it possible for anyone to determine through a test how much of a person has truly gotten from an academic course?

Debaters To Leave For Forensic Meet

Joan Weaver, Margaret Christie Harrison, Mary Brice Deaver, and Patricia Hulbert were chosen to represent Florida State College for Women at the Grand Easterns forensic tournament to be held April 11-13 at Winthrop college, Rock Hill, S. C. The subject on which they will debate will be "Resolved that the United States should follow a policy of strict isolation toward all nations outside the western hemisphere and engaged in armed international or civil conflict.

Helen Hawkin- Margaret Christie Harrison Joan Weaver, Mary Brice Deaver, Patricia Hulbert, and Mabel Nihoul trio' out the latter two taking the negative side and all six participating in rebuttal.

Sponsors and judges of the debate were: Dr. Victoria Schuck assistant professor of history and political science Miss L. Margaret Wyly, instructor in history, and Miss Sadie G Young, assistant professor of economics.

Dr. Schuck, coach of tr-debate, the conference of the Judges, and the announcement of the winners. Miss Wyly gave the 15 delegates pointers in improving their organization and delivery of material for the tournament.

The four girls will leave Wednesday afternoon and before going to Rock Hill, will remain overnight Wednesday at Presbyterian college Clinton, S. C. where they will debate the affirmative side of the question.

Lester Presents Paper On China

Continued from Page One

held at Chapel Hill, N. C., briefly mentioned and evaluated.

Committees were announced for the state I.R.C. conference which will be held here April 26 and 27 with delegates from six Florida colleges expected. Johnnie Mae Wright will be chairman of the conference plans. The constitution committee will consist of Patty Robert, chairman Mabel Nihoul, and Mary Alice Lester. Arrangements for the conference will be Sibyle Sanders, with Nona Erwin, Eleanor Grenelle, Betty Pearlman, and Helen Smallwood assisting her.

In charge of decorations are Frances Smart, chairman, and Eleanor Grenelle. Planning for registration are Margaret Christie Harrison, chairman; Margaret Booth, Lillian Rogtin, and Betty Farran. Dr. Marion Irish will act as faculty adviser.

Complete plans for the conference will be announced later.

Stunts Will be Features At Play Night Tonight

An unusual program of stunts and tumbling will be featured at play night tonight. This presentation by the recreational department will consist of balance stunts, dance stunts, individual stunts, flips, and pyramids.

In charge of the exhibition is Miss Mary Settle, physical education instructor. Girls participating in the feild dismatch Brown, Barbara Conine, Marion Preeling, Meta E. Helms, Myrtis A. Louque, Dorothy McCrory, Almar P. Mackey, Mary Jane Medlin, Brenelle Mobley, Paulette Nolan, Imogene Parramore, Ruth M. Pierce, Nell Smith, Gwendolyn Stephenson, Bernice L. Walton, Lucy Janet Wells, Jean Wood, and Doniee L. Youngblood.

Physical Ed Association Elects Officers Today

Today members of the physical education association will elect new officers. Girls whose names range from A to P will vote in 413 Children's House from F to M will vote in 418 Children' and the remaining ones from M to Z will vote in 220 Broward.

Girls running for president are Jean Hall and Marion Preeling. Candidates for vice-president are Nell Smith and Mary Jane Medlin.

Girls running secretary-treasurer are Mary Alice Kirchner, Alice Ludlam, Mariam Smith, Denor Eicher, Starling Hall, Mary Lou King, Jimmie Fain, and Marraret Carter.

Montgomery And Settle Elected to Positions

Miss Katherine Montgomery, head of the physical education department, was recently elected president of the directors section of the Southern district of the American Association of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

Miss Mary B Settle, physical education instructor, was recently elected vice-chairman of the camping section for next year.

Two Honoraries Hold Initiations

Two honoraries on this campus have initiated new members recently and an announcement has been made that other honoraries will initiate soon.

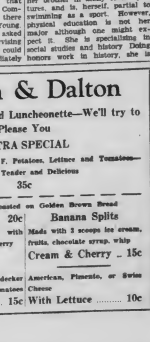
Gamma Delta Epsilon, chemistry honorary, held its initiation at a banquet in Landis dining hall on Saturday, March 30. New members are Margaret Hunter Lands Lou Gautier, Mary Elizabeth Cash Martha Broyles, Marie Pallasi, Mary Vergeve, Edith Williams, and Minna Dennis.

Guests at the banquet were Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Lewis, Miss Isabel McCrindel, Dr. Dennis Tift, and Dr. W. B. Winthrop.

Plans were made for a Joint meeting with the Chattahoochee chapter sometime the last of April. Election of new officers will take place next week.

Evelyn Richman was initiated by Pi Delta Phi, French honorary, on March 19. The ceremony was held at the home of Dr. Arthur Wenger and was followed by an informal reception.

Spanish honorary, Sigma Delta Pi will initiate new members tonight in a service at the Methodist student house. A reception for the new members will follow at the home of Miss Dorothy L. E. Breen.



Those girls who are to be initiated are Marjorie McClure, Anne McMorris, Roxilu Kelton Elizabeth Linn, Geraldine Miller, Evelyn Urban and Ruth Pruitt.

Famous Sculptress Visits Art Class

Marsina Hoffman, internationally known sculptress and probably one of the two freemost sculptresses in America, made a brief visit to art classes here last week. She examined students' work and gave a short lecture on her subject.

Miss Hoffman was recently sent around the world by the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago, and her works are on permanent display in museums in this country as well as in London, Rome, Paris and Stockholm. Her specialty is the portrayal of natives' heads for which she is famous. She observed her subjects in her visits to foreign countries on her world tour. Miss Hoffman was visiting her sister-in-law at Waverly plantation on her first trip to Florida.

EXTRA Mildness
EXTRA Coolness
EXTRA Flavor
WITH SLOWER-BURNING
Camels

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the averages, a smoking plus equal to

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

SLOW BURNING — proves natural qualities of Camel's mildness, thrilling taste, fragrance... a cooler smoke ...

FAST BURNING—creates hot fast ease in smoke ... rates a delicate flavor, aroma ...

Copyright, 1940, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

One Step Forward

This week the college political science department has been making a definite step forward in the education for democracy on this campus. Under the head of Dr Marion Irish the department has attempted to bring Florida State college students in direct contact with Florida governmental officials by sponsoring the first annual Institute of State Government.

With such an opportunity open to future citizens of Florida it is disheartening to find the meetings so poorly attended. One of the most significant gestures at the first meeting of the institute was the general snicker that arose from the students when Secretary of State Gray mentioned how glad he was to see such a number of students as were in the circle assembled. Perhaps he didn't understand that the majority of students present were there under compulsion.

Of course, one can defend the students who are not attending these meetings by saying that these talks present only factual diagrams of our state government which they have already learned from civics courses and which they can easily read from books or charts. Well, maybe so, but many political science students have not found it distasteful to hear the plan of the majority of the student body, who have not had political science and Florida's government explained again. And what excuse can be offered for who say ever take the time to read up on books and charts about our state government?

When there are those who will say that the speeches given at the convention fail to really bring up the vital issues, adding that studies of the Florida civil form of government are superficial without a knowledge of the social forces that operate under these plans. Nothing could be truer than that statement and perhaps someday the institution may be able to bring in the forces and their operation at the annual convention. But consider-before discovering as it stands, can't it at least show the students who the big men in the state are, and what sort of men are in charge of our government? Can't this meeting show that after all one state government is made up of people like ourselves and is not some sort of holy, secluded white elephant?

If criticism inevitably knocks the rest of the program is there not much room in order for the discussions after the talks? In how many countries of present-day Europe could students meet with any of their government officials and frankly question them on important issues? To be sure, the discussions have not been so lively as they might have been, but the students are coming along. With a few years' practice the students of this college may be able to make these discussions a real source of intelligent political thought on. And whether these discussions are stimulating or dull, good or bad, the appearance of such open discussion on this campus seems to be mark a step in the right direction.

Another criticism of the meetings this week is that, since many of the speakers are candidates for re-election, their talks are necessarily colored and prejudiced. That criticism, perhaps, is just also, but what speech isn't prejudiced one way or the other and what time is better than the present for students to realize this fact?

To sum up the idea of this editorial briefly—congratulations to Miss Irish and the political science department for initiating what promises to become a real option where the students may always feel the pulse of their state government—a real step toward the education for democracy.

And Another One

This week saw the innovation of a new system of class elections by hold for the first time all the classes voted at polls by ballot at the same time with a voting by 50 percent of the class required far election. This new plan seems a step in the right direction.

For years the students have decried the lack of democracy in their class election system. They have fussed because pitiful quorums selected their officers and because small blocs were able to swing the election their way. There were even those who, seeing no way for improvement, advocated doing away with class officers since most of the situation were not remedied.

Others realized that the system was faulty but believed that class organization in itself was good and should be kept. They held that class organization fosters a spirit and interest in the college that is more personal than college organization. Students are more apt to know the members of their own class better than members of other classes and logically this should be so. They believed that spreading offices, even to the extent of making practically honorary posts, helped to develop a feeling of responsibility and gave practice in leadership to a wider field of girls. It was this group that worked to organize the new methods and to bring about the change in the College Government Association constitution.

The effort made by these students deserves support by the student body, and it can be given by using the class officers to represent the students and their opinions. Each class is represented in senate by its president and its two representatives. These officers are elected to represent their constituents and to bring up such legislation as their constituents need and desire. It is up to the students themselves to see that they are represented by the officers and to see them when they have problems. Just stewing among themselves over questions does little good. The best idea is to take the problem to the representative who can present it to the legislative body. If the students will take advantage of their representation they will find themselves more nearly approaching a democratic government, for which this article's system seeks to give added impetus.

Collegiate Comebacks

We have insomnia. We lay awake nights worrying. We don't wanna flunk out. We may not think that life is all nectar and ambrosia here, but we don't wanna flunk out. So we lie awake nights thinking:

'Twas the night before finals
And all through the night
Not a creature was stirring
No sign of a light
The note books were scattered
All over the joint
Chock full of knowledge
That I hadn't joint.
And round about dawning
I shudder and wail
How the heck can I sleep
When I know that I'll fail?

The obvious answer is "Study now—only 42 more days until Spring Slaughter."

* * * * * *

At first we were shocked to hear about the girls who've been keeping a duck in their room ever since Easter vacation. On second thought a lot queerer things than ducks have been in dormitory rooms.

* * * * * *

Comment by a defeated candidate: "Oh well, now I don't have to interrupt my train of thought to speak to people."

* * * * * *

And from the Log—
"Mamma! A big truck just ran over Pa and squashed him all over the street."
"Junior, how many times have I told you not to talk about such things when I'm eating?"

* * * * * *

Comment on the political situation.
aArner
deWey vandeNberg menUtt
roosevelT
JackBon

* * * * * *

We aren't quite sure where this came from, and they probably wouldn't own up to it anyhow, but:

Toidy poipie boids
Were sitting on a coib
Achoiping and a boiping
And a-eating doity woims.
Along came Boit and a shoit named Gott.
Who woiked in a skoit factory
In Joisey.
Now when Boit and she skoit named Gott
Saw the toity poipie boids
Asitting on the coib
Achoiping and aboiping
And a-eating doity woims,
Gosh, was they poisoibed.

* * * * * *

This nature story from an exchange seems to us to be the height of something or other:

A Huge Gorilla awoke one morning and beat his chest and said, "Oh, how strong I am." He took a swaggering sort of walk through the woods and came upon a Large Elephant. Seizing its trunk the Huge Gorilla cried, "Why aren't you as strong as I am?" The elephant turned in terror and fled. Then the gorilla met a Ferocious Lion and, grabbing his tail shouted, "Why aren't you as strong as I?" The lion roared fearfully and ran through the jungle. Then the gorilla came upon a Little Monkey in a tree and asked in a very impressive voice, "And why aren't you as strong as I?" The little monkey, looking down, modestly replied, "I been sick."

* * * * * *

Then there's the touching tale of the girl who had to pay a flunk fee for not Taking An Active Interest in her sleeping gym class which she didn't know about.

It could have been worse though, and it is, she had to repeat the course, and got on pro for cutting it (sleeping gym) after Easter vacation.

* * * * * *

O, Happy Carefree College Days—the poets sing—with nothing to do but write term papers—trudge to classes through sunshine and rain—mostly rain—and complain about The System.

* * * * * *

Yeah! Happy, Carefree, etc. etc. sighed the girl who went to the Infirmary at 8:30 to get out of a too-strenuous gym class on a lovely Monday morning and slept through four Important Classes—Maybe she had been sitting up after the 12 o'clock Thinking Constructive Thoughts.

* * * * * *

Dorothy Parkey became famous for saying, "Men seldom make passes at women with glasses." Now they've added:

Beauty within those orbs does lie
Your charm all charm surpasses
Drink to me only with thine eyes
But take off those d--- glasses.

* * * * * *

And for those who have to have everyone on the hall stop to shake them twice before they can turn over for that last nap before the 8:30 class, this poem, written by someone, respectively is dedicated:

Sunrise and eight o'clock
And one clear call for me,
And may there be no moaning of my prof
I cannot rise, you see.

I'm up to stop the alarm, half dead,
Tho sleepy to rise and roam,
For I, who jumped from out my bed
Soon turn again home.

Sunrise and nine o'clock
And still I slumber well,
Unmoved by the stirring call
Of my alarm clock bell.

And tho' my cuts from year to year
Pile up in mighty manner,
I hope to see my diploma face to face
If I don't cut too many classes.

Of The World

Nazi White Book . . . .

William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France, denied telling Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador to the United States, that American aid would be given to the allies, a statement included in the Nazi White Book containing alleged diplomatic documents captured when the Nazis took Warsaw. Ambassador Bullitt returned to his Paris post yesterday by clipper, after Secretary of State Hull turned down a request from Representative Hamilton Fish that William C. Bullitt be permitted to remain in the United States for two weeks to answer questions of a congressional committee concerning his remark.

The White Book also contained statements of pre-war opinions and policies made by Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, and by President Roosevelt. As a result of the Nazi White Book a complete report on German propaganda as it refers to the United States is being drawn up.

Washington correspondents, however, assert that the German papers are not faked, but that Ambassadors Bullitt and Kennedy have been talking against the Nazis.

European War . . . .

Air fighting continued thru uhout the week in the North Sea, where British planes clashed with German Junkers and Germans dropped bombs in a new raid on Britain's great naval anchorage at Scapa Flow without damaging any of the ships.

Another sheek was given to Western European neutrals yesterday when Field Marshal Goering said that a decisive blow would be made at the French Maginot line upon the order of the Fuehrer.

In order to tighten Britain's control of raw materials which might reach Germany, the allies adopted this week a new anti-Nazi trade agreement with neutral nations. Norway, Sweden, Iceland, Belgium, The Netherlands and Denmark have already signed the pacts. Prime Minister Chamberlain warned neutral nations that any aid to the Nazis may result in the same fate as Poland suffered.

Change in Great Britain's Cabinet . . . .

Great Britain's cabinet was drastically changed yesterday when Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, also became director of all the nation's warring services, as a result of public clamor for appointment of men to key posts who are determined to "Fight the War." Sir Kingsley Wood will head the home policy committee, while Sir John Simon will preside over the cabinet's economic policy committee.

In an address last Saturday, Winston Churchill forecasted an intensification of the conflict. Taking a middle of the road view on Russia he stated that Russia wasn't seeking war with the Soviet Union and that there was no need for Russia to be drawn into the conflict unless because of imperialist ambition she wishes to join Germany's forces. He said that England had no quarrel with Italy or with Japan, but that their war was with Germany.

Presidential Preference Primary . . . .

In Wisconsin's presidential preference primary, President Roosevelt took a three-to-one lead over Vice-President Garner, while Thomas E. Dewey won a two-to-one victory over Senator Vandenberg in the voting for delegates to the Republican National Convention. In New York City, President Roosevelt won a five-to-one victory over Garner.

Many feel that this Roosevelt victory cannot help but influence the State organization leaders of the Democratic Party, but Garner supporters say that "the third term is dead."

Bertrand Russell Denied Post . . . .

Supreme Court Justice John E. McGeehan of the New York State Supreme Court revoked Saturday the appointment of Bertrand Russell, British mathematician and philosopher, as professor of Philosophy at City college on the grounds of an immoral attitude toward sex and not being legally qualified because he is not a citizen of this country.

His appointment by the Board of Higher Education was protested vigorously by religious and civic groups. As soon as opposition to the appointment became known, many educators, civic leaders, and youth groups began to act. They asserted that Professor Russell was eminently fitted for the post by virtue of being an outstanding scholar, philosopher, logician, and teacher. Many liberals feared the decision of the Supreme Court to be a menace to academic freedom and hope that the board will press an appeal.

Officials of the New School where Bertrand Russell has received an appointment as lecturer in philosophy and semantics, declared today that the New York Supreme Court decision would have no affect there. They reiterated their policy of allowing instructors "academic freedom."

Magazine Jottings . . .

In the fight against Bertrand Russell's appointment to teach advanced logic and the philosophy of mathematics at the College of the City of New York, his opponents have accused him of promulgating a moral code ranging from Bolshevism to the advancing of "eternal triangles." In the current issue of The Nation reprints his article "What I Believe," formerly published in The Nation of April 29, 1916 in order to refresh the public mind on Mr. Russell's religious beliefs.

In his article Russell writes, "The answer to such questions as 'What do you believe?' is generally expected to consist of two parts: the first explaining one's views as to the nature of the world and the second, one's opinions as to how human life should be conducted."

As to the nature of the world, many academic philosophers believe the world is a unity. Russell says that is rubbish. To him the world is all spots and jumps without unity, coherence, order, or any of the other properties that the govern love.

The orderliness that we appear to find in the external world seems to be due to our passion for generalities, but it is quite doubtful whether there are such things as laws of nature. The safe thing is to say that, at the very moment when physics, the fundamental science, is undermining the whole structure of applied reason and presenting to us a world unreal and fantastic dreams in place of the Newtonian order and stability, applied science is becoming peculiarly useful and more able than ever to tie results of value to human life.

Science plays two quite distinct roles in life, on the one hand as a metaphysic, and on the other educated common sense. As a metaphysic it has been undermined by its own success. But modern science considered as common sense remains triumphant, indeed more triumphant than before. Human invention can, within limits, be made to prevail in our human world, and on the conduct of our daily lives we may with advantage forget the realm of chaos and night by which we are perhaps surrounded.

"In human beings three things seem to me to be particularly desirable," Mr. Russell goes on to say. "They are scientific curiosity, kindly feeling, and an interest in the life of the world." Scientific method as a part of everyday life consists of the habit of basing opinion upon evidence rather than upon emotion or tradition. Scientific methods give power over the environment and power for adaptation to the environment. However, without friendly feeling it is stilled at the mass of mankind and more especially in the holders of power, that power over environment should be a monster. A certain emotional harmony which makes it necessary to share certain emotions in order to grasp others is needed for interest in life.

The second article reviewed this week is Mental Testing. A proud, world-wide faith in mental-testing movements, an important feature in American psychology for the past twenty-five years.

"The point of magnitude and popular prestige the mental testing movement has been the important single phase of American psychology during the past twenty-five years. Some good mental testing has been done; but far too much is on the level of palm-reading, bump feeling, and the casting horoscopes. It is a very sorry spectacle a science goes to the dogs."

The essence of the protest against tests is this: tests by the score are turned out which expressively claim to measure all sorts of mental traits. In not one single case can the claims be rigorously proved.

In view of what looks like universal condemnation it may seem strange to suggest that there are any good mental tests at all. Yet there are. Decidedly, however, the best are those which claim to measure "general intelligence." But simply nothing to the processes of abstraction and authatnistication used can lead us to expect their method to isolate and measure general intelligence. Tests of power and speed might be made if needed of ever thought of the concept of general intelligence, a term with many "definitions."

Our social institutions, and particularly our schools, operate to segregate people fairly definitely in terms of brightness and dullness. But in the ordinary course of events human beings do not separate readily into extroverts and introverts, musical and non-musical, artistic and non-artistic, etc. Here the lines of division are far less distinct.

What are artistic, introverted, emotionality, mannishness which are characteristics used in classifying persons? Do they distinguish persons clearly from each other? They are metaphysic to which the answer must be answered "yes" or "no" or "true" or "false." In the present state of our psychological

Continued on Page Four

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

MARGARET SCOTT ..... Editor
SARA HOOPER ..... Managing Editor
MARY ELLEN PEETTER ..... Associate Editor
MARGUERITE DIAL, BELLE YOHOE ..... Associate Editors

Copy Editor, Jerene Mendenhall; Feature Editor, Pauline Dale; Society Editor, Mary Ann Bayard; Sports Editor, Bill Cunningham; Assistant, Taylor and Lamar Hunt; Exchange, Ann Carter; Reporters, Mary Claude Harden, Columnists, Isabel Day and Theresa Bolton; Reporters, Mary Ann Bayard, Nancy Richardson, Betty Jane Bryan, Dave Ellis, Mary Ann Bayard; Art Editor, Frances Cone; Special Writers, Mary Caldwell, Esther Thomas, Lucy Gaffney, Bonnie Gaines, Peggy Hyatt, Mabel Pittard, Mary Ann Bayard, Jennie Thomasson and Vadah Walker.

REPORTERS: Mary Ann Bayard, Virginia Milton, Selma Bolton, Aline Lindsay, Beth Mitchell, Lucy Gaffney, Mabel Overcash, Rosa Pritchard, Rosalie Lamar, Frances Ruth Bryan, Eugene Mathews, Daisy Baker, Caldwell, Lorraine Cotterill, Mary Ann Bayard, Dave Ellis, Mary Ann Bayard, Nancy Richardson, Betty Jane Bryan, Dave Ellis, Mary Ann Bayard, Nancy Richardson, Betty Jane Bryan, Ruth Trence Martin, Mary Catherine Bellas, Louis Turner, Mary Ann Bayard, Nancy Richardson, Betty Jane Bryan, Charles Dodd, and Selma Mae Howard.

BUSINESS STAFF

HARRIET BENSON ..... Business Manager
ANNE GLADNEY ..... Assistant Business Manager
KITTY JO HICKMAN ..... Circulation

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915 at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Members National Advertising Service, Inc. College Publishers Representative 420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y. CHICAGO · BOSTON · LOS ANGELES · SAN FRANCISCO

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

From Other Colleges

Reporters of the University of Kentucky school paper had, recently completed the third of a series of campus columns in which the three queries considered concerned what students thought of their student government whether or not they would favor accepting training at UK—provided were available, and if they favored the continuation of the committee.

The plans for these polls were interrupted after the 1940 Gallup Surveys, called the interviewing of 100 "randomly" selected students of 100 were men and 50 were women. The number was divided proportionally according to location among the several cities and their classes.)

On the question "Do you consider student government a success" 56 per cent said yes, 28 per cent said no, 16 per cent voiced no opinion.

Ninety-one per cent favored compulsory military training although the fact that the university has not availed itself of provisions training under the National Defense Act was noted. Only one woman on campus "simply hates" the bulk of the ROTC question appeared to be that the rapid growth of civil air travel and increasing need for flying aviators of higher caliber reflect a need for this training in every institution of higher learning in the nation, including Fifty-three per cent vote' yes that if per cent no on the question of continued investigation of Dies committee. On one side of the fence it alleged unfairness of the committee "in digging into un-American activities when some one has to uncover them or later Another student felt that the purpose was to quash Communist activities, but methods are not in order. The committee is doing this and "should be continued" Among these arguments came several opinions that the Dies Press is "creating more than it has results" and that it is "just a publicity-seeking organization."

At former students from St. Thomas More Academy, Sister Mary Mimn, joined the Nazi exploratory forces on the Western front during the past month. Two of the volunteers were recruited by German sources to be Jeanne Little Lord Fauntleroy in a French pub lace in the Montmartre region. Their exact position is not known since the site of their location was bombed March 31.

The War Department is quoted as saying that they contemplate no action against the persons involved. "Let's wait and see Might get Mr. Hitler's dander up."

The annual Mardi Gras celebration will start at Agnes Scott College April 6. The royal couple receiving the largest number of student votes will rule over the Court of Kings at Mardi Gras. "Moon Magic" will be the theme of the floats, which will be altered by every succeeding day in the campus for the parade preceding Mardi Gras entertainment.

Youth hostels for Alabama are heralded by Myrtle Hunter Boyle, in newspaper of Alabama Polytechnic institute, and the project is spread over columns of comment giving an argument in one of her editorials.

Hostels, you know are inexpensive stopping places for hikers overnight accomodations for their journeys along the routes of tours through interesting parts of the country. They usually are located within 15 miles of each other, an easy day's travel afoot or by bicycle, and are practically mapped out in chains along trails and centers of interest to travelers. These hostels which are common in European countries are spread to Canada and parts of the United States, especially New England and Maryland. Although they are not luxury hotels, they are clean and comfortable and are always supervised by responsible adults. Nothing from a clean, new bed-room to a luxurious "room" at home can be used, with separately equipped sleeping quarters for men and women.

Cooking for own meals, touring afoot or by bicycle and hiking simply, a hostelier can easily tour for $1 a day.

Northern Alabama suggests the editor of the Auburn Plainsman, would be an ideal location for a chain of hostels. The striking scenic beauty and space of historic interests would make such young Alabama student tours to love his state better. It would also prove advantageous to the beginning of hostels throughout the south.

U. Of F. Politics Take Limelight

Current Campaigns Are Not Spectacular

By BILL REGA

You know that poem about cannons to the left of us—cannons to the right of us—? Well, substitute "politicians" for "cannons" and you have a fairly good picture of our campus. Every morning when we open our doors, two or three tons of literature come down on our heads—that is everything but cash was in tough the stuff to get to our doors. Petitions were held yesterday and the Alligator is coming out today just to get election returns in by early. We'll tell you who is what next week.

The Sleck and Bridle club started the political rodeo this weekend, sharing honors with the engineer's fair. Rodeos are always a lot of fun—watching the bronc busters and calf ropers riders on the back of their necks —and this rodeo promises to be no exception.

There is to be a real wiz west show Saturday afternoon as a preliminary to the evening rodeo. Riders in the parade will come from the Sleck and Bridle and the Alachua county cattlemen's association, we hear.

Florida's embryo engineers put on a real show last Saturday when they present their sixth annual fair. Built about the theme of "Engineering's Contribution to Production, Discovery and Conservation in the United States," the fifth year's big show is pushing all available evidence that engineering students are an active engineering experiment station here.

Tally gals are in engineering but we know little about it than this correspondent. But it should be interesting to investigate the mysteries of the electrical, mechanical, chemical, aeronautical and civil activities at skill. We might even learn something.

And the engineers are going to have an oscilmeter to test kissing, we hear. Is that right, Ossie Smith. Oh boy!

The Florida Blue Tuesda- will its usual shenanigans. The program started with a half hour of "Music No Difference Now." imitating Lombardo's Dorsey's Clambake Seven, and Glenn Miller. Then comes "Music No Difference Now" version—but then who could hope to possibly top that?

Kappa Alpha came out tops in the fraternity quartet and the Florida Players in the Mo, the Hyde House or Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. The Mo was just about the way it sounds —we still don't see it.

Not to mention in connection with politics that the rallies are getting spectacular with the speeches and cheers, as usual. Everybody is for Bob Rose for Governor—but then who could hope to possibly top Bob Rose?

Former Graduate Gets Personnel Scholarship

Barbara Cleland, Florida State college graduate of 1936 has received a scholarship in personnel work, to Northwestern University in Chicago. While attending this college Barbara, who was a Phi Delta Kappa and French minor, worked in the personnel office there. After graduating she secured a position in the dean's office at the University of Florida.

Only five awards were given this year. If any one of them should be unable to accept the scholarship, Betty Markham has been chosen as alternate.

Department Orders 45 New Editions

Forty-five of the best current books on psychology, art, and recreation have been ordered for the library by the department of philosophy and religion.

These books purchased with the department's annual appropriation for the selection of necessary literature, will supply a three-fold demand. The books ordered are to be particularly needed for reference by students of the department and will also be used by the department in reading interests. In addition, this contribution will build up a collection of standard books by the greatest authors in both of the fields.

Among the most important new editions are: Whemane and Whetham's Religion and Science, Religion and William Osborne Stanley's Religion and Conduct. Clarity, both of which are available in the library now are books ordered are: Peter H Buck's Anthropology and Religion, Gilbert Murray's Five of the Bible. Volume I of the Bible of the World series. Ten Years of Things An Experimental Introduction to Philosophy of Science by W. P. Montague of Colombia University. The Arts and Man by Irwin Edman. The Arts and the Art of Criticism by Van Meter Ames and Esthetics and Art Appreciation: a History of Esthetics, by Gilbert and Kuhn.

Schornherst Plans Work On Doctorate

Miss Ruth Schornherst professor of botany, has been granted a year of absence from 1940-41 from Florida State College for Women, to enter the University of Minnesota and work for her doctor's degree She has been awarded the Sarah J. Cole fellowship from the Botanical department of the University of Michigan.

Having completed all her other course work Miss Schornherst is working on her thesis of the doctorate. Subject chosen by Miss Schornherst, chosen as an alternate for the award because of the fine work done in the field of botany since 1931.

The retiring president, Katherine Cleland, installed Cornella Watson as president; retiring chairman of judiciary, installed the incoming chairman, Carolyn Mims. Following the ceremony the new president took charge of the installation of the other executive, judiciary, social, and social regulence hall officers.

Dorothy Myrtle and Julia Posser furnished a background of music for the entire program.

Student Quartet Appears In Debut

The recently organized student quartet and a group of music majors gave a short recital last Wednesday afternoon in the college auditorium. This marked the first appearance in recital of the student quartet, which will be featured later on evening programs.

The program was as follows: "To A Water Lily" by MacDowell with Clarice Cash at the piano; Beethoven's Sonata," Op. 10, No. 3, played by Myrtle Hoffman; the "Ritual Fire Dance" by De Falla played by Myrtle Hoffman followed by "Allegretto" from Sixth Quartet by Haydn, also presented by the student quartet. Catherine Gray Pinner concluded the program with "Chaconne" by Bach-Busoni. In the quartet are, Virginia Rouse, first violin; Myra Swindell, second violin; Dorothy de Graffenried, viola; and Maryrue Barnes, cello.

Moore Announces Fund Contributors

Over $2,000 out of the $10 000 needed for the furnishing of the new Auditorium-Music Building has been deposited in the bank, according to Fred D. Moore, executive secretary of the Alumnae association of the state college and chairman of the building committee.

Tallahassee citizens have shown their appreciation of the college and its students by generously contributing liberally to their support. Among the contributors to Alumnae association are the Capitol Beautification Club, Florida Insurance Company Elberta Crate Crownwood's Bakery, Christianity, both of which are available in the library now are books ordered are: Peter H Buck's Anthropology and Religion, Gilbert Murray's Five of the Bible. Volume I of the Bible of the World series. Ten Years of Things An Experimental Introduction to Philosophy of Science by W. P. Montague of Colombia University. The Arts and Man by Irwin Edman. The Arts and the Art of Criticism by Van Meter Ames and Esthetics and Art Appreciation: a History of Esthetics, by Gilbert and Kuhn.

Gifts from Alumnae include several checks ranging from $5.00 to $25.00. Dr. Conradi, president of the college, and Mr. J. O. Kellum, business manager, were among the first to contribute to the large sum given by the faculty and staff. Through the efforts of Dr. Gardiner, $175 was cleared.

Pi Beta Phi sorority was the first active chapter to make a gift to the new Florida State College campus to present a donation to the L. Hendon auditorium building fund. Minnie Bellamy, member of Pi Beta Phi, recently became the first alumnae donor to the building fund.

Officers Take Oath In Annual Service

Annual installation of the thirty-two recently elected officers of college government association took place Monday night in front of the Union hall as the out-going officers lighted the candles of the new leaders in the traditional symbolic ceremony.

The retiring president, Katherine Cleland, installed Cornella Watson as president; retiring chairman of judiciary, installed the incoming chairman, Carolyn Mims. Following the ceremony the new president took charge of the installation of the other executive, judiciary, social, and social regulence hall officers.

Dorothy Myrtle and Julia Posser furnished a background of music for the entire program.

Flambeau Staff Will Edit Daily Democrat April 20 Instead Of April 13

The Flambeau staff will edit the Daily Democrat on April 20 instead of April 13 as previously announced. The postponement was effected because the constitution examination is to be given on that date and because of other conflicting activities.

Members of the staff will serve as editor for the edition with Muryl Roland as managing editor and Mabel Bennett as associate editor. Staff members and reporters of the Flambeau will work on the publication.

Conradi, Hinson, Andrews Will Attend Convention

Dr. Edward Conradi Dr. Elisabeth Gordon Andrews director of personnel, and Dr. Murphy Roy Hinson, professor of education, will attend the meetings of the Southern Association of College Deans for Women and the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to be held next week in Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Andrews will speak on "Extra-Curricular Guidance" at a meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges for Women, of which Dr. Conradi is president. Dr. Hinson is on the executive committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Convention Draws Four Sociologists

The Southern Sociological society will draw four members of the college sociology department to its fifth annual meeting in Atlanta, Georgia, April 4 and 5.

Professors planning to attend are Dr. Raymond Bellamy, head of the sociology department; Dr. Coyle Moore, associate professor of sociology; Marjorie Barrar Britt, assistant professor of sociology; and Mrs. Coyle Moore.

Moore the membership committee has increased the roster of the Southern Sociological society from last year's 210 to the present 275. Dr. Bellamy will serve on the executive committee and Mrs. Britt will appear on the public relations committee.

Subjects to be emphasized at the meeting include problems in race relations, population and regional studies, the effects of federal action programs in the South, teaching of sociology and race and culture.

Students To Give "Concise Account"

"A Cinderella fairy tale with an ironical New England touch" is the description given Sophie Smith, associate professor of clothing and textiles, describes her new play "Concise Account," which will be produced by the Florida Players May 9 and 10 in the Augusta Conradi auditorium.

Miss Smith has used a novel method of play action with two scenes appearing before the curtain at the beginning of the play to set the stage. The scene flashes back ten years to the "waiting room" of a New England home, and the action of the story begins. The conversation of the two villagers forms the one act of the play.

The characters include, besides the gossipers, the heroine who is a drudge in the home of her aunt; the aunt; and the ethereal "prince charming," the adventuresome sailor from the Orient.

The title of the Play "Concise Account" was accordine to Miss Smith, suggested by a phrase in the book Northern American Rural Life, written last year, is now in the fifth edition of a volume of short-story plays published by the Row-Patterson company.

Within the play are many main interests. Miss Smith "never knows which is her vocation and which her avocation." She has portrayed many Shakespearean roles, including Rosalind, Portia, and her favorite, Lady Macbeth. She is a playwright, actress, directs, writes, and does art work.

The play was recently presented in Lecture hall by a student group.

Palmer Elected 4-H Head

Frances Palmer was elected president of the college 4-H club at a business meeting held at the reanisation yesterday afternoon.

Frances also received the honor of the club this year, and Ruth Sanderson, a candidate for graduation in May, is the incoming president.

The other officers elected were as follows: vice-president Rodelle Kelley, secretary Dorcas Stone; assistant secretary Lillian Hall; treasurer, Vera Ray; parliamentarian, Reley Hensley; program chairman Mary Smith; freshman advisor, Ruth Hendricks; and social chairman, Velora Manning.

WORRIED

About Casual Clothes for House Parties?

WILSON'S

Have the Last Word

In

GANTNER BATHING SUITS

GOTHAM SLACK AND PLAY SUITS

CASUAL STREET AND SPECTATOR SPORT DRESSES

UPSTAIRS AT

WILSON'S

—ESTABLISHED 1837—

¼ OFF

On All Suits, Coats and Dresses

MAE'S SHOP

Phone 78

Vermont Students Win Debate

The University of Vermont debating team won a decision debate over Florida State College for Women Tuesday afternoon on the subject, Resolved: That the United States should follow a policy of strict isolation toward all nations outside the western hemisphere and engaged in armed international or civil conflict.

Representing the University of Vermont were Gertrude Johnson and Eleanor Dody who debated the negative side of the question for the visitors. Debaters for the college team were Margaret Christie Harrison and Helen Hawkins Bond. Dr. Linnea Sorenson, professor of history, Professor Earl L. Vance, associate professor of English and journalism, and Professor W. B. Renfroe, instructor in economics and social science, were the faculty members who judged the debate.

Joan Weaver, chairman of the Florida State college team, stated that the Florida team considered the win over the first woman's team to debate here.

Dorman Appoints Personnel Group

In accordance with the policy of the college to place all women in building a guidance and educational program in the student body which is closely allied with the daily lives of the students, Dean Olivia Dorman has added this year to her staff of social directors, a group trained in student personnel administration.

The appointment of trained personnel workers in our residence halls is in keeping with the approved policy in colleges throughout the country To avoid the undesirable regimentation of students too often resultitng from the large size of student bodies an effort is being made by the personnel workers in the services of colleges by closer attention to the individual and her personal needs.

The great need for such training in social adjustment is the number of institutions which are offering courses in the field of student personnel administration Some of the most notable among these are Columbia university, Syracuse university, Ohio university, and Boston university. All of these institutions require a bachelor's degree or its equivalent as a prerequisite for admission to the graduate school of personnel administration. Most of these schools accord graduate training including a wide knowledge of the field of psychology. Several years of teaching or equivalent experience is also required. The graduate course also has recently offered a summer course for social directors and sorority chaperons

The field of personnel work in colleges and high school is a growing one and there is a great demand for trained workers. Southern women to fill such positions. The personnel staff of Florida State College for Women is headed by Dean Dorman through experience on the ram-

Watson Heads SIASG

Cornella Watson was recently elected president of the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Government while attending the S.I.A.S.G. meeting at Shorter college, Rome, Ga.

By virtue of her new position Cornella will be at the executive meeting of the National Student Federation of America in New Orleans. April 11 through 15.

Class Studies Birds By Film

Maybe you think field trips can't be taken at night up here but the ornithology class and it's instructor, Miss Lucile Quarry, are the same time!

It happened when Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Beadel, friends of Miss E. J. Komarek of the botany department, recently loaned the class and its instructor, Miss Enda Dorsey, out to their estate Tall Timbers, near Tallahassee. Mr. Beadel, writer and sportsman, has many natural learning pictures which he has edited in conjunction with Mrs. Beatrice Beyer Williams, professor of art.

Seated in the midst of a darkened trophy room and surrounded by guns, mounted deer horns bear heads, and stuffed birds the class saw six films of about 35 different kinds of birds. These birds were "shot" on or near Tall Timbers, on Lake Iamonia, on Dog Island, and at the Ft. Gaines Wakulla bird reservation.

Except for a film on turkeys, all of the pictures were in color and showed the birds in their natural habitats feeding, courting, swimming, and walking around. Closeup shots as well as distant views were present d on the screen and each bird was properly titled

It is hoped that we will be able to make pictures of birds in natural uncontaminous surroundings, said Mrs. Beadel described to the students his method of approaching birds. He uses a blind, either a blind or outdoor shelter of branches, constructed on the spot which the would-be bird actors frequent most or where they feed. This he moves a little each day before he actually takes the pictures so that the birds will become accustomed to the outline of the shelter. When everything is in readiness he gets into the blind and sits for half a day at a time or longer with his camera and waits for the birds.

The use of a blind enables one to approach within three feet or an arm's distance away from the center of activity. The blind may be little attention to the noise of the camera and to the sight of the outline of the human body and thus the birds go about their usual movement. One picture, pointed out by Mr Beadel as illustrative of the remarkable patience of his subjects, showed a group of birds approaching the nest with food and feeding the young.

The birds were herons, geese, ducks, wild turkeys, and a great variety of small birds. The heron group the Green Heron, American Egret, Yellow Crowned

Graduate Collaborates On 22 Education Books

Miss Allie Lee Pelton, formerly of Waco, Fla and a graduate of Florida State College for Women is co-author of 22 books on elementary education. For a period of more than 20 years she has helped write these books in the home economics staff of the Winston Company, publishers, of Philadelphia.

Miss Pelton received her L.I. degree her in 1918 and her B.S degree in Education in 1928. She once served as superintendent of the college demonstration school and is a former member of the college Alumnae association.

The author collaborated on the series "Easy Growth in Reading" the books being used in the grammar school picture-book stage and continue through the third grade pus and women trained in professional schools, is contributing to the Florida state college for women of the college in personnelship education.

Scott Announces Editorial Staff

Business Staff Also Appointed at Banquet

Editorial and business staffs of the Flambeau for the coming year were announced Tuesday night by Margaret Scott, newly elected editor, at the annual Flambeau banquet held at Waverly Hall. Assisting Miss Scott will be Benson, recently elected business manager, appointed the two staffs.

Journalism boys were presented to the five most outstanding sophomore reporters on the Flambeau staff during the past year. Awarded keys were: Harriett Benson, Bella Yonge, Marguerite Dana, Jayne Mendenhall, and Pauline Dale

Those named on the editorial staff are managing editor Barb Mooney; associate editor, Sarah Worth; assistant editor, Margaret Painter; assistant managing editor, Dorothy Kinney; society editor, Jayne Mendenhall; news editors Marguerite Dana and Belle Yonge; feature editor Pauline Dale; sports editors, Betty Ann Taylor and Bertha Bond; society editor, Mary Frances Cress and Lucile Hall; picture editor Isabel Waterhouse; exchange editor, Mary Isabel exchanges, Doris Carter; student opinion editor, Grace Rumbley; book reviewer, Celeste Hardee; Collegiate Comebacks Isabel Hall; Mary Frances Trantham; and special writers, Mary Caldwell, Helen Hammond, Mary Isabel Hall, Jean Rigsley, Bettye Hyatt, Mabel Wilson, Marjorie Sanders, Jo Thomason, and Vadah Walker

Those who were appointed to the business staff assistant business manager Bertha Mandeville, circulation manager, Kitty Jo Hickman, and advertising manager, Jane Benson.

The new Flambeau staff takes over the duties with the current issue and continues until after next year's elections.

Students To Visit State Hospital

Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, professor of experimental physiology will talk the subject in applied psychology to Chattahoochee hospital tomorrow afternoon when the students will visit the state hospital.

According to Dr. Heinlein this purpose of the trip is to give the students an insight into some phases of small brain characterizes abnormal human beings. It is hoped that through observation the students will be able to observe some extreme cases of abnormal behavior. The study of social adjustment is part of the course in abnormal psychology

On Wednesday afternoon Dr. Heinlein will present a guest speaker a member of the Chattahoochee hospital staff. Dr. Philip Wolchell, psychologist at the hospital who has had a period of study of the abnormal behavior of human beings.

Night Heron, and Least Bittern were pictured. Cormorents were shown with Great Blue Heron and Canada Geese on the Wakulla reservation. Mallard ducks, pintail ducks and three kinds of ducks in the Rinsnecks Wood Ducks and Green Winged Teals made up another film. Other birds who' Mr and Mrs Beadel showed the group were the Purple Gallinule, Florida Gallinule, Coot, Spoter Cat-boro Willets, Black Skimmers, Downy Woodpeckers, Pileated Wood woodpeckers, and the Red Shoulder Hawk Gnatcatcher, the Loggerhead Shrike, Mockingbird, Warblers, and the Boat-Tailed Grackles.

SATURDAY SPECIALS

BENNETT'S

DRUG STORES

COLLEGE INN PHARMACY and MONROE ST. PHARMACY

Meet your friends at Bennett's two fountain cafes for luncheons and sodas

25c—HOT PLATE LUNCH AND SUPPER—25c

—YOUR CHOICE OF—

ROAST WHITE MEAT OF TURKEY AND DRESSING,

BARBECUE

GRILLED PORK CHOPS WITH SLICE PINEAPPLE

VIRGINIA BAKED HAM

HOT ROAST PORK or POT ROAST of BEEF with Brown Gravy

Your Choice of Three Fresh Vegetables

Hot Rolls, Muffins, Coffee, Tea or Buttermilk

15c Jumbo Ice Cream Soda with 2 scoops cream 8c

DRUGS AND SUNDRIES

Chocolate Sundae with Whipped Cream	10c	15c Carters Pills	19c
Chocolate Milk Shake, Ice Cream	10c	$1.00 Ironized Yeast Tablets	69c
50c Ipana Tooth Paste	39c	50c Vicks Drops	39c
50c Pintiflas Milk Magnesia	29c	$1.50 Value Jergins Lotion and Allpurpose Cream	79c
75c Listerine	59c	Evening in Paris Matched Face Powder, Lip Stick & Rouge	$1.00

Cacti, Stars, Wind, Themes For Three Sorority Formals

Three sororities, Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Alpha Xi Delta, will hold their annual formal dances Saturday night. The oriental theme of each dance will be carried out by decoration and refreshment committees.

Sombreros and cacti will characterize the Alpha Chi Mexican motif, "South of the Border." Chairmen for this dance are Judy Mohr, Elsie Burger, and Elsie Steele. Punch will be served.

The Alpha Gamma Deltas will feature a stardust theme in blue and silver decorations. Betty Macpherson heads the dance committee assisted by Harriet Adams and Sara Margaret Geiger. Mary Brice Deaver is in charge of refreshments.

The Alpha Xi Delta plantation ball will follow a "Gone With the Wind" theme. A white mint-flavored punch, and Southern music will be included in the decorations, refreshments, and entertainment respectively.

The date lists are as follows:

For Alpha Chi Omega: Gwynn Parker, Bill Nunn, Paul Pessler, Wallace Allen, Harold Altman, Bronze Cagle, Leon Bass, Egbert Rhodes, Kermit Barber, Walter Schairer, Millard Kelly, Pearce Cleveland, Donnie Hansen, Johnny Wills, Ralph Donaldson, Jack Byron, Donald Atwood, Wendell Liddell, Henry Lunsford, Mac Mosley, Jack Swann, Jimmy Roy Tableing, Mac Bishop, Tom Healy, Lamar King, Lester Logans, John McClellan, Johnny Pate, Jill Norvell, Burt Schuly, Tom Bassel, Bill Schairer, Millard Kelly, Pearce Claude Smith, H. C. Weidler, Joe Wright, Lamar Johnson, Bill Barnett, Yates, Edwin Trent, Billy Watkins, Henry Stegler, Buddy Berry, Speer Burdette, Bailey Clarton, Winston Clayton, Robert Dicky Byrant, Marlin Daniels, Russell Carlson, Jimmy Goldson, Wayne Burr, Jay Stewart, Sidney Willis, Ralph Donaldson, Jack Humphries, Livingston Dunlap, Billy DeWitt, Mac McHaughton, Hugh Phillips, Walter Purtz, Tommy Hunn, Carl Swain, Jimmy Walker, Kelly Ward, Frank Rose, Bill Benton, Conn Locke, Claude Hawkins, George Helow, Phillip Helow, Bob Bibb and Dick Lee.

Dates Listed

The Alpha Gamma Delta date list includes: Charles McPherson, Bill Hasford, Bill Pyrech, Joe Harmon, Eugene Nixon, Buddy Radford, Lamar Jones, John Port, Bill Bell, Don Cochran, H. T. Osgood, Leslo Douglas, Jack Zellmans, Hort Howard, Charlie McConnell, Bob Pratt, Kinny Eckfield, Maurice Austin, Billy Dickinson, John O. Perry, Bryan Bower, Brother Bynan, Richard Arnold, Dick Hasten, Carl Langley, Lee Roy Monroe, Roger Dean, Wallace Shefler, Dick Whitehead, Hillard Kelly, Jack Williams, Kelly Ward, Davis Knowles, Charles Harrison, Ted Welch, Norton Mullins, Jack Parque, Jr., John David Shanks, Fred Burkart, Godfrey Smith, Kenneth Yates, Hansford Watford, Jimmie Pindell, Herbert Cartwright, Tommy Merchant, Bobby Simpson, Frank Hubbard, Frank Thompson, Alan Hastings, Bill Halstead, Bill Small, Donald Wright, Mark Morrow, Jack Robinson, Robert Arnold, William Arnold, Ed Ward, Thommie Powell, Ernest Cox, Charles Sanderson, Louis Cubillas, Ralph Petner, Dawsos Dunlap, Fred Scott, J. M. Mock, George Harell, Edwin Sibley, Thomas Williams, Douglas Hall, George Brasile, Jim Wilson, Louis Gregory, Ed Rood, Bill Grimes, H. H. Graham, Bryan Barker, Buddy Carter, Danny Lane, John Gray, Phillips Hunter, Bob Edwards, French Gray, Buddy Davidson, John Walter Clark, George Sweet, Vernon Davis, Curtis Stanton, Billy Waites, Kenneth Wilson, Richard Loeau, Fred Seelman, Lawrence Madill, Campbell Tappan, Fred Paddock, Pat Ford, George Wait, Bob Patterson, W. H. Southcott, Jr. G. L. Jones, Charles Willis, Frank Pyle, Gordon Duncan, Cecil Parrington, Otis Partington, George Grimes, Joe Hodges, Bob Mahoney, J. W. Bagwell, George Sweet, James Watson, Oscar Mims, J. W. Wills, Waldo Hyman.

More Dates

Invited for the Alpha Xi Delta dance are: Donald Wright, Allen Ward, Leroy Waters, Johnny Pomeroy, Bobby Murnell, Kenneth Cookser, Bob Murphy, Bill Rickett, Bob Goodman, Dell Leyless, Graydon Pierce, Wayne Ala. D. I. Penn, Joe Di Dona, Dick Rich, Mac McCloud, Bill Liten, Hamilton Mathis, Lester Mathis, Fred Tittle, Glen Tittle, Kenneth Price, Richard, Earnest Rhodes, Elbert Williams, Bruce Chandler, Ralph Chandler, Phil Warchell, George Gregory, Louie Gregory, Don Bryan, D. J. Hamrick, Jack Johnson, Paul Pechos, Johnny Westling, Ernest Thompson, Shanning Rickett, William Gill, Butch Miles, Pal Saunders, Charles Parkd, Bill French, Jimmy Taylor, Grayden

Conradi Honored Tuesday At Alumnae Tea in Miami

President Edward Conradi was honored Tuesday afternoon at a tea given in Miami by the local alumnae chapter of this college at the home of Dr. Bowman F. Ashe president of the University of Miami and Mrs. Ashe.

Hostesses at the tea were alumnae of Florida State college who represented their respective sororities and places.

Gators Will Sing Tomorrow

Iembers of the University of Florida glee club who will appear on the stage of the college auditorium at 4 o'clock tomorrow night in their 20th concert are shown above. Their program will feature a college medley of songs from Dartmouth, Cornell, Maine, Wisconsin, Florida State college, and the university. They are sponsored by the college glee club.

FLORIDA SEMINARY FOR CHARMING WOMEN IS THEME OF FLAMBEAU BANQUET

Motif of the annual Flambeau banquet held at Wakulla Lodge Tuesday night centered on beauty culture, in which Florida State college for Women was featured as the "Florida Seminary for Charming Women." Miss Mabel Bennett, holder of the Doherty chair of manicuring and retiring associate editor of the Flambeau, was chairman.

Speakers for the occasion were interested members of the Seminary and included, Mlle. Murvi Roland, outstanding teacher of course dealing with the fine art of mud packing and Mr. Earl Vance, head of the journalism department, offering physical education 1118 a course on the spiral method of hair-waving "by the man who curls your hair with the tales he tells." Degrees of said professors bore such significances as P. D. Q., K. T. E. B. S., V. P., S. W. A. K. C. O. D., and I. O. U., awarded to the teachers in the School of Hard Knocks.

Student activities at the Florida Seminary for Charming Women show that they possess a chapter of exclusive "Holders of the Golden Hairpins" because they get in one's hair). A select few are members of the Gamma Mu Mu "honorary" (Get My Man) with Isabel Day as president and methods unknown. The Florida Flicker, student publication, whose aim is to spread the cult of beauty of the face and purity of the spirit was the third activity listed with Mabel Scott, president.

Programs were initialed "FSCW" (Florida Seminary for Charming Women) and three brilliantly laquered finernails symbolizing the three torches, pages were clipped together by means of bobby pins. Slogan of the college was "Every hand well-manicured and on every head a permanent wave." Decorations consisted of all kinds of beauty hints and preparations in bottles and other forms.

Special guests invited to the banquet were, Mr. Harold Richards, head of the committee on student publications, and Mrs. Richards; Mr. Earl L. Vance, of the journalism department, and Mrs. Vance; Mr. John Kilpore, managing editor of the Tallahassee Daily Democrat, and Mrs. Kilpore; and Bill Perkins and Joe Gardner, of the Democrat.

Members of the Flambeau staff attending the function were: Velma Pate, Belle Yonge, Mary Caldwell, Mary Celeste Bittle, Chaney Owen, Jayne Mendenhall, Marguerite Diaz, Holly Kinney, Pauline Dale, Louise Burner, Kitty Jo Hickman, Patsy McCraw Doris Carter, Vivian Ahlwedt, Jeannette Mullis, Betty Ann Taylor, Mabel Bennett, Mozer Scott, Sibyle Sanders, Murvi Roland, Sarah Worth, Helen Emmanuel, Anne Gaylord, Mary Ann Hall, Margaret Painter Isabel Day, Polly Douglas and Grace Sparkman.

Jeanette Faulds Elected President of Delta Zeta

The Delta Zeta sorority elected officers last Monday night for the coming year and planned a coffee for Saturday evening at 7:30.

Jeanette Faulds is the new president while Roselia Pinelli, Mary Vaughan, and Marjorie Dressler are vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively. Rosella Pignati is in charge of the coffee

French Club Program Features Talk, Songs

Several violin solos by Helen Dahlgreen, a talk on France by Gloria Morgan, and special duet numbers in French will be the main features of the French club program this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Broward lounge. The program is in charge of Marie Jeneau and will be preceded by a short business meeting.

At the meeting the role will be called in French, each person replying by giving the day of the month. The members of the club are planning to learn French folk dances and several girls in the club will demonstate native French dances.

Plans will be made at the meeting for an informal outing at Lake Bradford.

Omicron Nu Taps Six

Omicron Nu, home economics honorary, elected six students to its membership Tuesday. Those tapped were Minnie Dennis, Jean Phillips, Eleanor Shuman, Donna Hand, Edith Ott, and Kathryn Summers Powell.

The initiation banquet is scheduled to take place at Wakulla Springs Thursday at 6.30 o'clock. Old members of the honorary who will attend are Miss Wynnewood, Marie Pattani, Dot Townsend, Geraldine Brock, and Lolly Watrous.

Jones, Carl Snar- Joe Barclay Roger McCay, Henry Collee, Richard Paxton, Leon Sweat, Ralph Robinson, Tony Mannon, Harold Carswell, Emory Cloer, Fred Hatfield, Frank Hubbard, Bob Morris, D. G. Harvey, Lennie Kinner, Sonny Howard, Griffin Scribrough, Frank Cooper, Bob Kuhn, Loy Morrow Carl Hudson, A. P. Hollinsworth, D. R. Maloney,

College Calendar

April 7—April 15

Sunday

8:00—Y. W. C. A. Vespers—Westcott tower room.

Monday

8:30—Phi Kappa Phi initiation and banquet.

8:00—Faculty play night — gymnasium.

Tuesday

1:30—Convocation — W. A. A. installation and song service—auditorium.

8:00—Speech arts recital—Augusta Conradi theater.

Wednesday

4:30—Residence hall teas.

4:30—Student music recital—Auditorium.

8:00—Lecture—Mr. Arnold W. G. Kean, New York correspondent of Social-Demokraten (Danish Government newspaper), Augusta Conradi theater.

Thursday

6:30—Omicron Nu initiation and banquet, Wakulla Springs.

8:00—Speech recital — Augusta Conradi theater.

Friday

8:00—Alumnae college: Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings speaker, auditorium

Sofa day

8:30-12:30 a. m.—Alumnae college Leetdres Augusta Conradi theater

2:30—Business meeting of Alumnae Association, Augusta Conradi theater.

7:00—Alumnae banquet—Lower south dining hall, speaker, Dr. W. G Dodd

9:00—Reception south lawn of Student Alumnae building

Tri Delta, Kappa Delta Formal Receptions Will Honor College Faculty

Tomorrow afternoon the Delta Delta Deltas will give their annual faculty reception from 4:30 to 6 o'clock. Besides the entire faculty, chapter presidents and housemothers of all campus sororities are to be guests. At the receiving line will be Dr Margaret Banks, dean of the school of home economins: Mrs. B. K. Scott, housemother; Caroline Collins and Mary Virginia Day. Marjorie Jessup and Jamie Brown will receive at the door

Decorations for the reception will feature pansies, the chapter flower. The serving committee is composed of Rita Young Barbara Williams, Jeanne Lifer, Sarah Williamson, Audrey Atherton, and Lucy Rountree.

Next Wednesday afternoon at 4:30, the Kappa Deltas will entertain at a faculty reception. Spring flowers will decorate the entire house. Tea will be served outside on the terrace in the committee are: Hope Mc'ain, chairman of invitations; Jimmy Fain, chairman of flowers and Rosalie Perry, chairman of refreshments.

The newly elected officers will be in the receiving line. They are: Anne McMorris, president; Mary Carlton, vice-president; Beth Rickards, secretary; Betty Nickinson, editor; Margare Mc-

Cotillion Fetes Village Vamps at Weiner Roast

Member sof the Cotillion club were hostesses at a wiener roast and coca-cola party given last night for the Village Vamps.

Vivian Adamo had charge of arrangements for the party, which took place at the Alpha Delta Pi house

A similar entertainment is given by these two organizations on alternate years, the Village Vamps having given a bridge party last year for the Cotillion club.

Parkhill Crowned Queen At Fifth Annual General College Coronation Ball

Gene Parkhill, representing Alpha Delta Pi sorority, was crowned queen of General College at the fifth annual coronation ball of the University of Florida last Saturday night.

To the music of Jack Teagarden's orchestra, the coronation ceremony began at 10:30 o'clock. The members of the court walked one by one toward the stage through a wide aisle down the center of the ballroom as the court had taken its place, a trumpet blast announced the presentation of the queen. Gene was presented and crowned with a crown of white carnations.

Members of the court attending Gene were Jeanne Mock, Melvin Cooke, Emma Jean Hobbs, Louise Crosby, Mary Ann Pat Hansen, Betty Nelle Dempsy Guthrie, and Kate Reich.

Bryan Hall Students To Use South Sea Islands As Theme Tomorrow

Saturday night from eight until eleven-thirty, the students in Bryan Hall are giving a dance under the supervision of Miss Anne Pace, director. The dance will be held in the main atrium and the main parlor of the dormitory.

The theme of the dance is South Sea Island, and the dance floor will be decorated to represent the tropics. Music for dancing will be supplied by a nickelodeon.

Refreshments of punch will be served during the dance, and individual green and white frosted cakes and mints will be served at intermission.

Alvena Alderman is in charge of invitations, and Hazel Simons and Dot Henderson are serving as co-chairmen for the dance programs.

EVERYBODY'S ASKING FOR 'EM

-the Busiest Cigarette in America

IT'S LEAP YEAR PATSY HOW ABOUT ASKING ME?

O.K. PAUL.. HAVE A CHESTERFIELD THEY SATISFY

featuring PATSY GARRETT and PAUL DOUGLAS of FRED WARING'S CHESTERFIELD PLEASURE TIME Listen in Five Nights a Week 89 N. B. C. Stations

When smokers turn to Chesterfield they enjoy all the good qualities a cigarette can give. Chesterfields are DEFINITELY MILDER... Chesterfields are COOLER-SMOKING ... Chesterfields TASTE BETTER.

These three good things and everything about Chesterfields . . . their size, shape and the way they burn . . . make them the cigarettes that SATISFY.

Chesterfield

Today's Definitely Milder, Cooler-Smoking Better-Tasting Cigarette

Copyright 1940, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Close-up for Spring

ANN SHERIDAN Star of CASTLE ON THE HUDSON A WARNER BROS. Picture

LUXABLE!

Close upon the heels of Spring come new Freshy Playclothes worn by the loveliest young silver-screen stars! Mademoiselle and Picture Play highlights their sparkling spirit and talented loves. Try them out on your public and see how easily you'll steal the scene! Back-Beauty playsuit, with box-pleated shorts, back-button skirt, back-button shirt pastel in fresh, drop-tone in back. Fine spun rayon that blanches like a charm in gentle LUX. Linen Blue & Royal, Sring & Terra Cotta, Pink & Raspberry, Grey & Pink. 10-20. . . . . $6.50

the VOGUE tallahassee, Florida

feminine wearables

Constitutionally Yours, Future Teachers!

a. ue

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, April 12, 1940

VOLUME XXVII NUMBER TWENTY-THREE

Welcome Back, Alumnae!

Ash Will Reign As Queen of May At Annual Fete

Nineteenth Century Austria To Furnish Theme for Festival

Connie Ash, a senior, has been chosen as the queen of the May day festivals to be held on the archery field Saturday, May 4 at 4 o'clock. The nineteenth century Austrian theme centers around one individual, the queen.

The queen has been announced prior to the festival because in the past it has been most difficult to keep her identity a secret. This plan also follows the policy of other colleges.

Approximately 20 students will take part in the presentation of the festival. The queen will have her girls in her court.

Committee chairmen responsible for the May day program, include: Martha Robbins, chairman; Betty Blair and Sonia Mitchell, assistant chairmen; Mary Pierson, electa; Mary Lou Mackbeven, stage; Sarah Worth, publicity; Mary Margaret Clark, maids' dresses; Nanna Kurts, costumes; Muriel Erwin, properties; Carolyn Collins, programs; Miss Kemper M Moore, script; Miss Sarah Hirrobird, advisor; and Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson, dance instructor.

In 1815 the May day theme centered around a pageant in honor of Shakespeare's three hundred and fifty-fifth birthday. The program in 1816 was similar to the annual May day presentation but was called a fete instead. The elaborate pageant, the History of the Year 1816, was staged in 1817.

In 1924 the open air theater served as setting for the May day program that year which featured a Grecian theme. A musical pageant "Daniel and Pandora" likewise was presented in honor of the May queen at that time.

Last year the May day program which was held on the athletic field, carried out in the theme the search for ultimate perfection of beauty through the different people who have ruled over Florida at one time.

Glee Club Elects Hunter President

At a meeting of the college glee club held Wednesday night Phyllis Hunter was elected president for the coming year. Other officers who were elected were Marybelle Wright, vice-president; Katherine Call, secretary-treasurer; and Delia Montero, business manager.

The first meeting of which the new officers will have charge will be a trip to Gainesville next Friday for a concert sponsored by the Lyceum council. Members of the executive board of the club will make the trip, leaving here Friday morning and returning that afternoon after the concert.

The glee club for the first time sponsored the University of Florida glee club at a concert here last weekend.

Wesley Foundation Installs Officers

At 8:00 Sunday afternoon installation services were held for officers of the student council of Wesley Foundation will be held at the Methodist church.

Those officers were elected last Sunday by the Methodist student group and include Emily Phillips, president of the council; Elizabeth Whittington, first vice-president; and Gertrude Spetlel, second vice-president. Those officers were nominated by three councils, freshman, junior, and senior, and voted upon by the entire Methodist student body.

Other members of the council are: Mary Louise Anderson, treasurer; Frances Hall, secretary; Donna Will Brown, worship; Madge Clayton, music; Norma Lee McCrea, social service; Virginia Brooks, publicity; Katherine Bryan, off-campus; Mildred Abernonthy; Linnie Lou Gautier, recreation; Ola Belle Tillman, drama-tics; Alldene Sweet, alumnae; Martha Whitehurst, chairman of Senior Fellowship hour; Ruth McCain, campus church relations; Mary Nell Yon, chairman of student house; Gwendolyn Philbeck, vice-president of Sunday school class; Virginia Perry, president of Sunday school class. Mary Hughston, secretary of Sunday school class; and Martha Knowles, treasurer of Sunday school class.

May Queen

Connie Ash, the senior who has been elected May Queen, will be crowned at the annual May festival to be held on the archery field. This is the first year the identity of the queen has not been kept secret until the occasion.

Speech Honorary Has Famed Guest

National President To Be Entertained

Miss Mildred Streeter, national president of Zeta Phi Eta, professional speech arts fraternity, will visit the local chapter on Monday and Tuesday of next week Miss Streeter, who is director of dramatics in the Yonkers public school system and free lance Little Theater director, will be the second national president to visit this chapter since it was installed here three years ago.

Included in the entertainment honoring Miss Streeter will be a dinner at the Three Torches on Monday evening, at 6:30 o'clock and a luncheon at the Gaspe hotel on Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock.

Pledging of new members of Zeta Phi Eta will take place Sunday night at 9 o'clock in the studio of Miss Elizabeth Thomson, faculty advisor. Those girls issued bids are: Lois Miller, Betty Rose Scott, and Sarah Dale Bryant. Initiation will take place the last of April.

Recently elected officers of the honorary are: Jean Weaver, president; Marie Crouch, vice-president; Beth Blair, corresponding secretary; Frances Ellen, recording secretary, and Martha Whitehurst, treasurer.

Out-going officers include: Louise Usher, president; Betty Jane Jaco, vice-president; Irene Bannerman, secretary; and Joan Weaver, treasurer.

FSCW To Cut Out Lab, Course Fees

No laboratory or course fees will be charged at Florida State college next year, but there will be a slight increase in the expenses, according to a report from Dr. S. Dorfe, registrar.

This is the only college as far as Mr. Doyle knows which will not charge any extra fees next year, but this will be counteracted by an increase of eight dollars in the registration fee and a five cent increase in the post office box rent fee. The former was $12 and will now be $20. Dorm fees will remain the same, now be $1.30.

The two changes are the only radical ones in the 1939-40 college catalogue, which will be distributed at the beginning of April. A minor change will be a five hour limit on the registration. This is the first time any such fine has been charged.

Regarding the color and design of the cover, the paper to be used and the kind of type, have not be as little change as possible from last year. Jacque Le Seyne, color and design of the cover, the paper and the type. Approximately 5,000 copies will be distributed to interested persons.

State Board Will Convene

April 16 is the date which has been set for the annual board meeting of institutions of higher learning of the state of Florida. Dr Edward Conrad, president, and J. G. Kellum, business manager of Florida State college will attend the meeting, which will be held in Jacksonville During this meeting, the budget for the next school year will be considered.

FSC Orchestra To Give Concert Next Wednesday

28 College Students And 7 Townspeople Compose Personnel

The college orchestra, under the direction of Walter R. Graves, professor of theory, will give the second concert of the season Wednesday night at 8:15 o'clock in the college auditorium.

Twenty-eight Florida State college students and seven townspeople will compose the orchestra which will offer the following program.

Symphony in G. Minor. Allegro Molto, Minuetto Allegro, Finale Allegro Assai (Mozart); Prelude No. f in C major (Bach-Cowles) ; Prelude No. 22 in B flat minor (arranged by the class in instrumentation). Those preludes are from the first volume of "The Well Tempered Clavichord." The arrangement of Prelude No. 2 in B minor Concerto for piano and orchestra in G minor, opus 25 (Mendelssohn) ; Molto allegro Molto Allegro con Fuoco; Betty Graves: Prelude and Fugue No. 8 in D flat Minor (Bach-Cowles), from the first book of "The Well Tempered Clavichord" (orchestral version in E minor); Concerto for piano and orchestra in A minor, Opus 16 (Grieg); First movement, Allegro Molto—Ruby Hunter.

Personnel of the orchestra includes: Violins, Ruth Rogers, Elizabeth Rose, Doris Jackson, Jerry Swindall, Mary Reed, and Mary Conrad; violas, violins Helen Dahlgren, Freddie Lu Suhr. Diana Wynne, Jean Cunningham

Continued on Page Six

Journalist Says Denmark Is Wise

"It's Touch And Go!" He Declares of War

"Democratic Scandinavia and the Wars" was the title of the lecture delivered by Mr. Arnold W. G. Kean, New York correspondent of the Danish government paper, Politiken, Wednesday night in the Augusta Conrad theater.

Mr. Kean, an Englishman who has taught at Cambridge university and whose father-in-law was a member of the Danish senate, left Scandinavia only after he was impressed with the peace and appreciation he found in these northern countries.

During his speech and in answering questions after the talk at once afterward Mr. Kean developed these points: Denmark was unable in not resisting Hitler; the end of the war cannot safely be predicted; no one knows where Hitler will strike next; the relationship between the United States the United States and not free from suspicion by Hitler even if the Germans conquer Europe; the outcome of the war depends on the Russian supply the gasoline and iron Hitler is able to secure.

Geographic accessibility, lack of armaments, and a population of but three million, Mr. Kean says has been the chief factors in Denmark's inability to resist Hitler.

Continued on Page Two

Bellamy's Scrapbook Furnishes Wealth of Material on Alumnae

Each Page Devoted to One Girl's History; Cartoons and Printing Show College Life

Statistics may furnish an abundance of facts, information, but Dr. Raymond Bellamy's fact-famed scrapbook offers far more entertaining human interest data . . . at least if you wish to know about graduates in the field of social work. To outward appearances the book resembles a huge stack of vividly decorated manila sheets of paper. On further examination the true nature of the book is revealed. A personal history is given for each title been name. Each page is devoted to one girl, and the gay colors splashed across the page be anything from multi-colored cartoons according to the various cartoons representing some activity of the girl to the large career . . . usually on the identified side.

On turning the pages, a panoramic view of sociology students is secured, including their activities and after graduation. Edith Webb, '26 did social work in Jacksonville for several years Adelle Wynne, '23, did graduate work at William and Mary. Margaret Sawyer, '23, first girl to do graduate work in sociology from this school, attended John Hopkins on receiving fellowship. is now doing social work in Tampa and is married to Lucille Morgan, '30, studied at University of Chicago, did work afterward and held executive position in Georgia. Eva Greenstein, now Mrs. Krom Kromer, did graduate work at Washington university, St. Louis, Mo., PERA work in Jacksonville, was married but has kept in touch with social work.

Katherine Byrd, now one of the Landis Hall social directors, '22,

Continued on Page Two

75 Will Attend Business Meet

College Will Be Part Of Convention Site

Affording part of the convention site of the Southern Association of College University Business Officers, Florida State college for women expects to receive approximately 75 visitors today and tomorrow. This announcement was made by J. G. Kellum, college, Business manager who is a former president of the association.

The convention headquarters will be at the Doyle hotel where registration was to begin at 9 o'clock this morning. Luncheon will be served for the convention delegates at the Floridan room on Lake Bradford at 1 o'clock, and a banquet will be given at the local Three Torches Inn at 7:30 tonight. The visitors will see the campus by the Alumnae.

Mayor P. C. Moon of Tallahassee, also college physician, will welcome the delegates officially with for a general introduction, the reading of the minutes, announcements, discussions and an address, "Civil Costs in Universities and Colleges" by Dr. Christenson, controller at the University of Chicago.

On the afternoon program will be an address, "Federal Assistance in Support of Higher Education," by J. Harold Goldthorpe, member of the staff of the National Council on Education, which will be followed by a discussion and closing meeting tour. Phil S. Taylor of the land-grant college of agriculture will deliver the address at the banquet tonight.

Tomorrow morning program is a brief discussion of question box topics such as bookstores, cafeterias, and delivery systems. Following the discussion will be reports on auditing, purchasing, purchasing, inventories, and other business management items. Election of officers will close this meeting.

Rogers To Talk At Leon

Dr. William Hudson Rogers, professor of English at Florida State college for women, has been invited to make the Commencement address on April 16 for the graduating members of Leon high school.

Rogers Selected Federal Interne

Commerce Major To Be One of Ten in Nation

Ruth Rogers, senior commerce major, has been selected as one of the ten college women to be granted an internship in the federal government at Washington, D. C., next year.

Miss Rogers is first student of Florida State college to receive this honor. She will be placed in one of the executive governmental offices as a full-time student observer and assistant in a training period extending over nine months' time beginning next fall.

Among the requirements for eligibility to this position are a Bachelor's degree with a well organized college, high scholastic standing, exceptional qualities of character, ability, and aptitude for the leadership a position of this set in public affairs, good health, and United States citizenship.

Miss Rogers has taken a prominent part in campus activities throughout her four years of co-lege. Ruth was chief justice of the student council, the International Relations club, Baptist student council, and Pi Kappa Delta forensic club. has served as a freshman counselor and as a junior counselor. Reynolds hall. She was awarded the cup given by the local chapter national senior honor society, to the junior with the highest scholastic standing at the end of the two Gilchrist scholarships and was awarded the Phi Kappa Phi as chairman of the student budget committee. This year she also made president of Mortar Board society, became a member of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science society, and was chosen by the student body as one of the "Seminoles" to live on senior hall. She is also listed in the current volume of Who's Who Among Students of American Colleges and Universities.

An internship with the national institute of public affairs is given to the highest ranking senior student one year by a member of the faculty. Dr. Thorsten Sellin, Schuck, professor of history and political science.

New Freshmen Counsellors Are Named in Senate

Dorman Is Speaker At Initial Meeting Of Group Tuesday

Last Tuesday night marked the first meeting of 16 new freshman counsellors. Dean Olive Dorman spoke to the group in Jennie Murphree parlor on the part the counsellors play in the formation of the freshmen, and on their general attitudes.

Two previous meetings have been held for all those interested in holding such a position, but this last one was restricted to the newly selected advisers and their 15 alternates. The next meeting will be held Tuesday night in Jennie Murphree parlor, at which time five students will lead a panel discussion on "What Freshmen Should Know."

Under the handling, the college its government, and living arrangements will be explained. Those students who will speak at this time will be: Martha Murphy Wilma Johns, Jane Brown, Betty Mckinnon, and Marjorie Harris. Miss Georgia McCorkle, social director of Jennie Murphree hall, is in charge of this meeting.

Counsellor Course Given

The counsellors were selected last Monday afternoon by students and faculty members who had been suggested by Dean Olive Dorman, Jennie Murphree hall directors, and sophomore counsellors. They will take a training course during the remainder of the semester and will be asked to read books and articles recommended in the bibliography in the back of their training manual. The class meetings, of which there will be approximately 10, are to be present at freshman advisory council meetings.

Freshman counsellors will also conduct individual conferences with new freshmen in the

Continued on Page Five

School Of Music Presents Recital

A short student recital of piano and organ selections was presented Wednesday afternoon in the college auditorium by the music school.

The program included: Allegro Maestoso from Sonata in C minor by Heiler, played by Lois Carlos; the first movement of Greig's Sonata in G major, Allegro con Molto Moderato, op. 17, No. 3 (Chopin), played by Sara Skinner; Mozart's Concerto in C major No. f7, Allegro, by Myrtle Hoffman; Danse de Daphnis et Eleen (Rasbi); Nocturne, op. 55, No. 2 (Chopin), by Pauline Morrow; Concerto in A minor, Grieg, played by Edna Warren

The organ selections were two chorale preludes by Bach, My Heart is Filled With Longing, with Dorothy Howard as the soloist, and Oh Man, Bemoan Thy Grievous Sin, with Mary Margaret Call. Ruby Dunstan played two Etudes by Chopin: Canberine Grey Pinkie played Rondo by Mozart. In The program was brought to a close by Gaillard Waring's Fox-trot tragico (Castelmonovo-Tedesco) played by Miss Kathleen Gruppe, director of Jennie Murphree hall.

Lecturer

Professor S. Stephenson Smith (above), who is the educational counsellor for the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, will be on campus next Thursday for the purpose of giving three lectures on theater and radio work.

Smith To Talk Here Thursday

Counsellor Will Deal With Stage Problems

Stephenson Smith, educational counsellor for the American society of composers, authors, and publishers, will lecture next Thursday. His topics will be of a practical nature, problems that are dealt with everyday on the stage, screen, and radio. He is said to be an authority, consequently his lecture critic in his own right.

The first lecture will be delivered in the Auditorium Conradi theater at 10:30 o'clock Mr. Smith's topic will be "Transferring Plays or Short Stories to the Radio." At 11:30 o'clock he plans to discuss "Music and Design in the Theater" With students at the Little Theatre, Smith will take as his subject at the 1:30 symposium "Radio and Hollywood Talks Politics."

Although as professor of English and composition literature at the University of Oregon, from which he took his degree, Mr. Smith is regarded as an authority on the classics, he is known among the critics and reviewers as equally alert to present-day trends, particularly in the theater.

Mr. Smith knows the technique of the theatre from long experience in the staging of original college musical comedies, Gilbert and Sullivan works, and his own production of The Bryan's Opera, which he has revised to meet the most notable college presentations of the famous old show.

He is said to be equally at home discussing the war-time plays of Schoolhouse during the fifth century B. C. and the modern plays

Continued on Page Six

Committee Heads Named by Senate

At the regular meeting of student senate yesterday afternoon, Lillian Bowness was elected chairman of the auditing committee; Mary Ann Bryan, chairman of budget committee, Kathryn Camp, chairman of social committee, and Mary Caldwell, chairman of the usher committee. Members of committee will be composed of Mary Caldwell, chairman; Anne Bryan, and Betsy Ann Hall.

The place of traditions on this committee was discussed by the senation to be made at the next regular meeting.

Saturday a called meeting was held for the purpose of nominating senate officers for next year. meeting Gene Bryan, chairman of the organization committee appointed Dot Mckinnon, Elisabeth Rogers, and Chancey Oven to work with her.

Kellum Sets Opening Date For New Building

June has been set for the opening of the Student-Alumnae building, according to J. G. Kellum, business manager of the college. Miss Dempsey Creary, an alumna from Miami, will arrive to take charge of the building. It is not known yet whether or not the building will be entirely equipped, but it is certain that the main office will be Road construction around the infirmary and the new dining hall has been completed. Workers are now grading and beautifying the surrounding grounds.

Alumnae Return To Campus For Annual College

Active Citizenship Is Central Theme Of FSC Homecoming

"Active Citizenship" is the theme of Alumnae college weekend which begins here today and lasts through Sunday. Approximately 218 alumnae are expected and will be special guests of Landis hall.

Special guests to the formal affairs of the weekend are Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, the governor and his cabinet, the executive council, the administrative council, the supreme court justices, and the college faculties.

Mrs. Rawlings, famed Florida author, will open the homecoming with a lecture at 4:45 o'clock on the subject, "Part Into Fiction" in the college auditorium. An honorial sum will be charged for students and radio work.

Mrs. Rawlings is the noted writer of such best sellers as South Across Under, Call Young Un, Golden Apples, and her most recent work, The Yearling.

Politics Is Subject

At 6:15 o'clock tomorrow morning, discussions on political citizenship at the Augusta Conrad theater will open "Political Citizenship," Dr. R. S Cotterll professor of the American social and Individual to the Florida Courts," will lecture next Thursday. His topics will be of a practical nature, problems that are dealt with everyday on the stage, screen, and radio. He is said to be an authority, consequently his lecture critic in his own right.

The first lecture will be delivered in the Auditorium Conradi theater at 10:30 o'clock Mr. Smith's topic will be "Transferring Plays or Short Stories to the Radio." At 11:30 o'clock he plans to discuss "Music and Design in the Theater" With students at the Little Theatre, Smith will take as his subject at the 1:30 symposium "Radio and Hollywood Talks Politics."

Although as professor of English and composition literature at the University of Oregon, from which he took his degree, Mr. Smith is regarded as an authority on the classics, he is known among the critics and reviewers as equally alert to present-day trends, particularly in the theater.

Mr. Smith knows the technique of the theatre from long experience in the staging of original college musical comedies, Gilbert and Sullivan works, and his own production of The Bryan's Opera, which he has revised to meet the most notable college presentations of the famous old show.

He is said to be equally at home discussing the war-time plays of Schoolhouse during the fifth century B. C. and the modern plays

Continued on Page Six

Home Ec Honorary Holds Initiation

Initiation of the new members of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary, took place last night. The ceremony was held at 6:30 and held at Wakulla Lodge at 7 o'clock. Honorary colors of pink and lavender were used in the decorations and corsages of pink roses were given to the initiates. Those initiated were Jean Phillips, Eleanor Shuman, Donna Brown, Miriam Lawrence, Ruth and Kathryn Powell.

Members of the banquet were: Mrs. Ralph Eyman, Dr. Jennie Wilson, social economics; Miss Mrs. Kathryn Harris, Miss Helen Hickey, Lollie Watrous, Dot Richards, Mildred Abernathy, Alldine Brock, and Mary Vergows.

Brief History Shows Varied Activities of Alumnae Association

This weekend marks the thirty-first anniversary of the Alumnae association in this state.

In May, 1909, the association was organized with twenty girls as charter members. The first president of the new organization was the undergraduate of a scholarship which has continued until the present time and now bears the name of the late alumnae advisor and associate professor of English at the college, Miss Rowena Longmire Many other scholarships have been added since then, one in memory of which are in the form of loans to needy students. Eight college students are now recipients of these alumnae scholarships.

In 1930 the alumnae association celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary with a Silver Jubilee celebration. General chairman of arrangements for this affair was Mrs. E. C. Wilson (Dorothy Johnson) of Orlando.

In 1929, under the leadership had enlarged its activities so much that a part-time executive secretary was employed. She was Mrs. T. H. Wells of Ocala, was employed. She was the fall of 1930 was Laura Strunk, now Mrs. W. H. Leslie of Tallahassee, took this position and served in this capacity until February, 1939, at which time the present secretary, Miss Charlotte Stevens, became executive secretary for the association. Until 1935, college publicity was handled by the executive secretary of the alumnae association. However, at this time, Miss Rachel Pitchford, class of 1929, was employed as alumnae secretary, a position which she still holds.

From the early days of the alumnae association until the time of her death in August, 1939, Miss Rowena Longmire, was a guiding spirit and a moving force in the activities of the alumnae association, being always ready and willing to advise and serve the officers of the organization.

Mrs. Frank Moor (Beth Walton), president of the alumnae association, has announced that the building committee, plans were definitely started for the erection of the alumnae building on the campus this campus. This was an outgrowth of the long felt necessity of alumnae for over twenty years. At first step toward the building having been made by the class of 1926 when they gave a sum of money for the fund. Under Mrs. Moor's guidance the association has appointed committees to help secure funds for the erection of this building which is to be the Student-Alumnae building. At the present time the association has a drive for funds with, which to furnish the main floor of the building.

The first alumnae college was held on this campus in 1937 when Mrs. E. L. Benson, president of the association, and Miss Katherine Warren, chairman of the alumnae college, were leaders. This event was designed to take the place of the former annual homecoming at Thanksgiving.

During the past year, with Mrs. Moor again at he head, the alumnae association has brought four notable speakers to the college campus. These include Cornelia Otis Skinner, Ruth Bryan Rhode, Eleanor Roosevelt, and Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings.

Other officers the association feels that it has been able to bring about a closer relationship between the alumnae, students, and faculty.

Past presidents of the association include: Bessie Damon, Alice Durkee Cordon, Mary Call Collins, Jessie Partridge McCall, Myrtis Mitchell, Rowena Longmire Inga Olla Helsell, Katherine Montgomery, Lillian Page Hough Allie Lou Pelton, Elizabeth Conradi Beene, Caroline Le Pretiee McCollum, Clara Johnson Walsh Frances Tippets Johnson, Dorothy Johnson Nixon Cecil Jenkins Beeson, Beth Walton Moor, Willie Ione Gamble and Beth Walton Moor (second term).

Of The World

German Eater Demark ad Norway

With the new developments in Europe, all attention has been centered on the Scandinavia. The week began calmly enough with only reports of insignificant sea skirmishes. On Sunday Norway warned the warring nations that her bodies were washed up on shore. Suddenly without warning at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning in the German empire from a region of 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Netherlands, a proclamation was read in his place by Dr. Christian Colbjornsen, professor of experimental psychology. Another speech on foreign propaganda will be delivered by Professor Gerhard Hay, associate professor of education. A tea in honor of the session is open to anyone interested.

YWCA Announces Membership Drive

A spring membership drive to increase membership in the local drive was announced and a report on the state conference was given in charge of Y. W. C. A. meeting Monday afternoon.

The conference, scheduled for April 24-26, will seek members from the upper classes and the faculty, while the Y. W. C. A. will be host for freshmen. It is one of the biggest of the annual cabinet retreat and will be inaugurated this year.

Upon payment of the regular dues, women of the faculty are eligible to full membership and men become associate members.

Mary Lois Thomas, new president of the association, announced on the statewide conference of the Y. W. C. A. scheduled for week end. Other delegates to the conference were Dr. Anna Forbes Hazlett, member of the philosophy and faculty adviser of the group, Virginia Hamilton, Ann Cobb and Joan Kennedy.

The cabinet plans to revive a custom of several years past by holding weekly worship programs and cabinet meetings for cabinet members only.

The musical acts by Mary Greenleaf completed the program which was under the direction of Helen Hawkins.

Bellamy's Scrapbook Contains Valuable Material on Alumnae

Continued from Page One

is noted chiefly—in the scrapbook anyway—for calling her major "cute."

Marjorie Rawlings' social work in Jacksonville one summer . . . worked with Jacksonville Y. W. C. A. for a number of years.

M. Scott Turnbull and Barbara Bellamy studied together. Scott to be advanced to position of social worker in Jacksonville, without further study, other than that which she got at F. S. C. W.

Margaret Hatch received her Master's degree from the University of Chicago, served as administrator in Tampa, is now working in Miami, where she has specialized in child welfare. Sarah Benedict, awarded fellowship to Western Reserve, now in charge of social work in half of Jacksonville. Has specialized with colored people. She is also helping to start school of social work at University of Louisville.

Martha Whitaker is now doing child welfare work in East Lansing. Mich. Laura Mathis, '36, is employed as social worker in Jacksonville. Pat Foster, '37, now married, has been welfare worker in Miami. Is now living in Hubbard, so the scrapbook says. Marriage is the least any girl can do. Her junglining feature was the fact that Jane's glasses had rims, both of added at the university of Chicago.

Lorraine Harwick, '30, now Mrs. Robert H. Jackson, who is working in Jacksonville, attended Western Reserve; an official of that college wrote back that she did the best piece of work in sociology any student had done in the history of the school.

Others immortalized on campus by virtue of Dr. Bellamy's paste and paints include Cornita McFatter, Louise Barshal, Betty Wynn, Astrid Petersen, Elizabeth Kirby-Smith. Jean Tresdwell, Marjorie Weems, Evelyn Hoyle, Elizabeth Pierce, Mary Perrytal.

Ruth Rubin, '39, is now attending Tulane, doing graduate study in social work. Edna Mae Dunval '31 attended the New York

Vance Attends Chicago Meeting

Journalism Professor Is AAUP Delegate

Earl Lynn Vance, associate professor of English and journalism, left yesterday morning for Chicago to attend, as one of the southern regional delegates, a meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Association of University Professors of which he is a member. The Council, the ruling body of the organization, will be in session for two days, at which time the case of the New York professors Angell and Bertrand Russell will probably be discussed.

The Council is composed of three members from each region of the country. Other institutions sending delegates from the southern region, composed of ten southern states and Porto Rico, are Tulane University and the University of Alabama.

"Propaganda in Disguise," the speech which Prof. Vance was scheduled to give before members of the Alumnae council at 11:30

Haun, Longone, FSC Alumnae, Have Made Success as Musicians

Alumnae of School of Music Are Prominent In Concerts, Operas, And Motion Pictures

Perhaps the best known of the many alumnae of the school of music are two graduates who have been prominent within the last four years, Alumnae association medallions for their excellent work in this field. These musicians are Mrs Kathryn Reece Haun, who received her diploma in 1921 with a major in voice, and Mrs. Carol Perrenot Longone, who also distinguished herself as being the first graduate of the school of music, having received a B. M. degree with her major also in piano. The careers of these women since their graduation from college have been outstanding to an extent in musical study and work.

Kathryn Reece Haun, immediately after her graduation, was awarded a full scholarship in the Juilliard conservatory of music. She received her artist diploma from there, because a member of the faculty. Later, she received a Juilliard fellowship to study with Madame Gerhardt in New York city. She has appeared in Aeolian hall and appeared as Juliet in Gounod's opera, "Romeo and Juliet", was also featured in a production that was an ingenue lead in "Cocoanuts" with the Marx brothers, touring with them to the west coast; sang title roles in "Princess Chichen" and "Tosca" "Faust" with the London company in Australia, including the lead in "Falstaff", and made a series of 13 short sound features, all of them in color. She played in the feature picture "Animal Crackers" with the Marx brothers and sang the leading role in Schubert's "Blossom Time" in all the principal cities of the United States and Canada. She also had the principal part of dramatic stock in New York; had the lead in "All the King's Horses" in New York; played a season at the Grand Opera house in Chicago. For the seasons of 1933 and 1936 she was on tour with Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

Mrs. Haun's visit to Australia gave her an opportunity to make a trip around the world, visiting Hawaii, the South Sea Islands, New Zealand, India, Egypt, Persia, Europe, France, and England. The members of the Alumnae association was besieged on her

Editor Announces Plans For Distaff

Vivian Ahlwein, editor of the distaff, announced the appointments and general contents of the May issue, and urged that students and students contribute any poetry, short stories, or informal essays which they have written. The deadline for contributions is May 3.

Slick paper will be used in the May magazine, and a symposium will be conducted for feature. Student articles dealing with education are being requested with the following suggestive titles: "Why are you attending college?" "Does the college department have a philosophy of education?" and "What am I getting out of college?"

A group of articles entitled, "The College Girl Clears Her Conscience" will also appear in the magazine issue. Allison Hairston and Edith Williams will do the photographic work.

Continued from Page One

school of social work which requires three months of preliminary training before transfer into field work. However, as soon as it was learned that she came from Florida State, the requirement was waived.

Marguerite Grocver is in Jacksonville doing welfare work. Ruthe McEhannon is at present doing welfare work as a graduate student in social work. Virginia Allen, '39, graduate in East Lansing Mich. Laura Mathis, '36, is employed as social worker in Jacksonville. Pat Foster, '37, now married, has been welfare worker in Miami. Is now living in Hubbard, so the scrapbook says. Marriage is the least any girl can do. Her junglining feature was the fact that Jane's glasses had rims, both of added at the university of Chicago.

Lorraine Harwick, '30, now Mrs. Robert H. Jackson, who is working in Jacksonville, attended Western Reserve; an official of that college wrote back that she did the best piece of work in sociology any student had done in the history of the school.

Others immortalized on campus by virtue of Dr. Bellamy's paste and paints include Cornita McFatter, Louise Barshal, Betty Wynn, Astrid Petersen, Elizabeth Kirby-Smith. Jean Tresdwell, Marjorie Weems, Evelyn Hoyle, Elizabeth Pierce, Mary Perrytal.

Ruth Rubin, '39, is now attending Tulane, doing graduate study in social work. Edna Mae Dunval '31 attended the New York in 1936. She is the first recipient of the medallion of honor given for distinction in the arts.

Carol Perrenot Longone of the class of 1919 was the first graduate in music, having received the B. M. degree with major work in piano. She is an accompanist and teacher of music in the country over. The Alumnae association gave the medallion to her for honors in the art of music in 1937.

Following her graduate from Florida State College for Women, Mrs. Longone was awarded a complete scholarship by the Cincinnati conservatory of music for continued study there. She appeared in several recitals specializing as a pianist and accompanist for some time and then became a member of the faculty of the Cincinnati conservatory of music. She received her artist diploma from there because a member of the faculty. Later, she received a Juilliard fellowship to study with Madame Gerhardt in New York city. She has appeared in Aeolian hall and appeared as Juliet in Gounod's opera, "Romeo and Juliet", was also featured in a production that was an ingenue lead in "Cocoanuts" with the Marx brothers, touring with them to the west coast; sang title roles in "Princess Chichen" and "Tosca" "Faust" with the London company in Australia, including the lead in "Falstaff", and made a series of 13 short sound features, all of them in color. She played in the feature picture "Animal Crackers" with the Marx brothers and sang the leading role in Schubert's "Blossom Time" in all the principal cities of the United States and Canada. She also had the principal part of dramatic stock in New York; had the lead in "All the King's Horses" in New York; played a season at the Grand Opera house in Chicago. For the seasons of 1933 and 1936 she was on tour with Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

Mrs. Haun's visit to Australia gave her an opportunity to make a trip around the world, visiting Hawaii, the South Sea Islands, New Zealand, India, Egypt, Persia, Europe, France, and England. The members of the Alumnae association was besieged on her ler. They have prudently accepted the fact that they are not going to gain as many concessions as possible from him. Norway is also weak in arms and manpower. She has good defensive terrain. The Norwegians are also fighting desperately in the hope that Britain will send them aid before it is too late. The strategic importance of Norway is control of the port of Narvik from which the iron ore from the Kiruna mines is shipped. Sweden, forced to the neutral by the combined pressure of Germany and Russia, may be attacked by Russia at any moment even if she gives all of her support to the Germans.

Journalist Says Denmark Is Wise

Continued from Page One

"It's touch and go," declared Mr. Kean, when asked to predict the outcome.

At another time, referring to the distasteful news received from Europe, he stated, "Nobody knows what is really going on."

Mr. Kean's lecture is annoyed with the United States," declared Mr. Kean, and he continued that the dictator countries are annoyed because we are a successful democracy, and we democracies of Europe because the peace of Scandinavia is the command he will be able to join

Florida Players Plan Production

Columnist Makes Plea For Magazine Change

By BILL KECH

Florida Players' next production, J. B. Priest's "Adventure Grove," has been cast, and is in production. Joe Nelson, Donn Fleeman, Dorothy Valentine, Gordon Fleeman, Bob Anderson, and Bill Evans are to play the cast roles.

Florida Players are keeping the contents of their latest play a secret, but the cast of the cast will open his mouth when asked about the play, and the illusory is astonishingly devoid of all copies of the play. A mystery no less!

The latest issue of the Florida Review is out, and it further bears out the popular contention that we want a more down-to-earth magazine. We approve highly of literary art, but when nobody reads it, what good is it? If a humor magazine is what we want, we think we should get it. A literary magazine appeals to a definite need, but we want something to fill a definite need.

And so elections are over for another year. By now you probably know who are the winners and there's no room here to give the results, but we'll just give a few of the major offices.

John McCarty is next year president; Tom Brown will be vice president and Gibson Finley secretary-treasurer. Jack Singer officiates as chancellor of the honor court, with Charlie Sherman as honor court clerk. Bill Kech went into the editorship of the Seminole and Louis McArthur will be managing editor of the Flambeau and Bob Grigsby will handle the business end of the paper.

Ralph Blank was elected editor of the Seminole and Louis McArthur will be managing editor. The Florida Review will be edited by Arthur Repkin with business handled by Bernard Bloch. The Lyceum Council will consist of Bob Thrasher, president; Bill Evans and Pat Saunders, members. "Is that enough politics for ya?"

Anyway you look at it—honeymoons or vacation—we sure look for forward to Wednesday. Seven centuries since Christmas and years since mid-semesters. But have you ever noticed it, this year sure has gone quickly, don't you think?

The fraternities promise all you fools who are left on campus a wonderful time. Dances, picnics, more dances, breakfasts, lunches, and supper dances. Gracious, it looks like a highly successful week-end. Come on in, the water's fine.

The campus has sort of slumbered all this week after politics settled down. There was very much excitement before and too much campaigning. Very excited over these last few days.

The Engineer's fair was a great success, but if you want to make sure of your senses you might have been a little hard pressed sometimes. For example, imagine seeing a fluorescent sunset at mid-day or—this is no apparent connections—spouting water merrily. Too much of this for one person and always good for you.

The engineers had a great success too. Only one person got hurt—he broke his leg—and the laugh is that he got run over by professional cowboys. Just goes to prove you what cow punchers and bronc busters are as school raises here, huh?

Sometime we're going to devote a whole column to O'ville weather. If we were to do that now we'd sure do it. Just when we drag our swimming trunks and dark glasses out of mothballs, it starts raining to set a little sun tan, the early morning dew keeps us in bed and to started to get as cold as it could, besides. Maybe it's rain storm that practically drowned everybody on the campus. For a while we thought we'd have to swim to classes. And we aren't kidding about that.

You can always tell when we run out of news—we talk about nothing. We're doing it again, so goodbye now.

Today Marks Fourth Annual Alumnae College Reunion

Florida State Is One of Many Institutions Which Foster Educational Alumnae Reunions

As the alumnae college opens today it will mark the fourth annual event of its kind at Florida State College for women. Inaugurated in 1937 in response to requests from alumnae members for a week-end on which they might return for educational instruction as well as for the annual homecoming, the college has drawn substantial numbers of former "femme perfecta" to their old haunts for three-day visits each year. Mrs. R. L. Bowen, president of the alumnae association in 1937, suggested the "college" in its present form, having come in contact with the generous response to a questionaire sent out with a third of conventions which she attended as delegate from Florida State college for women. It was finally worked out, with Miss Katherine Warren acting as chairman, to take the place of the alumnae association.

The idea of the alumnae college is the result of a nation-wide movement which has met with success toward keeping alive the influence, and the ideals of the liberal arts, serve as group leaders. The time is usually immediately following the commencement exercises, many of the faculty members remain and many of the alumnae return. This has been about 815; those visiting only the lecture series pay $7.50 for the week-end and $2.50 per lecture.

In 1938 it was first planned, the Wellesley program called for the alumnae to 'major' in one of the four subjects offered, and that end all lectures were scheduled at 10 a. m. Afternoons and evenings were filled with informal social gatherings, open-house, and round table discussions carried on with departmental heads. Subjects offered were drama, politics, economics, and philosophy, music, and electrical engineering.

In 1930 the second session introduced outside speakers lecturing to about 120 alumni. Since that time, there has been each June with varying topics for discussion. Dr. John Wesley, president of Lafayette, points out that "it should be noted that no college can do the work we have done, and no class records kept, but that great value of alumnae college life—the quantitative standard—is felt and men enjoy Joyously into the intellectual subjects."

In 1933 Frenreten university's graduate council proposed that members of the faculty deliver informal lectures to alumni on their return to college. The idea was first tried during the fall commencement, with the school of public and international affairs remaining at the university during the general topic 'Governmental Problems of the Present Day' was chosen. Questions and discussions followed each lecture and all were contributing along with the speakers. The 'Forum' as it was christened by Dean Charles Seymour in 1935 approximately 200 Princeton alumni attended. The success was later carried out that the lectures be printed and distributed to the alumni for study.

Mount Holyoke college gave the outstanding plan for alumnae college in June, 1934. Into the hands of two special committees were given respectively the and the other of members of the staff and faculty. The plan arranged for a series of lectures on the theme 'We Americans Today.' The subject was chosen because 'of

The Barbizon

New York's Most Exclusive Hotel Residence for Young Women

Calling All College Girls

Whatever the reason for your coming to New York, there are many things you should make The Barbizon your residence. Daily, it offers the refinement and recreation you enjoy. If you are accustomed. Musicales...art lectures . . . dramatics . . . a fine library . . . a swimming pool . . . sun deck . . . squash courts. Live in The Barbizon this year. Inquire all cultural and physical activities that add zest and joy to life.

700 rooms, each with a radio Tariff: from $2.50 per day from $18 per week

Write for descriptive booklet "C"

The Barbizon

LEXINGTON AVE. at 63rd St. NEW YORK CITY

In The Spring . . .

Ah! Beautiful Spring! And Those Delicious, Tempting Fountain-Cafe Specials At

MARTIN & DALTON

DEPARTMENT DRUG STORE

Speech Students Will Give Comedy

The Learned Ladies' Set For April 25-26

The speech department's next presentation will be Moliere's "The Learned Ladies" to be given for April 25 and 26 in the Auxora Conrad theatre. Miss Emma Martin Moore, assistant professor of speech, will direct the play.

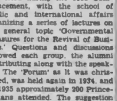
The play, which is one of Moliere's more satiric ones, is a high comedy in which the motivation arises from the clash of characters. In satirizing the "new woman" of the seventeenth century the playwriter brings out the moral that a little learning is a dangerous thing.

The cast of characters is as follows: Armande, Martha Whitehurst; Henriette, Louise Uber; Belise, Betty Jane Dyer; Philaminte, Margaret Blaine; Philaminte Marie Crouch; Chrysale, Betty Rose Scott; Arfate, Frank Johnson; Cade, Sara Woodruff, Prudence, Betty Martin, Ivelyn Norfleet, Lapine Beth Ford; the notary, Jane Collins.

Miss Janet K. Smith, assistant professor of clothing, and textiles and her costume design class are in charge of costumes. Miss Mary Gregory, instructor in art, is handling the lighting.

The play will first be given in the Conrad theatre on Thursday night at 4 o'clock on April 23.

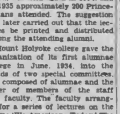
STATE



NOTICE

SPRING & SUMMER PRICES EFFECTIVE FRIDAY, April 12

MATINEE 30c



NIGHT 40c

FRIDAY & SATURDAY April 12-13

Every girl's wife knows! Every wife knows! See "Davy"... See

SUNDAY & MONDAY April 14-15

"Oh Johnny How You Can Love"

TUESDAY—April 16

Tom Brown In "Oh Johnny How You Can Love"

Boris Karloff In "Black Friday"

Vincent Price In "House Of 7 Gables We Dare You!

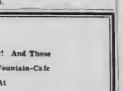
RITZ

NOTICE

That the lists Tuesday-Wednesday is NOT a transfer program the dates for which but is a NEW first rea picture at 10c and 15c!

FRIDAY—April 12

Fred Astaire In "Broadway Melody"



SATURDAY—April 13

Three Mesquiteers In "Pioneers Of West"

SUNDAY & MONDAY April 14-15

Melvyn Douglas In "Too Many Husbands"

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY April 16-17

THURSDAY & FRIDAY April 18-19

Spencer Tracy In "Northwest Passage"

Florida Theatre

NOTICE

Change of Program Tuesday-Wednesday

TUESDAY—April 16

Jeanette MacDonald Nelson Eddy In "Sweethearts"

WEDNESDAY—April 17

Double Feature Program

Jane Withers In "Arizona Kid"

Ralph Bellamy In "Boss Of Lonely Valley"

THURSDAY—April 18

Double Feature Program

Jane Withers In "Arizona Kid"

Ralph Bellamy In "Boss Of Lonely Valley"

FRIDAY—April 19

Double Feature Program

Jane Withers In "Arizona Kid"

Ralph Bellamy In "Boss Of Lonely Valley"

SATURDAY—April 20

Double Feature Program

Jane Withers In "Arizona Kid"

Ralph Bellamy In "Boss Of Lonely Valley"

SUNDAY & MONDAY April 21-22

Double Feature Program

Jane Withers In "Arizona Kid"

Ralph Bellamy In "Boss Of Lonely Valley"

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY April 23-24

Double Feature Program

Jane Withers In "Arizona Kid"

Ralph Bellamy In "Boss Of Lonely Valley"

THURSDAY—April 25

Double Feature Program

Jane Withers In "Arizona Kid"

Ralph Bellamy In "Boss Of Lonely Valley"

THE WEE SHOP

113 W. College

MRS. WILSON

On The Road to Town

Cards—Gifts—Novelties

Odds Triumph In Soccer Contests

Evens Win Hockey As Games Are Completed

With the completion of Saturday's games in hockey and soccer, competition between the Odds and Evens in those sports ended. In soccer the Odds trimmed the Evens 4-0 on Wednesday, 4-0 on Friday and Evens 3-1 on Saturday. In the hockey games the Evens won with a score of 1-0 on Wednesday, 3-1 on Friday, and scored 2-1 on Saturday.

Friday's soccer games were lively affairs as the half the score was 2-0 in the Odds' favor. Those who made the tally for the Odds were Stella Valenti, starred in the game as the Odds' half-back. Brenelle Mobley as the second half sent the ball across the line for the goals with a 4-0 score in the Odds' favor.

In Friday's hockey games Rita Ellen Sapp made the only two points for the Evens. Paulette Nolan added to the score in the first half with one goal. At the close of the first half the Odds were trailing by Rae Erwin Hall one for the Odds. Meta Helms' goal in the second half brought the score to 3-1 when the game ended.

The soccer game on Saturday was fought to a 4-4 tie Stella Valenti, Odd half-back, starred in the spotlight. With Evens protection provided by the two front lines the Odds' charges pushed her way through the Odd defense to rout the goals. Mary Lane Nunn sent with another goal for the Evens. The Odds retaliated with two scores made by Brenelle Mobley and Nancy White respectively at the close of the first half the score was 4-4.

No scores were made in the second half although there were many attempts made to goal on both sides. The games ended with the score still a 4-4 tie.

The team members playing at both the Friday and Saturday games in soccer. The Evens lined up: Wells Cessna, Keeper; Ritty Ford, Dot Schepse, Betty Lane, Forwards; Webster Allien Alderdice, Ann Saunders, Helen Milam, Myrtle Lourge and Avis Taylor. The Odds listed their team as Diana Vergowe, Ruth Bennett, Brenelle Mobley, Mary Alice Kirschner, Nancy White, Mary Lou Baudin, Flo-rend Brown, Frances Ecklund, Alice Ludlam, Stella Valenti, Yvonne "Tubby" Martin.

The Even hockey team included Marion Pfeiling, Jean Wood, Meta Helms, Catherine Kirby-Smith, Paulette Nolan, Betty Perr, Meredith Rosser, Dot Parks, Louise Rice, Ethel Crown, Harriet Gill, and Hazel Wilkerson. The Odds listed Alice Hudson, Sue Erwin, Pie Covey, Rita La Roe, Jane Dibble, Mary G. Hoderman, Pat Patterson, Peggy Barker, Suzanne Wilson, Madge Overcash, Starling Hall, and Helen Hoffman.

Today Marks Fourth Annual Alumnae College Reunion

Continued from Page Two

bored with faculty members in a study of problems related to government, industry, and agriculture. Round table discussions followed each of the lectures. Visitors were housed in the university dormitories with a charge of $15 covering the institute fee, room, and meals.

Across Scott college set the date of its alumnae week-end on the same date as its Founders day. Last New Jersey college for women Agnes Scott mailed reading lists to its alumnae in order to facilitate discussion. A very new feature, inaugurated there, however, was a program for the children of the alumnae. General results of the special week-end were "unusual interest on the part of alumnae, appreciation from all visitors present, and enthusiasm on the part of all children present."

New York university operates its Alumni college on a somewhat different plan. For those who wish to know more about themselves, about contemporary economics and social conflicts, and actual conditions of life and labor in the United States, the university offers a course of lectures on the subject at a rate of dollars less than establishing fees. Drexel institute carried the same idea with a series of thirty weekly lectures on Monday evenings. Subjects varied extremely widely. Lectures by the English faculty were most popular. The number of lectures has been drastically cut down since the first series in 1934.

Akron university calls its alumnae college the "round table." Discussion groups are held on the second and fourth Wednesday evenings of the month. The groups

Uncle Sam Aids FSC Graduates

There are dozens of our graduates who are doing secretarial and stenographic work for the government, both in the various government employees. These alumnae are in every branch of the government service, from the fraternal revenue to the health department. There are also hundreds and hundreds of our alumnae who are working for the government as teachers.

There are other branches of government service in which many of our alumnae may be found. We have at least one home demonstration agents, nine supervisors of home management, and sixteen case aides and investigators for WPA who are members of the state relief association. There is one statistician, Miss Florence Bailey, in the department of the interior in Washington, D. C., one proof reader, Miss Virginia Bailey, in the department of the treasury of Indiana; one postmistress, Miss Frances Gary, in the state of Florida; one field representative of NYA, Miss Elizabeth Kelley, in Tallahassee, Fla., one NYA research worker, Miss Helen Thurston, in Tallahassee, and one WPA interviewer, Miss Dorothy Bailey, in Leon county, one supervisor of WPA federal activities, Miss Dorothy Dodd; and one assistant to the director of WPA personnel and training, Miss Evelyn Weller, in Tallahassee, Florida.

One of the more outstanding examples of Florida State alumnae in government service is Mrs. Elvira Townsend Sprinkle, who graduated from FSC in 1914. Sprinkle was a teacher of science in Ocala High school, became a county agricultural agent, later a county school superintendent, and now is the state director of education for WPA.

"F" Club Taps 21, Elects White Head

The "F" club elected officers and initiated twenty-one new members held last Monday night in Bryan lounge. The new officers are: Mary White, president; Brenelle Mobley, vice-president. The secretary and treasurer's post will be elected until after the initiation when the "goats" that were tapped Wednesday.

The new "goats" are as follows: Mary Alice Kirschner, Nancy White, Florend Brown, Peggy Barker, Josephine Wilson, Mary Lou Baudin, Alice Ludlam, Diana Vergo, Stella Valenti, Kitty Ford Cecelia Harrison, Brenelle Mobley, Dot Schepse, Hope Starling Hall, Marion Pfeiling, Madge Overcash, Frances Marion Webster, Hazel Wilkerson Gene Bryan, and Meta Helms.

A banquet was held in the new dining-room Wednesday night in honor of the new "goats" and action will be held in four weeks at the college meeting and until that time all of the "goats" are on probation.

WAA Officers Installed In Convocation Tuesday

The new women's athletic association officers were installed in convocation Tuesday by Louise Rice, outgoing president, and Minnie Ratliff, incoming president. The other officers installed were: Anna Frances Kidd, vice-president; Dorothy Wood, secretary; Phil Ecklund, treasurer; and Frances Batlin, intra-mural athletics manager.

Following the installation ceremony, letters were presented to twenty-one students who had earned enough activities credit by participating in Odd-Even games.

Florend Brown and Ruth Turner then took over the program to lead the student body in a "community sing." The singing was opened with the singing of school songs followed by songs which are familiar to every college girl, and closed with the singing of "Carnie and Gold."

toward the pleasure embodied in are conversational in nature and follow no definite outline. Their main purpose is to give the individual background to understand the problems of modern life.

At Lawrence college a series of lectures dignified with the name alumnae college was begun in 1930. The time of the college has been scheduled so that it is possible for the alumni to attend college and participate in Commencement events at the same time. The women alumnae have so far outnumbered the men by two to one.

A number of professional schools in national universities conduct clinics for alumni who return for reunions. Northwestern holds medical and dental clinics; Springfield college, coaching clinics; Emory, a medical clinic; and Creighton, a dental clinic. Tulane's homecoming celebration offered as a rule a medical clinic also.

Thus the idea of an alumnae college for post-graduate education is not an unusual one. It is the outgrowth of a movement on the part of the alumni toward intellectual stimulation as well as

Dancers To Give Spring Recital

Program Will Feature Student Compositions

The modern dance classes will present a recital on Friday, April 19, according to Pauline Bird and Nellie-Bond Dickinson, instructor in physical education.

Included in the program are to be dances styled from compositions by the various dance groups. In the primitive suite Earth Worship was choreographed by the girls performing the dance. The Burial Ceremony is a dance choreographed by the group who were inspired by the Egyptian burial ceremonies after burial. They composed it in a class period for an exercise and later Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson, supervised changes.

Miss Dickinson presents a solo Voodoo Dance which she composed last year when studying in Haiti.

The Sarabande is a form dance of the Spanish court which was fashionable in Spain in the 17th and 18th centuries. Both the dance and the music were composed on this campus. Dr. Karl Wecktein, professor of music, violin, saw the dance and wrote the music.

The Carnival is based on a poem written by Mary Lou Mc-Cord. Mary Lou plays as a thumb boom time in Florida days.

Among the other choral compositions is the Dance Grotesque which is directed by Barbara Hutchinson. It is accompanied of the drum by Jean Hitchcock. The dance is a satire on the idea that people usually live in a dull routine until some unforseen element comes into their lives and their rote procedure. There is a tremendous build the first interruption might be war which would tear up their lives only for them to find their routine more slightly changed. The second suggestion is that a sort of storm after which they again return to a routine of dull existence. In the end the thought remains of people's willingness to accept anything that comes and only to return to rote procedure when after the disturbance has abated.

Another group dance will be directed by Miss Mary Ellen Blanland who instructs an extra-curricular class in dancing. The group will present an dance. Their dance arrangement was suggested by the dance "Jonquilla" written by Janice Miller composed the dance.

Miss Blanland has in addvanced dance classes will present a dance of the Mexican Revolution.

On display in the main lobby of the gymnasium are 75 pictures of dances taken by Barbara Morgan, an outstanding New York photographer. Some of the dancers pictured are Doris Humphrey and her group, Helen Gallagher, Hany Helm and her group, Eleanor King, Anna Sokolow, Kathrine Hall, Martan Tyl and group, Charles Weidman, Lucas Limon, and Ruth Fachhuld. These pictures showing most intricate patterns and positions in various dances will be on dandy in the gymnasium through Saturday.

Freeling Now Heads PEA

Marion Freeling, recently elected president of the Physical Education association, spoke to members of the association Wednesday on "Possibilities in the Field of Physical Education."

At the same meeting other new officers were announced, including Mary Jane Medlin, vice-president and Margaret Carter, secretary-treasurer.

FSC Graduates Cover World

In the 38 years since Florida State college for women opened its present form as state school, its alumnae have scattered to earth, literally speaking. Besides Florida and 42 of the other 48 states, the alumnae office has been addressed from 17 foreign countries.

Four alumnae live in Canada. One lives in Tokyo, Japan, and one in Shanghai, China. There are alumnae also in Syria, New Zealand, and in Israia, Algeria.

The alumnae office has three European addresses—New Surrey, England, Edinburgh, Scotland, and Paris, France.

There are four persons who have received degrees from Florida State in the Canal Zone two in Cuba. One lives in Mexico and one in Guatamala City. Central America, Turkey, and England lives as far south as Argentina.

Among other states, Georgia has the largest number of former "Florida Belles" with 163 graduates. Alabama is next with 41 then New York with 32. North Carolina has 58 alumnae. Pennsylvania and Virginia, each 35. There are 32 in Washington, D. C. and Illinois, Tennessee and Texas each have more than 20. California, Ohio, and Minnesota all have between 20 and 25 alumnae. Of the other states, all except six have graduates from this college.

Of the graduates who live in Florida, there are 14 in Jacksonville than any other city—400 alumnae make their homes there. Tallahassee has the second largest number of graduates with 350. Third on the list is Tampa with 342 and fourth, Miami with 263. The rest are distributed over the state in almost every town and corner of the country. Even Florida's smallest and most slightly changed. The second suggestion is that a sort of storm after which they again return to a routine of dull existence.

Committee Plans Outings For Interested Students

Trips to Wakulla and St. Marks are being planned for the Outing club by a committee of which Anna Frances McKay, president of the club, is chairman. Everybody interested in outings is urged to watch posters and Flambeau notices for further arrangements to be completed within the near future.

The outing committee includes: Miss Mary Settle faculty adviser, Anna Frances McKay, chair., Alford, Phil Ecklund, Mary Gray Holderman, Marion Webster, Starling Hall.

Letter Praises Tarpon Picture

Ostlund Comments On Seeing Aqua Rhythm

Further praise of the Grantland Rice Sportlight, "Aqua Rhythm," featuring the Florida State college formation swimmers has reached the college from Denton, Texas.

In a letter received from Miss Betty Ostlund, former Miami student who graduated here several years ago and who is now a teacher in the department of health and physical education at Texas State college for women, she gives comments made by the students and faculty of that college.

Her letter in part reads:

"They were greatly impressed with the swimming ability and group coordination of the swimmers as well as the gorgeous scenery in about three reels. I had never seen many of the formations before and asked many questions about how they were executed and how much practice the girls had. They were particularly interested in the unusual accordion formation, the only one of which I had ever seen. Florida and the back pinwheels which the whole group did so beautifully. Since many of those in the audience were physical education majors, they wanted to know about the Tarpon club, and how it was formed. Its membership and its activities For most of them, seeing a performance as perfect and professional as that of the swimmers in "Aqua Rhythm" was a real experience which was not only entertaining but also of real educational value. They realize now that swimming can be beautiful and a truly creative activity."

"At the time of the showing of the film, Mr. Roger Painted, field representative of the American Red Cross, was conducting a course on campus, so he also saw the film. I think that, in view of his position, his reactions are rather significant. They realized the formations and the precision of the group as a whole but he commented especially on the excellent leg-kicking skill of the individual swimmers, their ease of movement and the perfect coordination of the group. He also repeatedly exclaimed over their wide and powerful crawl stroke which was rather unusual for women swimmers. Incidentally, this same feature which excited him so much at the faculty members present.

"I'm sure that seeing it was an experience the students of Texas

Bob Swanson
picks his racing cars for speed—for slow burning

Medallions Are Awarded to 5 FSC Teachers

Alumnae Honor Women For Distinction In Educational Circles

Five of the seven graduates who have been awarded alumnae medallions for distinguished service have received them for distinction in education.

Cited for distinction in service to Florida State college, the late Rowena Lonsinire, A. M. '12, Ph. B. '24 was among those to receive a medallion in 1936 when they were first presented. Clara McDonald Olsen '14, A. M. '33 and Mary Louise Mae Lathem '30, are principles of Florida high schools.

Mrs. Henry Lester Smith, '98 of Fort Indiana, '32, received the children's literature at the University of Indiana was awarded the medallion for service in educational in Florida and Indiana. Dr. Helen M. Carter, head of the home economics department at the University of Louisiana, received the medallion last year for her outstanding work in the field of education.

College teaching has claimed 37 other alumnae, 31 of whom are represented in the faculty of Lottie Rohbe '29, M. A. '38, became head of the department of education and practice teaching at Shenandoah college, Dayton, Va. after teaching in Porto Rico Hazel Gilmore, '27, is also in the department of education at Shenandoah college. Helen Everett, '33, M. S. '38, is head of the department of home economics at Florida Southern college in Lakeland. Martha Lou Sharpe, '29, and Mary Virginia Hall, '31, are in the school of home economics. Helen Cate, '37, and Hattie Mae Moore, B. S. '38 Mary Mooty, '35, served as an instructor in the art department for the year 1937-39, and after receiving her M. A. from Columbia in 1939 she returned to that position.

Grace Fox, '30, has served in the physical education department since 1933, and Margaret Campbell, M. A. '35, has been teaching in the modern languages department since 1934. Mrs. Ed-

Madge Henry, Mary Faith Myrtis, Elsine Baughn, Mary Jane Medlin, Martha Murphy, and Play Night Head Announces Plans

Novel Entertainments Will Be Scheduled

Play night committee under the direction of Florend Brown, new chairman succeeding Nancy White, has announced its plans for the remainder of the year, which will include the inauguration of a new theme for play night. Although social dancing will continue to be the main feature on Friday night, there will be other interests offered at the gymnasium in the future which should attract the other half of the student body who are not enthusiasts of the latest jitterbug moves.

A complete program of recreation will be offered every Friday night, including such activities as ping-pong which will be, as heretofore, in the lobby; badminton in the little gym; card tables for bridge in the coliseum, and swimming open to those interested in the natatorium. A large play night directory will be placed in the lobby of the gym for the convenience of those attending and will contain information regarding those various activities.

Adding a new note to the usual social dance program are the novelty dances planned for every third week. These will have such themes as a Stephen Foster dance, a cruise to be taken on the S. S. Florida State, college gymnasium the would-be saloon; barn dance; night in old Vienna; and Hollywood night-out. In which local Robert Taylors and campus Mae Wests, Greta Garbos, and Dorothy Lamours will appear. Prizes may shine in an up-to-date replica of the Academy awards in the college gym), and many others.

In addition to these, peculiar play nights with no novelty dances featured, will have some special entertainment planned for evening, such as the tumbling exhibition given last Friday night. These features will be presented by various campus organizations and clubs and will be of considerable interest in a program being arranged for the near future by the dance class at the demonstration school which will be directed by Miss Nellie Bond.

Play night will be held tonight as usual, but no novelty dances will be presented due to the many entertainments and formal affairs scheduled in honor of Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, campus visitor An appreciative audience viewed the physical education exhibition last week, and more affairs of its kind will begin soon.

win V. Konarek Elizabeth Barker '38, is teaching botany here this semester.

Slower-Burning Camels Give the Extras

EXTRA MILDNESS
EXTRA COOLNESS
EXTRA FLAVOR
EXTRA SMOKING

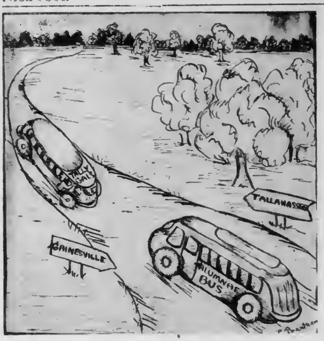
WITH BOB SWANSON, it's always a slow-burning Camel. "That slower burning makes a big difference," says Bob. "Camels are milder—easier on my throat. They don't bother my nerves. And they never tire my taste. They give an extra amount of pleasure. You, speed is fine in the right place, but millions have learned that in cigarettes the coveted extras of coolness, mildness, and full, rich flavor go with slow-burning Camels.

Copyright, 1940, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. Winston-Salem, N. C.

In recent laboratory tests, Camels burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus!

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF...MORE PUFFS PER PACK!



CAMELS — the cigarette of costlier tobaccos

Home Ec Class To Hold Round Table Discussion On Consumer Problems

An interesting addition to the program for the alumnae this week-end will be a round-table discussion given by the students in the course of consumer problems in the school of home economics. The subject will be consumer's problems.

The time set for the discussion is 1:30 o'clock Saturday morning in the Augusta Conradi theater.

People who will participate in the discussion are Jeanette Lisehet, Ethel Barnard, Mrs. Geraldine Brock, Sibyl Jean Olsen, Voncile Rudolph, Dorothy Townsend, Elizabeth Ann Williams, Miss Evelyn Venable, associate professor of home economics, is in charge of this meeting.

Muchas Gracias, Senoritas

This issue of the Flambeau is respectfully dedicated to the alumnae who have returned to their alma mater this weekend to renew old friendships and to profit by the educational program offered. Realizing that even the graduates of 1939 have found the campus markedly changed, the Flambeau wishes to do its part in making them feel at home on this changed campus by extending a hearty welcome.

This year the student body has been made more conscious of the alumnae association than ever before through the splendid series of speakers arranged by the alumnae and by the erection of the Rowena Longmire student-alumnae building. It will be next year's body that receives the first benefits of recreation building because, according to the latest reports, June 1 has been set for the opening day; therefore this student body wishes to express its gratitude especially on this eventful weekend.

Call of the Open Road

The second world war with all its horrors and tragedies chalked up against its name has, perhaps, one good thing to be said for it. It is at least succeeding in turning much of our attention to our own country. Feeling that the present forms of government in Europe are certainly not the right path to Utopia, many persons are considering our own system of government more seriously than they have for a long time. They are determining to keep alive the principles in American government that they hold essential to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." Even travel agencies, which usually sponsor European tours, have now adopted "See America First" as their slogan, and it is in this last field that the war has necessitated a program that may be of infinite value to American education. The program for which the war is responsible and to which I am specifically referring is the project in teachers' training being sponsored this year by the Open Road.

Before this program is described it would be best to explain what the Open Road is and what its program has been in the past. For the past 15 years the Open Road, a non-profit membership organization under the direction of thinking Americans such as John Dewey, Alexander Meiklejohn, and William Allan Neilson, has been arranging European travels as a means to an end, a means of preparation for life and of keeping abreast with the times. With aims that are primarily educational and concerned with what happens to the traveler intellectually and emotionally the organization has been offering tours in conjunction with colleges and universities, noted professors and lecturers such as Jerome Davis, Sherwood Eddy, and Grace Denny. The Open Road operates at a loss, its annual deficit being met by subscriptions.

The outbreak of the war in Europe has aroused a shift from the European program to one which aims to acquaint Americans with their own country—not the state parks, beautiful gardens, and singing towers, but with the forces and problems that make American people what they are.

Social science departments in leading institutions are being offered expert and complete facilities in conducting field trips. The program, which is on the graduate level, is principally a project in teachers' education. The summer courses which have been worked out with five teacher training institutions include a field course in Southern conditions given by Teachers college, Columbia university; a workshop in social and economic factors influencing education in New England, given by the Graduate School of Education, Harvard university; a course in problems of American youth as exemplified in certain urban and rural communities of the middle west, under the School of Education, Northwestern university; a study of life problems on the great plains and in the Rocky mountain area, by Colorado State College of Education; and a field seminar in the sociology of the Tennessee valley region. The enrollment is limited between 10 and 15 qualified students. Fees are moderate, based on actual costs in th field, with no charge for overhead. Besides the above-mentioned courses Antioch college is offering a field course in the sociology of the textile industry for undergraduates, and New York university is giving a field seminar in the treatment of delinquents and criminals for graduate students and accredited workers in the field.

There is a growing awareness that in the teaching of the social sciences, dry facts from the classroom and textbook must be vivified by observation and actual field work, and there are those who think that the safest and best way to preserve our democracy is to initiate and perpetuate education in the form of such field courses. It is encouraging to find that, although the Open Road expects to resume work in Europe when peace is restored, the work which they are initiating in this country will remain a permanent part of the organization program.

Let Academic Freedom Ring

The following editorial was published in the NSFA Reporter for April 5, 1940, the official organ of the National Student Federation of America:

A proud heritage of the United States of America has been the incorporation into its Constitution a Bill of Rights which gives legal protection for freedom of speech, press, assembly, religion, and the right of petition. No legal statute, however, can protect these rights without the sincere desire and understanding of the citizenry that they shall be upheld. Most dangerous periods with regard to threats to these freedoms are those of great economic stress or during war time. The United States is at present subject to both of these strains. Tha effect that these crises will hava on the whole field of civil liberties and particularly freedom on the campus has been seriously debeated by educators and statesmen for many months past.

What has brought these issues to a head and to the attention of the public at large is the Bertrand Russell case, now being fought in the Courts of New York City. A brief history of the case is as follows: Bertrand Russell, a famous English mathematician and philosopher, who has been employed as a teacher of Philosophy in the University of California at Los Angeles, was appointed for a two-year term as Professor of Philosophy in the College of the City of New York beginning in 1941. This appointment was made with the approval of the Board of Higher Education of New York City, but was opposed by certain newspapers and public figures in New York, particularly the Episcopal Bishop of New York, the Right Reverend William T. Manning. A New York City housewife; Mrs. Jean Kay, brought suit as a taxpayer, protesting the appointment of Professor Russell to a public teaching post "because of his immoral and salacious attitude toward sex." This suit was upheld by State Supreme Court Justice John E. McGeehan, who held that Russell was unfit because (1) he was not a citizen nor had he declared his intention of becoming a citizen as is required by the New York State education law, (2) he did not measure up to the standards of merit and fitness with reference to his appointment in the Civil Service, and (3) the appointment was against public policy because of the teachings of Bertrand Russell and his immoral character.

Prior to this decision, the appointment had been twice upheld by the New York City Board of Higher Education. At the University of California at Los Angeles, where ha had been teaching Philosophy to crowded classes, both President Robert G. Sproul and Provost E. R. Hedrick have agreed that the students have profited greatly from his teaching. A temporary appointment to Harvard as a Lecturer in Philosophy and Semantics will still hold, according to officials there.

The case has aroused wide comment among all circles. Those who oppose the appointment of Professor Russell maintain that it would subject young people at City College to indecent influences. Excerpts from Bertrand Russell's writings were quoted to show that he was a champion of free love and companionate marriage. His own stormy marital career was discussed at length. Said Mrs. Kay on hearing of the decision, "I am glad that right and decency have triumphed."

Proponents of the appointment of Dr. Russell point out that his personal beliefs have no relation to his fitness and ability as a teacher and that to bar the appointment of Dr Russell on these grounds would be a violation of academic freedom. In its defense of the Bertrand Russell appointment, the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom pointed out these three issues: (1) the irrelevance of a man's religion and social views in determining his right to teach at an institution of higher learning, (2) the obligation of our colleges and universities to present conflicting points of view from which students must make their own decisions about the basic issues confronting society, and (3) the right, and even the obligation, of public institutions of higher learning to maintain the same standards of freedom of teaching and discussion as private institutions. Dr. Franz Boas, Chairman of this committee, said, "If we establish the precedence that a judge can over-rule on the grounds of religious and social opinion, then we destroy true intellectual freedom."

On the campus at City College, members of the student council have circulated a petition urging the Board of Higher Education to press to a higher court to reverse the decision. A walk-out is planned on Friday, April 5th, by the students to protest the decision. Sixty Northwestern University faculty members signed a statement terming tha decision "a serious menace to academic freedom" and contributed a fund of $300. Said they, "This offer does not indicate that we accept all of Russell's ideas, although we do feel that he has approached vital human problems with a high seriousness. But it does indicate that we disapprove of the nature of the attack on him."

Professor Russell himself says, "It strikes me between the eyes I don't know what to think or say. Friends of mine on the City College faculty and elsewhere in New York asked me to join the faculty. I want it understood that I did not seek the position."

What becomes of the Russell case will in great measure affect the whole educational field in the matter of academic freedom. Even more significant than this decision, which affects only one individual, is the impetus it gave to a proposed "inquiry" by the New York State Legislature into the New York City schools to uncover "subversiveness."

Nor is this the first instance of the suppression of academic freedom. Other illustrations, which touch more

Continued on Page Five

Your Government......

(Editor's note: Your Government column will take the form of open letters written by members of the executive council to the president of the College Government Association in which they will discuss the problems of their offices).

Dear Cornelia,

By now the existence of the new "regime" is beginning to seem real. All of the officers have begun actually to function: you have had two convocations; Mimsy has had judiciary meetings; Mart has had senate; Ella Maude has had sophomore council meetings; I've had an N. S. F. A., pardonez-moi, I mean a Forum meeting. Wilma has had lower court; Nell has held off-campus committee meetings; Midge has published Flambeaus; Beryl is busy learning the ropes in the business office; and Elizabeth has started the training courses for the counsellors next year. Besides this, the new members of judiciary, house council, the reporters lower court, the off-campus committee, W. A. A., senate, sophomore council, and the new counselors have all begun their work. Activity has truly started. It seems to me that everyone is terribly enthusiastic about her work, despite the cases of spring fever which seem to be going the rounds. While all the new officers are humming and buzzing (almost) with activity, the seniors seem to be having the time of their college careers, playing around and cutting capers of all sorts

I was surprised to see how much fun executive council meeting could be Of course there's more than fun to it and many more results, but I came away feeling as I do after a nice, long bull session. I think the members are going to have a good time together, along with the work we have to do. I can see right now that you're going to be a slave-driver when it comes to making us work! Why, my dear Watson, I was simply floored when you asked us to write out a plan for a year's work in order that we can all work together with a common end, but now that I've thought about it, it seems to be a perfect idea. And your ideas about making convocation good, fun, and interesting at the same time sound progressive. Since so many of us feel that convocation is a necessary evil, if we can all have fun and interesting programs as well, we soon will be feeling that it's necessary, but hardly an evil. By the way, didn't you think that everyone seemed to be having fun in convocation this past Tuesday?

Please excuse me while I talk about something that relates to my line of work. A paragraph in the N. S. F. A. Reporter, you know—the weekly bulletin, showed me in the way of comparison how very free and liberal our student government is. The discussion was in regard to academic freedom, and it is quoted on our editorial page today. How about that, please? And we complain because we have no freedom here. It seems to me that we should all stop just for a minute every once in a while to appreciate what we have here.

I surely hope that you're having a wonderful time at the convention, and that you will come back with just millions of good ideas.

See you later.

—Maxine.

Collegiate Comebacks

What with the six formals we had on campus last week-end we knew at least one good story would come up. It did. A girl at one of the sorority formals saw an extremely attractive man, and, being on the loose, did a little bit of snaking. All went well; it took. The next morning the girl rose jubilantly and proceeded to tell one of her sisters all about it which was rather sad because it (meaning him) happened to be tha above-mentioned sister's favorite man.

* * * * *

We're sorry we didn't see this sooner (say about prom-time) but maybe you could send it to the man in question with a subtle hint that he paste it on his mirror for future reference.

Roses are red.
Violets are blue.
I prefer orchids.
How about you?

* * * * *

And then we can't help repeating a conversation we couldn't help over-hearing.

Victim of spring and stuff: And every time I even think about him I get a bubbly feeling here (pointing to where she'd start excavating if she wanted to find her heart).

Dietetics major: Probably gas.

* * * * *

Now the little butterflies
Flutter in the breeze
And the little buttercups
Blossoms so the bees
Can gather up the pollen
To take to their abode.
Bud thode dard bees
Dode do ld
Ad id all gedz up my node.

* * * * *

We just found out a (one) reason for staying awake in class. One of our more enterprising young students won a

Continued on Page Six

Or Forever Hold Your Peace...

Sun Bathing....

"Dear F. S. C. we love you, your hills and vineclad halls. . . ." Yes, and your Bathing Beauties too! Of course no one dares deny it. We are very proud of each and every one of them. But, as the older generation often says, there is a time and place for everything.

So college is the place to show just what we are made of. Now please do not take this literally. Honest, it is not meant that specific way. For the time being, please let us leave that to the beaches

Do you ever entertain guests on campus? Do you enjoy hearing them compliment its loveliness? What does your mother like, the azaleas or the vases? Does the boy-friend who may be studying horticulture, or better yet, may be the object of your studying, like the peacefulness of the shaded lawn nor so green and inviting? Do you have a difficult situation on your hands each time he tries to look at the grass and finds many unusual and attractive (?) objects sprawled there upon? What can you do? Mumble a "naughty" word and wish with all your heart those Bathing Beauties were where they belong—bathing!

Dear F. S. C. is widely known and suffers many sight-seeing trips, conventions, Sunday-drives, and parent inspections. Though this is our home for the present, and a home is the place to enjoy privacy, we must not be blind to the absence of this quality—privacy—on tha open spaces of our campus. Therefore due to the character of our sun bathing apparel, we should confine our private activities to those places appointed for them.

—Miriam Stuckey.

* * * * *

If almost all those girls who want to take a sun bath have to go to the new deck, not many will be able to get a chance to take in the sun due to the smallness of the solarium. Also, I think most girls want to study and do those things that require some degree of quietness. This can't de done when too many girls are crowded into a "pen." If college authorities are afraid of town critics concerning college activities and regulations then there will have to be some rule.

It seems to me that there are a few areas on campus where girls might be permitted to sun-bathe without being so unscrupulously observed by the public. Personally, I think the new regulation is just another petty restriction —Sue Baker.

Magazine Jottings.....

Christian Education and American Democracy, appearing in the February Christian Quarterly, is the subject of the presidential address delivered by Frank W. Stephenson to the Council of Church boards of education.

"H. G. Wells' statement that civilization is a war between education and catastrophe may well be supplemented by the declaration that, in America at the present moment, it is a race between democracy and totalitarianism," he says.

Those at work in the field of Christian higher education are confronted with an opportunity for national service, the lika of which they have never seen. Stephensoo quoted President Robert Hutchins of the University of Chicago as writing, "The greatest obstacle to totalitarianism is the intellectual and moral development of the people." This cannot be accomplished through influence of our homes and churches, but also requires the work of our institutions of higher learning. And no one is better suited to render effective service than those related to the church.

In Christian education the Christian philosophy of life is fundamental Embedded in this philosophy are concepts which have to do with the primary importance of religion to the fact, obligations and benefits of brotherhood, the right and privilege of freedom and the necessity of education.

We need greater, and wiser, and more adequate use of means of education. Enlightenment is by way of education and unless people are enlightened they can not be depended upon to act wisely or to make sound choices aod decisions. The first thing educated people feel is freedom—freedom from ignorance, superstition, prejudice, false loyalties, emotional extravagance, and endangering partisanship.

The author states that he ventured to insist that the future of American democracy and of democracy everywhere depends upon men's outlooks, upon their understanding of life and its obligations Could there be any doubt as to the responsibility of Christian educators?

"What greater service can we render tha church or society or the future than to throw our influence in support of the essential philosophy, the Christian interpretation. To accept cordially such an obligation would give maning and character to our entire educational enterprise

"The greatest obstacle to totalitarianism is a democracy grounded in God, in ona another, in freedom and enlightenment."

Bernard Iddings Bell, author, editor, and preacher, has written an article on "Why People Do Not Pray," which appears in the April Atlantic Monthly. The title of the article readily explains ideas the author puts forth.

"It has never been possible to be religious, in any adequate sense of the word, without prayer." If religion means "living with God," some manner of communication between God and man must be involved

Most modern people seldom pray and all too many of those who still do pray do not take time to say more than mechanical words. While current Christianity needs much for its revival, the most necessary is that Christians relearn bow to pray and to teach others to pray.

"Why has prayer become 'the great lost art'? Probably the chief reason is that even those who call themselves Christians are more impressed than they are willing to admit by a current insistence of the general multitude that it does no good to pray." Science teaches that everything runs according to unchangable laws; therefore, God is so self-limited by the eaorability of law that he can do nothing to halp.

Every Christian ought to face the problem of miracles their possibility or impossibility. God has at His command innumerable forces whose governing laws we do not understand, according to which laws His Supreme Personality can interfere with the normal effects of the laws which are within our small imperfect understanding. However it is a poor prayer in which approach to God is regarded only as a means of inducing miracles. Though God may perform them, we haven't the right to demaod them as that would be belief in magic, not religion.

Too many people today find prayer difficult because they do not have a clear idea of what the One is like to whom they are praying. Nobody knows or can know completely the nature of God, but the Bible teaches that the God to whom and through whom a Christian addresses himself is Jesus. "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father..."

Too often prayer consists almost if not quite wholly of what man says to God and too little of what God says to man. There must be in prayer silence and respectfulness so that we may discover the chief joy and usefulness of the answer when we have talked to God.

Finally, technique is not so important; the important thing is thought and the ease with which one prays.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

MARGARET SCOTT .... Editor
SARAH WORTH .... Associate Editor
SARA NOONEY .... Managing Editor
MARGARET CAINTER .... Assistant Editor
HOLLY KINNEY .... Assistant Managing Editor
MARGUERITE DIAZ, BELLE YONGE .... News Editor

Copy Editor Jayne Mendenhall; Feature Editor, Pauline Dale; Society Editors, Chancy Oven and Louise Burger, Sports Editors, Betty Ann Taylor and Bertha Bond, Exchanges, Doris Carter, Outside News, Mary Celeste Hardee Columnist, Isabel Day and Theresa Sullivan; Student Opinions, Grace Rushing, Picture Editor, Isabelle Warehouse, Literary Editor, Marlene Dale; Art Editor Frances Thrantham; Special Writers, Mary Caldwell, Helen Emmanuel, Anne Gaylord, Emma Jean Higley, Bettye Hyatt, Mabel Niboul, Sibyle Sanders, Jennie Thomasson and Vadah Walker.

REPORTERS: Eleanor Yothers, Virginia Millsap Selma Schloss, Alice Ludlam Beth Mitchell, Leona Ogle, Madge Overcash, Nancy Pennoyer, Rezatta Leonard, Susie Ruth Kelly Marie Dulin, Carol Dailey Hazel Cantrell Lorraine Cotterill, Mary Anna Hampton, Mattie Lou Peacock Marianna Boardman, Jimmy Pain Patsy McGraw Kitty Joe Hickman Charlie Collins Marilyn Keating, Nancy Kulp, Yvonne Martin, Mary Catherine Bellas Laura Turner Mary Monehan Marjorie Richardson, Frances Brodes, Clarice Cash and Edna Mae Howard

BUSINESS STAFF

HARRIET BENSON .... Business Manager
SUETTA BLANDING .... Assistant Business Manager
ANNE GAYLORD .... Advertising
KITTY JO HICKMAN .... Circulation

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Members National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y.
CHICAGO · BOSTON · LOS ANGELES · SAN FRANCISCO

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

arn By Doing gs Journalist

dvertising Depicted As New in Importance

ording to Mrs. Theresa advertising manager of Daily Democrat, who spoke members of the Press club ay afternoon, women have an place in advertising as ge pointed out, women better solicitors than men they have more personal with people of the town, an appeal to the reader because they themselves purchasers and therefore what purchasers want or will attract them. A talk for women to get inter-advice to would-be adver- was to build up a good ession of English grammar to know punctuation. Part- not neat, typing is necessary. good course in psychology also be beneficial. She also mended lettering as almost sensable for advertising since ness is of chief importance well-dressed ad. However, stated, the best way to advertising is by working explaining the importance dvertising to communities, of Myers emphasized the fact it was the cheapest form of ing. Using as an example ern newspaper as an ex- she compared the cost of ing postcards or of printing ulars and circular handbills ring with the cost of plac- in the newspaper which has 4500 subscribers. She explained that advertising. ch was influential in re- the cost of goods since ult is a merry circle, buying, selling is induced.

ewspaper advertising has not only kept the paper in but helped the public.

The newspapers were when radio came into be- started Mrs. Myers. She realize that the radio was to sway that business from to broadcasting and ultimately delivered advertising into the hands of their con- It was only later that papers would up the great of advertising as it has de- ced today.

ewspaper is something very ngible " she pointed out. "It an idea carried for a long She went t o explain when a newspaper sells ad- ertising it sells space. There- from the standpoint of eye to the value it should be laid as attractively as possible. space, especially, is effec- in display since it shows up advertising to advantage. It is necessary to study the ple to be described before ads be written. One must ow who will read the ad, to what it will appeal when struct different people.

Mrs. Myers, in explaining the ts that must be considered, also pointed out the fact that ks very easy for ads to be onstrued and that the pic- ord is more impressive and ve than the printed word. ample, in the case of the Orson ch incident over the radio Mr. Myers, who attended Rita Hayworth picture, physical education, speech psychology, with English as major in her studies. Last ear, at the University of Flor- he took a course in lettering is practically the only ad- advertising manager of a ewspaper in the United States has held this position for a ears.

Mrs. Myers, a professor of ism from Gainesville, Mr. K Stagg will be the guest speak- the Press club.

Section of officers has been postponed until a future meeting.

ew Freshmen ounsellors Are named In Senate

Continued from Page One

ors in order to help her in ademic progress, social adjust- , and physical adjustment. will conduct approximately formal orientation group ions and will assist in social ctions such as picnics, tales, presiding at freshmen tables. The final duty of a freshman selor is to make her con- an appeal to students in her by maintaining good acad- work, observing and upholding College Government. She ge regulations, demonstrating civic citizenship by participation general college programs, and ting all duties prompt- and enthusiastically.

The new freshman counsellors who will work in the dormitories are Helen Benton, Maryllis Bibb.

Sutton's Shoe Shop
213 W. College
Call and Deliver

Alpha Chi Alpha Elects Officers For Next Year

Members of Alpha Chi Alpha, national journalism honorary, elected the following officers for the coming year at a meeting Tuesday: Sarah Worth, president; Margaret Fallon, vice-president; Sara Nooney, secretary-treasurer; and Vivian Ashleweh, Al-Cri editor.

New members of the honorary will be initiated Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. A traffic paper in their honor will follow the initiation ceremony. Initiates include Margaret Palmer, Sara Nooney, and Margaret Scott. Other members of the honorary include the following: Bertha Bloodworth, Polly Deupree, Mabel Bennett, Jeannette Mullis, and Murjyl Roland.

Jaco Will Present Barrie Play Soon

The singular tale of a woman who lived and died for more than 25 years will be presented by Betty Jane Jaco as her senior speech recital at 8 o'clock next Thursday night in the Augusta Conover Hall Chapel. The unusual act sentimental comedy by Sir James Barrie entitled "Mary Rose."

Mary Rose's son visualizes the mother of his dreams by talking with his mother's first disappearance as a child from the life of a small Sussex manor home, her reappearance and later marriage. The boy's mother is second time she vanished twenty-five years before. Dramatic denouement climaxes the play. Six characters will be portrayed by Miss Jaco.

Ushers for the occasion will be Sophie Draughon, Ruth Hall, Jean Summers, Lillian Uher, Louise Usher, and Sarah Woodruff.

The next scheduled speech recital will be given by Sarah Woodruff, another Alpha.

Moore Is Elected Officer Of Sociological Society

Dr. Coyle E. Moore, associate professor of sociology, will serve as secretary-treasurer of the Southern Sociological Society for the coming year. He was elected last weekend atthe second annual meeting held at Asheville, North Carolina. Dr. Moore will be attended with a Mrs. Bristol, assistant professor of sociology, and Dr. Raymond Bellamy, professor of sociology. Mrs. Bristol was among the speakers at the meeting.

Edwin B. Embree, president of the Rosenwald fund, addressed the 200 delegates when the award was presented in the auditorium of the Norris High school at Norris Dam. 20 miles from Knoxville.

Several Alumnae Receive Honors

Tracy And Richardson Named in Recent Book

Two members of the Florida State staff, several college alumnae, and the late Mrs. Augusta Conrad have biographical sketches in the recently published book, Women in Florida.

The two staff members are Miss Anna May Tracy, college dietitian and immediate past president of the American Dietetic association, and Miss Louise Richardson, dietitian, librarian.

Women in Florida has been edited in two volumes by Lucy Worthington Blackman (Mrs. William Fremont Blackman). The first volume represents a general account of women in Florida starting with Indian women of the 16th centry and Spanish conquistadores, and continuing through the present organizations of women in this state. The second volume has 300 biographies and pictures of many named in the first book. Mrs. Conrad is also in the library.

Among the others included in the book are: J. G. Kellum, wife of the college business manager and former president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs; the late Miss Rowena Constantine, former teacher of public speech; Mrs. Eugenia Tabor Cawthon, '23; Mrs. Ida B. Colum; prominent alumnae who have received the "Award of Honor" from the Florida Alumnae association, Mrs. C. O. Andrews, a former state college student; and others.

The volumes were published by the Southern Historical publishing associates.

Teachers Attend Education Meeting

Ten members of the college and demonstration school faculty attended the Progressive Education association district meeting held at the Seminole Hotel, Daytona, South Carolina recently. Professor Ralph Beauchamp was the principle topics discussed.

Those attending were: Dr. R. L. Cousins, director of the college demonstration school and associate professor of education; Dr. Ruth Kochman, assistant professor of education; Dr. Hugh Waskom, assistant professor of education; Mr. J. B. Kelly, critic teacher and coordinator of athletics; Dr. F. C. Moor, college physician; Mr. W. T. Fletcher, critic teacher and coordinator of science; Miss Thelma Tew, critic teacher and instructor in mathematics; Miss Kathleen Fletcher, librarian of the demonstration school; and Mrs. Ruth Bellamy.

IRC Delegates to Discuss Our Good Neighbor Policy

"Our Good Neighbor Policy" will be the theme of the state International Relations club convention to be held at Miami Beach. Delegates will come to our campus from the following: Florida State University of Miami, St. Petersburg junior college, Stetson university, Rollins College, and Tampa.

Papers will be read on the subject of our policies in regard to Mexico, Canada, and the Pan-American countries. There will also be a paper on our role in the present European crisis.

Johnnymae Wright is general chairman of the convention. Program chairman for women will also be the site for the IRC South-eastern convention which will be held in 1941.

Senate Representatives Are Chosen By Freshmen

Betsy Ross Howe and Elizabeth Rogers were elected sophomore representatives to senate in the elections held last Thursday. Due to the omission of three names from the ballots during the first hour of voting the race for senate representatives had to be run again.

Other sophomore class officers are: president, Kitty Hickman; vice-president, Virginia Green; secretary, Anne Arnold; treasurer Mary Alice Kirkman; parliamentarian, Annette McFarlin; athletic manager, Starling Hall; chairman of sophomore-senior breakfast, Nan Ingram; and chairman of sophomore hop, Ginger Monroe.

Methodist Pastor To Visit Campus

Dr. James W. Workman, pastor of the Central Methodist church in Fayetteville, Arkansas and founder of the Wesley Foundation at the University of Arkansas, will visit Florida State college campus next week. On Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock, Dr. Workman will be the main speaker in Convocation. At 5 p. m. Dr. Workman will hold an open forum at the Union. On April 16 at seven and at 7:30 p.m. he will have charge of vespers at the Methodist student house. All day Wednesday Dr. Workman will hold personal conferences at the Methodist house, and at 7:30 p. m. he will lead a forum there.

Dr. Workman is here on a campus mission sponsored by the Department of Schools and Colleges of the Methodist church. Dr. Workman has also completed a tour of colleges in South Carolina and Louisiana. From here he will go to the University of Florida to spend several days before leaving for Jacksonville, Florida, to preside at the Methodist State student conference.

7 Students Take First Solo Spin

Seven girls taking the Civil Aeronautics course have soloed recently. They are: Irene Brewer, Pauline Fuller, Elizabeth Rogers, Jean McRae, Dier Puckett, and Ruth Thompson.

Students who are now trying to get their 10 hours which are necessary for a pilot's license, figures of these hours must be kept check time with the instructor.

Last week students took the Civil Aeronautics Authority examination which closed their ground school work. The examination was divided into two parts: Civil Air Regulations and Navigation and Meterology. In order to obtain a private pilot's license, they must receive a passing grade or they will have to take it again.

Let Academic Freedom Ring

Continued from Page One

closely in the future, should be called. At Berkeley College in Los Angeles, the students were refused permission to hear "Quiet on the Western Front" at an Armistice Day rally. The University of Chicago forbids any student group to invite any outside speaker to discurtale the right of student organizations to distribute literature on campus. The board of trustees of Ohio State university banned the lecture plan and assumes complete control over the activities of all student organizations. Temple university refused to permit political forums to circulate polls on student opinion. At Stevens college, some girls were expelled because they protested in Court against the action against a negro girl who had been refused admittance to the School of Journalism. In New York and Philadelphia last Fall, orders were issued that the war was not to be discussed in high school classes for fear of the communistic views occurred on the campus of Los Angeles city college where their director required all candidates to state their political affiliations in order to be able to run for a student office, and then postponed elections indefinitely on finding one candidate a communist.

In the United States Congress one "gag" bill is pending, most of which point to the registration, fingerprinting, or censorship of aliens who are unable to obtain passports or who have any change in the form of government, or who have at any time belonged to an organization in which membership is a deportable offense. One such bill provides that "any printed matter or writing may be taken from any house un-

U. Of F. Glee Club Presents Concert

Marking their 20th concert, the University of Florida Glee Club appeared here on campus last Saturday night under the sponsorship of the Florida State college Glee club instead of the senior class, as has been the former custom.

The program, opening with the Glee club theme song, included various religious songs, sea songs, mountain songs, and a group of the leading college songs. Interspersed with vocal and piano solos, Prize-winning stories and sketches were also presented. The concert concluded with the University of Florida's "Alma Mater" and Florida State's "Garnet and Gold."

Of particular note were the solos by Warner Earle Pusnell, graduate student at the University; the performance of Thomas Bob Potts Jr. 4th, as "The Cuckoo" and the piano solos. Mr. Pusnell, a blind student, concluded the outstanding number of the evening was "High Barbary," which was offered at the New York World's Fair, and the leading skit was "Dr. Jekyll's Hand Right," winner of Twelfth Annual Skit Nite in Gainesville.

Director of "Florida's Ambassadors of Coon Will" is John W. De Bruyn. On April 15 the college glee club ensemble will reciprocate with a program in Gainesville, which will be a part of the Artist series program for the year.

Librarians Attend Stetson Meeting

Miss Louise Richardson, librarian and professor of library science, and Miss Francis B. Usher, assistant librarian, attended the annual meeting of the Florida Library association held April 9 to 9 at Stetson college in DeLand.

Miss Richardson gave a report on the list of recommended books which is being drawn up at the request of the Florida association of college librarians in the Southern states.

Representatives from 75 libraries throughout the state were present at the development of buying in Florida libraries, the purchasing of Florida histories for the library, rise in this state, and union list of serials.

Guest speaker was Miss Essie Mae Culver, of Baton Rouge who is secretary of the Louisiana library commission, and president of the Louisiana State Library association. Miss Culver spoke on the work of a state library agency.

Eta Sigma Phi Names Convention Delegates

Ronlin Kelton and Jean McDowell were chosen to represent the local chapter of the Eta Sigma Phi, classical honorary, at the national convention to be held in New Orleans, La., April 11, 12, 13. Election of officers for the coming year and the revision of the national constitution will be included in the convention's program.

The list of speakers will include Dr. Mary Allen of Newcomb College, Dr. Russell M. Greer and Dr. Ernst Kapp, both of Tulane, La.

Magazine Pictures F. S. C. W. Visitors

The visits here of Mrs Eleanor Roosevelt and Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde will be pictured and cioed by pictures and stories about their visits here in the Dallyadelphian, the magazine of the Alpha Delta Pi national social sorority.

Mrs. Roosevelt is shown in a group with President Hamilton Holmes, dean of the college, Mrs. Fred P. Cone, wife of Florida's governor, and Mrs. Frank D. Moor, president of the college Alumnae association, who is also shown in that sorority Mrs. Roosevelt came to the college on February 10.

The former minister to Denmark and Miss Ruth Bryan Rohde is shown with the entire Alpha Delta Pi sorority at the chapter house where Mrs. Rohde was the reception. Her visit occurred on January 18.

Both Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Rhode visited the college at the invitation of the Alumnae association.

Tallahassee Physicians Will Speak to Freshmen

Classes of freshman hygiines will hear talks to be given by five physicians of Tallahassee next week, according to Dr. Sarah Parker White, assistant professor and professor of hygiene.

The schedule of speakers will be Monday, 2:30 o'clock, "What a Country Health Unit Does" and "Typhoid Fever"; and Tuesday, 8:30 o'clock, "What a Pediatrician Can Do for Mother and Child." Friday's talk is to be arranged later, and Saturday's will be at 8:30 o'clock, "What an Internist Can Do." The talks will be given in the Education building room 403.

Classical Club Members Plan Moonlight Boat Trip

The classical club has scheduled its annual moonlight boat ride for April 19. Leaving the campus at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon the party will board the boat at Newport on the Wakulla river. The river into the Gulf of Mexico. The trip will end by midnight at St. Marks.

Members of the classical club as well as Miss Olivia Dorman, Miss Edith West and Miss Ruth Parker White, advisers of department, will take part in the outing

BENNETT'S
2—DRUG STORES—2
COLLEGE INN PHARMACY and MONROE ST. PHARMACY
10c Woodbury's Soap, 4 for 24c
$1.10 Ambrosia Lip Stick 79c
Free Coty Lip Stick and Rouge With Purchase Coty Face Powder at $1.00
Phillips Milk Magnesia 29c
$1.00 Ironized Yeast Tablets 69c
Spring Photo Bargain Rolls Developed FREE
Special Printing Prices
No. 127 Prints ..... .03
No. 120 Prints ..... .04
No. 116 Prints ..... .05
No. 130 Prints ..... .06
No. 118 Prints ..... .06
No. 124 Prints ..... .06
No. 122 Prints ..... .07
Fountain Specials
ROAST TURKEY DINNER 25c
Served With 3 Vegetables and Drink.
Jumbo, with 2 scoops cream
Ice Cream Soda 10c
Special
Lime Rickey 10c
Fresh
Strawberry Sundae 10c
Fresh Fruit
Banana Split 12c
$1.50 Value
LUXOR
Cleansing Cream and Powder Foundation all for 89c

Reporter Carries Institute Story

An account of the Institute of State Government which concluded here Friday night is printed in this week's N. E. F. A. Reporter, the weekly publication of the National Student Federation of America. The article states the purpose and plan of the institute.

In the closing session Miss Eunice Minton, director of public assistance with the state welfare board, spoke on "Recent Social Legislation in Florida and Its Administration," saying "The most important piece of social legislation in Florida's history was the passage of the Social Welfare Act in 1936."

Miss Elizabeth Bolenberger, state director of health education, told how Florida's state board of health had its beginning when the governor called a special session of the legislature in 1936 following repeated outbreaks of yellow fever.

Colin English, state superintendent of public instruction, spoke on "State Standards of Public Education," including that of transportation, textbooks, teacher-training examinations, certification and other fields the process of standardization was being worked out. He said that education as a growing field and expressed the belief that the federal government would become more and more interested in this field.

Earlier speakers who addressed the institute included Miss Ruth Irwin, division of political science, University of Florida; Ernest Mc-Gary, Comptroller; J. M. Lee, State Treasurer; W. V. Knott, and others.

Short Silent Movies On Athletic Subjects Are Presented Here

Three silent short feature films from the Tampa recreational department were shown on the department floor of the Florida high demonstration school to students, parents, and athletics last Thursday night.

The first film reviewed field and track events; the second, playdays, sports and dances; the third activities on the play ground; and the last portrayed May Day festivities.

Athletic teachers and leaders expect to present more of these films during the year in the college recreational department later.

Library Displays Books By Rawlings This Week

Complimenting the appearance of Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings' well-known novelist, on campus this weekend, the library is presenting a special display of the books throughout the current week.

In addition to the author's picture, copies of her books "Golden Apples," "South Moon Under," "The Yearling," and an article her writing, which has been featured in the recent edition of the Wilson Bulletin for Librarians are shown.

The National Student Federation, empowered by an article in its constitution, has vigorously pledged itself to work for a democratic freedom in both professional and student ranks. Its principles are offered to any member schools who are interested in formulating a program on academic freedom.

Reporter Carries Institute Story

An account of the Institute of State Government which concluded here Friday night is printed in this week's N. E. F. A. Reporter, the weekly publication of the National Student Federation of America. The article states the purpose and plan of the institute.

In the closing session Miss Eunice Minton, director of public assistance with the state welfare board, spoke on "Recent Social Legislation in Florida and Its Administration," saying "The most important piece of social legislation in Florida's history was the passage of the Social Welfare Act in 1936."

Miss Elizabeth Bolenberger, state director of health education, told how Florida's state board of health had its beginning when the governor called a special session of the legislature in 1936 following repeated outbreaks of yellow fever.

Colin English, state superintendent of public instruction, spoke on "State Standards of Public Education," including that of transportation, textbooks, teacher-training examinations, certification and other fields the process of standardization was being worked out. He said that education as a growing field and expressed the belief that the federal government would become more and more interested in this field.

Earlier speakers who addressed the institute included Miss Ruth Irwin, division of political science, University of Florida; Ernest McGary, Comptroller; J. M. Lee, State Treasurer; W. V. Knott, and others.

Graduates Are In many Fields Of Personnel

Alumnae Are Employed By Educational And Commercial Agencies

In the comparatively new field of personnel, Florida State college alumnae, graduates from the years 1937 to 1938, are making noteworthy progress. College, high school, and commercial personnel positions are included fields for their work.

Nina McAdam, graduate of 1934, is acting as dean of girls at Miami senior high school in Miami. Following four years of teaching, Miss McAdam began her work as dean of girls in 1936.

In colonial personnel, Mrs. Hurbetta Evans Bender, graduate of 1938, has, after additional training in personnel at Columbia university, become registrar at Southern college. At Agnes Scott in Decatur, Georgia, Mrs. Annie Pierce, alumnae of 1937, is supervisor of dormitory.

Miss Elizabeth Tyler, graduate of 1933, has been in personnel work at Dodd college, Shreveport, Louisiana, since 1938 in the capacity of director of personnel and placement.

Six alumnae are active in personnel work in the state system. Miss Maude Flowers, now director of residence halls, acted as chairman of the dean of students from the year of her graduation in 1929 until her appointment as director in 1935. In dormitory direction are Miss Evelyn Rickard, graduate of 1936, who served as assistant director of Reynolds hall for the three years that's graduation until her marriage. Assistant direction here are Miss Katherine Grippe and Miss Mary Beale Knight. Miss Grippe was assistant director of Reynolds until librarian of the Ringling museum of art. Miss Knight is director of Jennie Murphree hall dormitory. Assistant director of Reynolds Miss Marion Usher class of 1939, has entered personnel in the financial office here. On June 1, Miss Dempsey Creary, class of 1938 will be installed as director of the new student-alumnae building.

Sorority personnel has drawn alumnae. Miss Josephine King was Phi Mu Alpha housing president for 1936, and Mrs. Clemmens Sherman Hollihan, present president of Kappa Delta, was before her election to that office, house director at Stephens college. In 1935, assistant to the dean of women at Florida State, and director of women's dormitories (Mrs. Hollihan's present title and personnel) manager at Nebraska university for 1936 and 1939.

New Sophomore Council Elects Price Chairman

At the first regular meeting of sophomore council Wednesday afternoon Alice Price was elected the new chairman of sophomore council to succeed Ella Maude Jones, outgoing chairman. Betsy Ross Howe was selected for vice chairman; Helen Hawkins, secretary; Alice Ludlam, treasurer; and Virginia Monroe, parliamentarian.

Last Tuesday at convocation the newly selected sophomore council girls wore blue jackets and white skirts for the first time as they performed their initial duty of checking the roll.

BENNETT'S
2—DRUG STORES—2
COLLEGE INN PHARMACY and MONROE ST. PHARMACY
10c Woodbury's Soap, 4 for 24c
$1.10 Ambrosia Lip Stick 79c
Free Coty Lip Stick and Rouge With Purchase Coty Face Powder at $1.00
Phillips Milk Magnesia 29c
$1.00 Ironized Yeast Tablets 69c
Spring Photo Bargain Rolls Developed FREE
Special Printing Prices
No. 127 Prints ..... .03
No. 120 Prints ..... .04
No. 116 Prints ..... .05
No. 130 Prints ..... .06
No. 118 Prints ..... .06
No. 124 Prints ..... .06
No. 122 Prints ..... .07
Fountain Specials
ROAST TURKEY DINNER 25c
Served With 3 Vegetables and Drink.
Jumbo, with 2 scoops cream
Ice Cream Soda 10c
Special
Lime Rickey 10c
Fresh
Strawberry Sundae 10c
Fresh Fruit
Banana Split 12c
$1.50 Value
LUXOR
Cleansing Cream and Powder Foundation all for 89c

HOW TO WIN BOY-FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE STAG-LINES
By Dales Dorothy Clix
Dear Miss Clix: I just received the intercollegiate grand prize for sculpture for my allegorical group of Hercules and the newspapers say I am the most "promising" sculptress of any college woman today. I love my work, of course, and spend a great deal of time with my hands plastering clay, but oh, Miss Clix, the men just pass me by for the other girls in school here. Yet people say I am attractive. What can I do to make the men notice me? WONDERING
Dear Wondering: I have a hunch you could spend as much effort on sculpture that you spend practically none at all "sculpturing" your own physical charms. How much time do you put into makeup? Into an attractive hair-do? Yes, and do your fingernails about to the world you've been working in clay? That's the place to start! Have immaculately groomed fingernails, lustrous, smartly colored — then, who knows? — men may become putty in your hands!
AND NOW, DEAR, READ THE NEXT COLUMN CAREFULLY!
Well painted lawn chairs
Saves Clothes and Feelings
Seek it First at VAN BRUNT & VON INC
YON'S HARDWARE
AND HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO ABOUT BEAUTIFUL NAILS
College women, like ladies the world over, are wearing nails brilliantly lacquered now—and different—all polish DURA-GLOSS! Goes on faster, keeps a beautiful gem-hard lustre longer, resists chipping longer. And—best of all!—it only costs 10 cents, in lovely fashion-approved shades. Have the most beautiful fingernails in the world! Buy DURA-GLOSS today! At cosmetic counters everywhere!

WHAT WILL YOUR MOTHER SAY!

Your Photograph On May 12th
PIKE STUDIO
107 W College

Two Hundred Girls Attend Gainesville Houseparties

The Gainesville houseparties, which mark one of the gala weekends of the university calendar, began yesterday with a large number of Tallahassee students in attendance.

Sixteen of the 23 social fraternities on the university campus have given over their houses for the occupancy of their dates. Events for the entertainment of house party guests will range from formal dinners and dances to picnics and costume parties.

Among Tallahassee girls attending are: Jean Kokoy, Audrey Ann-erton, Lucy Toumillist, Nancy Lee Doggett, Marion Vale, Frances Booker, Babbie Beckwith, Jeanne Rich, Joan Miller, Mary Collins, Sara Willis ston, Helen Beals, Mary Byrd, Alene Pridgen, Mary Evelyn McClung, Mary Glenn Grimes, Nat Houchard, Willyne Oakes, Virginia Monroe, Betty McPherson, Elizabeth Moore, and Alma Godwin.

Lois Marchant, Irene Edwards, Topsy Mitchell, Sara Duke Bryant, Alice Vaughn Brandt, Ruth Pearce, Lucille Smoak, Emmett Curtis, Elizabeth Giersch, Peaches Tyler, Beth Mitchell, Mary Jane Lambeth, Louise DeJarnette, Mary Manton, Noreen McKee, Eleanor Yothers, Dot Sellers, Margaret Sodder, Mary Smith and Jean Miller.

Margie Mercer, Celia Pierce, Paula Jane Lasher, Caroline Francisco, Mary May Pascall, Martha Stroberg, Mary Small, Mary Jo O'Neel, Beryl Hyatt, Nettie Bares, Edna Sue Hendry, Marion Mitchell, Gene Murphill, Adele Gleason, Mart Pierson, Judy Campbell, Mary Elizabeth Leech, Helen Annabelle Lasher, Louise Clements, Anne Arnold, Frances Tramel, and Betty Phillips.

Elaine Beisler, Kate Hedrick, Anne Wilson, Mary Regar, Jane Pelot, Evan Vaughn, Robert Rhyne, Fairfax Bates, Hope McClendon, Carolyn Bullock, Eva Evans, Tilly Van Brunt, Daphne Smith, Gladys McCain, Barbara Brown, Susan Mell, Ina Belle Sargent Robinson, Frances Coffee, Connie Phillips, and Martha Van Brunt.

Rosalie Rosner, Sarah Tepper, Selma Anderson, Bernice Bruser, Rosalie Feinberg, Lillian Rogin, Selma Goodman, Shirley Braverman, Madalyn Halpern, Belle Markowitz, Anita Berkowitz.

Maidie Norman, Elizabeth Johnson, Lillian Garcia, Nell Thompson, Marjorie Mills, Marion Bivins, Eleanor King, Doris Cahoon, Peggy Meechum, Dot Stallings, Helen Anderson, Gloria Johnston, Sue Bryant, Margaret Rogers, and Mary Frances Bradley. Also going were Betty Setzer, Virginia Alley, Brownie Davis, and Dot Nickerson.

Religious Calendar

YWCA

Sunday

5:00—Vespers in Wescott tower room.

Tuesday

7:30—Y. W. C. A. cabinet meeting. Broward lounge.

Wednesday

7:15—Early morning worship. Broward lounge.

Thursday

7:15—Cabinet worship service. Broward lounge.

METHODIST

Sunday

7:30—Recognition breakfast for new council members and old council members in charge. Methodist student house.

9:45—Sunday School. Speaker: Miss Martha Chapman.

8:00—Installation service for new council members.

Tuesday

5:00—Forum. Dr. James W. Kinnard. Alpha Delta Pi house.

7:30—Vespers.

Wednesday

All morning: Personal conferences with Dr. W. Workman.

7:30—Forum. Dr. Workman.

Friday

1:30—Departure for state student conference at Camp Deer Lake. Ocala. Meet in front of the student house

BAPTIST

Sunday

7:00—Training union. Topic: "Walking in Love." Leaders: Lacy McCoughan, Hazel Cantrell, Sarah Hopkins, Naomi Howard, and Frances Jordan.

8:00—Church service. Installation of new officers, following, with Miss Billie Ruth Curtis and Muryl Roland in charge.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday

7:30—Vespers. Leaders: Frances Parmer.

EPISCOPAL

Friday

7:30—After dinner coffee for all students, faculty and friends.

Sunday

9:30—Study class. Topic: "The Ascension of Our Lord." Chairman: Peggy Lowe.

7:30—Student auxiliary evening services. Topic: "The Church at Work in the Nation." Chairman: Shirley Davis.

Wednesday

5:30—Choir meeting.

Friday

7:15 a. m.—Holy Communion celebration.

Daily Morning Watch at 8:10. Monday: Loretta Ellis.

Tuesday: Dr. Sarah Parker White

Wednesday: Miss Julia Gelan

Thursday: Peggy Lowe.

Class Of '00

Shown above is the graduating class of 1900 when FSCW was known as the West Florida Seminary. At that time it was coeducational. From left to right are Edith Ellis, Kate Moore (Mrs. William Hughes) Mr. Lindsey Papp, Annie Rawls (Mrs. Frisbie Chittendon), Evelyn Lewis (Mrs. W. S. Maning).

Graduates Tell Reporter About Campus in 1900

Commencement Photo Of Forty Years Ago Reveals Man Student

Times have changed since the class of 1900 of the West Florida Seminary posed for their graduation picture. The graduating class had increased from 5 to 26. The name has changed from West Florida Seminary to Florida State college for women. And far more do young men find a place in commencement photographs.

Although the up hairdoes and lacy frills are as modern as today, the girls in the class really went to school in a wooden two-story building on the same site as the present ivy covered Administration building forty years ago.

Evelyn Lewis, Edith Ellis, Annie Rawls and Kate Moore are the sweet girl graduates who surround the only gentleman of the senior class. However they are now never known as Mrs. W S Manning, of Jacksonville; Miss Edith Elliot, of New York; Mrs. Frisbie Chittendon, of Tallahassee; Mrs. Whitman Hughes, of Memphis, Tenn.; and our own Mr. Papp, of the business office.

"We studied—and we studied hard . . . Latin, chemistry, mathematics, civics, English . . . from 9 o'clock in the morning until 3 in the afternoon," declared Mrs. Chittendon in an oblique manner when questioned concerning her Tally school days, adding with a smile, "Oh! it's so hard to remember that far back."

Of course lectures, our course of study was laid out for us and led to an A.B. degree. However, in judging it with present day standards, it compared to the usual high school curriculum today." Mrs. Chittendon went on to say. The dress of our lives were the speeches we had to write and give each Friday before the student body. And everyone had to do it, too. There were no exceptions."

When Mrs. Chittendon and her classmates were students at the seminary, campus dormitories were unknown. The student body was made up of girls and boys from Tallahassee, the nearby vicinity and West Florida. A lot of town pupils, as well as the faculty members, boarded at some home in town.

Starting the day off right, seminary students attended chapel services every morning.

"Our course," explained Mrs. Chittendon, recalling her seminary days, "the campus has grown considerably. It used to extend only back as far as where Gilchrist is now. The colored school was situated on the same spot as the present annex."

"We went to school to study," chuckled Mrs. Chittendon, the power of the picture as well as the validictorian of the class, "and in contrast to your numerous extra curricular activities, we boasted only a literary club and a athletic society, with no sororities or fraternities whatsoever. The naturlaist society took trips into the woods each Saturday to study nature. That about limited our outside activity. A few years later football, sororities, fraternities, and a yearbook, the Argo by name, were added to the activity list. Oh, yes, we had plays too, but as we didn't have an auditorium, they were presented in Gallley's Hall, the local opera house, which also was used for graduation exercises."

Representing the masculine point of view on the seminary days of 1900, Mr. Lindsey Papp, auditor in the business office, said he loved it!—especially the graduation, three inch stiff collar and all. Mr. Papp also let us in on a little behind-the-scene information, when regarding the school of the picture. Although decked out in lace and frills and best coat according to the photograph, in reality that's as far as it went. From the waist down, the portion excluded from the group picture, they were dressed in everyday clothes. Mr. Papp grinned as he remarked, "I've always thought that a full length photograph would have been much more interesting."

At this time there were seven grades included in the school, under Dr. A. M. Murphree, then president. Three high school grades and four years of college curriculum, all held in the one twelve-room building.

Mrs. Papp recounted Mrs. Chittendon's statement concerning the strenuous studying they had to do but also acknowleged that the students of 1900 weren't above playing a few pranks now and then. He even went as far as to tell of the time the members of the chimistry class sort of encouraged some hydrogen sulphide to escape into their beloved Latin teacher's room . . . with definite results."

Nothing so complicated as judiciary existed at that time Insisted Mr. Papp, "that the faculty had to disregard a number of them to keep from expelling some."

Judging from all remarks from the persons concerned, we may have paved roads and a sidewalk upon which to trek up and down the hills and a huge surrounding campus covered with numerous new buildings but they seem to agree that "those were the days."

Alumnae Return To Campus For Annual College

Continued from Page One

at the Augusta Conradi theater on the program will be: "Modern Trend in Literature, Music and Art." Miss Louise Richardson on literature; music, Kari Abrandt; and Mrs. Beatrice B. Williams, art. The meeting on propaganda will take place in the browsing room of the library, with Dr. Ralph Eyman presiding: "Foreign Propaganda." Dr. Julian Hay; and "Propaganda in Disguise," Earl L. Vance, will be topics.

The Alumnae college dedicates will lunch in the college dining hall at 12:40 o'clock. At 2 o'rock, the annual business meeting will be held at the Augusta Conradi theater. The returning graduates will dine at a formal banquet in the college dining hall at 7 o'clock. The south lawn of the Student-Alumnae building will be the setting of the formal reception from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock.

Class Of '00

Shown above is the graduating class of 1900 when FSCW was known as the West Florida Seminary. At that time it was coeducational. From left to right are Edith Ellis, Kate Moore (Mrs. William Hughes) Mr. Lindsey Papp, Annie Rawls (Mrs. Frisbie Chittendon), Evelyn Lewis (Mrs. W. S. Maning).

Graduates Tell Reporter About Campus in 1900

Commencement Photo Of Forty Years Ago Reveals Man Student

Times have changed since the class of 1900 of the West Florida Seminary posed for their graduation picture. The graduating class had increased from 5 to 26. The name has changed from West Florida Seminary to Florida State college for women. And far more do young men find a place in commencement photographs.

Although the up hairdoes and lacy frills are as modern as today, the girls in the class really went to school in a wooden two-story building on the same site as the present ivy covered Administration building forty years ago.

Evelyn Lewis, Edith Ellis, Annie Rawls and Kate Moore are the sweet girl graduates who surround the only gentleman of the senior class. However they are now never known as Mrs. W S Manning, of Jacksonville; Miss Edith Elliot, of New York; Mrs. Frisbie Chittendon, of Tallahassee; Mrs. Whitman Hughes, of Memphis, Tenn.; and our own Mr. Papp, of the business office.

"We studied—and we studied hard . . . Latin, chemistry, mathematics, civics, English . . . from 9 o'clock in the morning until 3 in the afternoon," declared Mrs. Chittendon in an oblique manner when questioned concerning her Tally school days, adding with a smile, "Oh! it's so hard to remember that far back."

Of course lectures, our course of study was laid out for us and led to an A.B. degree. However, in judging it with present day standards, it compared to the usual high school curriculum today." Mrs. Chittendon went on to say. The dress of our lives were the speeches we had to write and give each Friday before the student body. And everyone had to do it, too. There were no exceptions."

When Mrs. Chittendon and her classmates were students at the seminary, campus dormitories were unknown. The student body was made up of girls and boys from Tallahassee, the nearby vicinity and West Florida. A lot of town pupils, as well as the faculty members, boarded at some home in town.

Starting the day off right, seminary students attended chapel services every morning.

"Our course," explained Mrs. Chittendon, recalling her seminary days, "the campus has grown considerably. It used to extend only back as far as where Gilchrist is now. The colored school was situated on the same spot as the present annex."

"We went to school to study," chuckled Mrs. Chittendon, the power of the picture as well as the validictorian of the class, "and in contrast to your numerous extra curricular activities, we boasted only a literary club and a athletic society, with no sororities or fraternities whatsoever. The naturlaist society took trips into the woods each Saturday to study nature. That about limited our outside activity. A few years later football, sororities, fraternities, and a yearbook, the Argo by name, were added to the activity list. Oh, yes, we had plays too, but as we didn't have an auditorium, they were presented in Gallley's Hall, the local opera house, which also was used for graduation exercises."

Representing the masculine point of view on the seminary days of

Jennie Murphree Gives Tea In Sunken Gardens

The regular weekly tea of the Jennie Murphree parlor was given Wednesday afternoon on the lawn in front of the dormitory. The tea was in honor of the girls of this hall who have been tapped by honoraries or have been elected to offices.

Miss Wilma Wolfe, assistant professor of art, was the guest speaker of the afternoon tea for the girls of Reynolds hall. Miss Wolfe explained to the girls the use of the recently acquired art book "A Tribute to a Treasury of Art Masterpiece" by Thomas Craven.

French Club Will Sponsor Picnic Supper at Lake

French games and a picnic supper will highlight the meeting of the French club this afternoon at Lake Bradford from 5 until 7:30 o'clock. Members of the French Da, Instructor in Italian and French, the club members are learning French folk dances as the French people would dance them.

At the last meeting members of the club demonstrated some of the French dances. Alpha Alpha dancers were Lois Lastra, Martha Hostetler, Dorothy Gibbs, Hazel Hunter, Mary Florence, Virginia Wainright, and Betty Kennedy.

Smith To Talk Here Thursday

Continued from Page One

century Kaufman-Hart collaborations. "Of Thee I Sing" and "I'd Rather Be Right" were the significant Broadway revues of Harold Rome, and the International Ladies Garment Workers union's "Pins and Needles."

Mr. Smith has a store of anecdotes of personal contacts with the celebrities of Broadway. He believes the chief interest of Broadway in politics is to create laughter, yet he finds that the keen writers of stage material often dispense in their hilarious works satirical thrusts that get to discredit the pretensions of the politicos.

Mr. Smith is the author of several books, including The Craft of the Critic, Dramatic Use of Words, the Style Rule, and a work now in publication entitled Literary and Political Comedy. A Rhodes scholar, he is a member of the national committee of the American Association of University Professors, the Modern Language association of America, the League of American Writers, and the Authors league of America.

The lectures are part of a series which Mr. Smith is giving throughout the country before club and college audiences, while at the same time maintaining a firsthand inquiry into regional and campus activities and the creative and interpretive arts for the American society of composers, authors and publishers.

CONVENTIONS, FOUNDER'S DAY, RECEPTION, FILL SOCIAL WEEK

Two sororities and one honorary sent delegates to southern regional conventions this week. Chi Omega sorority sent five delegates to the spring regional Hellenian convention which is being held in Columbia, S. C. The delegates are Jan Wells, Chancey Oven, Annie Lee Cannon, Margaret Hearin, and Ann Southerlin. Alpha Chi Omega sorority also sent five delegates to their Southern Province convention being held in Birmingham, Ala. The delegates left yesterday and will be gone until April 15. Those attending are: Beth Blair, president, Nell Register, Marjorie Smith, Claude Anne Rhodes, and Mary Boatwright, social director of Reynolds hall.

Rosalea Kelson and Jeanne McDowell left yesterday as delegates to the convention of Sigma Pi, classical honorary at New Orleans.

Chi Omega Mark Founding

Chi Omega's social calendar for the coming week includes a party friendship tea scheduled Wednesday to which every sorority member is invited is being two guests. Founder's day, marking the 48th anniversary of the Omega sorority, was last Friday April 5, a special candlelight service was held in commemoration of the event to which all town alumnae were invited.

Kappa Delta sorority entertained at its annual reception honoring faculty members, town girls, house members, directors, housemothers, and representatives at each sorority April 9 In the receiving line were the new president Miss Timberlake, Kappa Delta house mother, and Miss Treva new faculty advisor of the sorority. Miss Ruth Schornherst, who has resigned to accept a year's leave of absence from Florida State College for Women.

Kappa Alpha Theta held an informal tea for friends of sorority members and alumnae after a breakfast Sunday morning for active Kappa Alpha Thetas, alumnae, actives, and pledges. The breakfast is being planned and arranged by the following new officers of the sorority; Myrtle Van Valkenburg, president of pledges; Ann Chapman, Roberta Spicer, Jane Hoffman, and Ruth Garnon.

National Officer Visits

Zeta Tau Alpha is preparing for the arrival of Miss Wilma Clyde Roberts, grand first vice president of Zeta Tau Alpha and a Florida State alumna. She is the former Lucile Reeves who was president of Zeta Tau Alpha in May queen, queen of winter ball, and president of the Y. She is a member of the "F" club and served the best all-round girl while in college Mrs. Roberts is expected today and will visit with the local chapter house Thursday the 27th. An informal coffee is planned this morning for introduction to sorority members and she will be honored at the dinner Dickerson—auditorium Wednesday.

Recent activities at the Zeta Tau Alpha house include a formal dinner dance and party for sorority members and pledges New pledges are Eda Stith and Carolyn Rhodes.

Members of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority entertain friends and rushees at an informal spaghetti supper Saturday evening from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock in the house. A social chairman will be in charge of entertainment for the evening.

Delta Delta Delta sorority will entertain rushees at a coffee this morday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock.

At a joint chapter meeting of Alpha Chi Omega Wednesday night, Dr. Anna Pierce Laird, associate professor of physics spoke on the subject "Green Influence in Modern Crime." Following the talk, after dinner coffee was served by the pledges

Old Annuals Go On Sale

Back issues of the Flastacowo for the years 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937, and 1938 may be purchased for 50 cents this weekend in the alumnae office.

Funds received from the sale of these annuals will be turned over to the building fund of the Student-Alumnae building.

Fresh men And Sophomore Model Vacation Clothes For Home Ec Students

Freshmen and sophomores of the home economics club presented to the older members Tuesday evening a fashion show planned and directed by their group. In the fashion show the students modeled their own Easter dresses with appropriate accessories. Also on the program were beach clothing, evening dresses, and spectator sport dresses.

At elections of the home economics club held yesterday, Miriam Studstill was made president for the coming year. Other officers elected were Ruth McCain, secretary; Virginia Lounso, social chairman; Mary Chase, publicity representative; Theo Blalock, junior representative; Ruth Hendricks, sophomore representative; Carolyn Johnson, vice president; and Elizabeth Yancy, treasurer.

FSC Orchestra To Give Concert Next Wednesday

Continued from Page One

Geraldine Hamilton, Mary Chase, Annabelle Hoffman, and Pauline Morrow.

Violas, Lula Cooper, Charlotte Cooper, and Elizabeth Miller; violincello, Mary Sue Barnes, Frances Hughes, Betty Potter; basses, Bruce Wynn, and Dorothy Mae Shiflet; flutes, Merryday Rosser, Hazel Wimberly, Betsy Stapleton, and Byron Musell; clarinet, Mary Stephenson; clarinets, Marion Swearingen, and Isaac Lopiolo; French horn, Robert Hoffman; saxophone in E flat, Betty Rose Scott; bassoon, Edna Warren; trumpets, Jean Daniells, and Robert Brandt; trumpets, Jean Hitchcock; and harp, Mary Reeder.

Collegiate Comebacks

Continued from Page Four

dollar for sending the following remark the award in class to College Humor. Quoting one of our psychology professors, "Has anyone seen my notes on Human Efficiency?"

* * * *

And advice to journalism majors from a journalism major: "If you want to get ahead in your subjects, Ad-vance in your classes."

* * * *

From the Bullins Reflector (for no special reason excepting that it doesn't hurt anyone's feelings):

Here we go round the mulberry bush, mulberry bush, mulberry bush

Here we go round the mulberry bush

Monotonous, isn't it?

* * * *

And there's a little item we lifted from the exchanges about a girl who was allowed to draw on papa's account as long as she wrote on the back of the check what the money went for. Seeing some nerva nifta evening sandels, she wrote back home to papa's banker: "All God's chillun need shoes."

* * * *

We witnessed a touching drama at breakfast the other morning.

A student — the rascal — was boldly walking out of the dining hall carrying a sweet roll when a conscientious member of the social committee stole up and said in that gently reprimanding tone used on wayward two-year-olds: "Let's put that down, h-m-m?"

You're right—the naughty student quietly didn't eat her sweet roll.

* * * *

We hate to be sour grapes or something, but we do wish that people who must worry about things like Too Many Big Weekends At Gainesville Coming All At Once would keep their troubles to themselves—frankly, the deplorable situation hasn't bothered us a bit Maybe—but no—that couldn't be the reason.

* * * *

Maybe you'll appreciate home talent after reading this sample from ar exchange column:

A divinity student named

Tweedie.

Once wouldn't accept his degree

Cause it's fourth enough being called Tweedie.

Without being called

Tweedie D.D

Going "two packs at a time" because Chesterfield is today's definitely milder, cooler-smoking, better-tasting cigarette

These three qualities—MILDNESS, COOLNESS, TASTE . . . are the sum and substance of real smoking pleasure. You enjoy all three in Chesterfield's right combination of the world's best cigarette tobaccos.

At over a million places where cigarettes are sold you can see these clean white Chesterfield packages going into more pockets and more handbags every day. All over the country smokers are finding out you can't buy a better cigarette.

May The Last
Be The Best!

The Florida Flambeau

Long Live The Monthly Dances!

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXVII | Tallahassee, Florida, April 19, 1940 | NUMBER TWENTY-FOUR

pirogira Taps Wednesday n Dining Hall

Duncan, Four Juniors, Two Freshmen Receive Black and White Bids

Two freshmen, four juniors, nd one member of the administration staff were tapped by pirogira, Odd honorary, last Wednesday noon. The odd leaders, clad in black and white, paraded through the dining hall and seated the initiates.

Those extended membership Jean Hitchcock, and Martha Ellen Hackl, freshmen; Frances Battle, Margaret Scott, Dorothy Mitchell, and Elizabeth Linn, juniors; and Miss Madeline Duncan, secretary to the dean of students. These girls were elected on the basis of outstanding leadership, loyalty, service, and Odd spirit.

Jean Hitchcock has served as president of the freshman class, a member of the Tarpon club, Tarpon club, Life Saving corps, the Symphony orchestra.

Martha Ellen Hackl is the freshmen representative to Junior, a member of sophomore council, vice house chairman and participated in the Odd demonstration.

Frances Battle is president of the Tarpon club, senior instructor, manager, and has been attending in Odd basketball, and Odd swimming.

Margaret Scott, now editor of Flambeau, has been co-editor and society editor of the paper, secretary of her freshman class, property chairman of Odd demonstration, vice-chairman of the dance committee of Alpha Chi Alpha, honorary society, and publicity committee.

Dorothy Mitchell has served as chairman of Derby, Derby Day, 1938, class representative to senate for two years, and as a member of sophomore council.

Elizabeth Linn has been vice-president of Y. W. C. A. and also student assistant in social organization, a freshman counsellor.

Continued on Page Six

Skaggs Lectures or Press Club

Censorship of Books Topic of Discussion

Battle of the '29's", a discussion of censorship during the year 1929, was given by Professor K. D. Skaggs, a member of the faculty at the University of Florida, Wednesday afternoon at the press club meeting.

Professor Skaggs said that all types of writings were censored in 1929. Any frank portrayal of lustily frowned upon because was felt that the reading public should not hear of poverty stricken parts, newspapers favored realistic conditions to be entered.

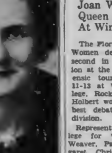
About this same time three books came forth which were refused to sell "Boom shelfs" of see. They were "Main Street", "The Bulls of Parades", "Jurgen" "Main Street" proved the illusion of the little village full of virtue and piety, showing it instead to be full of sullenness, and scandal.

"This Side of Parades" showed the college student as a moral and a villian who changed prosperous and happy forever into a failure.

After the appearance of these books an organization was established to set up its own boards of censors and instructed its own members. Many different censorship organizations arose from this, but a conflict in ideas. Finally cooperation of

Continued on Page Two

McCarthy, Brown to Head Newman Club Next Year



New officers of the Newman Club were elected at the recent meeting in Bryan tower room. They are president, Kathleen McCarthy; vice-president, Catherine Brown; treasurer, Theo Blalock; recording secretary, Jeanne Reese; corresponding secretary, Ruth Hendricks; parliamentarian, Alice Olson; athletic manager, Rachel Owen; senior representative, Susanne Wilson; junior representative, Betty Simmons, and sophomore representative, Betty Anne Crow.

Installation will be held May 5 at a communion breakfast.

Alumnae Head Association

Ashmore to Head FSCW Alumnae

Date of Next Meeting Discussed by Group

Mrs. J. F. Ashmore of Gracewille, the new head of the Alumnae Association, is pictured as she is succeeding Mrs. Frank Moore and will hold office until the Alumnae college next year.

Mrs. J. F. Ashmore of Gracville, the new head of the Alumnae Association, is pictured as she is succeeding Mrs. Frank Moore and will hold office until the Alumnae college next year.

Mrs. J. F. Ashmore of Graceville will head the Alumnae association for next year as a result of the alumnae college business meeting last week. She will take the place of Mrs. Frank Moore of Tallahassee, retiring president of the association, who will relish her present position as chairman of the Student Alumnae building to be opened tentative on June 4 and formally next semester.

The building drive day in power has deposited approximately $3,-000 toward furnishing the new building. Recent contributors have been the Flatacowo, $500; the class of 1939, $200; Kappa Delta alumnae, $100 in memory of deceased members of the chapter; and the Miami alumnae club, $30.

Other officers of the Alumnae association elected at the same time as Mrs. Ashmore are Mrs. George E. Lewis, Tallahassee, vice-president; Miss Daisy Parker, Tallahassee, secretary; and Miss Helen Shepard, Tallahassee, treasurer. The new board of directors will consist of Mrs. Katherine Stood Hoffman, Gainesville; Miss Lucy Lane Trenton, Miss Dorothy Dodd, Jacksonville; Mrs. Evelyn Brown Weil, Tampa, and Miss Sara Nail, Miami.

Chief question to be decided upon during the coming year is that of changing the date of alumnae college back to Thanksgiving at which time the annual home-coming was formerly held, and moving Parents' day to some date in the spring.

The Thanksgiving holidays, commencement, Labor day week-end, and various dates were suggested and a committee was ap-

Continued on Page Two

Old, New Type Citrus Growers Struggle Constantly For Living

Farmers Battle Droughts, Rain, Fire, Pests, Rich Northerners To Eke Out Sustenance

By LOUISE BURGER

In the citrus belt of Florida where citrus growing is the principal means of sustenance, a constant struggle exists between the old farmers and the new agricultural men who have come here as tourists. In the instance I previously mentioned, the newcomer is the older, backward men of the soil. This south Florida region necessitates hard work and great energy if an existence is to be maintained. The struggle is perpetuated by those men who have become definitely set, determined and unchangable, and the men who are willing to experiment, compare, probe, and examine modern methods.

The cabbage is usually a lanky tall man whose face is lined and brown from the sun. His hands are callioused, he walks with something of an apologetic stoop, and his clothes fit much like a scarecrow's. He has struggled for a score of years to earn more than a meagre living, but has succeeded in scarcely having enough for his family.

This farmer's method of farming is representative of most of the old homesteaders; he does little fertilizing, but depends on a load of sufficient proportions for a tree, plant the tree, and after a few years, when the tree leaves the tree until time for harvesting whatever fruit there may be. He has not enough amount of fertilizer, just enough to keep the tree alive, grows infrequently, and hopes for the best possible crop. He has no raising scrawny chickens, lean cows, and a swarm of bees, not to mention an enormous family of dirty, squalling children. The children are also a part of what ever housework is required by a citrus grower. His home is substantial and attractive structure if the building had not been neglected for its architecture, ruthless and destructive. The storm of neglect has covered the paint of this home and it has been left to the ravages of time. Shingles, boards, no plaster inside or out, and no plumbing whatsoever. This deplorable condition will go on for years, probably never will the house be completed; a man's dream was shattered.

Catastrophe Strikes

That is not a rare example of the disillusions and catastrophes that occur in this section. Unexpected droughts, fires, excessive rains, and insect pests ruin

Continued on Page Six

Local Debaters Placed Second In Tournament

Joan Weaver Crowned Queen of Tournament At Winthrop Ceremony

The Florida State College for Women debating team placed second in the women's division in the Grand Eastern Forensic tournament held April 11-13 at Winthrop State college, Rock Hill, S. C. Patty Bishert won the honor of the best debater in the women's divisions.

Representing Florida State College for Women were Joan Weaver, Patricia Hobert, Margaret Christie Harrison, and Mary Brice Dawes. There were forty-two schools competing, with men and women's divisions. The Florida state team won eight debates out of ten from Winthrop State college, Alabama, State, Tennessee Tech, Mt. Mercy, Toledo, Linfield, Mercer, State, Rockmont, and two teams from Duke university.

Friday night the tourney presented the symbolic ceremony, the Grand Eastern wedding. In which a "bride" is chosen from the women's debating teams and a "groom" is chosen from the men's teams to uphold termsic relations for the coming year. Joan Weaver, the chairman of the debate council of Florida State College for Women, was the "bride" of the event with Tom Stokely, senior from the University of Maryland.

Enroute to Winthrop the girls debated Queens college and a debate to Presbyterian college in Clinton, S. C. However it was the first time the entire team had debated the isolation question in the same evening.

Continued on Page Two

Florida Meeting Attended By Hay

Adjustment Questions Are Convention Topic

On Thursday afternoon Dr. Marion Jewell Hay, associate professor of education, left for the University of Florida where she will attend the seventh annual meeting of the Florida association of colleges and universities. Dr. Hay is the vice-president of the association this year and is now serving her last term in this office.

"Cooperative Adjustment of Some Problems Common to the Florida Colleges and Universities" is the theme of the meeting, which will begin this afternoon and end tomorrow. Problems to be discussed are the Maximum Student Load Problem, The Honor System Examination, "The Non-Failure Policy in the Present-day Education and its Consequences for the College", "How much College Work Should be Required in Ser-

Continued on Page Six

Reporters Find Interviewing Marjorie Rawlings Difficult

Gracious Florida Authoress Answers Queries While Posing And Autographing Her Books

The friendly crowd that gathered around Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings after her lecture Friday night made interviewing difficult. Mrs. Rawlings graciously signed her name, answered questions, and tried to please everyone at the same time.

"Please, would you autograph this for me?" and an open copy of The Yearling was held forward.

"Is there anything special you would like me to write?" she asked the owner. Being very careful to spell the names correctly, with a fountain pen borrowed from Billy Bass, she inscribed the books and programs.

Someone passed her, "Mrs. Rawlings, when will you publish another book?" She replied that, she had a collection of her short stories entitled. When the Whip-poor-will is being printed now. This title is taken from an old saying of the Florida backwoods people. "Would you mind posing just a minute for a picture?"

"I take a horrible flash light picture. You won't recognize it. I'm afraid." But very graciously she posed with Mrs. Frank Moor, while Rachel Pitchford took the picture.

Little Betty Moor, daughter of Mrs. Moor came forward, and asked politely "Mrs. Rawlings, would you sign in my autograph book?"

Here was a birthday autograph book, in which Mrs. Rawlings signed on the page devoted to those born on August 8. She also wrote down her favorite color, "green", food, "just for fun," the swamp cabbage.

"When are you going to write your next book, Mrs. Rawlings?"

"I'm planning to write one this summer if I can keep galvani-

Continued on Page Two

Juniors Receive Scholarships

Andrews Announces Three Award Winners

Three juniors have been awarded scholarships for the coming school year, according to word issued by Dr. Dorothy Andrews of the registrar's office. The three girls receiving the awards are: Cornelia Watson, the Pan-Hellenic scholarship; Ann Hall Johnson, and Edith Williams, the Gilchrist scholarship. The Gilchrist scholarships are provided for in the will of the late Governor Albert W. Gilchrist, and are open to juniors and seniors of superior scholarship who have financial help to complete their courses.

During her freshman year, Cornelia was exhibit editor of the art class and took part in various college functions. In her sophomore year she was a member of sophomore council, became sophomore representative to judiciary. In her junior year she was social class representative to judiciary and was elected president of the student council for 1940-41. Outstanding honors work in the physiology department and will graduate with B. S. degree in physical education next year.

Evelyn Ann freshman year Carolyn Mims was vice house chairman of Kappa Delta sorority. In her sophomore year she was a member of sophomore council. She served as second vice-president of Y. W. C. A. and in the latter part of her junior year she was elected social man or judiciary for the coming year. Carolyn is studying for a B. S. degree in education.

Edith Williams spent most of her freshman year as an assistant in the botany department. She was exempt from English and biological science. Her sophomore year. In her junior year she was student assistant in the botany department, and freshman counsellor in Bryan hall. She is a member of Alpha Chi Alpha Florida chemistry honorary, and is studying to be a laboratory technician. She will receive her B. S. degree in botany next year.

Yearbook Election Set For April 30

The C. G. A. executive council set April 30 as the election date for the editor of the 1941 Florida cowo, college yearbook, in a meeting Tuesday afternoon. Ballots will be cast in convocation and petitions must be turned in by 10:30 tonight, to Cornelia Watson, president of College Government association.

Each candidate's petition must be signed by 25 students. A statement of the girls' qualifications filled out on the question sheets must accompany the petition and qualifications are to be submitted by Carl C. Carr, president to a faculty committee for approval. The candidates' platforms are required to appear in the Flambeau for April 26 To date, there will be no campaign speeches made in convocation.

A special election for Flatacowo editorship is being held as there were no candidates running for that position in the March elections.

Tomorrow Opens Second Annual IRC Conference

Six Colleges To Send Delegates To Discuss International Affairs

The second annual state IRC convention to be held in this campus will begin at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Delegates from six state colleges will attend to participate in the discussions and round table conferences to be held over the week-end. Speakers have been invited from this and other colleges, and a detailed program has been planned for the visiting delegates, who will number approximately 100.

Registration for the week-end will take place in front of the box office in the Westcott building from 2 until 3:30 o'clock tomorrow. Students coming others than Florida State will pay the registration fee of 75 cents, and all will receive name cards to be worn throughout the week-end. At 2:30 o'clock in Ruge hall, Dr. Katheryn Abbey, professor of psychology will address the delegation on the "Role of the United States in the Present European Crisis." Following her talk, at approximately 3 o'clock will be held on this subject until 5 o'clock.

Lunch dining-hall will be the scene of the banquet which the delegates will attend Saturday evening. The group will meet in Landis parlor at 8:15 o'clock and will go from there to the dining room at 6:30. The decorations for the banquet will center around the "international" theme. A Florida State student will preside as toastmaster. Dr. Hay will bring the dinner, the delegates

Continued on Page Two

Honorary Plans First Latin Week

Main Theme Will Be Founding of Rome

The founding of Rome in 735 B. C. will be celebrated on the Florida State college campus, under the auspices of the Sigma Phi classics honorary, with the first annual Latin week beginning April 21.

The theme of this celebration Eta Sigma Phi will present slides showing scenes of the Roman campaigns in Britain Thursday night, April 25, in Bryan library building. Members of the classics department, and Latin students of Florida high school are invited to the program.

During Latin week, Dr. Carl Schlicher will exhibit color vases and other objects illustrating Roman civilization.

Dr. Amelia Dorman, professor of classics, will speak on radio station WTAL Friday on the Latin week celebration. Her speech is in connection with the Latin week observance of the program which will be broadcast by Dr. Dorman from the studios of the state.

Other observance by high schools and colleges throughout the state is sponsored by the Classical Association of the Middle West and South. Stetson university is sponsoring the Latin week poster contest in connection with the celebration.

Hicks Is Elected Day Student Head

Martha Hicks, junior, was elected president of the day students association in a meeting held yesterday. She will succeed Dot Cole.

Other officers elected were: vice-president, Mary Alice McNeill; secretary, Mary Ann Crawford; treasurer, Mary Rhame; representative to Student Council, Jeanne Blalock; representative to Judiciary, Elizabeth DeMilly; activity chairman, Jimmy Pain; transportation chairman, Josephine Mims, Elsie Cater, Caroline Bird; social chairman, Betty Tolson; social chairmen, Betty Tolson and Esther Hay.

The new officers will be initiated on May 5 at a party given at the beach home of Martha Hicks in Carrabelle.

The members of the organization voted that it be compulsory for each girl to attend all except two meetings during the year. Also, any student misses more than two meetings will be fined a quarter unless sickness or out-of-town work are responsible for her absence.

Debate Team Will Meet Florida Pre Side Tonight

For the first time this year, the debate team of the University of Florida will meet the Florida State college team in the o'clock tonight in 309 Westcott. The subject of the debate will be the isolation policy. The visiting team, whose members are Ed Rood and John Fleming, will take the affirmative. The negative will be upheld by Patricia Holbert and Joan Weaver. Dr. Irish, political science instructor will judge the debate and Mabel Nihoul will act as chairman.

New President

Dr. M. R. Hinson (above), professor of education, has been elected president of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which is composed of approximately 1,357 institutions.

Dr. M. R. Hinson (above), professor of education, has been elected president of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which is composed of approximately 1,357 institutions.

Education Group Chooses Hinson

Professor Is First Floridian President

Dr. Murphy Roy Hinson, professor of education, is the first Floridian to receive the honor of being elected president of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. This is one of the highest honors ever accorded a member of the faculty of Florida State college for women.

Dr. Hinson succeeds Dr. Albert P. A. Roy, president of Loyola university at New Orleans and was elected at the recent convention in Atlanta. The association of which Dr. Hinson is president is a regional accrediting agency for high schools, colleges, and state departments of education. It is composed of approximately 1,357 member institutions.

As president of the association Dr. Hinson will prepare the program for the annual meeting to be held next year, preside over the business meeting, and act as chairman of the executive committee of the association, which determines requirements and standards for officially accredited groups.

This achievement adds another to the large list of the professor's long record of public service in the field of education. He taught in a one-teacher school in Madison county, served as high school principal at Chattahoochee, and taught at the University of Florida. George Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., and at Columbia university in Durham, N. C. Dr. Hinson served in the state department of public instruction of Florida as supervisor of high schools and later as state director of instruction from 1927 to 1936. He accepted the position of associate professor of education at Florida State college for women in 1936 and later was made a full professor.

Dr. Hinson holds the degree of

Continued on Page Two

Uncle John Tells Reporter of Eight Years as Nightwatchman

Guard Once Met by Gun-Bearing School Boy Who Threatened to Shoot Him on the Spot

Everyone on campus is familiar with the powerful figure and kindly countenance of Uncle John Collum, a night watchman at the campus for eight years, but few realise the importance of his job and the interest he takes in each and every one. Uncle John is loyalty to the college and his devotion to the duty that he thinks he has been absent from work only three times in the past eight years. Don't you wonder how many students can boast an equal record in their attendance at classes?

Uncle John is a native of Leon county, but his Scotch-Irish ancestry hails from South Carolina. He has worked for the city as a deputy sheriff and has been a guard at the penitentiary at north Florida. Now he is paid by the State to keep the campus safe nights a week for fifty weeks a year. He and his colleague, Mr. Green, alternate in covering the front side and back side of the campus from 8:30 p. m. until daylight.

Their principal duties are to guard against fires, prowlers and speeders, and to see that all doors except the front entrance of Bryan are locked at 10:30.

Watching for fires is the most important part of their task, according to Uncle John. He says to maintain the record that he has so far preserved there is not fire on the campus during the eight years that he has served here.

He tells this interesting story of one of the most exciting incidents that has happened to him. On a frosty Sunday morning in 1934 while pacing his 3:30 round near the music annex, Mr McCollum heard a noise behind him and stopped. He turned and found himself staring at the muzzle of a shotgun pointed at him by a youth who said "I'll shoot you!"

With admirable calmness the watchman quickly unbuttoned his coat, drew his revolver from its holster and faced the boy, thinking that he was a hobo. But he hesitated to shoot the lad and within a few minutes had persuaded him to drop his gun. The policeman picked up the weapon while keeping the lad covered with his revolver. When he questioned the young man, Mr McCollum discovered that he was a high school student, who deliver-

Continued on Page Six

Committee Gives Senior Hall Bids To 40 Students

34 Of Those Chosen Accept Invitations Received Last Week

Out of approximately 100 juniors who applied for membership in Senior Hall 40 received bids last Friday which 34 have accepted. These students were selected by the Senior hall selections committee, which was appointed by the senior council and was composed of five students and a faculty member.

The committee which was appointed by college council, a body made up of the executive council of C. G. A. and the faculty committee on student affairs, was composed of Ruth Rogers, chairman; Bettie Young, Katherine Graham, Marian Grinnall, Frances Slade and Dr. H. L. Wilkins, associate professor of psychology. The committee's decision was subject to the final action of the faculty committee on student affairs.

Purpose Given

According to a statement set up by college council the purpose of Senior Hall is given as follows:

"Senior hall shall be an honor, a reward, and a privilege of, and opportunity for, further service. It shall honor those who already demonstrated their ability to live successfully in regulated conditions and have proved that they are capable of assuming the responsibilities that accompany the increased freedom and honor of Senior hall. Juniors, although exempted from preparation for the honorary life on the basis of maturity of judgment, thoughtfulness, and reliability, are not exempted from responsibility for group living and participation in activities.

In an official report sent to the Flambeau the selections committee said: "This year Senior hall is still in the experimental stage, and a different basis for selection has been used. As a result of this, the number being awarded the honor was reduced to no more than 50. This limit was set because the college council felt that only a certain percentage of the senior class would meet the qualifications necessary for the achievement of the purpose of Senior hall."

The report went on to give the

Continued on Page Three

Chorus To Sing In Gainesville

Glee Club Ensemble Featured on Program

The ensemble of the Florida glee club will sing tonight on the artist series of the Lyceum council of the University of Florida. The Glee club is the sixth group of artists to be presented on this program which has also featured Hope Manning, the Joons ballet, and other well-known artists.

The Glee club will go to Gainesville in a chartered bus and they will stay in private homes and in the White House hotel. Miss Jeanne Considine, senior member of the music department will be the chaperone for the trip there. There will be one concert at 8 o'clock after which the girls will be entertained by the Lyceum council at a dance in the gymnasium.

The program, of course, will feature American songs, Indian songs, Negro spirituals and other folk songs. Several novelty numbers "Moon-Marketing," "Prof Jones-A-Country," and "Peter Go Rings Dem Bells" which met with much favorable comment upon the concert given here several weeks ago will be repeated.

Peggy Hunter will accompany the Glee club, of which Miss Robertson of the music department is director.

4-H Club Elects Palmer President for Next Year

At the last meeting of the 4-H club the following officers were elected to serve during the next year: president, Frances Palmer; vice-president, Estelle Hatton; secretary, Dorcus Stone; assistant secretary, Lillian McKeown, treasurer, Vera Ray; parliamentarian, Helen Henly; program chairman, Wilma Smith; freshman advisor, Ruth Hendricks, social chairman, Verva Mannino.

Installation will take place sometime the latter part of this week.

From Other Colleges

Mississippi State college is the first school in the nation to offer a "How to Get a Job," class to undergraduates. In these informal meetings students are given the opportunity for critical discussion of themselves and their services. Topics are developed on the various steps in securing a job, preparing a sales campaign, representing actual letters used, developing leads, and obtaining actual results from leads.

The instructor of the clinic, an "action professor, in preparation for the course has corresponded with Sidney Edlund, author of the book. "Pick Your Job and Like It, and Lyle Spencer, director of the Service Research association. The school will also be furnished with employment assistance from the Service Research association, which is being sent to about 400 colleges and universities throughout the United States.

* * *

Voiced complaints on Emory campus influenced the university debate forum to take its first step last week toward abolishing repeated debating on time-worn subjects. The resolution has been voted and passed upon and will be put into effect next fall. The forum will elect six appropriate subjects for intercollegiate contests. No one subject is to be debated on the Emory campus more than twice. This action was taken to effect student interest. The adoption of fraternity sponsorship was also advocated in attempts to further efforts for increased attendance. The President drawing the house audience will receive an interfraternity attendance trophy. Such a plan was successfully used at Duke university.

* * *

Journalism students at Lehigh university, Bethlehem, Pa., entered the capitol's press last week on a Washington trip. Accompanied by their news editor and Instructor in journalism, the group spent three days visiting the press and radio galleries of the senate and house of representatives, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Washington Bureau of Associated Press, and other places of national press interest. Next year the journalism students are planning a trip to New York city.

* * *

A survey held last week among Presbyterian college, Clinton, S. C., co-eds to determine "the man I'd like to marry" seems to rebuke the old adage that American girls like their men "tall, dark and handsome." The typical "My Man" must preferably be a brunette with brown eyes, three inches higher, and "cute" rather than really handsome. Although preference is registered for men who smoke, the girls ruled "thumbs down" on alcoholic beverages. The marriageable male must be said to dance, but he definitely is excused from "jitterbugging." He should be on the same intellectual level, read books, but not excessively, and know the art of playing bridge. With such prerequisites the co-eds would start married life with a him on a $100 a month salary.

One would draw the conclusion that no girl 1940 leap year solicitations exist, but 50 per cent of Presbyterian's co-eds claim that they have already met such perfections. Fifty per cent admitted that they had not met this man of their dreams, but not a single one of them has lost hope!

* * *

A three year project of scientifically planted gardens, which will be unequaled by any other college student in the United States, is now being sponsored at the University of Georgia by the garden club of Georgia and the university's department of landscape architecture. The project, known as the Founders Memorial garden in honor of the founders of the garden club of Athens, oldest garden club in the United States, will cover approximately two acres of the campus grounds.

* * *

One hundred fifty thousand dollars for the construction of a girls' dormitory has just been given as a gift to Mercer university by James Hyde Perkins, philanthropist, who gave funds for a gymnasium to the school in 1937. The structure will house 118 women students with additional room for the office of the dean of women, an infirmary, and eight rooms for the school's sororities.

Local Debaters Place Second In Tournament

Continued from Page One

excellent preparation for the tournament at Rock Hill.

The tournament was sponsored by the Alpha chapter of the Strawberry Leaf society at Winthrop. The Florida State college debate club became affiliated with the Strawberry Leaf society in December of last year.

This afternoon at five o'clock in 303 Westcott the Florida State team will debate the University of Florida varsity team.

Plans for next year include twelve inter-collegiate debates, attendance at Winthrop twice again, and, if possible, arrangements for a tournament to be held on this campus.

Orchestra Gives Spring Concert

Cowles Directs Group In Special Numbers

The Florida State college orchestra, conducted by Walter Rise Cowles, presented its spring concert Wednesday night.

The program included several features of special interest, one being the orchestrations of piano preludes and fugue from the first volume of Bach's "Well Tempered Clavichord." Of these the first, the Prelude No. 22, was arranged for the orchestra by members of Mr. Cowles' class in instrumentation.

Muted strings sounded against a harp background in Prelude No. 8, arranged by Mr. Cowles himself. The Prelude and Fugue No. 9 were also put into orchestral version by Mr. Cowles. The orchestra's symphonic number was the Mozart Symphony in G minor.

Another feature of the program was the introduction of two sensors as piano soloists in concerto with the orchestra. The first, Beta Graves, pupil of Dean Ella Opie Carson, played the first movement of Mendelssohn's G minor concerto. Ruby Dunnin, pupil of Mary Ester Wineglow, closed the program with the first movement of the Grieg concerto.

Honorary Conducts Initiation Rites

Initiation of the new members of Phi Kappa Phi, general scholarship honorary, took place recently in the history building. A banquet at the Cherokee hotel followed the initiation. Dr. E. O. Gibbs, past national president of the organization and head of the department of physics at Cornell university, was the guest speaker. Professor Albert A. Abbey, head of the history department, also addressed the group.

R. Breen, president of the chapter, presided at the banquet.

The 20 girls initiated were: Lena Bischoff, Rose Mary Carlisle, Mary Dunn, Margaret Jessup, Margaret Lhuro, Gertrude Mahaffey, Sara Marzaret, Joan Miller, Marie Pattani, Martha Dent Perry, Sara Marzaret Rawlings, Lucile Roberts, Merrydar Rosser, Reba Southwell, Mary Ann Stuart, Ruth Thompson, Mary Vergowe, Margaret Vogt, Lolis Watrous, and Bettie Young.

Reporters Find Interviewing Rawlings Difficult

Continued from Page One

ing around and settle down for a while."

"Would you mind signing this piece of paper?" Rawlings replied. "Slim Dunahoe." From Horace Liveright she got another personal autographed picture and letter. Maxwell Perkins was a friendly reply to her inquiries; none are stereotyped form letters. She considers she had leaders from the standpoint of a listener, yet students, however, were more professionally because of her close attention to radio music. Her love of radio likely led to the book broadcasting station in any new town she visits.

She professes to be not outstanding musician herself, but has been known to make a little the isolate. Yet because of a little activity interest in her hobby of radio listening she has accumulated a collection of small fancy things containers that is the envy of any swiss fan help her to visualize him any better.

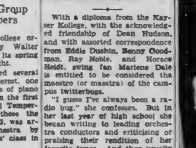
Another group of girls approached her. "I don't know whether you know me. I'm Bess Wilbers." one of them said. Then she delivered a message from the mother, a friend of Mrs. Rawlings. Mrs. Rawlings seemed confused, and sent a message in return. Others in the group talked with the author about relatives in friends in common, exchanging news about who married who and what happened to so-and-so.

Then she reminded by Mrs. Moor that President Conradi was waiting for them Mrs. Rawlings hurrying into a long coat which matched her gown and calling "Good-by" at the reception." To faculty and alumnae who had lingered on the way out of the little theater. All the while, between greetings and farewells, trying to discuss the limitations of the writer's ability with the "aspiring young journalists."

Walking from the stare to the car, "The writer can write only of what he knows and loves and feels. I can't write of the city and its struggles because I love and understand the people of Florida's back-country. Besides there are too many people writing about the "economic problem, don't you think?" Reiterating her theory of the natural affinity of people and places, she said, "The story of how I came to Florida is long and personal, but once here I loved it so that I couldn't leave it. Cross Creek is the place I am most content to have to write of it."



Before reaching the car Mrs Rawlings apologized for not being able to talk longer and called, "Hope I've given you enough stuff for a story," drove away, leaving the young writers staring in awe.

Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, who spoke last Friday night on "Fact into Fiction," was born in Washington, D.C., and spent many hours of her childhood riding and walking through the streets of Washington and Virginia. It was during these days of wandering that she first discovered the city she made the way to Cross Creek near Hawthorne, Florida, where she was only new hunting ground but she soon gained the confidence of her early love for the country life. Here she has made home there with the people of the scrub, owning and operating a large orange grove.

Dabbling in stories and verse since she could steal a piece of grocery paper and a stubby pencil," she started under Ellery Sedgwick at the Atlantic Monthly. Her short novel," Jacob's Ladder" entered in Scribner's long story contest brought her for the first time the critics' applause. In March 1933," South Moon Under" was a book of the month selection. It was a Florida tale filled with very practical advice on how to make corn liquor, how to hunt wild cats, and how to raft logs. In this same year "Golden Apples" appeared in 1938, is another portrait of the homely people of Florida's big scrub.

Her latest novel, also a book of the month choice brought Mrs. Rawlings the Pulitzer prize award for the novel of 1938. "When Whip-poor-will Calls" a section of her short stories will soon be off the press.

Debaters Win Honors

The debating team from Florida State college won second place in the women's division of the Grand Eastern Forensic tournament at Winthrop college, Rock Hill, S. C., last weekend. The four members of the team pictured above from left to right are Mary Brice Deaver, Margaret Christie Harrison, Patty Hiskett, and Joan Weaver.

Members of Ornithology Class Profess Love for Bird Study

Students Find Spring Weather Favorable For Excursion Trips to Wakulla Springs

It is said that "in the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," but the thoughts of Dr. Enda Devaney's ornithology class seem to be drifting into different channels. They too have a love which comes with the spring season and the sun begins to shine, but they do not take this love lightly. Their love for nature takes them to Wakulla Springs where they spend hours paddling around in a rowboat, donated by the proprietor of the springs, studying various birds.

The limpkin, better known as the "crying bird" has received much attention on these observations. The call of the bird of limpkin is so impressive that you can never forget it, say the students.

The Florida gallinules which are found in great numbers are webbed, and the purula and yellow-throated warblers which sing high in the tops of the trees, are drawing their attention away from the limpkin. While many in the group have been especially interested in the predominate warbler, which is the nearest to the proverbial golden bird, others enjoy watching the water turkey luxuriously stretch its wings and dry itself in the warm sunlight. Among the larger water birds studied by the class are the little blue heron, American egret, Ward's heron, little green heron, and the black-crowned night heron.

On one of the visits to Wakulla springs the class was accompanied by Mrs. Roxie Simpson, a specialist in bird taxonomy and taxidermy working in connection with the state museum of natural history in Raleigh, N. C.

Believing that variety is the spice of life, the ornithology class go to other places to determine their study. Frequently they go by bus to St. Marks where the studying of short birds of which the sandpipers, willets, gulls, terns, avocets, and rails comprise a few, is the chief interest.

Don't be too surprised if you stumble upon a girl or group of girls field glasses in hand carefully studying a twig, for their love of nature is the explanation to their "queer" actions.

The ornithology class, a relatively small group, is composed of Edith Williams, Rachel S'eh, Beth Colvin, Mr. Reba Kirby Southwell, Rose Kirby, and Catherine Wells.

DUKE UNIVERSITY

SCHOOL OF NURSING

DURHAM, N. C.

The Diploma in General Nurse is awarded after three years, and the degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing for two additional years of approved college work, either before or after the course in Nursing. The entrance requirements are intellegence, character and graduation from an accredited high school. After 1940 two years of college work will be required. The annual tuition of $100 covers the cost of uniforms, books, student government fees, etc. Catalogues, application forms and information about college requirements may be obtained from the Admission Committee.

Linn Announces Advisory Group

Nine Members to Hold First Fixed Meetings

Nine new freshman counselors have been chosen to serve on the advisory council for that group, according to a report from Elizabeth Linn, freshman advisor. Two additional members will serve in the capacity of chairman of recruiting and chairman of the freshman class elections, will be chosen next fall.

For the first time in its history, the freshman counselor advisory group will hold regular meetings, the frequency of which have not been decided upon as yet. The purpose of the advisory council is to help this the counselor to be more effective.

Those who have been chosen are: chairman of attendance, Gene Bryan; chairman of freshman tables, Kathleen McArthy; chairman of assembly, Louise Lorton, Betty Mickinson; chairman of assembly programs, Elizabeth Williams; chairman of literature, Elaine Hunderman; chairman of transfer students, Mary Carlton; chairman of offcampus, commuters, Jeanne Reid; chairman of day student counselors, Ann Tucker, and secretary, Marie Hinds.

Tomorrow Opens Second Annual IRC Conference

Continued from Page One

will attend the monthly dance in the gymnasium.

Sunday morning at 9:30 in the Augusta Carroll theatre, the conference will begin with a lecture to be discussed by three students who have prepared for this occasion, and an open forum to be held following the talks. "Our Good Neighbor Policy" is the head, and a student from the University of Florida, a student from the University of Miami delegate will present "The United States Policy toward Pan-American Conciliation" at 9:5. Peterburg junior college representative will discuss "The United States Policy toward Mexico" at 10:30. Rollins college will discuss the United States Policy toward Canada" the chairman of the talks will be announced by the forum discussion on this subject.

Will Elect Officers

Officers for next year's conference will be elected by the group to hold it will take place at 11 O'clock Sunday morning also so as to be discussed at this business meeting is the State International Relations Club consideration which is being prepared by IRC students in the Southern Association of this week-end Patty Holbert is chairman of the committee preparing the constitution. Working with her are Mabel Nilhoul. Mary Alice Brice, and Margaret Harrison.

At 11:30, the conference will adjourn.

In charge of all arrangements for this week-end is Johnnieanne Wright, of the local chapter of Social Relations Club. Dr. Marian Irish, associate professor of political science, is faculty advisor to the conference. Next year the annual Southeastern conference will be held on this campus.

BSU Installs New Officers

Continued from Page One

treasurer, Hazel Canfrell; publicity chairman, Hazelle Howard, and Gloria Morgan will discuss "Walking Worthy Of The Calling."

Every welcome will be held Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings at 7:30 in the annex room.

Tonight the Y. W. A. will meet

Department to Return Humanities Notebooks

Humanities notebooks will be returned tomorrow morning in the English conference room, 301 Westcott, to students who were members of humanities classes last semester.

New Speech Play Cast Is Announced

The complete cast for Moliere's five-act play, "The Learned Ladies," which will be presented by the speech students April 25-26, has just been announced.

Martha Smithwick is playing this part of Armanda, a young woman aspiring to brilliance but who barely glimmers in the presence of her learned mother and aunt. Lolis Tabet will play Henrietta, a girl in love, who is utterly without brilliance. Marie Crouch plays Philaminte, the mother of the two girls. She is a "new" woman, who has discovered learning which has come to her head but not to her brain. Betty Rose Scott plays Chrysala, the father of the two girls, who provides relief and comedy in the play. He is a "real soul," completely dominated by his wife, but would like to be dictatorial.

Others in the cast are as follows: Frances Ellison, Betty Jane Lacy, Mary Elaine Bell, Blair, Sarah Woodruff, Nell Mortest, Beth Ford, and Jayne Colley.

Previous to the presentation for the general public the play will be given for the Literary club, April 23, at 4 o'clock.

Education Group Chooses Hinson

Continued from Page One

bachelor of arts at Wesleyan from the University of Florida, his master's from the University of Georgia from Peabody College. Dr. Hinson had also attended Vanderbilt university and the University of Grenoble, in France. He has traveled extensively in Europe to study at the University of Grenoble while with the United States Army.

Organizations to which Dr. Hinson belongs include besides the Southern association, in which he served as a member of the executive committee, the Florida Education association; National Education association; Masonic lodge; and Tallahassee little theatre. He is chairman of the board of stewards of the Methodist church.

Dr. has written articles frequently for education magazines, High School Quarterly, the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary School Quarterly, and the bulletin of the Florida Education Association.

Ashmore To Head FSCW Alumnae

Continued from Page One

pointed to confer with the college authorities to determine the most available period. The committee consists of Miss Daisy Parker, Miss Katherine Warren and Miss Mary Settle, all of Tallahassee.

Following the business meeting, the returning graduates were on a tour of the administration building which is expected to be ready for occupancy within a few weeks and which will serve as headquarters for both students and alumnae.

The alumnae college program came to an end with a banquet at 8:00 p. m. at the student house with Laura McCaughan in charge.

Delegate Returns From AAUP Meet

Mr. Earl L. Vance, associate professor of journalism, returned Monday from a meeting of the national council of the American Association of University Professors held at Stevens's hotel in Chicago last week. Mr. Vance was one of three delegates from the southern region to attend the meeting. Others were Dean Greene university and the University of Alabama.

The council drafted a list of junior colleges whose faculty members will be eligible for membership in the A. A. U. P. In Pennsylvania junior colleges rank among schools approved at this time. Until this year, only professors in colleges offering a four year curriculum could join the organization. The council also decided that the annual convention of members will take place in Chicago during the Christmas season next December.

Display Pictures Making of Books

"How Books Are Made" will be the subject of a display of books for the next two weeks. This exhibit will illustrate graphically why certain books are made in certain censes which have to do with the making of a book from the time it studies seven large panels, 24 by 30 inches in size. These panels are supplemented by three smaller ones made from actual photographic blocks in Lake Jackson showing presses and other pieces of machinery at work. These also are supplemented by a number of larger panels. Also on exhibit will be booklets entitled "How Books are Made." The library has a few copies.

This exhibit, sent to the library through the courtesy of the Federal Works Progress Administration, was secured through the efforts of Miss Eva Mae Hall and Miss Ruth Graham, assistants in the library.

Skaggs Lectures For Press Club

Continued from Page One

censorship developed between the United States and the citizens.

The New York Daily Mirror was banned in Canada as being unpatriotic because it was the very same paper was banned in the neighboring state of Philadelphia. Chicago banned all pro British books. One college editor went so far as to ban the study of Geography because they thought it was pro-British, Skaggs said.

In 1936 this censorship was lapsed because of the course of the Boston Post in attacking Roosevelt and when the heads of the censors were even found to be pro-Roosevelt.

Today the motion picture industry feels this same suppression. Of the three pictures nominated the picture A Farewell to Arms by Ernest Hemingway was banned at the request of the Italian government. Danger of this censorship of press and radio is unofficial censorship when groups take their own stand.

GIRLS!
NEW YORK THIS SUMMER?
Live comfortably and economically at either of our two residences exclusively for women. Rates as low as $10.00 weekly including meals. Write for booklet—
THE FERGUSON RESIDENCES
35 E. 62th St. New York City 300 W. 22nd St.

OUTSTANDING
Values Will be Featured
At National Open House Week
BEGINNING APRIL 27
Here is an Opportunity for Old Friends to Revisit
For New Ones to Become Acquainted
With

Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & VON INC
YON'S
HARDWARE

BENNETT'S
2—DRUG STORES—2
COLLEGE INN PHARMACY and MONROE ST. PHARMACY
Free Motorcycle Delivery

Fountain Specials
Bar-B-Que
Pork Sandwich 15c
Potato Chips, Ice Oranges
Fruit Sundae 12c
Whipped Cream, Pineapple
Grilled Western
Steak Sandwich 25c
F. F. Potatoes, lettuce and Tom.
Two 15c Jumbo Malts 25c
Ice Cream Soda 10c

Drugs and Toiletries
Palmolive
Sun Glasses $1.95
75c
Listerine 59c
60c
Sal Hepatica 49c
$1.00
Wine Cardui 79c
Bennett's Milk
Magnesia pt. 27c qt. 44c

Modern Dance Group will Present Original Dance Program Tonight

Music From Ahrendt, Reed to be Featured

A program of original dances by college modern dance group will be presented at its annual spring concert in the main auditorium tonight at 8:15.

Musical music for the recital was contributions from Carol Reed, young American composer who visited the campus recently for the "American Ballads" from Karl Ahrendt, head of the violin department, for "Serenade," a form dance based entirely 17th century court life dances for the recital have especially designed by Miss Ruth Smith of the home economics department and Miss Nellie-Dickinson, dance instructor were made by Mildred L. and Carmen Lytal, chairof costumes.

The complete program is as fol-

Primitive suite (music by ?, program including "Earth Worship with Isabelle Dale, Betty and Amelia Gordy; "Voodoo by Nellie-Bond Dickinson; "Ceremonies" with Betty Jane Dorothy Guthrie Mathis Mary Lou McCord and Armstrong; Mary Sue Daniel, Smith; McB. Miller.

"Persian Miniatures" ("We Three O God," music by E. with Nellie-Bond Dickin-

"Barabande" (music by Karl with Nellie-Bond Dickinson, Nellie Smith, Gwen Stevens, Pat Mack, Virginia Hudson, Ralliff, Barbara Thomas, Clements, Dorothy Roberts, Elizabeth Ann Jandice Miller, Mary Al-Bundrant.

Carnival" (from words by Mary McDermott Shide, music Offenbach) Cpl. Marlene Dale, Eleanor Rachel Irwin, Mary Jane Ann Smith, Dorothy Mathis Watson, Amelia Gordy, Dorothy Mathis, Betty Jane determination.

"You Take It" (music by with Caroline Stowell, Betty Padgett, Margaret Clements, Muriel Burns, Dorothy Gibbs, Janice Miller, Ann Bundrant.

"Drum Interlude" (Jean Hitchcock-Eve Drums) with Barbara Ann Bundrant, Clements, Eileen Bunland and Nellie Dickinson by Harsanyi and Gershwin) including "Strut" by Barbara Thomas, and "Chicken Pickin'" with Mary Ellen Bland, Frances Smith, Nancy Dowell, Rose Castle, Charles Ruth Pearce.

"Dance Macabre" (music by Gard-Reed) with Nellie-Bond Dickson, Mary Ellen Bunland, Janice Minnie Mae Barbara Thomas, Margaret Clements, Allie Mae Gibbs, Dorothy Gibbs, Kathleen Gruppe and Dorothy Guthrie will accompany the Lathrop is under the direction of Mary Moody, and makeup is by Jane McKay. Stage managers are Louise Prine and Amelia Watson.

Seminoles Give Junior Hall Bids to 40 Students of the selection of Senior the next year. Since Senior is recognized as a group representing the standards of membership and service to the college the following basis of selection is adopted by the college and was used by the selection committee:

Continued from Page One

No more than fifty juniors may be proved for three years for positive merits of college membership shall be invited to be Senior Hall. Any junior must have demonstrated the following qualities:

Intelligence and acceptance of policies of the college to protect the health, good name, and general welfare of the students.

Comprehension and acceptance of group responsibility, with ability to see what is best for general good and the courage to work for the benefit of the whole.

Discrimination between permissiveness and privilege group welfare.

Ability to contribute to good fellowship by taking the lead in public opinion, fostering desirable movements, and finding good influence through personal contacts.

Transfer and day students were given as high preference as resident students, according to report. The report also stated "Colleges council decided that number invited to live on hall should include only who had shown the above mentioned qualities, however small number might be."

The selections committee further stated "This is an experiment conducted by the colleges on the basis of selection for ...ership qualities, but the personnel policies of the college are to be administered by the student body as a whole. Selection of members of Senior Hall should not reflect discredit on the college nor jeopardize its relationships.

The present Senior hall adopted a council plan of government at the beginning of last year with a chairman and secretary as the executive committee. These girls are appointed to serve on the council by the dean of women, the social director of the dormitory in which Senior hall is located and the president of the college group and an ex-officio member of the council.

At the beginning of next year the members of Senior hall will have the privilege of setting up whatever type of government they desire.

Miss Katherine Byrd, social director of East Landis, will serve as advisor to the Senior hall group which will occupy the east wing of the two-dormitory floor of Landis.

Students Accept

Students who have accepted the invitation to live on Senior hall next year are: Hilda Adams, Virginia Balkcom, Frances Brown, Lillian Bennett, Agnes Brown, Floread Brown, Gene Bryan, Kathryn Camp, Margaret Chesnutt, Linnie Lou Cautter, Marjorie Harris, Mary Henry, Patricia Holland, Hunter Wilma Jones, Jocelyn Juniper, Elizabeth Linn, Kathleen McCarthy, Carolyn Mims, Beryl Mitchell, Sonia Mitchell, Martha Murphy, Dorothy Nickinson, Sara Nooney, Frances Palmer, Louise Patterson, Minnie Ratliff, Ola Belle Thomas, Lucille Walker, Cornelia Watson, Jean Weaver, Nancy W. While, Martha Whitehurst, and Edith Williams.

FSC Ranks High In Sports Day

Ten Girls From Here Win in Four Events

Ten girls represented Florida State college for women and received honors in the annual Sports day which was held at Stetson university, DeLand, last Saturday.

Colleges which sent representatives to the meet were Florida State College for Women, Miami university, Rollins college, Stetson university, Tampa university, and Southern college. The ten delegates from FSCW were: Brunella Mobley, Paulette Nolan, Dot Parks, Barbara Thomas, Frances Battle, Bernice Walton, Meta Helms, Frances McKay, Marion Fresling, and Jean Wood.

Games participated in by these girls were: basketball, volley-ball, badminton, tennis, archery, darts, and box hockey. Florida State took first place in basketball, volley-ball, and box hockey.

Upon arrival at the campus of Stetson university Friday the participants were introduced to representatives from the various colleges and were entertained by their Stetson hostesses as guests of honor during the day. Formal entertainment was followed up by a banquet and dance at Chamberlain dining hall, after which each college presented skits, consisting of singing and tap-dancing. After the skits the finals in the badminton tournament played off. During the rest of the afternoon guests were entertained with a picnic at Lyon springs. The program of events came to a close Saturday morning with the Stetson speech department presenting a series of reading plays in the Stetson little theater.

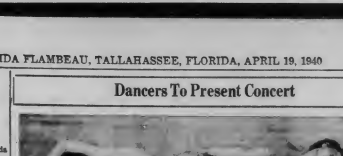
The theme of Sports day, carried out in decorations and skits, centered about music. The reception Friday night in the gymnasium was decorated with musical instruments. Miss Pearl Stewart Simon walked off with Grand Honors for her highest individual honor award of its kind in the nation. We're plenty proud you took first.

Well, spring vacation came and went, and it hardly seemed like a day had gone by. And what have you got to show for it?

Week after this we're going to have a six-day vacation. We're wondering how many of you will be able to make it? As a feature of the Dichomathean party there will be a contest to determine the best dancing act of the three divisions — jitterbugging, waltzing, and fox trotting. Not only that, we're going to pick a queen too. And there'll be a floor show and everything.

It looks like it should be a swell dance, and the purpose of the thing certainly is noteworthy. So-wit: to show that college students can have a hell of a time with little money. Well, it's worth trying anyway.

What's more, you can see Laburnum Grove that weekend too if you come. The mystery about the Florida Players' newest show holds more and more, and the question mark angle is creating a lot of buzz in the air.



There's been a big Inter-American conference here this week, and many Latin students who have compared our session favorably with the Pan-American conference held in Lima, Peru, last year by the national government both commended.

We can't tell you an awful lot about the conference, because we haven't had much time to attend—and anyway we ain't all the dope. But we can tell you those who have attended have been a highly successful affair.

Nazism broke forth on our campus this week-end when swastika blossomed forth on top of the quadrangle flag pole. It was quite a surprise to see the huge Indian cross emblazoned on the spot, but there was more speculation as to who put it there and how they did it than there was of joining the Nazi party.

The final result was that the swastika was backwards, but then the leader of the Nazi party shown himself to be pretty backwards at times, too, so there is a definite connection. Incidentally, the cross disappeared shortly after its appearance, and rumors say like the college campuses you read about in fiction, doesn't it? We're anxious to welcome your else clubbers here after Your swell reception to the hundreds of good will, and we're holding a special Florida Union dance for your entertainment, and never get to see enough feminine pulchritude, so bring some of your Joe-ity, Junior, Elizabeth Linn, Kathleen McCarthy, Carolyn Mims, Beryl Mitchell, Sonia Mitchell, Martha Murphy, Dorothy Nickinson, Sara Nooney, Frances Palmer, Louise Patterson, Minnie Ratliff, Ola Belle Thomas, Lucille Walker, Cornelia Watson, Jean Weaver, Nancy W. While, Martha Whitehurst, and Edith Williams.

Dancers To Present Concert

Mary Ellen Bissler (left) and Margaret Clements (right) are modern dance students who will participate in the recital to be given in the auditorium tonight. These dancers are doing advanced work under the direction of Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson, instructor in physical education, who is presenting the work of her students in this spring concert.

New Coach Comes To Gainesville

Lieb's Staff to Make Football Plans Soon

By BILL REOA

Florida's mysterious new football coach, Tom Lieb, made his first official appearance on the University of Florida campus Thursday, after conducting a drive from California.

Lieb, ex-Rocker kid, has remained silent in regard to the extent to which the Notre Dame system will be followed here at the university, but will confer with the present assistants about plans for the 1940 Gators very soon.

And did you know our debaters took fourth place in the grand Eastern tournament? Yes sir! Stewart Simon walked off with Grand Honors for her highest individual honor award of its kind in the nation. We're plenty proud you took first.

Well, spring vacation came and went, and it hardly seemed like a day had gone by. And what have you got to show for it?

Week after this we're going to have a six-day vacation. We're wondering how many of you will be able to make it? As a feature of the Dichomathean party there will be a contest to determine the best dancing act of the three divisions — jitterbugging, waltzing, and fox trotting. Not only that, we're going to pick a queen too. And there'll be a floor show and everything.

It looks like it should be a swell dance, and the purpose of the thing certainly is noteworthy. So-wit: to show that college students can have a hell of a time with little money. Well, it's worth trying anyway.

What's more, you can see Laburnum Grove that weekend too if you come. The mystery about the Florida Players' newest show holds more and more, and the question mark angle is creating a lot of buzz in the air.

There's been a big Inter-American conference here this week, and many Latin students who have compared our session favorably with the Pan-American conference held in Lima, Peru, last year by the national government both commended.

We can't tell you an awful lot about the conference, because we haven't had much time to attend—and anyway we ain't all the dope. But we can tell you those who have attended have been a highly successful affair.

Nazism broke forth on our campus this week-end when swastika blossomed forth on top of the quadrangle flag pole. It was quite a surprise to see the huge Indian cross emblazoned on the spot, but there was more speculation as to who put it there and how they did it than there was of joining the Nazi party.

The final result was that the swastika was backwards, but then the leader of the Nazi party shown himself to be pretty backwards at times, too, so there is a definite connection. Incidentally, the cross disappeared shortly after its appearance, and rumors say like the college campuses you read about in fiction, doesn't it? We're anxious to welcome your else clubbers here after Your swell reception to the hundreds of good will, and we're holding a special Florida Union dance for your entertainment, and never get to see enough feminine pulchritude, so bring some of your Joe-ity, Junior, Elizabeth Linn, Kathleen McCarthy, Carolyn Mims, Beryl Mitchell, Sonia Mitchell, Martha Murphy, Dorothy Nickinson, Sara Nooney, Frances Palmer, Louise Patterson, Minnie Ratliff, Ola Belle Thomas, Lucille Walker, Cornelia Watson, Jean Weaver, Nancy W. While, Martha Whitehurst, and Edith Williams.

Pool Workers Wanted

All girls interested in working in the pool this summer or next year bring written applications to Miss Majorie M. Mayer by Saturday morning. This is very important.

WAA Calendar

Friday, April 19

5:30—Golf and Even softball practices.

8:00—Modern dance concert in auditorium.

After dance concert—Midnight in gymnasium.

Saturday, April 20

2:00—6:00—"Open house" gymnasium.

Monday, April 22

4:30—Odd softball practice.

7:30—P flub "after-dinner coffee" in Dorothy Inman's kitchen.

8:00—"Recreation night" at gymnasium for faculty.

Tuesday, April 23

4:30—Even softball practice.

4:30—Tarpon club practice.

Wednesday, April 24

4:30—Odd softball practice.

Thursday, April 25

4:30—Even softball practice.

4:30—Tarpon club practice.

New Campus Baffles Alums

Two young women skidded down Landis hall last weekend and landed hard on one of the gates at elevators. With giggles and intense embarrassm one pushed a button and escaped enchanted delighted by. "Oh boy, let's go down to the second floor now. Gee, but this is fun!" The two alumnae were apparently only one or two years "out," and the idea of not having to "boot it" at Florida State college still remains fresh in their memory.

From all appearances many of the "new" alumnae, who are still straggling back to the new dining hall after the football game, had evidently planned to particularly enjoy renewing old acquaintances and re-live their much missed alma-mater days for a rushed, rushed weekend. But many were completely thwarted by the new campus changes. Instead of coming back to the one big familiar building they found a new dining hall before the closed stomachs would be put up. The evidently lost numbers of students called that the girl turned back and forth in the country in search of the dining-hall.

Then there is either put up signs or pass out campus maps to us old alumnae!" laughed one of the women. "Why, I haven't been back since old East hall was the main dormitory!"

In an effort to make conversation on the hurried trip the students had to make between their doors of good will, and we're holding a special Florida Union dance for your entertainment, and never get to see enough feminine pulchritude, so bring some of your Joe-ity Tally gals come on down we're plenty happy to welcome you. Only wish you could stay—reception you know?

Ya know, this column seems to get a lot of attention from your Collegiate cousins. We really think it's a mighty clever column, but we wouldn't admit it in public! And just to show we know what's going on, we'd like to dedicate a little poem to CC.

Roses are red.
Violets are blue.
Buzzer is sweet.
Huh?

And thus we cringe as we wait to be made thincemeat of in the next edition of your humor column. There'll be lots of us seeing this weekend, so until then.

C'ya now.

Officers Chosen As Meeting Ends

Graham Is President Of Business Offices

A. M. Graham of Winthrop college, Rock Hill, S. C., will serve as new president of the Southern association of college and university business officers. He was elected at the close of the convention held at Florida State college on Saturday.

Others named to serve with Graham were: W. C. Trotter of the University of Kentucky, first vice-president; H. A. Meyer of Centre college of Kentucky, Danville, Ky., as third vice-president. Thomas Benning, of Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., as secretary-treasurer was reelected, and as the executive committee Francis C. Gentry, of the University of Louisville, Louisville, Ky., R. B. Bretzke, of the University of Chattahoochee, Tenn.; Wallace M. Smith of Coker college, Hartsville, S. C., J. L. Pretlow, of Maryville college, Tenn., and J. C. Wright of Georgia State college for women, Milledgeville, Ga.

Bidding for the 1941 convention were: Texas Technological college, Bristol, Va.; Centre college of Danville, Ky.; the University of Louisville College and Furniture State teachers collect. Ala. The executive committee will decide upon the place at a later date.

Discussions on auxiliary enterprises, plant maintenance and operation, and accounting and reports ended the Saturday morning session with H. A. Meyer of Centre colleve, V. B. Hathorne of Millsape College and Reverend Thos. A. King taking part in the discussions.

The convention held a banquet Friday night at Florida State college for women where Phi Ki Tay of the state department of agriculture was speaker.

FSCW Will Sponsor 1941 National Swimming Meet

As a result of winning the women's intercollegiate swimming meet recently, Florida State association department has been invited to sponsor both national and intercollegiate meets in 1941. This announcement was made by Miss Marjorie Mayer of the physical education department.

Florida State College has sponsored the southern meet once before, but this will be the first time it has been selected as the national meet. All of the events will be in speed swimming.

Expert Lectures on Golf

Jimmy Thompson, professional golfer who is classified as the foremost hitter in the country, lectured before golf classes at Florida State college for women Monday. He was sponsored by a sporting goods company.

Mr. Thompson is the second expert golfer to visit the college this spring. The first was Helen Dettweiler, woman star.

It's needless to say that everything is very different.

"It's funny," she said, as she paused to look at the new dining hall before they started up the steps, "that I visualized the college would be as very different as it actually was! And as much as I wanted the college to grow I was almost a little resentful at first when I found that there were to be new buildings and so many changes.

"You see," she laughed apologetically, "I was so crazy about it here that I couldn't bear the thought of any change in traditions and everything that had meant so much to me. But I know better now, and I'm glad really. All these new places frightened me at first, but everything else is the same.

Indian Cross Appears On Campus Flag Pole

Nazism broke forth on our campus this week-end when swastika blossomed forth on top of the quadrangle flag pole. It was quite a surprise to see the huge Indian cross emblazoned on the spot, but there was more speculation as to who put it there and how they did it than there was of joining the Nazi party.

The final result was that the swastika was backwards, but then the leader of the Nazi party shown himself to be pretty backwards at times, too, so there is a definite connection. Incidentally, the cross disappeared shortly after its appearance, and rumors say like the college campuses you read about in fiction, doesn't it? We're anxious to welcome your else clubbers here after Your swell reception to the hundreds of good will, and we're holding a special Florida Union dance for your entertainment, and never get to see enough feminine pulchritude, so bring some of your Joe-ity Tally gals come on down we're plenty happy to welcome you. Only wish you could stay—reception you know?

Ya know, this column seems to get a lot of attention from your Collegiate cousins. We really think it's a mighty clever column, but we wouldn't admit it in public! And just to show we know what's going on, we'd like to dedicate a little poem to CC.

Roses are red.
Violets are blue.
Buzzer is sweet.
Huh?

And thus we cringe as we wait to be made thincemeat of in the next edition of your humor column. There'll be lots of us seeing this weekend, so until then.

C'ya now.

All Invited to Play At Gym Saturdays

Every Saturday afternoon the gymnasium is opened to all those who wish to use the equipment. Everything from shooting baskets to shuffle-board is ready to be used by those who want to play. Come out and enjoy yourself.

Photos Depict Famous Dancers

Gym Display Shows Modern Techniques

Now on display in the lobby of the gymnasium are pictures of movements in modern dance as exhibited by two York artists in concert last winter. These pictures were obtained and made available to the students by Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson, instructor in physical education.

In the pictures are depicted some of the best work of artists of the modern dance in America. The pictures here seemed to prefer the less violent movements of artists Martha Graham's "The Prostitute" to any others of the dancers.

Charles Weidman, the only outstanding man dancer in the group was pictured several times. His dance, "The Happy Hypocrite," is well known because of his fine body contractions and releases. The "Trend," Miss Martha Hoam's greatest dance, displayed unique lighting effects. Miss Doris Humphrey and her group were also included.

Doris Humphrey and Mr. Weidman, with their group, were presented here last year in the program of the artists series.

Miss Dickman has studied under both Miss Graham and Humphrey. She will present a recital of modern dance numbers here in the auditorium at eight-fifteen next week. Students who are interested in the modern dance is invited to attend.

Life Savers Elect Baugh President

New officers were elected Tuesday night at a meeting of the life saving corps. Kitty Baughn was elected president. Frances Christie, secretary; Irene Fremd, instructor; and Demora Ecker, captain. Kitty was also chosen to receive the annual scholarship. Miss Baughn who is junior, an aquatic school in North Carolina.

Initiation of new members took place April 11. Those initiated were Sue Elvin, Demora Ecker, Jean Hitchcolk, Pat Patterson and Gimmi Bedale.

Miss Baughn's election has been revised, changing the former captain, Kitty was the Life Saving Corps to Life Saving Corps of F. S. C. W. Other changes were made to bring the constitution, which was written in 1929, up to date.

evaluation of results, and the breath of experiment are entirely within the

First Hall Differs

Next year will be the third year that there has been a senior hall on this campus. The first year Senior hall was composed of the Senior class living on the second floor of Gilchrist. The purpose of Senior hall was to be the governing body of the incoming senior class whose membership was limited to the highest type and opportunity to prove themselves worthy of accepting the responsibilities that accompany increased freedom."

The members were selected by a committee formed by the directors of the Flambeau, the Flastocown and Distaff editors, the chairman of Judiciary, the treasurer of C. O. A. the president of C. O. A., the president of Y. W. C. A. Factors considered in the selection this first year were a "C" average; good health, the recommendation of the residence hall directory, record in the dean of student's office; personnel record; recommendations from faculty members, senate and friends of the student; and the students extra curricular activities.

This year Senior hall has been selected on the basis of grades, activities, personnel record, faculty recommendation, and court record. The members were chosen by a committee composed of two seniors not living on Senior hall, two seniors living on Senior hall, advisor of Senior hall, a faculty adviser from the faculty committee on student affairs, the past president of C. O. A., and the faculty committee on student affairs.

No Regulations

The members of Senior hall are under no regulations, but the personal policies of the college are to be administered by the student body as a whole. Selection of members of Senior hall should not reflect discredit on the college nor jeopardize its relationships.

The present Senior hall adopted a council plan of government at the beginning of last year with a chairman and secretary as the executive committee. These girls are appointed to serve on the council by the dean of women, the social director of the dormitory in which Senior hall is located and the president of the college group and an ex-officio member of the council.

At the beginning of next year the members of Senior hall will have the privilege of setting up whatever type of government they desire.

Miss Katherine Byrd, social director of East Landis, will serve as advisor to the Senior hall group which will occupy the east wing of the two-dormitory floor of Landis.

Students Accept

Students who have accepted the invitation to live on Senior hall next year are: Hilda Adams, Virginia Balkcom, Frances Brown, Lillian Bennett, Agnes Brown, Floread Brown, Gene Bryan, Kathryn Camp, Margaret Chesnutt, Linnie Lou Cautter, Marjorie Harris, Mary Henry, Patricia Holland, Hunter Wilma Jones, Jocelyn Juniper, Elizabeth Linn, Kathleen McCarthy, Carolyn Mims, Beryl Mitchell, Sonia Mitchell, Martha Murphy, Dorothy Nickinson, Sara Nooney, Frances Palmer, Louise Patterson, Minnie Ratliff, Ola Belle Thomas, Lucille Walker, Cornelia Watson, Jean Weaver, Nancy W. While, Martha Whitehurst, and Edith Williams.

F Club Goats Undergo Trials

Great secrecy shrouds the day in May when the F Club will initiate its recently tapped goats into full-fledged membership. Meanwhile the goat, are undergoing hardships of a minor nature on the whims and fancies of the members.

The normal life of a goat would not be complete without the proper social note. Bush being the case, the goats will prepare and serve to members of the club after-dinner coffee April 22 at 7:15 p. m. in Landis lounge.

To impress upon the mind of the lowly goat her station for the time being the 34 members have devised many and varied ways of dashing such an impression. The most practical one is the shining of shoes for the members by the goats every Friday in front of the new dining hall. Members are making approach a goat and ask that she walk out of the dining room backwards—not such a difficult feat, but woe be to the and little goat who forgets to obey the rule. Her reward is punishment inflicted for a longer period of time. Goats may be seen sweeping rooms or chasing hither and thither in search of articles for members.

Paulette Nolan was tapped by the club Friday in addition to the girls that were announced recently.

Intramurals Begin In Three Sports

Intramural archery began last Monday under the direction of Paulette Nolan, and will continue for two or three more weeks depending on the weather and attending conditions. The second round was played yesterday and will be finished next week.

Double badminton contests under the direction of Betty Jane Mayer, instructor, began April 10. Sets are played on four courts in the gymnasium every Wednesday at 4:30 and 5:30.

The intramural swimming tournament directed by Dorothy Parks is to be next Monday at 4:30. Prospective contestants met yesterday afternoon at 4:30 for practice but no practice periods will be required for participation in the tournament.

Camp Trips For Sailing, Canoeing, Prove Popular

Miss Marserie Mayer, instructor of physical education, will take six six trips to camp with the newly organized canoeing-sailing and canoeing groups. All the girls in the swimming classes and their friends have been given the privilege to go to camp on Friday, April 26 to 5:30 to 4:30 to 7:30.

Over 240 different girls have come up to date Miss Mayer wishes to announce that if the interest shown so far continues she will make new plans for future trips to camp. Also, if a group of 15 or more girls wish to go they can notify Miss Mayer and she will make arrangements for them to go to camp for canoeing and sailing classes and for eating supper there.

White Announces Results Of Recent Hookworm Test

According to Dr. Sarah Parker White, professor of hygiene, 4.6 per cent of the 1000 students examined for hookworm had the disease. Of the 806 students coming up for physical education classes, only 240 submitted specimens for the test, which was conducted through the infirmary under the direction of Dr. Sarah Parker White, Doctor Carter of the state board of health. Mr. Carter says that a series of lectures on the hyriene classes on hookworm. In these talks he stressed the prevalance of the disease in Florida and the need to fight it.

Faculty Members Frolic At Gym

Monday Nights Find Teachers at Sports

Passing by the gym Monday night, your reporter saw that it was all "fit up" from top to bottom and wondered what was going on. she casually wandered into the lobby. There several little girls and boys of various ages were playing jacks, ping-pong, and a more lively game of tag. Upon inquiring, your reporter found that this was faculty play night and these were some of the faculty members' children and their friends.

In the big gym several semi-athletic games were being played by Miss Ruth Lehman, Miss Claudia Moore, both of the physical education department; Miss Corkendall, librarian; Miss Kathleen Fletcher, librarian of the demonstration school; Mr. Mellon, of the demonstration school; and others. Dr. Leland Walk and Mrs. Lewis, of the home economics department, but not be McKinnie, of the chemistry department were interested spectators.

A trip to the little gym revealed a class taking corrective work for a longer period of time. Goats may be seen sweeping rooms or chasing hither and thither in search of articles for members.

Paulette Nolan was tapped by the club Friday in addition to the girls that were announced recently.

Intramurals Begin In Three Sports

Intramural archery began last Monday under the direction of Paulette Nolan, and will continue for two or three more weeks depending on the weather and attending conditions. The second round was played yesterday and will be finished next week.

Double badminton contests under the direction of Betty Jane Mayer, instructor, began April 10. Sets are played on four courts in the gymnasium every Wednesday at 4:30 and 5:30.

The intramural swimming tournament directed by Dorothy Parks is to be next Monday at 4:30. Prospective contestants met yesterday afternoon at 4:30 for practice but no practice periods will be required for participation in the tournament.

Camp Trips For Sailing, Canoeing, Prove Popular

Miss Marserie Mayer, instructor of physical education, will take six six trips to camp with the newly organized canoeing-sailing and canoeing groups. All the girls in the swimming classes and their friends have been given the privilege to go to camp on Friday, April 26 to 5:30 to 4:30 to 7:30.

Over 240 different girls have come up to date Miss Mayer wishes to announce that if the interest shown so far continues she will make new plans for future trips to camp. Also, if a group of 15 or more girls wish to go they can notify Miss Mayer and she will make arrangements for them to go to camp for canoeing and sailing classes and for eating supper there.

White Announces Results Of Recent Hookworm Test

According to Dr. Sarah Parker White, professor of hygiene, 4.6 per cent of the 1000 students examined for hookworm had the disease. Of the 806 students coming up for physical education classes, only 240 submitted specimens for the test, which was conducted through the infirmary under the direction of Dr. Sarah Parker White, Doctor Carter of the state board of health. Mr. Carter says that a series of lectures on the hyriene classes on hookworm. In these talks he stressed the prevalance of the disease in Florida and the need to fight it.

Faculty Members Frolic At Gym

Monday Nights Find Teachers at Sports

Passing by the gym Monday night, your reporter saw that it was all "fit up" from top to bottom and wondered what was going on. she casually wandered into the lobby. There several little girls and boys of various ages were playing jacks, ping-pong, and a more lively game of tag. Upon inquiring, your reporter found that this was faculty play night and these were some of the faculty members' children and their friends.

In the big gym several semi-athletic games were being played by Miss Ruth Lehman, Miss Claudia Moore, both of the physical education department; Miss Corkendall, librarian; Miss Kathleen Fletcher, librarian of the demonstration school; Mr. Mellon, of the demonstration school; and others. Dr. Leland Walk and Mrs. Lewis, of the home economics department, but not be McKinnie, of the chemistry department were interested spectators.

A trip to the little gym revealed a class taking corrective work for a longer period of time. Among those enjoying a swim in addition to badminton, ping-pong, swimming, and the corrective exercises, shuffleboard, fencing, golf, and puppetry are offered. Classes are more requests for the latter will be formed, however, they will be discontinued.

Plans for the swimming pool, which have been held in the gym every Monday night since the beginning of the second semester, have been highly successful. Under the direction of Miss Mary Settle's recreational every Wednesday night at 7:30 last from 8 o'clock until 12:30, in camp. Half of the girls and the faculty members and their guests.

Methodists Attend State Conference

Twenty three Methodist students will leave today to attend a Methodist student conference at Camp Deerlake near Ocala. The three day conference will have for its theme, "The Christian Message in a World of Tension."

Keynote speaker of the conference will be Bishop Arthur Moorman, who spoke in convocation Tuesday. Other members of the conference staff are Rev. Bert Ronk Buhran, director of the Methodist student foundation at the University of Florida; Miss Frances Eaton, director of the foundation at Florida State college for women; Paul Worley, associate director of the Youth Council of Florida.

Those girls representing Florida state college are: Mary Faith Albritt, Ida Mae Graham, Gwendolyn Fullbeck, Nelly Dell Albritt, Mary Taylor, Beryl Phillips, Gertrude Spettel, Elmabeth Whittington, Naomi Phillips, Ruth McCall, Mary Alice Reed, Helen Henley, Coleta Griffin, Jacqueline Hutchinson, Christhan, Virginia Perry, Mary Elizabeth Cone, Oneta Dees, Mary Brown, Ola Belle Tillman, Ruth Brokes, Catherine Quinby, and Martha Brandon.

Pi Delta Phi Will Meet

Alleflair Everett will be in charge of the meeting of Pi Delta Phi, French honorary, next Thursday at the Methodist student house. Members from several French cities will be present and copies of Une Fortries, the honorary's national bulletin, will be circulated.

Martin & Dalton
Department Drug Store
"Tallahassee's Largest and Only Air Conditioned Drug Store"

SALE 1c

Saturday and Sunday Only

Regular 15c BANANA SPLITS, 2 for 16c

Orange and Lime SHERBET RICKEYS, each 10c

SPECIAL!
Free Powder Puff
With Each Tube
Youdra Cream
Both for ..... 29c2 FOR 25c

1 Cakes
Be Pond's CREAM ..... 25c Woodberry's Soaps 26c

Cash and Carry Only
CIGARETTES
Each 5c

We Lift Our Voices

As members of senior hall we want to express our opinion concerning the manner in which the new senior hall members have been selected. What we have to say here has been said in varying degrees by numerous other members of senior hall, so we are not expressing our opinion only.

First, let it be understood that we realize as much as anyone else that no matter what girls the selections committee had chosen everyone would not have been satisfied with the selections made. Knowing that it is impossible to please everyone, we wish to base our case on the method of selection rather than the people chosen.

But before we go into the method of selection, we would like to say that it is our belief that there are at least 50 members of the senior class who are capable of assuming the responsibilities and privileges of senior hall, and in limiting its selection to 40 girls we think the selections committee made some regrettable oversights. That, however, is purely a matter of opinion.

Senior hall was originated by Dean Olivia N. Dorman with the purpose of offering those members of the incoming senior class whose standards of citizenship are of the highest type an opportunity to prove themselves capable of accepting the responsibilities that accompany increased freedom.

On the selections committee for the first group were the president of C. G. A., president of Y. W. C. A., treasurer of C. G. A., chairman of Judiciary and the editors of the three publications. Factors considered in the selection were a "C" average, good health, the recommendation of the residence hall directors, record in the office of the dean of students, personal record, recommendations from faculty members, senate, and friends of students, extracurricular activities, and parents' permission.

The second senior hall was composed of 64 students selected by a committee composed of two seniors not living on senior hall, two seniors on senior hall, the advisor of the hall, a faculty advisor from the faculty committee on students affairs, the past president of C. G. A. and the faculty committee on student affairs.

The third senior hall just recently selected has been limited to not more than 50 students by college council which felt that only a certain percentage of the senior class would meet the qualifications necessary for achievement of the purpose of senior hall.

This purpose, as clarified in a statement by the college council, is: senior hall shall be an honor, a reward, and a privilege of, and opportunity for, further service for those juniors who have already demonstrated their ability to live according to regulated conditions and have proved that they are capable of assuming the responsibilities that accompany the increased freedom of senior hall. Those chosen juniors although exempted from prescribed rules of dormitory life on the basis of maturity of judgment, thoughtfulness, and reliability, are not exempted from responsibility for group and general college welfare.

Basis of selection adopted this year by the college council and used by the selections committee include comprehension and acceptance of policies of the college set up to protect the health, safety, good name, and general welfare of the students; comprehension and acceptance of group responsibility, with alertness to see what is best for the general good and the courage to work for the benefit of the whole; discrimination between personal pleasures and privilege and group welfare; and ability to contribute to good citizenship by taking the lead in molding public opinion, fostering desirable movements, and wielding good influence through example and precept.

Senior hall was set up as an experiment under college council and continues to exist as an experiment, so the basis for selection for membership, general requirements, evaluation of results, and the length of the experiment are within the jurisdiction of that body.

From the paragraph just above it is clear that the fate of senior hall rests in the hands of the college council, which is composed of the student executive council and the faculty committee on student affairs, with Dean Dorman as chairman of the council. In the selection just announced college council made full use of its authority over senior hall, with the exception of the two girls on the committee since senior hall itself knew nothing of the secellions nor had any part in choosing the members of the selecting committee. Members of senior hall did not even know that invitations for next year were being extended until the letters were in the mail boxes of the 40 chosen.

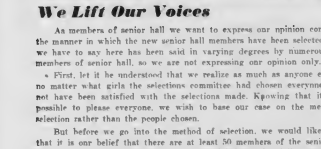
I do not mean by this that college council should inform senior hall of its every action. We do believe, however, that as responsible, mature, and intelligent students senior hall as a whole should have had a part in the selection. Although we do not know to what extent these recommendations were used in selection, last year's senior hall members made lists recommending those juniors they considered worthy of senior hall membership.

It is our belief that if college council could arrange some way to include student opinion, both from those living on the hall and the student body in general, in its selection of senior hall, there would be a greater degree of satisfaction felt by everyone. If more people could be included in the selecting body, our college set-up would be instilled with a more democratic procedure.

(Signed) Jeannette Mullis
Sibyl Jean Olsen
Grace Sparkman
Hazel Wilkerson

A Senior's Proclamation

When I graduate and go away from the campus of my college, I will carry with me some very vivid, lasting memories and impressions. There will be at least four which will stand out in my mind more than any of the others: I will remember, and be grateful for, one professor who forced me to think for myself and question my mental processes; I will remember, and be thankful for, another professor who invoked curses and a lasting admiration for his frankness and ability to disagree and yet retain my respect in spite of his different of opinion; I will remember the physical aspects of the entire campus, because I think we are the famous beautiful college grounds I have ever seen; and I will remember something else. Something which is one great discord in an otherwise picture of harmony and perfection. I will remember the intolerance and disregard of fine principles of democracy and fair play, which I have witnessed as a college student the past two years.



We have a game among the universities called football. There has been a criticism made of one phase of this sport which might be applied to activities on a college campus: the fellow who carries the ball receives all the honor and reaps the benefits which are forthcoming. There are others concerned in this game. Any American knows the touchdown would be impossible without the hard, plugging-away of the front lines, the guards, ends, and centers. Granted they do not make any outstanding plays; granted they are lost in a mass while the long figure sprints down the field, but they are there and they deserve recognition and equal treatment. It is deeply ingrained in football practices for to be extended into the academic and social fields of college life.

I think it is an undemocratic (even in a "limited" democracy) act to withhold accepted honor and recognition from someone merely because he hasn't had the chance to carry the ball. To be specific: If Senior hall is going to be another goal which can be attained only by the students who happened to have had the initiative, or luck even, to be able to win campus offices or the friendship of the administrative and student officers, then why not make this clear in the purpose and aims of this organization? Why not state that full-half-or quarter backs only need apply? On the other hand, if Senior hall is going to be an attempt to encourage already growing spirit of citizenship and interest in all those students who have indicated an ability to accept responsibilities, why not remember that the forward line might be just as capable of accepting this responsibility as those in the back field? Just what are the aims and purposes of the present Senior hall set-up? If freshmen counsellors are to receive membership as compensation for living in freshmen dorms, then why not make this clear in the first place? Then everyone would know who was qualified and why, and no one would feel justified in questioning the practices and basis of choice of the Senior hall committee. Why have Senior hall if all those eligible aren't allowed to participate in it?

May I state quite clearly that I have no personal vested interests in the recent selection of Senior hall. I was not a member of this year's organization from choice—since I am rooming with a junior. There is equal possibility of my application not being accepted if I had applied last year. But I am a member and prospective alumna of this college and I am sincerely interested in its growth and development.

As a "bas-bleu" and a "pseu-on-ym" may I make a plea for more thoughtful consideration of measures to be enacted and presented to the student body. Almost any F. S. C. W. girl is ready to play the game if she understands the rules. Is given logical reasons for keeping them, and is able to see a consistent procedure in their application. Loss of faith in the interference of luck in relative affect on the amount of trust and confidence to be placed in the torch he carries. It may be true that "it's the torch the people follow whose the bearer may be," but it is also a certainty that a torch can't walk by itself; the bearer will have to be as strong as his ideal.

—Florence Gregory.

Of The World

The Scandinavian Crisis . . . .

German troops have succeeded in cutting Norway in two, by defeating the Norwegian forces at the head of western airport of Trondheim. The German forces, led by an advance ski patrol, drove within three miles of the Swedish frontier. The fate of the Finns in Scandinavia was hanging in the balance tense, but the Germans finally overwhelmed the Norwegians and forced them across the frontier. The Nazis are attempting to set up a barrier between the Allies' northwest points of Norway and thereby cut Norse communication. The strong resistance of the Norsemen has greatly slowed up the German advance. The Norsemen have succeeded in delaying the Nazi penetration eastward from Narvik for a full week with few guns and little ammunition. England and France are coming to their aid, and France is sending troops over, but in the main the Norwegians themselves have put up the land fight. They have disregarded Germany's ultimatum to the Norwegian King and people, in which a death penalty was threatened to every Norwegian who resisted invasion or obeyed the mobilization order.

The English navy, sinking 7 German destroyers, entered the Narvik harbor Saturday morning and landed the way a British landing force to wrest the town from the Germans. The British warships were led by the battleship Warspite. The Germans claim the destruction of a British destroyer and two submarines at sea. On Monday morning the British troops and marines landed at Narvik at several points. Parties of British troops have been back along the iron ore railway toward the Swedish frontier. Here they met Norwegian troops, mobilized to considerable strength. Fighting in the Narvik region on Monday was still held yesterday by about 2,000 German troops, the fight for the town is still continuing. British aid to the Norwegians is announced to great proportions.

What Next? . . . .

All Europe waits to see what will happen next. Everyone wonders if Germany will attempt to push Sweden's iron ore lines of communication, toward the Balkans, or toward the Western Front, through Belgium or the Netherlands, or through Switzerland. Nobody especially knows what she may be the next, for pressure has been brought to bear on her by the Allies, through the latter suspending trade with the Allies. The low countries feared the would strive to outflank the Maginot line by invading their territories. Belgium and the A barrier Netherlands issued a statement that the Netherlands will not be invaded by any nation for "protective" purposes The allies, however, claimed the right to protect Belgium if Germany made a serious power would render Germany unable to supply their expeditionary force

Meanwhile, the Allied fleet took "counter measures" in the Aegean sea after the Italian fleet was assembled for what Italy called "customary spring maneuvers." The Allies, Italy, Turkey, and Greece are maneuvering under control orders within striking distance of the Dardanelles. The Nazis claim that Italy is prepared to enter the war on the side of the Allies if Germany only bids her. Great Britain has warned Italy that she must behave as a neutral if she wishes to be treated as one.

At Home . . . .

Developments in Scandinavia have far overshadowed domestic politics, but the Democratic presidential primaries However, the European situation may exert a great influence over the presidential nominations. To date, the indicator has been only indirect. In Illinois President Roosevelt won a six to one vote over Vice-President Garner. Thomas E. Dewey was unopposed on the Republican ballot. In Nebraska both men won by wide margins. President Roosevelt unopposed and Thomas E. Dewey winning over Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

These primaries tend to indicate that Franklin D. Roosevelt can have the Democratic nomination for president if he wants it, that Thomas E. Dewey is the leading "popular-choice" candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, and that the Democratic tide that swept the country in 1932 and in 1936 has either let up, or shifted, for the combined total of the voters in these states showed a trend away from the New Deal.

Meanwhile, Paul V. McNutt has obtained a leave of absence from his post as Federal Security administrator in order to make a personal country-wide swing for the Democratic presidential nomination. If President Roosevelt does not seek the nomination, Paul V. McNutt may have a good chance for the nomination, in view of the returns from the presidential primaries in the mid-west.

Magazine Jottings . . . .

The editorial departments of the current issues of The Nation and The New Republic present comments on the war situation.

"The War Spreads," appearing in the April 13 Nation says, "The flames of war that have suddenly blazed up in Scandinavia, threaten to sweep out the rest of western Europe." Using the British action in mining Norwegian territorial waters as a pretext, Germany invaded Denmark by land and attacked Norway.

News from the north has been confused, but it seems that Germany was secretly transporting troops through Norwegian waters before the British navy moved in with its mines. Sweden has not been attacked yet, but mobilization has been ordered. There is fear of further German invasion of neutrals.

Germany has violated international law from the beginning. However, the allies, too, have committed legality-numerous occasions. The conduct of war according to strict rules has never been much more than an ideal, and when one belligerent adopts the methods of totalitarian warfare, the other is not likely to handicap itself by sticking to higher standards.

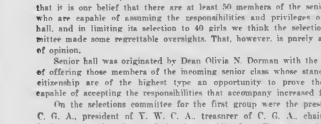
While the question of allied aid to the Finns was left unsettled, Germany stepped in and warned the Scandinavian countries against allowing the passage of Allied troops across their countries to Finland. They Germany considered the extension of war in this region contrary its interests. But that was because the German government had not foreseen interference with its import of iron ore and other supplies from Sweden. The tightening of the southern Baltic by the Allies was a new situation for Hitler. If he succeeds in overrunning the whole peninsula, possession of the Norwegian Atlantic will provide him with innumerable bases for air and sea attack, permitting the establishment of the counter-blockade, which would be extremely serious to the Allies.

In any case, it is undeniable that the Allies will prevent Germany to seize Norway without putting up a stiff fight to gain control of the countries themselves. It is difficult to see how the Allies can hope to hold such a position unless the British fleet is driven off the coast But if the way is to be saved, troops must be moved there quickly Once again Germany seems to have scored one over the slower opponents.

The attitude of Russia is now a factor of decisive importance. Germany has forces in the Finnish region that could be loaned to Germany, and Sweden could easily be put in a vice.

The New Republic editorial is entitled "The War Begins." According to it, the war begins with the Swedish ore situation. "In the war between the western Allies and Germany the extension of the Baltic conflict threatens to increase the chance for either side to win by forced combat But in the struggle for democracy and peace against totalitarianism, it means another defeat, perhaps the most tragic and costly yet suffered"

It is futile to examine the justification of the invasion of Denmark and the attack of Norway. Totalitarianism disregards all standards. It stands in the way of Germany safeguarding her supply of iron ore and other commodities and calling England off from hers, which at the same time destroys the British blockade. Hitler has found France adopted totalitarian methods and mimed the Nazi regime protected by warships. They think they are satisfied while the rest of us sit back to reflect that something lost when they begin to imitate the Nazis. "The argument about technical neutrality is now trivial and buried in debris of events. Both nations have done things to prevent this. They newly appointed governmental ministers are activities help



If the early reports as to where Germany landed troops is correct—the question arises of what in the world British navy was doing. Was the admiralty, with its fa greasive efficiency, asleep at the switch?

One important question to which there has yet been no answer is the attitude to be adopted by Sweden if decision will be made to help Finland by force to help Norway, but there is the danger of the Reich army across the Baltic virtually without interference from the British navy. Reference to the alleged hatred of Germany and aid Finland and her military stores have not yet been refuted.

This event means the real beginning of the war and will intensify the feeling that Germany must at all cost be defeated. Our emotions will be mixed with horror at the scenes of destruction, with sadness at the fate of the dictorship which apparently sets no bounds to its ambition and with alarm and chill at the stupidity of the British who have allowed the Reich to seize all the key positions one right after the other.

We shall be repelled by the irresponsible rashness of those who took the Chamberlain's ready for peace at any price. We shall have to examine again and more seriously our resources and weaknesses of the democratic cause.

Collegiate Comebacks

Or Forever Hold Your Peace. . . .

Flatacovo Explains . . . .

Already in the past few days I have been asked many times, "Where did the Flatacovo get an extra $500? Meaning, or course, that the student executive council around towards the equipping of the student recreation room of the Student-Alumnae building

Taking these queries as a fair sampling of student opinion I thought it best, as business manager of the 1940 Flatacovo, to take this opportunity to proclaim once and for all time the true facts of the situation.

First and foremost, the $500 did not come from our operating budget for this year as some students seem to think. Nor did it come from our reserve fund. Then, pray, where did it come from, please? The amount in question is a result of many years accumulation—our records show at least ten years. For a long time it was used for decorating and watchful administration of funds the annual came out a little ahead every year. In the past, up until the last two years, the Flatacovo's budget was limited by student activity fee could be spent only to defray the cost of the printing of the book. Almost every year that amount was insufficient to pay the printing bill and had to be supplemented by funds raised in other ways by the staff—such as advertising, and subscriptions. $500 has not come from the student activity fee but from money raised from other sources of revenue of the annual and is the result of ten years of accumulation.

At the suggestion of the faculty committee and with the approval of the executive council of the college in the spring of 1933, a certain part of this accumulation was designated a student loan fund—the Flatacovo student loan fund to be administered by the scholarship and loan committee of the college. It was decided already that the money should be used for this purpose at that particular time for so many students were suffering the effects of the depression, were finding it impossible to complete their senior year due to the lack of a few dollars. For this reason the fund was instituted and particularly designated for seniors.

Last year only about one-third of this fund was requested —two-thirds of this money lay idle So far this year, no one has asked for a loan from the fund. Thus, we felt that the original need for which the Flatacovo junior loan fund has been created no longer existed and that this money could be used more advantageously for students when used in equipping the recreation room for their use.

And so, fellow students, the Flatacovo gift to the Student-Alumnae building is a result of the staff's efforts for the past years and is given to the students of this college now and in the future. We had hoped by this disposition of our savings to contribute materially to the pleasure and enjoyment of each and everyone of you by equipping that part of the Student-Alumnae building that was particularly designed for the recreation of all students—the student recreation room.

We trust that you will accept our gift in the spirit in which it was made—and—

"so forever hold your peace"

—Jeannette Litschgi.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

MARGARET SCOTT ..... Editor-in-Chief
ANN MORRISON ..... Associate Editor
MARGARET PAINTER ..... Assistant Editor
HOLLY BOYD ..... Assistant Managing Editor
MARGUERITE DIAZ, BELLE YOPONI ..... Assistant Managing Editors

REPORTERS: Eleanor Yonkers, Virginia Milling, Betsy Allen, Alice Ludlam, Beth Mitchell, Leona Ogle, Madge Overstreet, Sara Hall, Ann Gatlin, Betty Bond, Elizabeth Ann Smith, Betty Bell, Daisy Hazel Clements, Lenora Cotterell, Ann Lee Bass, Mattie Lou Peacock, Marianne Boardman, Jimmy Pate, Peggy Gray, Jane Sue Erickson, Charlie Cotton, Marilyn Bowman, Ray Bob Tanner Martin, Mary Catherine Bethea, Laura Tuten, Frances Bell, Bill Birdsong, Frances Dees, Carl Tuten, Jr., Betty Howard

HARRIET BENSON ..... Business Manager
SUETTA BLANDING ..... Assistant Business Manager
ANNE DAVIDSON ..... Circulation Manager
KITTY JO MICHAM ..... Secretary

Entered as second class matter, January 19, 1911 at the postoffice at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879

Members National Advertising Service, Inc. Associated Collegiate Press

Distributed by
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y.
CHICAGO · BOSTON · LOS ANGELES · SAN FRANCISCO

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

Industrial Arts Exhibit Planned

Display to Include Handicraft Projects

Plans are underway for the annual exhibit of the industrial arts department which will be held during the third week in May. At the time the most outstanding work from the representative art classes will be placed on exhibition.

The display will include projects made by students in leather craft as well as work in woodwork, pottery, metalcraft, basketry, the elementary school drawing and construction work. There will also be an exhibit of work representative of the various historical periods.

New on display in the exhibition cases are crafts made by students in the metal leathers of general craft classes.

The metal craft class have secured various types of soldering stone setting, chain connection and methods of design on metals. On display are copper, brass, nickel, pewter, and silver and also plates, book-ends, bottle openers, bracelets, pins, and rings made by the students in this craft.

Sample belt projects made during the first quarter by the leather class as an introduction to the kinds of leather and processes decorations are on display in the cases. Purses, match boxes, fancy books, key cases, blotter pads, and wallets, and billfolds were constructed from calfskin, sheepskin, pigskin, and deer skin as well as cow hides. Some block-printed, some tooled, some lanyard, lacquered, carved, and pierced.

Various materials and methods of decoration are shown by the general crafts class. This class is planned for those interested in working in camps, recreational leaders, and amateurs. Articles exhibited in the cases are objects of wood, cork, felt, cloth, and metals. Trays, belt fasteners, buttons, clips, pins, boxes of wood are decorated by painting, burning, inlay, and block print. Attractive trays covered felt and wool embroidered are shown. One especially clever project is a "round-the-world" belt showing the two dimensions the laced together and figures of many lands appliqued and embroidered as the occasion. Water-proof leather cork for coasters and covers. An attractive project is "Three Bears" in inlaid cork many imported wood veneers. Braids scarves decorated in the batik process, photo albums with tooled leather backs and braided cord belts are also shown.

Inquiring Reporter

Senior Hall

How successful do you think senior hall has been? Do you think it should be extended to include all seniors who are eligible for graduation, or do you feel that such an extension would lead to girls taking undue advantage of the privileges granted them? Have the students already living there made themselves worthy of the privileges?

Margrette Reutimann: "I think that senior hall has been successful this year, but I do not think that it should include all seniors eligible for graduation. I do not think all girls who are eligible should accept the responsibility of senior hall unless they have the proper requisites. As far as I know all the girls on senior hall this year have made themselves worthy of the privilege."

Harriett Gill: "I have no way of judging the success of senior hall this year but I do think that the privileges should be extended to seniors. In fact, I am a firm believer in seniority. Now, I hope this senior hall privilege can be awarded to all graduating seniors. We all like the idea and I believe that after having been in college for three years she should be given the due compensation for her previous restricted privileges. Certainly a girl's last year in college is her one big chance to prove herself worth by not abusing such privileges."

Mary Jean Olsen: "In my opinion, senior hall has been very successful. The girls chosen for the privilege have shown that they had the full responsibility for upholding their own standards as well as those of the college. They've also shown that they could make their own rules and regulations. However, I do think that senior hall privileges should be extended to all seniors. Some girls would take undue advantage of the privileges granted. The present number on senior hall seems to be a satisfactory number to me."

Betty Pearlman: "I'm not the one to be evaluating the behavior exhibited in by humans, but I do definitely think every senior should enjoy the privileges of living on senior hall. The greater majority of seniors are 21 or over anyway, and in the eyes of the law they are considered as full fledged citizens capable of looking after their own welfare. I think that this privilege is a realize, but please—we are college women—supposedly of a higher intellectual level—we are cognizant of this living business and what it entails. Besides, I think that we students of science are studying the modern principle which says restraint is definitely not the cure for evil, or something like that. Seriously though, it's not a practice a little of what we preach and show ourselves to be."

Newrie Powell: "As far as I know senior hall for this year has been successful. I do not think that it would be if the privileges were granted to all seniors who are eligible for graduation. This privilege should be granted only to those girls who have proved themselves worthy of accepting the responsibilities of living on senior hall. I think the number that has been limited this year, I do not know, is about right as the girls have earned these privileges and I think the number should be increased for next year."

Myrtle "Butch" Logue: "I think that the girls chosen have proved most capable of handling the new privileges extended to them, and I believe that senior hall is one mark attains a C average and who does not have a social probation record should be allowed to live on senior hall. It seems to me that the girls who have proved their worth by their last year of college she is a responsible person who can combine with adult intelligence and experience. If our seniors had not already proved proper study habits and proper standards of living, they would not be seniors."

Dorothy Schepp: "I think that senior hall has been very successful this year, but I do not think that all seniors should be allowed the opportunity of living on senior hall. I do not think that it is necessary for all seniors to live on campus. I definitely do think that it should be extended to all seniors eligible for graduation. By the time a girl becomes a senior she should be ready to look after herself. If she is ready for graduation, I think she is ready for the responsibility of making her own decisions and that she will feel a responsibility to the standards of the school. Of course there are exceptions to the rule, but these can also be dealt with in the society that the students will be in after leaving school."

Margaret Clements: "I think that senior hall has been very successful this year and that it should be extended to include all seniors who are eligible for graduation. By the time a girl becomes a senior she should be ready to look after herself. If she is ready for graduation, I think she is ready for the responsibility of making her own decisions and that she will feel a responsibility to the standards of the school. Of course there are exceptions to the rule, but these can also be dealt with in the society that the students will be in after leaving school."

Mary Neil Smith: "In my estimation I think that senior hall has proved quite successful, but I do not think that all girls should be granted to all seniors who have proved themselves to be worthy of graduation. By the time a girl becomes a senior in college she should know how to make her own decisions as to what is right and what is wrong, and I do not think that the privilege of living on senior hall would be abused if it were extended to all seniors instead of to just a select group. If it does not have intelligence enough by the time she becomes a senior, to know right from wrong, then I do not believe she should be ranked as a college senior."

Nona Irvin: "I do think senior hall has proved successful. I do not think that all seniors eligible for graduation should have this privilege unless they have proved themselves capable of living under the privileges given them on senior hall in the three years prior to their senior year. I think responsibility should be thoroughly taught. Maybe it should include more girls, but I do not believe the present study hall in the senior hall would take advantage of it and become a senior who has conducted herself as she should for three years is entitled to a room on senior hall."

Catherine Stewart: "I think it has been successful. I think it is something to look forward to and work for, and has tended to solve the problem of study. I do not believe the number chosen should be extended because it includes, on an average, about 15 per cent of the group now. I believe on the whole it is a privilege for senior hall in the past have lived up to expectations."

Pauline Light: "I think senior hall has been very successful. I think that it might be wise to extend the privilege to about twice as many girls, for there are many eligible girls not on senior hall."

Sarah King: "I believe senior hall is one of the most progressive steps that the college has taken in years. Although I believe membership could be extended to include a greater number of girls, I do not believe it would be wise to include the whole senior class. There are always some girls who take advantage of every privilege and who would possibly use the privilege to the detriment of the group. I think the present set-up has been successful."

Mary Elizabeth Rinehart: "I think senior hall has been successful and believe it should be extended. Every girl who has reached her senior year in college should have these privileges granted to her. Most girls have not taken undue advantage of these privileges and probably will not in the future."

Virginia Stewart: "So far as I can see and have heard senior hall has been a success.

Yes, I am in favor of all seniors being allowed full freedom from petty restrictions. They should be able by that time to lead a sensible life without the aid of the college.

Yes, the girls living there have so far as I know conducted themselves in a satisfactory manner."

Mortar Board to Tap

Convocation will not meet Tuesday afternoon, but the head will be called at 8 o'clock that night for the tapping of new members of Mortar Board. Juniors will wear white and all in scholastic rows in the center section. The first student tapped will automatically become president of the organization.

Library Display Features Books

Numerous novels, short stories, and plays are now on display in the library. About this show of books is a poster picturing a ruler under which is the statement "Read a Book To Read One Book Each Week."

Also on display are some of the new books which were presented in the library during the Christmas holidays by the faculty. The books added during these months according to subjects are classified as follows: general works, 64 biographies, 46; education and psychology, 20; books, 210; fiction, 40; fine arts, 43; history and travel, 39; literature, 62; philosophy, 12; philosophy and psychology, 43; religion, 12; sociology, 29; and science, 83.

During this period numerous other books such as additions or replacements to sets, receipts, and binding of many other fields have been secured.

Irish, Young Lead Forum Discussion

Miss Marian Irish, professor of political science, and Miss Sadie Young, professor of economics, led a discussion on peace at the Student Forum Tuesday night in 303 Westcott.

Miss Irish spoke on the trend toward isolationism, contributing out that since the last World war and because of the struggle for peace in many countries. Now, she commented, President Roosevelt has been trying to keep people taking a detached attitude toward the war in Europe.

The economic features of a peace program were discussed by Miss Young. Although economic forces are inactive, she stressed the importance of economic forces in the world. Although economic forces are inactive, she stressed the importance of economic forces in the world. These forces would prove their outcome when peace came. They would have developed a form dissatisfaction of the subjects.

Margaret Painter was elected senior representative to the student forum Tuesday after the recent resignation of Gene Bryan.

Chemistry Group Picks Officers for Coming Year

On April 11 at the chemistry honorary, Gamma Sigma Epsilon, elected officers for the coming year. They are, Louise Horne, grand alchemist; Edith Williams, grand scribe; Lucile Lee, grand vizier, and Margaret Hunter, serjeant-at-arms.

Present officers of the honorary are Louise Margaret Voit, grand alchemist, Marian Gaddum, recorder, Eunice Lasche, scribe and Dorothy Rosner, serjeant-at-arms.

Kappa Delta Pi Elects Officers

Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary, elected officers for the coming year on Tuesday. They are: Miss Marian Prior of the Demonstration school, president; Mr. Robert Bussard of the Carnegie Library, vice-president; Miss Mildred Wilfong of Leon high school, recording secretary; Miss Dorothy Purse of the Demonstration school, corresponding secretary, and Orrel Harrison of the Demonstration school, treasurer. Dr. P. F. Pinner of Sealey Memorial is faculty counselor; and Miss Rita Burleson, junior business administration, treasurer.

The members of the honorary will be initiated at a banquet on May 7. Pledges include: Marie Bennett, Sarah E. Bryan, Virginia Milton, Martha Dent Perry, Janet Bryan, Anna Mae Bryan, Ann Kimbell, Ada J. Lewis, and Allie Fair Everett.

College BWOC Find Success After College

Investigation Shows All Lead Busy Lives, Either Wed or Single

Almost every college girl worry-ers at one time or another what will happen to the leaders in the campus after they have finished school, and girls with that big organization offices who take big responsibilities, and who have somehow managed to hold the attention and support of the student body, become leaders? become leaders after graduation? Are they as successful in life as in college?

Investigation reveals that most of the girls who have held important places on campus are successful after receiving their degree in getting a job, and in time, in advancing to a higher position in their work.

A check-up on the success of the holders of five prominent positions on the campus in 1930 through 1938—president of the college government association, chairman of judiciary, and the editors of the college publications—shows that these girls have made successes and become outstanding members of their occupations.

Today, according to records of the personnel office, 15 of the group of 42 are married. Most of these have acted as wife for a year or two before marriage. Several of those married still hold full or part-time positions.

Of the forty-two girls, 13 are teaching, five hold commercial or secretarial positions, three have journalistic interests, four have plans, two have entered the field of personnel, three have government positions, and three have left public life. Of the group below normal should take advantage of the opportunity to live in senior hall in the past have lived up to expectations.

At least ten have held more than one position, and usually a change has meant an advance. Many have had a job in more than one field: for instance, three who started out doing secretarial work are now teaching, and two who began as teachers are now in public relations.

The presidents of the college government association for the years 1930-1938 have held quite a variety of jobs. Seven are married—a larger proportion of the prestigious group. Six have gotten married then any other office-holding group—and two have remarried, two taught school, one did graduate work, and one was in library. Another president who is married now is national president of N. S. F. A. Two of the former presidents are teachers, and one is a medical secretary.

Of the chairmen of judiciary, three are married, one is married, one after having modeled clothes for Lord and Taylor in New York. One has a government job in Washington, D. C., and one is doing personnel work after setting a master's degree. One is now studying at the University of California.

Five of the Flambeau editors from 1930 through 1938 have used their journalism in some way, although only one is actually doing journalistic work today. Another is working for a newspaper one became a journalism teacher and one took a position in the personnel department. Two others are teaching journalism. One former editor is employed with the Civic Education Service in Washington, D. C., and two are married.

Two of the nine Distaff editors are married, according to records of the personnel office. One of these is doing free-lance writing for a newspaper. One Distaff editor now is a librarian. One has personnel work, two are teachers, and one does commercial work. Two have had secretarial experience on the Distaff to become feature and fashion editor for a newspaper. Another is national president of her sorority.

Three editors of the Flastacon entered secretarial and commercial vocations after graduating. One of these later did graduate work and received her master's degree. One annual editor is now a librarian, four are married. One, besides being married, has a private piano studio.

Registrar Announces Tentative Schedule

Series	Examination
M. W. F., 8:30	8:30-10:30, Fri., May 17.
T. Th., 2:30	10:30-12:00, Fri., May 17.
Physics 101a in auditorium	2:00-4:00, Fri., May 17.
Political Science 301	2:00-4:00, Fri., May 17.
History of Music 440	2:00-3:30, Fri., May 17.
Fine Arts Integrated Courses, Phys. Ed. 130—in auditorium	8:30-11:30, Sat., May 18.
Phys. Ed. 130—in auditorium	2:00-3:30, Sat., May 18.
Phys. Ed. 204—in auditorium	2:00-3:30, Sat., May 18.
Phys. Ed. 208—in little theater	2:00-3:00, Sat., May 18.
T. Th. 8., 8:30	8:30-10:30, Mon. May 20.
T. Th. 8:30	10:30-12:00, Mon., May 20.
Home Economics 118	10:30-12:30, Mon., May 20.
English 101	2:00-4:00, Mon., May 20.
W. W. F., 9:30	2:00-4:00, Mon., May 20.
Social Studies 103	8:30-10:30, Tues., May 21.
T. Th. 8., 9:30	10:30-12:30, Tues., May 21.
M. W. F. 10:30	2:00-4:00, Tues., May 21.
Geography 201	8:30-10:30, Wed., May 22.
T. Th. 8., 10:30	10:30-12:30, Wed., May 22.
M. W. F., 11:30	2:00-4:00, Wed., May 22.
T. Th. 8., 11:30	8:30-10:30, Thurs., May 23.
Industrial Arts 101	10:30-12:30, Thurs., May 23.
M. W. F., 1:30	2:00-4:00, Thurs., May 23.
T. Th. 8., 1:30	8:30-10:30, Fri. May 24.
M. W. F., 2:30	10:30-12:30, Fri. May 24.
M. W. F. 3:30	2:00-4:00, Fri. May 24.
One-hr. Courses and Conflicts	12:30, Sat., May 25.

No change are authorized in this schedule unless arranged in advance in the Registrar's office.

Students may NOT change sections or hours.

R. R. DO FLE, Registrar.

Hike for Presbyterians Planned Tomorrow

The Presbyterian students are planning a supper hike to be held tomorrow evening at 5 p. m. The group will meet behind Sorosis hall from which they will trek to a suitable spot for the supper Sunday morning Miss Hilma Reserman will lead the vespers program.

After a supper at the Presbyterian student at 6:30 Sunday evening, Mary Clark Caldwell will lead the discussion program. Her topic will be "Student Peace Program."

Palmer Installed as New President for 4-H Club

New officers of the 4-H club were installed yesterday afternoon in Broward lounge. Toi Strickland, acting sergeant-at-arms, presented the incoming officers for the 1940-41 year. Ruth, in turn, presented Mary Ann Palmer, the newly elected president. Frances Palmer who presided throughout the meeting.

New officers taking over their duties for the next year include: president, Frances Palmer; vice-president, Roxilu Kelton; secretary, Dorothy Sanderson; assistant secretary, Lillian Hendricks; treasurer, Kay Applebaum; historian, Helen Henly; freshman advisor, Ruth Hendricks. social chairman, Vera Manning; program chairman, Wilma Smith.

41 Visit Office Of Comptroller

Filing Class Watches Check Machines Work

Forty one members of Miss Antoinette Guenther's filing and office appliances class visited the office of the state comptroller, J. M. Lee, last Thursday. This trip was taken in order that the students might study forms of key punching machines.

The students saw three electrical alphabetical accounting machines which made all kinds of business statements. These machines are used to punch cards for making checks at the rate of 500 an hour. The first lists the checks; the second machines key the punches on another paper; and the third reproduces the punches.

Other machines are used to sort out the cards at a rate of 400 a minute, to write checks at three seconds, and to list on adding machines.

Lewis Hall, who is in charge of the machine room and works efficiently and has completed the Wallace Cotton, the representative for the alphabetical accounting machines, conducted the student tour. All checks for old age assistance are being sold in Florida and the welfare fund are to be issued from this office. Visitors are also collected and recorded there.

Price Appoints New Committees

Regular meeting of the Sophomore council took place last night in the C. O. A. room. Miss Mary Beryl Mitchell explained to the council the procedure and proper procedure for sending out bids for over-cutting convocation.

Plans for the sophomore-senior breakfast were also discussed. Tickets for the breakfast will be sold for 25 cents starting Thursday.

Alice Price, new chairman of the council appointed the members of the social committee and the convocation committee. The social committee are: Jane Watts, Virginia Jones, Ruth Tyrol, Frances Ireland, and Mary Angus. Girls on the finance committee are Mary Lou Latham, Evelyn Doyle, Helen Beall, and Helen Leeman.

Rogers Plans To See U. S.

Travel Under Auspices of Student Forum

"Travel changes places from nature on the one hand, events in the mind," said Dr. Carmen Rogers. English professor who has been traveling extensively in past ten years. Over this period of time she has accumulated unusual tours usually through Europe and sometimes through parts of Africa. Due to the present war situation in Europe Dr. Rogers will not go there but will there this summer.

Instead, she plans to lead a tour through the United States which includes New Orleans, Texas, Los Angeles, Hollywood, the Pacific fair, the Canadian Rockies, and six days of motoring in the Glacier and Yellowstone Parks.

During her travels in Europe Dr. Rogers has had interesting as well as thrilling experiences. While traveling by train in Italy the conductor attempted to arrest several girls in the party for putting their feet on the train seats while playing before the minuse of seats is against the law in Italy. Another incident occurred in the same country a few years before. At that time girls wore several skirts one short and disapproving of this the nuns in Rome made it a custom to rip the hems out of their dress before the girls could kneel before the Pope.

Kellum Tells Big Fish Tale

The honor of telling the biggest fish story was conceded J. O. Kellum, business manager of Florida State College for Women, today by the Southern Association of College and University Business Officers.

Kellum, a former president of the association, invited the members to remain in Tallahasee and the vicinity over the weekend to enjoy the hospitality of this area calling attention to the trained catfish and the Mills fish "farm-ing" at Wakulla Springs who has the reputation of "every variety" on command of the negro boatman.

The incredulous conventionites expressed amazement at the Tallahassee's story that the catfish will parade up and down in the waters of Wakulla under the beam of a glass-bottomed boat at the commands of the picturesque boatmen. Henry Odell Mimms, will slide over a log in a fish pose until when ordered to do so.

The doubters were told to go and see the spectacle for themselves if they did not believe it and many expressed the intention of doing just that thing.

Kelton, McDowell Return From Meet

Roxilu Kelton and Jean McDowell, delegates from the local chapter of Keta Sigma Phi, national classical sorority, returned the week from the annual national convention held in New Orleans, April 11, 12, 13. Roxilu served on the credentials committee for the first day of the convention committee.

Included in the convention's program were the revision of the national constitution, election of new officers, discussion of methods of bringing closer fellowship between the chapters, and the analysis of the role that classics play in the world today. Other interesting features of the convention were a tour of the French quarter, a Mardi Gras ball and the presentation of the Latin play "The Rudens" by Plautus.

Eleanor Green To Talk On "Dress and Personality"

"Dress and Personality" will be the subject of Miss Eleanor Green's talk at the Methodist student house Sunday night at 7:30. Girls who will model proper and improper dresses are, twon, Gwendolyn Merrill; Miami, Betty Cadell; afternoon, Cleo Kemp; sport, Ruth Tyrell; dinner dress, Ann Valkenberg; play nigh, Mildred Bartlett; forma, Frances Brooks, Frances Parker, Betsy Willis, Mary Alice Orarney, Dottie Mae Thompson, Ann Simms, Jean Durrance, Carolyn Willis.

Amelia Avant Conducts High School Glee Club

Amelia Avant, senior in the public school music department of the school of music, conducted the Florida high school glee club at the West Florida concert at Deland Saturday, held on April 13. The glee club was awarded the

THE BARBIZON
NEW YORK'S MOST EXCLUSIVE HOTEL RESIDENCE FOR YOUNG WOMEN

RITZ
FRIDAY—April 19
Spencer Tracy
in
"Northwest Passage"
SATURDAY—April 20
"Oh, Johnny, How You Can Love"
Home of College Clubs in New York

The Barbizon is the home of college clubs in New York. Why? For the reason if's because the Barbizon offers so many more of the interesting things that appeal to college girls. Daily classes in dancing, the theory of cultural and physical activities, square meals at moderate prices . . . dramatics . . . a fine library . . . swimming pool . . . sun deck . . . squash courts . . . and a number of college girls prefer living in The Barbizon. Now in its fourth year as the model of New York's most fashionable residential section, and convenient to important business centers, art galleries, museums, theatres and schools.

700 rooms, each with a radio Tariff: from $2.50 per day from $12 per week

Write for descriptive booklet "C"

The Barbizon

Wilson's First DOLLAR DAYS Of 1940
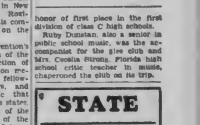
Thursday and Friday

Don't Miss This Chance to Save

P. W. WILSON'S CO.
—Since 1837

YWCA To Play Big Sister Role

Policy Change Begins With Fall Semester



Only Y. W. C. A. members will play "big sister" to the incoming freshmen next fall, it was announced by Mary Lois Thomas, president of the Y. W. C. A. this week. Each "Y" member who wishes to help welcome the newcomers to college customs will be given the names of two freshmen. She will then be responsible for correspondence with them during the summer and everything them to the Y. W. C. A. "big sister" party the first week of school.

Any other student wishing to help with the incoming the newcomers is invited to join the Young Women's Christian association during the newly inaugurated spring membership drive which begins next Wednesday and closes on April 26. Upon payment of the annual $1 dues, membership will carry over to next spring inclusive. All those who send subscriptions will be renewed. The drive is especially directed toward those who were rejected to take membership earlier in the year.

New members may sign up from 4 o'clock in the morning till 4 in the afternoon. Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of next week at a table in the lower floor of the Westcott building. Copies of the Y. W. C. A. are invited to join and become active members, while the men are invited to take associate membership.

honor of first place in the first division of class C high schools.

Ruby Dunstan, also a senior in public school music, was the accompanist for the glee club and Miss Cecelia Strozier, Florida high school critic teacher in music, chaperoned the club on its trip.

STATE
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
Tyrone Power
Linda Darnell
JOHNNY APOLLO
SUNDAY & MONDAY
April 21-22

TUESDAY—April 23

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
April 24-25

RITZ
FRIDAY—April 19
Spencer Tracy
in
"Northwest Passage"
SATURDAY—April 20

SUNDAY & MONDAY
April 21-22
Tyrone Power
in
"Johnny Apollo"
TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
April 23-24

THURSDAY & FRIDAY
Henry Fonda
In
"Grapes of Wrath"
18 and 25c

Last Monthly Dance of Year To Feature Gainesville Band

The last of the monthly dances for this year will be held in the gymnasium, with members of the Village Vamps and Collilen club acting as hostesses from 8:30 to 12 o'clock Saturday night.

Music for the dance will be supplied by the Florida Collegians from Gainesville, and the Florida Cavaliers are to aid in arrangements.

New members of Sophomore council are to be in charge of the door and will take up tickets during the half-hour intermission. Grace Barbara, chairman of the dance committee, announced that all 250 tickets have been sold and said that this should be one of the best dances of the year. Elizabeth Phillips, Collilen member, is in charge of decorations which will be done in pastel colors.

Chaperones for the dance will include: Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Wasdom, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Mattice, Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Detzeff and Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Heinlein.

Members of the Village Vamps and Collilen club who have been invited to act as hostesses are: Vivian Adams, Mary Lou Allison, Grace Ball, Fairfax Bates, Jane Bird, Sue Bryant, Mary Caldwell, Mary Connell Aurelia Cordy, Jane Hampton, Jean Mobley, Barbara Mabrey, Joan Miller, Dorothy Mitchell, Elizabeth Moore, Elizabeth Phillips, Mary Ann Roberts, Ina Margaret Robinson, Jan Simmons, Frances Stephens, Mary Catherine Smith, Martha Stroberg, Reiva Sutton, and Lucille Watson.

Beth Rickards, Ann Towsen, Betty Langston, Pat Brandt, Ruth Blanicker, Mary Jane Lambeth, Margaret Ann McCary, Olive Dell. Gene Parrihll, Bennett Curtis, Susan Mitchell, Beverly Sherard, Dot Daniel, Mary Bolling Duncan, Mart Pierson and Roberta Rhine.

Ruth Pearce, Louise Burger, Ann Angel, Dot McCown, Lib Miller, Betty Brown, Frances Fryer, Lois Cooper, Polly Ann Williams, Jean Hitchcock, Margaret Heatin, Jean Colley, Bettye Wyatt, Ginger Monroe, Jean Chalkel, Dottie Mae Anderson, Barbara Barbara, Mary Ann Michael, Margaret Dilcott, Dot Garrison, Kate Hedrick, Gladys McCain, Betty McDerman, Virginia Walker, and Nancy White.

Betty King, Mary Elizabeth Leech, Ann Gamble, Peggy Caldwell, Ann Wilson, Dot Stallings, Mary Smith, Mary Lucille Ferrier, Elaine Betsler, Frances Phillips, Barbara Barbara.

Old New Type Citrus Growers Struggle Constantly For Living

Continued from Page One

the crops year after year. There is little hope of a large profit from the orange crop but as long as the old farmer continues on his old way and never looks for to his ideas and theories. He doesn't include the newcomers who introduce new varieties and ideas in finding in his scope. He is pious to a fault and therefore will not permit himself to attend church. Sunday school, and prayer meeting is the only activity during the week. 'tis wife receives no such inducement. She never attends church. In fact, she rarely escapes the humdrum of her life except on Saturdays—then she goes shopping in the town seven miles away. She remains home to do never-ending tasks. The farmer's wife preserves numberless jars of honey, citrus and vegetables. She tends the chickens, sews quilts and churns buttermilk. She is the pattern of the average country woman, with her coarse hair, colorless face, drab eyes, and gaunt figure. She shows little interest in anything aside from neighborhood gossip and visits at which time she recks on a chair and discusses her children's ailments, the hard work, and the possibility of rain.

Progressive Farmers

In contrast to these indifferent oldsters are the progressive, active new farmers. This new farmer is willing to try all experiments, ideas, and suggestions. While the new farmer is a man of approximately the same age as the oldster he appears to be of another generation. He is earnest and ambitious and affects the dress supposed to represent the modern farmer of that country. Hatless, he has a wavy, flat shiny, a great broad-brimmed hat and a Dixie bandana handkerchief serve as his costume. However, he, too, is a shareholder in the hardship of his occupation. This man is the one who invests in irrigation systems in hopes of a large crop, only to find the next ten seasons are of excessive rainfall. He is the farmer who plants tomatoes and beans between rows of his trees he is the farmer who sacrifices and tends his trees as though they were children. He is the cultivator who sprays and fertilizes and who spends vast sums for the best sort of smudge pot in case of frost; he is the farmer who attempts to have an attractive looking grove. Likewise, he is the man who endeavors to get the best variety in the produce, to find just the right time for selling, and yet is the farmer who in most cases almost even os losing just a little. He is the man who is not easily discouraged, but who thinks that continued failures will ultimately conquer him.

Wealthy Northerners

In the same group with the progressive Floridian farmer is the wealthy man from the north who has time, money, and resources for experimentation, for trying all the newest ideas, and to whom the success of the farming is of secondary importance. He has the most costly of equipment the best of supplies, together with scores of workers and foremen. He is the farmer whose home is the showpiece of the countryside

Florida Meeting Attended By Hay

Continued from Page One

vice Take' and the significance of the Workshop to Florida Colleges."

The business session will include reports of the officers and committees, election of officers, and presentation of new officers. Headquarters for the meeting will be at the Floridan hotel. All meetings are to be held in the assembly room of the hotel.

In former years Dr Edward Conradi and Mr. Clinnen Dubois Dodd have also attended these meetings, but could not be present this year.

At the dinner meeting tonight in the Columbia restaurant, Thee City, the music, of the evening will be furnished by the University of Tampa string quartette and the University trio with Lyman Wilbur, director.

Other officers are: president, H. S. Wood, dean, University of Miami; and secretary-treasurer, Olga Bowen, registrar, John B. Sparkman university

Local Minister to Hold Sorority Forum Tuesday

As a result of the interest aroused by the forum conducted Tuesday by Dr. James W. Workman at the Alpha Delta Pi house, the Reverend Jack Anderson of the Methodist church in Tallahassee has been called to conduct another forum for sorority girls next Tuesday. The forum will have for its subject, "A Christian Attitude toward War" and will be held at the Alpha Alpha Theta house at five o'clock.

Picture of Tampa Senior Will Appear in Magazine

Lucille Smoak, a senior of this college, has been chosen as one of the 48 preliminary selections made in Paramount's all-American college queen contest. Her picture will appear in an early issue of Movie and Radio Guide magazine.

A photograph of this Tampa girl was sent in to Paramount by Bill Perry, who is now at the U. a typical college girl as all-American queen. Lucille has taken part in the college productions of torch night. junior follies and activities on Sunday. Her photograph was selected as one of the 48 beauties in a contest staged at the University of Florida, where Kay Kerser picked the winner.

Religious Calendar

Y. W. C. A.

Sunday

5:00—Vespers, Tower room of Westcott building.

Wednesday

7:15—Early morning worship Tower room, Westcott building.

METHODIST

Sunday

10:00—Presentation of "Love Never Falleth"—pageant. missionary program.

11:00—Sermon.

7:20—Fellowship hour, Miss Eleanor Green, speaker. "Dress and Personality."

Tuesday

7:30—Vesters Catherine Quinby, leader.

Sunday

9:45—Council prayer meeting. CATHOLIC

Sunday

10:00—Meeting of old and new Executive council, Landis hall.

PRESBYTERIAN

Saturday

5:00—Hike. Meet behind Bryan hall.

Sunday

9:45—Sunday school. Helen Iserman, leader.

7:00—League. Mary Clark Caldwell, leader.

Spirgira Taps 7 Wednesday In Dining Hall

Continued from Page One

and is now freshman advisor. She has been a member of sophomore council, belongs to Alpha Delta Pi, and has participated in Odd demonstration for two years.

Miss Duncan, of the class of '41, took part in many campus activities while a student and was tapped because of these and her level "spirit" in the four years as a member of the administration.

Wednesday the goats made arrangements for the Spirogira Banquet, prepared favors, invitations, and placecards.

The organization includes Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence; Mrs. Pearl H. Wesver, cashier in the business office; Miss Olivia N. Dorman, dean of students; Miss Mary B. Settle, instructor in the physical education department; Miss Sarah E. Thomson, instructor in speech; Miss Anna M. Tracy, dietitian; Miss Edith West, assistant professor of classics; Miss Charlotte Stevens, alumnae secretary; and Dr. Marion J. Hay, associate professor of education.

Student members include Barbara Thomas, Gene Bryan, Beryl Mitchell, Nancy White, Sonia Mitchell, Betty Nickinson, Dorothy Parker, Cornelia Watson, Anne Jones, Martha Murphey, Lucile Walker, Carolyn Mims, Pat Brandt, Minnie Ratliff, Brenelle Mobley, and Louise Patterson.

College Calendar

April 21-27

Sunday

9:30-11:30—I. R. C. conference meetings, Augusta Conradi theater.

5:00—Vespers, Westcott tower room.

Monday

5:30—Phi Beta Kappa initiation, Alumnae office. Banquet, Wakulla lodge.

8:00—Faculty play night, gym.

Tuesday

8:—Mortar Board tapping, auditorium.

Wednesday

4:30—Residence hall teas.

4:30—Student music recital, auditorium.

5:30—Junior-senior kid party, open air theater. Dinner, Landis and Gilchrist dining halls.

Thursday

8:00—Speech department play, "Les Femmes Savantes" Little theater.

Friday

8:00—Play night, gymnasium.

8:00—Speech department play, "Les Femmes Savantes," Little theater.

Uncle John Tells Of Sight Years As Watchman

Continued from Page One

ed papers and who had been carrying the old-fashioned shotgun for several decades.

Mr. McCollum talked to the boy kindly and warned him not to come on the campus after light flash again, or he might not be so fortunate next time. Mr. McCollum says that he is glad that he did not have to shoot the youth who was threatening him because he would have been criticised for doing so even though it was his duty.

"The college is considerably different from what it was when I came here," states Uncle John.

He feels that the present rules now in force have helped to lighten his job, for there are no longer any students living in dwelling without signing out. Uncle John recalls how girls leaving cars at the edge of the campus would see him and dash madly for the dormitories before he could recognize them and reports them to the authorities.

In those days the main entrance was at the south entrance to the campus were closed to traffic at night by stretching chains across the gates. Now cars and busses are permitted to pass through the campus after light flash but are not encouraged to do so because they might disturb the sleep of weary students.

The new streets recently constructed in the back section of the grounds have added greatly to the duties of Uncle John and make him wish he had an extra pair of eyes in the back of his head.

Seasons of special duty when the two policemen are busy up to eighteen hours a day occur at the opening and closing of each school year, and just before the

Zetas Entertain Faculty At Formal Reception

The formal faculty reception of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority was held last Wednesday afternoon Mrs. William Clyde Roberts of Tallahassee, first grand vice-president of the sorority was the honored guest. Mrs. Roberts who will be here until April 27, is making chapter inspections.

The decorations were in the blue and silver of Zeta Tau Alpha and the letters "ZTA" adorned the tops of the cakes served for refreshments.

Receiving with Dorothy Swanson, chapter president, were Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Mary Winslow, faculty advisor, and Mrs. J. E. Gibson, Mrs. R. S. Cotterill and Mrs H. P. Becker assisted at the tea table

Juniors, Seniors Will Play At Kid Party Wednesday

The traditional junior-senior kid party is scheduled to be held next Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 in the outdoor theater. Bryan Bryan is in charge of arrangements for this celebration.

Prizes will be awarded to girls with the cutest and the most original costumes.

Following the party juniors and seniors, wearing their "kid" costumes, will march to Gilchrist and Landis dining rooms for dinner.

A special rate is being offered by the local theaters to all members of these two classes who wish to attend the movies Wednesday night.

Faculty sponsors for the junior and senior classes, and other faculty will act as parents at the party.

Senior "parents" are Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Bryan and Miss Ruth Schornherst. Junior "parents" are Miss Mary Settle, Dr. and Mrs. W. H Rogers, and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Talley.

Textile Expert Writes Article For Publication In Agricultural News

Miss Clarine Belcher, extension textile specialist for Florida State College for Women, recently had an article printed in Agricultural News entitled, "Home Mattress Making."

The article Miss Belcher states that making mattresses for the home is nothing new for the south; it was done long ago by the early plantation families. It is now the purpose of the United States department of agriculture to encourage mattress making to increase the consumption of cotton and at the same time make the homes of the rural districts more comfortable and convenient. Those families who have cotton in their field, can utilize it to good advantage if they are in need of this comfort. Already, she points out, 500 homes in the state have taken this plan and have found it successful.

Sophomores To Entertain Seniors With Breakfast

The traditional sophomore-senior breakfast for this year will be given on May 4, in the east dining hall, it was announced today at 6 o'clock as has been the custom in the past. The breakfast will begin at 6:45. All sophomores and seniors are invited to Armistice, Christmas, and Easter holidays, when the traffic problem is acute.

Mr. Green reports that before the watchmen were uniformed it was often reported to him that a prowler had been seen outside the dormitories. Upon investigating, he would discover that he was the only prowler in the vicinity and that he had been chasing himself. Putting the policemen in uniforms made them easy for the girls to identify and avoided confusion.

Whether Mr. McCollum and Mr. Green delight in watchmen or policemen is a controversial question. They are hired by the state to serve as night watchmen, but they wear police uniforms and have the authority of regular policemen. Mr. McCollum is a deputy sheriff and has the power to arrest anyone he finds violating the law in Leon county and take him to the city or county court.

Color-blind persons can see better in the dark than those with the normal eyesight.

SORORITY BREAKFASTS, COFFEES, TEAS FEATURED ON WEEK'S SOCIAL CALENDAR

With the arrival of spring, the members of Alpha Xi Delta sorority will entertain rushees, pledges, and chapter members at a garden tea Saturday afternoon at 4:30 in the garden of the sorority house.

The members of Delta Delta Delta sorority are hostesses to Mrs. Alexander Grant, their national treasurer, for two days. Climaxing Mrs Grant's visit, they have an after-dinner coffee in her honor last night.

Wednesday night at 6:15, the Alpha Chi Omega sorority will honor patrons and patronesses with a buffet supper at the sorority house. Pledges will serve. Mrs Fred Virgil Johnson, Mrs. Tabeling, and Jane Bord will be hostesses. Guests will be Dr. Katheryn T. Abby, faculty advisor, Miss Bernice Dietz, student advisor, Mrs. Marian McKinnon, house mother, and Miss Gaye Fawley, Mrs. Cecily Strong, Mrs. Carmen Rogers, Professor and Mrs. Walter Cowles. Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Miller, Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Wilkinson, and Miss Ruth Bispham.

Two alumnae breakfasts, a picnic, and an informal tea complete the social calendar for the week and last week for the Sigma Kappa sorority. Alpha Theta and Kappa Deltas respectively. Last Sunday the Sigma Kappa and the Kappa Alpha Thetas honored their visiting alumnae at breakfasts at their respective houses. The Sigma Kappa assembled their twenty-five alumnae with cersaers The Theta alumnae numbered twelve.

The Chi emegas plan to "rush it" this weekend out at Pinelacoowe while the Kappa Deltas will have an informal Wednesday for members and Miss Olivia Dorman, new students, will speak at this occasion.

AMERICA'S BUSIEST CIGARETTE

Chesterfield goes to bat with the World Champion Line-up

Definitely Milder Cooler-Smoking Better-Tasting

...these are the three good qualities that every smoker wants and every smoker gets in Chesterfield. That's because Chesterfields are made of the world's best tobaccos, blended in the right combination.

You can't buy a better cigarette.

How About A

Dating Bureau?

The Florida Flambeau

Work For The End Draws Nigh.

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXVII

Tallahassee, Florida, April 26, 1940

NUMBER TWENTY-FIVE

earbook Editor Will Be Elected n Convocation

Mitchell And Erwin Present Petitions For Flastacovo

Both Are Art Majors Hot Inexperienced

Candidates for editor of Flastacovo will be presented in convocation Tuesday and will be voted on by the student body. Jane Mitchell and Rachel Erwin have submitted petitions which have passed the approval of the permanent office, the registrar's office, the infirmary, and the dean's office. Their petitions are published in this issue.

Qualifications Listed

Such candidates are art majors who have work in that field for at least another two years and such neither has had experience on the annual. Sonia Mitchell

My platform is a book—one which I expect to make a good picture of our campus. Sonia Mitchell

My policy as editor of the Flastacovo would be to work carefully and continually, to produce a staff who had clever ideas, good artistic tastes, and to give us an annual which beautifully represents our college life. My aim would be so to make the Flastacova as interesting as possible by using pictures which are good technically and artistically, as well as interesting in subject matter. Rachel Erwin

Number of sophomore council, two juniors and two seniors, and N C A., has worked on the registrations, in co-vice-chairof May Day, and is a member of Sorority. Rachel has been activity chairman of the Panhellenic corps, has worked on the registrations and the odd jobs and has been active in the Union club.

Vere were no qualified candidates running for the office of editor when the other campus offices were elected in March, therefore it was necessary to fill the election at a later date.

peech Students ive 5-Act Play

Whitehurst Has Lead In "Learned Ladies"

Outnit the speech department he college will present, on its free-act play "The Learned ies" in the Augusta Conrad ter at 8 o'clock. This play ented the play Tuesday afternoon for the literary club and Thursday night in the Au-Conrad theater.

Phillip Whitehurst is playing part of Armande, a young man returning to brilliance after many glimmers i nthe presence of her learned mother. Louise Usher will play her sister Henriette, a girl in love. It is utterly without ambition. The Crouch plays Philimiste, brother of the two girls. He is a "modern" woman, whose self-discovered learning has led to her head and not to her Betty Rose Scott plays Chrisale, the father of the two who provides most of the funds in the play. He is a little small completely dominated by his wife, but would like to otherwise.

Others in the cast are Frances Allen, Betty Jane Hall, Jane Bloan, Beth Blair, Sarah Bernard Nelle Norfleet, Beth and Jackey Colley.

The play has been adapted and directed by Miss Kemper Harreld, assistant professor of French, from the play by Moliere, French playwright.

tory Team Debates estion of Isolation

The Florida State College for men debating team, represented by Patricia Holbert and Joan Fox debated the Emory university team in a non-decision on the isolation question Tuesday morning in Miss Usher Wyly's advanced speech unit. Dr Robert S. Cotterill in American Institution also ded. The members of the team who participated in Peace were Bill Stripe and Martin Lewis who upheld the ative side of the isolation tion.

Letter Arrives Via 'Sea Mail'

A letter written April 15 on board the food ship "Chalmers," stamped Air Mail, and dropped overboard in a bottle off the coast of Florida was received by Miss Armstrong of Florida State College for Women on April 21.

Charles Blanton, Alice's modern Romeo, is a radio engineer of the S.S. Chalmers, a United Fruit company boat of the fourth largest commercial service, which was headed for Central America from New York City. Upon reaching the Florida coast, Charles threw the letter overboard in a sealed bottle, and it was picked up by Captain Charles Lass of the fishing schooner "Sea-Yaz" in the vicinity of Miami, and sent on its way.

Alice was inclined to disbelieve the obvious tale of her "sea letter" with the picture stamp of a steamship on one side and the address of Captain Lass on the other. But upon receiving a telephone call the other night from Charles, she verified the fact. Now Alice finds herself in possession of an epistle valued by its history at least, and perhaps the forerunner of a new and original system. Sea Mail.

May Day Will Be Saturday Week

Festival This Year Has Austrian Theme

The annual May Day festival, to be held on the archery field at 4 o'clock on May 4, will be an Austrian theme. Only one queen will reign this year instead of the two who ruled last year.

Dances performed by members of Miss Elizabeth Cowell's class, Miss Mary B Sittle's, and Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson's classes will represent Austria.

A peasant dance will open the ceremony. Following that a milkmaid's dance, a folk dance group, and then comes a tumbling act. The performance will close with a Viennese waltz. The dance composer Johann Strauss will be featured throughout the festival.

Some of the girls who will take part in the program are: Lillian Alderdice, the king, Connie Ash the queen, Sarah Doyle Bryant the chancellor; Marie Crouch, the traveler; Betty Smith, the first priest; Lillian Garcia, Judith Ann Mohr, Mary Ellen McCall and Sandra Ann Perrin the peasant men; Mary Small, the page; Augusta Alberton, the clown; Joan Wesner, Martha Whitehurst and Lillian Ober, the bevaras; Sarah Woodruff and Beth Blair, harpists; Miss Kathleen Gruppe is the faculty advisor for this affair.

Eyman to Speak Tuesday

Dr R. L. Eyman, dean of the school of education, will speak in convocation Tuesday on the education program to interested students going into honors work.

This year there are two seniors in special honors group. They are Martha Dent Perry and Ruth Rogers.

Most People Say They Attended College to Prepare For Life

Others Go to Follow Crowd, Because Dad Did Or Did Not, or For Matrimonial Purposes

By DONICE YOUNGBLOOD

Is it almost impossible to give a definite answer to the controversial question: Why does anyone go to college? There are many stated facts encountered in this question, but perhaps the most ultimate conclusion, no doubt, is that because Dad did. Or, Dad's father is asked just why he sent his son or his daughter to college, the usual reply is, "To prepare for life." Almost any discussion of modern education accounts that the main objective is preparation for life, and there are those writers as to just what the preparation for life really is. In reality words are words, and in merely as getting a job, as everyone, or-dinarily does. The desire to make a person's life in the fear of not being able to get a job is a motivation, without which they cannot exist. Today everyone is compelled to get a job because that is the only sensible thing known to do.

No doubt, college professors would shout for joy if every student went to college to prepare herself for a job. They probably assume that more interest would be taken in the academic curriculum, for then every student would be striving to be at the top. It is most unfortunate, however, that this is not the aim of every student in college. There is sent [illegible] because Mrs. Puton's daily went; the son is sent because dad went, or didn't go. Mary Jane goes for matrimonial purposes; Sue goes because she's got out and work. But, after all, when it is all summed up people do not pursue everyone else goes or because families don't know what else to do with their offspring. Colleges would have no reason to exist if every student was "honest-John" and there to achieve something.

Others Seek Knowledge

For the "don't-care" college is a rarity. They glide along with all their troubles and never worry about the future. But the "do-cares" have a different problem to face. A great number of them enter college knowing that they have to learn how to do something but they cannot decide what that something should be. There are many courses offered

Continued on Page Two

John T. Graves To Make Speech At Graduation

Baccalaureate Sermon Will Be Delivered By Bishop Patrick Barry

Program Is Listed

John Temple Graves II. will deliver the address at the thirty-fifth annual commencement of Florida State colleges on Monday, May 27 Mr. Graves is associated with the Birmingham News, Birmingham, Ala. Conferring of degrees will take place directly after the address.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered on Sunday, May 26, by the Bishop Patrick Barry of the diocese of St. Augustine.

Members of the board of control will be invited as special guests. Those expected are Mr. R. P. Terry of Miami, chairman; Mr. Thomas W. Bryan, Lakeland; Mr. H. P. Adair, Jacksonville, Mr. Charles P. Helfenstein, Live Oak; Mr. W. M. Palmer, Ocala, Mr. J. T. Diamond, Tallahassee, secretary. Other outstanding guests include Mr. J. B. Sutton of Gainesville former member of the board of control.

The program for the weekend is as follows:

May 25—Saturday, reception by Dr. Conrad and Mrs. Louise Conradi Ekermeyer at their home 4:30 to 5:30 o'clock.

Class Day Exercises—10 o'clock—In front of Bryan Hall.

May 26—Sunday, Annual Baccalaureate Service, 11 o'clock, Auditorium

After-dinner coffee for guests, seniors and alumnae—Bryan and Gilchrist parlors, 2 o'clock.

YWCA Vespers Service, 5:30 o'clock. Auditorium Chapel theater.

Annual Concert, School of Music, 8:15 o'clock, auditorium.

May 27—Monday, 10:45 graduation exercises 10 o'clock, auditorium.

Faculty Member Receives AAUW Scholarship Loan

Miss Margaret Campbell, instructor in modern languages, has been awarded the A. A. U. W. scholarship loan for travel. She will attend the University of North Carolina to complete work for her Ph. D. in French.

The scholarships which are given by the board of intellect and character, are given to those who show an interest in education beyond a bachelor's degree, accordine to Dr. Liddell, chairman of the scholarship committee.

Last year the committee sent Bertha Hoffman to complete her Florida State college. to Tulane university.

Mortified Taps Seven Juniors

Mortar Board had tapped 12 girls for membership and was completing its recessional. Scarcely had the last dignified figures in black and white slowly passed from the auditorium when seven red-shirted girls scurried from the right wing to the front of the auditorium. Seven lusty voices began to sing to the tune of "My Maryland": "You're fortified, you're fortified tapped for Mortified." The organization of Mortified was tapped.

Mortified selected seven girls from among the juniors not tapped by Mortar Board. Each newly-Mortified received her bid in the form of a red and white scroll. Membership qualifications are based on outstanding leadership and scholarship. But as the seven chosen are minus the 1.7 scholastic average required for Mortar Board. However, among the girls chosen annually one also has the required scholastic average.

The new Red-shirts of the campus are Sarah Worth, Lib Miller, Anne Jones, Ruth Toren, Lucille Wilson, Betty Hamilton and Florest Brown. The first fifty-two will automatically become the Cantina of Mortified, equivalent to the rank of president. Sarah Worth succeeds Lucille Wilson in this role.

The founding of Mortified dates back into the bygone days of 1937. On each occasion of a Mortar Board tap night seven mortified campus leaders of the '37 senior class who had not been tapped by Mortar Board performed the initial Mortified tapping. Mary Elizabeth McAllister was the first Mortified Cantina.

The colors of the organization are blush pink and green with the Mortified insignia, a wavy, scripty, Service, Scholarship. The first two words are robustly acclaimed. Service, however, is in a low, deriding voice, accompanied with an over-the-shoulder motion of the thumb. Mentality is attained in seven gradations of the buck-bruising quality of this number. "The national president has been unable to visit this campus because she 'slipped on Green and Gold Ice Trust.' The symbolical flower is the lily of the valley. Its motto is 'Flowers does it spin, and where does it get you in the end.' The whistle is "Lazy Bones."

The new members undergo the mortifications of goating from Wednesday through Friday. Saturday has been proclaimed a day of rest. The initiation ceremony will be conducted in the open air behind Dodd. Refreshments and will be followed by entertainment at the Chi Omega house.

Mortified has no use gold as the element for its pin but prefers the silver sheen of the safety-pin. Two long pin ribbons attached to this pin are worn during the day by the members of the signify full-fledged membership. Members are expected to furnish their own pins.

The senior members of Mortified are Jeanne Bloodworth, Janet Jewett, Vonnie Marchesean, Dot Parker, Louise Rice and Jean Webster.

Gainesville Hears FSCW Glee Club

A special concert was presented by the Florida State college glee club ensemble before a packed house at the University of Florida last Wednesday night by Etta Robertson, director of the ensemble, was in charge of the program, a varied assortment of the spring concert. The glee club was brought to Gainesville by the Lyceum council as a feature of the entertainment for the day.

The ensemble was assisted by Julia and Merrycky Rosser who played flute and violin numbers. Soloists for the occasion were: Marybelle Phillips, soprano, and Louise Thrasher," soprano, and Eleanor Collins, soprano. Miss Robertson again sang the traditional Buni song, The Sunrise Call, with the glee cirth chorus. Novelty numbers, Afferican folk songs, and Indian and Negro spirituals were also offered.

After the program, glee club members were honor guests at the weekly "Friday night" dance in the Florida union building.

Dean Announces Activities For Summer School

Educational Program Offers New Courses Including Workshop

150 Teachers Expected

Dr. R. L. Eyman, dean of the school of education announced Thursday the new plans for courses to be given in summer school this year.

The regular summer educational activities are planned of which the largest will be a workshop for 13 cooperating Florida schools conducted from June 18-29. At the workshop the entire faculties of the schools will discuss their own problems, determine school objectives, and plan programs based on the needs of their pupils and communities. Approximately 150 teachers from elementary and elementary schools will attend the workshop which is being conducted for the first time on this campus in cooperation with the Florida department, the state department of public instruction, and other educational consultants. Mr. Joe Hall, director of certification in physical and health education with the state department, will be in charge.

Schools participating in the workshop will include: Centerville, Quincy, Havana, Monticello, Fort Walton Elementary and High school, Pensacola Elementary and Junior High school, Marianna Elementary and High school, Perry Elementary and High school: Morningside Elementary and High school: Port St. Joe Elementary and High school, Wesley Memorial Elementary and High school, Chiles Elementary school of Crawfordville; and Tallahassee Elementary and High school.

Other Programs Scheduled

Other courses already announced are: An elementary principal's planning course, June 18-July 26, with Dr. R. C. Moore, curriculum director of the school of Education of this college in charge. The course is limited to 30 persons, who will develop plans to prepare complete programs to meet their individual school needs.

A production course in elementary aid by Dr. W. T. Kelley of the department of public instruction at which about seventy teachers and principals are expected to take advantage of this opportunity to obtain a guide to improved practices in elementary schools.

A course in personnel administration for health materials is planned from June 10 to July 20, when nearly all elementary, junior and senior and secondary schools will participate in the distribution of new bulletin to assist in the teaching of health. They will be given by Dr. Hall who is in charge of the department of public health education.

A committee for elementary principals, planning course, and problems in elementary education will meet week of June 3 to June 8, when representatives of teacher training institutions of the state responsible for the teaching of elementary principals and the elementary school, will confer with Mr. Joe Hall for the purpose of organizing and developing materials for an elementary physical education program.

Six hours of college credit will be given those participating in workshop, the elementary principals, planning course, and problems in elementary health materials. Twelve hours' credit will be given those who attend the

Continued on Page Two

Cone Names Moore As Representative

Dr. Coyle E. Moore, associate professor of sociology, has been appointed by Governor Fred P. Cone to be a delegate representative of this state at the Southeastern States Probation and Parole conference, which will be held at Biloxi, Miss., on May 1, 2, and 4.

New developments in the field of probation and parole, improvements in local machinery, and possibilities of wider application of the techniques of probation and parole are some of the topics that will be discussed at the meeting. Judge Walter S. Criswell, juvenile court judge of Jacksonville; J. C. Lanier, probation officer; and Dean Paul E. Raymond, college of law. Stetson university, are among those who attend the conference from Florida.

New Mortar Board Members

Outstanding Juniors at Florida State colleges for women, recently honored by being named members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, are pictured above. They are: left to right, front row seated, Martha Murphy, Pat Brandt; second row, Virginia Ahlwerdt, Cornelia Watson, Gene Bryan, Carolyn Sims, Minnie Ralliff; standing, Betty Nicklinson, Virginia Balkcom, Margaret Scott, and Elisabeth Lynn. Abs tapped was Wilma Johns, not pictured above.

D C C Offices Won By Losers

At a called meeting of the Defeated Candidates club Sunday afternoon, Frances Wald was elected president, Betty Lane, vice secretary, and Marianna Boardman, treasurer for 1940-41. Nominations were made and eight persons receiving the least number of votes were elected to office.

After elections the new treasurer read the DCC scroll of Dishonor which included girls who have been tapped for honoraries or elected to an office, since their defeats in the freshman class elections. Virginia Ahlwerdt, Anne Arnold, secretary of the sophomore class and sophomore council; Peggy Barker, sophomore representative to judiciary, sophomore council, and "F" club; Margaret Carter secretary-treasurer of PEA; Virginia Carlton, vice-president of sophomore class: Frances Ellen Hackl, vice-house chairman of Jennie Murphree. sophomore representative to judiciary, sophomore council, and Sprogirls; Helen Hawkins, secretary of sophomore council.

Kitty Jo Hickman, president of sophomore class; Nan Ingram, chairman of sophomore-senior breakfast, and sophomore council; Betty Lang vice-chairman of sophomore council; Alice Ladiam, treasurer of sophomore council, and "F" club; Annette McPartlan, parliamentarian of sophomore class and sophomore council; Virginia Monroe, chairman of sophomore hop and parliamentarian of sophomore council; Alice Price, chairman of sophomore council; and Mary Arnold, Evelyn Ann Doyle, Jimmie Pain, Carol Marshall, Patsy McGraw, Marie Overcash, and Jane Watts, sophomore council, were also included on the list.

U of F Men Feel Monthly Dance Furnished 'Swell Time For All'

Questionnaires Sent to 20 Students Show Majority in Favor of Continuing Dances

When 20 University of Florida men were recently asked their opinion of a more normal relationship between the students of the two schools, 70 per cent of the men said. But 30 per cent maintained that "too much importance was all at once" and the "unhealthy atmosphere on the FSCW campus" prevent normal relationships.

Only two of the group were optimistic enough to say that the dances will help bring about cooperation, which was one of the strong arguments in favor of starting the cantina. The most adequate reason given for holding the dances by the majority which brings the two student bodies closer together is bound to work towards unity." The 10 who emphatically said "no" maintain that "legislation is more to the point." Several of them suggested that coeducation will come only to the University of Florida, and there only as more girls are gradually allowed to enter; also others said that graduate, not undergraduate pressure is the factor to that has

Continued on Page Six

Students Attend Church Meeting

U Of F Presbyterians Entertain FSC Girls

A Presbyterian student conference of members of Florida State College for Women and the University of Florida will be held at Gainesville today through Sunday. The girls will be entertained at the new Presbyterian student house on Buchanan street. Clevelein is chairman of the arrangements.

Dr. R. E. Holt, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Jacksonville, will speak at the banquet to be given for Florida State college students by the Gainesville Presbyterian church. Louise Patterson has charge of a party following the banquet.

Saturday morning the Rev. Ansley Seymour of Clearwater will lead a Bible study and discussion in small group will follow. A fish fry will be given for the conference that evening by Dr. J S. Carden, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Gainesville.

The conference will close with a communion service Sunday afternoon.

The retiring president of the group, Edna Warren, and the newly elected president, Louise Patterson, are in charge of arrangements. Students planning to attend the conference are Edna Warren, Alice Dorner, Jean Hampton, Louise Patterson, Clara Belle Mock, Marie Mosteller, Marjorie May, Peggy Cook, Mary Clark Caldwell, Margaret Matthews, Peggy Thornton.

Louise Crosby, Mervyday Rosser, Amanda Everett, Betty Daniels, Dot Nodine, Elizabeth Draughon, Gwendolyn Bradley, Mary Rhame, Nan Ingram.

Twelve Juniors Are Tapped For Mortar Board

Initiation Will Be At Richards' Home Sunday Afternoon

Gene Bryan is Chosen New Group President

Climaxing one of the most impressive ceremonies of the year, Mortar Board, leading national honorary society for women, will initiate twelve juniors at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harold Richards, national editor of the Mortar Board Quarterly. The selected students received lighted torches from the old members in the traditional tapping ceremonies in the auditorium Tuesday night.

By virtue of being the first girl to be tapped, Gene Bryan automatically became president of the organization for the next year. Outstanding leadership, scholarship, and service were the basis for the selection of the group.

Other juniors who were tapped were: Minnie Ratliff, Vivian Ahlwerdt, Virginia Balkcom, Pat Brandt, Virginia Carlton, Elisabeth Lynn, Carolyn Mims, Martha Murphy, Mary Rhame, Carol Scott, and Cornelia Watson.

Warren Speaks

Only the evening meeting forbes of the senior members and the faculty members of the chapter of Florida State college, illuminated the black stage as Miss Katherine Warren, president in the chair of students, explained the ideals of the society, and Miss Richards read the traditional poem "The Lamp." Then the torches were lighted flashed on, each Mortar Board member, clad in cap and gown, lighted the junior torches and tapped one student, escorting her to the platform and then out of the auditorium.

Mortar Board alumnae and alumnae participating in the ceremony included Dr. Olivia Dorman, dean of students and honorary member of Mortar Board, Dr Rachel Stevenson, professor of English, Miss Dorothy Parker of Tallahassee, Miss Ruth Schoenheit, assistant director in tenancy; Miss Elizabeth Lynn, physics instructor; Mrs. Harold Richards; Dr. Dorothy Brown, Spanish instructor; Miss Mary B Sittle, physical

Continued on Page Six

Senate To Fill Vacant Offices

Combination of Fetes Suggested by Group

Nominations for house chairman of Lando hall as well as for the vice-presidency of CGA were made in senate meeting yesterday afternoon. Elections will be checked for their qualifications and the senate will vote on them at 5:00 today.

A recommendation was made and passed that the two fetes be incorporated into the celebration of Torch night. At this time the new president of CGA would be introduced, and they would be honored at the first monthly dance. It was also suggested that Torch night be held on Friday night and that the monthly dance be on the following Saturday.

A number of other suggestions were made concerning all the traditional ceremonies. The chairman of the this year's Torch night ceremony presented the plan they had expected to use last year which was prevented by rain but out festival this year. Several senators spoke in favor of a plan to embody every day festivities so that it would be as important an occasion here as it is other colleges.

The senate read the recommendations that had come from last year's NSFA asking that Pretty and Torch night be combined in one impressive ceremony. Miss May Lou Bozeman stated that the other traditions such as the demonstrations, and junior minuets, remain as they are.

Nominated for house chairman of Landis were Mary Jane Mollin. Emily Phillips, Sumane Wilson, Martha Folsom and Ruth Torres.

Nominated for third vice-president of CGA were Betty Bryan, Sarah Duke Bryant, Grace Ann Hall, Lou King, and Claude Ann Rhodes.

From Other Colleges

By DORIS CARTER

Michigan State's registrar has recently been showered with letters from Danish college students seeking education and safety in the United States. One of the most interesting applicants was a Chinese student stranded in Copenhagen, Denmark. According to his air mail letter sent to Michigan State he was "attending school in Nanking China, when the Japanese invaded the country and cut short his schooling. Immediately he journeyed to Berlin, but Germany invaded Poland, and once more he was forced to flee. Denmark, with a history of 100 years of peace, seemed an ideal spot, so he enrolled in a Copenhagen university." And we all know the rest!

"If Tor," a musical comedy dealing satirically with dictators, fascist organizations, and American advertising schemes, was the opening feature of the Cornell University celebration held at North Texas State teachers college last weekend. The operetta proved of particular interest to spectators since Miss Mamie Smith, a member of the English faculty of the college, was the author. The cast consisted of over 100 students.

Among other outstanding events scheduled for the remainder of the years' growth of one of the leading educational institutions of the Southwest were two main speakers. T. V. Smith, professor of philosophy at Chicago university and congressman-at-large from Illinois, lectured on address at a formal convocation and Robert Lee Bobbitt, state highway commissioner, and a former student of the college delivered the college audiotorium.

Saturday night festivities were climaxed by an all-college dance in the recreation hall On Sunday morning the college Concert choir, one of the most outstanding cappella groups of the southwest, made their fifteen annual ance for the current year. This marked the close of the weekend.

Over 200 delegates from 38 colleges and universities in 11 of the 12 states comprising southern and southeastern regions attended the meeting of the National Student Federation of America at New Orleans last weekend. Problems in student government and in student publications were discussed by student and college authorities. "Democracy on the College Campus" and "Student Faculty Relations in a Democratic College Community," were the themes of two of the most outstanding topics discussed.

"The United States, Latin America's and Europe's Crisis," will be discussed by Dr. Arthur Pred Rippy, author, lecturer and professor of history at the University of Chicago, during Pan-Politicos week at the University of Kentucky. The international relations organization will particularly study the future of Pan-Americanism during its annual week of study and discussion forums. Brasil has been chosen for special study in classes and extra-curricular discussions.

Milwaukee State Teachers college held its annual student art demonstration recently with the customary parade of students bearing placards with anti-war slogans. The president of the student teachers union, who conducted the parade said that "the strike is particularly effective in position, since it is an active resistance to pro-war forces and a dress-rehearsal for our course should the United States declare war."

About 500 students participated in the 1936 strike while only 50 took part in last year's deportation. In an effort to urge students to take part in the peace strike this year no one was counted absent from classes.

Dr. John T. Mott, chairman of the World's Y.W.C.A., has just finished a series of five lectures to the student body of Davidson college in North Carolina The lectures, given each morning during an extended chapel period, were based on the theme, "Life and Life Purpose."

Dean Announces Activities For Summer School

Continued from Page One

ro school materials, which is the only activity meeting during the summer sessions. No credit will be allowed for the week's meeting of the production committee for elementary physical education.

Lovely Gifts For Mother's Day
THE GIFT SHOP
Corner College and South Adams
Mother's Day Cards go on Display Today

FSC Musicians To Give Recital

Certificate Programs Will Begin Next Week

The School of Music presented a student recital in the college auditorium Wednesday afternoon. The program consisted of selections for piano, voice, violin, and song.

Numbers included a Beethoven Sonata, Menuetto Rondo, by Pauline Morrow, pianist; Aragonesa by Cassals, Myrtle Hoffman, pianist; Serenade by Atherton, Mrs. Lois Lillie, soprano, accompanied by Myrtle Mae Hoffman; Prelude and Fugue in B minor by Bach, Marianne Wright, pianist; Concerto in D minor by Vieuxtemps, Elizabeth Miller, violinist, accompanist by Virginia Rouse; Sonata, Largo-allegro Adagio by Beethoven, Mary Elizabeth Gunter and Prelude and Fugue in G minor by Bach, Sara Frances Guthrie Suite by Boellman, Dorothy Sanderson, organist.

The first of the season's series of certificate and degree recitals will be presented by the music department in the auditorium on Tuesday, April 30, at 11 o'clock. On this occasion Myrtle Hoffman, pianist, pupil of Dean Ruth Gordon Opperman, will render certificate recital. She will be assisted by a string quartet from the ensemble class of Karl Krueger. Members of the string quartet are Virginia Rouse, first violin; Myra Swindell, second violin; Virginia Hall, viola; and Maryrose Barnes, violincelo. Her accompanist will be Marianne Wright, major by Haydn; Concerto, N. 17 G Major by Mozart; Barabande by Handel; Rondo Capriccioso on a Russian theme by D'orsten-Sackenhausen; Ave Maria by Rafi-Bachon; Nocturne, by Chopin. Allegretto from Concerto in A minor, Grieg, and Rifiual Fire Dance by DeFalla.

Other certificate recitals include on Saturday, May 4, Pauline Morrow, pianist, pupil of Miss Mary Esther Winslow, and Dorothy Sanford, organist, pupils of Miss Ruth Gordon Opperman. On Wednesday, May 8, Edna Warren, pupil of Miss Winslow, will give a similar recital assisted by Maryrue Barnes, violincelo, and Mrs. Hughes, soprano. On Thursday, May 9, Alma Chalker, soprano, pupil of Miss Etta Lucile Robertson, will conclude the series.

In addition to these student recitals, there will be two faculty concerts. The first will be a recital given by Mr. and Mrs. Karl Ahrendt on Tuesday, May 7. The second concert will be assisted by Mrs. Winslow. Mr. Ahrendt is the head of the violin department in the school of music, and Mrs. Ahrendt is an accomplished pianist. The second will be given by Miss Kathleen Grupe, pianist, and Miss Winslow, who is studying piano as a hobby and not for a degree. She will give her recital on Saturday, May 11.

Other miscellaneous concerts to be given are an annual concert Sunday night, May 25, and a Sunday afternoon concert by the band department to be held in the music annex Monday May 13. It will be followed by a concert of string studying piano as a hobby and not for a degree. She will give her recital on Saturday, May 11.

Other miscellaneous concerts to be given are an annual concert Sunday night, May 25, and a Sunday afternoon concert by the band department to be held in the music annex Monday May 13. It will be followed by a concert of string students on Wednesday, May 1, 6 and 15, at 4:30 o'clock in the college auditorium.

Most People Say They Attend College To Prepare For Life

Continued from Page One

at college. A student would like to take but he cannot find the money for them. He could be contented with the subjects offered and by the college board. It is a proved fact that everybody is not alike by; our college presidents seem to forget this when they prescribe courses for the student. Coal probably will never benefit them. As the old saying goes: "What is good for one person may be worse for another."

On the other hand, many students have definitely decided on the line of work they are going at much better off than their undecided colleagues because the looming fate of our present day is precarious uncertainty. Many

∴ Inquiring Reporter ∴

Do You Favor the Abolition of Fees?

Generally speaking, do you think the new movement to add additional funds to every students expenses instead of including a charge class and laboratory fees is progressive? Do you feel that it will affect you beneficially or will it add to your expenses?

Celia Zoe Pipkin—As a home economic major, it affects me but why should the rest of the student body pay our lab fees?

Lil Alderdice—It so happens I am an education major and as I have few or no fees I would definitely be against it. Why should an education major help pay the expenses of a home economics major or any other major?

Elaine Hundertmark — Personally, I do not see the point in it, and there must be some reason about it or other schools would not have adopted it.

Ralph Beckham—I think this new movement is very progressive as no one is hindered from taking the course which he wishes to take. Many students have been unable to take certain courses because of the enormous laboratory fees, now they can take the courses which will benefit them the most without contemplating the financial situation. I think this movement puts the cost of college education on an equal level whereas before the cost was very much higher for home economics and chemistry majors. It will definitely lower my expenses as a history and chemistry major are-in the near future. I am definitely for it.

Jimmie Benson—I think it is very unfair, from what I can see at present. If it will be about half as much, it might seem proportional, but as it is, it does not seem necessary. It does not help the music major, and it is more than likely that it helps the economics majors, have to pay. It will add a good deal to our expenses I think some people have to pay too many fees, but I do not think everyone's going to like this one is necessary.

Mary Catherine Lyon—I think that the addition of $8 to our registration fee is justified since course fees will not have to be paid. This addition will make my expenses go up perhaps, but in the long run it should help more girls.

Wanda Sinclair—I do not think there will be much difference although I can see that it will help the home economics majors.

Grace Sparkman—This movement will undoubtedly affect me. A few people will gain and a few people will lose, but on the whole it would be better.

Kathleen McCarthy—Yes, it will affect me very beneficially as laboratory fees are charged in any course they should be charged college students are afraid to prepare themselves for one certain occupation they fear that there will be a failure in the world There often lurks the doubt of whether the student will be able to obtain a job when his pursuit of an education is over. Times and conditions are continually changing a. that what holds true today will be the reverse tomorrow Since we are not prophets, we are not able to look into the future and see how conditions will be It may at some time have been said that success in life depended on the intellectual ability of the student concerned; however, a statement of that kind does not hold true today. Many college graduates have to overlook the fact that they have attended college and accept any position they may be lucky enough to obtain In our world today, competition is too keen for an average individual to try to compete alone Initiative undoubtedly arise shiefy force a man into just the occupation from what he would like to do.

Dirtwitties Met in Lin

When one thinks of the many difficult problems likely to be met by everyone, he is apt to become despondent and decide that college is a waste of time and effort. Even this lowly state of mind befalls a person! It would be a good idea for him to study the many problems a non-college graduate has to face and then he will no doubt view college with a more favorable eye. There is little doubt in our minds that a college graduate has a much better chance of success in life than does the non-college graduate. success in life demands a course success in securing a job Even though the college graduate may not have obtained a great amount of intellectual knowledge in the books, he has gained by society as a whole. He has met many people unethically look upon a college as a sort of cultural center where one may acquire knowledge and culture.

Louise Crosby—I don't like it, because I have finished courses required in college, but I do favor paying for something that I won't get.

Mary Frances Lyon—I say that I like it, for I have had no fees in my school so far, and it is an added expense, however, it depends upon whether or not the charged in proportion to what you get out of that particular course.

Miss Maude Jones—I believe that many students who are majors in home economics, chemistry, and the like find it a financial burden to pay the ordinary school fee in addition to the laboratory fees. The average student pays some fee each year so that the actual increased fee in the long run would not be very much larger than the former fee. I do think that this change is a progressive move because it will be a hardship on any individual. It will undoubtedly affect me.

Cornelia Watson—I like it and think that it is very good, in that it is a democratic plan. It will not affect me beneficially, for as my physical education major I have not had to pay fees, and it will add to my expenses. I do think, however, that it will benefit a few more than it will harm the majority.

Tommy Mitchell—I'm terribly for it. I think also that they should add $2 to the tuition for the diversions will have her picture in the annual.

Mart Pierson—Since I have no fees in my major it will increase my expense, but if the majority of the students have large fees it seems only right that the few who need statistics in order to know how to count it will help the majority of the student body as a whole or benefit the minority.

Dr. Ruth Gordon, a home economics major, it would affect me very much, but I do not feel that it is right to make students who are majoring in subjects which require no laboratory fees to carry part of the burden for those students who are majoring in subjects which require laboratory fees.

Louise Crosby—I don't like it, because I have finished courses required in college, but I do favor paying for something that I won't get.

Mary Frances Lyon—I say that I like it, for I have had no fees in my school so far, and it is an added expense, however, it depends upon whether or not the charged in proportion to what you get out of that particular course.

Miss Maude Jones—I believe that many students who are majors in home economics, chemistry, and the like find it a financial burden to pay the ordinary school fee in addition to the laboratory fees. The average student pays some fee each year so that the actual increased fee in the long run would not be very much larger than the former fee. I do think that this change is a progressive move because it will be a hardship on any individual. It will undoubtedly affect me.

Cornelia Watson—I like it and think that it is very good, in that it is a democratic plan. It will not affect me beneficially, for as my physical education major I have not had to pay fees, and it will add to my expenses. I do think, however, that it will benefit a few more than it will harm the majority.

Tommy Mitchell—I'm terribly for it. I think also that they should add $2 to the tuition for the diversions will have her picture in the annual.

Mart Pierson—Since I have no fees in my major it will increase my expense, but if the majority of the students have large fees it seems only right that the few who need statistics in order to know how to count it will help the student body as a whole or benefit the minority.

Dr. Ruth Gordon, a home economics major, it would affect me very much, but I do not feel that it is right to make students who are majoring in subjects which require no laboratory fees to carry part of the burden for those students who are majoring in subjects which require laboratory fees.

Louise Crosby—I don't like it, because I have finished courses required in college, but I do favor paying for something that I won't get.

Mary Frances Lyon—I say that I like it, for I have had no fees in my school so far, and it is an added expense, however, it does

IRC Elects Gay New State Head

Next Year's Meeting To Be in Gainesville

William Gay of the University of Florida will head the International Relations Clubs of Florida colleges for the coming year. He was elected at the annual state meeting held on this campus last week-end Dick Lucas, University of Florida, president, extended the invitation for the meeting to be at Gainesville next year.

Saturday afternoon in Ruge hall. Dr. Kathryn Abbey, professor of history, gave a very interesting talk on the "Role of the United States in the Present European Crisis." She said that there were four things necessary in the maintenance of United States defense: proper domestic conditions, skilful diplomacy a good Pan-American policy, and a well-armed navy. Following Miss Abbey's fine talk, there was an open forum discussion.

Two papers were presented at the meeting on Sunday morning Dr. Ben Buchanan of the University of Florida acting as chairman. Andrew J Cross of the University of Florida, spoke on the topic, "Meaning of Latin American Solidarity." His subject was "Student," and Helen Howes of Stetson read a paper on the "United States Relations with Argentina." Both papers were followed by a discussion.

The annual business meeting was held later with Johnnie Mae Hall, businessman of the University of Florida acting as chairman. Andrew J Cross of the University of Florida, acting as secretary. New officers were installed under the constitution; but the constitution, as a whole, was not ratified. This will be taken up business next year.

The voting delegates of the convention were: Dick Lucas, University of Florida; John Tewa, Stetson; Harry Bitzjohn, University of Miami; and Mary Alice Lester, Florida State college.

Liddell Will Represent Annual Meeting Of State Religious Body

Dr. Anna Forbes Liddell, professor of philosophy, will attend the annual meeting of the Florida Religious association at Southern college next Monday.

She will lead discussion of talks by Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, emphasis in our use of the Bible, and materials, hymns, and prayers"?

Dr. Liddell and Dr. Robert D Hunt, professor of philosophy and religion, are charter members of the association which was organized in Winter Park in May, 1939.

Mathis Attends Meeting For College Registrars

Miss Florrie Mathis, assistant registrar, left for St. Louis, Mo. Tuesday morning to attend the twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Association of College Registrars.

Lasting through Thursday night, the meeting features among its speakers Dr. Hahn Kuraki, registrar of the American university at Beirut; Dr. Frank M Dobbath, Washington university; and Dr. Ralph Wilson, dean of Scranton-Keystone Junior college.

HOW TO WIN BOY-FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE STAG-LINES

By Dalea Dorothy Lisk

Dear Miss Clic: Can you help me? I'm terribly upset—nearly flunked in Romance Languages and Geology, and all because of a typical case of "spring fever." I'm not alone, for most of our house parties. I had spent the afternoon in the chemistry lab, but every time I looked at it, I grew frightened. When he started to hold my hand, he looked at it—and dropped it like a hot cake. He hasn't come to see me since, I can't study—oh, Miss Clic, he's simply divine, plays half-back on his college football team! What shall I do?

Dear "Can't Sleep": A very old habit and a very effective way to scare a man away, more effective than anything else unless, of course, you are ugly enough to stop a clock. If you are, or if you can't take care of your hands, you'd better think of a serious career in Geology or something, and forget men entirely. However, if you'll invest a little time on making yourself lovely, why not begin with your hands—and that, dear "Can't Sleep", means waking up the beauty of your fingernails!

AND NOW, DEAR, READ THE NEXT COLUMN CAREFULLY!

CAN'T SLEEP

AND HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO ABOU BEAUTIFUL NAILS

College women who value true individuality in expression of fingernails are most enthusiastic about DURA-GLOSS, the nail polish that's all-in-one! Instead of one, it goes on more smoothly, dries quickly to gem-like lustre. Yes, and DURA-GLOSS keeps its gloss longer, resists chipping longer! Only ten cents at all cosmetic counters. Ha-ve the most beautiful fingernails in the world! Buy DURA-GLOSS—today!

THIS AD IS WORTH MONEY

Bring this ad to our store and we will pay the postage on any Mather's Day Gift purchased in our store.

MOTHER WILL LIKE

Airmaid Hosiery Jacobs Candy

Martin & Dalton
DEPARTMENT DRUG STORE
Free Motorcycle Delivery

Monk Mistaken For G'villite

On Monday a great sensation was caused by the appearance of an albino monkey at the Theta house. He was a gift from an unknown donor to Mary Connell Incidentally, "Ugly" which is his name, is not a flesh and blood monkey, though at a glance one would think so.

"Ugly" was taken into one of the new dining halls for lunch the other day. He occupied a regular place because Ugly is no small animal, being about 3½ feet tall. The girl he was given was taking him for, perhaps one of the many G'ville friends, came to the table to ask someone to pay for him. After much persuasion she reluctantly believed that "Ugly" was not a University man, but a nice, safety monkey to keep someone's pajamas in.

"Ugly" is the pet of the campus and called an albino because of his color. He answers to his name and has a sweet, innocent expression on his face, which makes one love him at first sight.

Ugly was sent from the Leicksenbocker toy shop in New York, and in case anyone might be interested.

New Concil Petes Former Members

Recently elected sophomore council girls entertained at a buffet supper in the Sigma Nu Hall in honor of the old members. The supper was followed by a business meeting.

The purpose of the supper was to further the acquaintance between the old and the new girls and even entertain with a delightful supper prepared by the council girl on the front cover.

Serving on the committee in charge of the affair were Mary Gray Holderman, Anna Lee Cannon, Jean Hampton, and Ruth White, invitation committee. Jean Watts, Virginia H Jones, Frances Rickards, Ruth Tyrell, and Mary Angus, social committee.

Wise Classes Southern Speech As "Careless"

If you say "I asked her could I have a date" you label yourself as a Louisianan. If you hail from Georgia and say "I axed her could you would say "I asked her if I could have a date."

Dr Claude M Wise, head of the department of speech at Louisiana State University, has found authority on Louisiana dialects, can tell, immediately from what section of Louisiana a student comes, just by his speech.

Dr. Wise's superfluous "r," on the end of the word, where it does not belong, and the word "Louisianan" classifies you in Dr Wise's card-index mind as a residents of Shreveport, most likely New Orleans.

The "twang" speech of the south that will identify its speaker wherever he goes is best illustrated by the three-word phrase words spelled with "en" as "in"

For the last five years Dr. Wise has been compiling a dialect atlas of Louisiana.

THE BARBIZON
NEW YORK'S MOST EXCLUSIVE HOTEL RESIDENCE FOR YOUNG WOMEN

College Women Prefer . . . The Barbizon

College women accustomed to the refinements of living prefer living in The Barbizon. Here they find understandably so, for at The Barbizon they have the privacy of their own real interests, the physical activities they most enjoy.

No other hotel offers so much. For relaxation . . . daily recitals and lectures by world famous artists . . . a fine library. For recreation . . . swimming pool . . . gymnasium . . . squash courts . . . riding club . . . terraces. When you add to these, convenience to schools, important business centers, art galleries, museums, you begin to understand why college women prefer living at The Barbizon.

700 rooms, each with a radio Tariff from $2.50 per day from $12 per week

Write for descriptive booklet "C"

The Barbizon
LEXINGTON AVE. at 63rd ST. NEW YORK CITY

STATE
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
April 26-27
Matinee all the opening day
Admission 10c and 25c
REBECCA
SUNDAY & MONDAY
April 28-29
Eddie CANTOR
FORTY LITTLE MOTHERS
TUESDAY—April 30
FRENCH WITHOUT TEARS
WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
May 1-2
THE GOLDEN FLEECING
Lana TURNER
Lew AYRES
Jane BRYAN
Henry FONDA
Ian HUNTER
Rita JOHNSON
RITZ
FRIDAY—April 34
Henry Fonda
In
'Grapes Of Wrath'
SATURDAY—April 27
Love is Spelling Comic in Technicolor
SUNDAY & MONDAY
April 28-29
Laurence Olivier
In
"REBECCA"
TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
April 30-May 1
WHEELER WOOLSEY RKO
THURSDAY & FRIDAY
May 2-3
Clark Gable
In
"Strange Cargo"

Group Discusses State Problems

Social Work Meeting Held in Jacksonville

Four members of the Tau represented Florida State College for Women at the annual State conference of Social Workers at Jacksonville from April 21 to 24.

They were Dr. Cryle E Maxcy, associate professor of sociology; Dr. Paul W. Shanklin, assistant professor of sociology; Miss Margaret Bristol, assistant professor of sociology, and Dr. Lane Wilmer, assistant professor of psychology.

Mr. Loris Bristol, welfare director of the Palm Beach district, was elected president of the conference.

Dr. Moore presided at the general session Monday morning. The topic discussed was "State Legislation." Mrs Bristol was in charge of the institute which followed "Supervision."

"Whither America?" was the title of the speech delivered at the conference Monday night by Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, professor of history.

The theme of the conference was a coordination of the social problems of Florida. Important features of the program were the forum discussions and institutes, which were conducted by well known persons in the field of social work.

Several leaders of Florida below active social workers, attended the convention.

Stiff Reveals ew WAA Plans

Group Will Emphasize Sports Participation

Hattie Statliff, president of the Women's Athletic association, this week presented the new plans of organization for the coming year.

The arrangement of her program Minnie placed special emphasis on methods of fostering and interesting the mass of girls and presenting programs in which students more faculty-student play, play nights, and cheering rally at Odd-Even games. She stressed the advantages of play nights, urged participation in Odd-Even games, and suggested that more students could reached personally through class athletic managers.

Miss Statliff's plans as set forth are: to sponsor more group singing which is to be led and planned by her inexperienced second, to plan persons convocation programs about the turnabout the sided to sponsor faculty-student games and sports of all throughout the year; these to include tennis, golf, archery and volley ball in addition softball which is the only fac- sport participated in this fourth, to organize a pep band, composed of five to six members who will cooperate with sports leaders, functional at all games, and be directed cheer leaders, fifth, to encourage more girls to live active participation in intramurals well as Odd-Even games and to encourage the Women Athletic part either as players or as officials between seasons, and much more students personally through their class athletic managers.

ews On Ideal HusbandsGiven By FSC Girls

Requirements Demand Personality and Looks Of Prince Charming

Dream men seem plentiful on campus as girls expressed their views on their ideal husbands in questionaires ranging from blondes to brunettes, from good dressers to sportsmen, from tall to short, from brown to blue eyes.

Prince Charming" as seen through Kitty Jo Hickman's eyes will have a personality that is a combination of Einstein and Joe Louis, the looks of Peter Lorre and Ben Karloff, the voice of Orson Wells. He must kiss like Dorothy and love like the Duke of Windsor. She would prefer him to be named George Washington Smith, and not to have a limp.

An excellent dancer is at the top of Dorothy "Topsy" Mitchell's list. Other requisites are a fine head of brunette hair, blue or dark eyes, cute tail, nice manners, a woman, and lots of fun on a date.

Minnie Cooke wants a good looking with a congenial personality someone who has things in common with her, and preferably several years older than she. His physical characteristics are secondary, but he must not be homely. A sense of humor is important, too.

After much contemplation, Lucy Walker stated that she hasn't thought much about it. "I'd be a dilly" First, he'd have to knock me down, and then come up. If I could determine how he did both—so go. If I didn't, he did one of three things. If I hadn't the slightest idea why he did either—this is up.

Martha Ellen Hackl says that all her dreams so far have been nightmares. If she should come to a man, however, this is what would be like. He would have the manner of Melvyn Douglas, looks a combination of Robert Greene and Ray Milland, the build of Bob Hope, the personality of Robert Young, and he would be as smart and sweet as her puppy. Amen!

Although she has already found her man, Cornelia Wainwright requires intelligence, education, social poise, culture, an interesting conversationalist. He must be well-read, have many interests, be impressive in appearance, and excel in recreational games, i.e., tennis, golf, dancing, etc.

Robert "Tillie" Van Brunt says that the "apple of her eye" to be able to write cute letters, and have beautiful brown eyes, like Victoria. She wants a man who has personality, and has a keen sense of humor.

Good luck, girls in your search! Let's hope you find the man of your dreams!

Locked Out, Montgomery Enters Her Home by 'Human Fly' Stunt

Miss Katie Demonstrates Acrobatic Ability By Scaling Wall to Climb in Open Window

"Say, is that the human fly"? asked an innocent bystander who stood watching a very determined woman descend on a rope from a third story window and scale the wall to climb into another window below. "No, that's Miss Katie Montgomery, who teaches physical ed," said an admiring freshman. "Why she's always doing things like that. She is really very good at acrobatics," the girl raved on. The many bystanders were quite pleased, supposing the "human fly" presented an every-day feat.

It took quite a bit of convincing on the part of Miss Montgomery to make her admirers believe that this was not an every-day occurrence, as she did such a thorough and satisfactory job of scaling the wall. However, after her most intimate friends know the facts behind all of this event everything

How disappointed and anxious the bystanders must have been when they tried to unlock the door of her apartment. She put the key in the lock and turned it. Nothing would budge. So on to another and rest her weary feet. But no, the door wouldn't open. She tried again. Nothing. She tried the other way. Again no welcoming response. She tried again and again. She pushed. She pulled. She knocked and she shook, but to no avail. She tried each one in the lock. No response — the door was locked and Miss Montgomery was stuck. She had to get in somehow. She knew that she couldn't expect a lady to sit on the steps all night. So she called the janitor to the rescue. Encouragement in learning that the janitor had the key to the door. Finally she sat down in disgust. All the windows were too high to get into but with a bright idea. If the windows were too high to climb up into, then she couldn't be too to climb down into. Yes, that was the very thing. Again she sat down on the steps pondering the idea that the windows could be climbed into.

While Miss Katie was pushing the little girl who lived upstairs came down on the walk and started skipping her rope. Then brother came out and tied the rope around Miss Pansy's waist and they played horse. Miss Montgomery watched the little girls with amusement for awhile and then jumped up with excitement. "I'll lead you down with a strong rope!" Well, Mr. Pups was to be named George Washington Smith, and not to have a limp.

F Club to Hold Banquet In Dining Hall Tonight

The F club banquet, to be held in the dining hall tonight, will be in honor of the recently tapped F club girls. This is the first banquet to be held with the new members present. Another is being planned to be held following initiation.

It was announced today that initiation will take place May 11, at the college camp. Plans are already in full swing as to the initiation activities which the girls must go through in order to be welcomed into the membership of the F club.

Amelia Gordy was tapped last Tuesday during lunch hour.

would tie the rope around her waist very securely and climb out the window and that fastened to the children's pans and mamma and descend to her own living room window.

That was the beginning. Soon Miss Montgomery was upstairs with many persons who each told each other how to tie the knot—the knot that would allow Miss Montgomery to descend safely to her window sill. Finally the knot was tied and the brave woman attempted the feat of the rope to the family and started on her journey down the long wall of bricks. A few gasps and timidness left her as she looked upon the crowd that had gathered on the walk below. She was filled with courage. She had to succeed. She knew that the applause of her public, her deuit was quite successful.

School Claims Noted Alumnae In Home Ec

FSCW Graduates Do Outstanding Work In Field of Dietetics

The school of home economics has produced in the comparative- ly short time of its existence more than a few outstanding alumnae in the field of dietetics and one of the best known of the dietitians from Florida State college is Miss Ruth Cole, a member of the school of home economics at Northwestern university.

Miss Carter took her A.B. degrees here and her Ph.D. from Yale, being awarded the distinction of her achievement in the latter institution because she was awarded in 1938 the alumnae medal, given annually to the most outstanding graduate of the year.

Another interesting alumna from the school of home economics, is Miss Dempsey Creary, who is to become the director of the new Florida Federation Women's Clubs headquarters hotel. After leaving school, Miss Creary was awarded a year of girl scouting in which, upon gaining the necessary practical experience, she studied the organizations in various cities. She copies here from University of Michigan and Miss Creary was a member of Omicron Nu and Phi Upsilon Board of economics graduate work known to both undergraduates and alumnae. A Miss Helen Davis, recently elected president of the Florida State federation, Miss Davis did her student dietitian internship at the University of Michigan and returned to the campus as assistant dietitian under Miss Anna Mae Tracy. Later it was she who started the dietary department at the state tuberculosis sanitarium, of which she is head.

Miss Edna Mae McIntosh, on leave this year, holds a B.A. and M.A. from Florida State and has taught here for several years. Last fall she went to Columbia university, where she has a part-time fellowship for research in the department of dietetics.

Also teaching in college is Helen Grim Cox at L.S.U. She taught in Tallahassee during the summer of 1938 as associate professor of home economics. At the same school is Hazel Bratley, who served as extension specialist. On the Florida extension staff are four Florida State graduates: Miss Lucy Belle Settle, Miss Anna Mae Sikes, Miss Ethyl Holloway, and Miss Clarine Belcher. In the extension department of South Carolina is Miss Lonnie Landrum, state agent.

One of the more unusual jobs held by home Economics graduates is that formerly held by Florence Coulbeer Williamson. She was for a time nutritionist for the public school system of the city of Newark, N. J. Elizabeth Cole is another graduate holding a notable position. She is administrative dietitian for the Montefiore hospital in New York and is chairman of the nutritional council of the city of New York. On the west coast is Lucy Jeffries who is dietitian in a large hospital there.

Margaret Maxwell of the class of '38 got her master's degree here and took her Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. Another who she is teaching at Davis college in California where she does part time research work.

Two members of the staff of the school are graduates of this college: Miss Helen Cate and Miss Helen Richey. Miss Richey took a double major in textiles and home economics education. After graduate work at Columbia, she taught for a while in Pittsburgh college in Kentucky, and was finally a missionary to Japan. This is her first year on the staff at Florida State.

Many alumnae in home economics hold positions with dietitians. Martha Brinie Dickson is Farm Security administration assisting home supervisor. Meredith DuPuis, '3, is chief dietitian at Jackson Memorial hospital in Miami. Aurilla Driggers, '36, is home supervisor in Pasco county. Catherine Lanier is also dietitian at St. Mary's hospital, Knoxville Virginia Allen Dube is dietitian n Greenville, N. C., and Irma Feinberg is dietitian at the Maimonides hospital school in Daytona Beach.

FSCW Will Enter Archery Tourney

Team Will Take Part In Telegraphic Meet

The eleventh annual Women's Intercollegiate Telegraphic Archery tournament, sponsored by the W. A. A., will be held in Boston this year.

The tournament will be conducted by districts as well as nationally. All colleges having women students have been divided into districts. Florida State college is in the southern district in which there are eleven states competing.

Florida State college has never entered a team in this tournament, and in order to compete, a team of eight girls is necessary. These girls will practice two or three times weekly until May 11. From May 11 until May 18 they will shoot the Columbia round. The scores will be wired to be compared with those of other schools.

The tournament is open to all girls in school, whether they are gym majors or not. Anyone interested is urged to see Miss Averill, of the physical education department, before Monday April 29.

Practice will start the beginning of next week and will be held every afternoon at 4:30.

Literary Careers Vary

Graduates Enter Many Journalistic Fields; Some Publish Books, Others Write Radio Script and Articles

Many graduates of Florida State college have followed diversified literary careers. Several of them are now authors of books; others are employed in writing for newspapers and magazines doing publicity or promotion work, writing radio scripts, working for publishing houses, and teaching journalism in schools and college.

Two members of the class of 1898, Treta Bradford, (Mrs. Carl Van Doran) and Helen Hunt, (Mrs. Byron Weal) have achieved fame and success in the literary field. Mrs. Van Doran, wife of the well-known publisher, is the editor of the literary supplement of the New York Herald-Tribune. At one time she was the literary editor of the Nation; then she became assistant editor of the book section of the New York Herald-Tribune.

Helen Hunt Weal, who is now a lawyer, is also a well-known journalist, who, with her husband, a famous newspaperman, has a syndicated column of happenings as the League of Nations.

Maspah Coto, '16, now Mrs. Maspah Coto Hall, has achieved success in literary study and contributes to the more popular magazines.

Allie Lou Sexton, '21, is co-author of twenty-two books on elementary education, entitled "Easy Growth in English." She wrote the books in the home office of the book in Wigwam Co., publishers, at Philadelphia, in her capacity as specialist in elementary education. She has also done editorial work for the Winston company. At one time she was superintendent of the demonstration school here before accepting her present position.

Mary Dorothy Blalock, '37, is publishing a newspaper in Monticello. A graduate of 1928, Edith Everett Taylor, now Mrs. Verle Pope, is the author of four books.

Many alumnae in home economics hold positions with dietitians. Martha Brinie Dickson is Farm Security administration assisting home supervisor. Meredith DuPuis, '3, is chief dietitian at Jackson Memorial hospital in Miami. Aurilla Driggers, '36, is home supervisor in Pasco county. Catherine Lanier is also dietitian at St. Mary's hospital, Knoxville Virginia Allen Dube is dietitian n Greenville, N. C., and Irma Feinberg is dietitian at the Maimonides hospital school in Daytona Beach.

They are Black Lagoon and Other Verses and three novels. Not Magnolias, written while she was a student on this campus. Old Lady Enterey, released in 1934, and Hall-Holiday, released in 1938.

Since courses in journalism were established here in 1923, many more graduates have entered the literary field. Laura Strunk, '29, is a feature writer for the Florida Grower An article written by her about the chayote plant was reprinted in the Literary Digest. She was the first publicity and alumnae secretary here. Rachel Pitchford, '29, who is well-known to students here, is at present publicity director for Florida State college. At one time she was a reporter on the Daytona Beach News Journal, and feature writer for the Florida Times-Union. Another graduate, Jane Rockwell, '30, is a reporter for the Copper Publication in Topeka Kan.

Two graduates of the class of 1932, Dora Edwards and Nella Heilman, now Mrs. William J. Evans, have both ventured to top in the literary field. Dora Byrons has written many articles for the New York Times and other nationally known publications. Several years ago she made a trip alone to Mexico City to write a travel article Edna Heilman, who has recently published her first juvenile book entitled Bill and the Bird Reader. She has also written articles for the Nation, National Geographic, Outdoor Life, Better Homes and Gardens and at one time worked on the St. Petersburg Times as society reporting and feature writer.

Four members of the class of 1933 are in journalism work Vivian Dalliel (Orr) who has served both as a reporter and in the alumni's page editor on the Miami Daily News is now the editor of the Miami Society Pictorial. Frances Knapp, formerly a reporter in connection with the Associated Press in Tallahassee, Conn., is now connected with the American Press Correspondence Union in Sanford. Elaine Wright Johnson, who was a member of the class of '33, is a reporter on the International Labor Service in Geneva, Switzerland. Dorothy Myers, who received her degree here in the same year, is advertising manager of the Daily Democrat here in Tallahassee.

Mildred Roberts, '34, is now office manager of the Sarasota Chamber of Commerce, was a reporter on the Sarasota Herald. Another graduate of the class of 1934 is Mary Herbertson (Cumming), reports for the Ocala Star. Sara Marshall, also '34, does writing and additional work for the Florida Times-Union.

From the class of '35, Lucy Fullington, Marion Wahnish, and Edith Petterson, are all in journalism work. Lucy Fullghum is doing publicity. Her highest number of points in any district is awarded to her for the following year. All of the events were won for speed swimming.

Marion Wahnish, also '35, is employed as publicity director of the Florida Exhibit at the New York World's Fair and has also been employed as the assistant editor of a magazine on infant feeding published in New York City and Edith Petterson is working in Chicago in connection with the educational department of J. B. Lippincott, publisher.

One of the graduates of the class of 1936 who has entered the writing field is Elaine Kiepper, reporter and feature writer on the Orlando Sentinel. Frances Beck (Forman), also '36, has done freelance writing for the Atlanta Journal. Evelyn Fisher, '37, is a member of the writing staff of the Civic Education Association in Washington, D. C., while Mildred Comerford was a reporter on the Sarasota Herald. Another graduate of the class of 1937 is Mary Herbertson (Cumming), reports for the Ocala Star. Sara

FSCW Invited to Sponsor Intercollegiate Swimming

The physical education department has been invited to sponsor the southern and nation wide intercollegiate swimming meets for women in 1941. This invitation came as a result of the Florida State team's winning of the southern meet. The women's team has the highest number of points in any district is awarded for the following year. All of the events were won for speed swimming.

Brown Announces Play Night Plans

Little Pat Schofield and Jo Ann Ahlandt, of Barbara Thomas' kindergarten, opening class, will give a brief floor show tonight at play night. The floor will consist of several tap dancing numbers and a solo, "Oh, Johnny," by Pat.

Floread Brown, chairman of the play night committee, has announced that the following new members of the committee will be in charge tonight: Mary Lou King, Ginger Monroe, Virginia Greene, Mafan Presling, Carma Brown, Nina Pearl Bush, Doris Knowles, Charlotte Cooper, Betty Lang, Ken Schick, and Pearl Tyler.

At a recent meeting, the play night committee decided that the uniforms of the members of the committee in future, will be white skirts, white shirts, and blue vests.

Eleven Girls Participate In Odd-Even Tennis

Odd and Even tennis began Monday, April 14, and will end with two or three more matches Sara will be played on the courts Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and by the Evens on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

The teams have not yet been selected, but Odds managed by Elizabeth Moore, out for tennis are Dorothy Grimes Neely Sargent, Starline Hall, Marcy MacKintosh, Elizabeth Moore Marion Bowden, and Cornelia Wilson. Evens, directed by Yvonne Marchbanks, are playing for the team are: Louise Crosby, Cuttis Harper, Yvonne Marchbanks, and Mary Jane Mellin.

Brown Announces Play Night Plans

Little Pat Schofield and Jo Ann Ahlandt, of Barbara Thomas' kindergarten, opening class, will give a brief floor show tonight at play night. The floor will consist of several tap dancing numbers and a solo, "Oh, Johnny," by Pat.

Floread Brown, chairman of the play night committee, has announced that the following new members of the committee will be in charge tonight: Mary Lou King, Ginger Monroe, Virginia Greene, Mafan Presling, Carma Brown, Nina Pearl Bush, Doris Knowles, Charlotte Cooper, Betty Lang, Ken Schick, and Pearl Tyler.

At a recent meeting, the play night committee decided that the uniforms of the members of the committee in future, will be white skirts, white shirts, and blue vests.

W A A CALENDAR

Friday

4:30—Odd and Even softball practice.

8:00—Playnight at gymnasium.

Saturday

2:00-6:00—"Open house" at gymnasium

Monday

4:30—Odd softball practice.

7:30—F Club meeting in Bryan atrium.

8:30—Recreation night for the faculty

Tuesday

4:30—Even softball practice.

4:30—Tarpon club practice.

7:30—W A A. board meeting in Bryan atrium.

Wednesday

4:30—Odd softball practice

7:30—F club goat meeting in Broward lounge.

Thursday

4:30—Even softball practice.

4:30—Tarpon club practice

The Old Order Changeth

The student senate yesterday passed a recommendation to be presented to those in charge of the traditional ceremonies suggesting that Fealty be merged into Torch night using the usual script of the latter, combining with it the crowning of the ten most beautiful freshmen. It advocated having the ceremony early in the school year and having the first monthly dance the same weekend so that it could be given in honor of the cast and the beauty queens.

Action had been taken on this subject last year by NSFA when it recommended the combination of the two festivals and the enlargement of May day.

This senate recommendation meets with the definite approval of the Flambeau, which has long supported the combination of the two ceremonies. There was talk yesterday afternoon of dropping Torch night and developing Fealty but this idea was discarded because the senators decided that Torch night was more unique and distinctive to this campus. Its script was written expressively for use here by members of the classics department, carrying out our Torch theme and, although there have been revisions in the original text, the basic theme and plan are still intact. Fealty has been subject to change year after year and retains little in theme from year to year but the idea of the freshman pledge. Its outstanding feature now is the crowning of the beauty queen of the freshman class with her maids. According to the recommendation made by senate, these beauties would be honored in the Torch night ceremony.

It has been recognized that the two ceremonies, Fealty and Torch night, overlap in purpose. In one the freshmen pledge their loyalty to their college and in the other the college passes down its traditions to its new members. Both ceremonies require much work in order to be presented in an effective manner and with all the activities and work that are planned for the first few months of school there seems no time for waste effort and the freshmen, as a rule, remain confused as to the indefinite difference between the two.

The chairman of the Torch night committee recommended to senate the plan they had intended to use this year, and it sounds worth incorporating into the program for next year. By it the script would revert to the original and would include about 200 students, half of whom would be freshmen. The upperclassmen would start practising in the spring so that only the freshmen would have to be trained in the fall. The ceremony would be presented as early in the year as possible so that it would really serve as a welcome for the freshmen. Although torch night was presented in the late afternoon last year, it was more impressive and effective when given in the evening. At night the light of the torches showed up against the darkness and produced such an artistic and stirring picture that we hope the ceremony next year will be given at the old time.

Although no recommendations were passed concerning May day, there has been a great deal of talk about the possibilities of enlarging the ceremony to make one big weekend of it. This year the program has been changed in several respects. The queen was announced ahead of time for the first time this year, and this is the first year they have planned a special May day dance to honor the cast. In a state like Florida, which is noted for its flowers and vegetation, it seems fitting that we should greet the May time with special ceremony, and there are a number of plans possible that would do this.

The whole situation boils down to the old question of too many ceremonies on this campus. There has always been the murmur that there are so many scheduled that justice can be done to none. If we combine these two traditions as has been recommended we will do much to aleviate the problem. We would like to back the senate's recommendations, and also the suggestion made by this year's Torch night committee that the new committee start work at once, so that if we are going to have ceremonies, they will be topnotch.

Time Is Out of Joint

In an institution where a minute of time means as much as it does at Florida State college for women it takes the heart out of an earnest student to dash all the way from the Westcott building to the dining hall only to find that some clock somewhere was wrong—there's a closed sign. It hurts even more to stroll home from the History building at night after a study seige to find that, even though the clock there said you had ten minutes, the lights have already flashed.

Two years ago the same disheartening situation existed, and the senate acted on it by appointing a time coordinator. This important figure was to check the numerous clocks on campus and the chimes, keeping them as nearly in accord as possible. It was also her duty to make sure that the chimes would be turned off on artist series nights so that the performers would not be disturbed. The plan worked so well that year that we believe it would be a good idea for the present senate to create a similar time coordinator.

Gather Ye Rosebuds

In line for congratulations, which are usually handed out about this time of the season for worthy accomplishments during the year, are the Cotillion club and tha Village Vamps who have proved that monthly dances are possible and, in fact, are very successful. About this same time last year there was a lot of talk about plans whereby the majority of girls on this campus and the boys from Gainesville could meet each other, and, after several schemes were suggested, the monthly dance idea was finally chosen. Many wet blankets who looked on with views of skepticism and doubt as the plans were completed for the first dance last fall are now admitting that the enterprise sponsored by the two social clubs has really done something worthwhile for F. S. C. W.-Gainesville relations.

Not only have the Cotillions and V. V.'s made the monthly dances successful, but an enthusiastic group of students received the announcement at the dance last Saturday night that the two campus organizations are planning to give picnics on the afternoons before the monthly dances next year. Arrangements have not been completed yet, but in general the plan is somewhat as follows: the outing will be given at Camp Flastacowo for the boys up from Gainesville and the girls having dance tickets; entertainment will include swimming, canoeing, and other sports; and the expenses will be shared by those attending. To our way of thinking these two organizations are again initiating a valuable social function on this campus.

If the picnics are really begun next year we feel that a field full of opportunity will be opened, for there are many other things, not purely social, in which the students of both colleges might enjoy participating jointly, such as symposiums, forums, sings, and informal musicals. The Sunday afternoon when the Florida glee club was on the campus many of the students seemed to get a good deal of pleasure out of the informal group that accidentally gathered on the lawn to sing while the boys waited for their bus to leave.

However successful the dances have been, one defect has still persisted—there are still boys who are not meeting girls and girls who are not meeting boys. Of course they meet for a few minutes on the dance floor, but maybe they are soon broken on and perhaps haven't the opportunity to enter into stimulating conversation with many boys. Then there is always a group of boys who do not have dates, who wander around the campus looking as though they wanted to speak to everyone, but weren't quite sure that they should. They want to eat in the college dining room, but do not feel quite up to braving the staring crowd alone. Then there may be both boys and girls who do not particularly enjoy dancing but might have other common interests.

Now, our suggestion may have drawbacks, but we feel that we really have something here. And we have seen it work in other places. Our plan is the same old idea that the Flambeau has been advocating for several years—a date bureau. We understand. Just the words make many of you turn up your nose in disapproval, but that's what a good many did when the monthly dances were first suggested. So, before you voice too many criticisms please stop and consider a few points.

One thing to remember is that a sort of date bureau is set up on this campus every time a band or glee club visits the campus. Maybe a few girls get a raw deal, but on the whole the system must be satisfactory, for every class is always anxious to get its chance at entertaining some group of visitors. If this sort of thing works for one class, why wouldn't it be successful when applied to the entire student body? And dating bureaus have been known to be a success at large student conventions.

The dates would not be for the dance, as the idea has always been to have students come stag to the dance so that they might be able to meet each other but engagements could be arranged for Saturday lunch (with boys paying their own bill in the college dining room), for Saturday dinner, Sunday morning, or any of a number of equally good times. They would not have to hold for the entire weekend. In fact, they would have to last for only

Continued on Page Five

Of The World

War In Earnest . . .

The German and the Allied forces are entering on their third week of "war in earnest" in the Scandinavian countries. Allied expeditionary forces have landed at many ports in Norway and have engaged in their first skirmishes with the Germans. It is reported that approximately 50,000 troops have arrived, which compose three divisions with tanks and heavy artillery. If the full strength of these divisions is on Norwegian soil, the combined forces of the Allies and the Norwegians should about equal that of Germany, who is said to have 85,000 troops in Norway. Germany has been sending reinforcements by planes, but troops landing in the territory near Namsos were defeated by the British in their first engagement on Norwegian soil at Grong.

The British have bombed three stations on the aerial communications line—Aalborg in Northern Denmark, Kiirislinasand and Stavanger—to hinder the Nazis in reinforcing their troops by air.

The war in Norway seems to fall in about there main areas: (1) Southern Norway around Oslo, (2) Trondheim, where a German victory has been reported, (3) at Narvik. The German hold on Norwegian ports has not been loosened to any extent. They even appear to have consolidated their position in southern and central Norway. Winston Churchill suggested that the campaign to drive the Germans from Norway may take all summer. Latest reports indicate that the war will soon be carried into Sweden. At sea the Allies claim a big victory over the Germans, while in the air both claim success.

In Neutral Europe . . .

Luxembourg, Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland and Yugoslavia are all greatly alarmed. The small neutral governments are all making moves to prevent any pro-German action by the thousands of German "tourists" in the country, fearing that they will wake up some morning to find themselves in the same position as Denmark and Norway. Every man with a German accent is a suspect in Europe, for all nations are afraid of another "Trojan Horse."

Events in Europe show that if Hitler's efficient but ruthless invasion of Norway had been entirely successful and he had conquered it with one blow, the neutral countries of Italy, Japan, and Russia would probably have entered the war, for on the first day of Germany's startling attack there was indication of this in Tokyo and Rome. However, after it became clear that due to the resistance of the Norwegians and the help of the Allied troops Germany was not going to walk into Norway and take it, thus making a blow against Great Britain, conditions in Italy, Russia, and Japan have changed somewhat. Tokyo is being more conciliatory about the islands in the Pacific; Moscow is attempting to get a trade pact with the Allies; the Italian press has toned down a little its denunciation of the Allies, and it is reported that Mussolini is attempting to reach an agreement with the Allies, which states that Italy will remain neutral if England will allow her greater privileges in the Mediterranean sea. It is unlikely that the Allies will consider the last proposal. However, all this may be a blind for a sudden combined attack by all the dictators on the Allies, for Franco has concentrated troops near Gibraltar, Mussolini has rushed troops of men to Albania and is reported ready to seize the Dalmation coast; and Stalin appears to be ready to attack Rumania. This would mean an attack from Gibraltar to the Black Sea.

In the United States . . .

Events in the United States this week which point to the "draft" of President Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination are the victories of Dewey, including his recent capture of delegates in Maryland; the probability that a Senate committee would investigate the use of campaign funds in Dewey's behalf; the fact that Secretary Hull insists he's not a candidate; and the present European situation. Roosevelt continues to remain silent on the third term question, but it is thought that in view of the foregoing developments he might accept the nomination if he could be sure of re-election.

Collegiate Comebacks

Not that we're the sensitive type, but even we find our slightly granite-like feelings hurt when a friend of ours (yes, we still have one friend) tells us, "But all you do is go places and boo things."

Who said we went places?

• • • • •

Weather report (after watching the sun shine all week and go into retirement on weekends):

Monday—mist.
Tuesday—mist.
Wednesday—mist.
Thursday—mist.
Friday—bull's eye.

• • • • •

Stealing the "News of the Week" thunder we quote from Jots and Jests:

"Germany is suffering from a shortage of coal and oil. It appears that even Hitler cannot fool all the people."

• • • • •

We'll skip the Impending Horror this week with the remark that nothing's so rare as an A in June.

• • • • •

If being a constructive extra-curricular on our fair campus means balancing on a curbing outside the dining room twittering like a bird for the entertainment of anyone interested—we're perfectly satisfied in a quiet place in the corner.

(The above comment is accompanied by a loud chorus of goaters and goats, "Sour Grapes").

• • • • •

We thought perhaps something constructive should follow the above comment—here's something both constructive and enlightening:

There are exactly 22 (twenty-two) daze until exams start—counting Sundays.

• • • • •

We hate to bring up grades again, but we gleaned a quotable quote from the exchanges to the effect that:

"Flunked in physics, failed in math,"
I heard him softly hiss,
"I'd like to find the guy who said,
'Ignorance is bliss.'"

• • • • •

And just to fill up space (witch ain't such an easy thing to do) we could print the story about the mamma skunk whose babies left her one by one until she didn't have a scent to her name.

• • • • •

As if there weren't enough to worry about these days, what with exams, term papers, book reports, and similar methods of faculty-devised torture, we heard it rumored that 300 out of every 500 Tally grads remain in a state of single blessedness. This is not pleasing to contemplate. The more we think about it, the more we think we'll go home and put some lipstick on.

• • • • •

We can remember back in the dim dark past when we were slightly reprimanded for suggesting that all G'villites are not glammer boys. What will the social committee say when they see the headline, "Monk Mistaken for G'villite"? While we snicker politely, we can't help thinking that we can see how it could happen here.

• • • • •

We don't know whose idea the back-to-nature afternoons before the monthly dances was, but it's a dilly. After the little girl who did a back gainer off the prow of the same canoe the weekend before squeals in feminine fear when her date so much as changes the side he's paddling on, he shouldn't mind at all having to look coyly pleased when she breaks on him at the dance that night.

• • • • •

In answer to the Gainesville columnist, we can only say,

Roses are red,
Violets are blue
Sugar is sweet,
And we still prefer orchids

Magazine Jottings . . .

By MARLENE DALE

This month, in two leading articles, Harper's traces outlines of two major propositions in American foreign policy. The subject matter taken up is "from Greenland's mountains to India's coral strands." Both articles are written by men who have had peculiarly advantageous opportunities to gather and analyze their material.

"Should We Buy Greenland?" is by Earl P. Hanson, experienced explorer with first-hand knowledge of arctic aviation and aviation routes. No one knows if Denmark even wants to sell Greenland, but air bases there would be dangerous to us if established by hostile countries.

Rumors have recently appeared in the papers that the United States is thinking of buying Greenland from Denmark. For the time being they will probably come to nothing: this is an election year and the storm caused years ago by the purchase of Alaska showed that there is political dynamite in the purchase of a supposedly "useless" clump of ice and snow.

"Seeminaly far-fetched as an isolated venture, the possible purchase of Greenland begins to take on a measure of sense considered together with: (1) our present national efforts in relation to turbulent world affairs; (2) the last 15 years of stirring history in the polar regions and (3) a glance at a terrestrial globe instead of one of those confounded Mercator projection maps that lost themselves in infinite space when they reach the far north and south."

The world has shrunk; we are directly concerned with everything that concerns our half of it and our defense is in a large measure the defense of the West. Military men have said that modern advances in aviation demand that we prevent the establishment of an air base by a possibly-hostile foreign power within a thousand miles, not of the United States proper, but of the North American continent as a whole. So Greenland comes into the picture.

Two reports came over the wires recently that make the potential acquisition of Greenland a matter of more urgent interest. One came from Iceland, in which Britain has long been interested and where he demanded the right for an air base last year but was refused. The other, more recently, came from Canada concerning Russian air lines.

The one country that has not been heard from in all this is the present owner of Greenland. Nobody seems to know as yet. If Denmark wants to sell but few people believe that she could hold out if approached or that she could afford to let things go too far along their present course.

C. Hartley Grattan, one of the few Americans with a close knowledge of Australia, presents the second article on American policy in his "An Australian-American Axis?"

For years the rumors have circulated about an exchange of ministers between Australia and America, but they were always denied by the Australian government on the ground that the material interests of the two countries hardly justified the expense of maintaining a minister and staff in Washington. The American government has long said that it was ready for the exchange whenever Australia said "yes" and has exerted some pressure to bring it about. The rumor has usually originated in Washington.

It is in relation to Pacific politics that Australian-American relations must be appraised. The primary risk in the Pacific is borne by Australia and New Zealand.

The existing Pacific policies which Australia will bring to the council table are: to guarantee that the Pacific islands to the north and to the east of the continent are either under their control or in the hands of friendly powers; to exclude from Australian territory all immigrants of Asiatic origin; and to promote profitable trade relations with Japan and other Eastern countries.

If the first World war got Germany out of the South seas, it brought Japan uncomfortably close to Australia, who wants now direct control of all the islands from which action could possibly be launched against the Australian continent. The motive is purely the desire to insure the defense, mainly against Japan.

The policy excluding immigrants from Asiatic countries is not as old as the Island question, but it is more vivid and real to the general run of Australians. The "White Australia" policy comes as near being unquestioned and unquestionable as any principle in Australian policies.

There are two schools of thought on Eastern trade. The first is supported by the primary producers, the academic economists, and their associates; it favors pushing trade with the East. The other, supported by the manufacturers and most of the newspapers, fears and opposes the necessary concomitant on important trade in Japanese products.

America and Australia may find it relatively easy to arrive at an agreement about Pacific policy, but how will such an agreement be implemented? To assist in maintaining the status quo would be the minimum program. The maximum program would be naval. Either program would offer the Australians consideration for co-ordinating their policy with that of the United States.

The Americans, for their part, must ask themselves if they want to assume responsibility for a policy which entails heavy burdens. The Australian-American policy must be flung into the ring where the continental Americas and Imperial Americas do battle. It is plain that the state department feels that it is necessary to undertake a large measure of responsibility in the South Pacific.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

MARGARET SCOTT — Editor
SARAH WORTH — Associate Editor
SARA NOONEY — Managing Editor
MARGARET PAINTER — Assistant Editor
HOLLY KINNEY — Assistant Managing Editor
MARGUERITE DIAZ, BELLE YONGE — News Editors

Copy Editor, Jayne Mendenhall; Feature Editor, Pauline Dale; Society Editors, Chancy Owen and Louise Burger; Sports Editors, Bettie Taylor and Bertha Bond; Exchanges, Doris Carter; [illegible] Mary Celeste Hardee; Columnist, Isabel Day and [illegible]; Student Opinions, Grace Rushing; Picture Editor, [illegible]; house Literary Editor Marlene Dale; Art Editor, Frances [illegible]; Special Writers, Mary Caldwell, Helen Emmanuel, Anne [illegible], Emma Jean Higley, Bettye Hyatt, Mabel Nihoul, Sibyls [illegible], Jonnie Thomasson and Vadah Walker

REPORTERS: Eleanor Tothers, Virginia Millsap, [illegible] Alice Ludlam, Beth Mitchell, Louise Ogle, [illegible] Prenoyer, Rezatte Leonard, Susie Ruth Kelly, [illegible] Dailey, Hazel Cantrell, Lorraine Cotterill, Mary Anne [illegible] Mattie Lou Peacock, Marianna Boardman, Jimmy Pain, [illegible] Graw, Kitty Joe Hickman, Charlie Collins, Marilyn Keating, [illegible] Kulp, Yvonne Martin, Mary Catherine Bellas, Laura Turner, [illegible] Monehan, Marjorie Richardson, Frances Brodes, Clarice Cook, and Edna Mae Howard.

BUSINESS STAFF

HARRIET BENSON — Business Manager
BUETTA BLANDING — Assistant Business Manager
ANNE GAYLORD — Advertising
KITTY JO HICKMAN — Circulation

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Members National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y.
CHICAGO · BOSTON · LOS ANGELES · SAN FRANCISCO

1939 Member 1940
Associated Collegiate Press

ive For YWCA embership Ends

Young, Cate Elected New Faculty Sponsors

e statement issued yesterday Mary Lou Thomas, president the Y. W. C. A. announced that today will be the last opportunity this spring for anyone join the organization. All girls who are interested may make the dollar membership fee and sign up at a table in the lower floor of the Westcott building. Eleven dollars at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

ts president urge all who are desired to join now and take part in the many activities scheduled for the remainder of this and the beginning of next. membership of those who now will not expire until spring, instead of this fall, the editor subscriptions.

T. W. C. A. members who wish to help with the big-sister-little-sister party on Wednesday of next week, Elizabeth Mercer is in charge of arrangements and sophomore council is cooperating with Miss Susan Only "Y" members are invited to attend the big party.

ecently elected faculty sponsors of the Y. W. C. A. are Miss Ve Young, economics professor, and Miss Helen Cate, home economics department.

thor Says Fear Keeps ny Teachers Silent

Fear keeps many teachers, more might as well, from voicing what know to be true about the ity that surrounds them, declared Henry Lee Smith, author lecturer. Most of them are not hers. They are afraid to lose position, with a desire to be let in their work. Many of their opinions are disapproved, position and experience are such as one must intimidate.

The young scholar learns to be cautious lest he "get in trouble" or censorship of personal ideas, Author Leon Whipple, Story of Civil Liberties in the United States," said in a speech to look at the barricades to some freedom.

Gather Ye Rosebuds

Continued from Page Four

few hours just in case the brain's successful. Also, you could always develop a hobby.

Those who wanted dates somehow during the weekend could help us starting what their interests were and whatnot. The boys could do the same to some extent this arrangement would down the chances of total and mutual assure the boys girl some common interest to about at least.

There remains, of course, the problem of getting persons to take of the banquet. If Clifton Collins and V. V.'s, however would take the initiative to up a date bureau it seems that most members of campus associations would be willing to to making the undertaking a success. After looking at ions on this campus on usual methods it seems probable that students who are not members of any organization would ably too glad to help in re- the situation.

Literary Careers Vary

Continued from page three

ety of special feature writer ing. She who also graduated in 1936, has entered the field and is at present writ- radio script, publicity and ial work.

Three members of last year's ication class who are engaged newspaper work are Doris Brunson, reporter for the Jacksonville Herald, Martha Lumpkin, Miami Herald feature writer for St Petersburg Independent and Nancy Rogers, reporter and ture writer for the Miami Herald.

Among the alumnae who are ching journalism in schools

r COOKIE SALE 1c

1 Doz. regular Price

Extra Doz. 1c More

Federal Bakery

Weird Lights Bring Screams

Science Classes See Phantoms and Bombs

With all the lights out in the room, the house lights spelling out the word DEATH gleamed and glowed viciously from the blackboard. All was quiet, then stifled moans were heard, and the scuffling of feet. Then the lights, and the students of Dr. W. B. Bantzer, jr.'s physical science class watched the letters smoke away into nothingness.

Before the lecturer, however, the lights were snapped off and the mysterious hand of some phantom by the lecture table was holding and fingering a burning series of objects. Blue flames encircled the hand while screams were uttered forth anew. Everything from "Oh, do stop it!" to "Turn on the lights!" was heard. Suddenly a voice said, "I'm dead," when they say their instructor bending before the mazuh, amidst ghastly washing the.

It was one of those few Thursday lecture periods which are the mainly of dark room experiments. A few more words of explanation were followed by smoke in spite of sudden darkness. There, in the back of the room, Professor C. L. Renfrow stood, stretching on tiptoe, and pouring the contents of a test tube into a large glass mixing beaker. They went in all too quickly for the class's amusement. Finally, when they were completely Zinc-ified, he poured the large container vigorously. Then, with the flashlight extinguished, all of the class saw a strange purplish liquid which glowed like a moonlit river. Romantic sighs were heard.

Pretending that he was a Gerald who was trying to make "incendiary" bomb on an English village, Dr. Bantzer showed how an oxidation and reduction test with chemicals and a tin can. The resultant explosion and fumes which resembled fourth of July celebrations, were soon over, and he showed the class the bomb. Then, as a final demonstration, with a desire to be let in their work, he showed how opinions are disapproved, position and experience are such as one must intimidate.

The young scholar learns to be cautious lest he "get in trouble" or censorship of personal ideas, Author Leon Whipple, Story of Civil Liberties in the United States," said in a speech to look at the barricades to some freedom.

Student Alumnae Fund Approaches $4,000 Mark

The "March of Dollars" the drive to raise funds to furnish the Student-Alumnae building, will soon approach the $4 000 mark according to Mrs. Frank D Moor, executive secretary of the alumnae association which is sponsoring the campaign.

Latest large contributions have come from the Flastacowo, which is appropriating $100 and the Alpha Delta Pi which is giving $200.

Mrs. Moor will continue to act as alumnae chairman of the Student-Alumnae building committee.

Corinne Butler to Lead On Presbyterian Program

The Presbyterian league will give an impressive vesper service Sunday afternoon at 7 o'clock at the Presbyterian church with Corinne Butler in charge. The theme of the program will be, "Jesus Speaks To Everywhere."

Others taking part in presenting the program will be Loraine Wyatt, Elizabeth Miller, and Virginia Jackson. Special music will be furnished by Julia Rosser and Peggy Hunter.

and colleges are Pearis Shepard, who is at West Palm Beach high school and Junior College; Nedro McNamara, '34, at Stuart high; Lee Cain High School in Coral Gables; Barbara Canfield, '35, at the Jacksonville High School; Dolan Rutledge, '37, at Avon Park; Ruth Penrose, at Dade High School in Coral Gables, and Patricia Olivett, '36, at the Andrew Jackson High School in Miami. Mary Hartsfield '32, taught journalism at the University of Georgia until her marriage, when she became the editor of two newspapers owned by her husband.

SUTTON'S SHOE SHOP

We Call and Deliver

History of City Shown in Mural

Dem School Students Will Display Project

A large mural depicting the history and development of Tallahassee from the Indian days, situated on the west wall of the Florida high school auditorium. The panel, thirty-six feet long, is being painted in oils.

The project was begun at the outset of this semester, Some time was spent on research and in choosing those phases of this city which were outstanding and would well into the picture. The topics of interest chosen are: prehistoric life, founding and progressing, the city, the Indian influence, first capitol with its governors of coming, Blue Stones encircled the hand while screams were uttered forth anew. Everything from "Oh, do stop it!" to "Turn on the lights!" was heard. Suddenly a voice said, "I'm dead," when they say their instructor bending before the mazuh, amidst ghastly washing the.

Students painting the mural are: Lois Smith, Kathryn Rikes, Doris Mann, Jackson Jacobs and Bill Messer. The class is under the direction of Miss Ruth Donaldson, critic instructor in art and speech in the demonstration school.

The mural will be open to the public at open house May 9 and 10. Arrangements with the annual exhibit of woodwork, industrial arts, home economics, and fine arts.

The industrial arts department is also being busy by the first and second year high school classes in which the wood shop, sewing, coffee tables, cedar chests, and modern furniture. For making these projects and mechanical drawing plans will be the contributions of high school boys in the sixth grade.

A fashion show staged by the girls has been in preparation. Clothing clothes designed and made by the students will be at 8:30 o'clock in the evening.

Fine arts work done by the pupils of the high school classes and the seventh and eighth grades of junior high will be displayed. These will contain pictures, designs, wall hangings, miniature stage sets, and other art work, block printing, drawing, painting, crafts, pottery, and modeling.

Baptist Delegates Leave For High Springs Retreat

A group of Baptist students will leave today for High Springs for a state forestry camp near High Springs. All the officers of the Baptist student councils of Baptist students of Tallahassee will meet with representatives of the University of Miami, the University of Florida, Florida State College, Southern college, and the University of Florida.

Baptist church leaders who will be present at the retreat include Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, baptist state mission secretary of Jacksonville; Dr. A. J. Moncrief, secretary of the Baptist church in Tampa; Rev W. G. Strachner, Baptist minister of Miami Beach, and Miss Mary Nance Daniel, associate student secretary from Nashville.

Grace Wimberly and Ruth Rogers will be in charge of the retreat, and Mildred True is music chairman for the weekend.

Student Opinion Counts At Colorado University

A.P.C.—Student opinion does count at Colorado U, it seems. Inspired by a recent questionnaire in which more than 1100 students stated that they desired vocational counselling, the University of Colorado has set up a "5-day" "Career Conference"

Surveys of more than 20 vocational fields will be presented for the benefit of students. Leaders in each field will be for the most part faculty members, will present preliminary courses for training in the various fields, opportunities offered in California, the opportunities in the field, desirable personality traits, necessary special abilities, working conditions, salary ranges, and information as to give a comprehensive picture of the employment opportunities.

Headed up by the president of the university, Dr. Robert L. Stearns, the conference was

GIRLS!

NEW YORK THIS SUMMER?

Live comfortably and economically at either of our two residences exclusively for women. Rates as low as $18.00 weekly including meals. Write for booklet.

THE FERGUSON RESIDENCES

35 E. 68th St. New York City 309 W. 82nd St.

Flambeau Staff Edits Sunday Edition of Daily Democrat

Would Be Journalists Are "Editors For a Day" In Annual, Practical Newspaper Workout

By PAULINE DALE

Clatter, clatter, chatter, chatter. What's the matter? The world is coming to an end; or so it seemed to the journalism members of the Flambeau staff as it went through its annual "takeout" of putting out the Tallahassee Daily Democrat Saturday.

Solemn and subdued the girls bounced into the newspaper office, flung their wraps on a bench, dug out their pencils, "swiped" some copy paper from the desk and headed for Mr. Vance, who was acting as news editor until the staff heads arrived. Ah, how easily can they serve as they pushed back their locks with nervous hands and viewed the good old trick of grinning in the face of terror to bolster up the courage of the boys (and their joints.)

Then started the long grind of "hoofins" it to the police court, the city hall and the chamber of commerce, the fire department, the bank, the office of the chief of police, the sheriff's office, the department, and numerous other institutions for the gathering of facts.

Cries of dismay, or of happiness, or of embarrassment, ringing out from the typewriters, filled the streets with or without their terror. "It's fun, but I'm not doing half the time," mourned one as she squeaked for compassion from the staff. "I don't feel as helpless as a three-year-old."

Another, with a helpless feeling of inferiority, wailed, "I feel as if everybody in the world knows I'm not doing anything 'on the contrary, they seem to have been practically all of the time."

Lunch hour provided a brief respite for the girls, with the free tickets donated by the Democrat, which they spent variously at their favorite eating places in town. Lunch was over all too soon, and someone would be in the office all of the time in case a big story broke.

When lunch was over the girls were back at their desks, and nothing leads down as much as in the morning but writing the stories for the afternoon edition of the city and state offices close by 2 o'clock.

"There's no slice to me," one reported said grinning broadly as she left the office. "I'm going to my home town. Another reporter coming in with her added that her trip had been associated with fun. "I wish I were not such a conscientious and sore-eyed reporter," she said.

One meek little thing was heard to confess, "I'm so scared that I have some of the stories wrong. I'm just a cub reporter, and I'll just wander around for awhile, and maybe some of you'll be ready to do something but I'm afraid of what it might be."

About 4 o'clock the Associated Press wires began and kept on—and on. By 5 o'clock the typewriters seemed that way to the wire editor, who was kept busy distributing the flood of material, and sports news to the proper departments. Mr. Vance's editorial desk was piled up so high she couldn't see him, and when the wires got underway, while the society editors carried a very satisfied expression on their faces, they had been filled long before.

As the long afternoon wore on some voice was heard above the pounding of the typewriter keys: "Where did I put the telephone book: has anyone seen the telephone book?" Then there was a valient search the missing book was found under the desk. A new copy on the opposite side of the room from the telephone.

One member of the staff, anxiously seeking news, called a certain number and inquired, "Has one dead at your house?" Upon receiving a negative answer she asked again, "Are you sure?"

The big story of the evening finally broke. Fire in the office of the local angle. At least that is what the news editor thought at first.

Launched with this in mind: "We are ordering human careers, not just finding jobs for the university is not a trade school, nor does it exist in an ivory-tower vacuum. As a state institution, it is not discharging its full responsibility if it does not help you to lay your chosen career in an enlightened and intelligent way. And it must be remembered that a career is something larger than a mere occupation or livelihood."

until she called the Sweet Shop and found that it was for her, being the sales as her informant had lead her to believe.

The Democrat office was in turmoil at first but as things got under control it grew quieter and quieter until finally only those loyal but half-sleepy souls remained, who plastered away until the very end when they might take a paper as it came off of the press and proudly bear it home to roommates who had left the lads on and waited to be awakened when they came in.

Staff members for Saturday include: Jeannette Mullis, editor-in-chief; Muryl Roland, managing editor, Mabel Bennett, associate editor; Sarah Worth, telegraph editor; Vivian Ahlwes, city editor Jeanne Scott, society editor; Sara Nooney, sports editor; Jean Kinney, assistant society editor.

Reporters were: Izabel Watterhouse, Betty Caldwell, Martine Dal, Belle Tonge, Grace Rushton, Elizabeth Hamilton, Betty Bond, Pauline Dale, Louise Burger, Johnnie Thomasson, Helen Bell, Elizabeth Scott, Gertrude Bel Day, Anne Gaylord, Dora Carter, Velma Rae, Margaret Painter, and Chancey Owen.

Campus Spirit In World War Is Described

College Housemother Gives Vivid Picture Of Convocation Then

The little, white-haired lady dressed in light blue sat quietly in front of the fire. "Yes," she said, "I was in Tallahassee at the time of the first World war. I'll tell you what I remember of the activities there.

This was "Tissie," the former college housemother who was one of the many students who attended Florida State College for Women before the war.

"We did our part in the war work," Tissie explained, "but Anna Lively, one of the ladies in town, went up to Washington for Liberty Loan Drives. When she came back, she conducted classes for us in Dyer hall. Everyone was equipped for the purpose with many low lights and long tables. After the drive classes were completed, we took examinations and I think almost everybody was wearing a veil with embroidered flags on it. We were very proud of those crosses which were sent us from Washington. Unfortunately, they're lost."

During the war, Tissie told us, the students were very much concerned with the national government by observing certain food regulations. Wheatless days were associated staple foods, and like all Americans, they observed meatless and flourless days.

"As for the morale of the college girls," she said, "it was wonderful." Of course, as she explained, there were "ups and downs and heartbreaks" "It was an unhappy and difficult time for all. But, on the whole, they were beautifully."

Every window bore a placard on which were stars to indicate the number of loved-ones the girls had enlisted. There were also had finger rings on which were stars to indicate the same. Also he indicated. "I can't remember for sure," she said, "how many sweaters were sent down from Washington to keep up the girls' supply. But there was frequent," Tissie told us, tears dimming her eyes, "When I think of them, I'm still very much moved," she explained.

As a sign of respect to these speakers and to heighten the feeling of patriotism among them Tissie asked the girls to dress in white middy blouses and white skirts. Then she gave each of them a small silk flag, small enough to fit into their "middies" "over their hearts." They were taught the proper salute to the flag; and once a week, when the seniors wore their robes to chapel and marched in carrying a large American flag given to them by Tissie, the whole study body rose.

YOUR PORTRAIT a Perfect Gift For MOTHER

There's No Other Gift That Would Please Her More

MOTHER'S DAY MAY 12

ADAMS STUDIO PHONE 127

258 Collegians Enter Contest

New Republic Entries Are on Varied Topics

In the April 23 issue of the New Republic magazine an article appeared inviting all to enter a contest. According to Mr. Earl Latham, professor of journalism, seven or eight papers were submitted by the students of the Florida State College for Women.

There were 258 entries in the contest for college undergraduates. American democracy was by far the most popular subject of all entries, according to the New Republic. It was believed by the majority of young writers that Fascism was creeping up on the United States. How this could be prevented was not explained, however.

Some of the papers went as far as to suggest ways and means of keeping this country "benevolently fascist." A National Institute of Social Scientists," "an authority over private trade," a "National Planning Board" were some of the suggested organizations.

Other papers listed the different duties of the "men and women" who would be in charge of the Board. Some of the duties were to "eliminate competition," to "eliminate the competitor, the slum-dweller."

Out of 258 papers only 13 were about Europe and the war. No one wanted America to enter the war. They all appeared to be satisfied victory, none of them considering the possibility of victory for the Germans.

Education was the topic of 34 papers. And in this number only one did not strike "the college-letter-of-every-boy" note. It was that America was going to the "dogs" and only "good schools" could prevent more education for democracy, and "more" education for democracy in education. Feelings of snobbery and discrimination shaped the negro and the Jew were also discussed. These young democrats thought that the "Jew" and "negro" should be given equal opportunities.

Then there was a changed feeling against youth movements. The Hitler Youth Movement in this field was expressed. Distrust of "pacifists" and "pacifist organizations" were keynotes of some papers.

Yes, a whole the papers were very good, according to the New Republic, and they should have a hard time selecting the five winning essays. The winners will appear in the New Republic. If some of the non-winning papers are of as much interest to the readers, this magazine will also publish those.

As the flag reached the front of the auditorium, they gave the salute, "eyes right," and "present arms" words of "America."

"It was a most interesting and beautiful sight," said Tissie softly, almost reverently, as if seeing it in the flickering embers of the fire, "to see that wave of white middies, the flash of the flags and blue flags, and finally to hear the chorus of young voices singing the words of "The land of the free and the home of the brave."

One of the speakers, when he got up to speak, made a dramatic spectacle, confessed that he had simply forgotten what he was going to say.

Tissie gave another flag to the college when it went out to the college camp at Lake Bradford in order to keep the daily observations of the night and early morning, skies. During another such observation, the Dean of Orion was seen.

These students who compose this class are Elizabeth Kimbell, Catherine Keen, Lucille Smoke, Jane Anderson, and Nelle Henry.

Tickets Now On Sale For Senior Breakfast

Tickets for the sophomore-senior breakfast are now being sold on the lower floor of the Westcott building. They will be available on Friday, Monday, and Tuesday afternoons from 1:30 to 5:30 and on Saturday mornings from 8:30 to 12:30. Sign up for your table when you buy your tickets.

Every one attending the breakfast is requested to wear all white.

Stucky is Elected Home Ec Club Head

Miriam Stucky was elected president of the home economics club Carolyn Johnson, vice-president; Ruth McCain, secretary; and Elizabeth Yancy, treasurer at the last meeting. Mary Chasal, Theo Bialock, and Ruth Lyon, all members of the executive "National Planning Board" were some of the suggested organizations.

Other papers listed the different duties of the "men and women" who would be in charge of the Board. Some of the duties were to "eliminate competition," to "eliminate the competitor, the slum-dweller."

Out of 258 papers only 13 were about Europe and the war. No one wanted America to enter the war. They all appeared to be satisfied victory, none of them considering the possibility of victory for the Germans.

Education was the topic of 34 papers. And in this number only one did not strike "the college-letter-of-every-boy" note. It was that America was going to the "dogs" and only "good schools" could prevent more education for democracy, and "more" education for democracy in education. Feelings of snobbery and discrimination shaped the negro and the Jew were also discussed. These young democrats thought that the "Jew" and "negro" should be given equal opportunities.

Then there was a changed feeling against youth movements. The Hitler Youth Movement in this field was expressed. Distrust of "pacifists" and "pacifist organizations" were keynotes of some papers.

Yes, a whole the papers were very good, according to the New Republic, and they should have a hard time selecting the five winning essays. The winners will appear in the New Republic. If some of the non-winning papers are of as much interest to the readers, this magazine will also publish those.

As the flag reached the front of the auditorium, they gave the salute, "eyes right," and "present arms" words of "America."

"It was a most interesting and beautiful sight," said Tissie softly, almost reverently, as if seeing it in the flickering embers of the fire, "to see that wave of white middies, the flash of the flags and blue flags, and finally to hear the chorus of young voices singing the words of "The land of the free and the home of the brave."

One of the speakers, when he got up to speak, made a dramatic spectacle, confessed that he had simply forgotten what he was going to say.

Tissie gave another flag to the college when it went out to the college camp at Lake Bradford in order to keep the daily observations of the night and early morning, skies. During another such observation, the Dean of Orion was seen.

These students who compose this class are Elizabeth Kimbell, Catherine Keen, Lucille Smoke, Jane Anderson, and Nelle Henry.

Old, New Newman Club Officers Plan Initiation

The newly elected and retiring officers of the Newman club met last Sunday in Landis parlor to discuss active and dieting plans for the initiation of incoming officers.

The retiring officers are: president, Marie Pallaci; vice-president, Carmen Lytal; secretary, Alice Hobson; treasurer, Kathryn Lytal; parliamentarian, Catherine Brown and intramural manager, Betty Brown. New officers are: president, Theo Bialock; vice-president, Catherine Brown; treasurer, Theo Bialock; recording secretary, Jean Reese; corresponding secretary, Ruth Hendrick; parliamentarian, Alice Hobson; intramural manager, Rachel Erwin.

Seymour Speaks In Jacksonville

Woman's Club Hears Pan-American Talk

Dr. A. R. Seymour, head of the department of modern languages at the Florida State College for Women, was the guest speaker at the Woman's club luncheon yesterday, being presented by Mrs. Emilio Carles, chairman of the languages department of the club and president of the Jacksonville Pan-American club.

The luncheon had as its theme, Pan - Americanism. Celebrating Pan-American day at the Woman's club in Jacksonville was significant in that this year celebrates the golden jubilee of the Pan-American Union.

Dr. Seymour spoke of Simon Bolivar, whose idea it first was to consolidate the republics of South America into a united country, and who accordingly freed today of a better understanding between Latin America and North America. This understanding could come about through an improvement in transportation and communication, the reduction of the communication barrier, and best of all by the truing of the language to the Spanish-speaking countries. He sketched briefly the history of Latin American and laid especial stress on the ancient civilization which dates back to the Incas, the Aztecs, the Mayas and the Aztecs, the five distinct civilizations in Mexico before having traced back ten thousand years.

Dr. Seymour stated that the new division of cultural relations established a few years ago under supervision of Nelson Rockefeller had done much in promoting contacts between the North and the South American. There has been an increase in the study and culture of the Latin American due to exhibitions of the outstanding works of Latin American authors, musicians artists, hitherto unknown in the United States.

Education conferences are being held to promote better understanding between the countries and these conferences have stressed the study of Spanish literature, history and geography in the grammar schools and high schools, Dr. Seymour said.

He said further that the importance of the study of Spanish is being realized in the United States due to the increase in travel and trade between the North and South America. Radio broadcasts in Spanish and Portuguese tend to promote good will as being sent out from here to the South American countries, and there will reach the South American countries most conveniently.

The speaker said that a sum of prominent women who have come to the front in Latin America and in the fine work along civic lines. Florida, he said, has a splendid opportunity to foster friendly relations between North and South America due to her geographic position and to her old Spanish heritage. In conclusion, Dr. Seymour urged members to give deep thought to acquiring the art and philosophy of the peoples to the south with which we are associated that the people of this country maintain friendly relations.

First Class Honor Rating Is Conferred On Flambeau

The Florida Flambeau received first-class honor rating by the Associated Collegiate Press of the National Scholastic Press Association, according to a report received by Editor Jeanne Scott from Lorin D. Cauffiel, Penn College, Daily Cardinal, University of Wisconsin; Daily Texan, University of Texas; The Echo Weekly, Milwaukee State Teachers college; Michigan Daily, University of Michigan; and the Minnesota Daily, University of Minnesota.

Buy Your Mother a Gift That She Would Buy Herself During Hardware's National Open House Week Through May 4th At

Seek it First at VAN BRUNT & VON INC.

SPEER HARDWARE

Delta Zeta, Pi Phi Formals Feature Springtime Motif

Springtime in an old Dutch garden will be the theme of the Delta Zeta formal dance Saturday night as the sorority house. Bright decorations will carry out this theme with multi-colored tulips twined through a white picket fence bordering the living room a flower covered trellis over the door, and silhouettes of dancing Dutch boys and girls on the walls. Here members, friends, and date will sing and swing, and refreshments, punch and cookies will be served by various officers of the sorority.

Chaperons for the dance will be Mrs. T. B. Crovatt, sorority housemother; Miss Mary Noka Hood, and Miss Henrietta Howell, sorority patrons and patronesses, Mr. and Mrs. James Peavy, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Mrs. Marianne Hodges and Mrs. George Watt, will also attend the dance.

Spring Theme

Spring will pervade the atmosphere at the Pi Beta Phi house Saturday night when the sorority holds its annual dance. The rooms are to be daily decorated in bright colors, and May baskets will hang from the walls in keeping with the theme. Brightly colored lanterns and lights will be strung around the terrace, and a punch bowl, surrounded by spring flowers, will stand at one corner of the lawn. Refreshments will be served out of doors under the direction of Virginia Loughnot and Dee Puckett. A tea dance will be held in the afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Delta Zeta Guests

Guest list for the Delta Zeta formal includes: Mike Mamalis, Bill Rogers, Leslie Rice, Jr., Ed Rood, Bill Grimes, Ford Thompson, Jeff Lewis, Calvin McNab, Ernest Armstrong, Billy McClane, Bill Neel, Jack Russel, Ed Scanlon, Ardis McCaste, Lee Singletary, Theo Titus, Ben Willis, Ben Tisman, Geary Caldwell, Hugh Thomas, Albert Yates, Godfrey Smith, P. L. Yon, Bernie Rauch, Davidson Dunlap, Bill Lewis, Frank Brandan, Jimmy Lee

Willard Brooks, Joe Davis Lowrie, Jimmy Parramore, Emmett Rhodes, Doug Chambers, Herman Terry, John Dixon, Frank Hancock, Earnest Spence, David Hutchins, Brooker Blanton, Kelso Carter, Bill Lee, Jack Brinson, Pat Munroe, Tom Wallace Applegard, George Watt, Dick McClane, John O'Neary, Alec Hull, Walker Hill, W. G. Darty, Jack Moncrief, Phillip Adams, Charles Epherson, Curry Bassett, Charles DeVane.

Johnny Sullivan, Harry Johnson, Burr Ragsdale, James Williams, Walter DeMilly, David Hanks, Harmon Wheeler, Paul Hartsfield, Billy Tune, Bob Milton, Bil Cobb, Douglas McCleod, Vincent Faulds, Bob Jeffcoat, Morris Faulds, James Tharpe, Jimmy Cook, Jack Zalumas, John Templeton, Jimmy Pratt, Roy Wood, W. A. Jernigan, Mike Johnson.

Ed Lloyd, Thomas Williams, James Green, Tom Green, Elmo Hancock, Fred Brown, Mike Hazard, Warren Kennedy, John Thomas, Roy Baker, Ed Sibley John Athy, Dixie Johnson, Jack Nants, Winston Clayton, Malcom Clayton, Dan Tedder, Pete Shackleford, Shank Shackleford, Jimmy Cosrser, Wallace Goss, Frank Pemberton, Ben Tillman, Roy Saxon, Dan Jones, Jamesllis Wells, Jim Scanlon, Johnny Westbery, Buddy Radford, Ed Carkhuff, Bob Longworth, Mivers Parrish.

Pi Phi Guest List

Guest list for the Pi Phi dance includes: Edgar Anderson, Charlie Andrews, Bill Ashley Maurice Austin, Archie Barwell, Leonard Baker, A. J. Barnes, Babe Bartlett, Leon Bass, Lucius Battle, Henry Baynard, Dick Getis, James Bennett, Tom Bennett, Ralph Berryman, Ben Bilger, Dick Bimmler, Buddy Bishop, Bill Blackburn, Charlie Boyd, Ben Bridges, Frank Bryant, Jimmy Bryant, George Burns, Nixon Butt, Clay Cadrinyton, Jack Campbell, Fred Cantrell, Bill Carey, Bill Cathrey, Bill Champion, Kirk Christian, Jim Clark, Dil Clarke, Alf Coleman, Mosley Collins, Richard Collins, Bookie Cooper, Billy Corry, Dick Curry, John Craigo, J. R. Crenshaw, Hal Davis, Walter Davis, Jimmy Diffenbaugh, and Tony Diffenbaugh.

Davidson Dunlap, Bill Dunn, Don Dutcher, Richard Eastman, Warren Edwards, Bobbie Eichelberger, Eugene Elebash, Graham Elliot, Heyward Ellis, Marion Ellison, Ralph Enslo, Bobby Evans, Dick Everrenhaun, Bill Fraser, Don Fisher, Billy Fleming, Roy Fleming, John Fleming, Willy Freeman, Jimmy Gales, Eugene Germaine, Sam Gibbons, Dell Gibbs, Nat Glover, Clyde Goforth, Billy Graham, James Gregory, Joe Guernsey, Lawrence Hall, John Hamilton, Johnny Hannen, Boyd Harris, Tom Harrison, Glenn Harper, and Harvey Duval.

George Hay, Hamilton Hayes, Dave Hedrick, Bud Henderson, Claude Herr, H. M. Hodges, Jerry Hogsette, Gene Holtzmeyr, Bill Hughes, Milton Hull, Ben Hun Gregory Jackson Jack Jone Jack Kane, Arthur Karst, Abel Kelly, Charlie Kephardt, Collins Knight, Benny Lane, Dick Lawson, Dick Lesvrenged, Ted Leonard, Nick Lester, Scotty Linder, Buford Lindsey, Smokey Lindsey, Jack Litchfield, Curtis Madill, Charles Mann, Fred Mann Peter Manser, John McCarty, Tom McCormock, Sterling McClellan, Marshall McDonald, and James McParland.

Ben McGahey, Dubby McClain, Dan McClain, Charlie Mayo, Watson Jack Mosller, Heyward Messer, Dean Miller, Carl Mitchell, Jimmy Mitchell, Jimmy Moore, Howe Morelock, Joe Moot, Wilson Morris, Al Mosely, Teddy Myers, Howard Newkirk, Jimmy Piver, Bill Morris, Steve O'Connell, Al Parker, Charles Parker, Jack Peters, Milton Pitts, Jack Poucher, Sampy Pyles, Burr Ragsdale, Oscar Reeves, Bill Reeves.

List Continued

Harold Riker, Henry Roberts, Bruce Robertson, Bill Robinson, Herbie Robeson, Paul Rogers, Edward Rogers, Ray Rogers, Fletcher Rush, Richar, Sewall, Oliver Simard, Bob Sistare, Charles Smith, Jack Smith, Godfrey Smith, Judge Smith, Carl Snarr, Bill Stanton, Sonny Stearns, Doug Stenstrom, Robert Sullivan, Charles Sumong, Gene Sweet, Jack Swyer, Sidney Tally and Buddy Teatue.

Glenn Terrell, James Thomas, Byrne Litachgi, Billy Thomas, Bill Thompson, Ford Thompson, Billy Tomasello, Tiffany Trumbull, Sam Turner, Ed Underwood, Jim Valentine, Tom Wakefield, Davis Walker, Billy Watt, Edon Wiggins, Merrill Wilbur, C. B. Willard, Ralph Williams, Guy Wood, Milton Woodside, Hal Wright, P. L. Yon and Bobbie Young.

Gilchrist Tea Features Industrial Arts Exhibit

The second in a series of "departmental" teas was given in Gilchrist parlor Wednesday afternoon, at which time articles made by industrial arts students of that department were on display.

The first tea of this kind was introduced last month, when the art department exhibited various paintings and sketches recently drawn by advance art students.

In charge of arrangements was Sarah Godbold, who received various contributions such as Scarlett Hall, Estelle Sills, Indian dolls, linens, book ends, and exhibits of soap carving and tie dyeing.

Guests of honor at the tea were industrial arts professors Miss Elizabeth Reed, Miss Emily Wilburn, and Miss Sallie Williams.

Twelve Juniors Are Tapped For Mortar Board

Continued from Page One

education department; and Miss Clara Guerry, music instructor.

Following the tapping ceremony, Miss Schoenhers and Miss Lynn entertained the old and new groups at an informal party at the home of Miss Schoenhers.

To be eligible for Mortar Board membership, a student must, besides having a 1.7 grade average, be an active leader in campus life. The many diversified activities of the new members include: Vivian Ahlswede, editor of the Distaff Flambeau key; Chi Delta Phi, Alpha Chi Alpha, and news editor of Flambeau; Virginia Balkcom, sophomore council, secretary of sophomore class, and president and secretary of Y. W. C. A.; Pat Brandt, sophomore council, Villager Vamps, managing editor of the Flastacovo, president of the senior class, and Spirgirs.

Gene Bryan, sophomore council, N. S. F. A. committee, and Spirogira, freshman council, general chairman of Religious Emphasis week. Kappa Delta Pi, Wilma Johns, vice house chairman and house chairman, Mortar Board scholarship cup, Phi Beta Kappa, chairman of residence hall committee; Elizabeth Lynn, Y. W. C. A. cabinet, freshman counsellor. Spirogira, vice-president of Y. W. C. A. freshman advisor.

Activities Noted

Carolyn Sims, vice house chairman, sophomore council, Spirogira, second vice-president of C. G. A., chairman of judiciary; Martha Murphy, president of freshman class Spirogira, secretary of C. G. A., first vice-president of C. G. A., senate representative to judiciary; Betty Hickinson, sophomore council, vice-house chairman, Spirogira, junior representative to judiciary, freshman counsellor, Y. W. C. A. cabinet, parliamentarian of modern senate, senior representative to judiciary.

Minnie Ratliff, sophomore council, French club, vice-president of W. A. A., Spirogira, president of W A A; Margaret Scott, sophomore council, off-campus committee, secretary of freshman class, Alpha Chi Alpha, Spirogira, freshman counsellor, society editor and editor of Flambeau; Cornelia Watson, athletic manager of freshman class, sophomore representative to judiciary, sophomore council, president of freshman basketball, hockey, and diamondball teams, P. Club, junior representative to judiciary, delegate to N. S. F. A. convention, president of C. G. A., and president of Southern Intercollegiate Association of student governments.

Retiring members of Mortar Board are: Ruth Rogers, Betsy Young, Frances Slade, Katherine Graham, Dorothea Kloeppel, Florence Gregory, Ina Margaret Robinson, Marjorie Jessup, Marjorie Morrison, Jeannette Mullis, Elizabeth Ann Webb, and Lynette Thompson.

Spirit of Spring Reigns Over Sorority Functions As End of April Nears

With the spirit of spring reigning over campus, sororities are entertaining formally and informally during this last week of April.

Among informal parties of the week is a shipwreck party to be given by Alpha Xi Delta sorority this afternoon between 4:30 and 6 o'clock. "If you were shipwrecked on a desert island, what would you dress?" is the question expressing the theme of the Alpha Xi party. Each member and her members and rushees, will follow this theme, and prizes for the most ludicrous will be decorated accordingly. Refreshments served will be coffee and doughnuts.

Chi Omega entertained friends at an informal tea Tuesday afternoon with freshmen acting as hostesses. Mrs. O. S. Lanier, sorority house mother, presided at the tea, and Jane Price was in charge of the arrangements.

Miss Margaret Sandels, faculty advisor for Delta Delta Delta sorority, will entertain the active members at a tea at her home Sunday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock.

Theta Entertain Faculty

Kappa Alpha Theta will entertain faculty members with a formal reception tonight from 8 to 10 o'clock. Arranging the reception is Virginia Balkcom.

Friday night from 8 until 10, the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority will give a formal reception and tea for the college faculty. In the receiving line will be Mary Beth Osteen, sorority president; Miss Mildred Flanegan, and Mrs. Laura MacMullen, sorority housemother. Virginia Balkcom, social chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

In conjunction with the Pi Beta Phi formal dance, the Alpha Delta Pis will hold open house Saturday afternoon.

Kappa Delta Convention

Nine members of Kappa Alpha chapter of Kappa Delta will leave this weekend for the University of South Carolina, where a new chapter, Beta Theta, is to be installed. The girls are: Martha Ballenger, Ann MacKenzie, Mary Welton, Ina Margaret Robinson, Clifton Van Brunt, Elizabeth Ann Voncille McClusky, Mary Carleton, and Mary Myers Alford.

Monday night Delta Phi Epsilon will install new officers at the regular chapter meeting. The new officers are: Tybei Wittenstein, president; Amelia Schneidman, vice-president; Pegge Schaffer, recording secretary; Naomi Braun, treasurer, and Ruth Lipsits, corresponding secretary.

Sunday morning there will be a Founder Day ceremony at the Pi Beta Phi house followed by a breakfast at the Three Thrushes. Arrangements for the breakfast will be made by Sarah Duke Bryant. In the afternoon a picnic at Lake Second for chapter members and their dates, will climax the week-end.

U Of F Men Feel Monthly Dances Furnished 'Swell Time For All'

Continued from Page One

"dim, distant possibility". The boldest dissenter said, "They don't prove the practicality of seresreation." But as another said, "At least it isn't hurting the university and everyone has a good time."

The majority, 90 per cent, are in favor of continuing the program next year. One fellow wants to argue on both sides of the question, and the other wants to "call the whole thing off, because it causes too much daydreaming for days after."

The University men are not only in favor of continuing the program but surprised changes which they believe will make monthly dance programs better. The most common complaint was that the dances "don't take care of enough of the wimmin." To remedy this the suggestions were made that ticket sales should not be so closely limit and that the dances be held in the old dinine hall which is larger than the gym More entertainment was an almost unanimous suggestion. Good orchestras, floor shows, bands and community sings were the specific recommendations. "Better transportation," one said, "will cause more fellows to go." A more healthy atmosphere around Tally" advised one who added, "I know that's what the dances are supposed to create—but do they?"

In general the University of Florida men think the dances are, in order of increasing importance, "uncomfortable, a bore, silly, and lots of fun" with emphasis on the last.

KODAK FILMS
Developed and Printed
ONLY 25c
Mail Films with 25c to Box 1064
Tallahassee, Fla.
Fast Professional Service

ALFALFA SUMMERS AND LIL' GIRL RICE WIN COSTUME PRIZES AT KID DAY PARTY

"Ring Around the Rosie," "Dodge Ball," "London Bridge," "Papaya Patch," and "Farmer in the Dell" were the kiddies of junior and senior rank Wednesday in the Open Air theater at the annual junior-senior Kid Day party. Shorts, hair bows, extra short skirts, baby dolls, and lollipops were the order of the day for the frivolous for a day high making classes.

The assembly en masse of the two classes was carefully watched over by their faculty sponsors Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Eyman and Miss Ruth Schornherst for the senior group, and Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers and Miss Mary Settle for the juniors. After the strenuous round of children's game they were all given lollipops for refreshment.

Refreshment was held to judge the classmen having the cutest, or most original costume. Louise Nix won applause for her ruffled outfit in her idea of "lil' girl." A print of a baby teddy bear was awarded Alfalfa Captivated the china doll bric-a-brac prize for the most original costume was Kathryn Summers Powell, with her imitation of "Alfalfa" of Our Gang fame.

Honorable mention went to the Middy Blouses of Dorothy Dennis and Jane Anderson; Jackfeid-and-and-Moss - his crown, Louise Patterson; Quads in Navy blue, Doris Dorner, Elizabeth Ann Webb; Hawaiian motif and Clare Mesich, and negro mammy and the baby, Dot Parker and Nancy White.

Facult, sponsors led the joyous festivities with Miss Schornherst Cheers, applause, and laughter

Phi Beta Kappa Gives Initiation Banquet On Monday at Wakulla

At the annual initiation banquet of the Florida Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, at Wakulge on Monday night, Miss Margaret Dow, president of the college chapter, acted as toastmistress.

During the evening's program; Dr. Edward Conrad made a brief speech to the new initiates to which Marjorie Jessup, new member, responded.

New initiates honored were Lena Bischoff, Rose Mary Carlton, Margaret Lingo, Wilma Johns, Evelyn Urban, Lynette Thompson, Elizabeth Ann Erestine Makemson, and Virginia Makemson.

Religious Calendar

BAPTIST

Sunday

8:45—Sunday school.
11:00—Worship service.
7:00—Baptist training union, subject, "Walking with Christ Again."

CATHOLIC

Tuesday

8:00—Newman club meeting, Broward lounge.

METHODIST

Friday

5:00—Tea at student house honoring Mrs. Leila Bagley.
7:00—World friendship banquet.

10:15—Council prayer meeting.

Sunday

8:45—Sunday school at student house. Devotional, Emily Philips, teacher, Miss Martha Chapman.
7:20—Fellowship hour. Delegates to district conference in charge of program.
Tuesday
7:30—Vespers Leader, Dr. P. A. Fletcher.

PRESBYTERIAN

Sunday

9:45—Worship service. Leader, Dr. Frank Thompson.
10:15—Sunday school. Dr. Elisabeth G Andrews will teach both classes.

College Calendar

APRIL 28—MAY 4

Sunday

3:00—Y. W. C. A. Vespers—Westcott tower room. Speaker — Miss Frances Baker.

Monday

8:00—Faculty play night, gymnasium.

Tuesday

1:30—Convocation.
8:00—N. S. F. A. meeting—303 Westcott building.
8:15—Piano certificate recital—Myrtle Hoffman — auditorium.

Wednesday

4:30—Residence hall teas.
4:30—Student music recital—auditorium.
8:00—Stigma Delta Pi meeting. May poles.

Friday

7:30—Freshman garden party—Jennie Murphree lawn.
8:00—Play night—gymnasium.

Saturday

7:00—Sophomore-Senior breakfast—Bryan - Broward dining hall.
8:00—May Day dance—gymnasium.
8:15—Piano certificate recital—Pauline Morrow.
Organ recital — Dorothy Sanford.
Sanford—auditorium.

Home Economics Group Will Be Guests at Tea

Three teas are being planned Dr. Margaret R. Sanders, dean of the school of home economics at all freshman and transfer students now taking home economics. These teas are to be given between afternoon and tomorrow afternoon at Dean Sandel's home.

Among those who have assigned up to date are: Mary Woodward, Sally Rivers, Virginia Mayo, Anna Mararet Ryan, Ida Guzia Huggins, Lona Driggers, Mary Hayzle, Florence Call, Peggy Caldwell, Faith Hall, Frances Parker, Mary Agnes Dorcus Stone, Sally Jo Jackson.

Ruth Hendricks, Owen Phillips, Wilma Smith, Elizabeth Woodle, Martha Nell Williams, Lucy Barksdale, Katherryne Allen, Betty Lang, June Evans, Virginia Briggs, Frances Compton, Lamar Smith, Louise Bateman, Virginia Glenn, Marrietie Mathis, Mary Tottuling, Virginia Johnson, Dorothy Hall.

Marie Byrd, Mary Lynn, Bess Shriver, Frances Hatfield, Rose Lethbert, Elizabeth Richardson, Dorothy Cohen, Florence Kirkland, Ethel Martin, Aurora Clements, Jean Tillotson, Mary Mead, Betty Ann Marron, and Elizabeth Lee.

Color is the least reliable of physical characteristics of a person, from the point of view of identification.

Patronize Our Advertisers

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, May 3, 1940

VOLUME XXVII NUMBER TWENTY-SIX

Join The Civic Music Association!

Bryan Selected New CGA Third Vice President

Student Senate Appoints Landis Housechairmen For Coming Year

Dancey Oven Is Named Coordinator Of Clocks

Student senate yesterday elected Mary Prichard Bryan, Mary Lee Medlin, and Ouida Hardy to the third vice-president, and three chairmen of East and West Landis respectively to fill the vacancies made by resignations of Maxine Armistead, Ollie Belle Tillman, and Carese Dover.

For time coordinator, Martha Dancey, chairman of senate, appointed Chauncey Oven. Her duties are to see that the clock bells and chimes are together, and to turn off the chimes during artist series.

Social Committee Changed

In the suggestion of Kathryn Ing chairman of the social committee, the committee will be called the Social Standards committee and will consist of five members: the dance committee, the campus social committee, the dormitory committee, the Student House building committee, and the dining hall committee. Membership of each committee will be a joint body of two.

It was decided to have a social calendar in the handbook next year containing all college social activities, and intramural activities. The committee will draw up the calendar and consist the chairman of the organization committee, the chairman of social standards council, the senior dormitory manager, and the president of CGA.

Also, at this meeting nominations were made for vice-house chairmen.

Those nominated were Rose Mayers, Edna Earle Wilson, Alice Evelyn Anne Doyle, Diana Dewar, Jane Waite, Harriet Sims, Frances Postick, Peggy Sue Wayles Wood, Marjorie Dalton, Nelly Veening, Martha Sweick Betty Lane, Carolyn Speer, Mary Ann Heien Beals, and Eleanor Yothers.

Alagood Leaves For New York

Stars For Model Senate Will Be Discussed At Conference

Rilla Alagood, national secretary-treasurer of Model Senate, will leave for New York today in order to attend the annual conference council meetings of this group.

The meeting will be held at the Saturday afternoon at Fordham university at which time the model Sam Murray from Princeton, Ruth Hill from Georgia Hilda, Les Rice, of Clemson, and Bill Rogers of Texas, who have been picked here on the council, will make the plans that the model senate will be held next year at Princeton university. These will include time to be spent there and subjects to be discussed.

The second council meeting will to be held in December. Already delegates plan will be initiated and mimeographed. In January they will hold their last meeting and will send out invitations to various colleges by this time.

Bills will return Sunday.

...rch and Its Teachings Theme of Camping Trip For Episcopal Students

...ecanopal students from Florida ...e college women gathered ...ekend at Camp Weed near ...na City. "The Church and Teachings" is the theme of ...e weekend program.

